Lawyers Ask Court for Ala. Marching Reversal

Demonstrations Are Cause for King Suit; Alabama Is Defendant

New York, N. Y. — NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF) attorneys will ask reversal of an Alabama Supreme Court ruling that held that Dr. Martin Luther King and his associates might be punished for allegedly disobeying an injunction issued to prohibit demonstration marches. The marches were held in April, 1963 and led to Congressional passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

KING

Argument

The attorneys argue that there was no violation of the court order against "unlawful demonstrations" because the demonstrations violated no valid laws. They also contend that Birmingham's parade permit law is unconstitutional, that Alabama's Court of Appeals has agreed that the Birmingham law is void in another case involving the same incidents. They stress that Rev. King and his associates may not be punished for failing to obtain permits under this law.

Support

The United States Department of Justice, which prosecuted Lewis, has filed a friend of the court brief and will orally argue, supporting Rev. King's position.

Rev. King's case grew out of the Good Friday and Easter Sunday 1963 demonstrations of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights in Birmingham, Ala.

The convicted ministers, in addition to Rev. King, include Revs. Ralph Abernathy, Wyatt Tee Walker, A. D. King (brother of Dr. King), Fred L. Shuttlesworth, J. W. Hayes, T. L. Fisher and J. F. Porter. Seven other defendants, Revs. Andrews, Young and James Bevel, were freed by the Alabama courts.

King issued this statement: "Alabama has made clear its determination to defy the law of the land. Most of its public officials, its legislative body and many of its law enforcement agents have openly defied the desegregation decision of the Supreme Court."

From Capital Hill

The Republican-controlled House took another step to resolve the reapportionment matter this week. It amended and passed a resolution calling for a state commission to come in with a plan to create a 100-ate, was approved on a near party-member House and 50-member Senate vote of 83-34.

4,000 questionnaires were sent out, one thousand to Forest Hills and 3,000 to Walnut.

The committee has until Friday to decide what will be constructed in the area, as pertaining to housing. Monthly meeting will be tonight (Thursday), 7:30 p.m., at the Walnut Center.

In the working committee are four groups, health and welfare, housing and physical development, education and employment and boundaries.

America's Families Can't Afford Castles

Rochester, N.Y. — "Negro leadership still is groping for the proper strategy" in its efforts to assure full freedom for the Negro, Dr. Samuel M. Nabrit of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said, Thursday, Mar. 9, at the University of Rochester.

Nabrit, who is on leave from his post as president of Texas Southern University in Houston, is the first Negro appointed to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Speaking at the fourth of the University's Frederick Douglass Sesquicentennial Lectures, Nabrit said, "It is not sufficient to have a few tokens, in individuals or families, of success in America. We cannot afford a caste system which equates race with unemployment, the ghetto, poor schools, underachievement, delinquency, crime, disease, and a high death rate."

Republicans See Chance for Gains in Coming Election in '68

Louisville, Ky. — A top Negro Republican declared Saturday, Mar. 11, that at this juncture of the civil rights movement "we must take the political route, utilizing the full potential of a viable two-party system that is fueled by a balance of power."

Clarence L. Townes, Jr., special assistant to the chairman, Republican National Committee, made the remarks in a political workshop at a three-day, seven-state Leadership and Training Conference sponsored by the NAACP.

Victory

Townes told the workshop that "the grass-roots political action which you generate in your states, cities and communities, will not only determine who represents you locally, but who will eventually represent you nationally."

He said that one of the major Negro victories in the 1966 elections was that of Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts. "We've shattered forever the myth that Negroes can only be elected by predominantly Negro electorates," he said.

Praise

Townes also praised the NAACP for its accomplishments over the years in the integration struggle, but cautioned that "it is time that we emphasized that integration must be understood not only as the mere mingling of bodies, but as participation in, and shared control over the major institutional spheres of American life."

Promotes Equal Housing; All But Owner Occupied; Franklin Is Optimistic

A bill prohibiting discrimination in the rental or sale of housing here has been introduced into the Senate and House of Representatives Monday.

The bill will make it unlawful for persons to have been refused apartments or general real estate.

"It covers everything except duplexes," said Rep. A. June Franklin, a sponsor.

Two-family units in which one is inhabited by the owner and fewer than six room apartment houses come under the exceptions.

Lawful

Another type of living shelter free from the bill will be the home of an owner who has been living in his house for more than six months. The law still would apply if this owner sold his house through a real estate agent but would not apply if he sold it personally.

"I think the people of Iowa are ready for this bill," Rep. Franklin went on. "I think they will accept it and it will pass."

Race, color, religion and national origin will be factors in possible prohibited discrimination in the sales.

Sponsors

Sponsors of the bill are Democratic Senators John Ely, Cedar Rapids; George O'Malley, William Denman and William Reichardt, all of Des Moines; Andrew Frommelt, Dubuque; Joseph Cassidy, Walcott; Gene Condon, Waterloo; Merle Hagedorn, Royal, and Gilbert Klefsstad, Council Bluffs, and Republicans Tom Riley, Cedar Rapids, and David Stanley, Muscatine.

The bill directly states "It shall be unlawful for any owner, or person acting for an owner, of rights to housing, with or without compensation, including but not limited to persons licensed as real estate brokers or salesmen, attorneys, auctioneers, agents or representatives by power of attorney or appointment, or any person acting under court order, deed of trust or will . . ."

Those sponsoring it in the House are Reed, Franklin, Johnston, Palmer, Tapscott, McIntyre, Radl, Sorg, Renda, Beardsley, Doderer, Gallagher, Andersen, Gannon, Bowin, Bennett, Pelton, Van Nostrand and Kilsholm.

Aretha Franklin's "Take It Like You Give It" doesn't have her current coo-pub "Never Loved a Man the way I Love You" (which was publicized here about a month before it hit the DM radio waves; oh well), but "Why Was I Born," has the prospects of being an album hit. . . And my aces Peaches and Herb: on their new album, they sing the traditional sob songs, but these sweetmeats put a meaning to the words that make you start thinking why you had to do something way back then and now you wished you hadn't. And why you were glad you did.

Lowell Fulson, by the way, will be in Omaha Mar. 17, 9-1 a.m., at the Music Box, 19th and Capitol. He'll be backed by a piano, bass drum and two guitars. He's the sweetmeat who sings "Tramp" (Joe Tex hit up here).

Go To Playhouse Mon. See "Peter, Peter"

Children from the Walnut Hill Opportunity Center were treated to the "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater" play at the Community Playhouse recently.

Providing transportation were David Elkin, Mrs. Merion Jenkins, Roger Perryman, Adam B. Johnson, Don McDermit and Mrs. Paul Wilson.

Monday, Mar. 13, 28 young people were invited to the West Des Moines Center, where they were served refreshments.

Speaker was the Rev. James M. Harris of Mt. Hebron Baptist Church.

Providing transportation were O. C. Whitehead, Mrs. James Campbell and Lawrence Dixon.

CAPITAL

The House's main amendment called for preserving the terms of those 30 Senators who were elected to four-year terms in 1966. The House took the view that the constitution does not allow for short cutting terms.

It is now up to the Senate, now. The Senate passed and sent to the House a highly controversial bill which would allow private school students to ride public school buses. The bill, which saw both Republicans and Democrats on both sides of the issue, would have the public school buses pick up private school students and drop them off enroute to the school or at the public school.

The proposal carried by a 36-26 margin.

The House, after considerable heated discussion, also passed a bill permitting 65-foot-long trucks on Iowa highways provided the truck-trailer is pulling two or more trailers. This was approved by a 70-50 margin and was sent to the Senate. Most of the debate centered upon the safety aspects of the so-called "double bottom" trucks. The term double bottom comes from the requirement that there would be at least two separate trailers, hooked together by a hinge.

The House turned down a bill which could have ended daylight savings time in Iowa. The bill was beaten 69-45.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Maybe it's just a coincidence, maybe something more. Of the two prime health problems that have been commanding most headline space for some time, both are in the same general health area—RD, or respiratory disease.

The two problems are, of course, cigarette smoking and air pollution. The fact that they are being treated as such urgent public issues indicates that at last, however belatedly, recognition is being given to the importance of the breathing organs as a major battleground in the fight against disease.

But right now, as the hows, whys and wherefores of air pollution and cigarette smoking are debated in terms of high policy, their practical significance to the ordinary citizen may tend to get lost. The really pertinent question remains, "How does all this effect me personally, and what do I do about it?"

Fortunately, there are answers available—and good ones. Several years ago a voluntary health organization launched a vigorous program to educate the public about the rudimentary symptoms of chronic respiratory disease. The watchword was (and still is): "Cough too much? Short of breath? You may have a respiratory disease. Don't take chances—see your doctor." This simple warning is still being sounded the year round by the National Tuberculosis Association, which devotes its energies to the struggle against all respiratory diseases including TB.

Only a doctor can tell for certain whether cigarette smoke or polluted air is having a discernible effect on your breathing apparatus. But the obvious danger signs are those noted above: a cough that won't go away or keeps coming back; and shortness of breath that isn't due to unusual exertion. If you have either symptom, you owe it to yourself to consult a doctor.

Your Christmas Seal association has literature about the effects of smoking and air pollution. Ask for it; it's free.

A seven week pre-apprentice school for union bricklayers will start on Mar. 27, in Des Moines. A similar program for non-union trainees will begin in Storm Lake, also on Mar. 27. There is no tuition charge, and subsistence allowances are available through local Employment Service offices. Interested individuals should apply at local Employment Service offices no later than Mar. 21.

Applicants should be: 17-25 years old; high school graduates or have an equivalence (GED); physically fit; citizens or in the process of being naturalized; able to pass an appropriate aptitude and interest test; and should have a valid motor vehicle operating license.

A person who has successfully completed the 7-week pre-apprenticeship program is then eligible for training as a bricklayer apprentice. The term of the apprenticeship is based on an average work year of 40 weeks, with a minimum of 4 years of on-the-job training and 56 hours of related instruction. An apprentice bricklayer generally receives 50 to 60 percent of the bricklayer journeyman's wage rate, which ranges from $4.20 to $4.90 an hour. The percentage increases with the amount of on-the-job experience the individual obtains during his apprenticeship.

The Light Touch . . .

We know a fellow who talks too much: needs just a touch of lock-jaw . . .

He also likes to travel but only to places whose names he can pronounce. Why go, he says, if you can't tell people where you've been?

To take the census in Switzerland, they just count the echoes and divide by the number of mountains.

Hear about the newlywed who loved his wife so much he went home for all his coffee breaks?

Sometimes you can stop a red-hot argument with one cold fact!

The fact is that here at Williams Pharmacy, 1103 University Avenue, phone 243-1253 we have the facilities to fill your physician's prescriptions promptly and precisely. Why not stop in soon and see for yourself? You'll be more than welcome . . .

ROBERT WRIGHT, JR., IS THE TOWN'S PRINCE. Everyone was so very proud as he escorted his lovely mother, Mrs. Robert (Bernice) Wright, Sr. to the dance floor at the Kappa's Ball! And let's say it! "Bernice dances superbly!"

OUTSTANDINGLY CLEVER AS WELL AS LOVELY WIVES at the Kappas Black and White Ball were Mrs. Paul Morton (he is Nathaniel (Ed) Morton) and Mrs. Nancy Robinson (he is Frank (Toby) Robinson, Jr.). Paula and Nancy wore black and white gowns! Their gowns were unusual and altogether lovely. They achieved the almost unachievable in that they fulfilled the ball's color scheme.

LIFELINE! YOURS TRULY WAS STANDING IN A HOSPITAL CORRIDOR almost directly in front of the front doors! The time was about midnight. A young man knocked stormily on the locked doors, gesturing to Yours Truly to open the doors. With a wave of her right hand, Yours Truly signaled him to a side entrance through which she had just entered. He again knocked stormily for a moment, but suddenly stopping, lifted to view two plastic bags of blood. Yours Truly bolted down the steps, unlocked the door, realizing the blood was for her friend's daughter. All thoughts forgotten as to whose door was being unlocked by an unauthorized outsider!

Art Exhibit Held By Nancy Link

Another Nancy Link Art Exhibit was held recently in The Art Cellar, studio of Artist Carle Hedges and located at 66th and University Avenue, in West Des Moines. Mrs. Link is the wife of Larry Link and resides on a farm in Maxwell, Iowa.

Persons interviewed had these comments:
Miss Sherri Levine: "I really enjoyed the show. Nancy is very petite and her work is very much like her. She is quite versatile. The work on the black is my favorite style. She excels in that area! I heard so many good comments about her work. Although in my own home I like bold art, I like Nancy's work!"

Mrs. Ruth Stokesberry of the City Library Public Relations Dept., found "Her colors were very misty. Her pictures looked very much like Renoirs. I liked her still lifes. I had very pronounced reactions to the small pictures. I would like to have a small one of a pot of violets. I am so glad that I had the opportunity to appreciate this part of her personality. She paints with considerable skill in an impressionistic style. Reminds one of Renoir. She says that she does use the same five colors on her palette as were used by Renoir. I like her entire range of techniques."

Dwight Saunders, Economist and well-known player and singer of folk music, declaring himself. Essentially a non-artist," had these comments: "I liked the show: It was enough of the traditional kind of art that I could appreciate and enjoy it. It had enough of the modern art feeling that it was not purely representational. The thing I most appreciated at the show was the picture of the little ballet slippers which she had done with this innumerable stacking of glazes! These I liked best of all of them!"

Mrs. Elaine Estes, First Assistant in the Library's Reference Department, commented: "I was very impressed. I thought that her special use of color made her landscapes light and refreshing, particularly her greens in the trees. The fluidity of the streams awes quite real. The tiny flowers were charming."

Des Moines is aware of artist Nancy Link.

Minted Pears With Lamb Patties Lend Spring-Like Touch To Menu

●It's the extra touch that makes the difference between a "ho hum" meal and exciting one. Such an extra touch is minted pears served with lamb patties. Tender, juicy canned Bartlett pears are always refreshing, but when accented with an ever-so-delicate flavor of mint, they become an eating adventure. And, of course, they're the perfect accent for lamb.

Canned Bartletts bring a light, spring-like touch to a meal no matter how they're served. Because they keep their shape so well and their flavor blends with almost any food combination, they can be served in innumerable interesting ways without becoming monotonous.

Salad-wise, the uses for canned Bartlett pears are limitless. They're delicious in molded salads; they combine well with either fresh or cooked fruits and vegetables in tossed salads; and are delicious with meat and seafood.

If desserts are your problem, a canned Bartlett pear half or two chilled and swimming in its own delicious juice is always a good solution. If you have time for something a bit more elaborate, you might try a pear sundae, a cobbler, pie or upside down cake.

Minted Pears With Lamb Patties Lend Spring-Like Touch To Menu

And remember, in addition to being one of the most appetizing fruits available, pears are also valuable nutrition-wise for they contribute important amounts of vitamins and minerals to the diet.

MINTED PEARS
WITH LAMB PATTIES
6 canned Bartlett pear halves
1 cup pear syrup
½ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons chopped fresh or dried mint
1½ pounds ground lamb
6 strips bacon

Mix together pear syrup, vinegar, honey and mint in saucepan. Heat to boiling. Pour over pear halves and let stand for several hours or overnight. Press lamb in to 6 round patties, wrap with strips of bacon, fasten with toothpicks. Place under broiler, 3 to 5 inches from heat source and broil 8 to 10 minutes on each side or until done. Drain pears from sauce and arrange on large platter with meat patties. Garnish with radishes and parsley. Serve with remainder of mint sauce; if desired, sieve to remove mint leaves. Serves 6.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Can your hair be damaged from brushing, alone?

All hair becomes damaged from exposure to sun and natural elements. Certain greasy compounds and many chemicals, improperly used, also take their toll...not to mention simple attempts at beautifying the hair with any brush not made of natural bristles. The results are brittleness, breakage, dry and dull looking hair.

Your professional beautician knows how artificial bristles actually brush away a great deal of the "lubricants" of the hair that give it body, lustre and protection. And trained beauticians claim that nothing beats Clairol® condition* Beauty Pack Treatment for overcoming brittleness, dryness and breakage... leaving hair lively and easy to manage. condition* is an easy-to-work-with creme which can even be applied during a chemical straightening retouch to prevent drying of hair that has been previously relaxed. condition* is the ultimate in repairing deep-damage. And, when time is a factor for their customers, hairdressers turn to new Clairol® Hair Dew*—the lotion conditioner that penetrates so fast many think of it as an instant conditioner. When applied regularly by your beautician, Clairol Hair Dew adds body, softens and gives a glowing new look to your hair that many friends will notice and admire.

Damage can come from using brushes with artificial bristles. But damage to every woman's hair comes from so many other causes that all human hair (including wigs) needs to be revitalized periodically. Visit your professional beautician and ask this expert to check the condition of your hair.

Only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

Lost Dog Upsets East Side Family; Zsa Zsa

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Cooper, of 1344 E. 18th st. ct., have lost their three-month-old puppy and they are miserable.

"We've combed the area, alerted the police, the Humane Society and the Animal Rescue League, but there is nothing to go on," said Mrs. Cooper.

The animal escaped last Saturday when the Coopers' four-year-old daughter opened the car door in which the family was riding, in the vicinity of E. 17th St. Ct.

"She's just seemed to have vanished into thin air," said the distraught Mrs. Cooper.

The puppy, silver-beige, and untrimmed, responds to the name Zsa-Zsa.

A valuable animal, she is one of just three such poodles in the United States.

"We even have talked with Logan school and alerted the neighborhood postmen to be on the lookout," she said. "Won't someone help us locate our dog?"

GOV. HUGHES MAKES
GOOD APPOINTMENT

The Iowa senate has confirmed the nomination by Gov. Hughes of Rep. Cecil Reed of Cedar Rapids as a member of the Employment Security Commission. The appointment was a welcome one from many angles.

Gov. Hughes has been criticized for his failure to appoint a Negro to an outstanding job during his four years in office, thus dropping the group back when none were appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Will Parker of the board of parole. He deserves a hand for coming up with an appointment.

The commission has been criticized for several years for its failure to deal fairly with the employment plight of the Negro emphasized by the punitive action against an employee who tried to change this policy.

Reed, an outstanding citizen of his home town of Cedar Rapids, knows something about the labor problem and will represent the people with fairness and distinction.

Here in Iowa, the Negro population is not large but good things are happening to them because there has been more cooperation between the races than in most states.

COUNCIL MOVES AGAINST
FREEWAY TRESPASSING

The Des Moines city council has at last decided to enforce the law against pedestrians who walk on or across the freeway. The law against the practice is not new for signs are posted in prominent places notifying the public.

This effort is long overdue for children especially are climbing the fences and crossing at regular intervals. It is remarkable that nobody has been hurt—so far.

Crossings are not too far apart and there is no reason why the public cannot use the regular bridges even though, in some instances, it takes a bit of extra time.

This move may seem trivial to some but to watch some of the youngsters climb the fences and duck between the speeding cars, is a bad sight to see.

SOME PEOPLE ARE NEVER SATISFIED

Some people seem never satisfied with their lot even though placed in one of their choosing.

During World War I, many complained that most Negro soldiers served in engineer or labor battalions, with but few in combat units. This was a far cry from the Spanish-American war when many served at the front with distinction.

Some changes took place in World War II and the Korean conflict. The pendulum has begun to swerve the other way.

Today, in Vietnam, Negroes are serving with distinction at the front drawing praise from General Westmoreland, the commanding officer.

There are those who complain now that the Negro soldier is bearing too large a share of the fighting in proportion to population and have appealed to members of congress and the defense officials to stop it.

Sure, what is said about the proportion of fighters is true. On the other hand, officials say that more Negro soldiers re-enlist, more enlist for service.

But, be that as it may, and we cringe to hear of American casualties from day to day, we are in the mess and we must help get out. The armed services has done a lot for those who served and nobody has set a quota on this.

This is the bad time for a guy who writes one of these things like this deal of ours. There isn't much basketball except the tournaments, wrestling is just above over. Baseball hasn't started yet and indoor track hardly fills any space. So what can a fellow do? The other day we ran into CLARKE YEAGER, who was quite a semi-pro outfielder in the twenties and thirties and maybe a little longer. The guy had an idea that he would like to assemble all the old baseball players in town and have a dinner and some speakers. We haven't seen him since our talk but he sounded as if he really meant it. It would be nice. Then another guy came up with the same idea about the football players who played with the old MOROONS.

There isn't as much new pro activity on because most of the local teams are playing in local leagues and not too many people like the games they play well enough to pile into a car after work and ride seventy miles to play a game, ride back and then work the next day. The old Senior pro athletes of the twenties are exceptional probably because they had to love the games they played.

You worked all day and then went to practice three or four times a week. You spent Saturday and Sunday along with holidays riding piled seven or eight in a five passenger car for all the way from fifty to two hundred miles. You played your heart out and maybe you got two or three dollars. If you got four you were doing really well. Then the pitchers and catchers were worth a little more. The case of football we practiced four nights a week and we played games on Wednesday nights and Sunday afternoons. Add four nights' practice to that and you had to like the game or you couldn't stay out there.

Our basketball teams were made up of fellows who worked. We were on the road about five nights a week winning about nine out of every ten games. This meant meeting after work, riding to our games and playing, getting back anywhere from midnight to two a.m. Then we had to work the next day.

Wonder if a fellow could get a program like that going today. Maybe he could, but the kids probably would not play for fun as we did.

Illness Takes Henry
Clay Bueford Sat.

Funeral services were held for Henry Clay Bueford, 66, of 821 9th street, who died Saturday at Iowa Lutheran Hospital of heart failure. He had been ill six months.

Born in Hattingsburg, Ark., he had lived in Des Moines 45 years. He was a stationary building engineer.

Survivors include his wife, Berthina, mother, Mrs. Claudia Bueford, of Des Moines; sons, William of New York City, Phillip and Benjamin of Des Moines; daughters, Mrs. Cora Lee Brown of Des Moines, Mrs. Henrietta Shaw of Denver, Colo., nda Mrs. Ruby Volinier of Ankeny; sisters, Mrs. Mordeau Rhone; Mrs. Hiawatha Pottery, Mrs. Pinky B. Goode and Mrs. Tyawayah Bryson of Des Moines; brothers Willie and Sequoyah, both of Des Moines; and Omega of Chicago, Ill., 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Of course, we didn't always intend to play for fun, but it often turned out that way. And if you think these professional ball clubs have pressure because they are playing for thousands of dollars, you should be playing a game where the difference between winning and losing is a meal or go hungry. Or maybe having enough money to pay the driver who was hauling us around.

When you know an error can cost you a couple of hamburgers and a bottle of pop, that is really playing under pressure with the other guys on our team depending on the soul thing for their share. So you didn't make too many errors.

The Bystander received this letter recently from Mrs. Agnes Snow of Emporia, Kan. A former resident of Des Moines, she taught Sunday School at Corinthian Baptist Church and also worked in the Central District.

Dear Editor,

... What lifted me was my friend Mrs. Beatrice Bailey. I have heard from her once a week. Sometimes I don't and can't write but she writes words to encourage me anyway. I am in a wheel chair and it is helping me. God bless her and family. I was thrilled to see her (picture). Just heard from her and she never mentioned it. I have so many friends in Des Moines... can hear Mrs. Mable Roman singing now. I used to come and go in Des Moines, but can't now. Still enjoy the Bystander... sure enjoy reading what old friends are doing.

I have been ill off and on since 1960. Mrs. Agnes D. Snow

Tax Questions and Answers

Q—Where can I find a good tax man to help me with my return?

A—Local accounting and legal societies will be able to provide a list of qualified tax advisers in this area. If you just have several questions about your return you may be able to get the help you need from your local IRS office.

Q—My wife earned only a few hundred dollars in salary last year. Does she have to file a return on this income?

A—A return is not required from an individual if his total income is less than $600. However, if you and your wife file a joint return all her income must be reported on the return.

Q—Can I deduct the Federal tax shown on my monthly phone bill?

A—No. Federal excise taxes are not deductible as an itemized deduction.

Q—I sold shares of stock in a company I have been investing in for years. How do I identify the purchase of the shares I sold since I bought them at various prices?

A—The principle applies here when no other price identification can be made is "first-in, first-out." In other words, consider the shares you sold first to be the first ones you bought and use their cost, the next shares you bought to be the second ones you sold and so on.

Q—I received some dividends last year I was not entitled to because they were declared after I sold the stock. I returned the dividend check but I now have a copy of a statement showing the amount as having been paid to me. Should I ignore this statement when I file my Federal tax return?

A—Only report the correct amount of dividends on your return. You should also notify the corporation paying the dividends of the error in their statement so a correction can be made. An explanation of the error should also be attached to your return.

Q—Where do I report dividends from a savings and loan account?

A—Are they dividends or interest?

A—This income is considered interest and should be entered on line 2a of Part II of the 1040 or on line 6a of Form 1040A, if this form is used.

Lew Unhappy At UCLA

New York — Seven-foot one-inch college basketball All-American Lew Alcindor is not happy at U.C.L.A., according to an article in the current issue of SPORT Magazine, and indicates that he would be happier at Stanford Michigan, or the University of California at Berkeley.

"It's the quality of people out here that disturbs me," says Lew. "They are not for real. They do not seem to know what's going on around them."

"I am disappointed in the atmosphere here," he continues. "Most of the students seem out of it. They do not know how people in the rest of the world live. They have a limited point of view, as opposed to the people in New York City. That is my experience."

"I chose U.C.L.A. because it was the school which offered the most, and not in basketball," admits Alcindor. "But had I known then what I know now, I would have picked Stanford, Michigan or Berkeley."
