Senate Rejects Haynsworth Bid OKs Power in Bias Cases to Labor

Ruling Hailed as Legal Landmark

Chicago, Ill. -- The chief officers of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America today congratulated Mexican-American and Negro unionists in Lubbock, Texas for their part in "creating a legal landmark in the struggle against racially discriminatory labor relations policies."

Full Power

An Appeals Court Ruling that the National Labor Relations Board has full power to act in race discrimination cases is now law, following the Supreme Court's refusal to review the finding in the Texas case.

Direct Action

Attorneys for the Meat Cutters point out that under the Court's ruling the Labor Board is now empowered to take direct action against discrimination by issuing a cease and desist order or other remedy. The Board has hitherto limited itself to findings of refusal to bargain where racial or nationality discrimination is involved.

Reopened

Union attorneys took the case to the federal court on appeal from a Labor Board Order directing the Farmers Cooperative Compress to bargain in good faith on racial and other issues. The union position that the Board had not gone far enough in dealing with the question of discrimination was accepted by the Court which directed the Board to reopen the case in the light of the new doctrine.

Evaluate Skills Center For MDTA

Three government officials met in Des Moines last week with various business, civic and civil rights organizations to evaluate the Skills Center for MDTA located at Bell Avenue.

They were Ray H. Williams, representing U.S. Department of Labor from Kansas City Regional office; A.T. Ploeser, Iowa State Department of Instruction and Max Noe, Iowa Employment Security commission.

The team met last Wednesday morning with Charles Crook, Jr., vice president of the Iowa State Conference of NAACP Branches and James B. Morris, Sr., legal redress chairman for the Des Moines NAACP branch, in the offices of the Bystander.

Both Crook and Morris called for greater assurance that minority students gain employment in the work they were trained to perform. The number of minority students, being quite high, was deemed entirely satisfactory.

NAIROBI, KENYA (RUE-TERS) -- Jomo Kenyatta Saturday was re-elected as president of Kenya.

He was the sole nominee for the post of head of state.

The president, who for 40 years has been a symbol of African nationalism on the continent, said at his home later that he had rededicated himself to the unity, prosperity and progress of the people of Kenya.

Kenyatta became Kenya's first president when the country became a republic in 1964 after independence the preceding year from Britain.

P.O. Vehicle Fleet Wins Award

A safety award for the Motor Vehicle fleet was presented to Des Moines Postmaster John P. McNeerney last Wednesday afternoon by Harold S. Wagner, director of the St. Louis Regional postoffice who flew here for the special occasion.

Des Moines had a perfect accident record and was one of four in the St. Louis Region so honored, said Wagner. Only offices with 10 or more vehicles are eligible to participate in this contest.

The motor vehicle fleet safety contest is sponsored by the Post Office through contract with the National Safety Council.

Wagner pointed out in his presentation that the Post Office Department is placing strong emphasis on accident prevention performance. The present national fatality rate concerning motor vehicle accidents, which is reaching over 1000 per week, is such a staggering loss that it would seem that every motor vehicle operator would take more precaution in driving.

Present for the award ceremony were regional representatives, Des Moines post office personnel from management, craft unions and the community. See pictures of the ceremony, taken by Post office photographer Robert Verden.

U. N. Blacks Call to End Racism

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK -- The U.N. General Assembly endorsed overwhelmingly Thursday an African "manifesto" demanding an end to racism in the southern part of the continent.

By a vote of 113 in favor, Portugal and South Africa, against and Cuba and Malawi abstaining, the assembly welcomed the document and asked for intensified U.N. cooperation with the Organization of African Unity "to find a solution to the present grave situation in southern Africa."

The manifesto states that the Africans "would prefer to negotiate rather than destroy, to talk rather than kill" but adds, if peaceful means to end racism fail, they would give "all the support" to natives in their fight against the white minority regimes of South Africa, Portugal and Southern Rhodesia.

Action Regarded as Sharp Slap at Nixon; Iowa Senators--'No'

Washington, D.C. -- By a resounding 55-15 vote Friday, the Senate rejects the nomination to the Supreme Court of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, Jr.

Judge Haynsworth's defeat and the 10-point spread, was regarded as a sharp slap at the Administration of President Nixon.

Among the senators casting "no votes were Democrat Harold Hughes and Republican Jack Miller, who had informed the Bystander earlier of their intentions.

Dramatic Vote

In the dramatic roll call vote on which few dared to predict the outcome, 17 of 43 Republicans and 38 of 57 Democrats voted against the nomination.

Among the opponents were three of the ranking Senate Republican leaders: Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, whip Robert Griffin of Michigan and conference leader Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Midwest Support

Most of Haynsworth's support came from midwestern and western state Republicans and from southern Democrats with only one Democrat (Mike Gravel of Alaska) from outside the South voting for the nomination.

President Nixon

President Nixon issued a statement saying he deeply regretted the Senate's action and expressed the belief that a majority of Americans felt the same way.

Said the President: "His integrity is unimpeachable, his ability unquestioned. The Supreme Court needs men of his legal philosophy to restore the balance to that great institution."

The President said he will submit another nominee when Congress reconvenes in January.

Wilkins Hails Rejection Of Haynsworth As Victory For Legislative Process

New York -- The Senate's 55 to 45 rejection of the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth for the United States Supreme Court is "further indication of the growth of liberal policy in the country and of the increasing power of the Negro vote," Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said here Friday, Nov. 21, following the Senate vote.

Rights Views

Wilkins made it clear that the Association "was not opposed to Judge Haynsworth because of his southern background. We opposed him because of his civil rights views. There are several able southern judges with good civil rights records who would be a credit to the Supreme Court."

Initiated Fight

On July 19, Wilkins initiated the effort to avert the Haynsworth nomination. Prompted by a report that President Nixon was considering Judge Haynsworth for the vacancy created by the forced resignation of Justice Abe Fortas, Wilkins told the President that the appointment "would spell disaster to the entire racial equality program now embodied in law." The NAACP, he said in a telegram, "urges you most respectfully, but most emphatically, to abandon the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth."

LET'S MEET

By: Maude Esther White

(Second in a series)
Des Moines was one of 63 cities selected in November, 1967 to receive a Model Cities planning grant to develop a comprehensive plan covering a 1,000 acre blighted neighborhood in the older part of the city northwest of the Des Moines River.

The Des Moines plan calls for a comprehensive attack on all of these problems. To facilitate decision-making an umbrella of three broad intervention strategies was utilized. The decision as to what problems should be attached first was made. The value preferences of residents were also included in the decision making.

FIRST YEAR ACTION PROGRAM - $2,065,000 Appropriation

First year supplemental funds will be used for projects which will have an immediate and visible impact on the area. Secondly, since the MN population includes a high number of low-income elderly and welfare recipients, programs providing indirect transfers of income will also be utilized. Third, in attempting to deal with underemployment, an Occupational Upgrading project is included, as well as an Inner-City Development Corporation. The following programs have been set for the first year:

Development of housing for the elderly in the MN.

A Neighborhood Development Program - to upgrade housing, provide street development and parks, and to increase the supply of housing.

A Solid Waste Disposal project - to improve the collection of trash and garbage that accumulates in the MN.

An Occupational Upgrading program to identify and assist persons working below their potential.

A Demonstration Transportation project to get residents to the services they need.

Improving education through teacher training and personalized instructional programs, plus extended use of present school facilities for children and adults.

The problems identified in the Des Moines Model Cities project area are certainly not much different than urban problems across the country. They are the problems of inadequate housing and attendant facilities, low income, lack of parks and open spaces, inadequate health facilities, inefficient delivery of services, underemployment, irrelevant education, etc.

Forty per cent of the 16,000 Model Neighborhood residents are black. The whites are elderly and the blacks are young. The area is old and predominantly residential, with strips of commercial development. Compared to the city as a whole, density in the area is high, 16.4 people per acre to 5.1 for the city. Only 25 per cent of the housing meets building codes. About 1/4 of all families have less than 13,000 annual income. Almost half of all General Relief families in the county live in the Model Neighborhood, and one out of every four persons under 21 years are Aid to Dependent Children subjects. Minority male unemployment is 2 1/2 to 3 times white male unemployment in the city.

Community responsibility for the Model Cities program is vested in the principal local executive officer (Mayor, City Manager) and elected governing body (City Council, Commission). Because the Model Cities program is designed to improve the target area and contribute to a more well-balanced, healthy city and metropolitan area, it should also further develop the capability of local government to deal with citywide problems similar to those faced in model neighborhood areas.

Residents of the neighborhood and the city as a whole (including labor, business, and other civic groups in the community) should have a hand in identifying problems, planning, and carrying out the program. To assure them a meaningful role in improving and rebuilding their communities, neighborhood residents must have clear and direct access to the decision-making process in the Model Cities program. Residents should also be given maximum opportunity for jobs in the projects and activities of the program.

An Inner-City Development Corporation to provide entrepreneurial opportunities.

Improved services to welfare recipients by establishing a welfare office in the neighborhood.

Being pushed around at a rock concert is about as much fun as running five miles in too-tight shoes—in both cases you can get pinched.

When The Three Dog Night performed at Veterans Auditorium last Thursday night, observing both the fans' determined struggle to get near the stage and the policemen's efforts to keep them back was like watching a fencing match—with no swords.

The fans would gather their forces in the aisles, then rush forward. The policemen would do the same. In the inevitable clash, the first fan to meet the policemen in most cases got plastered against the fans behind him—permanently. And that constitutes a foul.

So the fans flee, have a strategy meeting, draw (in crayon) plans on the floor, then gather again. In the meantime the policemen try to avert picture-taking by fans, who end up three days later with an excellent picture of a policeman's nose and mouth, possibly set in a grim line.

But the youth will not be outdone, and during a rousing rendition of "Try a Little Tenderness" a large regiment of the young march to the stage from three

Telegram

On Aug. 12, six days before the President formally announced the nomination, Wilkins again sent a telegram to Mr. Nixon expressing "the earnest hope that Judge Clement Haynsworth will not be named. On his record, Negro Americans and their friends would not only resent but would also actively oppose this elevation."

Lacked Sensitivity

Many of the senators who voted nay said Haynsworth had shown lack of sensitivity to the canons of judicial ethics by acting on cases in which he had had some direct or indirect financial Should you drink beer straight from the bottle?

If you're on a blanket party or something, carrying along a glass is pretty clumsy. But when it's convenient, we think it's a shame not to use one. Keeping Budweiser inside the bottle or can is missing half the fun.

Those tiny bubbles getting organized at the top of your glass have a lot to do with taste and aroma. Most beers have carbonation pumped in mechanically. Not Budweiser. We go to a barrel of trouble and expense to let Budweiser create its own bubbles with the natural carbonation of Beechwood Ageing. So you really can't blame us for wanting you to get it at its best, can you?

Just for fun, pour your next four or five bottles of Bud into a glass. If you don't agree that the extra taste, clarity and aroma make a big difference, go back to the bottle. We won't say another word.

RELEVANT THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving starts from the heart. It has to be felt if it is to be real. When it goes deep enough we are thankful to God. Yes this goes down, it also goes up and out. Of course we could give thanks to God every meal, we could pray to him to give us our bread from day to day. We do not have habits which make this happen in families three times a day every day. We cut off the big things that could happen in the heart when we are rushed and when we have too little of what we want or too much of the same thing.

Cutting off too short there is our trouble at giving thanks. Do we say "I'm due three good meals a day in a country like this." If so, OK. Our bodies need them. The economy can afford them as well as snacks when we want them. So we stop short of giving thanks. God lets us get short changed. All we can get has to go for keeping our tables going and some place to stay and some clothes—and a lot of bills. We almost pray when we say "God help us."

We did not plant a crop last spring. Our machines or our own hands have not harvested the fields. Our daily lives are nearly as far away from cotton or corn in the field as from the Old Testament harvest festivals. Pilgrim fathers can also be hard to identify with. We could go to of Thanksgiving week. The St. Paul A.M.E. Church held a moving service at the 10:45 a.m. hour. Starting at the church it moved on to two other locations. The second was at a 150 square foot plot in the Woodland Cemetery, the third was on the top of a hill on Day Street between 12th and 13th Streets.

Is a cemetery a place to go for inspiration? Not always, yet grave stones can help bring facts to light. Dates and facts can be buried in the past the way our histories have been written. High school youth listened, elementary pupils gave attention to names they had never heard before. The oldest adults present saw dates on grave markers of people who lived and died before they were born.

One of the charter members buried near where we stood was born at the beginning of the 1800's and lived to be 102 years old. His name is not William Bradford of the Mayflower and the Pilgrim Fathers who landed at Plymouth in 1620. No, his name is Sampson Carter and his forebears may have come in on the first slave ship to Virginia in 1619. Or they may have come in on any slave ship from Massachusetts to the Carolinas anytime afterward up through the 1700's. If you want to reach me, though, tell me that story and show how he got to Des Moines when he did.

Every church in town with members in it like Sampson Carter's off spring can take a fresh look at Thanksgiving through his eyes. Seven years after the close of the Civil War he banded with others to organize an independent church. Living so long in slavery times how did he begin to trust in God? If he and all of those around him had despaired, we would never have come to this day of liberation.

On the sunny hillside between 12th and 13th on Day Street we prayed about dedication, a new church for a new day. Flashing thoughts about the young people who have gathered at 13th and University came by us. The young people present read about a church for children. We remembered the past knowing that thankfulness means being true to the faith in which good men live and die.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Why does some hair break off when combing?

Your hair is precious and delicate... and none of us like to see it break off for any reason. Scientists tell us that excessive use of hot combs and over-processing of hair with chemicals often are major causes of brittleness resulting in hair breakage. But hair that is naturally curly and tangles easily frequently breaks off in everyday combing. Notice how irritated your scalp becomes when you comb in contrast to the way your beautician does?

Your professional beautician knows that curly hair mats and tangles so easily that it should be softened before combing. Otherwise, unnecessary irritation to the scalp and damage to the shaft and ends of the hair occurs. To achieve this needed softening and a temporary relaxing effect that prevents breakage on all human hair (including wigs), most beauticians rely on Clairol® Hair-So-New® spray-on creme rinse. For combing ease and for beautifying your hair in many other ways, trained beauticians stock a complete family of fine Clairol products for your specific needs.

Visit your expert hairdresser, who cares about your hair care and your comfort. Whatever the nature of your hair problems, only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

How to Assist Christmas Mail

It's only Thanksgiving week but the Des Moines post office already has suggestions about how the public can help facilitate assist Christmas mailing.

Since no assistants, only regular employees will be used during the Christmas mailing rush, Postmaster John McNerney suggests that patrons start preparing their Christmas parcels and addressing their Christmas cards now. Then mail during the first week in December. Make sure your Christmas letters and parcels arrive before Christmas, not after.

OTHER STANDARDS
THAN POLITICS
IMPORTANT ON
SUPREME COURT

When President Nixon nominated Judge Haynsworth for the U. S. Supreme Court, civil rights and labor leaders launched an attack on him because his decisions on civil rights were grounded on the effort to maintain school segregation as long as he possible could; that they were geared to undermine their rights of labor.

It was that combination which beat Judge Parker of North Carolina - a President Hoover appointee - for the same post, thirty years ago. Many opponents based their objections to Judge Haynsworth on these reasons. But in addition, many senators who opposed Justice Fortes last year because of his insensitivity to the ethics of the bar association, also found that Judge Haynsworth had the same problems and thus could not easily support another guilty of the same indiscretions.

President Nixon has some political commitments which, like all Presidents, he is bound to honor. But in doing so he should be careful not to honor commitments that divide the party and move us from the upward swing in improving our social and economic life.

There are men in the South who can meet the test; who don't insist on the old line of social and legal justice that hampered this country for years. And if the President keeps this in mind he is not going to have a lot of trouble getting his nominee confirmed.

SOME TEMPORARY
VICTORIES HURT LATER

Now that the college football season is about over, it is well to reflect upon some of the commotion which has erupted on several campuses over the country.

In recent years, college coaches have made strong bids for Negro athletes, much because many have brought to their teams strength; much because the viewers of sports want a winner on their side and the color of the athletes makes no difference.

Some Negro athletes have refused to come out for practice; some made demands on the coaches both before and after the season started many of which were not up to the coach to correct and served to hurt the team, during racial parts of the season.

Negro players on two teams, Indiana and Wyoming quit in mid season leaving the team crippled. And while they were supported by some groups, in the final analysis they did themselves more harm than good.

We have insisted all along that graduates of these troubled schools would do a lot as advisers of the misguided students many of whom are more interested in making trouble than getting an education.

SCHOOLS MUST INTEGRATE, EVEN BY
BUSING STUDENTS

A few years ago, the Des Moines Independent School District started on a program to reduce defacto segregation in the schools. As a part of the program, some students are bused from the largely Negro area while some whites were brought from the white areas.

Some people object to busing students because it takes them away from their local communities. On the other hand, many students are bused to schools to and from different neighborhoods for other reasons.

Over the years, one argument raised against segregated schools was that they were not equal. This was true and continues to hamper many students in their effort to get a higher education.

Of course, there is the further reason that if we are to live together in peace and harmony between the races, we had better begin early before too much racial hatred is taught the youngsters. And for the further reason that it is pretty important for the races to get acquainted early in order to work together in business, in labor and other avenues of life's work in their adult years.

The program has not developed too far in Des Moines much because funds are not available to foot the bill. If the board expects the program to work it is they who must find the funds to operate them rather than let them die because of inadequate preparation and planning in advance.

VA Plans for Disadvantaged Vets

Speaking at a press conference in Des Moines last week, Don Johnson, director of the Veterans Administration, said "Part of our two-year program for educationally disadvantaged veterans of Vietnam service is going into the ghettos and inner cities to get in touch with them personally."

"We tell them all of the advantages they can have because they are veterans, the programs available to them and encourage them to continue their schooling, whether it's high school, trade or technical school or college."

"I think the program has been successful. We've physically contacted 83 per cent of the black veterans. We contact all veterans by letter."

Poses Separate Facilities

Johnson said he was trying to create a new job called Civil Rights Coordinator. In response to an inquiry by James B. Morris, he said "Young Negroes are asking for separate facilities at schools and we don't believe that's the best thing."

Johnson, former national American Legion commander, was appointed to his post last June. He was in Des Moines to announce job changes for several career employees of the Veterans Administration Center here of which Alton L. Pruitt is director.

The conference followed a cocktail party at the Ft. Des Moines Hotel. Guests included James Bowman, James B. Morris, Judge Luther T. Glanton, James B. Morris, Jr.

Nancy Wilson
Granted Divorce

Nancy Wilson, 32, was granted a divorce in Los Angeles from music publisher Kenneth Dennis after testifying he consistently tried to "tear my ego down." Miss Wilson was tear-eyed as she described her nine-year marriage to Dennis. The couple separated last January.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

All this past week we were thinking that if Iowa went down to Illinois and got ambushed there might be some reverberations. But, that didn't happen. The Hawks finished at a fast pace and ended their season with a 5-5 mark. Not, bad but maybe this should have had a better mark with a whole squad. They seem to have a good freshman squad and may get some help at the positions where they need it. Then someone may have to move over to make room for a couple of backs. A big hard running fullback and a fast shift running back. Maybe, 1970 will be their year.

Cyclones

Iowa State just wasn't ready to play against Oklahoma State. Half their guys were out with injuries. Then there were the mid-semester exams that didn't help either. We would guess that Obert Tisdale must know how the fox in a fox hole feels. A guy said Oklahoma State fellows chased Tisdale all afternoon. Here again, maybe, things will be looking up come next year.

Bulldogs

That bowl bid must have really lifted Drake. The Bulldogs went on a scoring spree, and seem ready to take their place in Missouri Valley football.

Just about everybody who follows football knows what happened between Michigan and Ohio State and the rest of the games around. So now we will call this the year of the boycotts and unrest and hope we won't see too many of them next year.

Complaints

We have been getting statements about our column or part of a column devoted to the current unrest among black college athletes. Just about everybody can come up with an incident or two during his playing days. We appreciate the support but surely some of you guys must have a happy experience...in high school or college. Sometime, later we might rehash some of these things to see how they compare with today's complaints.

Lew Alcinder

In the midst of our football season we had time to read Lew Alcinder's story of his days in high school and at U.C.L.A. We were somewhat amused at the reaction of some of the sports columnists, some thinking that the fellow was complaining and castigating his coach. We were glad we read the thing we interpreted the story as a young man's telling it like it was with no punches pulled or no apologies to anyone for anything. We failed to see when he lambasted the coach but relating how things appeared to him and what he thought of them. In his eye the coach was a man with human weaknesses and strong points and both were brought out.

Four students who began an 18 month training program this month included Mrs. Trientje Cooper and Mrs. Delores Leichter (graduates of the State University of Iowa), Mrs. Marie Gaskill (graduate of St. Vincent College of Nursing, Sioux City), and David Strong (graduate of The University of Arkansas).

The school is one of approximately 200 in the United States but the first established anywhere in the Veterans Administration. It is also the only school for Nurse Anesthetists in Iowa.

Grid Coaches
Pick '74 All-Pro

New York -- O. J. Simpson was a unanimous selection and Joe Namath and Gale Sayers were conspicuous by their absence in a poll of NFL and AFL coaches naming the likely All-Pro team of 1974.

The poll appearing in the current issue of SPORT Magazine, designed to rate the younger stars in pro football, names Cincinnati's Greg Cook at quarterback. The general feeling is that Namath either will be stopped by injuries or will retire before he reaches that point.

Buffalo's O. J. Simpson, the unanimous choice of the selectors, and Dallas' Calvin Hill are the running backs. Sayers is down-rated by most of the experts because few players have been able to play five years beyond a crippling leg injury.

LETTER TO EDITOR:

I deny making the statement attributed to me by a newspaper reporter covering a Model Cities board meeting held Wednesday, Nov. 12 but which was not printed until three days later, on Saturday, Nov. 15 in the Des Moines Tribune.

The statement, I supposedly said, "You're making policy and that's what this board is supposed to do," was made instead by another board member. I made no suggestion about OEO to Mr. William Snyder, Model Cities director.

The question I asked was directed to Mr. Ernest Howard, consultant for Social Dynamics, Inc., who had presented a summary for the setting up of a so-called "grassroots organization" aimed at wider participation of clubs and groups in the Model Cities area.

I asked him how did he expect to co-ordinate organizations within organizations; I also asked him to give a breakdown for his proposal. It wasn't too clear how he was going to do this and I felt it was right to question him.
