Resurrection City Halted; Torn Down Monday

Solidarity Day Draws Near 50,000

Washington, D.C.—Shouting that the Poor People's Campaign had not ended, Hosea Williams and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy were carted away by police from Resurrection City and the Capital Grounds, along with other marchers and residents.

Resurrection City, in Washington since April, was now nearly deserted as heavily armed police systematically searched the plank shanties erected along the Reflecting Pool between Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial.

The Poor People's Campaign culminated last Wednesday with a massive march in the capital city, and an estimated 50,000 persons gathered in support of the Campaign.

As the day continued, tense emotions gathered in the wake of the closing of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's campaign, and violence flared occasionally in the Negro district. Mayor Walter E. Washington hurriedly announced a state of emergency Monday evening, and some 1600 federal troops were on alert and available for service.

Washington — Roy Wilkins told more than 50,000 persons massed here at the Poor Peoples Mobilization, June 19, that their legislative campaign differed from scores of lobbies in the Nation's Capital. He said the poor sought neither profit or preference, but only "food, shelter, jobs, health and welfare and good schools for children who will be the men and women of 1985."

"It does not ask these things of a government scrimping and saving to make ends meet," he continued. "It ask them of a government so affluent that it can debate how many billions can be spent in research, how many billions can be lavished on space ships to the moon, on how many billions can be spent on maintaining American troops around the globe, how many billions, alas! can be spent in warfare."

Noting that the campaign included hungry whites, Indians and Spanish-speaking Americans as well as Negro poor, Mr. Wilkins said that "every American, in this nation of many blessings, should be hiding his head in shame that representatives of any group of Americans should be compelled to talk of food, starvation, malnutrition in a country where the manufacturer and sale of dogfood accounts for a significant part of the national income."

The first two hours of the program were produced by the Group W (Westinghouse Broadcasting Company) television stations and present a nationwide view of racial problems. The final 90 minutes will be telecast live from the KRNT-TV studios. A six-member panel will answer questions phoned in by the audience. The panelists, all of Des Moines, will be: Mayor Thomas Urban, Richard Freeman, supervisor, Concentrated Employment Program; Nolden Gentry, manager, Urban Affairs Department, Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Kate Goldman, president, Communi-duction to a bi-racial range of 16 individuals from several widely separated cities. Their personal and frankly expressed views provide a national summary of racial attitudes.

Part two brings together, for the first time, all the participants in the first hour of the program. This is a half-hour of their reactions immediately after seeing on film individual views expressed during the preceding hour.

The third part, also half an hour, is devoted to the views and actions of leaders in municipal, state, and federal government, foundations, and other concerned groups. Among participants are Mayor John Lindsay of New York City, Mayor Carl Stokes of Cleveland, Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco, Henry Ford II, and Gen. James M. Gavin.

The panel, part four of the program, will be moderated by Paul Rhoades, KRNT-TV newsman. It will be followed by a brief national wrap-up offering suggestions for action that individual viewers can take to help eliminate the conflict between Negro and white.

McCarthy is scheduled to arrive at Des Moines airport on Saturday, June 28 at 11 o'clock. A motorcade including the senator and other dignitaries will proceed to the Savery hotel. He will speak at approximately 1:30 to 3 p.m. and later attend a reception at the lower level of the auditorium.

Wading in River Sunday, James Lewis Drowns

Perry, Ia. — Wednesday services here were held for 24-year-old James Lewis, who drowned Sunday in the Des Moines River.

Lewis was the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Horace Lewis, of 1724 Summer Street, who is the pastor of Bethel Baptist Church in Perry. James was born in Ottumwa on January 27, 1944 and graduated from Perry High in 1963. Before moving to Des Moines one month prior to his death he was employed as an attendance trainee at Woodward State Hospital.

Officiating at the funeral at Workman Temmion Funeral Home was the Rev. Orwell Blanks of Marshalltown, Iowa.

Survivors include his parents; a sister, Anjell Lea; and a grandmother.

er, Mrs. Mazzie Lewis Allen of Perry.

Incident

According to Polk County Sheriff's office, James and four other youths had been wading in the Des Moines River and had waded across to the other side. They were coming back when they all stepped into a drop. Since "most of them didn't know how to swim", they tended to panic, and James, who was holding on to Clifford Post, almost pulled him under. Clifford tried to assure James, and told him to take it easy. He told Clifford, according to the report, to swim on. All reached the north shore, but James was not with them.

His body was found about twenty-five feet out about 7:45 p.m.

RESURRECTION CITY
CLOSES IN DISASTER

Resurrection City in Washington, D.C., also known as the Poor People's March, has come to a sad ending—with little gained and a lot of bad sentiment built up following a series of illegal incidents which were bound to come though the project was billed non-violent.

Conceived by the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., the plan was to assemble a contingent of poor people in Washington, camp and remain until Congress acted favorably on certain demands on behalf of the poor.

When the march began we predicted that it would meet the same fate as the famous bonus march when Herbert Hoover was president. They were cleared out by the army without having achieved their objective.

Congress, like any other governing body, is slow to act with a club hanging over its head. And with a lot of hanger ons bent on committing crimes, it is easy to see how very little was accomplished.

Viewing the surroundings over television and listening to the speeches and comments, it is easy to see how such a program would fail. Poor judgment, bad public relations by a supposedly intelligent leadership may well be credited with the failure of a movement which was conceived with good intentions but was bound up in defeat from the beginning.

GOVERNOR'S KNOWLEDGE
VERY LACKING

Gov. Harold Hughes said that there was as much racial discrimination in Iowa as may be found in Birmingham, Ala. Later, he attempted to pin point his remarks by saying, "where discrimination existed". He further cites the fact that a Negro family in an Iowa ghetto area was paying $145 per month rent for a poor inadequate home.

The governor has been giving much attention to the improvement of race relations in Iowa traveling over the state making speeches and some inspections.

Sure, there is some discrimination in Iowa but nothing like Birmingham. And anyone who has been to Birmingham or keeps abreast of what goes on in race relations generally knows better.

Long, many people have worked in this field in Iowa with much success. The exercise of the right to vote and serve on juries, and to receive justice in the courts in Iowa have no comparison with Birmingham and while much improvement has been made in recent years in Birmingham, it does not compare with Iowa.

This is only one of many mentioned here and in fairness to the people of this state.

NAACP STANDS
FIRM ON PRINCIPLE

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is in session in Atlantic City, N.J. and as was expected a contingent of rebel delegates has attempted, in the name of good intentions, to change the organization in a radical irresponsible direction.

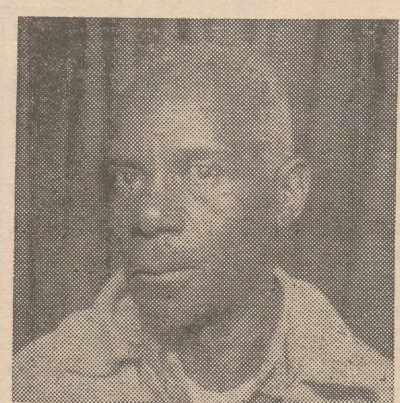

In years gone by, the NAACP, like any other organization, has been required to move ahead with the times. This, it has done, and at the same time held on to the gains it has made.

The fact that these dissatisfied groups would attempt, by force, to gain their objectives and the proposal to go to Washington to join the defunct Resurrection City, is clear that their attitude is wrong and not for the best interest of the people.

Speaker after speaker demanded that the organization be brought back to the people. This sounds good to some. On the other hand, they should point out clearly what they propose to do. Surely the NAACP fight has been for the interest of rich and poor alike much of which is being enjoyed by the people who make the complaints.

The NAACP is not a lawless organization and will not attempt to gain its objectives by illegal methods. To do so would help fizzle out such just as occurred in Washington. It maintains the respect of sound citizens.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

Boxing headlines—Joe Frazier defends his portion of the world's heavyweight boxing title by beating a Mexican heavyweight named Joe, pardon, Ramos. Oh well, it might as well have been Joe. Now the boxing writers will go to work in a frantic effort to build Frazier into the greatest; that should take some doing. In spite of the fact that the guy can hit, a bout between Frazier and Jimmy Ellis would be interesting and settle who is the real boxing champ, but it wouldn't pull in a big crowd.

The game lacks a magic name to make people want to see boxing. Sugar Ray Robinson was a magic name. We can't forget the night a packed house booed the fellow during the closing days of World War II. They booed, they came hoping to see him get his block knocked off but when the Sugar Kid fought the crowds came.

Joe Louis was a magic name for another reason. Joe was such a clean fighter and always acted the part of a gentleman out of the ring at least to the public that just about everybody wanted to see him win. Then they expected the guy to win. Louis could fight an eighty-year-old granddad and draw a packed house who came to see his smooth style and lightning fists. The fellow's name was box office.

Muhammed

Jack Dempsey was also a name that packed 'em in, but Rocky Marciano, good as he was, wasn't that sort of an attraction. For all of his loud mouth and despite his adverse publicity, the real champion, Muhammed Ali—Cassius Clay—was and probably is a magic crowd drawer. People would want to be there when the wise guy gets his. So they will line up to buy tickets waiting for the day.

So now the boys who run the game are casting about desperately to find a fellow whose name will sell fight tickets. Frazier might be it. Time will tell.

Track

Did you see that AAC track meet last weekend? The times were fantastic.

A guy who does 100 meters in what used to be world record times gets shut out. No matter what happens, the short races from four hundred meters down and the jumps as well as the hurdles are very likely to be dominated by black athletes. So they had better be there come next October. The Russians will probably be waiting for our boys and usually come up with a few surprises. This year the fellows named Ivan will need some real surprises.

We are taking time out to scout some of the Little League and sand lot baseball to see what we can see. We just may have a report next week. We said might.

Guydon to Drake Basket-Ball Coaching Staff

A three-year regular with the Drake Bulldogs has been named assistant basketball coach and instructor in physical education.

Gus (James E.) Guydon, a previous member of the Cleveland Pipers pro team and coach in Europe, was Drake's top scorer and an all-Missouri Valley Conference selection as a junior and senior. He was with Drake from 1959-1961 and was co-captain his last year.

The appointment effective September 1 comes in the wake of demands by the Black Student Forum at Drake and on other Iowa campuses who have demanded the hiring of black coaches for sports.

The most militant of the campuses is Iowa State whose black athletes and the entire black student body at Ames have threatened to pull out of the University unless changes are made. There are approximately 86 black students on the Ames campus.

CBS Sets Racial Specials

OF BLACK AMERICA—A series of six one-hour and one half-hour broadcasts. This extensive CBS project will portray the evolution of the black American from his roots in Africa through the American Revolution and the Western Frontier, through slavery and Reconstruction, to the present day.

Part I "Black History: Lost, Stolen or Strayed" 9-10 p.m. Tuesday, July 2. Bill Cosby, actor, comedian, and award-winning star of "I Spy," will guide viewers through a history of attitudes—black and white—and their effect on the Negro American. It is a portrayal of some of the things that happen when you are black. It describes the Negro's quest for the answer to "Who am I?"—showing how life can become a search for identity.

Cosby will show how white Americans in the past have only told Negro Americans who they are not. He reviews how Negro achievements have been misplaced in American history texts, the absence of recognition of Africa's contributions to Western culture, and the changing Hollywood stereotype of the Negro from "The Birth of a Nation" to "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

The broadcast will investigate to what extent the problem of self-identification is the result of a history "lost, stolen or strayed." CBS News reporter George Foster will interview Dr. Emmanuel Hammer, a psychiatrist specializing in children's therapy, who will interpret the meaning of Negro children's drawings and of sketches made by black and white children asked to draw the same subject.

A further investigation of the confusion of self-image will be made through a study of the Negro American's use of cosmetics in an attempt to become more like whites.

The broadcasts are sponsored by THE XEROX CORPORATION.

Police Blotter

Walter Sylvester Madison of 1314 E. 17th street, who was shot in the throat last week told police that the shooting was accidental and occurred on Walker Street.

This story differs from one told earlier, when Madison said he had been shot walking at 13th and University with Richard Hill and John Bonwell.

Although the two boys agreed with Madison's story, Madison later said that the shooting happened just east of E. 14th street, and that he was shot while scuffling with Bonwell over possession of a gun.

The pistol has not yet been found, and no charges have been filed. Mrs. Rowena L. Ostrand, of 1532 16th street has filed a $30,500 damage suit in Polk County District Court as a result of the shooting of a boy by a car dealer, M and W Motors, Inc., of 1436 E. 14th street.

The suit asked $10,000 for the boy, Clarence O. Burnough for pain and suffering, etc., on the grounds that the shooting was "committed

Kimberly Running for Polk County Supervisor

A Democratic candidate for Polk County Supervisor believes that a People's Protection Service should be set up in the court house for those who need help.

Howard Kimberley, Des Moines engineer, says there are a lot of people in the Second District and elsewhere in Polk County who pay too much and get too little when buying transportation, making loans, renting properties, etc. "These people would benefit if they had a common place to go to register complaints and where these complaints would be followed up by legal action if justified," Kimberley said.

Private Enterprise
Should Help Negro

Washington, D.C.—The President of the National Business League, Berkeley G. Burrell, in a speech in Memphis attacked continued defacto exclusion of Negroes from opportunity to develop power in the private enterprise system.

He warned that some big business activity in ghettos to provide jobs with government subsidy may be just a way of creating "instant concrete plantations" which do little to provide upward mobility and a stake in the system for today's angry black young militants.

NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter will summarize the varied aspects of these sessions. Carter was at Ames Friday.

Other highlights of the convention included the traditional Ministers' Breakfast, Tuesday morning, and the Life Membership luncheon, Wednesday.
