Wilkins Lashes Out at Natchez Bombings

Urges Letters to Congress; Pass New Civil Rights Bill

New York — Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP called upon Congress to enact "without delay" President Johnson's civil rights bill which provides for Federal action to punish murderers of persons exercising their constitutional rights.

Telegram

The telegrams to each of the 100 U.S. Senators and to 46 members of the House followed the killing of Wharlest Jackson who, until last January, was treasurer of the Natchez NAACP Branch. The slaying set off a series of demonstrations in Natchez under the leadership of Charles Evers, NAACP field director for Mississippi. Meanwhile local, state and Federal law enforcement agencies entered the case in efforts to uncover the killer or killers.

State and city officials expressed grave concern about the killing. The city posted a $25,000 reward for arrest and conviction of the murderers. The Armstrong Tire and Rubber Company which employed Mr. Jackson added $10,000 to the reward.

Text

The text of Wilkins' wire to Senators, despatched Feb. 28, follows: "Wharlest Jackson, 36, father of five children, former treasurer of Natchez NAACP, who had recently been upgraded at his job at the Armstrong Tire and Rubber Plant in Natchez, Mississippi, was murdered by a bomb planted in his pickup truck. On Aug. 27, 1965, George Metcalf, president of the Natchez NAACP, was maimed for life by a bomb planted in his automobile in the employees parking lot at Arm

Industrial Jimcra Denies Civil Rights

San Francisco, Calif.—In a speech before the California Negro Leadership Conference recently, Civil Rights Leader Baynard Rustin lashed out at right-to-work laws as a stragem to divide the labor movement and to keep the Negroes at the bottom of the economic ladder. "Right to work," he said, "is the same as Open Shop and Industrial Jim Crow, and no matter how you dress it up it is the same weapon that was used to kill trade union organization in the early part of the twentieth century, the same weapon used to deny minorities their economic rights."

Rustin's remarks came in the course of a reply to Reed Larson, Executive Director of the National Right to Work Committee, in a debate on Feb. 18, before the California

Eliminate Draft Says Youth Div.

New York — The 55,000-member Youth and College Division of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has proposed that the draft be eliminated and be replaced by a voluntary armed force and a voluntary service to "fight poverty and discrimination at home."

The Youth and College Division said that because of "inherent injustices" of the present selective service system the draft should be eliminated.

The proposal was made at a Feb. 26 news conference following a three-day conference here of 17 regional representatives of the organization's National Youth Work Committee.

Voluntary

"We feel that it is possible to develop a system of voluntary national service and a voluntary armed force that would meet the needs of our Nation, both on the battle fronts of poverty and discrimination at home in any necessary military activity," the proposal stated.

Elite

Michael Mitchell, of Baltimore, Md., chairman of the special committee reviewing the selective service system, and Isaac Williams, of Charleston Heights, S.C., Y.W.C. president said, "We cannot accept the present practice of granting deferments to college students, the 'educational elite' and the 'well-to-do' at the expense of those, particularly Negroes, who are economically and educationally disadvantaged by circumstances beyond their control."

to bolster the economy of the ghetto, thereby creating more jobs and more money."

Young said that "although the past several years have brought gains to some Negroes, the position of the masses of Negroes is worsening. Statistics show that segregation in schools and in housing is increasing and that the Negro is slipping further behind. In ghettos like Watts

Blind Newsmen Named Handicapped 1966 Am.

Washington, D.C. — Art Edgerton, a 39-year-old blind Negro radio-TV newsman and jazz musician, of Toledo, Ohio, has been named Handicapped American of 1966 by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Edgerton, who earned his own way to three college degrees, will receive the President's Trophy from President Johnson, or his representative, at the Annual Meeting of the President's Committee, Apr. 27, in Washington, D.C.

WTOL

Art Edgerton works from 4:30 to 12:30 a.m. on the news desk of Station WTOL-TV in Toledo where he writes the news for late night and morning broadcasts. He is alone most of the time and has had to develop his own news gathering methods. He is adept at handling any news assignment, including those out of town.

Assigned to cover the 1963 March on Washington by civil rights groups, he amazed the press contingent—including network newsmen—with his ability by covering the news at the scene and reporting it as it developed.

Award

Edgerton was nominated for the Handicapped American Award by the Ohio Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. He was cited for his determination and the outstanding example he has set for other handicapped persons. In addition, he has been extremely active in Toledo and in Ohio in promoting employment of the handicapped.

Held Back, Ask Agencies To Provide Information About All Need Statistics

Waterloo, Ia. — The City Council here has been asked by the Waterloo Human Rights Commission for $2,500 to back financially a "fact-finding" program to aid the commission in its activities.

Ronald James, commission director, gave the report request to the council Tuesday night, Feb. 28 in a report on his commission's doings since last fall.

James, in his half-year report, commented to the effect that all the commission has really done is "to try to move a mountain by carrying a couple of stones."

Details

He explained that various agencies and firms here could give details on the composition of the city, which the commission apparently has difficulty finding when studying discrimination claims.

"If the commission is to develop programs in all fields—education, housing, employment—we have to know as much about these areas as the people involved in these fields," he said.

The commission director's fund request will be placed on the agenda for the next city council meeting.

Complaints

James listed over ten housing discrimination claims received. The commission, he said, has been unsuccessful in resolving the complaints. There were four complaints of other discrimination and 11 further complaints which either were dropped or handled satisfactorily to those involved.

A limited number of minority group members has been successfully assisted by the commission in being employed in areas which previously had been closed.

On housing, James said, "We probably have one of the most restricted cities in the nation in regard to equal housing." James himself had trouble in getting a house last fall.

Students

James proposed that senior and graduate college students from State College of Iowa be hired to collect data from various agencies, and said the commission hoped to use groups as the Waterloo Youth Council and an SCI sociology class to help make city studies.

The commission's written report was signed by its chairman, Charles A. Hanson.

President in Surprise Visit To Howard U. Thursday

Washington, D.C. — In a surprise visit to ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the founding of Howard University, President Lyndon B. Johnson Thursday, March 2, reaffirmed his commitment to the nation's Negroes, declaring that "Our task is to give 20 million Negroes the same chance as every other American to learn, to live, to grow, to develop his abilities to the fullest . . . to pursue his individual happiness."

Surprise

The visit by the President had not been announced, and took the audience completely by surprise. It was Charter Day at the Washington school, which had been founded March 2, 1867. Howard President James M. Nabrit, Jr. was set to conclude the exercises when an aid informed him that Mr. Johnson was enroute to the program.

Earlier, President Nabrit had conferred honors on Senator Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.) and three other Howard alumni for distinction.

For the past 2 years he has covered the Annual Meeting of the President's Committee.

The trophy presented to Edgerton is a mahogany and silver plaque made each year by handicapped students at the Institute for the Crippled and Disabled in New York City.

In his address, President Nabrit told the audience that the nation is still far short of the goal of true racial equality.

Five Sentenced to Chair

Nashville, Tenn. — Courts in Tennessee and Virginia sentenced men to death on charges of raping white women.

In Clarksville, Tenn., Charles W. Elliott was convicted of raping Mrs. Bynallia Huddleston, a mother of six. He joined five other Negroes on death row, convicted Feb. 17, of raping two teen-age white girls.

Freeman

At the same time, a Virginia court set free a white man accused of raping a 10-year-old Negro girl.

Elliott's mother is leading the campaign to demand a re-trial and asking for abolition of capital punishment.

According to Roscoe Hanby, one of Elliott's attorneys, two doctors examined Mrs. Huddleston five hours after the rape supposedly took place testified that she had not been sexually molested.

Disrobe

The woman had claimed her attacker made her disrobe. After the supposed rape, she said she was choked unconscious. Yet she was found stumbling along the highway more than half a mile from the scene, fully dressed except for bare feet. When asked how she was able to dress completely in a semi-conscious state, she claimed "absence of recall".

Environment

One Juvenile Bureau detective said the 10-year-old girl could not qualify as a witness because "she came from a bad environment. She was just dumb. She knew what had happened, but as far as dates go, she didn't know what year last year was."

A week later, the paper reported that the white man had been indicted on new charges in connection with the same alleged offense. He is to stand trial for "fondling," a felony punishable by up to five years in prison, and two lesser charges.

Before they combined their talents, Herb had recorded as a solo singer, and Peaches was a member of the female trio "The Sweet Things."

Francine Day, (no wonder she changed her name) 18, was born in Washington, D.C. (either there or Detroit—where else?). While in elementary school, she began singing with neighborhood groups. She was nicknamed Peaches when she was just a baby (better than being called "Frank"), because of her pleasant disposition. Peaches was first featured as a lead singer with the Keytones, then sang with the Darlettes (later called the Sweet Things.)

Herb Fame (talk about destiny in a name) was also born in D.C. He's 21, began singing in church choirs.

So all right, it's corny already.

"God has given the United States Senate a second chance to enact a civil rights bill containing a provision for punishing murderers under Federal law. Senate filibuster of last fall killed the 1966 bill containing the same provision. The Natchez killer or killers are depending on the Congress as a roadblock to punishment. The Congress and others are forever asking Negro Americans to respect and uphold law and order. Now is the chance for Congress to set an example."

The House of Representatives was "right" in approving the 1966 civil rights bill, later killed by the Senate, Mr. Wilkins said in his telegram to Speaker John W. McCormack, leaders of both parties and other members of the House.

"The civil rights bill of 1967 sent to Congress February 15 should be enacted without delay unless the Congress wishes to give absolute to the Natchez killers," Mr. Wilkins concluded.

Protests

Meanwhile the NAACP leaders called upon branches of the organization throughout the country to hold protest rallies Sunday or as soon thereafter as possible. He further urged them to flood Congress with mail supporting early action to pass the pending civil rights bill.

Natchez, Miss. — Wilkins led a motor caravan from Jackson to Natchez to attend the funeral, Sunday, Mar. 5.

Joining the cortege were national, state and local representatives of the NAACP including Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi state organization; Gloster B. Current, director

From Capital Hill

Legislators have offered a compromise plan to end the reapportionment stalemate which has threatened to block action on a host of other important problems facing Iowans.

The plan would achieve three goals — reduce the membership in the House and Senate for the 1969 legislative session, set a permanent reapportionment plan in the constitution and require all legislators to be elected from single member districts.

The key to the compromise is the reduction of the Senate from its present 61 members to 50 and the House from 124 to 100.

It has long been acknowledged that smaller legislative houses would provide Iowans with a more workable and more economical General Assembly. However, at no time since the reapportionment debates began several years ago has either house managed to reduce the number of its own members.

Reduction is difficult because it involves legislators cutting up their own districts where they have earned the privilege of representing their constituents through hard-fought election campaigns — campaigns in which the senators and representatives have invested their time, energy and money. It means enlarging the size of districts.

As with most compromises, it was not unanimously supported. However, the other parts of the plan call for passage of the permanent reapportionment plan which includes a provision requiring the election of all members from single member districts. This requirement of mandatory subdistricting was a key aim.

Republicans said they expected the Democrats to accept the compromise since it was one of three alternatives that party presented to GOP members earlier.

Shorthand Reporting

In the United States today, there are only 11,000 shorthand reporters; 2/5 or 400 are women. Recording history as a shorthand reporter lends itself to many opportunities in a challenging field. Court reporters and free lance reporters can earn from $5,000 a year to $18,000 a year depending on their volume of business and their desire to earn money.

As the need for more accurate records in government and business grows, there will also be a greater demand for shorthand reporters. Waterloo Human Rights Commission
Ronald James, director of Waterloo Human Rights Commission, has issued a report of the first six months of operation. During this time the commission has been acquainting itself with the community and the latter with the commission through television appearances, brochures, speeches and a skit "I, Too, Sing America," with members of Waterloo Youth Council in the cast.

There have been complaints on housing discrimination which have been investigated and as well as other areas of alleged discrimination. Lectures of instruction have been prepared and presented on human relations to new police recruits; there has been a sharing of experiences with teachers and Board of Education regarding "quality integrated education".

Some employment has been secured for minority groups in areas previously unknown. A day for Mr. James is always a busy one, often ending with evening commitments.

Officers of the commission are Charles Hansen, chairman, Rev. Eugene H. Williams, vice chairman and Mrs. Martha Nash, secretary, recently elected.

Civil Liberties Union

Am. Jewish Congress
Defend Citizen Adam

New York, N.Y.—The American Civil Liberties Union and its affiliated New York Civil Liberties Union pledged March 2 to aid any court test that Adam Clayton Powell may bring to challenge the House of Representatives' decision to exclude him from the 90th Congress.

The ACLU and the NYCLU called the House action a "mockery of due process which resembles more an emotional blood letting than an understanding of the vital constitutional issues at stake."

The Civil Liberties Union groups asserted that the Select Committee which considered the Powell case acted in illegally going beyond the mandate of the House to deal only with the threshold issue of seating when it mixed the issue of Powell's right to be seated with the issue of punishment. The House exclusion of Powell merely compounded the basic constitutional defect in the case.

AJC

American Jewish Congress called the action an "unconstitutional atrocity."

HEALTH FOR ALL

Chest X-Ray: Pictures Don't Lie

"Tell you the truth, Doc," said Felix, "I feel just fine. Don't know why I'm here, except the wife nagged me into coming around for a checkup."

"Mmm," said the doctor, peering at Felix's record. Two years since his last visit. "Well, let's have a look."

Blood pressure? Fine. Heart? Not a bit bad. Weight? Hadn't put on an ounce. The doctor nodded, then listened thoughtfully to his chest.

"You say you've felt well? No minor complaints? Cough or anything?"

"Come to think of it, I have been coughing a little since last summer. But just in the morning. Didn't even think to mention it."

"Plenty of pep lately?"

"Well, now you mention it," said Felix, "guess I've lost a little of the old get-up-and-go. But none of us are getting younger, are we, heh, heh."

He started to put on his shirt, but the doctor shook his head. "Step over here, please," Felix moved to the X-ray machine and dutifully posed.

The chest X-ray looked suspicious.

The Light Touch

If you watch a game, it's fun. If you play it, it's recreation. If you work at it, it's golf.

Old stockbrokers never die. They just have trouble with their tickers . . .

Some folks are like teabags. Don't know their own strength, till they're in hot water!

The effect of the moon on the tide is as nothing compared to its effect on the untied . . .

Pretty soon they'll combine the electric blanket and the toaster to pop us out of bed in the morning!

And when the results from a couple of other tests were in there was no longer any doubt, Felix had tuberculosis—not terribly advanced but not in the beginning stage either.

"You'll get well," the doctor assured him. "Too bad you didn't come in earlier. But you're lucky. We've got medicines that will stop TB. You'll need to take them every day for a year or longer."

That's how it is with TB. You can have the active disease without knowing your sick. Which is why it's important to have that annual medical checkup, with a tuberculin skin test to tell whether any TB germs have lodged in your body, or a chest X-ray to show whether disease is affecting your lungs. JULIAN BOND'S DES MOINES APPEARANCE, Mar. 31, at the YWCA, Women's League for Peace, is expected to draw a capacity crowd! Bond is a Georgia State Representative. I like best this description: "Bond is very well born. Is scholarly but after his second year in college quit school and became SNCC public relations director. He is quiet, neither argues nor talks much about the 'Movement'. In-expresses his deepest feelings in his poetry, which has been published in several anthologies. He is totally committed. Is handsome, courteous, and gentle in manner—these qualities make him welcome wherever he goes! Bond never cuts himself off from the lowliest and most deprived Negroes. His district is composed of students, faculty, and many poor Negroes. They've elected him twice and seemed determined to keep on electing him."

JOHN A. BURRELL'S story of his ten week California vacation reads much like an Iowa Who's Who: MR. AND MRS. ROY VAUGHN really set the pace for meeting Iowan's. He was to dinner at their home several times and attended a tea given by Mrs. Vaughn's club. SISTER MARIAN BURRELL BATES, daughters, Toni and Marie, entertained John. Now married, the girls have children between them.

REV. JAMES CLEVELAND was featured in a concert with Billy Preston at the organ. Cleveland's original group appeared with him. This was John's first formal concert.

John and daughter, Carolyn, visited MGM and saw movie-making. This was as guests of Mr. Rissien, son of the owner of Rissien Window Cleaners here—now an official with MGM.

DOROTHY PRESTON HAMILTON had John out to Sunday dinner. He escorted Dorothy and his daughter, Carolyn Burrell Washington, to a formal. He reported a great time. McQUERRY sent back fruit picked from their backyard. John reports MR. AND MRS. VOYSE (SCAMP) they have a lovely place.

KATHRINE AND NORMAN MAJOR—she is the former Kathrine Parker—had John to dinner. Accompanied by a Mrs. Andrews, they visited the Wm. S. Hart Museum, saw the horse he last rode in the movies—it is now 43 years old and makes its home there in the mountains, the site of Hart's home.

John flew to San Francisco where he visited Minneapolis' friends who took him to The Playboy Club—and Big Al's (Topless Entertaining). Next night motored to Palo Alto where the group attended The Links' Party said to have been the season's social high light. (John insists it was all of that as he can prove by pictures.)

LAVONNE MARTIN WATKINS gave a creole dinner party at her home. Sisters Betty, Mary, and their mother, Delona, and their husbands all attended.

FORMER IOWAN, ARTHUR MALONE AND WIFE, GOLDIE THOMAS MALONE and sisters Iver Thomas Davis, Pearl and Al Thomas and the Thomas twins next entertained John.

Memorial Services For Regine Siedler

Memorial services were held at First Unitarian Church Thursday night, Mar. 3, for Miss Regina Siedler, staff member of Des Moines Child Guidance Center, Psychology Consultant to Roadside Settlement and the Des Moines Speech and Hearing Center.

Miss Siedler, though not known to all our readers, was most beloved by those with whom she worked or came in contact. Her basic philosophy of life was that neither heredity, nor environment, nor the circumstances in which one finds oneself can stop you if you have the will to do. You are first of all a person. This is what gives one the will to do—remembering I am who I am; I am a person. This philosophy is workable and applicable to the struggle of all minorities! It is this thought which gives impetus and direction to attain.

In the service Mr. John Ishom, Unitarian pastor presided. Describing Miss Siedler as a many splendored being, he likened her unto nature and its mysteries. He stated that neither tragic personal grief and sorrow, nor the unspeakable cruel fate of loved ones and friends, availed to break her steadfast conviction to struggle to overcome evil with good, to subdue hate with love, and to replace ugliness with beauty. She taught that the abundant life is not in possession of things but of the full spirit.

The next speakers represented the various phases of her life: Mrs. Esther Frankle, a psychologist, represented her professional field; Mr. Emil Duetsch, a friend from her homeland whose tie remained strong in her new land; Miss Hazel Larson, President of The Altrusa Club.

She gave her knowledge and strength as she lived, her personal belongings in passing, and at the close of her life her body for research.

The audience was comprised of approximately two hundred friends there to honor her.

THERE'S NO POINT IN EMPHASIZING DIFFERENCES

Roy Wilkins, in an article in the Des Moines Sunday Register, says that South Carolina is moving ahead in its program of desegregation faster than other southern states. This, to those who have been acquainted with the Negro's struggle for human rights for many years and who live away from it, comes as a surprise, for long it has been noted as one of the worst.

He attributes much of this progress to the present governor, Robert E. McNair, who from the time of his inauguration, has worked to assure Negroes their rights. An excellent indication of his attitude may be found in this part of his inaugural address:

"... I intend to... see that the good name of our state is not tarnished—either by infringement of human rights, or by flagrant disregard for law and order... Today South Carolina has no time for obsession with either 'black power' or 'white backlash'... this is not the time—and South Carolina is not the place—for those who are preoccupied with extremism or petty frustration."

This statement of principles is a far cry from the policy of those groups who import such people as the Rockwells to Iowa to let students "hear the other side". We do better by emphasizing the things with which we agree otherwise someone gets rubbed the other way.

HONOR TO GREAT
ATHLETE—GENTLEMEN

Sam Jones, a member of the Boston Celtics basketball team, has been chosen head coach of the Brandeis University at Waltham, Massachusetts basketball team.

A star performer, Jones has made a great contribution to the success of the Celtics in winning championships. This is commendable.

But to be chosen head coach of the great university, the officials saw in him the ability to lead and teach men as well as play basketball. The people of Boston gave him a line tribute in a ceremony between halftime at the game Sunday.

As more school officials drop their foolish notions, more Negroes will be hired as coaches as they continue to make great contributions to sports.

POWELL AND HOFFA
MAKE GOOD TWINS

Elmer Booker, writing in Ebony Magazine, spent several pages of the magazine extolling the fine qualities of Adam Clayton Powell along with the fine things he is doing for the people of his district. Judging from the bad reputation of Harlem, the heart of his district, as one of the ghettos in the country, Powell has not done the job he or his supporters claim.

It reminds one of James Hoffa, head of the Teamsters Union. He was reputed to have done much toward building the membership of the teamsters union and "bringing home the bacon from negotiation tables."

But like Booker's article on Powell, Hoffa's supporter played the desirable things he did. Eventually his luck ran out.

Powell, the Baptist preacher, presented a poor picture in the article with a cigarette hanging off his lips and a glass of Scotch in his hand. Not that we are opposed to smoking and drinking Scotch, but a minister parading with such a display of pride doesn't look well.

CONTINENTAL FEATURES

There was an article in one of last week's Registers that stirred up a flock of memories. It was about Chet Brewer, former local athlete and pitcher for the KANSAS CITY MONARCHS. The writer told about how good Brewer really was. We always thought Chet was of major league caliber, but we didn't realize just how tough the guy was.

Brewer and Family

Ours is one of those friendships that lasts a lifetime. We always argue that a person is permitted about three of those friends during his stay on earth and Brewer would have to be the second one of ours. We struck up a friendship in the early days of camp. In the early twenties your writer had never seen a tennis racket before, but for some reason Chet and I teamed up to win the tennis doubles that year. You can guess who won the thing.

Then later we became busy with tennis while Chet turned to baseball. The guy was tall and could really throw bullets.

A couple of our prized trophies are two autographed baseballs from the opening games of the NEGRO NATIONAL LEAGUE seasons of 1927 and 1928. Our guy was the starting pitcher in both games and won them.

There was a number of Negro pitchers around there who could have made the majors. Satchel Paige, of course. Then there were ANDY COOKER, BULLET ROGAN, MENDEZ, the Cuban, a guy named GATEWOOD out of Indianapolis and another fellow from Pittsburgh named SIMMONS. There may have been more that we just didn't know about.

This ties in with a story we read recently in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE that Brewer nearly became the first Negro in the majors. He was to have had a tryout with the CHICAGO CUBS team out on the west coast. But the prejudiced manager wouldn't even give the guy a scout. He was fired at the end of the season, but the damage was done.

Six Negro Basketball Stars Are Named To Look All-America Teams

New York—Six Negro, college stars have been named to Look Magazine's 10-man All America team, picked by the United States Basketball Writers Association.

The players chosen were: Lew Alcindor, UCLA; Jim Walker, Providence; Westley Unseld, Louisville; Mel Daniels, New Mexico; Elvin Hayes, Houston and Clem Haskins, Western Kentucky.

The selections were made by the writers' nine-man awards committee representing the eight NCAA districts.

Others chosen for All America honors were: Bob Lloyd, Rutgers; Don May, Dayton; Larry Miller, North Carolina and Bob Verga, Duke.

Sophomore

The much acclaimed Alcindor is the only sophomore named to the team, which is comprised of four juniors and five seniors. Walker, one of the top scorers and best ball-handlers in the country, is the lone repeater of those picked.

Unseld, a rugged 6' 8" rebounder is described as "Chairman of the Boards" in the Look article. Clem "The Gem" Haskins' effortless style gained national recognition for him on a three-year basis, despite the fact that an injury sidelined him a major part of this season.

Picks

The Basketball Writer's Association picks are almost identical to those named Wednesday, Mar. 1, when Alcindor headed an all-Negro college basketball all-American team.

They were Alcindor, Jim Walker of Providence, Westley Unseld of Louisville, Clem Haskins of W. Kentucky and Elvin Hayes of Houston. Iowa's Sam Williams and Iowa State's Don Smith were among 10 honorable mention choices.

Bob Verga of Duke, Ron Widby of Tennessee, Larry Miller of North Carolina, Bob Lloyd of Rutgers and Louis Dampier of Kentucky were named to the second team. Dampier made the first team all-America last year.

Tax Questions and Answers

Q—Where do I report money from a pension?

A—File Schedule B with your Form 1040 to report this income.

Q—We paid sales tax on a color TV as well as a new car last year. Can we add this to the amount shown in the sales tax table?

A—You may add the sales tax paid on the car to the amount shown in the sales tax table but not the tax paid on the television set. Of course, if you can show you actually paid an amount greater than shown by the table, you may deduct this greater amount.

Q—Our son works a paper route. Will he have to file an income tax return?

A—A return is required if he earned $600 or more for the year. He should also file a return to get a refund if his income was less than $600 and income tax was withheld from his pay.

Q—Looking over some of the settlement costs I paid when I bought my house, I noticed an item for county transfer tax and another for revenue stamps. Are these deductible?

A—No, these costs are not deductible when paid in connection with the purchase of a house for personal use but they should be added into the cost basis of your home. If the house was purchased for rental or income producing purposes then these expenses could be deducted as a business expense.

The two main items a homeowner may deduct are real estate taxes and interest paid on mortgage loans.

Q—What's the Social Security tax rate on self-employment income?

A—Net earnings from self-employment.

So a couple of years later JACKIE ROBINSON got his chance and you know the rest.

We think luck plays a part in our destiny and it really had a part in this fellow's. Chet is still active in baseball, scouting for a major league team, trying to find another Chet Brewer.

ment are taxed at a rate of 6.15 percent for 1966. This rate goes up to 6.4 percent for 1967 earnings.

Q—Do you have to be 65 to take advantage of retirement income credit?

A—No you don't. If you retire before reaching age 65 under a public retirement system you may be eligible to use this provision of the tax law.

Q—I read in the papers where some taxpayers have gotten their tax refunds already. Are you getting them out faster than last year?

A—The time it takes to process complete, accurate returns is little different from last year. However, taxpayers who file early will find that refunds will be processed faster.

To avoid delays in receiving refunds, be sure to check whether all the information required has been supplied. Missing signatures, W-2 forms, Social Security numbers and supporting forms and schedules will all hold up expected refunds.
