Johnson Withdrawal: "Shocked and Stunned!"

Democrats and Rep. Express Selves

Washington, D.C.—On nationwide television Sunday night, President Lyndon B. Johnson publically announced that he would not run for another term as President.

The President's announcement came immediately following a call for a bombing halt in Viet Nam and after last Wednesday he had urged Congress to "quit fiddling and piddling and take action on the Civil Rights Bill".

Shock

In Des Moines, shock and disappointment overtook the city, and Monday, various prominent Democrats and Republicans were asked their views.

Q: What was your reaction when you found out that President Johnson had bowed out of the political race?

Demos

Mrs. A. June Franklin, Democrat and state legislator: "I'm a little shocked and a little disappointed. I'd follow Kennedy, of all the people running at this time, although I don't know what Vice President Humphrey will do."

Mrs. Joseph Wimberly, Democratic precinct 13 committeewoman: "Absolutely stunned and disappointed. I felt that the President had done the best he could. I would have done the same thing (in bowing out) a long time ago after the abuse and vilification he had suffered during the past month. The lack of loyalty displayed in this country has taken a turn and gone farther than people would like to admit."

Mrs. Emery Wade, Democratic supporter: "I was shocked, I was looking for him to run. If he isn't going to run, I suppose I'll support Kennedy."

Municipal Judge Luther T. Glanton: "Of course, I feel that Johnson has made a magnificent president, especially in the field of civil rights, but he has had difficulty in other fields. The Democratic Party will be in a better position in the November elections. At this point, I lean toward Kennedy."

Republicans

Other reactions, from the Republican side, went this way. A. P. Trotter, Republican supporter: "I was glad he did it. It was the smartest thing he could do, and I say this not only as a Republican."

James B. Morris, Jr., Republican supporter: "I was disappointed. I have a lot of respect for him because of what he has done while he has been in office in the area of human rights. I commiserate with him because of the mess in Viet Nam. This will, of course, call for a reappraisal and re-alignment of the general political scene."

Charged With Theft Of Men's Suits Mon.

Troy Daniels, 22, and Roscoe J. Simmons, 23, of Pittsburgh, Pa. pleaded innocent to larceny charges Tuesday. They were charged in connection with the theft Monday of several suits from men's apparel stores here.

According to police, the two got away from officers at Hotel Kirkwood and took a cab to the airport, where they were arrested.

Detective Jim Thompson said he found three suits with labels from Younker's department Store and three from Kucharo's Clothing Store. Three more suits were stolen from Frankel's Clothing Store, which Thompson also found.

REPORT SAYS ONLY EIGHT STATES BAR DISCRIMINATION IN EDUCATION

New York — The enactment of civil rights statutes in two Southern states and two border states marks a "significant turning point in the legislative aspect of the struggle for equality," the American Jewish Congress reported Sunday in its biennial survey of state anti-bias legislation.

Employment

The study showed that Kentucky and West Virginia last year passed broad statutes forbidding discrimination in private and public employment and in places of public accommodation. Florida and Texas, according to the survey, adopted measures prohibiting discrimination in state employment agencies, bureaus and divisions, while Texas also enacted a limited public accommodations law.

Housing

The report said that during the past two years, 27 states enacted 70 laws covering discriminatory practices affecting employment, education, housing and public accommodations. This compared with 67 statutes passed by 31 states in the 1964-65 period and 49 such laws passed by 26 states in 19 2-63.

KING WARNS ON RIOTS

New York — Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., warned Monday that further outbreaks of racial violence ultimately will lead America to Fascism, in a signed article appearing in the current issue of Look magazine.

According to the report, fair employment statutes are now in force in 36 states and the District of Columbia, as against 34 two years ago.

Thirty-seven states and the District of Columbia now prohibit discrimination in places of public accommodation, as against a previous count of 35. Eight of the 50 states have laws expressly prohibiting discrimination in universities, colleges and other educational institutions.

Twenty-one states and the District of Columbia have prohibited discrimination in a substantial portion of the general housing market.

Civil Liberties Take Jones Case to U.S. Supreme Court

The United States Supreme Court was urged Apr. 1 to bar all discrimination in housing.

The appeal involves Joseph Lee Jones, a Negro and his wife who sued the developers of the Paddock Woods subdivision in suburban St. Louis for refusing on racial grounds to sell them a house and lot.

The couple contend that open housing is the law of the land under an 1866 civil rights law implementing the abolition of slavery. The law said: "All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every state and territory, as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof, to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property."

Banned

The U. S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit ruled last June that neither the constitution nor the 1866 civil rights law cited by the couple banned discrimination in private housing transactions.

The suit is being sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Want to Set Up Own Black Nation in U.S.

Detroit, Mich.—According to press reports, delegates to a Black Nationalist convention met Saturday in Detroit to "renounce their American citizenship and become citizens" of a new country somewhere in the south.

The delegates drafted a declaration of independence from America, combined with a draft of a constitution for a separate Negro nation to be set up in five states in the U.S.: Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Louisiana.

One Million Phones In Iowa Service

The one millionth Northwestern Bell telephone in Iowa went into service this week. James E. Olson, vice president and general manager said the milestone installation might have been made in any one of the 230 communities served by the company, and by any one of the 640 installers. Olson added that he favored a salute to all customers rather than a special recognition of any one.

Olson recalled that it was ninety-one years ago that the telephone was first demonstrated in Iowa at Cedar Rapids and hailed as "the 8th wonder of the world." Yet 20 years later there were only 10,000 telephones in all Iowa. Northwestern Bell has added more than twice that total each year of the past decade. It serves three times as many telephones as at the end of World War II.

Memphis Reels in Wake Of Violence; One Killed

Memphis, Tenn.—Memphis is fairly quiet now, but last Thursday gunshots, billie clubs and a bit of tear gas ran the gamut after Dr. Martin L. King's non-violent march got out of hand.

King, who arrived in Memphis to support a seven-week old garbage workers strike, was quickly ushered into a waiting car and out of the area when, according to press reports, some young "militants" disrupted the march by throwing stones and looting stores.

One Negro youth was killed, and his death is currently being investigated. According to witnesses, the youth had been shot as he stood unarmed, with his hands in the air when police shot him in the stomach. Police say he was looting a store and had threatened officers with a knife. According to reports, nearly 4,000 National Guardsmen remained in the area to enforce martial law.

Your Tax Questions

Q—I owe about $50 on my 1967 taxes. Should I add that amount to my 1968 estimated tax check?

—It is advisable to write separate checks or money orders for the two different tax liabilities to make sure your payments are properly credited. Identify each check with your name and social security number and indicate what tax the payment covers.

The reason for writing separate checks for your 1967 tax balance and your 1968 estimated tax payment is that separate processing operations are involved for the tax return and the estimated tax declaration. When one check is written to cover two tax payments, the entire amount may be credited to just one tax. This could result in a refund for overpayment on one return and a bill for additional tax on the other return.

It will also be helpful to mail each tax return with the check attached in a separate envelope. This will help assure that the return is properly processed.

Q—I'm 59 and retired last year because of illness. Is my company pension taxable?

A—A pension received for retirement before normal retirement age because of sickness or injury may qualify as sick pay. In that case up to $100 a week may be excluded from income until you reach normal retirement age.

For details, send a post card to your district director and ask for Document No. 5016, Sick Pay.

Q—I filed my tax return over ten weeks ago. Shouldn't I have my refund by now?

A—Yes, if the return was complete and accurate. A return claiming a refund filed early in the year takes from 5 to 6 weeks to process. In most cases, when refunds are delayed, a letter explaining the delay is sent to the taxpayer.

If you have not heard from IRS, check the address you used on your tax return to see if it is the same as your current address. If not, send your new address to the Service Center where you filed your return. Lack of a current address holds up the delivery of many refunds.

If your address has not changed, contact your local IRS office or write to the Service Center where you filed. Give your name, Social Security number, address, date of filing, type of return filed and ask them for advice about your refund.

Berkeley students overrun a California campus, and it's shame tsk, tsk. Orangeburg, S. C. students try to desegregate a bowling alley and three are shot to death. University of Iowa students protest the Dow Chemical company and it's tear gas for them. Cats in Memphis lose their cool and here come the bullets again. Viet Nam versus civil rights and it's tear gas with the first and bullets with the second. These are apt examples of white hysteria, with wild-eyed policemen gone berserk. . . . think about it—have you ever heard of a white college student shot to death during a demonstration?

This is one side of the coin, and painful to think about.

The other side is equally painful.

Des Moines

Some of the cats right here in Des Moines go about hollering for their rights—they ain't got no job so they gonna do in the joint. Course they don't have jobs because they haven't bothered to get the experience for a job. These cats who yell "I got my high school diploma and it still hasn't got me the job I want." How many of the adults actually get the job they really want, white or black? Some of the cats don't get the job because if you look hard, you'll find that these same guys who are fussing, spent their English class or vocational training classes in the boys advisor's office half the time, and had three hours of study hall and two more of gym, and got the experience to get the job being a spitball thrower. School isn't nine months of recess, believe it or not. You look at your parents and the jobs they have and you say, not for me. Maybe not, but remember: many parents grew up in the depression and were lucky to get any schooling and/or training and manage to hold on to that job in the wake of discrimination, and on the whole, they had to work tremendously hard to keep you alive on their little money. And where they left off in progress, you should be able to pick things up and move on higher.

Pork Pie

But dig this cat going into the office for a job interview wearing sneakers, pork pie, sunglasses and a blast jacket, and he say uh, man, jive, yeah, and don't want to get his hands dirty (don't you know that dirty hands can hold money just as easy as clean hands?): "No man, don't give me no construction, I want a desk to put my feet on and a broad to write my letters, and make $150 a week." You can be the head of a spitball Co., maybe?

Discrimination

If we're going to holler about our rights, have some qualifications to back it up, and be good at it so there will be no way, no way the Man can put you down except by color discrimination. Then you can holler. But if you go into an executive office and neither have the ambition to work nor can even spell the word "labor", I don't blame the Man if he doesn't want you. If you degrade yourself and your own people by flaunting your inability, go ahead. You'll just be another fly heading for the flypaper.

You can follow H. Rap and Stokeley, they're all right by me. But they've at least been to college and received enough learning to think for themselves. If nothing else, they've been trained enough to use their mouths. Take it slow, mini-soul but not too slow. The time's getting late.

Thanks a million to the people of Iowa from Northwestern Bell

This week, the one-millionth Northwestern Bell telephone in Iowa went into service. Keeping up with Iowa's growing needs, the number of phones in service has tripled since World War II. And we have made quite a few advances in telephone equipment and services, too.

Today, storm-proof cable and microwave radio have replaced most wire lines. You can now dial all your local calls and most long distance calls, too. And choose your telephone from a wide variety of sizes, colors and models.

Bell System operations contribute more than $120 million a year to Iowa's economy. A good share of this amount is the payroll for our 7,100 employees.

The 1968 construction program of $46,000,000 is part of a quarter billion dollar five-year forecast.

What will the two-millionth phone be like? Perhaps a Picturephone®, showing the person you are talking to in full color and three dimensions. Whatever form it may take, we will keep trying to furnish Iowans with the most dependable, modern services at reasonable cost.

AMY CHRISTENSEN AND CARL BARGEN after hearing Dick Gregory at Drake U's Field House in his recent appearance there "were talking about what it would be like to be starving to death" and decided "to find out what they could do to help those who were. The first thing would be to understand how they feel," they agreed. The two young people entered a fast and their only intake was an occasional bit of fruit juice. Carl continued the fast for four days. Amy completed a week-long fast. Learning of their undertaking, I interviewed Amy by phone. She feels that "I can understand the physical side of it now, but the idea that I could go into the kitchen and have anything that I wanted isn't the same as starving to death. It wasn't the same but it helped by understanding to some extent." Amy and Carl are 15 years of age and members of First Unitarian Church's LRY group, a high school youth group. Amy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Christensen and Carl the son of Mrs. Ann Bargen. I agree with Mrs. Christensen that Amy may have learned more from her experience than she believes!

Dimitar Krustev is an internationally known Iowa artist who has won acclaim for his paintings of the rare and the unknown as he explored countries never before traversed by the white man in the jungles of Mexico and Central America. He made his home with the peoples, came to love them, and recorded all that he saw and experienced. His resulting works have brought him due fame. He has just returned from a three month stay in Spain and Africa. In October he will exhibit his latest works in Nairobi.

NW Bell Telephone's March Television gives an illustrated story of Krustev and some of his work.

Count Basie: Speck Redd Is 'His' Man

ELEANORA E. TATE
The Count was in the city last Wednesday.

The Count, of course, not meaning a Count from Europe, but America's own Count of the big band sound, Count Basie.

Basie, in his familiar bassy drawl maintained Wednesday afternoon that he was still playing in his "old fashioned" style—if you want to call old fashioned the music which brought the 1930's generation to their feet to dance away the unhappiness of the Depression, which brought to fame the now popular Joe Williams, and keeps current with the rejuvenation in albums of the Mills Brothers and Jackie Wilson.

Movement

Although Basie said, and rather sleepily, that there are some performers who are now in the midst of the civil rights movement, unfortunately many of the Negro entertainers were not cut out for public speaking. He put himself into that category, but emphasized that he did support the movement rather than shying away from it. "I do benefits and things like that, you know. I'm for it, you know, but I'm not much of a speaker."

Speck Redd

Basie has Des Moines as a must stop when touring the country, and makes it a point, when he can, to see Des Moines entertainer Speck Redd: "That's my boy. We usually try to drop in every now and then to see Speck."

Basie left the city to continue his tour before going back to New York. In April he and his band plan to travel to Europe.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Why does some hair break off when combing?

Your hair is precious and delicate... and none of us like to see it break off for any reason. Scientists tell us that excessive use of hot combs and over-processing of hair with chemicals often are major causes of brittleness resulting in hair breakage. But hair that is naturally curly and tangles easily frequently breaks off in everyday combing. Notice how irritated your scalp becomes when you comb in contrast to the way your beautician does?

Your professional beautician knows that curly hair mats and tangles so easily that it should be softened before combing. Otherwise, unnecessary irritation to the scalp and damage to the shaft and ends of the hair occurs. To achieve this needed softening and a temporary relaxing effect that prevents breakage on all human hair (including wigs), most beauticians rely on Clairol® Hair-So-New® spray-on creme rinse. For combing ease and for beautifying your hair in many other ways, trained beauticians stock a complete family of fine Clairol products for your specific needs.

Visit your expert hairdresser, who cares about your hair care and your comfort. Whatever the nature of your hair problems, only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Air travelers with long memories can recall a time when any trip in windy weather might cover almost as much distance up-and-down as across-country. The proudest passenger planes of those days were less than half as big or as fast as today's giant jets.

Nowadays people boarding a plane need give little thought to wind velocity, air pockets or the location of that little brown paper bag. Pressurized cabins have increased comfort and safety, too. But air travel still holds some health hazards, and the airline people are the first to point them out. Passengers who develop medical complications are no fun or profit to anybody.

Recently an airline medical director volunteered some simple guidelines for health safety in sky travel. People who have colds, or any condition in which fever might develop, should stay on the ground—ear trouble is a particular hazard to them.

Nor should anyone fly who has had a heart attack as recently as three weeks ago. This doesn't apply to heart conditions of longer standing, if the sufferer has been able to function normally.

Emphysema patients who require oxygen, and persons with other conditions involving shortness of breath, should refrain from flying. So should those with severe anemia, and anyone who has recently undergone eye surgery. Women in the final month of pregnancy are discouraged from flying unless equipped with a doctor's certificate saying that they are fit for air travel.

Fewer types of illness are affected by flying now than in earlier days. Your Christmas Seal association, concerned with general health as well as with the fight against TB and other respiratory diseases, suggests that you consult a doctor if any doubt arises about health safety in flying.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S UNTIMELY RETIREMENT

The announcement by President Johnson that he would not seek or accept the nomination of his party to succeed himself left the people in a daze from which it took some time to recover.

No administration has changed during a war in which America engaged—the closest being the almost defeat of Woodrow Wilson in 1916 by Charles Evans Hughes.

There are all kinds of conjectures as to why the President made the decision. Some feel he feared defeat, some that his party might become united. We believe the pressure brought on by the questionable success of the war effort and of domestic matters is so great that having had a heart attack once, his health would be impaired. His looks on the television as he spoke Sunday night would tend to bear this out.

President Johnson has been in public office for many years, serving in the lower house of congress, the senate, as vice president and as President. He is an astute politician; a successful one which has brought him prestige and money.

The President, like the late President Hoover, went in office by landslide but issues over which he had little control, like that of Mr. Hoover, have made him very unpopular. His administration brought down on his head serious criticism even by leaders of his own party.

As a member of the lower house of congress, he opposed civil rights legislation. But during his later years in the senate he made an about face, as majority leader. He has done more to recognize Negroes as first class citizens than any other President in history. Of course, the timing was apropos but the fact remains that he seized the opportunity and did his best. For it, we all should be everlastingly grateful.

In the administration of his fine program, there are those for whom he worked, failed or refused to carry out their responsibility. Unfortunately some of his programs were not very well organized and their failure hit back with force.

The world goes on for somebody always comes along to carry on. As he said Monday, we must not lose the opportunities and gains that have come during his tenure in office. And it produces a note of sadness that one who did so much must be driven from his post by men (black and white) who had profited by his efforts.

TROUBLE MARCHERS HAD GOOD INTENTIONS

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. flanked by clergymen on both sides undertook a march in support of striking garbage workers in Memphis, Tenn. last week. It started out with order and decorum but a few dangerous characters soon got out of line and engaged in riot and bottle throwing and looting stores.

It is unfortunate that Dr. King started the march. His earlier attempts of protest marches were successful but riots, burning and looting in other cities have taught the irresponsible that they are at liberty to do likewise and what started out with good intentions ended in disgrace.

Dr. King left when the rioting began. This is unfortunate for he started the project and should have seen it through.

He still insists that his much advertised march on Washington this month will go on. We hope he changes his mind. The civil rights movement has gotten past the marching stage and to continue only brings disgrace, displays of irresponsibility and the flouting of law and order which hurt.

There is much work to be done in the field of human rights but progress cannot be made by trying to burn and burn property and people. And the sooner these who operate on such a premise junk the silly ideas, the better life will be for all.

An Easter Reminder

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby
Ashby's All State
Basketball Team

We were looking over the Register's All State High School basketball team Sunday. We have always argued that anybody good enough to make the second or third team is good enough to make the first All Star team in any sport. But since there can be only one player picked for each position, somebody has to take second or third. We agreed with three of the first team choices and then substituted a couple of our own to make the first team.

Looks like this: the Register team had Ken Grablinski of Clear Lake Mike Wilkinson of Central Sioux City forwards. Toby Huston of Roosevelt center, Lynn Rowat, East High and Duane Christenson of Storm Lake, guards.

Our team: Grablinski and Rowat, forwards, Huston center, Pat Malloy of Dubuque and Jose Grady of Ft. Dodge guards. How did we pick em? Dunno.

The last week's column was written and in the bag before we got a chance to talk to our Golden Gloves fighters. But in case you are interested, here is what they did. Oscar Johnson swears he beat his first opponent and was robbed. His brother Earnest won his first match, but ran out of gas and got KOed in his second. Glen Sellers won his first fight and fought a guy in his next bout and lost. Sellers says the fellow either had help in the ring or else he had four hands and Glenn didn't have time to investigate.

Avant

Don Avant looked real good in his first fight and was on his way to a second round win when he got his chin in front of a left hook and woke up asking if they got the guy's license number.

The fellows didn't have too much to say for Salt Lake City, Utah, so we would guess they didn't care for the place. Now they have started a series of articles about Negro athletes and why they excel. The first two didn't tell us much, but maybe the rest might. We have always thought there were so many outstanding Negro athletes because only the best Negroes make the teams while a lot of real good white boys don't even go into pro athletics or out for college teams. The mediocre Negro never gets off the ground. He can forget it. However, we shall reserve judgment on the thing until we have read them all.

As we look at the tennis program offered by the Des Moines racket Club, we wonder if we would have preferred basketball to indoor tennis. We know where our late brother Bill and Chet Williamson would have been had this thing started twenty years ago.

Consensus Pick
Clem B'ball's Best

New York — Rightfielder Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates is baseball's best player, according to a poll of all major-league general managers appearing in the current issue of SPORT Magazine.

Clemente edged Boston Red Sox star Carl Yastrzemski, eight to six in the balloting of the experts, with Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Bill Freehan of the Detroit Tigers and Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs each picking up single tallies as two general managers abstained from voicing their opinions.

A breakdown of the voting reveals Clemente won six of the nine National League votes cast and was also named by two of the American League general managers. Yastrzemski managed to win just one NL vote.

Best

Los Angeles Dodger general manager Buzzy Bavasi, in explaining why he chose Clemente, says: "When you consider who's the best player today, you have to consider three things—whether he can run, throw and hit consistently and far above the average. The one boy who has all of these qualifications is Roberto Clemente."

The consensus among the other general managers who chose the Pittsburgh outfielder is that he could do it all and if they could have one player in the major leagues on their team, it would be Clemente.

Follow-Through Moms
Following Through

Mothers of the Bird School Follow Through class held a Hen Party on March 27 in order to complete the drapes they have been making for the mobile classroom.

Cutting and machine sewing of the drapes for the unit's ten windows was begun by Des Moines Tech High School Home Economic students; Mrs. Dorothy Jordal Family Living Coordinator of Adult Education, and Mrs. Gretchen Bonnewell, Supervisor of Home Economics, under the direction of Mrs. Bonnewell.

Seams

Seams were completed by Mrs. Marie Calderon of 682-25th street and Mrs. Willa Mae Allen of 1609½ Center street. Mrs. Calderon also helped in the selection of the material which was purchased at a special discount from J. C. Penny and Co. Both women have daughters in this federal kindergarten project.

Mrs. Gail Jennings, classroom teacher; Ina Clayborne, Teacher's Aide, and Mrs. Marjorie Hufnagel Project Social Worker, arranged for a "Hen Party" at which handwork on the drapes was completed. Mothers who attended were: Willa Mae Allen, Mildred Henderson, Alise May, Shelia V. Meyers and Charlotte Tymony. Mrs. Grace Green, Coordinator Follow Through and Miss Olive Devine, Principal also were present and assisted with the sewing.

Futuer

After the drapes were hung, it was suggested by the mothers that they hold a pot luck in the mobile unit in the near future.

Sp/4 Daniels Tells of
His Years in Alabama

Sp/4 Robert Daniels, jr., son of

Daniels

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniels, sr., has been honorably discharged from the Armed Forces. Prior to his discharge, he had been stationed at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

At Ft. Rucker, Daniels had the chance to visit with the Negroes in that southern state, while he said some parts of it were not bad, in other spots, he found families whose homes had no carpeting and lacking most of accommodations Negroes in Des Moines "take for granted."

In driving around Alabama, Daniels talked with southern Negroes, many of whom requested help in organizing an NAACP or similar organization.

The biggest problems he encountered were in restaurants, motels and movie houses. He once went to a movie house with some white friends and he ended up sitting in the room set aside for Negroes, the projection room.

What is his conclusion after living in Alabama? He does give this city's Negroes credit was objecting to the many discriminatory tactics used. But Roberts said he encountered employment problems here in Des Moines, at least employment which will satisfy him financially.

Daniels, who was discharged last month, is still looking for a job.
