Winters Keeps Pace: "Paper Day"; Bank

Paper dresses were put to business use by the 19 tellers of the First Federal State Bank, Des Moines, in a "Paper Days" promotion Apr. 14-17.

Winters

The tellers wore an adapted version of a Zinnia print dress. The dress was slit down the back and tied at the top, making it a smock worn over regular clothing.

Virgil Winters, Vault Teller, gave the ladies in the bank some competition for attention by cutting himself a bowtie from the zinnia print and displayed a packet of zinnia seeds in his breast pocket.

FIGHT Chairman Aris Kodak Hiring Record

Flemington, N.J.—Hiring practices were an issue here as the Rev. Mr. F.D.R. Florence walked out after he sought answers in an Eastman Kodak shareholders' meeting Tuesday.

Rev. Florence, head of the organization FIGHT — Freedom, Integration, God, Honor Today, asked Kodak Chairman W. S. Vaughn if he was going to "honor the December 20 agreement" with the poor.

Rev. Florence referred to an agreement a Kodak official signed with FIGHT to hire 600 unskilled Negroes over an 18 month period. The agreement was later rescinded by the company on grounds the firm "can not discriminate by having an exclusive recruiting arrangement with any organization."

Being ruled out of order, the Reverend and forty of those attending walked out of the meeting to rejoin about 500 white and Negro demon-

DEDICATE MRS. MOORE'S DOLLS TO OTTUMWA YWCA

Ottumwa, Ia.—Mrs. Emily Louis Moore, widow of the late Dr. G. C. Moore passed away Feb. 20, 1967. As a fitting memorial to her, daughters Marie and Jo Anne gave her expansive doll collection to the YWCA here.

Mrs. Tyler Stewart, shown here, the former Jo Anne Moore, presented the doll collection at the annual meeting Tuesday morning.

"Dolls were always around our home," Mrs. Stewart said. "My mother always instilled a love for dolls in me and my sister."

The fiction dolls included storybook favorites, "Little Red Riding Hood", "Little Boy Blue", etc. Character dolls, such as Jo from "Little Women", and Scarlett O'Hara from "Gone with the Wind," were there. Some apple dolls are in the collection. Their heads are made from apples and Mrs. Stewart explained, "As the dolls get older their faces show more character."

Mrs. Stewart and her husband's mother, Mrs. Tyler Stewart, Sr., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kirby, 20, of Sioux Falls, S.D., said tension has been building between the chapter and the national fraternity since Rafael B. Palacio, a history major from Los Angeles, was pledged two years ago.

Turn NAACP Delegates Out of St. Joseph Tavern; File Discrimination Case

St. Joseph, Mo.—The Region Four training Conference was held here Friday-Sunday, Apr. 21-23, marred only by one incident. The conference charged that a local tavern refused to serve members of the convention.

Mrs. Kelsey Beshear, president of the St. Joseph branch, said charges will be filed under federal anti-discrimination laws.

The conference, under the direction of Mrs. Aletha Simmons, headed the training and special projects session.

Emphasis was given on the practical approach in the handling of housing, education and employment problems.

She familiarized the group with implementation of "the civil rights act, special laws available to us to secure equal opportunities of education and employment."

Registration
Voter registration was high on the list, and such a project is planned for Missouri this summer.

The conference was attended by Gloster Current, national director of branches, and Mal Goode, CBS newsmen, who gave the keynote address on the freedom fund.

Miss Charmagne Wright attended the youth session.

Those delegates, with State NAACP strators outside. They marched silently on Main street outside Kodak's legal offices.

This is the latest development in the Kodak firm's discriminatory allegations.

King Is Surprised; Says Won't Seek Presidency

Hampton

Hampton, Va.—Stokely Carmichael's life was threatened Monday when Roger Smith, R.O.T.C. member jumped to his feet during a speech on the R.O.T.C. program and yelled: "If my government told me to, I would shoot you down. I would shoot you down twice."

Sources say two of Smith's brothers had been killed in Viet Nam and he "just couldn't listen to anything unpatriotic like that."

King

In Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., said that countrymen here would grow in opposition to the war in Viet Nam.

"If this war isn't ended, then thousands and thousands of Negro and white students are going to be placed in the role of going to jail rather than fight," King said.

King, according to reports, had planned to run for president in 1968. Said King: "I must confess that I was quite surprised by these sentiments and find it very hard to take them seriously."

Massillon, Ohio — The 55,000-member College and Youth Division of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has requested the Justice Department to investigate charges of "one-sided justice" by police during two days of racial outbreaks in this tense community, Apr. 17-18.

William Hardy, NAACP regional youth director, said that during the two-day clash between Negro and white high school teenagers his office had received complaints that "only Negro students were arrested by law officers in the community."

Series of meetings with local teenagers and adults in the community in an attempt to curb future outbreaks has been scheduled.

The racial melee, police said, was triggered by a fight between Negro and white youths at a local high school in this community of 35,000.

Jazz Box

The big weekend is coming up and everybody will be shingaling and boogalooing but they won't be charging, I hope. As James and Bobbie Purify say, the shingaling is out of sight.

Lou Rawls will be in Omaha May 12, at the City Auditorium. With him is Prentiss Valentine.

Wilson Pickett's Everbody Needs Someone to Love has finally gotten here. It's part two that's too much for the coo-pub.

The Supremes—don't give them up. Their new song is merely theme music for a movie. They'll be back in style very soon.

Back to this weekend deal. Everybody and his third cousin will be out at the UAW or the Ice Arena or at some private gig. Be careful now and don't get cut up or anything. Just take your time and shingaling on down the line.

Some of the guys got started early last Saturday night. You could see them jumping out of their cars when Bobby Moore's "The Swim" came on. It was like something out of West Side Story to see these bandana guys pile out of their car in the middle of the road and dance under the street light. Then the music got so good to them they jumped on the trunk of an oncoming car and did a jig there. Talk about spring fever! Then, they dived back in the Ford and drove calmly up the street.

That's devotion in motion right there.

STATE NAACP PRESIDENT ROBERT WRIGHT SAYS: "In all fairness to Representatives Franklin and Reed, they did a tremendous job in securing the fair housing statute. They reserve considerable praise for their accomplishments in the face of the obstacles before them. This is a classic example of astuteness and intestinal fortitude combined with the ability to get a job done. In the years to come this foresight will be very meaningful and effective" as we set about the task "of the elimination of the bond which seems to be the price for obtaining civil rights".

ALPHIE, my secret friend, is a wee gold fish swimming life away in a lovely, lonely bowl. My determination to brighten Alphie's life seems well nigh impossible. Yes, even the golden threads of the long friendship his owner and I have enjoyed grow taut at the mere mention of Alphie's loneliness. She sees his life as free, untangled, exuberant! I see it as an isolated, unshared, lusterless existence! Just one little gold colored friend to swim past him as he swoops and dives would make the difference! Think I'll buy one at the five and dime, sneak past the bowl and toss her to Alphie! Okay! Okay!

THE PLAY THAT BECAME THE GREATEST DRAMA SINCE HAMLET was Somerset Maugham's "Rain". Of Death Penalty

Washington — The U.S. Supreme Court was asked Friday, Apr. 21 by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, Inc. (LDF) to reverse the Georgia death penalty of Preston Cobb.

The High Court is being asked to outlaw a custom, practiced in some variation in all states except Iowa and South Dakota, of asking prospective jurors if they are "conscientiously opposed to capital punishment."

Cobb aroused international concern when he was first sentenced to death in Jasper County, Georgia, in 1961 at the age of 15.

Murder

Young Cobb was originally indicted on the charge of murder by the Jasper County, Ga., grand jury in 1961.

LEGISLATORS DESERVE
HIGH PRAISE

Last week the Bystander predicted the passage of a fair housing bill by the Iowa legislature because of the overwhelming vote the measure had received in the senate.

It would have made no such prediction when the legislature assembled in January due, in part, to the defeat public housing has met in Des Moines and in the furious campaign opponents of the measure have carried on.

Both political parties endorsed housing legislation in 1966, so that as the legislators assembled, members of both parties and both houses joined as sponsors of the measure which helped passage considerably.

Legislators and the press have praised Representatives Franklin of Polk and Reed of Linn County for their work as a moving force in the passage of the bill. As one legislator said, without them most legislators could have voted no with a good conscience but with them they could note no other way with a good conscience.

This experience with this measure points an excellent example of the necessity of being represented when and where representation counts. Many members could and/or did speak eloquently for the measure but none could do so as did Franklin and Reed.

The legislature deserves a big hand for doing this job like they meant it. The bond required to be filed with a complaint remains in the bill but there are ways to take care of this.

There will be no rash of complaints against property owners just as there have been few complaints of violation of the public recommendation section of the civil rights law. Most people observe the law of the land and this will be no exception.

CARMICHAELS NO HELP TO BRAVE SOLDIERS

Speaking before a student group at Hampton, Virginia, Stokely Carmichael told them he would "rather spend five years in jail than serve this country in Vietnam."

Undoubtedly this is exactly where he belongs and others who display a lack of loyalty to the government when it needs their help.

Those people who, because of their religious belief, seek to be excused from serving either as combat or supply soldiers and raised the question at the beginning, have legitimate reasons to ask deferment. On the other hand, no American citizen should welch on his country.

Of course, we know America is far from perfect. We know that war victories are not lasting. We recognize the right of any citizen to criticize his government but we also believe there is a limit to which people can advocate rebellion against his country—in this instance dangerous to his race.

Support for the war effort has aligned the radical and in many instances the irresponsible civil rights group on one side and the sound, experienced thinkers, those who in the final analysis get the job done, on the other.

A lot of boys are being killed in the conflict—both black and white. They are bearing the burdens of a terrible war and a crafty enemy while these protesters are leaving high and easy. They don't have the guts to realize their responsibility to help these boys who are facing the bullets and living under conditions that try a man's soul.

In past wars, young college men made a great contribution to the success of our cause. Many are doing so today. But there are entirely too many "smart people" telling the government to try their way. It just won't work.

Now comes the flood. Relays all over the country. Even the high schools have their versions of the things. So many, in fact, that even the local high schools have to spread out to make all of them, so there is enough glory for everybody.

The Negro schools put on their regular show of speed in running away with their section of the Kansas Relay races. Of interest to us was the fact that Arkansas AM and N, a school we once attended, came up with a winner in one race in record-breaking time. When we were down there, the boys wanted to come up to the Drake Relays, but their coach said he'd be damned if he would haul a team that far to finish last in a race.

Granddaddy

Here at home we are preparing for the granddaddy of all the mid-west relays, the fifty-fifth running of the Drake Relays. Stories have been written about flashes who have run so fast they broke the time barrier. So these flashes come here and finish seventh in six team team races.

But sometimes our experience in these meets go back to 1917. With the exception of a couple of years, we have seen them all. We would say this is our thirty eighth viewing of this event. Would sure like to make it forty. We have seen a few of the greatest in that time, and sometimes have had more than a passing acquaintance with some.

We will never forget the year Mack Robinson, brother of Jackie Robinson, came here fresh from finishing second to Jesse Owens in that memorable 1936 Olympics 220.

Well, Mack stayed at the home of Chet Williamson, where we were staying. People were fixing special breakfasts for the guy and he was down there scrambling with Chet and me for biscuits and bacon and having the time of his life. Then we got brother Bill and stole a fellow's girl or a date for Mack. The three of us acted as bodyguards while the two enjoyed their date. It was fun, but Mack fell so hard for the girl that the three of us just about had to put the fellow bodily on the train so he could keep his word to his coach to be in LA that Monday. And, oh, yes, Tommy Avant had a part in our theft of the guy's girl friend. We think he set the thing up. During the years that followed, Mack told us to watch for his younger brother, Jackie. And you know where that fellow went.

There are a lot of memories associated with the Drake Relays, and all of them aren't around the races. We have to recall how we argued that there ought to be some Negro

Mr. Brothers will start May 1, and will be a group worker, also. Brothers is former Drake football captain.

Girls Track and Field Competition
Still Available Here Without School

An almost untapped source in track and field here in Iowa is the Negro girl, but the unknown Wilma Rudolphs and Edith McGuire may still have a chance.

This is the conclusion agreed upon by Wayne Cooley, director of the Iowa Division of United States Track and Field Federation Monday.

However, they and all girls are unable to compete because of refusal to join the Federation, from their schools, a corridor almost absolutely necessary to compete in regional meets and national meets, such as the Drake Relays.

Member

"In order to compete, each girl's school must be a member of accreditation, and it is up to the principle to okay this. But various complaints from parents, it seems, has kept him from doing this."

He agreed that the Negro girl in Iowa, is an "untapped source", presented much potential in sports, and could bring regional, if not national attention to the area in track and officials. And now they are a part of the show, but we didn't get them there. Then there was the late Everette (Wadsworth), who used to make a tour of the hotels every Saturday morning and talk to Negro athletes who would often be eating their meals in their hotel rooms because they were not allowed in the dining rooms of our best hotels. How times have changed. But we would have to tell this one on a University of Iowa sprinter who had won the hundred that year. We were writing sports for our high school paper, and thought it would be nice to have an interview with the fellow. Well, we walked up to the runner and somebody introduced us. Without batting an eye, the great one said, "I saw your race today. Keep it up and you'll make it yet." And the only race we ran in out there was to the hot dog stand!

North

Our most outstanding high school memory was the sight of North High winning a two mile relay with Jerry Spencer running third. We still see the guy, his shaved glistening in the sun, jumping up and down yelling for his man to bring the baton in. We often wondered how he had breath enough to run a mile after all that.

Now you have read or will read all the stories about who will be here, so we will spare you the oft repeated details.

Clay

And one last word. Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he will go to jail before he will go to the army. We don't agree with this stand, but have to admire him for having the guts to stick to his views, right or wrong. If the guy goes to prison, who will be declared champion? The WBA says it will declare that title vacant. But who hasn't the fellow beaten that is any good r who can have a claim to the crown?

field meets.
Madison Avenue

Girls can compete as free agents, however, by contacting Mr. Ferguson, staff member of his office. He referred to Madison Avenue Track Club which, without much training, did very well at previous Federation Meets at Drake which comes up in May.

"You can come in unattached or a group of girls can make up the team without accreditation." He explained that all entries came through their office, which would be very happy to promote Negro girls in track and field.

Contact Mr. Ferguson, 615 Securities Building or call 288-9741.

Capital Lanes Will Compete in Miami

Andy McBride, owner-operator of Capital Lanes Bowling, carried with him a team, including Sy Forrester and Robert (Bob) White, when he left for the American Bowling Congress tournament held at Miami, Florida.

This organization, which is the governing body of bowlers throughout the country, is said to welcome foreign competitors; therefore, this meet is considered one of the greatest in bowling events.

The men will compete in team, singles and doubles events.

Remaining members of the six man team are John Liston, Frank Morrow and Jerry Lafferty.

Muhammed Ali Draft
Climaxes Friday

New York, N.Y.—Friday cometh. Will Muhammed Ali goeth?

The heavyweight champion has reiterated that he will go to jail for refusing to enter military service, but the New York Athletic Commission says he will lose his title if he refuses.

"We definitely will strip him of his title," Eddie Dooley said. "We will take six or eight of the world's leading heavyweights and let them fight it out."

Induction

Ali is scheduled for induction at Houston.

Muhammad Sunday preached his word to about 350 inmates at the Lorton Reformatory Youth Center auditorium in Washington, D.C.

"I find my greatest fans are in the prison, jails, hospital and ghettos," said Muhammed.

Later, he told a Muslim mosque
