14 Wyoming Blacks To Sue University

Says Churches Show Contempt for Blacks In "Guilt" Payments

For Reinstatement To Football Squad

Laramie, Wyo.--The 14 black students kicked off the University of Wyoming football team, have hired a lawyer to file suit in federal district court to have them reinstated.

William Waterman of Detroit, Mich., said he would allege the civil rights of freedom of speech of the players was violated.

Unifying Effect
The black athletes were dismissed by Coach Lloyd Eaton for wearing black arm bands in a racial protest against last Saturday's opponent, Brigham Young University.

Cites Supreme Court
Waterman said he would base his court argument on a New York case which dealt with basically the same question as is being asked in Laramie.

"The Supreme Court decided without question in a recent case that a man does not give up his right to protest when he joins a football team."

Foster Home Needed for Girl

A Negro foster home is needed for a black junior high school student who has severe disciplinary problems, Polk County District Judge Leo Oxberger said Tuesday. Judge Oxberger said the girl "does not get along well with whites," and there are no regular Negro foster homes in the area.

"We have no Negro women as probation officers," Oxberger said, "so we have been unable to find someone with whom the girl can identify and be comfortable."

If a home for the girl is not found, the judge said, he will have to send her to the Iowa training school for girls at Mitchellville, "and she really doesn't belong there."

He said there also is a need for young Negro women to act as "big sisters" for junior high school age Negro girls who are brought before the court.

Teenager Leads Protection Bid

WILMINGTON, DEL. --- A teen-aged Negro boy has asked Gov. Russell Peterson, Wilmington's mayor and police chief for better police protection on city streets.

In registered letters to them, Robert Scott, 14, says he sent copies of 130 signatures of area residents who are backing his plea. "We do not want our people to be afraid to go out on the streets day or night," he said.

His petition referred to store and home burglaries, a recent shooting and vandalism, even money taken from small children by order ones, a reason for asking for more police.

One inexpensive way to pep up a big, dull wall is to apply standard wood moldings in picture-frame forms. Paint these frames in a contrasting color.

New York, N. Y. --- A letter written to the three dominant religious faiths by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, this week revealed that the writer urged that there be "no reparations" to anyone to atone for racial inequities and mistreatment of the past.

The letter in part went as follows:

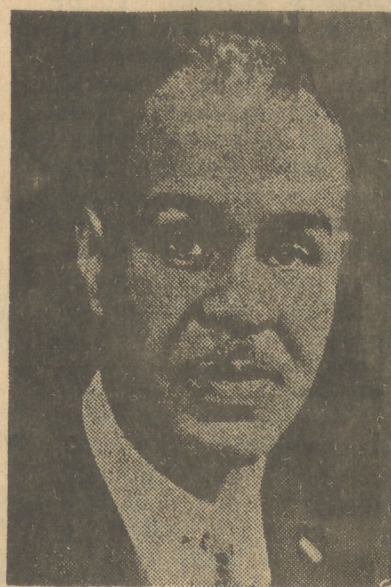

Our opposition to the notion of reparations is not solely on philosophic grounds. We are at least as deeply concerned by the knowledge that no amount of "reparations" conceivably payable by the nation's churches can either compensate for the Negro's wrongs or bring him into the just and equal society he seeks.

In the terms in which the reparations idea has been proclaimed, therefore, it is a snare and a delusion whose inevitable failure would have disastrous consequences.

"A genuine solution demands the massive use of public funds, chiefly Federal, on a scale at least akin to that proposed by A. Philip Randolph's 'Freedom Budget,' which calls for nearly $200 billions over a ten-year period.

"To give money to black claimants who are without credentials or competence for their professed aims is to show contempt for black Americans generally, because it says that, where Negroes are concerned, Consider Carefully tions, in the interest of guaranteeing that your financial support goes to promote real change within the democratic structure.

It would be false modesty not to cite, among these options, the vital work of the NAACP, carried on nationwide in education, housing, youth work, political action, and economic development--mostly without benefit of newspaper headlines.

Within the past two years, done more to strengthen the black community's economic potential than any agency outside of government. Using our own meagre resources.

We have organized a national consortium of Negro contractors, known as National Afro-American Builders, Inc., and have set up and incorporated local, state or regional consortiums in two dozen localities.

Open House Held for Union Baptist Parsonage

By F.E. Hawthorne
Union Baptist church greeted visitors and friends during an Open House held Sunday afternoon at the new three-bedroom brick parsonage at 1348 McCormick street.

Hostesses resplendent in long white gowns, presided over a reception table, centered by a towering seven-tiers of cake squares decorated in orange and yellow. Other table accessories, along with three beautiful large floral bouquets, compliments of two local florists, carried out the autumnal motif.

Even the pastor, Rev. H. I. Thomas and family reflected the color scheme. Mrs. Thomas dressed in a white lace dress, wore a bronze and gold corsage of mums. Their daughters, Diedra, 12 and Renee, 6, wore gold and brown attire with miniature corsages. Rev. Thomas wore a gold boutonniere.

After hostesses conducted a tour of the first floor, Deacon L.F. Walton took them for a look-see of the basement recreation level.

Prior to the Open House a dedication of the parsonage was conducted by the Rev. George Parrish, pastor of Maple Street Baptist church. Standing in were R. A. Jackson, chairman of the Trustees and Deacon Andrew Seigh, proxy for Deacon James Stufferfield, chairman of the deacon board.

Culmination

Hostesses were Mesdames Esther Wadsworth, Daisy Edwards, Ruby Wilson, Roxie Gilbert, Dorothy Reed, and Mrs. Agnes Blackwell, sister of Mrs. Thomas from Kansas City, Mo.

Committee members are Mesdames Mary Parker, chairman, Mary Hawkins, Mabel Jackson, Florence Gunn and Nancy Jackson.

SURE MY FACE IS CLEAN, MA! — JUST LOOK AT THE TOWEL!

Health for All

HEALTH CRACKING THE CODE OF LIFE
Cracking the genetic code was a milestone for man.

The facts are staggering. Each cell in your body contains tightly twisted molecules, DNA, carrying coded messages. If all the DNA molecules in your body were stretched out to their full length and placed side by side, they would spread almost all the way across the solar system. The image defies the imagination.

Combinations
The code in each DNA molecule consists of letter-like combinations, and cells act according to their instructions. Scientists are now beginning to "read" those instructions, which determine the destiny of a cell.

Depending on the code, a tubercle bacillus—the TB germ—could be created, or any other kind of cell. The DNA of the tubercle bacillus, in fact, is now under intensive investigation at the Duke University Medical Center.

Research Result
As the result of a research grant from the American Thoracic Society, the medical arm of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, Dr.

dred H. Dicks, local vice president and Mrs. Mary Abernathy and unit president and members of the state nominating committee. There were 1750 registrations from 38 states. Vera Hewary of Carroll, Ia., was installed as national president.

Mrs. Paul Hazelwood is president of the Licensed Practical Nurses for the coming year succeeding Mrs. George Rumble. Mrs. Robinson installed the officers at a banquet at the Red Lion Inn last Monday. There were 97 attending. Others installed are Mrs. Donnie Huck, vice president; Mrs. Burrell Hass, treasurer; Mrs. Hubert Clark, Jr., recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Smith, historian; Mrs. Clarence Dicks, parliamentarian and Mrs. Warren Stokes, reporter.

The Rev. James L. Postel, pastor of Trinity Episcopal

Hilda P. Willett is conducting studies to determine the genetic makeup of this bacillus. Through her research, she hopes to find out more about the DNA and how it instructs the cell, why some TB germs become resistant to drugs that immobilize most TB germs, and other fundamental questions.

Implications
The implications of research into DNA are dizzying. Already geneticists have succeeded in creating test-tube copies of DNA molecules containing man-made instructions. The molecules have been injected into some bacteria, thus altering the destinies of the cells.

The possibility of re-writing genetic blueprints opens vast new dimensions in medical research. And no one can now visualize what may lie ahead.

Acts to Speed Up Integration in Ga

Washington, D.C. -- The government asked Oct. 22 for a preliminary injunction to force Georgia to desegregate its 192 public school systems by the opening of the 1970-71 school year.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the request was included in a motion filed in Atlanta federal court, that seeks to expedite a desegregation suit which the Justice Department brought against Georgia last Aug. 1.

9 Steps

The motion urged the court to order Georgia school officials to take nine specific steps to eliminate segregation, and spelled out a timetable for carrying out the plan.

Of Georgia's 192 school systems, the government said, 109 either have no Negro pupils, have desegregated voluntarily or are under court orders to do so.

The other 83 include districts that have had their federal funds cut off or have failed to carry out voluntary desegregation programs.

First Time

The original federal complaint marked the first time a state board of education had been charged under the 1964 Civil Rights Act with violations of that law as well as the Fourteenth Amendment.

The suit accused the state board of failing to take steps to disestablish a racially segregated school system despite broad authority the suit says is vested in it under the Georgia constitution.

The state has countered that it has no direct authority over the school districts.

Activities of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission

The Oct. 22nd issue of the Des Moines Register and Tribune points out another problem confronting a man or woman whose skin is any color other than white.

The article concerned the need for a foster home for a Negro girl. The Iowa Civil Rights Commission appreciates the concern of Judge Oxberger who took the time to call attention to the problem in this particular case. We respect Judge Oxberger's efforts and regret that he, a white man, had to point out this problem to the black community.

No Choice

But, we question the service to be performed to the black community if the young teenage girl is placed in an institution such as Mitchellville, simply because she is black, and there is no place for her in a white community. We admit that perhaps the Judge has no choice of places he can turn to for help in this situation, and for this reason we are not criticizing the Judge; however, we are critical of the system.

Who's Who

The Civil Rights Commission asks these questions. Where are the Black leaders of this community? Who are the Black leaders? Do the Black elites read the Black newspaper? Why hasn't something been done by Black leadership to change this kind of juvenile system?

We recognize that the

Sen. Brooke's Wife Leaves Hospital

BROOKLINE, MASS.--Remigia Brooke, wife of Senator Edward Brooke (Rep. Mass.), left Brooke's Hospital Friday after undergoing surgery for cancer.

Brooke's office said the senator's wife, who has been hospitalized since Oct. 11, had a malignant growth removed from the bladder area. Doctors believe they have removed all the malignant tissue, a spokesman for the Senator's office said.

VETERANS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

A study of the veterans who entered college during the first three years of the current G. I. bill indicates that while almost half enrolled as freshmen, about one in five enrolled for a master's or Ph. D. degree.

The Veterans Administration said that more than half of the G. I. college students indicated their field of study.

Of this group 31 per cent chose business and commerce, 14.5 per cent education, and 11 per cent engineering.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q - I'm back in school after working in a department store for the summer. Can I get a refund now on the taxes withheld from my pay?

A - No. you will have to wait until after the end of the year before you can file your return. To avoid delays when you file for your refund, check now to make sure you have the W-2 statement of wages paid and taxes withheld your employer gave you when you left. A copy of this statement must be filed with your return.

Q - Will enough be taken out of my pay to cover the surcharge?

A - Withholding rates have been adjusted to take care of the income tax surcharge. For most people, withholding should be sufficient to satisfy their tax liabilities this year.

School Days

Smart Moms Let Kids Pack Lunches

"Mom... this lunch you packed turns me off!"... sound familiar, mom? If your school aged kids complain about the "same old thing" in their carried lunches, it's time you turned to them.

Here's how to help them get organized to begin packing "groovy" and nutritious lunches they'll enjoy... saving you that extra time each day for other homemaking activities.

Lunch Packing Center
Designate a special lunch packing center in your kitchen. Select a section of counter near the refrigerator or freezer. Be sure a cutting board and drawer are handy, too. Fill the drawer with lunch box necessities like: napkins, plastic beverage or soup containers, a jar of "milk money" change, and Handi-Wrap for sandwich and food wrapping.

Assign a shelf in your refrigerator for lunch food supplies like butter, spreads, cold cuts, cheeses and fruits. Each child can prepare and refrigerate his lunch the evening before each school day or make an entire week's supply of lunches on the weekend and freeze the sandwiches. Wrapped frozen sandwiches can be

Q - The IRS auditor who examined my return says I owe $65 more. Can I get a further hearing on my case without getting involved with legal fees and the like?

A - Yes, you may request a district conference and present your side of the dispute to an impartial third party. It will not be necessary for you to engage legal counsel to represent you at the conference. It also is not necessary to file a formal written protest to obtain a conference since the tax involved is less than $2,500.

Procedures for requesting a conference are outlined in a letter you will receive from IRS setting forth the results of the examination of your return.

Q - I found an expense I overlooked when I filled out my tax return this year. Is it too late to make this change?

A - No, you may still claim this expense by filing Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. As a general rule, you have three years from the date your return was due to claim items you forgot about.

Copies of the form and instructions for completing it may be obtained by writing to your District Director.

Social Security

Health, Education
Welfare

Q - What can I do to speed up my Part B. Medicare Claim?

A - The best way you can help is to be very careful in completing the Form SSA-1490 (Request for Medicare Payment)... Complete Items 1 and 2, showing your name and number exactly as it appears on your Health Insurance Card. Complete the remainder of Part I, including your signature.

Q - What evidence do I need to establish my date of birth?

A - an original birth certificate or baptismal record established before age 5 is best. If this is not available other evidence which could establish your age are: Federal Census Record, Marriage Record, Delayed Birth Certificate, Early School Record, Birth Certificate of your Child which shows your Age, Military Discharge, Family Bible, Insurance Policies. Your social security office will help you to secure adequate evidence if you need assistance.

Q - They tell me I should file a social security application when I am 65, but I have hesitated to do so because my earnings in the next couple of years will be higher than they were before I reach age 65, and I want to have these higher earnings figured in when I do start drawing social security checks. If I file now, is my social security "frozen" at the age 65 figure?

A - You should file an application at age 65, in order to be covered by Medicare even though you plan to continue working. Each year thereafter your earnings will be refigured to see if it will increase the amount of your benefit. This is done automatically for you and requires no action on your part. Therefore, you have much to gain and nothing to lose by filing promptly - three months before you are age 65.

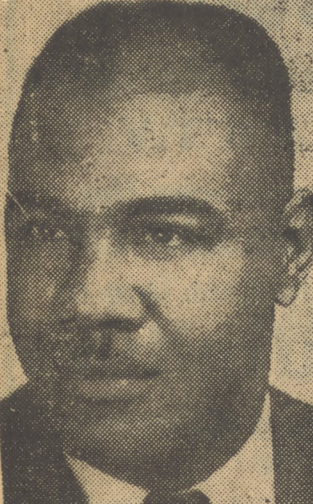

Q - Five years ago when my wife died I received only a lump sum death payment. Even though we had three minor children, I was advised by the social security man that these children couldn't qualify for monthly checks. Was this correct?

A - The information given you was correct at that time. However, under recent amendments these children may now be eligible. I suggest you contact your nearest social security office right away since monthly benefits may now be due you on behalf of these children.

LINES

THIS WEEK'S LINES are put together after your's truly spent the last four of the past seven days in bed. My problem was a badly sprained ankle. With a pair of antique crutches serving as an ankle bone, I present this column!

ONE OF OUR COMMUNITY'S GREATS admits his favorite reading is not The Great Book Series, the Harvard Classics, or the latest best seller! Then what is it? "Parent and Child" by Hiram Gnotton and his "Parent and Teenager". (Excerpts from these books appeared recently in our daily Register-remember?) Anyway back to our great one—a rumble and a roar in his dealings with colleagues, this giant upon arriving home, depends wholly upon Author Gnotton's works. You see, at home he faces a generation gap: a teenager!

PAINTER ANN PAGE'S STORY BRINGS TO MIND "The best laid plans of mice and men often go astray!" A beautifully organized individual, Ann, as usual, had completed her annual quota of home-made fruit cakes. All that remained to do was to wrap them for delivery and address them to the lucky recipients. Tunky, her six year old "part German Shepherd, mostly German Shepherd" has sat with her over the years as she performs this work and so is completely aware of the importance of her activities; further Tunky knows her own place in the scheme of things. Irrked with the recent change in Ann's parttime employment schedule, Tunky nosed about for something to do that might break her boredom! Ann returning home noted a familiar scrap of paper. Having scrutinized it, she hurriedly counted her fruit cakes! You betcha! She was one short—the biggest one! The one just the proportions of Tunky's newly found good spirits!

ANTIGONE, STARRING TERRI LUX in the leading role and Curtis Page as Creon, and directed by Charles Dickson at Drama Workshop, drew a large and delighted audience! There were some comments pro and con as to the show's costuming. I felt that Ann Page's points of view were excellently phrased and completely enlightening. She has served as costume mistress for more shows than anyone I know! She has executed the dreams of more directors than anyone I've heard about. She expresses herself best as a painter: Ann states that "the Drama Workshop strives to deal with a mood and emotion rather than a verbatim account of a play. This does not mean the result is good or bad or that the idea can or cannot be done. Rather, the director is expressing the feeling he gets from the play itself—not the play's word for word direction.

A painter paints a portrait illustrating the person as he feels him, continues Ann. The portrait is not necessarily as a camera would show him. Therefore, some people don't like their portraits. A painting is not a replica—it is a view of features plus character. A play as the Workshop would do it, is not a carbon copy. It reflects the mood and emotion a director finds in the play. A work of art—theater, dance, painting, music, any art—is the structural and emotional form intermingled so as to form a whole. They belong to each other. So Antigone's costumes were holding together the old Greek and the modern day in a play which is timeless. (Hence, there is no old or new), too the struggle in Antigone, being neither old or new, is what the costume is saying! (We leave you here! Want to think it over?)

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair care and beauty experts know that the first traces of gray hair—and even slight fading of natural color after chemical relaxing—can dull a woman's appearance and make her look older than she feels. While most women hate these premature aging effects, many are hesitant about using permanent peroxide haircoloring which may change the natural hair color while coloring gray.

Professionally-trained hairdressers know the importance of their customers' preferences when unwanted gray becomes a problem. These experts also know that Clairol created semi-permanent Loving Care® hair color lotion without peroxide... to color only the gray without changing the natural shade. They also find Loving Care blends back color faded by chemical processing. Because of its mildness, Loving Care maintains healthy looking hair and lasts through a month of shampoos. Whatever a woman's reason for wanting Loving Care for her hair, she is always wise to consult a professional beautician. Times Have Changed, But There Is Still Fun at Iowa University Homecomings

Homecoming at Iowa University is as different today from years gone by as the buildings and yet some linger on. Gone is Mrs. Helen Lemme, whose home was the gathering spot for students, Negro and white, who returned and renewed their association during college days. They came from Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, Omaha and a host of Iowa towns.

Gathering Spot

For years, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bell has been a gathering spot for the entertainment of friends before and after the games. The games were replaced by such well known graduates and former students from many places as the late Duke Slater of Chicago, Archie Alexander, Ozzie and Don Simmons of Chicago, Dr. Everett Scales, Dr. Joe Ritchey, Dr. George Harper and their wives, of course, sometimes as many as fifty.

Old Timers

Saturday, Oct. 25, gathered such old timers and new visitors as Dr. and Mrs. Harry Harper of Ft. Madison, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawrence Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Morris, Sr., James B. Morris, Jr., Everett Mays of Des Moines, Dr. and Mrs. R.E. Motley of Cedar Rapids, Eugene and Mrs. Mary Freelee of Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Stewart, Jr. of Mason City, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pearl of Keokuk, some of whom had been among the guests for many years.

While the group was jubilant over the outcome of the game, much discussion centered around "how far we have come over the years."

Undoubtedly, there were other gatherings which we would be glad to hear about.

Afro-American beauty currently is co-starring in Gordon Parks' "The Learning Tree." She plays the demure but wayward girlfriend of top-billed Kyle Johnson. The Warner Bros. 7 Arts release is Miss Waters' first film.

Three years ago, Mira was half a world away from the demands and rewards of Hollywood, living comfortably in New York and Paris and Burundi (East Africa) as the wife of an African diplomat. She hobnobbed with such luminaries as the Shah of Iran, Ralph Bunche, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy and Kadi, the niece of French Premier Georges Pompidou.

"It was all the adjectives," recalls Miss Waters, "exciting, glamorous, fun."

Fewer Homes Rise; Wood Per Unit Up

Single-family homes being built today require an average of 12,900 board feet of lumber, highest in history, reports the U.S. Forest Service. Previous estimate was 10,000 board feet.

More wood is going into decks, fences and siding, but the main reason for the rise is that new houses are bigger, though fewer. Mobile homes and apartments are dominant for dwellings costing under $18,000.

HELL IS FULL OF GOOD INTENTIONS

The Viet Nam Moratorium Day in America last week helped to center attention on what we all want - peace. But the motive has been so badly kicked about that it made the many politicians and opponents look and feel silly. Every citizen has a right to protest what he thinks is wrong. But there are times and occasions when the method belittles the purpose and often does more harm than good.

Speakers demanded immediate withdrawal from Vietnam; some advocated a definite time table to withdraw. Neither is practical when there is a formidable enemy to be dealt with and shakey people in whose hands fighting the war to an end will be left.

The protest could not help but bolster the willingness to resist by Hanoi and provided loose tounge politicians an audience to suggest solutions to this troubled war which, while sounding good, have no practical value.

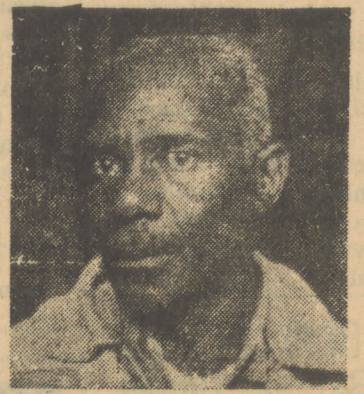

Too many people have theories on the failures we are making but few have solutions for the problems we face.

resigned...business associations I had, directorships and things of that sort,' when he went on the bench in 1957. As it developed, Haynsworth had not resigned these posts in 1957. As late as 1964, he was a vice-president and very active director of the Carolina Vendatic Co."

"On the simple grounds that the Judge had not told the Senate the whole truth, the administration could regretfully have prevailed on Haynsworth to ask that his nomination be withdrawn. Instead, the White House has committed itself to fighting what looks like a losing battle to the bitter end."

Lawrence, like friend Clark Mollenhoff, accuses Judge Haynsworth's opponents of character assassination but didn't acknowledge that the judge lied to the Senate Judiciary Committee. In other words, David Lawrence and Clark Mollenhoff are throwing up a lot of dust but ignoring facts.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

If you were there you were probably among the Hawkeye fans who wondered if Iowa would get the ball in those final minutes. We thought they would score if they got the ball in time but for a while that was a major problem. They can rave all

The Bystander addressed a letter to the heads of each of the companies; Iowa Power and Light, Iowa Electric Light Co., Iowa Southern Utilities and the Iowa, Illinois Gas and Electric Co. and the advertising agency calling attention to the fact that no Negroes appear on their commercials that it was an injustice to Negro players some of whom might be looking for jobs in these establishments when they finished school.

Prompt responses were received from each, stating that the suggestion had merit, that the film used was one made a few years back and that the advertising agency would correct this oversight in the filming of other pictures.

The Bystander took this course to emphasize that Negroes should be included in all of our activities, that they are often forgotten and that most people are willing to right mistakes and injustices if they know about them.

GREAT WRITERS SHOULD GIVE ALL THE FACTS

There are times when able columnists in our newspapers confuse the public so badly on vital issues that the average fellow is skeptical about them all.

In the Des Moines Tribune October 24, David Lawrence said in the article appearing on the editorial page, "If ever there was a case of 'character assassination' - as the term was used during Senate committee investigations in the 1950s - it is the attack which has been made on Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, who has been nominated by President Nixon to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court."

October 25 in the Des Moines Register, Joseph Kraft, a writer of many years, said, "In the course of his testimony to the Senate Judiciary Committee, it came out that Haynsworth had been less than truthful with a Senate subcommittee. He had claimed that 'I they want about the touchdown catch, but in our mind, the key play was that fourth down look-in pass catch by Ray Manning.

It was fourth and three and the ball had to be caught. The fellow jumped nine feet it seemed caught the ball over his head and landed head first with two Spartans on top of him. We all thought Manning would drop the ball when he hit, but he probably landed so hard he was welded to the thing. It was a great win and people are guessing that maybe the boys can go to the Rose bowl if the "ifs" include Minnesota, Indiana and Michigan. So now you can evaluate their chances.

Cyclones

At Iowa State the offense that hadn't done much all year suddenly came alive. People say Obert Tisdale looked like he should have looked all season. The addition of Mike Palmer in the backfield made things a little easier for Jack Johnson who isn't a really big man as fullbacks go, but must be one of the hardest running fullbacks around.

The Cyclones defense was tough as always. And while we are on the Big Eight, don't think the Colorado win was an upset over Oklahoma. They have a really tough defensive club and the only way to beat them is not let them score very many points, because if you play them you sure won't score many.

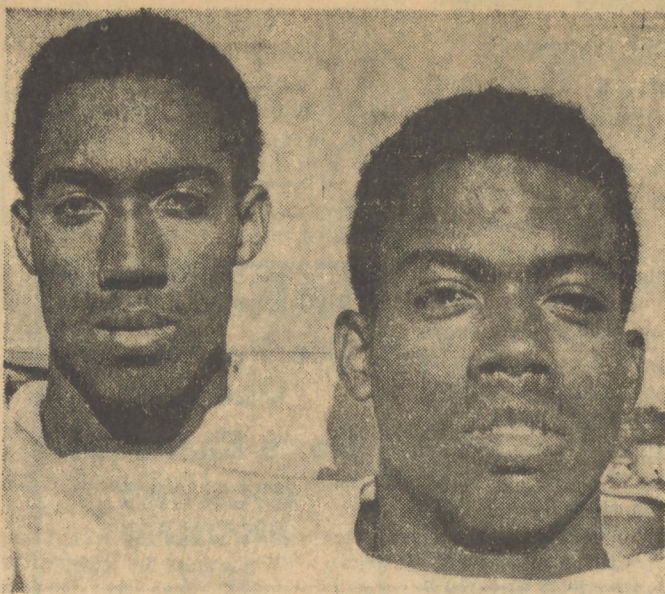

Drake Bulldogs

For a long time Drake felt they couldn't play football in the Missouri Valley because they couldn't compete with other teams on recruiting and other things that make football expensive. But this year's Bulldogs team could play with any team in the Valley and wouldn't finish last. Maybe in a few more years, Drake will play Valley football again.

Lew Alcindor Tells of Secret Break with High School Coach

New York. -- When Lew Alcindor's high school coach, Jack Donohue, used a racial slur to psyche some extra hustle out of him in a game, Donohue unknowingly lost the young star's confidence and any chance he would ever have to be his coach at college, according to Alcindor's (copyrighted) autobiography in Sports Illustrated this week.

Basketball League Forming at Settlement House

The Settlement House Association is forming a basketball league consisting of teams primarily from the three Settlement House areas. This league will not be a highly competitive one but rather will provide opportunities for young men whose skill in basketball does not permit them to be a part of school or other organized teams.

This league will consist of an Intermediate League (ages 13-15) and a Senior League (ages 16-20). Registration for teams began Monday, Oct. 27, at Julia B. Mayer Center, Roadside Settlement House, and Willie House.

Other teams or organizations who have potential to help in league development or who are interested in forming a team should contact Billy Foster at Julia B. Mayer Center Monday through Thursday, or phone 243-5263.

schools win in their homecoming games? Must be some sort of a record.

Here at home the local high school situation hasn't changed much. Dowling is still too tough for the rest of the schools and they all play about even.

Hoover squeezed out a victory over a North team that blew hot and cold all season. Roosevelt did in an East team that never did play as they should or could have.

Cassius Clay

And poor Tech just didn't break into the win column. But it is said that most of those kids are sophomores and juniors and they are really looking forward to next year. They promise to square accounts for some of their past lickings.

And oh yes, did you hear Cassius Clay or Mohammed Ali, comment on the boxing matches between the Russians and Americans last Saturday? When that guy talks boxing he really makes sense.

IN SOUTH VIETNAM

Down in the swamp paddy under the sky,

A place full of horror to live or to die, Burning by day in the heat of the sun, Shiv'ring by night when the day's course is run; Snipping at enemies as planes roar o'erhead; We succor the living; we bury the dead.

Down in the rice paddy, death all around, Planes in the blue sky, bombs on the ground; Terror and darkness are with at night, Evil stalks everywhere in broad daylight; No hope for a respite when the day is done,

No place out of range of the rifle or gun.

Down in the Viet swamp, far from our friends,

The flash of a rifle--another life ends.

Fever and fatigue wrack body and soul,

Life is a torture in this dismal hole;

Yet we're buoyed up in our terrible plight;

For God is still with us, and our cause is right.

Down in the swamp hole with one life to give;

Freely it's given that freedom may live;

Closer and closer we cling to the earth

Dreaming of home and the land of our birth;

We stand by our comrades, no foes can divide;

We're true to our buddies who fight by our side.

Down in the rice paddy, under the rain,

Hoping our efforts will not be in vain;

Bearing the brunt of unending fight,

Doing our utmost for God and the right.

Americans, pray for your sons on the line;

Be true to your country; seek guidance divine.
