AFRICA MUST REMAIN HOMELAND OF COLOURED AFRICAN

Ebute Metta, Nigeria, B. W. A.—SPECIAL—Coincidental with the race riots that threaten to spread throughout the continent of Africa, the Nigerian Catholic Herald here warns in a front-page editorial that "Africa for all time must remain the homeland of the coloured."

The newspeper is published under Catholic auspices.

"The coloured population in Africa increases steadily," the editorial points out, "whereas the white cannot keep pace with it."

"But the white in Africa refuses to put himself on a par with the native coloured according to the newspaper. "Even they who are born in the land regard themselves as 'colonials' of some Western Power and indignanatly, at times, reject the appellation 'native'. Africa for them is a country to be worked for the benefit of the mother country."

EDWARD R. DUDLEY TO SERVE IN RANK OF AMBASSADOR

Washington, D. C. (NNPA)—Edward R. Dudley, of New York, who recently was appointed the United States Minister to Liberia, will probably be the first colored man to serve in the diplomatic corps of this country in the rank of Ambassador.

The State Department announced last Wednesday that the governments of the United States and Liberia have agreed to raise their legations in Washington and Monrovia to the status of embassies. The change in the status of the two missions will require ambassadors to head the embassies.

The State Department said the change in the status will become effective at the time the Ambassadors designate of the two countries present their credentials.

Charles D. B. King, former President of Liberia, is the present Liberian Minister in Washington.

IOWA'S SECOND WAC SINCE END OF WORLD WAR II

MISS VIRGINIA WASHINGTON

Miss Virginia Washington, 21, of 1207 Center street, became the second Negro girl from Des Moines to enlist in the Regular Army since the close of World War II.

According to Sgt. Beulah Thornton, WAC Recruiter from the Des Moines Station, only three applications have been received from colored girls and of the three two have been accepted.

The first of these applications was received from Shirley Jean Manuel of 1212 McCormick street, a former Bystander employee.

Recruit Washington left Des Moines last Thursday evening for Camp Lee, Virginia, where she will receive basic training.

Sgt. Thornton expressed a hope that more applications will be forthcoming in the near future from colored girls in Des Moines. Sgt. Thornton said:

"An interested girl is smart to get her application in right away, and allow her name to be placed on a waiting list. By doing this her application will be acted upon more quickly, her enlistment accomplished with greater rapidity with very little time spent in waiting upon later approval."

To be qualified for entry into the service a girl must be between the ages of 18 to 34, un-married, with no dependents, and be a high school graduate. She must pass rigid physical and mental examinations given here at Des Moines. In connection with this girls are warned not to quit their present employment until her entry has been approved.

Sgt. Thornton can be reached at Room 108 of the Old Federal Building at Fifth and Court in Des Moines or she can be reached by phone at 4-7427.

First Post-War WACs at Camp Lee Graduate

Graduation exercises for the first 62 Negro women to complete the basic phase of Regular Army training, were held Feb. 2 at the Women's Army Corps Training Center at Camp Lee, Virginia. These women represent 23 states and the District of Columbia.

Graduation exercises were held at the WAC Theater. The principal address was delivered by Lieutenant Colonel Elizabeth C. Smith, Commanding Officer of the Training Center. Distinguished guests who were invited to attend included: Brigadier General R. C. L. Graham, commanding General of Camp Lee; Dr. Luther H. Foster, president of Virginia State college, and Dr. Granville Norris of Petersburg, Virginia.

A parade followed the graduation ceremonies.

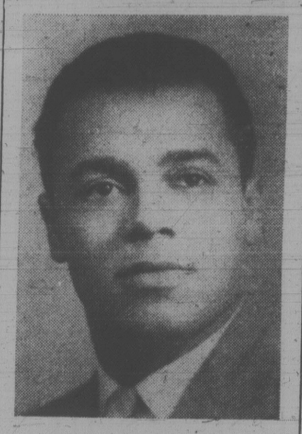

The trainees of this company, selected the first Negro trainees to enter the Regular Army, began their basic training on November 29, 1948. Since basic training is fundamentally an introduction to Army life, the recruits first week is taken up with interviews, tests, fittings for uniforms, and adjustments to a new routine of living. The recruits undergo an eight-week period of strict military training which is comparable to that given male recruits, except that weapons training is eliminated and more emphasis is placed on administrative and supply procedure.

Graduates from Iowa are: Elizabeth M. Cook, 415 Beech Street, Waterloo; Shirley J. Manuel, 1212 McCormick Street, Des Moines.

Three U.S. Air Force Men Accused in Slaying Of Shop Woman in Guam

Gham (NNPA)—Three colored United States Air Force men, accused in the slaying of Miss Ruth Farnsworth, a Navy employee, on Guam in December, will be tried by court-martial under the jurisdiction of the Twentieth Air Force here, it was announced last Monday.

The accused men are: Staff Sergent Robert W. Burns, transferred to Guam from the 62nd Airdrone Group at McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, Washington; Pvt. Herman Dennis, recently transferred to another unit on Guam from the 606th Engineer Aviation Company.

Burns' home is in Spokane, Washington. Herman Dennis enlisted from Indianapolis, but actually lived at Bolton, Texas, Calvin Dennis' home is Frederick, Maryland. Calvin and Herman are half-brothers.

Miss Farnsworth, 27, of San Francisco, was seized last December 11 in a jade shop, where she was working part time so she could buy a trousseau for her marriage next April to a Marine. She was knocked unconscious, carried out to the jungle and raped. A searching party of soldiers and Marines found her there 12 hours later. She died December 13 without recovering consciousness.

Lieutenant Commander James T. Hackett, assistant chief of Guam police, said the brothers confessed their part in the crime after a lie detector trapped Herman.

Then, Comdr. Hackett said, Miss Farnsworth's dress was found in a weapons carrier of which Calvin Dennis was the driver. The torn garment was under the seat. Comdr. Hackett, a Chicago Police Lieutenant on leave with the Navy, said Herman Dennis later led officers to a point near the jungle spot where Miss Farnsworth's sandals previously had been found.

Seek to Get Negro On Major Network

New York (NNPA)—A drive to place a colored person as a commentator on one of the major radio networks has been launced here by the "Voice of Freedom Committee."

Mrs. Dorothy Parker, chairman of the committee, said that there are little ore than 200 colored persons employed in the radio industry and most of them are employed in menial capacities.

"There is not a single Negro announcer, techician or writer employed regularly on any one of the networks," Mrs. Parker said. "The few Negroes employed play only stereotypes. It's about time the Negro people, who comprise one tenth of our population, had a spokesman on the air."

According to the ommittee, a drive is being conducted throughout the country to select a candidate for the position, and the public has been invited to participate in a poll to select one out of seventeen persons as a candidate for the job.

No Grounds for Jimcro Under Law, But Pupils Refused at Many Schools

East St. Louis, Ill. (NNPA)—Three groups of colored children here tried unsuccessfully to enroll in three schools restricted to white children last Monday. Two of the groups refused to leave the schools when they were denied admission.

Twelve students, who have been enrolled at Lincoln Junior High School (colored), applied for admission to Rock Junior High School and six other Lincoln students sought to be registered at East St. Louis High School.

In both cases they were permitted to occupy unused classrooms. They ate the lunches they had brought with them and announced they intended to stay in the school building during class hours until they were given instructions.

Thirteen colored children who sought admission at Rock Junior High School and East St. Louis High School here were escorted out of the two buildings by police last Tuesday after more than 100 of the white students enrolled in the schools walked out of their classes in protest.

The colored children, who had also asked that they be registered Monday, January 31, were taken in police automobiles to the Jim Crow Carver School. Few of the strikers, parading around the school buildings saw them depart.

Led Out By Police

Three of the colored pupils, enrolled at Lincoln High School, sought admission at East St. Louis High School. The other ten, students at Lincoln Junior High School, asked to be registered at Rock Junior High. Both groups sat in empty classrooms until they were led out by police.

Shortly after the Rock students had walked out, about forty of them marched past the Rock and East St. Louis High School building urging those inside to come out and join them. More pupils left the junior high school but only a few of the high school students joined the demonstration.

Special police, assigned to the two schools to prevent disorder, did not interfere with the marchers who scratched "Down with the Negroes" and "The Negroes, If They Stay We Go," on make shift placards as they went along.

A third group of nine grade school students who ordinarily go to Attucks School sought admission at the Alta Sita School.

The children who were accompanied by two adult colored persons explained they had to pass the Alta Sita School to get to the Attucks School and the longer route to classes included many hazards. They were refused registration, however, and after they had stood in the hall for a while, they left the building and returned to their homes.

ST. PAUL A. M. E. CHURCH NOTES

A fair-sized audience was out to service last Sunday morning including the Rev. Felix Dickerson and Jas. T. Gray, both of whom were absent the preceeding Sunday because of illness. Among the out-of-town visitors at this service were Mrs. Beulah Webb of Sioux City and the Rev. Mr. Johnson of this city. As had been previously announced, the $2,500 rally for the installation of a new heating plant for the church was launched Sunday morning; and while the members were only requested to pay one dollar each week for eight weeks, several paid their entire eight dollars last Sunday.

Because of the fact that Pastor A. J. Irvine had been confined to his home with illness the greater portion of the week, the evening service was abandoned again last Sunday but all were urged to be out next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock at which time the city wide mass Meeting of the Des Moines Interracial Commission will be held with us and at which time the message will be brought by the Rev. L. E. Schwarz, a white minister of Topeka, Kansas.

FORTY YEARS OF PROGRESS: THE STORY OF THE NAACP

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

One hundred and forty years ago Saturday (February 12), a child who was to become the sixteenth President of the United States, was born in a substandard dwelling in the Kentucky backwoods.

Today he is remembered as the Great Emancipator and peoples everywhere who have known oppression revere his memory and find in his sacrifice new hope for real and lasting freedom. What better time then, than the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, for pausing to consider the progress made in building a society of freedom and equality for all men?

Thus, on the one hundredth birthday of Abraham Lincoln, began the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A Dream Realized

The dream of the fifty-three signers of this original call for a "large and powerful body of citizens" to fight for equal rights has become a reality in a measure far greater than any of them could have envisioned. On its fortieth anniversary, the NAACP is a nation-wide mass organization with a membership of half a million Americans of every race, creed and color, representing one of the most potent forces of our generation in support of civil rights. Its forty-year record of championing the Negro's cause has contributed significantly to the progress of the race during the first half of this century.

1,600 Branches

Through its 1600 branches in 45 states, the District of Columbia and the Territory of Hawaii, the NAACP carries on the day to day struggles of the 13,000,000 Negroes for an equal share in the rights, privileges and responsibilities of American citizenship. It maintains national headquarters in the Willkie Memorial Building in New York City, regional offices in San Francisco and Dallas, and a bureau in Washington, employing a total of 80 workers in all offices. Its official organ is "The Crisis," a monthly magazine. It also publishes the NAACP Bulletin and a variety of occasional pamphlets and other literature.

The growth and expansion of the Association is the result of the sustained and heroic efforts not alone of the founders and leaders of the organization, but also of rank and file Americans of all races, colors and creeds in the big cities and small towns of all sections of the country. From the beginning the Association attracted to its support eminent Americans of both races as officers and members.

Pick Lincoln's Birthday

On another Lincoln's birthday, forty years ago, a group of Negro and white Americans who did just that—stopped to consider the progress this country had made in fulfilling the obligations imposed upon it by the Emancipation Proclamation—were appalled and alarmed at the injustice and inequality to which Negroes were subjected. Realizing that individual protests were of little avail, this handful of outraged citizens banded together and issued a call for a national conference "for the discussion of present evils, the voicing of protests, and the renewal of the struggle for civil and political liberty."

USDA Research Develops Chigger-Proof Clothing

Chigger-proof clothing that will stay that way for the life of the garment is a definite possibility as the result of U. S. department of agriculture research that has continued since the end of the war. Two organic compounds which can be used to impregnate cloth from which garments are made have remained deadly to chiggers after seven launderings. This would ordinarily cover most of the life of working clothes, hunting and outing garments and military uniforms for which chigger protection is most needed. The most promising compounds are listed as phenyl carbonate and x, x'-dichlorodiphenyl ether.

Pearl Harbor was the signal for intensive research in chigger protection. The army had to prepare for the Pacific campaign. Army doctors knew that one of the perils of the South Pacific was a disease known as scrub typhus which results from the bite of an infected mite that is a close relative of the American chigger. Research got underway immediately at the Orlando, Fla., laboratory of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine. By early 1944 Raymond C. Bushland, as an officer in the sanitary corps of the army, carried his findings in Orlando to New Guinea. There he showed soldiers how to make their uniforms chigger-proof by dipping them in a 5 per cent emulsion of dimethyl phthalate and hanging them to dry. This would protect a soldier from the mites for up to a month—or until the uniform was laundered.

Contour-Seeded Fields Erode Less, Produce More

Contour-seeded wheat fields produce larger crops than those seeded up and down the slope, according to University of Illinois reports.

Increases of two to three bushels an acre have been reported on contour-seeded wheat fields, college of agriculture farm account books show.

Besides producing bigger yields, contour-seeded wheat fields erode less, reports Ben F. Muirheid, agricultural extension service engineer.

As for extra work, once contour guide lines are located, he says, it takes little additional time or trouble to plow, disc and seed on the contour.

The natural draws in the field need extra protection because they are the natural eave troughs of the field. Melting snow water and the spring rains collect in the draws and will carry off previous topsoil if you aren't ready for them. Combining will be difficult next summer if gullying is permitted this winter.

Muirheid offers two suggestions to protect natural draws. Prepare them for seeding to a grass mixture, and seed heavily to insure a tough sod.

Plants Threatened

Indiscriminate weed eradication threatens extinction of many valuable plants which could supply a perpetual source of raw materials for industry and at the same time implement water and soil conservation, Prof. A. C. Shead of the University of Oklahoma warned at a meeting of the American Chemical society. The conservation programs demand a permanent cover of perennal plants which, according to Professor Shead, should do double duty, furnishing such products as drugs, fats, gums, flavor and perfume oils, rubber, sugar, waxes and chemicals for tanning leather, in addition to preserving topsoil and water.

Longest Light Installation

The longest, continuous lighting installation in the world, in which four ribbons of fluorescent light will extend almost two miles, has been designed by New York City's Triborough Bridge and Tunnel authority in collaboration with engineers of the General Electric company. First of its kind, the installation will illuminate the new Brooklyn-Battery tunnel now being constructed under New York harbor by the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel authority. Each of the tunnel's two tubes will carry two lanes of traffic, and will be lighted by twin rows of white fluorescent lamps.

Canaries Are Delicate

Don't expose the canary to drafts or chilly breezes if you want it to stay healthy this winter, advises the American Veterinary Medical association. Because of their delicate constitution, canaries are extremely subject to colds and, therefore, should be protected against sharp changes in temperature. If windows are to be opened in a warm room, first move the cage to a sheltered corner, away from direct exposure to gusts of cold air.

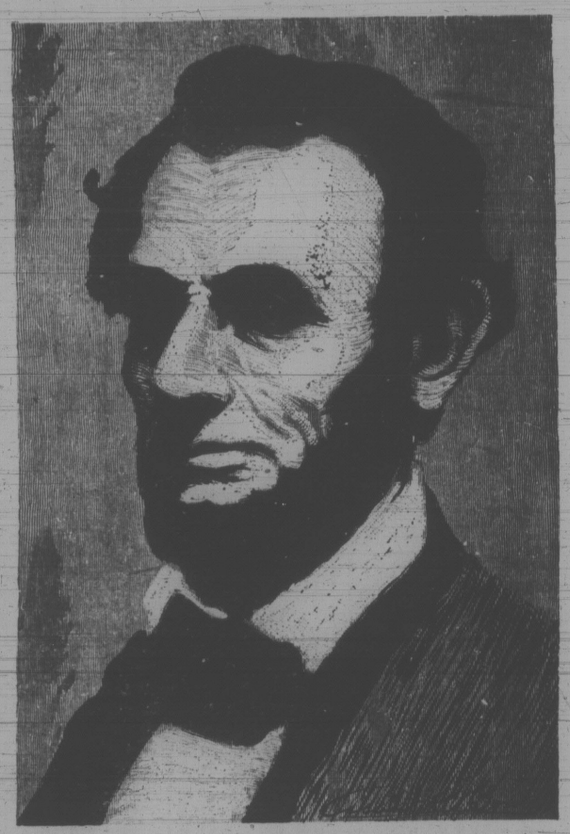

Cost of Streamliner

The cost of a new lightweight diesel-powered, air-conditioned streamliner ranges from 1 million to 1½ million dollars, depending on the size of the power unit, length of the train, and other factors. The diesel-electric locomotives which pull these trains cost $250,000 to $400,000. Texas, with 15,685 miles, leads all the states in the total of railway mileage. Illinois is second with 11,760 and Pennsylvania is third with 9,934.

"Words here cannot convey all my emotions following this fraternal gesture which so eloquently proves the profound interest of your association for this project which is now in actual realization. This gift goes a long way to advance the construction, is one more expression of the great bond of sympathy which unites the Haitians and the Americans of color."

Mme. Estine promised to send to the society here pictures of the festival which took place in Port Au Prince on December 23 for the orphanage. She also promised reports on the progress of construction on the orphanage.

PERSONAL TOUCH

By Marie Ross

Being able to enjoy and appreciate what was billed as "the greatest of all musical comedies, the new production of the old Mississippi River story, "Show Boat," depended upon whether you were born with a permanent suntan or acquire one—or style—out of a bottle or on the beaches of Florida.

Called an "authentic American classic" by great critics, this show has an appeal which causes masses of white spectators to jam the auditoriums and theaters—to have a "glorious time."

The story, sugar-coated, with fine music, sung also by Negro soloists and choruses, and lavish costumes and superb dancing, also done by Negroes, reveals that the state of Mississippi has not changed its thoughts or ways about its Negroes—even though the story tells of happenings back in the eighties.

The many pills of racial discrimination and segregation upon which "Show Boat" thrives—even largely printed on the boat's 'white" and "colored" ticket windows, are difficult for colored show-goers to swallow and enjoy as "a glorious time."

Mississippi should be proud of the scene in which "Julie," star of a performance, was discovered to have Negro blood in her veins, threatened with arrest because she had married one believed to be white, and the two forced to leave the boat.

This scene would be funny if it had happened back in the eighties and Mississippi had grown up and changed its ways. But, just last month in the early days of 1949, a real case was being written about in the country's papers—regarding a young veteran who believed he was white, married a white girl, was found to have Negro blood in his veins, and then thrown in jail.

Mississippi should be proud that a "great American classic" is keeping alive its race-hatred. All of the bills introduced in senate and house chambers—all of the fighting for better race-relations by interracial and militant organizations—will be in vain.

Playing with the "Show Boat" orchestra this year was a Negro pianist, Clarice Crawford of New York City, who took over the post last October. She has been with the show since 1945 when she started as a singer.

Beauticians See New Permanents

Mrs. Carolyn Dismond, field technician of Lustrasilk Inc., Minneapolis, Minn., on a nationwide tour, held demonstrations and classes in Des Moines Feb. 7 and 8, where she introduced "New Horizons in Hair Care Opened by Lustrasilk."

Beauticians of the city and students attended demonstrations held Monday at Crescent School of Beauty Culture.

"The discovery of Lustrasilk," Mrs. Dismond told listeners, "opened up many new horizons of hair care both for beauty shops and their patrons.

"Snnce Lustrasilk uses no oil, and frequent shampooing is possible, the scalp and hair can always be clean, thus aiding hair growth," she said, adding that "Lustrasilk dispenses with the frequent use of hot combs."

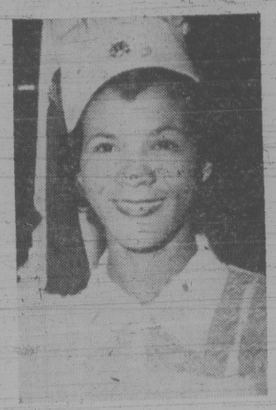

Lustrasilk is a discovery of the internationally known scientist, Dr. J. B. Calva of Minneapolis, Minn. His work in many fields has been publicized in magazines like Time, Look, Science Digest, World, and recently in Ebony.

Mrs. Dismond, who has been on a nationwide tour since fall, is a resident of Harrisburg, Penn., though she works out of the Lustrasilk headquarters, 307 Loeb Arcade building, Minneapolis, Minn.

A graduate of the National Institute of Cosmetology and the first colored administratrix in the department of public instruction, beauty culture division, Mrs. Dismond is state president of the Modern Beauticians and Cosmetologists' Association.

Joining Mrs. Dismond here for the demonstration was Mrs. J. C. Crowder of Minneapolis, one of the distributors of Lustrasilk.

FRIENDLY GUIDANCE ON YOUR HUMAN RELATIONSHIP PROBLEMS

Readers who feel the need of a direct-by-mail, confidential reply—should send 10c and a stamped, return envelope for Abbe's "private reading letter" covering their individual problem. Mail your letter to: The Abbe' Wallace Service, P. O. Box 11, Atlanta 1, Georgia.

Mrs. X—We have a lot of debts on us that amount up to around a thousand dollars. We are remodeling our home and that will go into a couple more thousand. We want a baby and we put in for one. Do you think it is wise right now or wait until we pay off the debts. We want to raise the child like it should be.

Ans: Another mouth to feed right now will add to your burden. Work away at those debts by putting your living expenses on a strictly cash basis. It will be several months or a year before you can arrange for the child. With careful economizing you can easily spread your income to clear up your debts by then. The remodeling job can be paid off in monthly installments.

N. T.—I am in my twenties and have been dating a man much older but I seem to like him. He left town and said he was doing it so he could make more money for me. I need his help. I want to know if this is so. Please tell me if I should forget him?

Ans: You know that you should. There are definite reasons for it—you're married and have no business encouraging the man—you don't love him—and he doesn't love you. You can do without his financial assistance, if you don't, it will be you who will "pay" in the long run.

E. R.—I've been unhappy for some time. Please tell me what to do. My husband and I make good money but can't keep it. Explain to me what I should do?

Ans: I know of no better advice to offer you right now than to send for my 1949 ABBE' WALLACE GUIDE. The price is one dollar and the chapters on "How to Gain and Hold Money" and "The Key to Financial Success in 1949 were made to order for you. You may order the Guide through this column.

R. C. M.—My wife and I separated the last of December about nothing much. We always had a few little family spats. Nothing however, that a hug and kiss couldn't settle. But this time we carried it a little further than that. I walked out. I can't get my mind off of her. Should I go back or leave town?

Ans: You're acting like kids. Go to your wife and make up. She's as unhappy about this affair as you are. She is willing to forget and start over again. Quit arguing altogether—as these little family spats can soon get out of bounds. Be a little more cooperative and understanding with each other—for loving each other as you do—there is no reason why you can't be extremely happy.

L.C.N.—I have been going with these two women for the past three months. I admit that I can't understand women very well. Both seem to want me and have even talked about getting married. I want you to tell me what to do about these two women. Should I take either one of them, if so, which one?

Ans: No need to hurry. Take your time. Already you have formed a deeper feeling for one of these girls than for the other. As this friendship warms up—you'll know without asking—that you are falling deeply in love. When you marry—it will be to a girl you will love more than anyone you have ever met before.

EDUCATION SHOULD BE WELL FINANCED

The 53rd general assembly, now in session, will be called upon to appropriate funds for the operation of state institutions. In the budget estimates submitted by many, a large increase over the last biennial appropriation are asked. This is particularly true of our educational institutions.

There has been a general increase in the cost of operation of education as well as any other business. And generally speaking, the physical plants have been pretty well provided for.

But the big problem facing these institutions is that of providing adequate salaries for the professors. Both Iowa University and Iowa State College have been robbed of some of their most able professors simply because the salaries are too low and other schools are offering large increases over what they are getting in Iowa.

Iowa schools rank high over the country. We want to keep them so. But they wont if our legislators are so shortsighted as to deny those who are charged with keeping these standards up decent salaries to maintain themselves and their families.

This same complaint prevails in our mental hospitals which are understaffed.

Let the votes contact their representatives and urge that our state institutions be given sufficient funds to keep Iowa in the forefront of educational institutions.

BROTHERHOOD WEEK

Sunday, the 13th, America is observing brotherhood Sunday which marks the beginning of brotherhood week. During this period, Negro and white ministers exchange pulpits, meetings are held emphasizing the value of interracial cooperation.

Interracial Sunday is the one nearest Lincoln's birthday for it's founders decided there was no better day in view of what the immortal president accomplished toward this great problem.

Most of the activities of this week center around the churches and rightly so for if any institution should take the lead in the brotherhood movement, it ought to be the church. All of them don't. In fact some have been out in front in opposition to the very thing in which they profess to believe.

Modern inventions, which have brought nations closer together, have helped greatly to eliminate much misunderstanding between nations and races. Education has helped.

It is a fine thing to observe brotherhood week. But most of the time should be spent emphasizing the necessity of continuing that spirit throughout the year.

ITS HARD ON WAR MONGERS

When the allied nations tried the war lords in Germany and Japan, many of whom have been hanged, they started something which will make those people who start great conflicts between nations think before they try such things in the future.

After all, it is the big fellow who starts the wars; the little fellow who fights them. And he does so without much knowledge of why he fights.

On the same theory the allies pursued, Chinese Communists are asking for the head of Chiang Kai-shek. And it looks as if there will be no settlement at this stage unless their demands are met.

You aren't going to end wars in the future by paying reparations. Those who instigate the clashes or violate the rules and laws of the victors are in for punishment just as the ordinary criminal who violates our local laws.

SEEK EXTENSION OF CIVIL RIGHTS IN EAST ST. LOUIS SCHOOLS

chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the next step in the campaign to have colored children admitted to schools attended only by white children would be to seek a writ of mandamus in Circuit court.

Twelve Mixed Schools

Colored and white children attend classes together in Belleville, Jones pointed out, but they never have done so in East St. Louis. There are nineteen schools which colored pupils are not permitted to attend in East St. Louis and twelve schools to which they are admitted.

There is no ground for discrimination because of color in Illinois law, Jones said. East St. Louis colored schools, he pointed out, are overcrowded while some white schools have empty rooms. Colored pupils are not given hot lunches in their schools, he added, but warm meals are obtainable in some white schools.

Progressive Party Picket . .

Members of the Progressive party of East St. Louis picketed in protest against the refusal to admit colored children to the schools attended by whites. Mrs. Eva Milton, Progressive party chairman, said the demonstration was in observance of "Freedom Day" proclaimed by President Truman on the anniversary of the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation.

A telegram sent by the party to Governor Stevenson asked for his direct intervention "to insure the enforcement of state laws and in fulfillment of your election promises to help in the protection and extension of civil rights in the State of Illinois."

HEALTH FOR ALL

Most of us are inclined to make light of a "stiffness." It may come from walking or standing too long. Stiffness in the arms of hands may be caused by excessive stretching or by lifting heavy objects—things that also may cause a stiff back. Such discomfort is often dismissed as a slight, though painful annoyance that "will wear off."

Stiffness may be one of the first warnings of arthritis, an inflammation of the joints. Unfortunately, the warning is sometimes ignored until the disease has taken hold and prevention of the crippling or deformity that it causes may be difficult. Anyone who has pain, stiffness or swelling in a joint should go immediately to his doctor or hospital clinic. If the person has arthritis, prompt medical treatment can not only relieve the pain, but also prevent the disease from getting worse.

Arthritis can occur in many different forms. But there are two general types: acute and chronic. Acute arthritis, the form to which the word "rheumatism" is most commonly applied, usually starts with sharp sudden pains and swelling in one or more joints. Sometimes this lasts a few weeks, then seems to go away.

Self-treatment is dangerous for a person who may have arthritis. So-called "rheumatism remedies" can be dangerous when they appear to give temporary relief and cause the patient to postpone visiting his doctor and getting the right treatment. In addition, such home measures as rubbing a painful joint or exercising it may be harmful. The doctor is the one to determine the cause of the arthritis and prescribe treatment that will be best for it.

There is no special preventive for arthritis, but people who observe the rules of good health, especially and cripplingthose who get enough rest and avoid nervous tension and worry, seem less likely to get the disease than those who are careless and indifferent about healthful living.

It is estimated there are about 7,000,000 people in the United States with chronic arthritis or some form of rheumatism. Much of the pain and crippling that it brings, however, can be avoided with prompt medical treatment.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by Polk County Tuberculosis Association.

SPORTS

By ALLEN ASHBY

Your illustrous scribbler sat at the ringside last week and saw some fine examples of what lack of condition can do to good boxers. We had been selected as a timekeeper, the first Negro official in local Golden Gloves history.

Some typist had inadvertently stuck a "W" in front of our name, so that our credentials couldn't be found for a night and a half. So in spite of the fact that every ringside official knew us and we were to serve, we got a good chance to see most of the bouts from a good vantage point with no responsibility.

As we said before, condition did more than anyone else to defeat most of the Negro contestants. There were one or two such as Gil Randle and Edgar Whitehorse, who got belted out, but most of the others might have had good chances to win if they had been able to go all out in the final round.

We thought they robbed Al Trumbo, but even at that, if the boy had been able to keep punching in the last minute, there wouldn't have been any doubt about it. Hinkey Brewer lost his welterweight match to the ultimate champion in exactly the same manner. As we saw it, both boys could have turned the judges nod by slamming the last round out.

A real find was uncovered in the flyweight class. Bill Mason was supposed to win that one hands down. But Bill ran into a tough little fellow named Edwards. This fifteen-year-old kid fought as if he had never heard of Mason and only the latter's greater experience pulled him through the only Negro winner we had.

Wild Slugging

Lonnie Thomas got tricked into playing the same wild slugging game that a tough little Mexican named Martinez was good at. Thomas was the better boxer by a mile, but he wouldn't box. Then he ran out of gas in that last round.

Roy Edwards was just about the class of the light heavies as he slapped out his opponent in his first semi-final bout. Then he ran out in his final bout and tried slugging it out with a long boy from Ames or some place. As hard as Edwards could punch, if he could have thrown one punch into the midsection of his opponent, that would have been that. But young inexperienced Edwards kept trading head punches and after showing a heart as big as the proverbial watermelon caught one on the chin and out he went. This one battle was worth the price of admission for all three nights. It was strictly a pier six brawl and the fans loved it.

The Olympian club hustled up a real old nation team and managed to grab second place in the team race. They turned up with a Negro, a Mexican and a red head with a Swede name as champions.

The club boys fought for everything and deserve credit for their efforts. They are after a Negro judge next year. So are we, and we want his name spelled correctly on the program. Maybe, we can get together on that one.

The Olympians also presented the sportsmanship trophy, but the daily papers forgot all about it. We didn't like that one but because in our opinion that was a fine gesture by the club and one certainly worthy of mention.

But as Jim Thompson said, "You crawl and fall a lot of times before you learn to walk."

Basketball

The upset of the season was the win of the Panthers over the Ambassadors in the semi-league of the Crocker Y. The Renns handed the Esquires a neat trouncing, and the Shy Guys had no trouble with the Black Hawks.

For the junior league the Warriors and the Sharpshooters had a fierce battle with the Warriors pulling out in the last part of the scuffle. The Harlemites caught the Comets minus the Graves cousins and set them down.

THE RED LIGHT SIGNALS

Part III

Then your lost, you're lost forever,
And you're numbered with the dead
So don't ignore that red light signal
For there's danger just ahead.
After death then comes the judgment,
Then you stand before God's Son,
Then there will be no forgiveness
For the sins that you have done.
But today He will have mercy
While upon this earth you tread
So don't ignore these red light signals
For there's danger just ahead.

Lincoln was a noble statesman
Good and great and full of wisdom
He it was who saved the union
And to him they homage

ACTION NOW

by A. Jackson

..RELIGION,
Like the air we breath,
Cannot be divorced from LIFE.

Basic Principles

Interracial justice goes away back to first principles of religion. Those who want action now must remember certain principles:

I.—God is the center of HIS universe.

II.—God's universe is operated by God's law.

II.—God created ALL men with immortal SOULS, made in HIS IMAGE and likeness. (Gen. 1:27)

It is only by accepting this third principle that men can claim any civil right, social rights and duties, or any right to justice and fair treatment. (Ps. 57:2, 3)

If men did not have souls made in God's image, then white supremacy, Communism, "This-is-a-stickup." or any other lie, trickery or violence would be justified. (Gal. 6:8)

THOMAS ALVA EDISON (February 11, 1847—October 18, 1931)—He patterned a new and better life for all of us. Because he lived and worked for the future, every man, woman and child in all America has benefitted. His motto summed up his life: "Everything comes to him who hustles while he waits." And of his process of invention he wrote: "In working out an invention the most important quality is persistence."

EDISON'S WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY

Edison's achievements are an outstanding example of the American system of individual initiative in action. Those who provided the capital realized the risk . . . but they had faith in an inventor's dream . . . faith in the future and in our system of free enterprise. Without this we might not know our present high standard of living and our world leadership in science and industry.

Edison founded the first business-managed electric light and power company 67 years ago. This company and its employees feel a deep responsibility to his memory . . . are grateful for our part in carrying forward the visions of this great man.
