Miss Hamilton Marries In Denver

City, Mo., Dec. 27.—An evening of special home of her party, E. Walls.

Mrs. Edna MRS. PAUL CAMPBELL was a Sunday (Andrew S. Hamilton, 923 E. 17th street, announce the marriage of her daughter, Betty Jean Hamilton, and Sgt. Paul Campbell, guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, 1248 E. 21st street.

The couple was married Monday, Dec. 10, in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Campbell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton of Denver.

A reception was held in Boulder, Colo., by the bride's sister, Mrs. Vernon Slaughter. The bride was dressed in a blue taffeta suit.

Following a ten-day visit, the couple returned to Des Moines, where Mrs. Campbell is employed by Bank-

Jo Baker Files $400,000 Suit Against Walter Winchell

New York.—(CNS)—Josephine Baker lashed back at Walter Winchell this Friday, by filing a suit for $400,000 against Winchell and his employers, the Hearst Corporation and King Features, which distributes Winchell's column. The papers were filed in New York's Federal Court.

Miss Baker charges that Winchell attacked her seven times in his column as a result of her unpleasant experience at the Stork Club on October 16th.

She charges that he called her anti-Semitic, a Communist, a consort of Communists, a Fascist, intellectually dishonest and "an enemy of the people of her own race." All these implications Josephine called completely false.

By filing this suit, the actress has at last broken her silence and taken matters in her own hands as it had been reported she would do as soon as the NAACP had gone as far as it could in the Stork Club

Los Angeles, Cal.—Singer Billy Eckstine Monday agreed to pay his wife $200 a week alimony pending

NAACP Board Protects Appointment of Skeoch as President of Virgin Islands

New York.—The appointment of Gordon Skeoch, an anti-discrimination legislator, as president of the Virgin Islands, "can undermine the confidence of many people in the attitude of our government in the handling of the affairs of dependent areas," the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged in a statement of policy opposing the appointment.

The NAACP statement, made public Dec. 20, was transmitted on December 18 to Oscar Chapman, Secretary of the Interior whose department has jurisdiction over Mr. Skeoch, the statement said. "The appointment of a member of a neo-fascist organization to the Island of St. Croix, trying to develop on that island a 'new community, white and general,' is a direct challenge to the NAACP's vigorous opposition to racial and religious discrimination in public places, employing the familiar sophistry that such legislation was unnecessary."

Mr. Skeoch's qualifications on the basis of his business experiences are challenged by the NAACP statement. Admitting that he has had "local

NAACP Leader Killed When Home Bombed in Florida

Miami, Fla.—A bomb explosion Tuesday night killed a Negro prominent in national affairs of his race. He was Harry T. Moore, 46, state secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (N. A. A. C. P.). His wife, Harriet, who teaches school at Lake Park near West Palm Beach, was hurt.

In New York the N. A. A. C. P. issued a statement on the bombing of the Moore home. It was signed by Walter White, the association's executive secretary. It said: "Harry T. Moore, the secretary of the Brevard county branch of the N. A. A. C. P., is another victim of a reign of terror and violence which has afflicted the state of Florida in recent months."

Courier Picks John Bright, Top Athlete of '51

Pittsburgh, Penn.—Johnny Bright, Drake halfback, was named athlete of the year by the Pittsburgh Courier, weekly, in its last Saturday edition.

The Courier also lauds Drake for its withdrawal from the Missouri Valley conference in support of the "Bright incident" on Oct. 20 when Drake played football at Oklahoma A and M.

In that game, Bright suffered a broken jaw and Drake asserted he was "slugged" twice by an Aggie player.

"Drake itself is a fine lesson in educational democracy," the Courier declared. "It plays no school where the Jim Crow pattern exists relating to accommodations as well as to bias on the playing field."

trial of her divorce suit. The singer's wife, June, had asked $1,200 a month temporary alimony.

Extends Greetings.

Jurist Has Defense Lawyer Forcibly Seated; Had Made Series of Interruptions

New York.—(CNS)—Personable, dignified Judge Harold Stevens has been presiding over the sensational case of the ex-maid of Tallulah Bankhead, Mrs. Evyleen Cronin, with an iron hand. His decision that Mrs. Cronin was on trial for raising 26 checks to the tune of $4,284 and not the morals or out-of-the-ordinary doings of actress Tallulah Bankhead, has prevented any further reference to the actress' personal life. But it has also caused increasing friction between the Judge and Defense Attorney, Fred Morritt and has even led to ordering Morritt seated with force and by two court attendants.

Morritt has been constantly charged with interrupting the proceedings. He announced that he wanted a statement. He asserted the judge had just "denied" the accused been "compromised."

Continuing to name his grievances, Morritt told the remarks that Tallulah's attorney, Donald Seawell had made on a telecast about him in which he called Morritt and his case "despicable and absurd." Twice Morritt moved for a mistrial because of this and twice Judge Stevens denied it.

When Morritt said another Bankhead attorney, Nathan Bernstein "insulted me here and you did not admonish him," Judge Stevens patience had come to an end. "Just a

Stevens then called Morritt to the bench in a whispered consultation. Morritt, coming back from the bench,

Double Standard of Justice Applied in Rape Case when White Youth Is Freed

Richmond, Va.—The double standard of justice in Southern rape cases was applied again this week as a 17-year-old white youth was declared not guilty of the rape of a 13-year-old Negro girl, despite evidence at his guilt.

The case, tried in the Circuit Court of Goochland County, involved a young girl who was taken from her home last July 30 by the youth, who told her his mother wanted her to do some work. He drove her to a wooded area off the highway, where he attacked her. Notwithstanding the fact that law enforcement officers had enough facts in their possession two hours after the incident to order an arrest, it was not until two days later that the boy was finally arrested—and then only after the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had been requested to intervene in the case and the mother of the girl had sworn out a warrant.

Oliver W. Hill, chairman of the legal redress committee of the Virginia State NAACP Conference, handled the bulk of the state's prosecution. All of the prospective Negro jurors were stricken from the list—two because they did not believe in capital punishment; three because they had made financial contributions to the prosecution of the defendant; and one by the defense attorney.

In Martinsville, Va., last year, seven Negroes were electrocuted for the alleged rape of a white woman.

Horne, Hammerstein, To Head Benefit

New York.—Oscar Hammerstein II and Lena Horne, co-chairmen of a gigantic benefit show for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to be staged in Madison Square Garden on Thursday evening, March 6, 1952, announced this week that plans for the performance are well underway.

More than one hundred outstanding stars of stage, screen, radio and television will be invited to perform. Miss Horne and Mr. Hammerstein revealed. Ed Sullivan will act as one of the masters of ceremony, and Muriel Rahn and Celeste Holm have agreed to appear.

Tickets will range in price from $1.00 to $5.00.

1952 March Of Dimes Poster Girl

Emma Pearl Berry, six, March of Dimes poster girl, is one of twelve children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lawyer Berry. They live on a small farm near Raymond, Mississippi. Emma Pearl was the only one of the twelve Berry children stricken with polio.

Fighting Polio for three years, Emma Pearl now walks with the aid of a single leg brace and crutches. When she came down with the disease at the age of three, Emma Pearl suffered paralysis of abdominal muscles and the muscles of the right leg.

Emma Pearl spent six months in Lutheran Hospital, Vicksburg, Mississippi. She still remains on the chapter follow-up program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. March of Dimes funds amounting to nearly $2,000 have been spent on braces, special shoes, crutches and treatment for the 1952 March of Dimes Poster Girl.

Surgery is recommended for her in the near future. Payment for additional treatment will be provided by the thousands of volunteer workers in the March of Dimes.

Put Children in Proper Frame of Mind at Bedtime

Child psychiatrists and psychologists all advocate pleasant mealtime discussions for children. Laughter makes the food digest more quickly and more easily than anger. Childish or parental squabbles and scoldings at mealtime tend to upset the digestive systems, doctors say. The same psychology should apply to bedtime, then, too.

Back in 1900 a doctor published a book stating that "if there ever is a time when children should be treated kindly and talked to pleasantly, it is in the evening before retiring or after they are in bed." And in this manner, times haven't changed one bit since 1900.

Children should be taught that going to bed is pleasant. They should never be scolded or commanded and then the bedtime punishment should be omitted.

Children should be devoted to them down. A session of reading or other mild diversion conditions them for "lights out." They definitely shouldn't be allowed to play strenuously before retiring, for while it is fun and wears them out, it also excites them and causes them to be tense rather than relaxed.

Interior Modes... by René

A small bedroom is often a decorating problem, but a clever homemaker can do many a trick to make it look spacious. This room has been made to look larger by using a minimum of frills but a maximum of good taste. The one chair in the room has been selected because it provides comfort and was proportioned to the size of the room. Because an end-table would take up too much space, glass shelves have been used as a corner knock-knock. For the final touch of spaciousness the room has a matching border at bottom of the window and the draperies. The trick of matching the color of shades to draperies or the wall can make any room look much larger.

Census Bureau Reports Show Non-Whites in Cities Over 50,000 Increased 44 Percent

Washington.—A Census Bureau report shows that the non-white population in United States cities of 50,000 or more increased by 44.3 per cent in the 1940-50 decade as against a 20 per cent increase for the white population.

This report, made every 10 years, counts as nonwhites Negroes, Indians, Japanese, Chinese, and members of other nonwhite races. Persons of Mexican birth or ancestry not definitely Indian or of other nonwhite races are classified as white.

Over-11 Rise 22 Pct.

The total population of the 168 metropolitan areas increased by 15,224,199 persons during the decade to a total of 84,500,000. This was a 22 per cent over-all increase.

The number of nonwhite persons in the 168 cities totaled 8,250,814 or about 9.8 per cent of the total population as against 8.3 per cent of all persons in 1940.

The Nonwhite population more than doubled in 30 metropolitan areas in the Northeast, North Central states, and West. The Census Bureau pointed out, however, that the high rates of increase in many of these areas involved only a relatively small number of nonwhites.

3,384 Pct. Rise Found

Most spectacular nonwhite increase was in the industrial city of Richmond, Cal., a 3,384.3 per cent jump—from 408 nonwhites in 1940 to 14,216 in 1950. Total population increase there was from 23,642 in 1940 to 99,545 in 1950, a 321.1 per cent increase.

The over-all increase in New York City, all boroughs, was 5.9 per cent, from 7,454,995 to 7,891,957. The non-white increase was 62.4 per cent, from 447,494 to 775,529.

Nonwhites Up 2,000,000

The population of this capital city increased by 21 per cent—from 663,091 to 802,178. Its nonwhite population increased by 50.5 per cent—from 188,765 to 284,031.

Numerically, the nonwhite increase in the cities of the Northern and Western states totaled almost 2,000,000.

South Reverses Situation

In all regions except the South the nonwhite population in the metropolitan areas increased more percentage-wise than the white population. In the West, the percentage increase for nonwhite was 127.6 as compared to 48.9 for the white population. In the North, that is the Northeast and North Central states combined, the nonwhite population increased by 58.2 per cent and the white population by 11.1 per cent.

In the South, the rate of increase for the white population, 38.5 per cent, exceeded that for the nonwhite, 23.6 per cent.

"These figures reflect the very substantial movements of the nonwhite population out of the rural areas and out of the South during the decade.

A metropolitan area is a count group of contiguous counties which contains at least one city of 50 inhabitants or more.

New Year's Resolutions Are Worth Much; It's What We do Today That Counts

Afton, Smith Assistant Professor, Child Welfare Research Station

It's no use to make New Year's resolutions for the future. It's what we are doing now that counts. What children do today will take care of what they do in the future. One writer says, "The family is not simply preparation for life—it is life."

If the child is to be successful as a future citizen he needs to be successful now in his small duties and pleasures. If a little child works hard for five minutes fitting one kitchen pan into another, that is an important first step toward his future effort and success.

We don't wait until a child is six years old and then tell him he must work hard for an education—so he will be successful when he is grown. For six years we already should have allowed him to work hard at his play and at his family chores, as far as his maturity permits. He needs to be successful each day of his life.

We should provide him with books and toys and stories suitable to each year of his life. He should be given interesting experiences. His education should go forward in his family life long before he starts to school.

We don't wait till Betty is 16, then tell her she must not be selfish in the use of the car. Perhaps we have often gotten together as a whole family and worked out a schedule of the car. Or we have laid out a budget on the table and help work out a fair division of the budget for each member. We practiced unselfishness in planning long before she was old.

Ethel Waters Stars In "Sixteen in A Bundle." Story of Sharecropper Family

Ethel Waters stars in "Sixteen in A Bundle," the moving story of a sharecropper family's struggle to educate their children, on "Cavalier America," Tuesday night, Jan. 23, 7 p.m. over station WHO.

The story begins in 1907, when a married Leah Young (Ethel Waters) and her husband start life on their sharecropper farm in Southampton County, Virginia. As the years pass, the farm prospers, there is a tidy nest egg in the bank—and a growing brood of healthy children. All of them, Leah vows, shall have an education—maybe

'Will Not Be Convinced by Polished Phrases from Our State Department,' Crisis

New York.—The so-called "Freedom of Choice" movement, sponsored by a California outfit known as America Plus, Inc., is a "bold and dangerous movement to subvert the Constitution and wipe out all of the civil rights gains based on the 14th and 15th Amendments as well as the social welfare legislation of recent years," Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, charged today.

The movement's first objective is a referendum in California to eliminate the state's civil rights laws.

Ruth Ann Haddix, Ruby Elaine Harper, Lois Jean, Charlotte and Verna Lu Douglas were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Parker at a Christmas program sponsored by the Mason City Brick and Tile Co., for their office crew and factory workers. Rev. Parker gave the Christmas address. Mrs. Laura Posten, Rev. and Mrs. Parker were dinner guests at the home of Elder and Mrs. A. M. Douglas on Christmas day.

The New Bethel Baptist Mission Circle did it again. They gave gift baskets to the Worth County Home in Northwood for the aged and feeble, and to a number of the aged and shut-ins at Mason City. Mrs. Cecil Douglas is president of the Bethel Circle.

These laws would be replaced with an amendment which would permit proprietors of places of public accommodation to select their own patrons on a discriminatory basis.

The amendment would also permit the establishment of exclusive neighborhoods on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin, and would grant employers the right to reject applicants because of race, religion or nationality.

Openly designed to restrict the citizenship rights and privileges of Jews and Negroes, the movement envisages similar action against other minorities. Headed by State Senator Jack B. Tenney of California's "Little Dies Committee," America Plus boldly announced that it will extend its activities throughout the nation in an effort to wipe civil rights statutes off the books of every state.

"This bold and dangerous movement to subvert the Constitution and wipe out all of the civil rights gains based on the 14th and 15th Amendments as well as the social welfare legislation of recent years represents a far greater peril than the Ku Klux Klan at its height," Mr. White said. "The NAACP," he continued, "will rally every possible resource to head it off. However, such a campaign will require ample funds and the united efforts of all the truly liberal forces in this country—Negro organizations, Jewish associations, organized labor, religious and civic groups. All will have to unite to prevent the mis-named America Plus from turning back the clock to 1865."

TO BEGIN again. To start all over with the freshening spirit of new resolutions that rests deep in us and...

"We, the people, do hereby form a more perfect union... beginning and an establishment of orderly democratic government."

"That this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth..." Abraham Lincoln's simple words at Gettysburg were, above many things, a beginning and a new devotion to the real nobility of man's brotherhood.

Let us remember these beginnings of ours. None of them coincided chronologically with a New Year, but apart from the date, each was of itself a new year, a new age, a new point in human progress.

Remembering this, let us approach the New Year with humility and let us seek in it the deep and hiding roots of peace, for ourselves, for our community, and for all people. Forever.

The ceremony, performed by the Rev. Wayland Heath, brother of the bride-groom, took place at the church's altar which was decorated with palms, white and yellow chrysanthemums and candelabra. Arnold Hubbard, cousin of bride, lit the candles.

ENTERTAIN AT SUNDAY BRUNCH

Marsaline Estes and Mrs. Elsie Owen entertained at an eleven o'clock brunch Sunday, Dec. 23, at their home, 813 14th street.

Sharing the courtesy were Mesdames Paul Wilson, James Morrow, Henry T. McKnight, Murray Williams, Rufus Wellington, George Blaney, Ted Duncan and some others. Mrs. Doyle served rubber cup. She breaks all our cups and glasses up. She is a year and a half old.

"I got my brothers color books and crayolas. I know they would like crayolas because they're always drawing on paper."

"I bought Mom some hand lotion. —it's good hand lotion," the lad assured and added "I'm going to make some of that."

"I got my father a new pair of shoes and some socks."

When told that resolutions plans one makes for accomplishing something that he has always wanted to do, or, maybe, doing something a little better the new year than he did the old year, the lad queried: "Aren't you supposed to do that every day?"

Then he replied: "I try to do my best every day, don't you?"

After informing that he sells fifty papers each week, makes two dollars profit and saves a dollar each week, we ended our interview wishing each other—"a very happy new year."

Heard an interesting conversation on the bus the other morning as three women discussed "What to do with the many beautiful Christmas greeting cards that pile up and are packed away each year."

"You know, I just hate to throw away the many beautiful Christmas cards I get each year," one woman said.

While another interrupted with: "Mine have such interesting personal comments that I find myself re-reading them—but after so long, I have to put them some place and I can go back in boxes and bring out beautiful cards that I have had immediately, I took those cards out of the trash box and put them away again," she related.

And, in speaking of hand-written messages on greeting cards, I recalled a birthday card sent to me on July by Mrs. Joburness Kelso. Six months later, I was sorting out cards and re-reading their messages, when I looked on the back of Mrs. Kelso's card and lo and behold—she had listed the names of ten other July born persons.

I had a guilty feeling and wondered how I missed seeing the message on the back of her card—and I knew she wondered why I never listed the names in the column, especially when I had phoned her on several occasions for birthdays of well known citizens from her book. Now she'll know.

Finally, one woman on the bus got to the subject of what to do with the many Christmas cards—or she was trying to find out what to do with them. One year she had sent them to a local hospital for therapeutic work—but she did not remember the name of the hospital.

Upon reaching the office, I tried to get in touch with a few hand-craft teachers but had little luck

PLANNING YOUR MEALS

by
ELINOR
Director
Caloric Home
Institute

Does cooking bore you these days? Do you hate to face another day of meal planning? Well, one secret many women use to cut down kitchen work is this: they keep as many basic foods as possible ready-prepared in their refrigerators. Foods must be the type that keep well and readily adapt themselves to a variety of dishes. Here are a few ideas for a start.

Boil a dozen or more eggs at a time to have handy for deviling, salads, garnishes, etc. Put black X mark on eggs to avoid confusion with raw ones.

Bake large ham, allowing 25 minutes per pound at 350°. This backlog in your freezer solves many of your meal problems, and an emergency requires little work. On the Caloric automatic gas range just set the automatic clock to turn the oven on and off at the time you wish, and you can have the whole afternoon free — away from your kitchen.

Keep large pitcher or jar of griddle cake or waffle batter in icebox. This makes quick meals possible with leftover fruit, meat and gravy, or vegetables.

Low Budget Entertaining

Unexpected entertaining all too often seems to be called for just at the time when your pocketbook can't take it. What to do when friends come for dinner or relatives suddenly arrive for a weekend and your budget is on the slim side?

First, go over the supply of canned goods or other packaged foods on your shelf. This will avoid duplication of purchases at your grocery and conserve your money.

Second, make sure that the meats and fresh foods you do buy are the week's "specials" which usually means they are plentiful and relatively cheap.

this week. I managed to catch up with Mrs. Korinne Jackson, 1055 Enos, former Girl Scout leader, music teacher and art student at Des Moines art center.

Just as she was heading for St. Monica's Girl school where she teaches music, Mrs. Jackson paused a moment to recall that one year the Girl Scouts advertised for old Christmas cards to send to Girl Scouts in Europe who had some practical use for them.

Before the Girl Scout office here could be contacted this week, Mrs. W. Patrick who brought her church's news to the office, revealed that she cut the beautiful scenes from the cards and used them to decorate her Christmas gift packages.

"You know, I got that from one lady for whom I worked—and she always has some very pretty gift packages with many pictures, taken from her last year's Christmas cards."

"It saves you from buying a lot of stickers, too," she added.

Over radio station WOI the other day, Martha Duncan, who has charge of the women's features, told of two friends who had exchanged for twelve years—the same two Christmas cards.

Don't think the greeting-card companies would go for the idea—but if the receivers and senders moved around frequently, and signed their names, dates and places on the same two cards, they would have life-long values.

If you know of any good uses for old Christmas cards—send them on a post card to the columnist. Remember, too, that postcards go up from a penny to two cents on January 1.

SPORTS

WHERE WE STAND
AS 1952 ENTERS

This issue brings to a close the 1951 year for the Iowa Bystander and for the world for that matter. It has been an eventful year for the world, for our country and the state. Much has been accomplished and yet there have been many disturbing factors which do not argue well for that period.

Technologically, much progress has been made all over the world, but from the standpoint of peace on earth and good will toward men, the score has not fared so well. At times, it would appear that peace is not actually desired but men seem bent on the annihilation of each other.

As great a country as America is, peace has been much of a farce within our own ranks. Labor and management continue at each other's throat, dishonesty in government tries the patience of the people, riots and destruction of property continue to be used to enforce the theory of white supremacy, crime is on the increase among adults and juveniles, graft and corruption in sports have cropped up, Iowa has contributed its unsavory share in the John Rice incident. All of these things tend to shake the confidence of the people.

But the world should not be discouraged for these unfortunate happenings involve but a few people. However, it must be realized that they strike at the morals and integrity of men which, if not stopped, may grow into much more serious situations—one rotten apple can spoil a barrel of good ones.

Mistakes need not be made over and over again. They may well be used to teach things not to do. But in spite of the things we dislike, in spite of wrongdoing, there is much to which we may well point showing that more people have remained on the right side, more good things than had been accomplished. In this, there is hope—a star at which to aim in 1952 that the world may be better and the teachings of Christ the Saviour may become more of a reality in the lives of all people.

A MOST UNSAVORY SITUATION

A federal grand jury has indicted seven officials in Cicero, Ill., for their part in the riot in that town earlier this year. It seems ridiculous that officials, chosen to administer the affairs of that community, will understand the differences between right and wrong when they are involved and outside forces must be brought in to do their work.

Upon reading the names: Sanducky, Konovsky, Bekos, Wesolowski, Brani and Janicek a disturbing thought must come to those people who have worked hard to find a haven in this country for oppressed people. These names denote that all these people are descendants of European countries where there is supposed to be a lot of oppression. Many of their ancestors are behind the so-called iron curtain today. These people are supposedly living in a free nation, are a part of those working to free the oppressed from the injustices practiced upon the people in Russian dominated countries. But those Cicero officials elect to commit crimes involving the very things they came to this country to escape.

Today, America is engaged in the so-called displaced person campaign. Thousands have been brought to this country to seek freedom from oppression and millions of the taxpayers' dollars are being spent to help accomplish the job.

Frankly, the names of those Cicero officials do not argue well for more peace in this country for it appears that some of them have become masters in the job of practicing upon others the very things they came here to escape.

America needs to be pretty careful about this whole program for the very people who seek to destroy the theory of the American way of life as against minority groups might well do the same thing against the government.

THE WHY OF INCREASED RATES

Last week, the Bystander announced an increase in the subscription rate. This, the management disliked to do but either this had to be done or it will not be possible to produce enough revenue to continue publication.

Few people realize that the operation of a newspaper is a tremendous job and the expense connected with it is far out of proportion per unit than that of a large paper.

The Bystander is sure that its subscribers will appreciate its efforts to continue operation of a newspaper devoted to the best interests of all the people.

moment, there will be no further statement by defense counsel," the Judge said.

"Are you stopping me from making a statement?" Moritt cried out. "Now just a moment—"

"Are you interrupting me, Mr. Moritt?" asked Stevens. Moritt said he was sorry but proceeded to bring out that in the interest of the "integrity and independence of the bar" and realizing the danger he wanted to make a statement for a higher court.

This snide remark really angered Judge Stevens. He ordered the attendants to "seat that man." They obeyed with gusto and grabbed Moritt's arms. From his chair Moritt yelled that he wanted it in the records to show he had been forcibly seated.

NAACP Mourn Death
Of Arthur Capper

New York.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today extended its deepest sympathy to Mrs. A. L. Eustice of Evanston, Illinois, on the death of her distinguished brother, former Senator Arthur Capper.

Lauding Senator Capper, who served as a vice-president of the NAACP for more than thirty-five years, Walter White, the Association's executive secretary, wired Mrs. Eustice that "the world has lost a noble man and great humanitarian, and we in the struggle for human rights have lost a devoted friend."

Organize Amaranth
Court In Ft. Dodge

Mrs. Helen T. Carter, grand royal matron of the Royal and Exalted Degree of Amaranth of Iowa, organized a court in Ft. Dodge, Dec. 9. She was assisted by the following officers: Mesdames Dorothy Collier, Leona Jordan, Dorothy B. Bush, Bertha Wolder, Gladys Brown, Margaret Lowry, T. L. Lighons, Frances Yells and Lillian Lewis.

Dinner was served by the members of the court.

Election of officers was held by the grand royal matron and Mr. Lighons, sir knight. Mrs. Lewis was elected royal matron of the new court.

To Curb Discrimination

The Illinois State Employment Service has taken two important steps to discourage discrimination by private employers who obtain workers through the ISES. The service is deleting from the application cards of job seekers all reference to race. It also will refuse to accept employment orders from business firms if the orders are discriminatory.

In other words, and employer who asks the ISES to furnish him with all-white workers will be turned down. The refusal will also apply where the discrimination is aimed at the religious belief or the national origin of a job applicant.

The new ISES policy was laid down by Frank Annunzio, director of the Illinois Department of Labor. Annunzio was a strong proponent of the state FEPC law which Gov. Stevenson sought in vain from the legislature at Springfield. Annunzio says the ISES will now be following a long-standing policy of his department—of paying "no attention to any specifications which do not have a bearing upon a person's ability to perform the job satisfactorily."

From now on, when a private employer seeks to place a discriminatory order with the ISES, an attempt will be made to persuade him to remove the discriminatory specifications. If he refuses, the ISES in turn will refuse to do business with him. In the past, the ISES relied entirely on an educational program to achieve a policy of nondiscrimination on the part of businessmen using the service. However, with the tight labor market now existing, Annunzio feels stronger methods can be employed.

Annunzio is to be commended for instituting the new ISES policy. The State of Illinois should never be a willing partner in schemes to deprive a man of job opportunities because of his race, religion or national origin. Of his race, religion or national origin.

Crusade under the Double-Barred Cross

The red Double-Barred Cross in the lower left corner of the 1951 Christmas Seal is the registered insignia of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 3,000 affiliates throughout the country.

A Double-Barred Cross had been the family emblem of Godfrey de Bouillon, Duke of Lorraine, and the French nobleman used it for identification on his shield as he led the First Crusade in the late eleventh century. The international symbol of the fight against TB, also the trademark of the NTA and its affiliates, is an adaptation of that Lorraine Cross.

The red Double-Barred Cross of the tuberculosis campaign dates back to the International Tuberculosis Conference held in Berlin in October, 1902, when a French physician, Dr. Gilbert Sersiron, proposed that it be adopted as the emblem of the modern crusade against tuberculosis. The Berlin delegates unanimously agreed with the French doctor that the 800-year-old symbol was appropriate to their crusade against tuberculosis, a crusade against a death-dealing disease which was a grave problem the world over.

In the United States, TB then headed the list of causes of death. Determined to combat the disease and its terrible toll of lives in this country, a crusading group of doctors and laymen got together in 1904 and formed the National Tuberculosis Association. Two years later, on May 17, 1906, the NTA made the red Double-Barred Cross its official emblem.

To identify its emblem officially with the nationwide battle against TB, the NTA registered the Double-Barred Cross at its trademark on Feb. 12, 1920.

The red Double-Barred Cross is also the insignia of the NTA's affiliated associations, which carry on year-round programs of tuberculosis control in communities all over the country. The affiliated associations conduct the Christmas Seal Sale by mail and use Seal funds to support their antituberculosis work in the fields of case finding, health education, rehabilitation, and support of medical research.

While the design of the Christmas Seal changes with each annual issue, the red Double-Barred Cross appears on the Seal each year, as it does on literature and materials distributed by the voluntary associations.

Christmas Seal funds constitute the sole support of the tuberculosis associations. Everyone who buys and uses sheets of the 1951 Christmas Seal, with its crusading Double-Barred Cross, is helping combat a disease which kills 100 persons in this country each day—one person every 13 minutes.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by the Polk County Tuberculosis Association.

BELIEVE

When things are tough... the going rough, you hear so many say, "I've given up. I've had enough." It's time for them to pray.

Believers never quit the fight, because they know they're in the right.

For Jesus said, "All who believe, have to ask, and they shall receive."

Accept and keep the faith on earth, that you won forever with rebirth... The worldly victories, lost or won, are nothing when your life is done.

—Glenn A. Gallagher.

I HEARD THE CHRISTMAS
BELLS RINGING

I heard the Christmas bells ringing, As I rose from my bed in the morn. The Christmas bells seemed to be singing,

Christ has been born. I heard the Christmas bells echo, As I lay in my bed at night. The echo seemed to be whispering

The story of age-old delight. I heard, before I passed into slumber, The echo of the morn, Tolling the old, old story, Christ has been born.

—R. Burrell.

Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson
Fields Way into Record Books
With Brilliant Performances

New York.—Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn and Willard Marshall of Boston fielded their way into the record books with brilliant 1951 performances at second base and in the outfield, according to official figures released.

Robinson shattered a National League fielding mark for second basemen when he posted a spectacular .992 percentage. While playing 150 games. The 32-year-old defensive flash committed a record low of only seven errors while accepting 832 chances. The old standard of .987 was set by Al (Red) Schoendienst of St. Louis. Oddly enough, the Cardinal second sacker last season also bettered that figure with a .990 ark.

Perfect Season

Marshall had a perfect season in right field, accepting 231 chances without an error. This tied the major league record held by Danny Litwhiler of the 1942 Phillies who went without an error. Marshall had a perfect season.

Brooklyn participated in the most double plays, 192, had the most putouts, 4,270, had the fewest passed balls, four. Chicago's Cubs had the most passed balls, 17, and the most errors, 181. Cincinnati had the fewest men left on bases, 1,017. Pittsburgh tied a record by leaving 18 men on bases in the game of June 5 against the Braves.

The league established a double play mark of 1,337, replacing the old record of 1,318 set in 1930.
