Benefit Banquet For Dimery Youth

Charges Georgia with Continued Racial Setup In 192 School Systems

200 Attend: 3 Federal Judges Hear Case Tue.

Ronnell Dimery, crippled by transverse myelitis and confined to a wheel chair, Monday night was honored with a benefit banquet at the Hotel Fort Des Moines. Ronnell, 14, sat at the head table in his wheel chair. About 200 persons attended including Gov. Robert D. Ray and State Representative June Franklin (Dem.).

Guest speaker at the banquet was Marvin L. Brown, director of the Detroit, Mich., Mayor's Committee on Human Resources and Development.

Ronnell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Dimery, 2572 S. E. Harriett street. A fund has been set up to aid the family in paying medical expenses for the youth. Public Welfare officials have denied assistance because neither parent is disabled or absent from the home.

A panel of three federal judges will convene Tuesday, Aug. 12 to consider whether the constitutional rights of the Dimery family have been violated.

The father earns $125 a week as a supermarket meatcutter to support himself, his wife and five children. Local welfare officials say the law permits granting aid only if one parent is disabled or absent from the home or if the disabled person is older than 18.

Contents Failure
The federal court suit on behalf of the Dimerys was brought by the Polk County Legal Aid Society.

It contends failure to give welfare aid to the Dimerys is an unconstitutional denial of equal protection and due process of the law as required by the

Blacks Object To Busing Plan In No. Carolina

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—Many Negro parents here are up in arms over a proposal to bus their children to schools in predominantly white suburbs. Negro leaders vow to resist the one-way desegregation plan.

Filed Plan

The Board of Education, complying with orders of U.S. District Court Judge James McMillan, has filed the plan in federal court. A hearing on Negro complaints was set for Tuesday.

The plan calls for closing seven all-Negro schools in the inner city and busing about 4,200 black pupils to outlying schools.

No Opposition

Most white parents have voiced no opposition. But a few months ago, when there were reports the plan would bus white pupils to all Negro schools, white parents bombarded the school board with protest petitions.

Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments.

Petitions

The petition says the law that "requires parents to separate in order to secure the necessary assistance for their children" is "contrary to the policies of the United States." The Dimerys have been married 20 years.

Chief Judge Martin D. Van Oosterhout of the Eighth Circuit of Appeals at St. Louis, Mo., and Federal District Judges Roy L. Stephenson of Des Moines and William C. Hanson of Jefferson will hear the case. Judge Van Oosterhout resides at Orange City.

Rev. Shopshire Seeks School Board Post

The Rev. James M. Shopshire, 917 16th street, and pastor of Burns United Methodist Church of the Inner-City Co-operative Parish, announced his candidacy for the School Board.

The Rev. Mr. Shopshire, 26, a native of Atlanta, Ga., came to Des Moines in 1966 after serving pastorates in two Atlanta churches. He is a graduate of Clark College and of the Interdenominational Theological Center, both in Atlanta. He is married and has a 3-year-old son.

Since coming to Des Moines, the Rev. Mr. Shopshire has served in the police community relations program, the Mayor's Task Force on Government and Community Relations, the Community Youth Program of the Y.M.C.A., on the Wilkie House Council and on an inner-city committee of the Girl Scouts of Des Moines.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The government brought its largest school desegregation suit ever Friday, Aug. 1 charging the state of Georgia with encouraging continued racial segregation in its 192 public school systems.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the complaint, filed in Atlanta federal court, accused Georgia school superintendent Jack P. Nix and the State Board of Education with failing to take adequate steps to disestablish a dual statewide school system based on race.

Action Threatened
The action had been threatened three weeks ago, if the state did not take steps to comply with federal desegregation standards.

The suit marked the first time a state board of education had been the target of a government complaint.

The government claimed that Georgia not only maintained a segregated school system, but that the educational opportunities provided for Negro youngsters were decidedly inferior to those for whites.

The suit affects more than one million Georgia youngsters, including 734,000 whites and 329,000 blacks.

The Justice Department said the suit would enable federal funds to be restored to 30 Georgia districts which had been cut off from federal assistance by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

"Will Continue..."
The suit said only 15 percent of the Negro pupils in Georgia attended predominantly white school last year.

And unless restrained by the courts, the suit charged, "the defendants will continue to operate the public schools of the state of Georgia in a discriminatory manner denying Negro children equal protection of the laws, in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution."

Court Order

The government asked for a court order to bar Superintendent Nix and the school board as well as "their successors in office, agents, employees, and all persons acting in concert or participation with any of them from discriminating against Negro students in the Georgia public school system on the basis of race."

It also asked that the court require school officials "to take affirmative action" to break down the segregated system and "to correct the effects" of past racial discrimination. The government asked that Georgia be ordered to seek technical assistance from HEW educators in preparing and submitting desegregation plans.

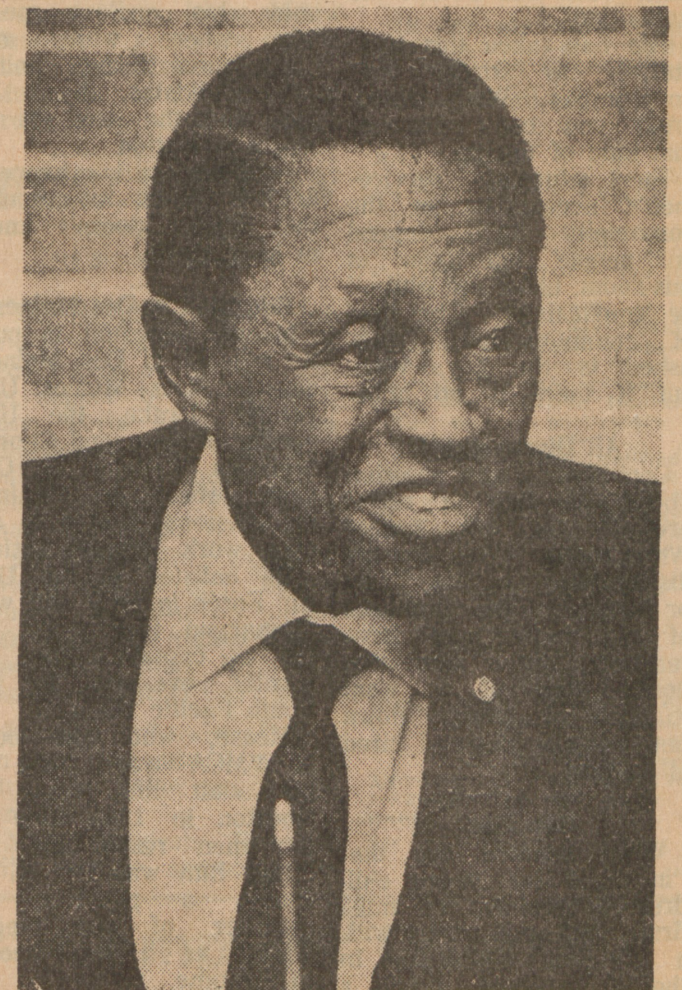

No Specific Date

It set no specific date for accomplishing the government goals, but said the moves should be made "at the earliest practicable date."

In Georgia, Gov. Lester Maddox called the suit "criminal" and said: "We'll win the war against these tyrants. If we don't, the United States will cease to be a free republic."

Maddox said the suit was to be expected because "the powers in Washington have created a monster that they don't know what to do with."

Quentin Mease: Human Relations Giant in Texas

Houston, Tex. — A white liberal describes him as a benign black diplomat without portfolio, a voice of reason in these disturbing times.

John White, Red Cross Director, Says Viet Vet Confused by U.S. Strife

BY FRANCES E. HAW

A career Army man who "had to find some means of still serving" following his retirement has found it with the American Red Cross.

Former Chief Warrant Officer John Q. White, who retired in 1965 after 24 years of military service including combat service in World War II and the Korean conflict, is now Red Cross Field Director for the Division in Montana.

Talk Monday he made an impromptu talk to a Dialog Discussion group sponsored by the YWCA, and held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Vera Morrow, 1160 17th street.

White, who was one of the first drafted from Iowa in 1940, has made two trips to Viet Nam in his new job; the first was in 1967 as a Red Cross representative to the largest Viet service hospital.

Courageous "I saw the military in a different light. From a practical point of view our servicemen are brave, courageous and have a high moral. It is that moral I want to speak to you about.

"As the servicemen sees the strife between the races and in employment and schools, it points to him that something is wrong. And the military doesn't understand it.

Sees Both Sides "When you are in uniform you are in a vacuum; you see both sides and are able to wear both hats, so to speak.

"As you meet here I would like you to consider would like you to consider why you are here and

White pointed out that employment picture facing the Negro returning from Viet Nam is "quite different" than that after World War II when the servicemen were "going back to the same old thing."

Will Not Accept "Now, the serviceman is a highly technically trained, productive individual and he will not come back and accept the status quo.

"He has taken this war, literally in stride, with no promises," White stated. "And you can't discount that kind of loyalty.

The returning servicemen's acceptance in the community "will depend on people like you in this room, black and white," he emphasized. "The kind of communication established is the key. Without it there is no hope.

All Disappointed Commenting on a question about the rate of racial progress in this county White said, "We all are disappointed in one way or another. The promises of the white man have reached the saturation point. None of us want to burn this country down but we are damned tired of waiting.

Education White pointed out that "in order for Negro children to perform he must first be prepared with a vigorous education. In the professional world a high school diploma is hardly worth the paper it is printed on. We have to be ready for the opportunity, if and when it comes along.

Before his retirement White was stationed at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. He received the army commendation medal for service in the North African European theater of operation, also in the South Pacific.

Because her brother, John White, Red Cross Director for the Division of Montana, came home, and she is moving, Maude Esther White was unable to write her weekly column. Mr. White is currently visiting in Iowa, his sisters, which include Mrs. J. W. Morrow, his brothers, LeRoy of Perry, and Theophilus of Waterloo and a niece, Mrs. Margaret English.

Should Be Chairman One of his colleagues on the board of governors of the Harris County Hospital District sees him as "intelligent and wise as any person I have met. He should be the chairman of the district."

What is most often heard about him - Quentin Ronald Mease, 53, Iowa-born - is that he's a unique man.

Liberals and conservatives respect him. Students feel a rapport with him. Mayors and men in high places have sought him out and asked for his advice and help in communicating during times of stress.

Downtown Rotarian Recently he became the first member of his race to join the downtown Rotary Club, long the citadel of the conservative status quo businessmen.

"Do you think I'm running my liberal image?" he asks in mock seriousness. He was gratified, he says, "that more than 50 Rotarians congratulated me, shook my hand after I attended my first meeting. I hope they were all sincere."

Mease is executive director of the South Central YMCA at 3531 Wheeler.

In essence, the Y is the command post. Here Mease, "the quiet operator" as Federal Judge Woodrow Seals calls him, holds his endless meetings where white and black men discuss political candidates, bond issues and the progress of Negro education.

Precious little happens in the black community that Mease doesn't know or hear about.

Educated in Des Moines Mease, educated in public schools in Des Moines, attended Des Moines University, Drake, the University of Iowa and George Williams College in Chicago, where he obtained his master's degree in social work administration. He enlisted in the U.S. Air Force in 1942 and was discharged four years later a captain after 35 months overseas in the South Pacific Theatre.

Mease, who has been in YMCA work most of his adult life, came to Houston in 1951. One of the men responsible for hiring him was Dr. E. B. Perry, a physician, a member of the Negro YMCA as it was known at the time.

Early Years During his early years here Mease was one of the founders of the Houston Community Forum which brought here speakers such as Harry Golden, author and newspaper publisher, and Roy Wilkins, now president of the NAACP. Out of the Forum grew the organization now known as the Houston Council on Human Relations. Mease and his wife,

Elks Name Farmer Alumnus of Year

Memphis, Tenn. - James Farmer, the new Assistant Secretary for Health, Education and Welfare, has been chosen Alumnus of the Year by the Department of Education of the Improved, Benevolent, and Protective Order of Elks of the World.

George W. Lee, Grand Commissioner of Education with Hobson R. Reynolds, Grand Exalted Ruler, announced the Farmer selection this week, by saying, "Mr. Farmer, who rose from a humble birth in Atlanta, Georgia, to become a moving power in the civil rights struggle, was destined from birth to become a great leader. His destiny was given a big boost along the way when he was granted an Elks Scholarship that enabled him to go on to college after finishing high school. He won his scholarship by successfully participating in an Elks Oratorical Contest. 'The subject', he recalled, 'was something about the Negro and the Constitution'.

Elks Conclave Lee said that Farmer will receive the award at the Elks Grand Lodge in Washington, D. C. on the night of the National Oratorical Contest, an integrated affair in which young white and black Americans will vie for $10,000 in scholarships and for the coveted prize of being named the best young orator in the land.

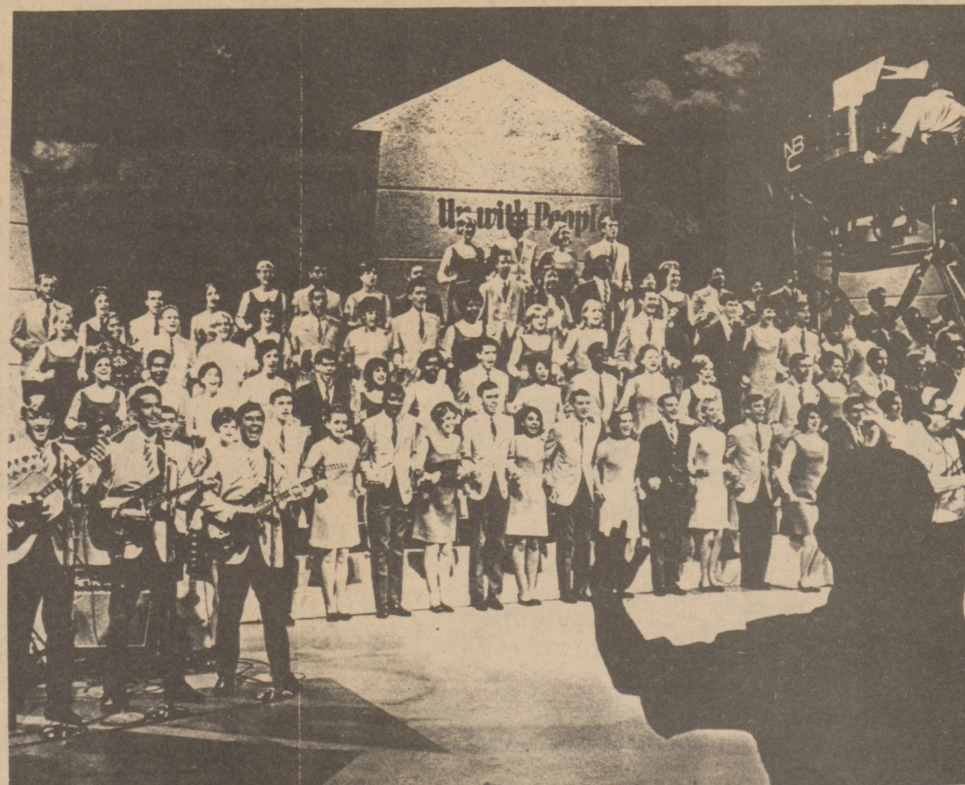

40-Day Sentence Given DePatten

Edward H. DePatten, jr., 21, of 1170 11th street, was sentenced to 40 days in the Polk County Jail after he was found guilty in Municipal Court Monday of exploding fireworks in the city and malicious injury to a building.

3rd Dismissed A third charge of assault and battery against DePatten was dismissed by Judge Harry B. Grund when witnesses failed to appear in court. DePatten is appealing the convictions to Polk County District Court and posted $700 in bonds.

UP WITH PEOPLE TROUPE BLITZ IOWA IN RETURN ENGAGEMENT: SING TONIGHT

By popular demand the 150 member "Up With People" troupe returned to Iowa and will give a one night performance in a two hour show tonight (Thurs.) at Veterans auditorium.

Appearances Eight of the members headlined a Dialogue Discussion group meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Vera Morrow, 1160 17th street. Tuesday morning one of the members, Carl Clay, of Midland, Tex., who has been with the troupe nearly a year, stopped in at the Bystander office for a visit.

The international group, composed of high school and college students from 17 countries and every state in the nation, has kept a task force of public relationists (students themselves) who made appearances to private and business groups while the remainder toured the state.

Education Clay said that he is planning to make his career with the group. Next fall he will spend two months on the campus of the University of Oklahoma, before leaving to join the group where it is. A new prototype educational system that will enable the members to earn diplomas and college degrees "on the road" will be initiated next fall through the University of Oklahoma.

Georgia Teen-Agers To Study in Russia

BROOKVILLE, N.Y. - Thirteen Negro teen-agers from Georgia who have been studying Russian for four years are on their way to Moscow to try out their knowledge.

The youngsters, all students at Atlanta's Booker T. Washington High School, will spend three weeks in Moscow, Leningrad, Tallinn and Riga in the Soviet Union. They are spending two days at C. W. Post College here for an orientation session and are due in Moscow Sunday.

Excited None of the group of nine girls and four boys, ages 16 and 17, has ever been out of the United States, and all were brimming with excitement and apprehension Friday. They had been given all sorts of advice from friends and relatives.

Omaha Panther Unit Disbanded

OMAHA, NEB. - A national Black Panther official says the Omaha chapter of the Black Panther party has been disbanded and its leader, Eddie Bolden, expelled from the organization.

The assistant chief of staff of the Black Panthers, June Hillard of Berkeley, Calif., says a chapter can be re-established in Omaha if persons interested in the party objectives set up an effective "anti-fascist" organization.

The head of the Des Moines chapter, Charles Knox, and the deputy chairman of the Kansas City chapter, Pete O'Neal, announced disbandment of the Omaha chapter.

Esther Myers Downed In Women's Singles Of Hilltop Tourney

Esther Myers, former Iowa women's singles champion for two straight years, mowed down her opponent in the first set of the finals of the 21st Hilltop Open Tennis tourney here Sunday at Good park.

She won the first set 6-12 from Marian Nissen of Mason City, Ia., but fell behind five straight games in the second set, losing by 2-6.

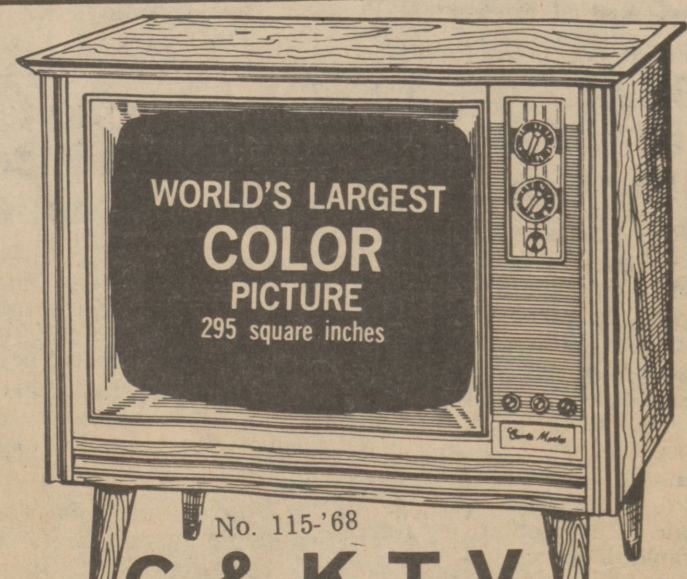

Deciding Set The deciding third set saw Myers down 0-3 before she rallied to tie at 3 all; she trailed again, 3-5 only to tie again at 5-5. Twice she was at match point but Nissen could not put her away. The third set ended 7-5 with Nissen carrying off the winners singles trophy.

Lives in Minn Myers who lives in Minneapolis, Minn., and returns to Des Moines each summer, had volleyed easily through first, second round and semi-final opponents.

Teaches Youngsters Mrs. Myers, who serves as tennis coach for Good Park, has been teaching a group of youngsters in the 11 to 13 age group of the Des Moines chapter of Jack and Jill of America, and any others interested. At the time of Jesus, the spoken language of Palestine was western Aramaic. Three dialects of this language were spoken in Galilee, Samaria and Judea, and Jesus spoke the Galilean, recognizable by its confusion of gutturals. Only three villages along the Syrian-Lebanese border use western Aramaic today.

HEW Mum on Amended Bias Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Nixon administration continued its virtual silence on a House-passed amendment that appears to threaten government efforts at desegregating schools.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) would not comment directly on the amendment cleared by the House Thursday.

A spokesman said only that the department stands by a July 3 policy statement on freedom of choice desegregation plans and added the administration did not propose the amendment.

Specifics
The southern-sponsored rider specifies the government cannot withhold education aid to force the closing of any school, the busing of any students, or the transfer of a pupil to any school against his parents wishes.

It is viewed as a legislative endorsement of freedom-of-choice desegregation plans. The federal courts have ruled such plans are unconstitutional unless they bring about rapid desegregation.

Rough Preferred

Most architects, when using cedar siding, specify rough-sawn material with stained or clear finish. They also report growing use of vertically applied board siding.

CAESAR GREENE, THE THREE YEAR OLD BRINDLE BOXER owned by the T. C. Greens (Tommy and Helen) and a description of his pad graced this column a few weeks ago. Let's look in on the Greens, an exciting pair of Eastsiders. They have just returned from a trip to Canada, which began with the arrival of two carloads of friends from Detroit, Michigan.

Organizers of the caravan were Bob and Florence Robinson (Mr. and Mrs. Robert T.). They were accompanied by their daughter, Lorraine, their nephew, Buddy, and the second car of friends. The three-car party enjoyed a leisurely motor trip to Bull Moose Lodge, Nester Falls, Montreal, Canada.

Breakfast at a Holiday Inn located at the edge of Minnesota, brought Helen face to face with a cousin, Ronald Carter, and with Virgil Winters. These two were members of the Kennedy Club-sponsored annual chartered bus trek to the baseball games. The encounter nevertheless reminds one of how small our world is.

The motorists found the temperature at Nester Falls to be cool at night, requiring blankets; daytime it rose to 97. Their cottage had all the comforts of home; wall to wall carpeting, television, and all the usuals, thus afforded Helen, at least, all she required for a "good rest". She caught one fish—a 32 to 35 lb. muskie! Having thus established a reasonable reputation as a fisherman, she resumed "resting". Tommy and the men went sea plane fishing twice. In all, the party's catch included wall eyes, bass, and trout. Helen says they have a nice collection of pictures—both still and movies. Hesitating to unleash Caesar to race about with the youngsters and perhaps topple over a few in an affectionate onrush of his big self, she tried steering him about. It worked the other way; he took her into the lake, playclothes and all. At the time of one such event, a neighbor called out from her small isle, inviting Helen and Caesar over (more correctly "Caesar and Helen"). She offered and prepared Helen a "delicious mint julep in a frosted glass". Wet attire or dry, Helen credits Caesar with engineering many new friendships. This is wholly believable, knowing Caesar's rough and tumble display of affection.

NOW FOR A COUPLE OF PEEKVIEWS of Helen and Tommy's palatial pad! The top floor's five rooms and bath, and the downstairs family room, bar and snack room, and bath, comprise their domain. Dominating the living room is a modernistic, custom made avocado green couch with a table ottoman; on the table portion is an enormous cocoa brown cork bottom lamp topped by a tall white shade—the tallest lamp I've seen. A large matching cushion rests on the couch.

The shag carpeting is autumn haze. Burnt orange and gold prevail in the rest of the accessories.

Western leather furniture and a small bar make up the den's furnishings. The colors here are black, gold and burnt orange. Now for a second peekview; the basement and its furnishings for complete lounging comfort, visiting, TV viewing or music; the bar and snack area offers bar seats and cozy leather covered booths. The remaining space could accommodate dancing to their entertainment speakers.

FLORENCE AND BOB ROBINSON, THE Detroit friends of the T. C. Greens are the parents of Chuck Holliday, our KDPS-FM (88.1) Radio announcer. It is his soul music heard nightly, Monday through Saturday, 7:00 to 10:00. The Holloways are Chuck, his wife, Anne, and 6 year old Chuckie!

SOUND VIEWS

Included among the youngsters who are appearing in Up With People at the Veterans Auditorium Thursday is a young Negro from a small Texas town. Questioned about his views of the extreme militants, he said that the original thrust had some merit but that now they are going too far, far to the extent that they are creating a lot of ill will between the races which will take years to heal. Further, he said that they are creating a serious division within the race which tends to weaken the whole cause. This division is caused greatly because in an effort to advise the inexperienced ill advised individuals are tabbed as Uncle Tom or are subjected to other abuses.

Even in the light of this situation which too many Negroes in high places and whites don't recognize, there are those who say we must listen to the militants. With this we agree in part. But it is more important that the militants do some listening themselves. And this listening involves such advice as responsibility, integrity, good citizenship, thrift, respect which are seriously needed for a lot of these virtues are lacking in many of these militants. A lot of youngsters here and elsewhere are doing a good job. It is easy to see why he was chosen as one of the leaders of this interesting group.

NEW TECHNIQUES IN WAGING WAR

People with causes to advance often come up with some new tactics to direct attention to them. Here in Polk county, an organization of welfare recipients, have challenged welfare officials to live one week on the substance equal to what they receive. The participants are mostly administrative officers and thus have little discretion in allotting welfare funds.

Living costs are rising each month; some since the legislature adjourned, which has required that welfare recipients adjust their budget in order to feed their families.

It is not easy for one person to put himself in the position of that of another. Certainly, people making five to twenty thousand dollars a year are not in a position to prove much as to the fellow who gets two or three thousand dollars per year on welfare.

It is natural that we want to live like the rest of the neighbors. After all, welfare is a gift, but once finding that it is needed, it should be such as meets the needs as near as possible. In the meantime, these people must wait and make their pitch before the legislatures.

ITS NOT EASY TO STOP A WAR

There are many people in and out of public life, including members of congress, who are demanding that President Nixon stop the war now. The only means of doing this would simply have our forces lay down their arms and walk off. And even this is not as easy as it sounds. It has taken a lot of time and effort to bring our strength to where it is; it will take a long time to unwind. Already, our forces are being withdrawn. The administration hopes that as our forces are withdrawn, the South Viet Nam army will take over and pursue the war to a final conclusion.

This is going to be rougher than it sounds. And while the situation would be ideal, we are having a hard time keeping the enemy in check. After all we have one part of a country fighting against the other.

Naturally there is not the will for brother to kill brother.

Then most people forget that the French were locked in this situation for ten years and finally backed out without accomplishing anything. We are not in a position to do much better.

CARTER SPURNS
73 CAGE OFFERS
GREENSBORO, N.C. - Sharpshooter Al Carter, one of the most sought after high school basketball players in Virginia last season, has signed a grant-in-aid with North Carolina A & T State University.

Carter, who starred for Martinsville Senior High, spurned some 73 collegiate offers in order to sign with the Aggies. He was recruited and signed by A & T's veteran coach Cal Irvin, who called Carter "one of the finest prospects I've seen in a long time."

A & T ATHLETIC TRAINER TAPPED
GREENSBORO, N.C. - Jerry Kimbrough, popular athletic trainer at A & T State University since 1965, resigned last week to accept a position as senior assistant trainer at Michigan State University.

Kimbrough is a native of Statesville, N.C. and a graduate of A & T. He served as a student trainer for the Aggies and was named head trainer when Horns by Howell was promoted assistant football coach. Howell is currently head football coach.

QUESTION: My daughter is only 5 years old. As a stockholder in a corporation she is required to obtain a social security number for some sort of business tax reports by the company. Is she too young to get a number?

ANSWER: No. There is no age limit, young or old, at which a person cannot get a social security card. Be sure to keep it in a safe place for her as she will need to use this same social security number throughout her lifetime.

QUESTION: Recently I obtained permission from the courts to change my name. What can I do to change my social security record to match my new name?

ANSWER: You should obtain Form OAA-7003 from your social security office to request a change on your social security record. When a person has a change in name due to marriage, divorce or other reasons, the social security administration should be notified so that previous earnings can be properly credited.

QUESTION: My doctor charged me $5.00 per visit while I was hospitalized. May I include his charges in my claim under Medicare?

ANSWER: Yes, your doctor's services are covered by Medical Insurance no matter where you receive them—in the hospital, at home, or in the doctor's office.

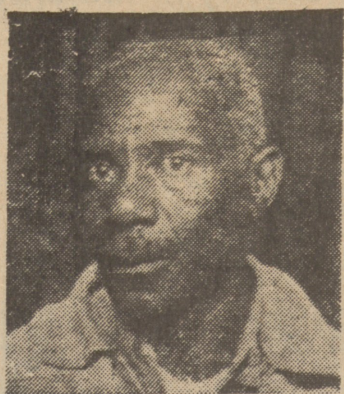

QUESTION: My father died last year and my mother received a burial payment from social security then. A friend of mine said I also should be getting a monthly social security check. I am a sophomore in college now.

ANSWER: It sounds very likely that you should be. It is required that you be in full time attendance at an accredited school, unmarried, and not yet twenty-two years of age. You should contact your social security office as soon as possible.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

The 21st Hilltop Tennis tournament turned out to be a field of surprises. Not the least of which was the small entry list. It has been just five years since we had such a samill draw. But things went off beautifully.

Really Glad

Most of us old timers were really glad the way the men's singles turned out. Big Gary Fletcher has been in this meet almost since its beginning and we can't recall that he ever won a single title. Well, the guy played some of the best singles. We were really glad to present him with the winner's trophy for he is really a nice guy and proved than nice guys can win. Then he teamed up with Arden Stokstad and won their second leg on the Bill Ashby doubles trophy. They said they'd be back next year to retire the thing.

Women's Doubles

The women's doubles was a triumph of veterans over youngsters. Betty Gerbeich and Robert Lavine have played on a doubles team in just about every Hilltop meet. Well, Sunday they met a couple of youngsters who could have been their daughters. You guessed it. The old people hung up one for the old people.

Harold McCallum

Harold McCallum came to the trophy stand for what he called a bunch of runner-ups stuff. He finished second in the veterans singles, he and his daughter, Laura Williams, lost the mixed doubles to Howard Sprague and Marian Nissen, both of Mason City. Then he and Mike Schaumburg lost the men's doubles to Fletcher and Stokstad. Just about everyone complimented us on our meet.

Health for All

WATCH OUT FOR WILD WEEDS

Ragweed grows wild. All across the country. Just about now.

Summer and fall are delicious days for most people. Sun-filled and fun-packed. But for hay fever sufferers—of whom 75 percent are allergic to ragweed—these days trigger trouble. Sneezing, itchy eyes, watery noses, stuffy ears. That kind of trouble.

Other Pollen

Ragweed is only one of the troublemakers. Hay fever victims often react to a wide range of plant pollens. Trees, grasses, and weeds have windborne pollen. But the substance triggering the allergy may be mold spores or dog dandruff. Or even dust. Suffering, in short, can last year round.

Avoided?

How can all this distress be avoided? Removing the cause of the reaction results in immediate relief. But avoiding areas where ragweed grows, for instance, is not too practical since ragweed pollens fill the air in so many places in midsummer and fall. Air conditioning and air and all the kids and their parents promised to be back next year. So we should have a helluva draw for 1970.

purifying devices can help. So can antihistamines, prescribed by a physician.

Injectons

Desensitization by means of injection can be a long process, but it is usually effective. In fact, an allergy to ragweed—or other plant—sometimes disappears if injections begin before the pollen season and continue after the season. Often the injections have to be repeated at the same season for several years. But the trouble can be worth it.

To find out more about hay fever and other allergic reactions, get in touch with your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. They have the facts.

government's Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) programs here and is funded by the Department of Labor. Both agencies are attempting to make the hard-core unemployed employable.

Opposed

GO has had the subcontract for $1.1million worth of first-year CEP employment projects. The CEP first-year budget is $1.8 million.

A dispute developed last week over a CEP plan to move all of its programs, including those operated by GO, into a single building.

Subcontract

Donald McKenzie, director of GO, opposed the plan claiming that CEP is being phased out by the government and may not continue beyond the next six months. He said the $12,000 rental for the proposed building would be a waste of money.
