Historic School Case Won in Michigan

Rules Tracking System Violates Rights of Blacks

KALAMAZOO, Mich. -- In an historic decision which will influence educational systems throughout the North, Judge W. Wallace Kent, of the U. S. District Court., found that the tracking system, teacher assignment and allocation of funds as employed in the schools of Benton Harbor violated the rights of black children. The decision in Berry vs. School of Benton Harbor was handed down on Feb. 17. The case was argued by lawyers of the NAACP.

Budgeting
In his opinion, Judge Kent noted that budgeting procedure in the district is done on a per student basis. As a result of this, he said that "those schools which came into the consolidated District with good facilities are in a position to maintain good facilities." He said that "those schools... without good facilities do not have sufficient funds to improve the situation."

Assignments
In dealing with the assignment of teachers in the school system, Judge Kent's opinion found that since Negro teachers "were assigned to Black Schools because they were Black" that "by all standards" the action is "unconstitutional."

Judge Kent noted that the principle behind the recent Supreme Court decision is that "each child, as he starts or continues in public education, is entitled to an equal opportunity to achieve that of which he is capable in order to go out into Society with the necessary tools to enable him to improve the situation in which he was born if he is so disposed."

NAACP Spurs Effort to Defeat Carswell

WASHINGTON -- State leaders of the National Association of Colored People have been called upon to renew efforts to get their Senators publicly committed to voting against confirmation of Judge G. Harrold Carswell for the United States Supreme Court.

Mitchell's telegram also cited the Florida judge's participation in the purchase of a public golf course in 1956 to avert its desegregation and his "anti-civil rights record as a U.S. District judge" whose hostile decisions in at least 15 cases were reversed by a higher court.

Testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee revealed that Judge Carswell "gave severe tongue lashings to civil rights lawyers in his court and even showed his disdain for one lawyer by turning his back on counsel during presentation of case."

All candidates will receive full consideration without regard to race, color, creed, sex, national origin, or political affiliation. They must be residents of the area served by the post offices where the vacancies exist or live within the city or town in which the post offices are located.

NEA Opposes Carswell, Too

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The National Education Association announced today its opposition to the confirmation of Judge G. Harrold Carswell as Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

George D. Fischer, president of the NEA, said the confirmation of the Florida Judge would be a "gratuitous insult to black Americans." He termed Carswell, "a man without compassion for those who have suffered racial injustice," and said the nation's highest court would be greatly weakened by the presence of such an "undistinguished" Justice.

Auto Workers to Train 60 in Iowa

The United Automobile, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers (uaw) union will promote and develop on-the-job training contracts for 60 jobless or under-employed Iowa workers among employers with UAW contracts, the U. S. Labor Department announced today.

William S. Harris, the Department's Regional Manpower Administrator in Kansas City, said $98,232 of a national allocation of $2.6 million dollars will be devoted to such training in Iowa. Over the Nation, the UAW will develop such training for 2,000 workers.

The Iowa State Employment Security Commission will help recruit the disadvantaged workers.

House-passed voting rights bill and pass instead a simple five-year extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

"Any watering down of the 1965 voting rights law is an attempt to deprive Negroes of the right to vote solely because of race," said Mitchell, testifying for the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He appeared before the Senate Constitutional Rights Sub-committee.

Official Sees New Trend in Effort to Halt Housing Bias

Washington, D. C. -- Samuel J. Simmons, Assistant Secretary for Equal Opportunity in the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, said yesterday that agreements had been reached recently under the Federal Fair Housing law which require that advertising campaigns be directed specifically at minority buyers in an effort to stop discrimination in housing.

Simmons spoke at a conference of the Dearborn Real Estate Board in Chicago, Ill.

He said that a "relatively obscure" section of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 prohibits discrimination in the advertising of sales or rental housing, but that recent Government cases were "very interesting" and could be indicative of a new trend in affirmative advertising.

Simmons said that the Justice Department had reached an agreement with a Virginia recreation community that called for the developer to do these things:

Solicit in predominately black areas for purchasers of a number of lots remaining in the development;

Advertise in Washington, D.C. and Richmond, Va., papers with predominately Negro readers that persons of all races are welcome as purchasers of lots;

Require most advertisements to show blacks as well as whites using the facilities of the recreation community.

Several HUD conciliation agreements along similar lines involving housing had also been reached recently, Simmons said.

He said that minority families in the past had come to accept discrimination in housing where they had not accepted other forms of discrimination because they didn't like to subject their families to harassment in new neighborhoods, or because they simply did not believe housing in the suburbs was open to them.

Mourns Passing of Detroit Leader

NEW YORK -- The work of the Rev. Charles A. Hill as president of the Detroit NAACP Branch was highly praised by Gloster B. Current, NAACP director of branches and field administration, in a telegram of condolence to the widow of the Detroit clergyman and leader.

Hill, pastor of Hartford Baptist Church, died in Detroit, Feb. 11. He was president of the Detroit NAACP in the mid-1940s.

cepted other forms of discrimination because they didn't like to subject their families to harassment in new neighborhoods, or because they simply did not believe housing in the suburbs was open to them.

There is an old saying that the pot can't call the kettle black or something like that.

Southern legislators in the nation's capitol must have had that old adage in mind when they told the north to look at its own school discrimination record especially in big city schools.

The result of the power struggle was a resounding victory for the South when the Senate voted 56-36 to unify all racial rules. It was the south's biggest legislative victory since the civil rights drive began some 15 years ago.

The Senate, by a 56-36 vote, approved the controversial Stennis amendment eliminating the distinction between school segregation resulting from southern law and that caused by housing patterns, as in many northern cities.

Iowa Senators Senators Harold Hughes (Dem. Ia.) and Jack Miller (Rep., Ia.) both voted against the Stennis amendment.

Senator John Stennis (Dem., Miss.) said his amendment would force the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to stop working from a "presumption of guilt in the South and a presumption of innocence in the North."

Cut Off Funds
If the amendment is also approved by the House of Representatives HEW would be required to cut off federal funds from a school district in which the student population was segregated by virtue of neighborhood living patterns as well as in southern districts in which segregation is still the result of now-illegal dual school systems.

The Supreme Court has ruled illegal only de jure segregation resulting from the old dual southern school systems, and has not ruled on so-called de facto segregation resulting from neighborhood living patterns.

De Facto
If the Stennis amendment (which was attached to a four-year school aid bill) were to become law, it would lead to a rather prompt Supreme Court test of the issue of de facto segregated schools.

Legal Defense Fund To Defend Bobby Seale

New York -- Jack Greenberg, Director-Counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF), announced today that the Fund will represent Black Panther leader Bobby G. Seale in the appeal of the four year contempt sentence imposed on him by U.S. District Judge Julius Hoffman.

"The Legal Defense Fund is entering the case at the request of Black Panther attorney Charles Garry, and will handle Seale's case in collaboration with Garry's office." Some of the points that will be raised on behalf of Seale are also applicable to the case of the lawyers and defendants who were recently held in contempt by Judge Hoffman. The Fund is representing Seale for the same reason that it joined with a score of national organizations and leaders in a committee headed by Roy Wilkins and Arthur Goldberg to investigate the treatment of Black Panthers at the hands of the police and prosecutors.

Greenberg stated that "it is important that the Panthers and their leaders be accorded the fullest protection."

Simon Estes
Singing Virtuoso

Sunday, Feb. 22 Iowa-born Simon Estes, bass-baritone was the featured soloist with the Des Moines Symphony orchestra at North High school.

Estes demonstrated both versatility and competency throughout his repertoire. In "King Philip's aria from Verdi's 'Don Carlo' ("Ella Giammai M'Amo") and "In Diesen Heil'gen Hallen" from Mozart's "The Magic Flute" he displayed the dramatic qualities of his voice, and held his audience enthralled as he plumbed the depths of his basso range without loss of resonance.

Most Dramatic

These arias are considered two of the most dramatic in the whole bass and baritone operatic repertoire. The evening's performance included the famous Catalogue Aria from Mozart's "Don Giovanni," the "Non Piu Andrai" from that composer's "The Marriage of Figaro" and Mephisto's serenade from Gounod's "Faust."

entrepreneurial development centers and businesses.

Staff members for the six offices will undergo extensive training at the national headquarters. The Rev. Leon H. Sullivan, Chairman of the Zion Trust, will supervise this aspect of the program and the activities of the headquarters staff.

Total Cost

The Trust will complete the $418,707 total cost of the six-city program with $104,707 "in funds" from other sources. The funds will pay administrative costs of the local units and enable the Trust to expand its national staff.

EDA approved a $351,800 grant in June, 1969, to help the Philadelphia organization initiate minority business programs in eight cities—Baltimore, Maryland; Camden, New Jersey; Cincinnati, Ohio; Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; Nashville, Tennessee; Omaha, Nebraska; Phoenix, Arizona; and Providence, Rhode Island.

The principal immediate effect of the Stennis amendment is not expected to be its effect on desegregation measures but on the psychology of the entire segregation issue.

14-Year Battle

tion of the Constitution at a time when too many public officials are striving for shortcuts in law enforcement and the suppression of militant dissent.

Because of the particular regard in which Panthers are held by many members of the black community, their treatment by the law teaches more than a volume of preaching on constitutional protection. The appeal is being directed by Michael Meltner, First Assistant Counsel of the Fund, who will be assisted by staff counsel Conrad K. Harper, Elizabeth B. DuBois and Eric Schnapper.

BLUE LEMONS.....

by Eleanor Tate

Simon Estes' appearance with the Des Moines Symphony Orchestra Sunday afternoon again gives us evidence that talent is no respecter of race, creed or color. It's what you do with it that counts.

Mr. Estes, who has performed in Berlin, Rome, Hamburg, New York, and other cities around the world, was third place winner in the 1966 Tchaikovsky International Vocal Contest at Moscow.

Following the competition the official news agency of the U.S.S.R., Pravda, hailed him "as the possessor of a great voice and talent who sang Russian better than all the other singers in the competition."

Not only Russian does he sing well, but he speaks German fluently, and has learned opera roles in four languages. One of most refreshing selections sung by Estes Sunday was "Methistopheles's Serenade," from "Faust," in which Methistopheles taunts Faust for his loyalty to Marguerite, and suggests that there are other women in the world.

Estes deserves the praise which has been heaped upon him, for it is through and by his efforts that we can feel continuing pride in the black man's cultural achievements.

Youth On Parade

This is the 11th in a series of articles on junior and senior high students in Iowa. No special requirement is needed other than being a good, deserving person.

Florence

One parade this week is Bob Florence, North High senior, to whom the spotlight is as familiar as water is to most human beings. Last week he was elected president of his class the first of his race elected to that honor in recent years.

An all around sports enthusiast and participant, young Florence has walked off with just about every conceivable basketball honor — except being a member of an all-city champion team; But he still aspires to being one of the starting five of the all-state champs.

On his string of records Bob holds the all city scoring record for one game — 58 points against Tech; and ranks second behind Toby Huston, former Roosevelt star, in all-time scoring record with 1255 points to date. All of North's records are in his bag — single game most points in a single season and most points for two consecutive games. He won all-city and all-state honors in his junior year.

Besides Basketball, in which he has three letters, Bob has two letters in football where he played end on the offensive team and two more in track as a participant in the quarter and half mile.

His brilliant career in basketball, which began in 8th grade at Irving Junior high, has netted an accolade of letters from about 50 colleges around the nation beseeching him to accept their respective offers.

Among these are Universities of Kansas, Nebraska, Drake and Davidson, of North Carolina. He "hasn't decided yet" and plans to "wait until the season is over" before he does. In the meantime he is getting lots of advice from his parents and North coaches.

It's no surprise when Bob lists Hoover, city champs who dethroned North, as "his most difficult games."

About the forthcoming tournament Bob commented, "It's going to be rough for us. We have to get the first two games; then we meet Washington of Cedar Rapids (who are defending champs) in the sub-state, before we have the rematch with Hoover in the state."

He is not slack when it comes to academic brains either, having made the honor rolls on several occasions, "but not last time."

With all the publicity, a lot of people forget that Bob is one half of twin brothers. His twin, Bill, almost eclipsed Bob in football and is also one of the starting five on the city's No. 2 team.

They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Florence, 3800 E. Sheridan street.

Does it hurt to chill beer twice?

Not that you'd want to. Sometimes it just happens... like after a picnic, or when you bring home a couple of cold 6-paks and forget to put 'em in the refrigerator. Does re-chilling goof up the taste or flatten the flavor?

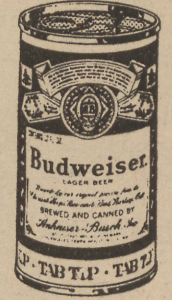

Relax. You don't have to worry.

A really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you chill it twice. We're mighty glad about that. We'd hate to think of all our effort going down the drain just because the temperature has its ups and downs.

You can understand why when you consider all the extra trouble and extra expense that go into brewing Bud. For instance, Budweiser is the only beer in America that's Beechwood Aged.

So... it's absolutely okay to chill beer twice. Enough said. (Of course, we have a lot more to say about Budweiser. But we'll keep it on ice for now.)

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

A committee of three judges selected Miss Scott a second runner-up after a session of informal interviews and a luncheon at the Holiday Inn.

Boycott Triggers Inspections

The charge that enforcement of health regulations in stores and restaurants located in black neighborhoods of Des Moines are less stringent than in other areas, has triggered an investigation into the matter by the Des Moines Human Rights Commission.

The investigation, authorized this week, is an outgrowth of a boycott by some neighborhood residents at Griger's Food Fair, 1307 Forest Avenue, which started Feb. 11.

The allegation of unequal enforcement standards was made by C. Frank Franklin, an investigator for the commission, who cited a sharp difference of opinion among three health officials about the seriousness of alleged violations at the Griger Store.

Sanitation Report Franklin, who is black, told the commission, "I do know that in most businesses in the black community there is no concern by the (City) Health Department."

The commission was given a report by a Polk County sanitarian who accompanied the city public health engineer and a city sanitarian during an inspection of the Griger store a week ago. The Polk sanitarian stated he would have ordered the store closed for health reasons.

11 Violations The city inspectors cited 11 specific violations they found in the store during the inspection Feb. 13 and gave the operators, Mr. and Mrs. David Griger, until next Thursday to correct them.

Gerald Forbush, the county sanitarian who normally inspects outside the Des Moines city limits but who inspected Griger's along with the city inspectors, said in

Uncle Tomism Rooted in "Let Down Your Bucket" Idea

(Fifth in a Series)
BY LOUISE GLASS

To evaluate the man, what he said, what he did, we must give due consideration, to the time, the circumstances, the entire framework.

All of us agree that truth is changeless. We also know something said in 1895 might not have the same significance if said today.

The "Let down your bucket where you are" idea did not originate with Booker T. Washington; Down the centuries sages have been saying the same thing, maybe in different words. Modern sages are still saying it.

The late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., put it this way: Every man ought to discover what he is made for and having discovered it he should set to work to do it with all the strength of his being. (Not the exact quotation).

Thousands of successful people can, testify that this theory is practical and After all where can one start except where he is?

Why did this advice stir such fury? Torn from context any paragraph, sentence, phrase is subject to many interpretations. Some people seemed to think it meant that one should remain in whatever position he finds himself, making no effort toward progress.

Others saw in it encouragement to start where you are with what you have develop it and thereby reach the highway to success. To whom did he give this advice? To the hundreds of thousands if confused, destitute, illiterate Negroes, who had only 32 years before been emancipated but still had little knowledge of what they should do as free, self-respecting citizens. Booker T. Washington, was trying to direct them to this point of understanding.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Why does some hair break off when combing?

Your hair is precious and delicate... and none of us like to see it break off for any reason. Scientists tell us that excessive use of hot combs and over-processing of hair with chemicals often are major causes of brittleness resulting in hair breakage. But hair that is naturally curly and tangles easily frequently breaks off in everyday combing. Notice how irritated your scalp becomes when you comb in contrast to the way your beautician does?

Your professional beautician knows that curly hair mats and tangles so easily that it should be softened before combing. Otherwise, unnecessary irritation to the scalp and damage to the shaft and ends of the hair occurs. WHY BORROW UNNECESSARY CONFLICT?

In these perilous times, people seem bent on finding something wrong with each other. We all have difficulties, we all have faults, we have disagreements but we need not be disagreeable.

A striking example of this is the boycott against Grigers Grocery Store here by a group of both younger and older people. Their original complaint was the mistreatment of a Negro customer.

However, they complained to the city health department that the store was unclean and sold inferior meat. City inspectors found some deficiencies as could be turned up in most any grocery store in the city.

The pickets urged prospective customers to go to the Hinky Dinky store and provided transportation, furnished by an opportunity center, to transport them away. Some entered the store and threw merchandise to the floor.

Individuals have a right to picket any store they please as long as the pickets don't interfere with the coming and going of customers and/or engage in the destruction of property.

Grigers has been an excellent neighborhood store and enjoys a good business from whites and Negroes. They found themselves at the mercy of an enraged group many of whom had been neighborhood friends in the past. They were caught up in a squeeze of complaints by city inspectors who found these deficiencies all at once which may have existed for a long time.

The police department, fearing to be caught up between conflicting interest, played it cool all of which could have been avoided had cool heads prevailed and good faith efforts used to settle the controversies peacefully.

Certainly, any store should strive to treat its customers fairly. And at times, most stores get complaints of mistreatment on the basis of race or otherwise.

Life is difficult at best and it behooves, at least, neighbors to settle their differences "without going to war."

HAILED "VICTORY FOR THE SOUTH" A VEILED THREAT

As Senator Ribicoff of Connecticut and Senator Stines of Mississippi have reached common ground on school desegregation, it is clear that the former is trying to sooth the South and maybe heal wounds in the Democrat party. Since his career as governor, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and U. S. Senator, Ribicoff he has made no effort to correct the deficiencies of which he complains now.

The senator has asked the administration to put pressure on defacto school segregation in the North as well as segregation by law in the South. And the press has called this a "Victory for the South."

We don't so interpret it. Most cities with large population of Negroes have been working to eliminate defacto segregation. And they have done so without being dragged to it though the courts, and although the program is far from solution, many communities are working at it with success.

On the other hand, it has taken years of litigation, calling out U. S. troops by Democrat and Republican presidents, threat of punishment of governors and the brave little Negro children, many of whom have gone to their schools between jeering parents and bad treatment by some teachers and pupils, to get as far as the South has.

Of course, some Southern school districts have complied with the Supreme

West Talks of Quitting NBA

NEW YORK—Los Angeles Laker superstar Jerry West, enjoying the finest season of his 10-year career may be quitting pro basketball after this season, reveals an article in the current issue of SPORT Magazine.

"I always said the one thing I never wanted to do was to go on playing when I was no longer at my best," says West. "And I think maybe this is it. If I wind up having a good year, I don't know if I'd take a chance on another one, on having a bad one."

West, whose better than 30-point average will undoubtedly make him the NBA's scoring leader for the first time in his career, has probably been thinking of quitting because of the recurring injuries that have sidelined him and sapped his strength during 1969-70.

Court decision without being pushed along, while many are fighting as today as they did in 1954.

The sly victory for the South is an attempted slap at those white people who prior and following the 1954 decision have been working to secure an equal education for Negroes in the schools both North and South.

With Allen Ashby

As we write this, our two Iowa basketball teams continue to set the pace in their respective conferences. Iowa U acts like a well functioning machine and seems to be headed for their first undisputed title in some years. Drake stumbles, flounders, and sputters, but always seems to get the job done. So you can't argue with success. Some guy with a big imagination had the two teams meeting the finals of the NCCA meet. The way he tells it, it could happen. But don't go out and bet your shirt on it. But, do you know what: UCLA lost to a pressure defense, just the sort put up by both the Hawks and Bulldogs, so maybe the fellow isn't too far wrong. Of course, by the time you read this everybody will know just about what chance both teams have of doing that.

Rebounded
We often read where the losing basketball team out-rebounded the other team. We asked a fellow who should know about this business of rebounding. He said it doesn't matter so much how many rebounds you get as what ones you get and who gets them. For instance, he said, the present Boston Celtics get just about as many rebounds as they did with Bill Russell. But the difference is that the fellow who gets the ball can't always trigger a fast break the way Russell or Wilt Chamberlain could. So the rebound doesn't mean too much except as a statistic. Then there is the rebound that is an important one that counts. Such as breaking up several attempts at a basket, or the one that lets you keep the ball in the closing minutes of a close game. These are the rebounds that decide basketball games and they often don't show up in the game story.

(Who would you pick for the All American team this year? You know you just have to include Rick Mount of Purdue, and Pete Maravich of LSU.)
Pros
Then there is big Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure, Austin Carr of Notre Dame, and Charley Scott of North Carolina. There must be a dozen others that neither your nor I have heard about and they are all good. So now we know why they always choose a squad. It is much easier than trying to say these are the five best basketball players in the country. Because another day they wouldn't be. Now we wonder how the pros will rate these five we have named.

Here At Home

Here at home, we were hoping North could pull the big one and get a tie with Hoover for the city honors. It looks as if the big buldge in athletic power will swing to the West in future years. Hoover, Dowling, Roosevelt, and most of the new equipment and athletic fields and gyms going out there and you can see what will happen. North will battle along for a while, but will eventually fall behind the other three. Roosevelt will be the old one of the bunch, and will have trouble keeping up their end. Of course, this is all one man's opinion and strictly off the top of our head, and we could be wrong. But we would like to be around a few years just to see.

Activities of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission

"The fundamental purpose of this Commission, is to help enable citizens of our state ... whatever their religion, nationality, race or economic background may be ... to enjoy, to the fullest extent, the privileges and benefits of citizenship. We seek to guarantee our citizens the right to employment, to education, to housing, to the use of public accommodations, to health and welfare services and to the right to live in peace and dignity."

The Commission consists of seven members appointed to staggered and renewable four year terms by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate. No more than four commissioners can belong to one political party. They serve without compensation but are reimbursed for necessary travel and other expenses incurred while on official commission business.

Chairman
The Commission by a majority vote elects a chairman who shall serve a period of one year, taking office in July.

The present chairman is Lawrence Slotsky who is the Executive Vice President and Manager of the Signs Donald Ware, Council Bluffs Howard, Fast Back

Washington, D.C. — The signing of Donald Ware, brilliant defensive back of last year's Howard University football team, by the Vince Lombardi-coached Washington Redskins, amounted to a local milestone.

It marked the first time that the Redskins have inked a Bison star, during 34 years of co-existence in the National Capital. It marked the second time a Bison star earned free agent status, since the Green Bay Packers signed Howie Williams, back in 1963. Williams is now an Oakland Raiders' fixture.

GOP Diners Will Engrave Names

Diners at the $50-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner here on April 13 can have their names inscribed in a book for presentation to the guest speaker, Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

J. L. Strasser, General Chairman of the dinner, said, "This is a two-way recognition: It is our way of telling the Vice-President that we support him, and it is the party's way of recognizing party supporters."

Of course there are other sports besides basketball. We don't think Iowa State's Jason Smith has lost a match this year. Maybe he has, but we hadn't read about it. Perhaps someone who knows could enlighten us. There are a few high school wrestlers here in the city who are doing all right. They have been featured in the daily paper, and contrary to what some people think, we don't run feature stories behind the daily papers. Our stuff may not be too good, but it is ours.

Usually there are several stories about the heavy-weight fights in Sports Illustrated. This time there was a short article about a page and a half.

And even the writer of that story expressed his doubts about Frazier beating Cassius Clay. We have our doubts, too. But do you know that good opponents are so scarce, and there is so much money to be made from that fight that it could very well come off sometime this year? If it happens remember, you saw it first here. If it doesn't happen, we didn't say it. We really don't think that Clay will ever go to jail because of his draft troubles. Maybe get a parole so everyone will be satisfied, and clear the record.

Letters from Our Readers

A bit of prose ... a line or two of poetry ... a letter now and then to express thoughts in the minds of our many readers.

Send Yours Today

Dear Editor:

I want to compliment you on your splendid editorials. The ones most impressive, "Black Culture Center a Makeshift Misfit" and "There is a lot of Negro History in just reading."

Our news correspondent for your paper, departed this life February 10. She will be missed by the entire community. We never had enough news for her to send regularly but when she did, it was good. I remember her last item concerning the 100th birthday of Mrs. Franklin and her closing by using in comparison with herself and husband, General McArthur's quote, "They like Old Soldiers never die, they just fade away."

THE LITTLE THINGS

It really is the little things That mean the most of all... The "let me help you with that" things

That may seem very small, The "I'll be glad to do it" things

The "yes, I understand," The interest and encouragement

In everything you've planned ...

It really is the little things, The friendly word or smile, That add such happiness to life And make it more worth while.
