2nd Dynamiting in 10 Days of Law Enf Quarters

For the second time in 10 days police stations in Iowa were the victim of dynamite bombing. First it was the Des Moines Police Station on May 13. Last Friday it was the City Hall, in which is housed the police station, in Ames, Ia.

In the first there were no serious injuries; at Ames 10 persons were hurt, one critically.

According to investigators the blast which came about 9 a.m. caused about $200,000 in damages. It was estimated that three to five sticks of high-powered dynamite were used in the blast. It was also speculated that a timing device was used. The high powered dynamite comes in sticks 16 inches long and 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

The same type of dynamite believed to be part of 285 sticks stolen May 5 from Quick Supply Co., north of Des Moines, was used in the May 13 blast at the Des Moines police station, causing an estimated $200,000 damage.

Rocked Downtown
The explosion literally rocked downtown Ames and was heard and felt several miles away.

The Sheldon-Munn Hotel, across the street and south of City Hall, had 200 broken panes, including eight plate glass windows.

The City Hall houses the police station, jail, municipal court, city offices and fire station. The police radio and telephone service was affected but never completely shut off.

Door-Shut Hole
The explosive device was placed in the basement window directly below the police communications room. The blast blew a door-sized hole (about 4 feet by 8 feet) through the foundation.

Marion Williams Awarded $2,000 In False Arrest Case in 1967

Marion E. Williams, 39, owner-operator of Williams Pharmacy at 1103 University avenue, was awarded $2,000 by a Polk County District Court jury, in a false-arrest suit stemming from an incident in 1967. The city announced it will appeal the verdict.

Williams, had asked $10,000 in a suit against Des Moines Police Sgt. Ray Steiner and the city.

Williams contended that on Dec. 4, 1967 he was falsely arrested by Steiner taken from his pharmacy before a crowd of customers, employers and onlookers, and generally humiliated.

Steiner and other Des Moines police officers said at the trial that they were

Jackson Students Count Campus Slayings

JACKSON, Miss. — The grim story of what happened on the campus of Jackson State College when two students were slain by Mississippi State Highway patrolmen was recounted in detail here, May 20, by eyewitnesses to the slaughter in testimony before an unofficial panel of investigators composed of two civil rights leaders — NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins and Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights — and four members of Congress — Senators Birch Bayh of Indiana and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Representatives William Clay of Missouri and Don Edwards of California.

Testifying were a dozen students who were present on the campus that fatal night, May 15, when, without warning, police fired a fusillade into the women's dormitory killing two young men, wounding at least 15 other students, and pock-marking the five-story brick building with 140 bullet holes in the 30-second blast.

The police charge that they shot in response to sniper fire from the building was denied by the student witnesses during the two-hour hearing in the Masonic Temple here. Senator Mondale said that even if there had been sniper fire it did not justify the massive retaliatory firing by the police. The "unfounded sniper," he said, has become "a new national syndrome," adding that "every time there's police over-reaction, that unfounded sniper always gets the blame."

Student witnesses testified that Captain Floyd Jones, of the Highway Patrol, pointed to where the dead and wounded lay after the firing ceased; that the officers gave no medical aid to the wounded. Although the city police maintained that they did not shoot, students indicated that they saw local police shoot as well as the state patrolmen. Shots were fired from a "Thompson Tank" which is an armored vehicle belonging to the local police department. Students identified Jones as one of those firing. The officer indicated where the wounded lay saying, "there's a nigger lying over there."

No Rocks
Students also testified that no rocks were thrown as alleged by police; but a bottle was heard to smash on the pavement. (It is unclear if this was done by students or the officers.) Students were looking out the window at the gathering of the officers. Many of the girls in the dormitory were wounded.

Students reported that after the firing, the police officers picked up their cartridges, so that there would be no shells left on the ground. After the firing, the officers re-grouped and marched away.

Police Effort
There has been little effort on the part of the local police to investigate and obtain the facts about the shooting, although one witness said he had been questioned by the FBI.

The unofficial hearing was set up by Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi State NAACP, in response to a request from Jackson State College students for an opportunity to tell the story of what happened that night. Clifford Alexander, former chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, presided. The hearing was coordinated by Representative Robert Clark, the only Negro member of the Mississippi Legislature.

Horrrifying
At the conclusion of the hearing, Mr. Wilkins branded the police attack as "horrrifying" and said: "There is no excuse whatsoever for Harrasement of black students attending Simpson College at Indianola by some of the white citizens in the community came to light earlier this week.

Malcolm Hogan, president of the Des Moines branch of the Advancement of Colored People, receiving a call from the Chicago NAACP office, accompanied by Robert

WILLIARD WHITESIDE
Region IV NAACP director and Alvin Hayes, Jr., executive director of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, motored to Indianola Monday evening for "the purpose of making an on the spot investigation of complaints."

Hogan said the NAACP heard of the complaints as a result of parents of a student at Simpson, who contacted the Chicago office.

In an interview at the Bystander office Hogan said he, Hayes and Wright, "met with all 22 black students at the Black Cultural Center" on the Simpson campus, "to determine the exact nature of the complaints." "After securing vocal statements of complaints and reviewing tape recordings made in connection with (student) meetings with Mayor A. L. Miner, and Chief of Police Roy Pace, we held additional meetings with members of the board of trustees, dean of students and President Ralph C. John, all of Simpson college" said Hogan.

"We received firm commitments from all parties stating that they investigate and provide us with information relating to each allegation as well as, promised to provide additional police patrol and increase police protection to cover areas where incidents occur," he said.

"Even though we are continuing to investigate, we discovered the allegations have considerable merit and we persisted in the county attorney allowing Willard Whiteside, one of the black students, to file complaints, against one of the white citizens involved which he had previously been denied to do so prior to our arrival on the scene."

Hogan said, "At this point we have turned the matter over to the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, who sent three investigators to Indianola Tuesday.

"There is some belief that this harrasment may be directed to the city's failure to receive about $800,000 in connection with the water improvement system, denied them recently, as a result of a prior Civil Rights Commission investigation, relating to the failure of citizens to rent quarters to black students, he said.

A&T Receives $175,000 June Franklin Will Open College Afro-Center

GREENSBORO, N. C. — The Computer Science Center at A&T State University Monday was awarded a $175,000 grant from the National Science Foundation.

The funds, announced through the office of Congressman Richardson Preyer, represents the largest single grant for the University's computer science and data processing program which was opened in 1963.

George Beatty, director of the center, said the federal funds will be used to purchase additional equipment and for the employment of needed personnel.

"This grant, coming approximately one year after the accreditation of our school of engineering," said Beatty,

"will greatly enhance our research program and increase our service potential to business and industry in the Piedmont Triad."

A&T is currently offering basic courses in computer science, but Beatty said an immediate aim is to enlarge the program to include offering a bachelor of science degree in computer science.

Beatty said that the Computer Science Center, currently housed in the basement of the administration building, will be moved to Graham Building, the engineering annex in the very near future. A&T received $289,000 from the 1969 North Carolina State Legislature for the complete renovation of the building.

PELLA, IOWA — Mrs. June Franklin, state representative from Des Moines and the only Black Iowa legislator, will be the featured speaker at the opening of the Central College Afro-American Cultural Center, Saturday, May 23 at 2 p.m.

Don Mahon Seeks Re-election To Fifth District

"Now is the time to let the world know that an overwhelming majority of the people of this country support our government. Our enemies must be made to realize that the small percentage who make so much noise and thereby get most of the publicity do not truly reflect the thinking of most Americans," Don Mahon, who is seeking the Republican nomination for United States Representative from Iowa's Fifth District made this statement when speaking to a Republican Women's Meeting at Boone, Iowa, Thursday evening. Mahon said, "Unless we demonstrate this support by our words and deeds, and in no uncertain manner, we are pulling the rug from under our own boys in Viet Nam as well as making it more difficult for the President to get them home in accordance with the schedule he has announced and is fulfilling."

BLUE LEMONS.....

Hits like "Soul Man" and "Hold On, I'm Coming" and others have made Isaac Hayes and David Porter one of the most successful songwriting/record producing teams in contemporary music. More and more artists, including Tom Jones, Cold Blood, Cissy Houston and Aretha Franklin record Hayes and Porter tunes.

During their five-year collaboration, the duo has written more than 200 songs. For Isaac, the Mississippi River has been a source of inspiration. "Every summer I go down to the park overlooking the river. I've read a lot of history and I can just feel all my black heritage."

I can sit there looking at the river and just let my mind go...the riverboats, singing, sunsets and all that history. I can't really explain the feeling you get late in the evening.

"Memphis was once a town that exported cotton," Isaac continued. "There was an awful lot of singing there and that influenced W.C. Handy and everybody else."

The competition among musicians in Memphis has created some formidable talents, David and Isaac included. They used to sing in rival vocal groups before they met in the Stax recording studio one day and discovered they had a mutual interest in songwriting.

Let State Investigators Remove Evidence from Jackson State

JACKSON, MISS. — A federal judge ruled Wednesday that state investigators may remove portions of the college dormitory where two Negro youths died in a fusillade of police gunfire, but the state said it will wait until the tense situation here calms down.

Judge J. P. Coleman of the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued the order after a group of blacks at Jackson State College blocked investigators from the building twice Tuesday.

He said the removal of physical evidence from the building would be left to the discretion of state authorities, but the evidence must be turned over to the FBI immediately for safe-keeping.

"The state will remove it when we get ready," said a spokesman for the governor's office.

"There is no point in subjecting men to possible acts of violence in order to remove something that has little, if any, evidentiary value," He said the state would wait for the situation to calm down before sending in investigators to remove bullet-riddled sections of the building.

gunfire. Police Chief Nino Colonna said the trouble began outside a tavern where several whites and blacks got into an argument. More people gathered, and rocks and bottles were thrown.

Racial trouble in the town of 30,000 has closed its seven schools for five days over the last two weeks. The schools, which opened Thursday, were ordered shut down again Friday.

Acquits 2 Students in Resisting Process of Law

AMES, IA. — Roosevelt Roby, 22, and Charles Knox, 25, both Iowa State University black students were found innocent Tuesday of resisting execution of process.

The all-white jury deliberated five hours before reaching its decision.

Roby and Knox were charged after an incident in which Roby escaped from police who were attempting to arrest him on an assault and battery charge. Knox was in a crowd of blacks present at the time. Roby turned himself in later the same day.

The assault and battery charge stemmed from a fight at the Red Ram tavern Apr. 9 which involved National Collegiate Athletic Association wrestling champion Chuck Jean.

Judge John McKinney earlier declared a mistrial in Roby's trial on the assault charge and disqualified himself from the case after an incendiary device was found in McKinney's garage.

Roby's arrest on the assault charge touched off a series of racial protests by Iowa State blacks.

Roby is a senior in distributed studies from Waterloo. Knox, a former Des Moines Black Panther leader, is a junior majoring in anthropology.

The Do's & Don'ts
Of Lawn-Care Logic

Let's face it—good lawns
don't just happen by accident.
They need plenty of tender loving care to prosper. So, if you want a lawn to turn your neighbors green with envy, cultivate these do's and don't's and that Defendants make some claim to said premises adverse to Plaintiff's title and praying that their title and estate in said premises be quieted and confirmed as an absolute title in fee simple.

For further particulars, see said Petition.
YOU are also notified to appear before said Court in the Polk County Court House, located at Fifth and Court Streets, Des Moines, Polk County, Iowa,
before the 19th day of June, 1970, and that unless you so appear, your default will be entered and judgment or decree rendered against you for the relief demanded in said Petition.

KEOKUK

BY MRS. S. H. TOOMEY
1902 Franklin street
Phone 634-4769

Miss Jennifer Buckner was one of the models for the style show held at the senior high Tuesday, May 19. The featured fashions were made by students in the home economics class of Miss Ruth Trail.

The fireman were called to the home of Robert Wells of 2304 Plank road on May 19 with moderate damage to the home caused by the wiring malfunction.

For many years missionaries from all over the United States and even from Keokuk have been sent to Africa. But it is a new twist when a church sends a missionary from Africa to Keokuk.

Rev. David S. Bunde who has been living with various Keokuk families for almost three months is a missionary to the United States from Dar-Essaalam Tanzania, Africa. The ordained Lutheran pastor's assignment in Keokuk is to observe assigned community and to work closely with the First Lutheran Church congregation.

Mrs. Louis Robbins was recently elected president of the Wells-Carey school
P.T.A. and presided at her first meeting on Thursday, May 21.

The Rev. J. K. Mims of Galesburg, Ill., has accepted a call to be pastor of the Pilgrim Rest Baptist church.

LINES

WHAT LOVELY FEMALE AT SOME MOMENT in her life hasn't looked longingly into her mirror and wished that she might someday be a beauty queen? And who wasn't right at that very moment, in the intimate companionship of her own small looking glass and her own sweet company, a beauty queen! Sort of like "Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the fairest of them all?" A line from one of the oldest stories of all stories!

SO IT WAS THAT JOHN PAUL FRANCIS WALLIS came on the Des Moines scene last week and was known to contact two women school authorities who provided them a list of some of the town's young lovelies that he might build within our community a black beauty contest and so select "Miss Black Iowa." She, in turn, would then enter a "Miss Black USA Contest." Personable charming and convincing, he also acquired from business sources a trophy for his project. It seems the top and bottom halves of the trophy were donated from two equally proper business sources! He garnered generous certificates which finally totaled a one thousand dollar prize for Miss Black Iowa. These, too, were achieved from very proper sources. Wallis was a winner all the way. One mother, a successful business woman, as with the leaders of the larger establishments acquiesced to Wallis' request that she select robes for the contest's role of queen. As she put it, "He wasn't in town five minutes and knew where to get costumes!" He directed her to pick up $15.00 worth of costumes. Directed her to pick up the $6.00 worth of snapshots he had taken of the contestants. The $6.00 she said was from her funds.

Pam Wallace Visits K.C. Christening

Pam Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wallace of 2724 Amick avenue, went to Kansas City, Mo., on May 17 to attend the christening of her niece and god child, Wendy Alexander Wallace, 18-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Wallace.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wallace and sons, Tommy and Dennis, of 1700 Allison, who also were god parents.

News Editor Visits Sick Daughter in Mo.

Mrs. Peter Hawthorne, Jr., news editor of the Iowa Bystander made an emergency trip to Eolia, Mo., due to the illness of her mother, Mrs. Pauline Watson, who is hospitalized in Louisiana, Mo. She left Friday and returned Tuesday morning.

ING TO WALLIS' call for press coverage and pictures sent me to the YWCA. Wallis had informed us that the contest would take place at 5:30 p.m. on Friday. Miss Black Iowa would then be chosen! At the YWCA nothing was astir! The switchboard operator indicated the bulletin board — no mention of a contest! She checked with persons in charge who confirmed none was scheduled! She graciously cleared with the YMCA in the event we were misdirected. Next she consented to phone The Tribune. This brought "no news." Someone court-tesously allowed me the use of an office and a phone. Remembering a local model was to assist and had confirmed the contest was underway, I phoned her family. Here I learned the affair was off! Called off! And was referred to a local studio where the girls had been rehearsing. I arrived shortly after Wallis had been escorted to the City Jail!

JUDGE LUTHER T. GLANTON on Monday night, answering my queries confirmed that he had filed charges against Wallis at the request of a mother — this in behalf of her daughter. A warrant was issued upon the claim that he promised 20 or more teenagers that he was going to have them in a Miss Black Iowa beauty contest. Each had given four to ten dollars for pictures. Wallis is accused with gross cheat. He was arraigned on Monday with a hearing to be held later.

LET'S ADMIT THAT WALLIS HAS PROVED his idea to be a good thing. Someone else could make a new beginning and bring it to a beautiful ending. Wallis has proven our community is ready and willing. We knew and we know that we have the beautiful girls ambitious girls.

Wash Center Saves Steps

Today's electrical servants are great at tubing and drying soiled clothing and linens, but they don't march up and down the stairs collecting and returning the wash. Put your facilities where your laundry loads are! Even in modern one-story houses, the utility room is too often quite a hike from the bedrooms. Put a washer and dryer in a hallway built-in and save steps.

In two-story houses, utilities tend to end up in the basement, daylight or otherwise, putting the housewife into training for alpine sports.

One of the nicest presents a thoughtful family can give her is a utility center upstairs, where the wash accumulates. Most older homes contain an extra closet or corner big enough to house the appliances, often a useless corner under the eaves will suffice. The trick is to find a spot above or adjacent to existing plumbing.

It can be a family secret. A built-in will hide the whole arrangement. Doors and side walls built with solid lumber will quarantine noise.

HONOR OUR MEN WHO HONORED U.S.

Speaking to members of the 92nd U. S. Division stationed at Pont-A-Mousson, France, on Thanksgiving Day, 1918, (we were in the audience) General Martin, the commanding general told the men that he was glad of the efforts being made by President Woodrow Wilson to form a League of Nations to stop all wars, but that as long as there are men, there will be wars.

This was a pretty cold blooded remark. They came from the military. But somehow it is being done in our lifetime.

A hopeful note is contained in Lincoln's famous Gettysburg speech, ... "that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain ..."

Saturday, we celebrate Memorial Day historically set out to honor the fallen heroes of the Civil War. In recent years, it has included soldiers of subsequent wars.

Continuing that honor should never be abandoned for what these men did has helped to make America the great nation it is.

But what about these wars? Have we learned a lesson from them? Have we given more attention to material collaboration with nations than the moral? Apparently not, for in spite of peace efforts, in spite of all the material help America has given nations, we continue to fight, we continue, in spite of United Nations, to deal unilaterally with situations that have made enemies rather than friends.

The swell of discontent with the war in Vietnam has aroused some young people to use the same tactics to end the war that are being used to fight the war. And while it will not be stopped by such tactics, the spirit of conflict even to bring reform, makes fights - makes wars even between ourselves.

Too many of these people have dishonored the flag, refused to salute it, refused to stand as it is raised or lowered and otherwise shown disrespect. No man should stoop to such a low regard for his country or dishonor the men who have defended it.

DISINTERESTED VOTING
IN THE PRIMARIES

Tuesday is primary election day, when parties nominate candidates for the general election in November.

Candidates are exceedingly scarce this year. In most instances there is but one office seeker on the party lists which makes them automatic candidates in the fall election.

This, of course, presages a light vote. Many people seem interested in remaining at home until after an election, then lambast elected officials calling them no good.

A small percentage of voters have gone to the polls on election day. This one will be no exception to the rule.

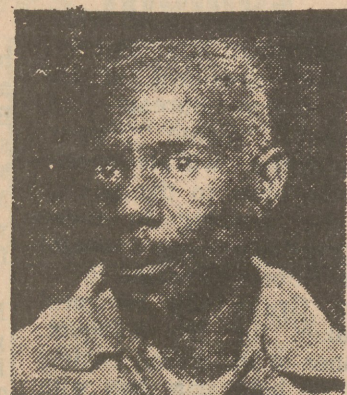

PUBLIC OPINION
HAS GREAT FORCE

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in spite of his great popularity, did not succeed in packing the U. S. Supreme Court with judges who harbored his views and believed the public was against them in principle as well as procedure. He did not succeed.

The Iowa Board of Control of Athletics learned this when they reinstated coach Ray Nagel whom they had fired a few days before. The public did not like the board's action and rebelled with such surprising force that it was forced to retreat from their earlier position and rehire Nagel.

Let this be the end of bickering in the athletic department of Iowa and move on the job of building successful teams.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

We hadn't seen the old fellow for a number of years. After our exchange of greetings, we got to talking about the problems at Iowa U., since I knew that the guy was a long time Hawkeye fan. He lit a cigar, and said "If you have the nerve to write about it, I can tell you what is wrong up there. Of course, you won't be able to substantiate one bit of what I tell you because anybody you ask will either fail to remember, will say it didn't happen, or else they will call me a liar."

But you know I have been around Iowa football since 1918 and have been close to enough of the black players to know what I am saying. Well, we write what we please in our column so long as it doesn't involve chances of a libel suit, so here is the story as we got it from the old fellow. We all know that Iowa lost a lot of good Negro football players in the forties and most of us blamed it on the coaching staff for not wanting too many blacks on the squad, at least not in the role of starters.

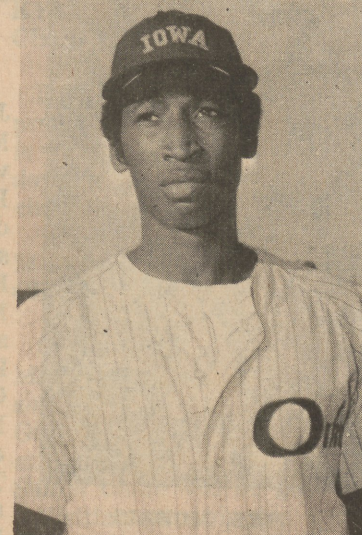

Then along came Evashevski, and since the man didn't seem to recognize color lines he went out and got football players wherever he could find them, regardless of color. When he began to have five starters who were black, Evy found himself embroiled in a dispute with various alumni organizations, the athletic director, and some influential citizens around the state for having too many blacks on the team. Being the kind of a guy he is, Evy wouldn't back down, saying his best team would start if they were eleven Chinese. And as the veteran talked, we recalled that Al Coupey, who was broadcasting Iowa games over KRNT, once said with some concern in his voice, "Evy has six Negro starters today and only five white boys."

At that time we didn't think much of it. Evashevski and his Negroes kept winning, so there wasn't much people could say. But resentment was deep among the alumni, some of the students and a lot of the people around the state. We can recall hearing in some barbershops that people wished Iowa would lose to take some of the cockiness out of those black boys. Then along came Jerry Burns. He was Evy's top assistant, and possessed of a fine football mind, so it was only natural that he should be given a shot at succeeding the master. But Burns tried to listen to both Evy and his policy of playing the best men, and the outsiders who were against too many blacks. Then the subject of interracial dating became a problem. It was said that Burns tried to handle that problem along with his coaching duties. At one time said our talker, morale among the blacks was so low that they held a meeting and were ready to quit the football team. But Larry Furgeson was captain, and he told them that as much as he sympathized with them and shared their grievances, he was captain of the whole team, and just couldn't quit. So the fellows agreed to stay on for Larry. Well, it isn't hard to see why Iowa didn't do so well under Burns.

Ray Nagel got his chance, and the fellows say he tried to carry out the Burns policy, and talked too much

Iowa Oaks Introduce 2 Stars to Bystander Readers

Special to Iowa Bystander—Meet Dwain Anderson, the lanky and hard-hitting shortstop for the Iowa Oaks. Dwain, who makes his home in the San Francisco Bay area, is considered a prime prospect for Major League duty by the parent Oakland Athletics. The Oaks are displaying a terrific ball club early in the season and with standouts such as Dwain Anderson they stand a good chance of winning the pennant.

about the blacks in a rather derogatory manner. But the people who didn't approve of Evy and his blacks never forgave him and were constantly looking for a chance to nail him to the cross. So the story got out that he was responsible for the previous athletic director leaving, and then Burns, and managed to cast Evy in the role of villain, so much so that people who wouldn't know a football from a beef roast and who know nothing about the situation at Iowa were saying "Get rid of Evashevski, and all the problems there will vanish like magic."

Our speaker lit another cigar, and remarked that there just wasn't any way to prove his statements. We would simply have to rely on the word of a fellow who has been around Iowa football for 52 years. They have finally gotten rid of the ogre. While we could never be said to be a Nagel fan, we thought he should have been fired in December if they were going to get rid of him. But we haven't seen such flip flops since our grandad turned over in his grave when he heard about

Activities of the Iowa
Civil Rights Commission

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission was established by the Iowa legislature July 1, 1965. Since it began operation, the Commission has experienced a variety of difficulties in determining what its function was to be.

On May 14, 1970, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission finally declared its determination to do as the legislature directed.

In the case of John Hart vs. Iron Workers Local 67 and William Reed, the Commission found discrimination.

In following the mandate of the legislature to eliminate discrimination, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission ordered the business representative William Reed to pay the Weitz Construction Company $1,314.56 and Iron Workers Local 67 to pay $6,000. The Commission further ordered the Union to admit minorities to membership, to issue work permits, to eliminate tests as a basis for admission unless validated for cultural bias or job relatedness.

The foresight of the Commission is also revealed in its decision in that the Commission also added a reporting system so that it can continually monitor the progress of the Union.

This decision by the Commission must truly be heralded as a landmark decision for the State of Iowa. Further, that this decision comes at a time of opposition to such directives from major unions across the state. By this decision, the Commission cannot win favor with labor unions. It does, however, forewarn all unions that discriminatory practices and tokenism must end.

In order to take advantage of the true value of this decision, the next step remains with the minority people.

Someone must be courageous and determined enough to put this union and all others to the supreme test.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission needs to have minorities of all races apply to this union and all others for membership. We solicit the cooperation of our readers to find and encourage interested persons to apply to this union and all others for membership.

The impact of this decision against Local 67 of the Iron Workers has not been fully felt as yet because this case includes an Order which encompasses all of the Commission's powers. The case itself contains such clear facts that there can be little doubt of the guidelines established.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission by its decision and order has after five years of existence taken a firm stand, and by its stand eliminated some of the doubt of its effectiveness. It was the Commission who, in fact, brought this case to a public hearing after Iron Workers Local 67 failed to abide by the Conciliation Agreement made with the Commission. The Commission stated that the Union did not act in good faith, but only sought to avoid contact with the Commission. A truly noteworthy observation.

Nagel Will Stay
As U of I Coach

Iowa City, Ia.—Ray Nagel will continue as the University of Iowa football coach at least through next season.

The University's Board of Control of Athletics did a turnaround last Friday by voting to retain Nagel after he had been fired on May 19. On that same day the University's Athletic Director, Forest Evashevski also resigned that position.

The firing and resignation climaxed months of internal unrest in the football department. It is believed that public pressure in the form of phone calls from supporters, alumni and fans, precipitated the reversal of the previous decision.

MEN DO MAKE PASSES AT GIRLS WITH GLASSES!

A long time ago the celebrated wit, Dorothy Parker, made the immortal observation "Men never makes passes at girls who wear glasses."

That's all changed today. The big difference is the men are making passes at girls wearing glasses the would-be Romeos don't even see.

Teenagers, in particular, shied away from any kind of vision aids in the past. With the growing popularity of contact lenses, our youngsters move much more confidently in both their business and social worlds.

Vanity is forgotten by today's youngster. More than 25% of contact lens users, according to officials of Barnes-Hind Ophthalmic Products Inc., are teenagers. The minilenses defy detection, are practical for the relief of near and far sightedness and are easy to maintain.

The young male finds them invaluable for various sports, particularly hunting, though the male "ego" and "social acceptance" rate high as reasons for their popularity in this area.

It's coffee time any time in our part of the country. Every housewife has their own brand and way of making coffee. Here are a couple of hints that prove most successful:

1. Use a clean coffee pot. Coffee has a tiny film of oil, so add detergent to the hot water when you wash the pot. Be sure to rinse well.
2. Determine the measure you like and stick to it. Most people use one tablespoon of coffee for each cup.
3. Watch your timing when you percolate coffee. Six to eight minutes is about right.
4. Use only fresh water and fresh coffee.

Follow these ideas and you'll be the best maker of coffee in your area.

"GOING HOME"

When Time is no more; I wonder where I'll be
When I come in my harp or fighting the fires of hell
When I comes in His bright shining light with angels and I stand
I wonder on which side of the line I'll be standing.

If God will smile down upon me and say, "Welcome Home".
Or, if He will point His finger the other way and say,
"Go, I know you not."
If I will get to wear a crown on my head up there
Or suffer for all my sins in the deepest gloom.

I hope I can smile back at God and all His angels and say
"Lord, I've done all your wishes and I'm ready to go home".
Then I'd feel His smile falling on me and hear His sweet words,
"You've done my commands and I want you in my kingdom".

Then we'll all go home in the bright shining sky so far away,
Go through the gates of pearl and speak to Peter on the way,
Walk the streets of Gold; live in a mansion made just for me.

But best of all, walking side by side of the God I love.

EVERYTHING'S COMIN' UP ROSES — UNLESS...

People are not alone in their appreciation of roses. From bud tip to root tip, insects appreciate them, too, as food. And given the right conditions, a rose bush can soon be a fungus farm.

Let's take it from the top, because, clearly, a rose bush needs all the help it can get if it is to survive in a world that is literally crawling with enemies. Get a truly effective aerosol spray or a dust. For example, Antrol Rose and Flower Spray is triple action. It kills chewing and sucking insects, stops the spread of disease and is easiest to use.
