Arrest 17 in Massive Pre-Dawn Raid on Suspected Dope Pushers

In the wee hours of the morning last Thursday, buttressed with a well thought-out well-executed plan, a massive pre-dawn raid on suspected dope pushers were conducted in Des Moines. When it was over 17 persons had been arrested. However, six others managed to elude capture, in a plan that was nearly foolproof.

The massive raid was conducted by 24 men—19 from the Des Moines police force, and four from the state narcotics squad and one federal narcotics agent. They were accompanied by newspaper and television reporters, and even one state senator, Harold Thordson, a Davenport Republican, and former policeman.

Those Charged

All of those arrested pleaded "not guilty" when arraigned Friday before Judge Glanton.

Charged with illegal sale of heroin were:

Granville Welch, Drake Senior, Wins Danforth Fellowship

Granville Welch E. Welch, of 1418 19th street, a senior majoring in education at Drake University, has won a Danforth Graduate Fellowship for study toward a Ph.D. degree.

The announcement was made by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., last week. The Fellowship provides tuition and living expenses for up to four years of study in preparation for a career of college teaching. Selection of Danforth Fellows is made annually by a national panel of educators. More than 1900 college seniors competed for the 107 fellowships this year.

A graduate of East High School, Welch expects to receive his B.S. degree in education in June finishing with a 3.9 grade point average. He has made the President's and Dean's lists twice at Drake and served on the University's Student Life committee the past two semesters. Police Veteran, Loranzie Williams Get Police Post at NI University DeKalb, Ill. — A 13-year-old veteran of Gary, Ind., police department will become a top administrative officer for Northern Illinois University's campus police force.

Loranzie Williams, a Gary native, became assistant NIU security director to James Elliott effective Mar. 1 and is the first of his race to hold the position.

Williams is the husband of the former Coleen Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Martin Jr., 3500 27th street.

Williams' primary duties will be administrative, although he also will be involved in departmental planning and operational decisions. As a member of the Gary police department, Williams has served in various capacities and now holds the rank of detective. In the past several years, much of his work has been with youth problems in Gary.

Williams had a brief career in professional football in 1955. He was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals (now the St. Louis Cardinals) as a free agent but in Miami, Fla., during an exhibition game—only his second as a pro—he received a knee injury which ended any further hopes of a sports career. He continues, however, to be an avid golfer.

Williams was educated in Gary, and at Tennessee A. and I., in Nashville, and received his degree from the University of Iowa at Iowa City. He also served two years with the Armh Transportation Corps.

His wife also holds a master's degree in elementary education and will join the teaching staff next fall in DeKalb. NIU has 22,500 students, several thousand staff and faculty and 28 authorized full time officers, night watchmen, meter maids and clerical and communications staff.

Government Reports Indicates Negroes Still Lag Behind Mainstream

WASHINGTON — Impressive gains have been made but wide discrepancies remain in the social and economic condition of Negroes compared with other Americans, according to a study published by the Bureau of Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, and the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Still Behind

Negroes are more likely to be getting higher incomes, holding better jobs, living in better housing, and getting more education than they were a decade ago, but are still at a disadvantage compared with white Americans in educational and occupational attainment, the study concludes.

The report is the third in a series and contains new data permitting a comprehensive view of the conditions of blacks.

Family Income

Median family income for Negroes in 1968 was about $5,400 or 60 percent of the white family median of $8,900. This was an improvement over 1964 when the Negro median was 54 percent, and higher than the figure of 55 percent at the time of the 1960 census, a percentage that included Negroes and racial groups other than whites.

Percentage

Percentage gains in family income during the affluent 1960's have been somewhat higher for Negroes and other races than for whites. Also, one out of every three families of Negroes and other races in 1968 had an income of $8,000 or more. Nonetheless, in the South, where half of all U.S. Negroes still live, the Negro family median was still only half of the white family median in 1968.

Employment

Employment for Negroes and other races increased 21 percent during 1960-69 compared with an 18 percent increase for whites, the study shows. Negro employment rose to 8.4 from 6.9 million as the number of employed whites rose to 69.5 from 58.9 million. The unemployment rate for Negroes in 1968 and during 1969 was the lowest since the Korean War but still about double the white rate. Negro teenagers had the highest unemployment rate of any group in the labor force in 1969.

More Workers

In 1969, there were 1 million more workers of Negro and other races in white collar, craft, or operative (largely industrial) occupations than in laborer or service jobs. This was a 67 percent increase during 1960-68, compared with a 22 percent increase for whites. Negro employment in the professional and technical area went up 109 percent during the period.

High School

The proportion of young men and women with at least a high school education is greater today than a decade ago, and the increase among young Negro men is noticeable. In 1969, 60 percent of all Negro men in the 25-29 year age group had a high school education or more compared with 36 percent in 1960 (a proportion that includes additional races other than white). For whites, the gain for this 25-29 year group was to 78 percent in 1969 from 63 percent in 1960.

Negro Shopping Center In Oakridge "Feasible"

For the backers and supporters for a black shopping center in the Oakridge area—it was good news. The plan and idea is "entirely feasible."

This is the official report made by the Iowa Appraisal and Research Corp., the firm hired by the Des Moines Urban Renewal Board, to study the proposal.

Proposed Sale

The shopping center proposes the sale of 6.5 acres of land between Oakridge drive and Center Street, south of MacVicar Freeway and just west of Keosauqua Way.

The United Black Federation is working to get financing and tenants for such a center, with the co-operation of the Small Business Administration.

The appraisal firm said a shopping center could include a food store, an apparel shop, a variety store, a drugstore, a specialty shop and some service locations, such as barber and beauty shops.

The firm said such a center would cost about $664,000 to build. Cost of the land would be $431,610 — based on a price of $1.50 a square foot.

Minimum Price

The Urban Renewal Board's minimum price for the land, to date, has been $2.14 a square foot. Cost of the land on that basis would be $612,900.

Max Krumrey, director of urban development, said the land, with no minimum price restriction, July 14.

The appraisal firm said a shopping center of the size it envisions could be expected to have $2.2 million in retail sales annually.

Revitalize

"The area has begun to revitalize itself," the firm reported, "New business which will get in on the ground floor will have a prosperous future if rejuvenation continues."

Much of the land in the Model Cities area south of the freeway between Seventh street and Keosauqua way is planned for apartments in the future, but no major grocery facilities are located nearby.

Mr. Willie Stevenson Glanton, an attorney for the Small Business Administration, who has been working with the Black Federation on details for such a shopping center, said Thursday:

Working Feverishly

"We're working feverishly on this, and the future looks bright. We feel that something definitely can be worked out by the United Black Federation."

Ted Richardson, director of the federation, earlier told the Urban Renewal Board that less than one-tenth of one per cent of the businesses in Des Moines are owned by blacks, and the percentage of blacks in management positions is even smaller.

Richardson told the board that construction of the center could be financed from the sale of shares of stock in the project to blacks.

Outside the church an estimated 3,000 persons stood in the rain as the services were conducted. Miss Terrell's body lay in state during the night at Janes Memorial. She was buried at Mt. Lawn Cemetery at Philadelphia.

Scientists Research May Help Solve Cancer Riddle

Dr. Edwin Cooper

Dr. Edgar E. Smith

New York City -- The research of two black scientists may help solve the riddle of cancer and provide important tools in the diagnosis and treatment of the disease, it was learned at the American Cancer Society's Science Writers' Seminar in San Antonio, Texas. The two young investigators, both Ph.D.'s, were Drs. Edwin L. Cooper, 33, Associate Professor of Anatomy at the University of California at Los Angeles, and Edgar E. Smith, 35, Associate Professor of Biochemistry at Boston University.

Dr. Cooper's work is based on the belief that immunity -- the bodily function that protects humans and other animals against disease -- may have originally evolved in primal animal life systems like earthworms to fight off newly forming cancer cells or neoplasms. Hence he does experiments with the creatures that involve grafting tissue from other worms onto them, and then studying their ensuing rejection process for clues to the mechanics of the immune response.

A native of Houston, and a graduate of Texas Southern University, Dr. Cooper pointed to recent evidence from human organ transplantations. In these operations, drugs are used that hinder the body's ability to reject foreign tissue. In many instances these patients have developed certain types of cancer.

"Did the cancers appear because the efficient surveillance system of immunity was impaired?" he theorized.

Dr. Smith, working directly with cancer and normal tissue told the gathering of eminent scientists and writers about his observations of the "alterations in certain enzymes in human cancer." An enzyme is a substance that changes other substances without itself being changed.

By measuring the activity of a so-called pregnancy enzyme, "amino acid naphthylamidase" (AAN) Dr. Smith said he could provide early and conclusive indications of whether a woman is pregnant or has new or recurrent choriocarcinoma, a form of uterine cancer sometimes called a mimic or pregnancy. This "pregnancy enzyme" Dr. Smith declared "has not been observed in the serum (the liquid part of blood) of patients with choriocarcinoma."

Moreover, Dr. Smith said his procedures could also be useful diagnostic tools. For by being able to identify certain distinct forms of the enzyme AAN in various human tissues, the scientist said that identification of the primary site of cancer in internal "organs like the kidney, pancreas, liver, etc. is possible" in cases where the disease has spread.

Urge Hiring Of Negro Teachers

DUBUQUE, IA. — A group of citizens here is urging the Dubuque Community School District to hire Negro teachers for the 1970-71 school year.

The group, called "Operation Friendship, Inc." suggested the hiring of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spain of Chicago, Ill., and the interviewing of other black teachers from the Chicago area.

Mrs. Spain was the contact member for the organization in the selection of youngsters to visit Dubuque during the summer.

Mrs. W. G. Jamison, chairman of the local group, said letters have been sent to Horace Hoover, personnel director of the school district, Garlyn Wessel, superintendent of the Dubuque public schools, and Dwight Bachman, director of the Human Rights Commission here.

The complaint grew out of a walkout by 11 white members of the Iron Workers Union at the new U.S. Post Office building site, 2nd and University avenues, last Apr. 23, after a Negro, Joseph Rowe, 29, of 907 Grove street, was hired

IN MEMORIAM

Compliments and Corrections
A number of compliments were received about the Russell Bell "In Memoriam" last week written by his brother. They were best reflected by Rev. Oscar Peavy who said, "The article was beautiful."

However, the line which incorrectly read, "God is mad," should have read
"God has made things pleasant for us."

CARD OF THANKS

In the midst of our sorrows, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our beloved husband and father, Bert Murray. We especially wish to thank the Rev. L. B.
Johnson for his consoling words, all the donors of the many beautiful floral offerings, the pallbearers, the Hawkeye
Elks Lodge #160 and the Police
Unit for their kindness and the
L. Fowler & Son Funeral Home for their kind and efficient management of the service.

Each evening's program, 13 - 17, begins at 8 P.M. Monday - Rev. A. Crawford, Morning Star Baptist, with choir; Tuesday - Rev. O. Peavey, Kyles A.M.E.Z., with choir; Wednesday - Rev. H. Fields, Mt. The week will climax with 11 A.M. services Saturday with Elder G. Miller of the Atlantic, Iowa 7th Day Adventist church, as speaker.

There's always wall space somewhere that could use some added interest. A single rail can run full length along a wall in traditional style, or a series can be grouped at random for a modern treatment.

Half-inch boards of any western wood make a sturdy rail that can be painted or stained. Two inches will suffice for width if it is a plate collection. The rail must be lipped, of course, to keep plates in place.

What Is Going On In Model Cities

In a unanimous vote the Des Moines Model City Citizen board Monday night recommended that the Des Moines City Council approve a transfer of funds that would speed a proposed urban renewal project in the Model Neighborhood.

The board previously had asked the council to authorize filing of an application for a federal urban renewal grant for a project in the southern portion of the Model Neighborhood.

The City Council gave such authorization at its meeting Monday night, but indicated it would delay activity until the final few parcels of land in the River Hills urban renewal project are sold.

The Model City Board feels the urban renewal program can be speeded if it can transfer some of the Model Cities funds earmarked for other programs to a housing program, William Snyder, Model City director, said Tuesday.

No decision has been made on which Model City programs might be delayed, but between $30,000 and $50,000 could be diverted to a housing program, according to William Snyder, Model City director.

Under the proposal approved by the Model City Board, much of this money would be used to acquire vacant and substandard properties south of the MacVicar Freeway.

Land that is acquired in that area would be used for housing for the elderly, a community center and low and moderate-income housing. The community center and elderly facility would be in an area bounded by Ninth, Twelfth, School and Crocker streets.

More of the converted funds would be used to acquire scattered house sites throughout the Model City area. These sites also would be vacant or would contain substandard structures.

Model City board and staff members feel if land can be acquired, private funds can be attracted to the area.

Threaten to Send Carswell Nomination Back to Committee

Washington, D.C. -- More than 220 former Supreme Court law clerks, including Dean Acheson, Tuesday declared their opposition to confirmation to a seat on the high tribunal.

showdown neared on President Nixon's controversial nomination. A vote is scheduled for Apr. 6 whether to send Carswell's name back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. If it goes back, it will in effect, kill the nomination.

In addition Rev. Ralph Abernath, director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, urged earlier this week that the nomination of Carswell be voted down.

Federal Communications Commissioner Nicholas Johnson, a native of Iowa City, Ia., and Federal Trade Commissioner Philip Elman, both former law clerks, also signed the letter.

Brides have it easy these days — all they have to do to keep a groom happy is to cook better than a mess sergeant.

A man hopes that his lean years are behind him — a woman hopes hers are ahead.

Where there's a will, there's a lawsuit.

Temper: the only thing that improves the more you don't use it.

THIS WEEK'S COLUMN IS DEDICATED TO NOBEL LEROY BIRD, Denver, Colo., my host at this year's Potentate Ball of Zeid Temple No. 90. Held in Hotel Fort Des Moines Saturday evening, March 21.

BLACK SHRINERS' BACKGROUND IS MOST FASCINATING. It is a big segment of Black history. Anyone wanting to mail me data would find me appreciative. Zeid Temple No. 90 is one of the many temples coming under the large order. This larger order was founded June 10, 1893, Chicago, Ill., and incorporated Nov. 13, 1901, Washington, D.C. however, all work of establishing the order was possible only after a lengthy court battle with white Shriners overcame their objections to blacks becoming Masons. Black Shriners cover North and South America the organization said to be the largest to which black men belong.

CHATTING WITH THE MASONS I was made aware that Masonry is based on the life of Solomon, the son of David. It is he who is credited with the greatest masonry accomplished in the universe. Masons are builders, hence the dedication of this body to build lives and thus communities. It is said to be a charitable organization and accomplishes this through designated responsibilities under such headings as youth work, religion, public relations, music, health, scholarships, charity and legal research funds. They concern themselves with recreation; economic education, voter registration; community activities are involvements of Shriners wherever they are to be found. These are their beliefs.

THE DAUGHTERS OF ISIS were guests of the Nobles, as the Shriners are called, and will hold their Commandress Ball on Sept. 10, at the Fort Des Moines Hotel. A sneak preview of their agenda reveals April 26, May 17, June 7, July 11 and Oct. 10. Mark your calendars because the ladies do invite "us friends" sometimes!

TO NAME A FEW WOMEN OFFICIALS: Bertie Hogan, Illustrious Commandress of Zeid Court No. 50; Mrs. Eugene Penn, Za-Ha-Court #52, 1st Ceremonial Daughter, Omaha, Nebr. and Lois Norman, Illustrious Commandress.

SPEAKING OF SOLOMON! WELL-KNOWN WAS HIS LOVE OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN! Speaking of the Nobles, they love them, too! I saw these lovelies: Mrs. Louise Ware, (Dr. Ware's missus) Her majestic hair style—the new rendition of the old-curls and curls! She wore a lovely beautiful deep rose colored pants dress trimmed in gold and silver sequins about the waist and neckline. Haley Houston (Mrs. Marsh) had her wee self encased in one pants leg of an utterly fabulous pants formal; a soft clinging fabric in a red that rendered her tantalizingly lovely. Many, many were the beauties there; (Deleting the men) There was petite Delores Davis swirling so prettily (and constantly) on the dance floor in a white crepe cocktail dress, topped by a tall neck stole trimmed in 16" fringe! Sequins edged the seams. Beautician Edith Sharp in a white brocade formal with matching jacket-regal in its simplicity, it was made by Beautician Florence Green - in two days yet! Red-haired Connie Avant clad in green crepe pants formal; Mildred Duke (Mrs. Omaha now) in a white beaded formal and its white satin quilted coat! Later exchanged for a full length mink!! Doris Jackson (another untiring dancer) in white crepe formal pants suit designed and made by her daughter Sharon - who designs and makes all her mother's formals! Peggy Banks wore a black lace formal with matching black lace stole (wish I could sit so still and look so lovely!)

There was statuesque Helen Green in gold braid-trimmed gold brocade pants suit and everything she owned was gold. Wow!! Vivian Pruitt in embroidered organza over taffeta!! Sylvia Coyle in blue chiffon over satin, empire waist formal; Maxine Watkins in tomatoe red culotte formal; Barbara Peoples in white formal the jacket of which was elegantly trimmed in rhinestone buttons. Helen Aaron clad in white crepe cocktail length formal with jewel neckline. (I give up, girls!)

ALWAYS ONE MOVE AHEAD Noble and Mrs. Lawrence Graves did it again! They shared their evening with illustrious guests Howard Hart, Principal of Nash Elementary School and his company, Miss Patsy Sullivan.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Is peroxide needed to color unwanted gray hair?

Hair care and beauty experts know that the first traces of gray hair—even slight fading of natural color after chemical relaxing—can dull a woman's appearance and make her look older than she feels. While most women hate these premature aging effects, many are hesitant about using permanent peroxide haircoloring which may change the natural hair color while coloring gray.

Professionally-trained hairdressers know the importance of their customers' preferences when unwanted gray becomes a problem. These experts also know that Clairol created semi-permanent Loving Care® hair color lotion without peroxide... to color only the gray without changing the natural shade. They also find Loving Care blends back color faded by chemical processing. Because of its mildness, Loving Care maintains healthy looking hair and lasts through a month of shampoos.

Whatever a woman's reason for wanting Loving Care for her hair, she is always wise to consult a professional beautician. Hairdressers are equipped with a family of fine Clairol products and the training to promise each patron the loveliest and most personalized haircoloring effects every time she visits her salon. If you dislike gray, and want no peroxide, why not ask your beautician to glamorize it with Loving Care?

PROTEST HIGH REAL ESTATE TAXES

The cry against high property tax is prevalent among many people in Iowa because of the heavy increase in recent years. Complaints have been heard over the state by dissatisfied groups which culminated in a gathering of tax payers Monday from every corner of the state demanding that something be done to relieve the burden.

Much of this increase comes from the high cost of education where in many instances, projects are being carried on in the school which should be done some place else or that costs have gotten out of hand.

Citizens are demanding more service and special projects by the taxing bodies but complain when the time comes to pay for them.

Iowa depends upon real estate taxes to pay the bulk of school costs. And thus the fellow who owns a farm or a home is paying the bulk of the money for schools. On the other hand, the fellow who owns no tangible property and/or works for a salary or lives on investments is not contributing a fair share of the cost of running the government including the schools.

The ability to pay should be a prime factor in the collection of taxes. About the most equitable method, of course, is individual income tax with those proceeds labeled definitely to reduce property tax.

WELCOME SUPPORT FOR COURT ROOM DECORUM

During the trial of the seven persons charged with conspiring to disrupt the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968, the lawyers and clients conducted themselves as a bunch of heathens conducting a court in the jungles.

The lawyers and defendants abused the judge, kept the courtroom in a constant uproar and otherwise threw all courtroom decorum out of the window.

Following the trial, the presiding judge sentenced them to varying terms to jail for contempt of court.

Immediately howls went up charging that the judge abused his authority and violated the constitutional rights of the defendants and lawyers. These same "defendants" had nothing to say when the courtroom and trial were made a mockery.

Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the right of a judge to take necessary steps to maintain order, decorum and respect in the courtroom.

Speaking for the court in a unanimous decision, Justice Black said, "It is essential to the proper administration of criminal justice that dignity, order and decorum be the hallmarks of all court proceedings in our country."

"The flagrant disregard in the courtroom of elementary standards of proper conduct should not and cannot be tolerated."

It is high time that somebody stands up for decorum and respect. Too much of the coddling of the radical so-called liberal people who, in the name of upholding the civil rights of law violators, have created disrespect of law and order and made law violators feel they have a right to do so without being punished.

CONTINUE PLAYING WITH GRAY'S LAKE

Des Moines has a natural water spot - Gray's Lake - which has been kicked around for years. One element of the population want it for the use of all citizens just as a park would be while others want to lease it to individuals for private use or as a money making proposition for a few.

has invested money in the project in order to hold it so that a satisfactory solution can be found. There are those who are looking for a chance to lease it to some outside interest - another project to syphon and pipe Iowa money to some other city.

Recently a small contingent has made a proposal to lease the lake to a skiing group which would exclude everyone except its members on Sundays and holidays.

We have no objections to a group trying to make money on recreation for themselves. On the other hand, Gray's lake is one of the few natural surroundings and facilities which can be made available for all citizens to enjoy.

The status of Gray's Lake should be settled at at once and operations commenced promptly to make it a recreational facility just as our parks area.

New Book Chronicles Negro Baseball

Baseball's color barrier was smashed in 1946, when Branch Rickey signed Jackie Robinson to a contract with the Montreal ROYALS. Since then, many black players have gone on to win baseball fame. Many of the ones who preceded Robinson, however, went unheralded. Robert W. Peterson tells their story, the story of Negro baseball until 1946, in ONLY THE BALL WAS WHITE.

Drawing from old sports publications, the Negro press, and interviews with the ball-players themselves, Peterson has fashioned an anecdote-packed chronicle of the black ballplayer in the old days. In addition to the relatively famous Satchel Paige and Josh Gibson, other black standouts, such as John Henry Lloyd and Willie Wells, are shown barnstorming the country, entertaining the fans as well as playing ball.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

A couple of us were discussing boxing the other day. The talk got around to Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay. One fellow, a former boxer, argued that Frazier would probably beat Clay now in spite of the fact that the latter is a master boxer. He argued that Frazier is now at his peak, and has his confidence up. Clay has been off for at least a couple of years. It would take him at least a year to get back in shape so said our expounder. The longer one lays off, the longer it takes him to get ready for the grind again. We listened to both fellows, and thought they might still get together sometime during 1970. That will be a real whopper of a gate. There doesn't seem to be anybody else who can draw a gate worth mentioning, so it will eventually be those two, Clay and Frazier.

We read with a great deal of interest the story of Johnny Bright and his election to the Iowa hall of fame. It would have been news if the big fellow hadn't made it. When one speaks of Drake football, he almost immediately thinks of Bright. There wasn't any doubt that he was one of the best football hurlers to come around these parts. All he ever needed was one run. Sometimes his team failed to get him even that, and they would play all night until maybe an error let in a run against Bright. There was a lot of speculation as to whether he could play in the NFL. But most of that was because he was from Drake. Had he been from one of the larger schools there would have been no doubt. But he probably would have made just as big in the National league as he did in Canada.

Blacks in Baseball
One of our friends wondered if there were as many black kids playing baseball and football as there were when we came along. There were several all black baseball clubs. The Capitol City Giants, probably the oldest of the clubs. The Des Moines Cubs, who were mostly players from Southeast Des Moines, The Independents, and just a host of teams made up of players not quite good enough to make one of the road teams.

They played each other, and nearly always drew good crowds to their games. Then we had our Church league and that soon got into a bunch of the better players crowding out the guys who played for fun as everybody wanted to win, and went out to get the best players possible.

The thing was originally set up for members of the various churches, but in their zeal to win each team soon had players who didn't even know where the church they played for was located. That probably killed the league, but it furnished people with a lot of entertainment and excitement for several years. Of course, now you have your little leagues, and other similar low deputies. She served on the Legislative Committee of the Iowa Sheriffs' Association and was instrumental in getting key legislation passed for Iowa Sheriffs.

Activities of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission

Affirmative Action - Mean anything to you? It's the term given one of the approaches the Iowa Civil Rights Commission takes in fighting discrimination. The effects of this approach will only be felt indirectly by the individual, but they can be significant. Using this approach the Commission moves to find and eliminate major causes of discrimination without waiting for an individual to file a complaint.

The Commission has a project funded by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission which uses the affirmative action approach to seek out discrimination in employment. Through this project the recruitment and hiring practices of large employers are reviewed in detail. It has been found in case after case that methods used by these employers for years and believed to be fair, oftentimes have elements in them which bear more heavily on minorities. Discrimination is often found in the methods used to recruit people to apply for employment and the qualifications used to determine who can best do the job.

Usually employers whose practices are discriminatory are unaware that this is the case. However, although the discrimination may not be intentional, the results of the employment practices are that more minorities are excluded from employment than are members of the majority for invalid reasons. This is unlawful.

Equal Chance
This project, therefore, attempts to help you by removing those discriminatory elements and by giving everyone an equal chance in all aspects of employment.

James Meimann, director of this affirmative action project is a native of Colo, Iowa. A graduate of Iowa State University in Ames with a double major in history and sociology, Jim participated in many campus activities. He held a wide range of offices in several organizations that centered mainly around the Catholic Newman Center. To help pay college expenses he worked at a variety of part time jobs. These included rental and operation of a farm and work as a carpenter and as a painter. His hobbies include music, reading and various sports.

Deep Interest
Jim came to the Commission with a deep interest in organizations. The players are never listed by race, and it is impossible to tell just how many are playing.

Then if a boy is pretty good, he gets good coverage in the daily papers, we don't really get a chance to do a good story on him because the daily paper got there first. Lots of times we had thought to do a story on some kid, we would have to get our stuff in by Tuesday, and by Friday, there is a story in the daily, which makes our yarn old news.

But with the coming of baseball we will once again sound our call for news of little leaguers and what they do.

Football

Spring football is just around the corner. We wonder what sort of team Iowa will come up with. Lets hope they have all their troubles ironed out, and put on a good spring drill. They could have a pretty fair ball club in spite of losing some fellows. Iowa State could really come on this year. They will have an all veteran club, and Don Tisdale should be ready. If he isn't there is a guy named Mike Fontanini waiting in the wings. Yep, this should be a good year for the Cyclones, and it might be for the Hawkeyes.

and concern for human relations. Much of this concern stemmed from previous experience working with community organization among the poor and minority. He spent one summer in the mountains of eastern Kentucky among the Appalachian poor working with self-help projects. Another summer found Jim in Wichita, Kansas in person to person contact among the minority poor. This was directed toward community and Christian involvement with an emphasis on changing conditions under which they were forced to live.

Jim's background has been important in his work on the affirmative action program. He and the rest of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission staff want to help you and have the means available by which to do so. Give us a try!!

A HOME IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT

Just a little old home on a short street,
Outside it looks rough, but inside it's neat.
Look inside and you will see why
It has two housekeepers, Susie and I.

She does the cooking and vacuums the floors,
While I help with the dishes and do other chores,
Every morning when I get out of bed,
"It is time to get up," to Susie I have said.

I go to the kitchen and breakfast I start,
Susie soon joins me and starts doing her part.
I toast the bread and the coffee I am makin',
While she fries the eggs and puts crimps in the bacon.

Then on the table the breakfast is spread,
While a suitable word is quietly said,
And for breakfast I don't know what I like most,
Bread on Jelly, or Jelly on toast.

After breakfast is over there's one thing I dread,
I have to wash dishes while she makes the bed.
Then after it is over our pleasure begins,
She watches television while I toast my shins.

Health for All

KICK THE HABIT BEFORE YOU KICK THE BUCKET

"Kick the Habit Before You Kick the Bucket" is a slogan on the wall at a teenagers' social club in Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

The kids allow smoking in a special spot called the Cancer Room. X-rays of diseased lungs decorate the black walls. The ashtray is a sand-filled coffin.

Although thousands of teenagers start smoking by their peers as leaders every year, some of them are hard at work trying to convince their friends not to start. Or to kick the habit.

One example. In California, the Kern County Inter-agency Council on Smoking and Health—of which the Tuberculosis and Health Association is a member—organized an intriguing project to see if teenagers could get across the anti-smoking message to other teenagers more effectively than adults can.

Sixty teenagers selected teenagers start smoking by their peers as leaders every year, some of them set up their own brand of advertising agency. Each teenager staff member chose the position he wanted to fill: account supervisor, copywriter, traffic director, art director, and other jobs. The project, called "Smoke Out," was run according to techniques used in the local organization of Junior Achievers where youngsters run businesses of their own under the guidance of local businessmen.

The campaign was a smashing success, and the medias were flooded with anti-smoking messages that spoke to young people.

The respiratory disease association in your area is vitally interested in the problem of smoking and programs to combat it. This is their message to teenagers and adults alike: Kick the habit. It's a matter of life and breath.
