MODEL CITIES GROUP REBUFFS COUNCIL

Balks at Picket Removal Attempt Newark, N.J. Elects Negro Mayor

Defeats Powerful City Machine of Long-standing

Newark, New Jersey — A Negro civil engineer, Kenneth A. Gibson, defeated Hugo J. Addonizio for Mayor of Newark, New Jersey, Wednesday, the first of his race to be elected in a large eastern city.

Gibson, 38, a civil engineer, polled 54,892 votes to Addonizio's 43,339.

Gibson's race and Addonizio's indictment on charges of extortion and income tax evasion had made the campaign the bitterest in Newark's history.

Gibson's victory in a city long depicted as a symbol of America's urban crisis, still scarred by the riots of three years ago, brought an instantaneous emotional response downtown.

Gibson's victory was fashioned on the strength of an overwhelming outpouring of black voters in central and southern Newark. That had been expected. The key to his victory lay in the votes in the predominantly white west ward.

There, Gibson was receiving five times as many votes as he gained in the May 12 election. He had polled more than twice as many total votes as Addonizio in that election, but not enough to win a clear majority of the six candidates competing.

Gibson received the support of only one of the defeated candidates, John Caufield, the former city fire director who had been fired by Addonizio. Caufield lives in the west ward. The people there cast their support for Gibson.

3 Blacks to Council
The election also swept into office three of five black candidates for city council.

The tumultuous scenes in Newark were a reminder that this campaign had been dominated by one issue — race. As voters, plagued by every urban problem and deeply divided by new racial tensions, went to the polls in record numbers, they could not escape the fact that the election had come down to white versus black.

Addonizio backers crisscrossed the city in sound trucks hammering home the message that a vote for Gibson was a vote for a black takeover.

Newark, one of the oldest cities in the nation, has a population of slightly more than 400,000 about 60 percent of whom are black. The voter registration figures, though, are about half white and half black.

Annual Red Cross Meeting June 12

For the 54th year, the Central Iowa Chapter, American Red Cross will convene its Annual Meeting on June 24, 1970, at 8:00 p.m. in the Chapter offices, 506 - 4th Street, Des Moines. Now serving Dallas, Polk and Warren Counties, the Chapter's volunteer service chairman will report on program activities throughout the territory and seek Board support for recent innovations. Board members and officers for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1970, will be elected. All persons living in the three-county area who are enrolled members of Red Cross are eligible to attend and vote.

Draws Drug Case Jail Sentence

Mrs. Helen Leona Duke has been sentenced by Judge Harry Perkins in Polk County District Court for drug violation.

Mrs. Duke, 24, of 1311 Harrison Ave., who was arrested at her home, was found guilty by a District Court jury last month of illegal possession of marijuana and methadone.

She was sentenced to 180 days in the Polk County Jail on the marijuana charge and two years in the Women's Reformatory in Rockwell City on the methadone charge, with both sentences to run concurrently and be served in Rockwell City.

A charge of illegal possession of prescription drugs, also filed against Mrs. Duke as a result of the Mar. 27 raids, is pending. She has pleaded innocent to that charge.

Dr. Conner Warns Picnic Poisoning

"Picnic food poisoning can be prevented with a little care in selecting, preparing, storing, transporting and serving those picnic meals," says Dr. Julius S. Conner, city-county health director.

It's no fun to get food poisoning and spoil that weekend or holiday outing. You'd do well to keep away from cream and custard filled pastries, meat and potato salads, cold egg mixtures, left-over poultry, cream foods and cold meats, unless you know they've been properly prepared, protected from dust and flies, and refrigerated at 45 degrees F. or below.

For safer eating, choose non-perishable foods such as potato chips, washed raw fruits and vegetables and commercially canned foods; cheese, peanut butter and jelly sandwiches keep well, and most foods which can be thoroughly cooked are usually safe.

Unsafe food left in a warm place for any length of time is dangerous where food poisoning is concerned. It may look good and taste good — but still be dangerous.

To be safe — keep hot foods hot, 140 degrees F. or above, — cold foods cold, 45 degrees F. or below, and select non-perishable foods for picnic outings.

Stockcar Races at Fairground July 12

The annual Iowa "300" late model stock car race is scheduled Sunday afternoon, July 12, at the Iowa State Fair track. This once-a-year racing classic has gained wide recognition as one of the Midwest's foremost speed events.

The Iowa "300," open to all types of American cars, convertibles, and conventional sedans, is a 300-lap contest and is an International Motor Contest Association sanctioned race. All convertibles, roadsters and other cars must be equipped with roll bars and of 1968 through 1970 manufacture. The event will be directed by National Speedways, Inc., the same organization which supervises auto racing at the State Fair.

Student Label Opposed By Pittsburgh NAACP

PITTSBURGH — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has told the Board of Education here of its traditional opposition "to educational segregation policies and is, therefore, opposed to the concept of a separate school for disruptive students." The branch's opposition to arbitrary separation of "disruptive" students was contained in a statement delivered to the board on June 3.

"The designation of a student as a 'disruptive' student is a difficult and arbitrary process," the statement said. Such labeling depends "heavily on particular prejudices, personality differences, and misperceptions on the part of teachers and administrators," the NAACP said.

The branch noted that past experience shows that problems which some students may have cannot be eliminated or alleviated "through simple renaming of schools." Additional educational and social services "could be more effectively instituted within the structure of existing schools."

817,000 Persons Training Under GI Rights Bill

Nearly 817,000 persons were training under Veterans Administration programs in April—the most for any month since the current G. I. Bill went into effect June 1, 1966.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said the April figure was a 35 per cent increase over the same month a year ago, and seven per cent higher than the 764,000 peak reached under the Korean Conflict G. I. Bill at the end of March 1957.

Johnson also said a substantial increase was made in the apprenticeship and on-the-job training programs.

These categories jumped 73 per cent—from 45,000 in April of last year, to 78,000 in April this year.

Almost 60 per cent of the 817,000 in training at the end of April were in institutions of higher learning. Total college-level enrollment for April 1969 was about 133,000 more than in April 1968, he noted.

Citing statistics for trainees under the Dependents' Educational Assistance program, he explained that the 33,284 enrolled in April this year were 4,438 more than a year ago, and includes nearly four times as many wives and widows as last year.

Bits of Wood Make Hot or Plant Pads

Use your imagination with odds and ends of lumber. Squares, circles and triangles of one-inch board (or thinner) can be sanded and stained or painted.

You'll be surprised at the number of uses for them about the house: under hot cups or pots of coffee to protect furniture; under plants or vases (used singly or stacked in random shapes); beside the sink to serve as small cutting boards or as insulation for hot pans just off the stove.

NEWS In A Nutshell

New Haven, Conn. — A Leon Higginbotham, 42, U. S. District Court judge for eastern Pennsylvania since 1964, has been selected by Yale alumni as the university's first Negro member of the board of trustees. He succeeds New York Mayor John Lindsay.

Houston, Tex. — William B. Brown III, Chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, announced today that he and Commissioner Vicente T. Ximenes have issued formal charges against four major Houston employers, 13 related unions and two major referral unions. The Commissioners alleged that the respondents unlawfully discriminate in the recruiting, hiring and upgrading of blacks, Mexican Americans and women.

Chicago, Ill. — An educational program in black history and culture with emphasis on educational materials has been announced by the DuSable Museum of African American History, 3806 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Washington, D.C. — Robert M. McGlotten, a staff representative of the AFL-CIO's Department of Civil Rights, has been named director of the labor federation's Human Resources Development Institute (HRDI). President George Meany announced today.

Iowa City, Iowa — A rare look at Chicago's Black society is offered in a new book of short stories by an Illinois government official. THE BEACH UMBRELLA (University of Iowa Press, $5.00), by Commerce Commissioner Cyrus Colter, 601 E. 32nd St., Chicago, delves into the daily life and problems of black in the Chicago area.

Late Dispatches

Washington, D.C. The lower house of Congress passed and sent to the President for his signature a measure which lowers the voting age to 18 years and extends the voting rights bill of 1965 for 5 years. Civil Rights advocates say it increased the vote among Negroes in the South by 75 per cent.

Challenging the authority of the City Council to secure the removal of David Pickett as a member of the Model Cities Board, a petition was presented to the Council questioning its authority over the attempted removal action.

A petition protesting alleged "defamation of character" of a Model Cities board member by the City Council — signed by 120 Model Cities area residents — was presented to the council here Monday night.

The petition refers to a request, made by the council June 3, that the Model Cities board investigate one of its members, David F. Pickett, for possible removal.

The council voted 4-3 for the investigation after Councilman Charles VanderLinden, Jr., accused Pickett of starting fist fights at meetings and rifling desks of staff members.

NAACP Covention To Present Commerce - Industry Exhibit

NEW YORK — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will hold a Commerce and Industry Show in connection with its 61st Annual Convention at the Cincinnati Convention-Exposition Center in Cincinnati, Ohio, June 29 - July 4.

This is the first time in its 61-year history that the NAACP has invited business participation at its convention. The Cincinnati Convention Exposition Center is a new $10,000,000 facility in downtown Cincinnati, with modern facilities to serve the more than 4,000 delegates, their families and guests, and the more than 100 Commerce and Industry exhibitors who are expected.

In addition to a large number

The petition presented to the council Monday night stated that its signers believe "that in the democratic process of election, the people vote for the candidate of their choice; that once having elected their choice, only the people should remove that person from his elected office."

Pickett interviewed
Interviewed by Bystander reporter, Mr. Pickett denies the incidents cited by a member of The Council which led to the vote to remove. The petition, gotten up hurriedly, was signed eagerly and the signers expressed deep resentment at the effort of the Council to reach into the Board to demand such action.

No further action was taken by the Council at its last meeting, nor has the Model Cities Board given the demand any further attention.

Pickett has been elected twice to the Model Cities board.

Bastion to Head la. Bar Assn.

Des Moines — A prominent Fort Dodge lawyer, Ralph W. Bastian, Thursday was named president of The Iowa State Bar Association succeeding Don W. Burlington, Mason City.

Other officers, elected by mail ballot with the results announced at the Association's 97th Annual Meeting, include Alfred M. Pabst, Albia, President-elect, a new position; and Richard G. Zellhoefer, Waterloo, Vice-President.

Bastian, 64, has served on the Bar Association's Board of Governors since 1965, the past year in the capacity of vice-president. He received his law degree from the University of Iowa Law School in 1938 and was admitted to practice in the same year. He served 12 years as County Attorney for Webster County.

R.J. Reynolds Company In Opportunity Potential Program

TORONTO — R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.'s personnel development program has been a definite success in giving employees the opportunity to develop their potential, a Reynolds executive said here today (June 8).

Marshall B. Bass, manager of personnel development at Reynolds, spoke on "Human Assets and Development" at the 48th annual Insurance Accounting and Statistical Association (IA-SA) conference in Toronto.

Bass, one of several speakers at the conference, explained the computerized personnel accounting system used in personnel development at Reynolds.

As part of its personnel development effort, Reynolds established a skills inventory program designed to collect data concerning individual employees' interests and abilities and match them with jobs as they become available.

All Given A Chance

All employees are given a chance to record their skills, training, education and job experience both within Reynolds and outside the company, he said. "Out of the original 7,800 employees in 1968 that completed the questionnaires, we had some very interesting replies."

Progression charts were designed for each promotional sequence of jobs in a particular career pattern, and a system for auditing each employee's job progression was set up — with the aid of a computer.

Reynolds is a highly diversified company whose sales and operating revenues passed the $2 billion mark in 1969. Its corporate offices are in Winston-Salem, N.C., where the company's tobacco manufacturing facilities are located.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT BUYING A HOME

Are you an American and a half? If so, you will probably be changing residences this year, for statisticians who keep track of such things say that each year, 1.5 out of every seven American families move. Before you start rapping your knuckles against the walls of prospective new dwellings, authorities suggest that you give thought to these considerations:

How much should you spend? A popular rule of thumb states that you can afford to pay up to 2½ times your annual income for a home. WARNING! Inflation, cost of living and tax increases have made this formula obsolete. Instead of using any kind of rule—sit down with pencil and paper and figure the costs (include existing debts) to decide what you can or can not afford.

What about location? A home is a place to live and if its location creates problems for comfortable and contented living, it doesn't matter if the place is a palace. How are the schools—not just how close, but how good? How's the commuting—not during off hours, but during the bumper-to-bumper rush. The community—is it economically sound or on the skids? These factors affect not only your comfort, new home, you might decide to deal directly with the builder or developer. 75% of existing homes, however, are sold through brokers—in nearly all cases to the buyer's advantage. Brokers are licensed and regulated by the state, and it's generally safer to contract with them than with unregulated

Become an expert. To avoid the literally hundreds of possible purchasing pitfalls—and to protect what might be the biggest investment you'll ever make—become as much an expert on home buying as you can. There are plenty of contemporary, easy to understand books available that offer the facts you'll need to make sound purchasing decisions. One of them, "Lawyers Title Home Buying Guide," a 164-page paperback home buyer's "bible," can be ordered by mail for only a quarter. Just send your name, address, and 25 cents to P.O. Box 6-J, Richmond, Va., 23215. This small investment might save you much bigger one!

What are closing costs? At the "closing" of a sale, you and everyone else involved get together to tie up all the loose

"UFS HAS EVERYTHING. IT'S MY SAVINGS AND LOAN!"

You hear it more and more: "UFS . . . that's my savings and loan." United Federal Savings continues to grow, so it's obvious that more and more people are making UFS their savings and loan. Fact: UFS led all Iowa savings and loans during 1969 in growth of savings, growth of assets, growth of mortgages, and growth of reserves.

And earnings at UFS were never higher: 5.25% on passbook savings, up to 7.50% on some certificates.

Save time while you are saving money! UFS promises . . . and delivers . . . more convenient locations and hours than any other savings and loan in Iowa.

With eight convenient locations (more than any other savings and loan in Iowa) UFS goes where the people are . . . in Des Moines, Ottumwa, Jefferson, Osceola, and Winterset. Plenty of free parking at all eight locations plus the added convenience of evening and Saturday hours.

Right now, while many savers are getting semi-annual interest payments, is a good time to join the chorus of savers and borrowers who say: "UFS . . . that's my savings and loan!"

How convenient can a savings and loan be? Try United and see!

KEEP IT CLEAN

Virginia M. White

DEAR MRS. WHITE: Help! My "shade tree mechanic" is ruining all of his tee shirts and jeans with grease stains. What can I do?

—HELPLESS MOTHER.
DEAR HELPLESS MOTHER: Treat stained area gently with dry cleaner or rub heavy-duty liquid detergent into stain. If pre-treating with liquid detergent, wait 30 minutes. If using dry cleaner, launder as follows at once. After either pre-treatment, soak an additional 30 minutes in machine with hot water, ¼ cup Miracle White Powerizer Super Cleaner, ¼ cup NON-CHLORINE bleach and ½ cup low-sudsing detergent. Run complete cycle after soak period.

DEAR MRS. WHITE: After using enzymes, I have found that they are not all they're cracked up to be. I still find my synthetics and permanent press clothes somewhat stained, and they are no longer white and bright.

—MRS. S. R.

DEAR MRS. S. R.: Since enzymes are for specific stains, and you have a general problem, try a liquid Powerizer Super Cleaner. Simply use ¼ cup Super Cleaner and only up to half the amount of detergent you normally use. Put through a regular wash cycle.

Special Laundry Tip !!

To keep children's gym shoes fresher longer—spray with a starch after laundering.

Get a free stain removal chart, write V. W. S., Miracle White Company, 1741 West Fullerton Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60614.

Cool It, Mac!

Some like it hot. But many claim you just haven't enjoyed coffee to the fullest until you've sampled iced coffee.

In making iced coffee, however, don't think just any leftover brew will do. Home economists at The West Bend Company, leading manufacturer of all styles of coffee makers, suggest using double strength coffee. Coffee to be iced should be freshly prepared as well.

To prevent glass breakage, always pour hot coffee into glasses you have first filled with ice. Have extra ice cubes at hand to refill glasses as necessary.

For the coffee devotee, freeze special coffee cubes—ice cubes made of frozen coffee.

Omega Psi Phi Coca-Cola Scholarships

The third annual Coca-Cola USA-Omega Psi Phi scholarship program was announced jointly recently by Dr. Lawrence Nicholson, Chairman of Scholarship, and Harold Hamilton, Communications Manager in the Market Development Department of Coca-Cola USA.

The scholarship program was developed by Coca-Cola USA in cooperation with the fraternity last year to assist the organization in providing financial help to young Black students who might not otherwise have financial resources to attend college.

Winner of the first scholarship and presently enrolled in Johnson C. Smith University under the joint program is Mark Rayster. A second scholar for the 1970-71 award will be announced in August.

Applicants Needed

Applications are being taken now through October 1, 1970 for the 1971-72 awards. High school juniors should be encouraged to apply through the local graduate chapters, and special high school bulletin posters announcing the scholarship may be secured by writing Harold Hamilton, Market Development, Coca-Cola USA, Post Office Drawer 1734, Atlanta, Georgia 30301.

"Beauty on the Job"

Peggy is a secretary and a very well paid one. She likes her job—her boss considers her an asset to the firm. He knows that she makes a good impression, and he's glad to have her greet his most important clients.

What separates Peggy from other secretaries? She's learned one of the basic facts of office life: appearance is as important as typing and shorthand speeds. Often it's more important!

We can all learn something from Peggy. Peggy does her homework. She sets aside fifteen minutes every evening—sometimes a little more—to tend to all the little things that add up to good grooming. She spot-cleans her dresses, to save cleaning bills. She presses her clothes before she wears them... keeps her shoes polished, heels in good condition. She sews on buttons, shortens or lengthens her hems as the styles change... makes sure her stockings and lingerie are fresh and ready to go.

Too good to be true? Not if you've ever tried it for one full month. By then, attending to the details is second nature—a good habit that's part of you. It does take a little extra concentration and effort at first... but those extra minutes every evening add up to a bandbox look every single day.

Your appearance is really the outward expression of your inner feelings about yourself. Does it truly express you?

Does it truly express you?

WOOD UTILITY POLES
A KEY NATIONAL ASSET
BY PAUL D. CHRISTERSON
AMERICAN WOOD PRESERVERS INST.

THE WHY OF WOOD

All of the nation's electrical utility companies (both public and private) use chemically-treated wood poles for more than 90% of their electricity delivery systems. The reasons: economy, easy serviceability, and good insulation.

These overhead delivery systems represent a total investment by utility companies of more than $26 billion—but that is "petty cash" compared to the $375 billion it would cost to replace this system. Individual poles have an average cost of $35.

Easy accessibility means service is up in the air in cranes—not a costly digging out process. And if there is an emergency, service can be restored without extensive delays.

Wood is known for its favorable "dielectric" properties—which means, wood is an excellent insulator.

Wood Base Aid For Trash Can

Trash cans take a beating from sitting on damp ground or concrete. Even in a garage or covered entry, cold and dampness can cause rusting that ruins the cans and stains concrete.

Build a base to perch them on, a square or oblong box frame, depending on the number of cans.

You can be as elaborate as you like, but a simple end-butted frame of 2x4s works well. Drill holes for nailing when using a nail long enough to penetrate the thickness of one 2x4 and secure the right-angled member.

A floor of spaced 1x2s will allow ventilation. Scrap lengths of heart cedar or pressure treated Douglas fir are inexpensive and durable.

Western species of lumber may be stained or left to weather. Posts that come in contact with the ground should be treated with a preservative.

Renda Named Assistant Secretary of Defense

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, right, and Mr. Roger T. White House Youth Con. Stated in Late Aug.

Washington, D.C. — Stephen Hess, National Chairman, announced today plans for the White House Conference on Youth. The Conference design, contained in a speech prepared for delivery in San Francisco today, is meant to increase channels of communication between youth and adults on many issues and to discover new ways to involve young people in the decision-making process.

The co-chairmen—one youth and one adult—will meet next month to decide how to select their Task Forces according to the two-thirds-one-third youth-adult formula. The full Task Forces will then convene in late August. They will then set the agenda for the larger Conference in Washington, decide on the delegate-selection process, and determine how to formulate their reports.

"We recognize that there are many potential areas for disagreement and confrontation," Mr. Hess said. "At the same time we are convinced that the risks are well worth the potential gains. We must begin somewhere and this is a start. Hopefully, others will learn from our difficulties and our achievements."

He added that "no matter what the outcome of the proposed Conference," he hopes that "others will seek other ways in which to bring youth and adults together. From this first national Conference should come similar efforts on the part of those who influence the policies of education, business, labor, religion, law enforcement, local and state government, and other major institutions."

The Youth Conference, Mr. Hess stressed, "is deliberately not a plan but an outline — an outline in which young people and others outside the Federal Establishment will have the mandate to fill in the details."

"To get the process started, we have established just five basic 'givens':

"1. That there should be convened a White House

Conference on Youth next February in Washington.

"2. That it should be composed of two-thirds youth and one-third adults.

"(Young people have repeatedly told us that a Youth Conference must not be all youth, that they don't want to meet in a vacuum and just talk to each other, but rather that they want the opportunity to relate to the adult leadership of the country.)

"3. That the Conference shall be issue-oriented and Task Forces should be created in those areas in which youth have expressed great concern...

"4. That a planning meeting of the Task Forces shall be held in late August...

"5. That the February Conference shall not be an end in itself, but must lead to a process of implementation that will involve all our major institutions and a large body of the citizenry."

Mr. Hess said that "We must force ourselves to lay aside suspicions and hostility. We must accept the fact that there will be critical judgments made on all sides. Both youth and adults must enter into some kind of working consensus with a willingness to explore all issues affecting youth and our society."

Spice Cabinet

POTATO SHRIMP SALAD
1 quart cooked potatoes, finely cut and salted
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
1½ tablespoons mild vinegar
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
1 can shrimp, cleaned
1 cup celery, finely cut
4 hard-boiled eggs, chopped

Mix together potatoes, mustard, vinegar, onion and let stand for three hours. Add shrimp, celery and eggs just before serving, mixing thoroughly and adding enough dressing to make salad fairly moist.

Earl Grant, Entertainer Killed in Auto Crash

Earl Grant, was killed in a one-car automobile crash Wednesday, June 10, in the New Mexico desert, near Lordsburg. N. M. Grant moved to Los Angeles from Kansas City in 1955.

The internationally known organist, pianist and singer died when his Rolls Royce swerved off a curve on Interstate highway 10 and overturned 14 miles west of Lordsburg near the Arizona border. Grant was pinned inside the wreckage.

A companion who was riding with him also was killed. He was Roosevelt Woods, Jr., 17 years old, of Phoenix, Ariz. State police said that Woods was thrown from the car as it rolled over one and a half times. Both died of chest and head injuries.

Funeral services for Grant will be held Monday, June 15, at 11 a.m. at the First A.M.E. church in Los Angeles, Calif.

The body then will be sent to Idabel, Okla., Grant's birthplace, for burial beside the body of his father.

When he was killed, Grant was on his way from Los Angeles to Juarez, Mexico, for a performance Wednesday night at the La Fiesta night club there.

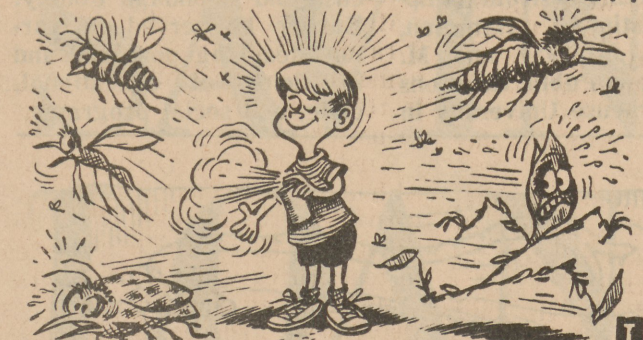

He had performed at the Juarez club for three days last week but flew back to Los Angeles Monday, planning to return for performances this week-end.

Started in Kansas City
Grant, who was 39 years old, got his start to fame in Kansas City, Mo., where he grew up when his family moved here from Idabel when Earl was only 5 years old. He went to grade school here and was a graduate of Lincoln high school.

Grant was widely acclaimed for his versatility on the organ and piano and as a vocalist.

He began his career as an entertainer in Kansas City night clubs operated during the '50's by Mrs. Mildred Carter, now the wife of Andrew "Skip" Carter, owner of radio station KPRS.

CHILD'S PLAY AND SUMMER SAFETY

When warm weather arrives, it's up to you to provide your children with a climate for safe conduct wherever they go and whatever they do. Whether you're making a pitch for camping precautions or suburban safety, you can turn hazards into has-beens by heeding summer safeguards.

Danger is no stranger to boys and girls who imitate the foolish frolics of their parents. If you play roughly in the water, for example, why shouldn't the children? If you ignore pool safety rules, don't be surprised if your children get in over their heads safely-wise.

Though playful ducking in a pool may seem like fun, it doesn't hold water from the standpoint of safety. And a hike through the woods may be entertaining and even walk away with educational honors, but hikers should take steps to avert such pitfalls as poison ivy, insect bites and falls. Impressionable youngsters will pick up ill-advised attitudes from their parents about safety. It is not what you say, but what you actually do that determines your children's attitudes. Talk all you want to about road safety, but if you speed, the children with you are likely to do the same thing when they grow up.

If you're thinking of sending your child away to summer camp, don't accept any bunk about adequate supervision. Safety requires, according to the American Camping Association, that a summer camp have at least one counselor for every eight campers, one for every six when the campers are younger than eight. And most counselors should be at least 19 or 20 years old.

Depending on the individual youngster, a summer camping safety campaign may include taking along special medication. If so, be sure to tell the counselor about it. And regardless of how well stocked the camp's first-aid department may be, see that your child has with him in his own trunk an extra pair of eyeglasses if he needs them; a can of Rhinul-Spray, good for non-poisonous insect bites and poison ivy, some adhesive bandages to put on if one from the camp's infirmary comes off; and a small can of foot powder to catch athlete's foot early if it strikes.

Follow these sensible suggestions and your children will have clear sailing to a happier and safer summer.

If the shoe fits, our secretary takes it back the next day.

TIPS ON CAR CARE

'First-Aid' For Troubled Tires

There are a number of "first-aid" remedies that can be used to overcome that rare modern malady—the flat tire.

One of these is an aerosol-type sealant you can use on the spot without even jacking up the car. Another is a rubber plug inserted from outside the tire.

There's really nothing wrong with either of these methods of repair—in an emergency. The important thing to remember about these on-the-wheel repairs is that they are only "stop-gap" measures.

A tire fixed by any temporary method should not be driven at speeds in excess of 50 miles per hour, nor driven more than a hundred miles. In emergencies your best bet is a good spare tire—properly inflated.

What is the best method of permanently repairing a flat tire? According to B.F. Goodrich tire experts, a thorough off-the-wheel inspection of the damage done to a tire governs how it should be fixed, or if it should be fixed.

RFG recommends a plug and vulcanized patch applied from inside the tire as the best method of permanent repair of punctures, nail holes, or cuts up to 1/4-inch, confined to tread only.

Before you have your tire fixed, though, make sure it's worth fixing. A tire with less than 1 1/8 inch of tread (or ply cord showing) should not be repaired but replaced. You can tell if you've got less than a 1 1/8 inch of tread left by placing a penny, bottom down, in a tread groove. If you can see Lincoln smiling up at you—the tire needs replacing.

Of course, the best way to insure that a tire is worth fixing is to let a reputable tire dealer check it over. Tires are his business and he's trained to look for any damage your tires might sustain, no matter what the cause.

A VISIT THAT SAVED A LIFE

This happened in midtown Manhattan in the 1950's.

A well known advertising executive was busy at his desk when his secretary announced a visitor from the American Cancer Society.

He welcomed a volunteer who wanted to give the executive some "life-saving information." It was accepted, and forgotten for several hours.

Before retiring that night, the executive picked up the material, which included the Seven Warning Signs of Cancer. He read them carefully, and the next morning was startled to discover that he had one of the Warning Signs.

It developed, when the executive went to his doctor, that he had bladder cancer, and needed surgery.

Today, almost two decades later, that man is cured of cancer—because of the Seven Warning Signs, the volunteer from the American Cancer Society and the quick trip to a physician.

But that's not the end of the story, for that person who spotted the signal, and who underwent surgery, is William B. Lewis, today the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society.

Mr. Lewis has developed into one of the busiest of the ACS's 2,300,000 volunteers and, wherever he goes, enthusiastically tells the story of that visit in Manhattan.

Book Shelves Snap to Move
When you settle into your favorite reading corner, what better aid than your own chair-side bookshelves, big enough to hold both current reading and old favorites, yet small enough to be moved from room to room.
The pattern is simple. Upright boards ten inches wide at each end and two rows of right-angled V-type shelves between. It can be scaled to fit beside your chair. Twenty-four inches is a handy module for both height and length, with end pieces ten inches wide and V-shelves either right-angled 1x6 or a 1x6 for the back and 1x6 for the "seat," right-angled again, of course, to cradle books. The shelving should be firmly nailed to hold the weight, and nails counter-sunk. Nail holes should be filled after the wood is stained.
Hollowed out quarter-round makes good handles, but hinged or fixed hardware may be used. Some may prefer to adapt the lower shelf to accommodate magazines and newspapers.
Any Western wood is well suited to this type of project. Decorative cutouts in the end pieces between the shelves may be added.

Mrs. Mathew Carter was a patient in the Granam Hospital.

Roger Maxwell, compliance officer for the Equal Employment Opportunity program of the Board of Regents spoke on June 9 at the June Meeting of the Keokuk Branch of the N.A.A.C.P.

Mr. Maxwell said that one of his main concerns is for the young people of minority groups. A big majority of the young people from Iowa go to the big cities.

Mr. Maxwell, a much dedicated man for the minority group, said that the help of Caucasians is needed as the problems of the minority groups are not going to be solved by minority groups alone.

Mrs. William Salisbury of Evanston, Illinois is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Margaret Hudson.

KEEP IT CLEAN

by Virginia M. White

DEAR MISS WHITE: Please help! My husband is a butcher and must wear white shirts while working. Needless to say, bloodstains are my Waterloo. READER IN WATERLOO, IA.

DEAR READER: Immerse stained area promptly in cold water for about 45 minutes or longer, rubbing occasionally to loosen stain. Machine wash in hot water (150 degrees or more), 1/2 cup Super Cleaner, 1/2 cup non-chlorine bleach, and 1/4 cup low-sudsing detergent. If stain is not fresh, rub with a paste mixture of table salt and water. Let stand for one hour before using immersing and laundering procedure.

DEAR VIRGINIA WHITE: Due to a high iron content in our water supply, our automatic water softener is losing some of its softening power. Any suggestions? MRS. M. K. DEAR MRS. M. K.: I have a suggestion that will work like a miracle! To restore softening power to automatic softeners, pour 1/2 gallon Miracle White Powerizer Super Cleaner into float well in brine tank. Super Cleaner will remove rust and debris from mineral as it flows through with brine during next regeneration. To keep softener at its best, always add 1 quart Super Cleaner when renewing salt supply.

NOTE: For information on manual softeners, write to Virginia White—address below.

Special Cleaning Tip:
After washing venetian blinds, spread on a thin coat of wax. Cleaning will be faster and easier next time.

Hazard Insurance Adequate?
One of the details that often needs buyer attention in the purchase of a home is hazard insurance coverage—such as fire or owner's public liability protection.

When the closing of a real estate purchase takes place, the home buyer typically has the opportunity to pay the seller for the remaining unexpired term of such insurance coverage—and the policy then is endorsed over to the buyer. Payment is for the number of months of coverage left, multiplied by one-twelfth of the annual premium paid by the seller (referred to as a pro-rated adjustment).

As you go to closing, you should make sure there is adequate hazard insurance protection on the property. And you should see that arrangements are made for you to receive payment and immediately have the policy or policies endorsed over to you. In some cases, it is possible to arrange for the insurance company to issue a policy endorsement, making the transfer effective at time of closing.

For added protection, you may wish to consider placing a "finder" covering your interest into effect when the agreement of sale is executed. This step will protect you between the date of your purchase and the date of your closing.

It is important for you to be satisfied that the insurance to be transferred to you is sufficient to protect your interests. You or your agent should review the insurance in force as soon as possible.

Usually, the hazard insurance transferred is for fire and includes extended coverage. You may apply for additional coverage immediately if desired. If you make a pro-rated adjustment, you have the option of renewal or replacement when the existing policy expires.

Besides insuring against physical hazards, it also is wise for you to guard against financial loss from land title defects. This can best be accomplished by an up-to-date land title search and owner's title insurance.

To Church Reporters and Pastors

Please see that only one person reports the news as it is confusing to have material coming from more than one source.

Do not list meetings of the church, clubs and organizations unless some special feature is reported.

Don't run advertising as news, and additions to the church or visitors unless from out of town. The sick should include only those in hospitals, which should be separate from the church news.

Dead-line for news is Tuesday at twelve noon and dead-line for advertising is Tuesday at 5 o'clock.

Gardener's Corner

Mulch Keeps Soil Temperatures Down

"Mulch" is a 2 to 3-inch layer of material such as peat moss, sawdust or other organic matter. In some areas, ground corn cobs, buckwheat hulls, or cocoa bean shells are used. Straw is widely applied in the fall as a through-the-winter mulch. The use of bark chunks is becoming more widespread, as bark is not only beneficial as a mulch, it's decorative as well.

A good mulch benefits the soil in a number of ways. It conserves moisture by slowing evaporation of water; it cases cultivation by suppressing the growth of weeds; it prevents the "crusting" of soil, helping water penetrate into the root zone; and it insulates against the hot summer sun. Soil temperatures under a 2-inch mulch will be 6 to 8 degrees lower than soil without mulch, thus eliminating root-killing high temperatures at the surface.

Garden Bark, a bark mulch made by the Weyerhaeuser Company, comes in two grades. Regular, with chunks 1/4" to 1" in size is the most popular for everyday usage around trees and shrubs, in flower beds and along borders, and Extra Coarse with chunks 1" to 3" in size adds an attractive "textured" effect to your garden.

Heat from Springs

Reykjavik means "smoky bay" in the Icelandic language. Steam rising from hot springs caused the "smoke" seen by 9th-century settlers. Today, Reykjavik is a clean and smokeless city, all its homes and businesses being heated by the natural steam and hot water piped to them from these hot springs.

Your professional beautician knows the answer...

Why does some hair break off when combing?

Your hair is precious and delicate... and none of us like to see it break off for any reason. Scientists tell us that excessive use of hot combs and over-processing of hair with chemicals often are major causes of brittleness resulting in hair breakage. But hair that is naturally curly and tangles easily frequently breaks off in everyday combing. Notice how irritated your scalp becomes when you comb in contrast to the way your beautician does?

Your professional beautician knows that curly hair mats and tangles so easily that it should be softened before combing. Otherwise, unnecessary irritation to the scalp and damage to the shaft and ends of the hair occurs. To achieve this needed softening and a temporary relaxing effect that prevents breakage on all human hair (including wigs), most beauticians rely on Clairol® Hair-So-New® spray-on creme rinse. For combing ease and for beautifying your hair in many other ways, trained beauticians stock a complete family of fine Clairol products for your specific needs.

Visit your expert hairdresser, who cares about your hair care and your comfort. Whatever the nature of your hair problems, only your professional beautician knows the answer for sure.

WHEN I MET H. W. SEWING, PRESIDENT OF DOUGLAS STATE BANK, KCK. I was overwhelmed with pleasure! Always one to share, and aware of my continual search for interesting writing subjects, this generosity was a bonanza! The date was May 15! I left for Des Moines on May 17th. Returning home from seeing me off at the station, Marie found my previous interview notes. She phoned the next evening to say they were already at the station in downtown Des Moines! I hastened to get them, selecting for use that week my miscellaneous notes, I saved my important interview for the following week! I kept them in my car rather than risk misplacing them! But, alas my companion, Michael P. Johnson (a German Shepherd mixture) overturned the back seat cushion obscuring my packet of notes! I found them June 15! All of which is to say Marie tried but there are folks who can't be helped!

H. W. SEWING, WITH THE EXPERTISE AND EASE acquired over a lifetime in the business world, spanned the years from college, marriage, insurance, to banking begun in 1947 to the present which finds him in his second term as bank president!

I HAPPILY ACCEPTED PRESIDENT SEWING'S OFFER OF A TOUR through the bank. I found the color scheme of beige, tan, gold and black to be beautifully blended throughout the setting. Providing an excellent background for the rich dark woods of the furnishings. Throughout the plant were pictures and busts of our educator Frederick Douglas. There were awards for paintings by very outstanding artists.

THE BLACK OWNED AND OPERATED BANK is the last of its kind this far west until the State of California! Douglas State Bank opened August 25, 1947! Its first expansion in 1964 was a 20x30 ft. additional three-floor space achieved by moving the building backward; its second increase was the back drive-in; its third was the purchase of the building next door, tying it down and rebuilding the entire structure its fourth expansion was the handsome first floor bookkeeping and upstairs legal aid areas. The bank's growth seemed to have been accomplished with exact foresight! As though those at the helm took never a backward look. The course was a straightaway! The plant owns the latest office machinery of all kinds.

THE BANKING SERVICE INCLUDES a legal staff of approximately five attorneys, a real estate and insurance staff; a loan department; the building houses a barber shop. Its printing shop puts out the bank's checks. Wesley J. Lee the young man in charge, stated with pride: "A book of checks can be prepared in five minutes!" There is a spacious, well-appointed cafeteria: sliding doors can partition an adjoining area for luncheon meetings! A first hand check up on the "Ladies Room" revealed beautifully furnished quarters with well-lighted mirrored. Management had provided locked drawers for each girl. A pretty couch located apart from the remainder of the room. Make-up areas were thoughtfully situated apart from the lavatory.

H. W. SEWING AND HIS ABLE STAFF seem to have an extremely fair percentage of female members! This was thrilling! An assistant vice-president is a woman, Mrs. Fouse! The general atmosphere was most cordial. Among the several persons I met were James P. Davis, Kansas State Representative of the Thirtieth District; Vice President Sharia (Tab) Buford; C. A. Lewis, Sales Representative; and a lovely, tall slim receptionist, Mrs. Juliet Washington, who said to be "missing" at the occasion after a recent hold-up! She was found neatly tucked away beneath her desk! Now that's the girl to take care of my money!

NEW CLUB OFF WITH GALA PARTY

The T.A.B. Club had their first annual dancing party at the Val-Air, Saturday, June 13, 1970. It was strictly formal, with the band of Bill Doggett. The T-Cwans table was decorated with turquoise candles and turquoise flowers with gold trim and gold matches, white tablecloth.

The winner of the queen contest was Mrs. Viola Johnson, a member of the T-Cwan Club, and the runner-up was Mrs. Doris Jackson, a member from the Buxton Club.

The Ambassadors table was decorated with a white tablecloth with their black top hats and their gold canes. Winner of the king contest was Robert Edmonds, a member of the Ambassadors Club. Runner-up was Elmer Tolson, a member of the Iowa Buxton Club No. 2.

The Buxton Club table was decorated with white tablecloth, white roses and a pink rose in each vase.

The T-Cwans were honored to have Judge and Mrs. Luther T. Glanton at their table.

The evening was an enjoyable one and ended up with the happy tune of Bill Doggett's theme song.

The planning committee (above) is pictured at the event, which some 500 guests attended. The committee is (from left to right) James Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Shedrick Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Jackson, Mrs. Raymond R. Brown and Mr. Brown; Mrs. Rosemarie Tolson, the general chairman; Mrs. Milton Madison and Mr. Madison; Dorothy Gas-

IMPROPER EXERCISE OF
ACADEMIC FREEDOM

SPORTS

Our institutions of learning have stretched the principle of academic freedom to a point all out of proportion to common sense, good reasoning and the safety of the country.

This is illustrated partly by the teachers and speakers who have appeared on campuses whose message is the disruption of the orderly operation, racial hatred and a disregard for the rights of others.

A strong case of "academic freedom" is the hiring of a young Negro woman teacher, who is an avowed communist, as a teacher at the University of California. Admittedly, she is an excellent teacher and has the support of a majority of the students and faculty.

But, to us, this is not enough. The communists are giving trouble in Cuba, violating the Monroe Doctrine; they support the North Vietnamese who could not operate so successfully without them; they have their agents, both foreign and American, working and teaching that their brand of government is better than democracy.

Hitler had some good ideas, Al Capone had some. The big wigs in the traffic of harmful drugs apparently are pretty successful business people and yet we would not let them teach or speak, under academic freedom, because their views are abhorrent, contrary to decency and world peace.

Many of these school officials don't believe communists endanger this country. In either case, academic freedom should be exercised to help rather than injure our country.

WE EDUCATE;
OTHERS ENJOY THEM

A recent survey by the Student American Medical Association News shows that 73 per cent of the freshman interviewed, 48.6 per cent of the sophomores and 61.7 per cent of the juniors at Iowa University Medical School said they plan to practice outside of Iowa.

And this, coupled with the fact that only three cities in Iowa are equipped to handle interns, makes it clear why there is an extreme shortage of doctors in Iowa.

It would be interesting to learn the home towns of these departing students. Entrance requirements are so stringent in medical schools that a lot of out of state youngsters crowd out places Iowans should have.

These departing students complain that Iowa, the state legislature and people are too conservative.

The students also listed what they considered poor opportunities for practicing medicine, poor scenery and the desire to travel and live in a big city.

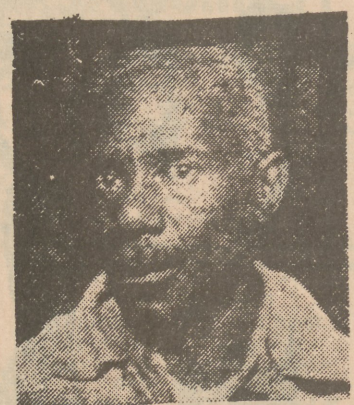

And yet, these conservative people have established a fine medical school where they get their training.

It is generally understood that Iowa has an over supply of specialists and not enough general practitioners. All of these appear to be making good money. Maybe the Iowa development commission need to be doing a bit more selling of Iowa to these young doctors who get their education mostly out of the tax dollars of its people.

OUTSIDE HELP
DESIROUS HERE

The Board of Regents, which control the three large Iowa schools, has appointed a committee to study the cause of the recent unrest on these campuses.

Unfortunately, the group is loaded with officials of the schools and the board which bring little to light other than what they have already told about and done little so far. Then too, in view of the problems raised by Negro students on numerous campuses, one of that race could undoubtedly make a contribution to the study.

With Allen Ashby

A bunch of us older fellows were chewing the fat about our playing days and the black protests now in vogue. Now, it does little good to mull our old grievances but sometimes it doesn't hurt to compare notes.

The most outstanding story that struck us was the one told by a fellow who had just shaken hands with a big white man who happened by and talked a bit about their days at college. The black man said I only played one game with you guys. The fellow said he remembered why the fellow had quit. The fellow replied that didn't matter any more he n't matter any more he guessed he would tell him. Well, he said he knew and the whole squad knew that he was the best pass catcher on the team. Whenever they got into a jam they "threw it Jim." Jim said he went out on this particular day of a game they wanted so much to win. Late in the fourth quarter they called Jim's favorite pass, broke away and ran down to the goal line, being stopped at the one foot line.

When he walked back to the huddle, the quarterback glared at Jim and said, "now don't let that go to your head." The fullback who was the big white man echoed the same thing. "So," said Jim "when they took me out of that game, I never played another game and now you know why." The big white man mumbled something about being late for a meeting and hurried off. Now do you think that could happen and if it did would it bring on a protest? Our talkfest sort of broke up on that note and we thought there probably should have been a little protest spent in some of us guys.

ATHLETES GATHER

This is the week the nations top college athletes have their annual get together to see who is the best, only this time they will be out at the Drake Stadium. There will be so many fine sprinters and middle distance runners to say nothing of field men and distance men that performances that might break a Drake Relays mark may not even qualify for the finals. Another unique thing about this meet is that all the events will likely be held after four o'clock in the afternoon. We will watch what happens with interest. We recall seeing a very fine Negro athlete at the Big Ten meet and we expect to see not more than eight in the finals Saturday. These should be watched.

Dr. Quizmee, our information specialist, answers your questions in this column. Complete, illustrated, 25-volume sets of Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia go this week to:

Mark Greiner who asked: "What is the world's longest mountain range?"
On land, it is the Himalaya-Karakoram which extends about 1,500 miles from the Indus River to the Brahmaputra River. Below the ocean, it is the mid-Atlantic range which extends 7,000 miles.

IT'S IN THE BAG!

The problems of litter mean a lot to America's 1.4 million acres of municipal and country parks and playgrounds, 5.7 million acres of state parks, and more than 750 million acres of public lands managed by federal agencies. For our mountains, beaches, forests and rangelands are now marred by trash that costs the public $500 million annually to remove.

The makers of "Glad" Disposer Trash Bags join the Bureau of Land Management to suggest that you take the following suggestions "literally."

—To get a grip on your camping or hiking trip, pack food staples in plastic bags to eliminate the weight and bulk of boxes and cans. Your load will be lighter, and there will be no empty cans to carry about.

—Take along a supply of plastic bags for a quick and easy clean-up after picnics.

—Pitch in to leave your campsite or picnic area in better condition than you found it for the next visitor.

—When you travel by car, foster an enlightened policy on litter by always carrying a plastic bag. They are useful for holding trash and for keeping up with children's crayons toys and games.

Never discard trash or garbage in a park or wilderness area. Bring it back to civilization and put it in the nearest garbage can.

Activities of the Iowa
Civil Rights Commission

Plan to attend a day-long civil rights conference on Saturday, June 27, in Iowa City. It's FREE, with no registration and no formal luncheon. The program will run from 9:30 to 4:30, being held at the University of Iowa. Cafeteria service will be available at the Union.

The Kerner-Riot Report concluded in 1968: "Our Nation is moving two societies, one black, one white — separate and unequal." The Urban Coalition in 1969 assessed the progress toward implementation of the Kerner-Riot Report recommendations for combatting racial injustice, and concluded: "A year later, we are a year closer to being two societies, black and white, increasingly separate and scarcely less unequal."

LEARNING A DEADLY HABIT

Mice and guinea pigs don't take to smoking. But dogs can be trained to inhale through implanted tubes.

Being man's best friend has its liabilities. Of 97 beagles trained to inhale in a recent smoking experiment, 79 percent of the heavy smokers (seven cigarettes a day) developed lung cancer. And virtually all the heavy smokers showed signs of emphysema.

The link between smoking and lung cancer has been indicated clearly for years by statistical evidence. But this is proof positive. Similarly, the association between smoking and emphysema has been suggested for some time. The beagle experiment confirms a direct causal connection.

People choose to smoke voluntarily. Dogs do not. But people—more and more of them—can also choose to stop. The beagles did not have this choice.

Kicking the habit is getting to be a favorite American pastime. 21 million people in this country have quit smoking. And it looks as if over a million more will kick the habit this year.

Christmas Seal associations across the country are waging a KICK THE HABIT campaign for the entire month of June. If you still smoke, ask them for two leaflets, ME QUIT SMOKING, WHY? and ME QUIT SMOKING, HOW? They will also have information about withdrawal programs and other antismoking activities.

Ceiling Beams
Easy to Build

False ceiling beams made of a material other than lumber usually look false. But making your own of lumber is easy, the result handsome.

Just nail a 1x4 or 1x6 on either side of a length of 2x2, flushing the three pieces to the ceiling surface. Then screw the beam into the ceiling through the 2x2.

Either smooth or rough-surfaced lumber may be used with a clear finish, dark stain or paint.

Variations are possible, of course. For a deeper beam, use 1x8s blocked with a 2x4. For a thicker beam giving a heavier accent, use 2x4s, 2x6s or 2x8s blocked with a 2x2 or 2x4. Three thick pieces should be screwed together; pre-drill screw holes.
