Woods Sentenced for Irving Rucus

Following Junior High Troubles Last March

Finally disposing of the disturbances at Washington Irving Junior High School last March 5, District Court Judge A. B. Crouch sentenced George Woods, Jr. to one year in the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison. He had entered a plea of guilty. He was one of two men charged with assault with intent to do great bodily injury.

The other man charged, Robert Jewel Oakley, 26, of 1619 Gillette St., pleaded guilty in May to a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily injury, and is serving a 180-day term in the Polk County Jail.

Woods' one-year sentence is to be served consecutively in the state penitentiary with another one-year sentence he received in July for escaping from the Polk County Jail.

Woods escaped from the county jail Mar. 31 shortly after he was arrested and charged in connection with the Irving Junior High incident. He was recaptured Apr. 30 in Minneapolis, Minn.

Woods and Oakley admitted attacking James H. Drummond, Jr., 37, the vice-principal at Irving, and William Visser, 24, an English instructor.

Visser was attacked as the two men blocked the entrance to his classroom and Drummond, who went to Visser's aid, was hit and knocked down.

Nebraska Fair Show How to Stop Discrimination

LINCOLN, NEB. — Officials at the Nebraska State Fair have dismissed a booth operator for alleged discrimination.

Two Negroes had complained they were discriminated against by the operator of a booth for an out-of-state land development firm. The Rev. Ivan Alphonse, foreign student adviser at the University of Nebraska, told Fair Manager Henry Brandt he and another black filled out cards registering for a free gift but that the cards were not placed with the others.

The booth operator was informed that the procedure was in violation of the federal civil rights law.

Role of Negro as Spokesman For Police Group Questioned

ATLANTA, Ga. — The Southeast Regional Office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has questioned the intercession of the Rev. E. Freeman Yearling in behalf of two white police officers who have been indicted by a grand jury for the shooting of a 15-year-old Negro youth in the Summerhill area of this city.

According to announcements by both printed and broadcast media, Mr. Yearling, who reportedly represents an organization known as the National Negro Congress of Racial Pride, was scheduled to speak Sept. 4 in the Skyline Room of the Decatur Federal Building. Sponsored by the Atlanta Support Your Police Committee, Mr. Yearling is reported to be turning over proceeds from the affair to the defense of Officers J. T. Hasty and J. M. Colbert.

Alto Stone, Jr. Dies in Vietnam

Army Pfc. Otto Stone, Jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stone of 681 Twenty-fifth St., died Aug. 30 in South Vietnam of a non-combat injury, his parents have been notified. The full nature of which has not been reported.

Services will be at 1:30 p.m. Friday at Estes & Son Funeral Home. Burial will be at Glendale Cemetery.

Private Stone was a Des Moines native and a graduate of Technical High School. He had been in Vietnam 12 months.

Surviving, besides his parents, are two sisters, Mrs. Shelia Mickens and Mrs. Theda Wilson, and three brothers, Horace, Gregory and Bobby, all of Des Moines; maternal grandparents, Mrs. Collie Scott of Rock Island, Ill., and Clarence Smith of Michigan City, Ind.; and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Theda Stone of St. Joseph, Mo.

Mrs. DuBois Arriving Sept. 15

Mrs. Shirley Graham DuBois, widow of the renowned scholar Dr. W.E.B. DuBois, will be arriving in New York City on September 15th, it was announced by the Black Academy of Arts and Letters.

Members of the Academy will be on hand to greet the widow, as will be other friends and organizations. Mrs. DuBois will be returning to the U.S. for the first time in ten years to attend the Black Academy's First Annual Awards Banquet at the New York Hilton on September 20th. The Academy will be enrolling the late Dr. W.E.B. DuBois to their newly established Hall of Fame as part of the Awards ceremonies on the 20th.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission is investigating a similar complaint against two resort booths at the Iowa State Fair which were charged with discriminating against blacks who registered for free vacations. However, it's too late to do anything now that the fair is closed.

White On Planned Parenthood Staff

Robert White has just joined Planned Parenthood of Iowa's staff as Community Relations Director it was announced today by Mrs. William Wimer, president. In this newly-created position, Mr. White will be in charge of contacting groups and individuals in Des Moines' Inner City to acquaint them with Planned Parenthood's activities.

Under his direction will be a staff of specialists in social work, nutrition, and neighborhood outreach. Mr. White comes to Planned Parenthood with a background of work with the Youth Department and also Community Youth of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. White is attending Drake University and lives at 1711 Washington. He is a native of Des Moines and graduated from North High School.

This specialized program will make available family sex education and birth control services to all individuals who request them. A specialized outreach program will be implemented to make people in the community aware they can take advantage of these services.

Bomb Strikes In Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Minn. — A bomb blast which disturbed the peace and quiet of a southeastern area in Minneapolis Sunday morning, September 5, was fatal to one unidentified man and wrecked the homes of two families, damaged a dozen other homes and endangered the lives of 12 children and three-score adults in a two block area.

A bomb apparently being carried by a unidentified man exploded in front of 2013 Fifth Av. S. demolishing that home, and the home of James W. Slemmons, active prominent Twin Citizen of 2015 Fifth Av. S. who was asleep in the upper front room of his home.

Mrs. Sophia Mosby, 49, whose house at 2013 Fifth Ave. suffered the most severe damage whose family of three persons were all asleep also said she thought the blast was a "clap of thunder." Her son Willie and daughter Beverly and an infant grandchild were asleep in the house.

The blast wrecked the front porch of her home and blew wood pieces of the structure and pieces of glass through a front window over the sleeping body of her son.

Sue Miss. Gov. For 13 Million

JACKSON, Miss. — Gov. John Bell Williams and other top state officials are the defendants in a multi-million-dollar lawsuit filed on behalf of two students slain during demonstrations at Jackson State College and four others who were injured in the disorders.

The suit, filed by the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, asks $13,880,000 in damages resulting from the deaths of Philip Gibbs and James Earl Green, who

NAACP Asks Probe Of Marine Base

DALLAS, Texas. — The Navy has been called upon by Richard L. Dockery, Southwest regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to investigate charges of discrimination against Negro servicemen at the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Training Center here.

Mr. Dockery asked for the investigation after three black reservists filed discrimination complaints alleging threats on their lives and personal safety, harassment, intimidation, abuse and denial of promotions. This is not the first time Negroes have complained about their treatment at the center, Mr. Dockery said, recalling that an investigation made after similar complaints had been filed last December revealed that prejudice exists at the base.

were killed during the May 14-15 protest, and the injuries incurred by Leroy Kenter Jr., Vernon Weakly, Wayne Davis and Marion Buchanan during the same unrest at the school.

The action was taken on behalf of relatives of the plaintiffs, whose lawyers said in the suit that the defendants deprived the plaintiffs and descendants of the plaintiffs of their rights, privileges, and immunity secured to them by the First, Fourth, Eighth, Ninth, 13, 14th, and 15th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

Flanigan Completes Navy Training

SAN DIEGO Aug. 27 — Navy Hospitalman Apprentice Franklin H. Flanigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Flanigan of 1112 10th St., Des Moines, Iowa, was graduated from basic training at the Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

NEWS In A Nutshell

Milwaukee, Wis. — Theodore Mack, Sr., president of United People's Brewing, announced during a press conference Wednesday at Northtown that stock sales are $20,000 short of closing as of August 27, 1970. Mack urged people interested in buying shares to act promptly. Since the stocks went on sale one month ago, $180,000 worth of stock have been sold.

NEW YORK, N.Y. — After seven months of preliminary arguments, 13 Black Panthers went on trial Tuesday on charges of conspiring to murder policemen and blow up police stations, department stores and rail installations. But discord between the judge and the defense still persisted.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Four Jackson (Miss.) State College instructors have been fired in a purported economy move to strengthen security forces at the troubled institution. One white, one a Negro, were charged with being troublemakers.

NEW YORK. — A ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth denying an application for a preliminary injunction against enforcement of a Michigan statute designed to nullify a school desegregation plan approved by the Detroit Board of Education will be immediately appealed to the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, NAACP General Counsel Nathaniel R. Jones said here, Sept. 3.

PATCHOQUE, N.Y. — Proposals for the construction of some 3,300 new dwelling units on two different sites in Suffolk County were detailed by William Morris, NAACP director of housing programs, at an open meeting here, Sept. 3. Under this plan, to be sponsored by the NAACP upon approval of the Board of Directors, housing would be made available for all age, economic and racial groups.

Prisoner Sues to See His Wife

DALLAS, N.C. — Are prison officials legally bound to protect an inmate's basic rights and privileges?

Minford Leroy Worley, a 29-year-old black inmate at the Central State Prison unit here, believes they are — and has filed a $110,000 federal court suit in support of that belief.

Now serving a four-to-six year term for robbery, the Charlotte native charged in the suit that state corrections department officials interfered with his correspondence rights and refused to allow his white girlfriend and their child to visit him.

He complained in the suit, filed by Civil Liberties Union lawyers on his behalf, that prison officials subjected him to unnecessary punishment by putting him with another prisoner into a small cell containing only one bed.

Says Iowa People Judge On Merit; Had Word for Women

By Cecil Cooper
Staff Writer

Davenport, Iowa — Wind-up a series of appearances in Iowa since being selected Miss Iowa, Cheryl Adrian Brown of Bettendorf, left for Atlantic City where she will appear in the Miss America Pageant on Saturday.

She had some fine things to say about the people of Iowa who selected her on her merits rather than her race.

Prior to her departure, Miss Brown was interviewed by Miss Cecile Cooper, correspondent for the Bystander. The following are excerpts from that interview.

Miss Cooper: When should a young person begin planning their life's goals?

Miss Brown: It is never too early to start planning but at that time make sure that they have a goal and to strive for it.

Miss Cooper: What do you think of the women's liberation movement?

Miss Brown: They've got many valid points, but I think to achieve their goals, they're having to be hypocritical. These women want men's jobs, but they have to - in a way - become masculine to get them. If they achieve their goals, they probably go back to their femininity. And I think that's being hypocritical. In other words, I agree with women's lib, but I disagree with their tactics. I'd hate to lose that much femininity.

Miss Cooper: Regarding the remarks made by Miss Gillis of Rock Island that it would be difficult to judge a black girl among a group of white girls. What would you have to say about that statement.

Miss Brown: If you are judged fairly on the basis of talent then there will not be any difficulty. I feel that the first impression that you make on the judges is very important.

Miss Cooper: How did you feel when they announced you won the contest?

Miss Brown: I was numb for a few seconds.

Miss Cooper: How can young people be militant constructively and without violence?

Miss Brown: That is a hard question. Because in the past there has always been some sort of jolt to get the people doing what was right. Think militant but do not act. You must keep working for a change and work within the system.

Miss Brown is a very charming outspoken young lady. Congratulations and best wishes were extended after the interview with Miss Iowa which was held at a luncheon at the home of Miss Cooper.

Parades

Since arriving in Atlantic City Miss Brown has been going through boardwalk parades and enjoying the preparatory requirements leading up to the finals Saturday evening.

United Methodist Sponsor African Supper at Indianola

The United Methodist Church of Indianola is sponsoring an African supper Thursday, September 17, 6:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

The African supper will raise money for the transportation and support of a Rhodesian couple who will study at Simpson College and unteers work in their communities, and turn their talents to the needs of their own locality.

The African supper is expected to raise approximately half the funds needed for support of the couple. The tickets are $2.00 for adults, and $1.00 for students. They can be purchased from Don Dittmer, 707 W. Boston, Indianola, or at the Parish Hall prior to the supper.

Elbert Goode, a member of the community and a supporter of the project said, "It is a race-relations project that reaches across the ocean to assist a young Rhodesian complete his education so that he may one day teach African high school youth back in his native land."

Mahon Chids "Slow Congress"

Don Mahon, Republican Candidate for Congress, speaking to a group of young Republicans the day after Labor Day, said: "Programs related to crime, bombing and pollution are lying dormant as a result of their legislative inactivity. Democrat Congressional leaders appear to be more concerned about not permitting any progressive legislation than they are with regard to the interests of all other Americans."

Williams-Davis Wedding A Summer Social Event

The wedding ceremony of Martha Davis and Alfred Williams took place Saturday August 15, 1970, at 4:30 P.M. at St. Paul A.M.E. Church.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. Henderson S. Davis. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Henderson S. Davis, Jr. of Detroit, Michigan. Best man was Floyd Williams, brother of the groom, of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Matron of honor was Mrs. Vinita Carter, sister of the bride, of Manchester, Connecticut. James E. Carter, brother-in-law of the bride of Manchester, Connecticut, was an attendant. Lydia Davis, younger sister of the bride, was also an attendant. Little Miss Shirley Ann Carter, two years old of Manchester, Connecticut, was the flower girl. Sterling Davis of Kokomo, Indiana, was the soloist, accompanied on the organ and piano by his wife, Mrs. Frances Davis, former piano teacher of the new Mrs. Williams and her former Sunday School teacher.

The Dress

Mrs. William's wedding gown was white nylon chiffon over orchid peau de soi trimmed in heavy white embroidered flowers accented with seed pearls. The dress had a rounded neckline, full elbow length puff sleeves, small fitted waist, very full gathered floor length skirt with a semi-train in the back. She carried white orchids with white roses and lavender ribbons. Her attendants wore rose nylon chiffon over rose peau de soi, with a large flat bow in the back of peau de soi. The gowns were similar to the bride's, not so full in the floor length skirts but with the same fitted waists and full elbow length sleeves. They wore short veils of rose nylon tulle with flat rose peau de soi bows on their hair.

The bride wore the same beaded embroidered flowers in an orchid arrangement with a shoulder-length white illusion net veil.

Attendants' Dress

The bride's attendants carried similar bouquets of huge cymbidium orchids with pink sweetheart roses and deeper rose ribbons. The flower girl's floor length dress was made in the same style in pale pink nylon chiffon. Her ponytail was tied in long pink satin ribbons. She carried a basket of pink rosebuds and orchid pom-pom chrysanthemums. The bridegroom and his attendants wore tuxedos - white jackets and black trousers with black bow ties.

Afro-Style

The minister wore his white African-style robe. The mother of the bride, Mrs. Ruth Davis, wore pink lace in Afro-American style with a matching lace headpiece and a corsage of beige cymbidium orchids tied with white ribbon. The mother of the groom, Mrs. Bertha Williams-Scott, wore a beige embroidered blouse over a navy blue skirt and wore a corsage of beige cymbidium orchids with lavender ribbon.

Mr. Sterling Davis sang wedding classics including "Oh, Perfect Love." As the bride and groom knelt at the altar he sang Malotti's "The Lord's Prayer."

Reception

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the lower level of St. Paul's Church. The tables were covered with a white banquet cloth, with lavender nylon net overlay. The four-tiered wedding cake was chocolate with fudge icing trimmed with lavender and rose flowers. Two white wedding bells were atop the cake. The punch was grape with marachino cherries.

Canapes were turkey, chopped black olive and cucumber on brown bread. The dining room was decorated with lavender, rose and pink huge tissue paper flower bouquets and arranged in vases with juniper greenery placed around the room.

Hostesses

The hostesses under the direction of Mrs. Bessye Greene, were Pamela Taylor, Suzette Haynes, Peggy Spates and Jennifer Campbell. They wore lavender and rose dresses. The young hosts were Floyd Epton,

Iowa Power and Iowa Illinois Appeal Ruling

Exceptions to the ruling of the Hearing Examiner in the consolidation proceedings of Iowa Power and Light Company and Iowa Illinois Gas and Electric Company of Davenport were filed late Wednesday in Washington, D. C. with the Federal Power Commission by the Staff of that Commission.

In this filing, the F.P.C. Staff again recommended that "the proposed consolidation be conditioned upon submission by Iowa Energy (the new company) of a plan contemplating divestment of the gas properties involved within a period of five years."

Dwight H. Swanson, president of Iowa Power, and Charles H. Whitmore, Bruce Taylor, and Gregg Perry. Mrs. Cora Chapman catered the reception. Murray Singleton was the photographer.

Ushers

The Richard Allen Usher Board escorted guests to their seats. Serving as ushers were Robert King, Richard Perry, Otto Williams, James Campbell, Lee Odus Harper and Virgil Miller.

Out of town guests were: Handy Scott, Okmulgee, Oklahoma, step-father of the groom; Mrs. Floyd Williams, Tulsa, Oklahoma, sister-in-law of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. James V. Gilbert of Plainfield, Indiana, cousins of the bride.

The bride and groom will be at home in San Jose, California, at 2155 Lanai Avenue where their California reception was held on Saturday evening, August 22, with Afro-American style attire requested.

president of Iowa-Illinois, explained today that the two companies now have 20 days in which to file their reply brief with the Commission.

"The F.P.C. will then take this reply brief under advisement along with that of the F.P.C. Staff and the ruling of the Hearing Examiner in the process of arriving at a final determination," it was stated.

If the ruling of the Commission provides for consolidation of the two companies without divestiture of the gas properties as proposed by the companies and approved by the Hearing Examiner on July 2, 1970, the consolidation could take place as early as January 1, 1971.

The companies have contended throughout the proceedings that divestiture of the gas properties would severely penalize customers and shareholders of the new company.

The new company is to be known as Iowa Energy Corporation.

YMCA Trim Program for Women

The Des Moines YMCA will resume its Slim-N-Trim program for women starting September 10. Exercise classes will be held Mondays and Thursdays in the morning starting at 9:30; and Wednesday evening at 7:00.

Swimming and volleyball activities are available after the exercise class. Babysitting service is provided for the morning times only.

For registration information contact the YMCA, 288-0131, Ext. 54.

Inside Rhodesia

Rhodesian Freedom Fighters

by Justin V. J. Nyoka

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — "What I know, my Lord, is that members of the police force are employees of the government. What I have been doing is to fight against the government. And I know that this Court is an institution which belongs to the government that I am fighting against. . . ."

The young man, who was being accused of contravening Section 48 A (1) (a) of the notorious Law and Order (Maintenance) Act, was subsequently sentenced to life imprisonment for entering Rhodesia from Zambia in 1968 with other freedom fighters possessing weapons of war.

He is one of hundreds of black Rhodesians who left the country before Ian Smith and his colleagues seized independence unilaterally from Britain in 1965, to mount an armed struggle against Rhodesia's white minority regime. The blacks want freedom to determine their own destination. Although the liberation movement in this country faces impossible odds, a major breakthrough has already been made, and now the success of the struggle depends on the role of all those who are inside Rhodesia.

The significance of the trial of the man I have just described is the fact that he and a number of his companions had been in the country for nearly two years before they were arrested. The group was in that time able to train local men, most of them tribesmen in the Tribal Trust Lands, in the use of arms. Although this particular freedom fighter was captured, a large number of his companions - including those originally trained outside as well as new local recruits are still at large.

This is causing harassment to the Rhodesian soldiers, who cannot be sure from where the next attack will come. The threat of further incursions by black guerrillas is confirmed by the fact that the Rhodesian government still maintains a permanent army in the Zambezi Valley, on the border with Zambia.

Since 1967 there have been three major incursions of guerrillas into Rhodesia, the largest consisting of 200 to 300 men. In some cases Rhodesian and South African agents in Zambia or in some of the countries where the freedom fighters have trained, have given advance information about the incursions. This has caused parties to be badly mauled by white security forces within days of entering the country.

In one engagement at Wankie in the northern Matabeland area of Rhodesia, Rhodesian security forces reported during a court trial of one of the guerrillas that for several days the freedom fighters were in control of the operations, with white security officers ordering cease-fire and withdrawal.

In another engagement, this time in the Zambezi Valley, the guerrillas were in such a defensive position that the only way the white security forces could attack was by using jet bombers. Even then, the Rhodesian army suffered one casualty.

Figures are very difficult to obtain from official sources, who are themselves uncertain in the full facts, because sometimes whole areas have been bombed and burnt out in the hope that there might be freedom fighters.

The Rhodesian government does not estimate its losses at more than 10 dead, including a white South African policeman. As I write, there is still an undisclosed number of South African special police fighting on the Rhodesian side in the Zambezi Valley.

On the guerrilla side losses have obviously been much heavier. It is believed that last year a total of about 50 freedom fighters were killed.

In April of 1969, Minister of Law, Desmond Lardner-Burke revealed in Parliament that up to that time nearly 300 guerrillas had been convicted for entering the country with various arms of war. Most of them were sentenced to death, but a number of these have now been condemned to life imprisonment.

What has been most impressive about those who have appeared in court is the fact that they have been so courageous. They have refused to recognize the authority of the court and of the Smith government - asking to be treated as prisoners of war or being tried by Martial Law.

Whatever one may say, these black Rhodesians are brave and defiant young men, and as many more local people join them, they are bound to win. Right is on our side.

YWCA Announces New Courses

Three new courses were announced today by the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department of the Des Moines YWCA. Courses to be offered are gymnastics, ballet and acrobatics, with gymnastics slated to begin on September 5, and ballet and acrobatics on September 12. All courses will feature three classes. A beginning class will be held for those with little previous experience. Intermediate classes will include those with a basic knowledge of the fundamentals. The advanced class will contain those capable of advanced skill in the arts. The ballet course will include a fourth class for advanced beginners. Representatives of the YWCA said classes will be determined by ability and not age.

Charles Jacobson, coach of women's gymnastics at Grand View College, and Diana Lowe, a member of Grand View's gymnastics team will instruct the gymnastics course at the YWCA. Jan Stewart, a professional ballet instructor will teach ballet and acrobatics. All classes will be held on Saturdays in the YWCA building at 512-9th. Each course will run 10 weeks. Persons interested in participating in the gymnastics, ballet or acrobatics courses should contact the YWCA by the 5th of September. The number to call to register is 244-5171.

DAVENPORT

Mr. William Cribbs was recently appointed to the position of Director of Human Relations in Davenport. Mr. Cribbs gave an interview with Miss Cecile Cooper shortly after beginning his duties as director.

Miss Cooper: Why did you want to become the director?

Mr. Cribbs: After being involved in community affairs for many years I felt that a job like this would help bring about community action.

Miss Cooper: What are some of your goals?

Mr. Cribbs: One of my main goals is improvement in community relations, involving our poor people in the system, making them more aware of their rights and responsibility as a citizen of Davenport.

Miss Cooper: Have you done any community work?

Mr. Cribbs: Well, I have had twenty years of active involvement with this community. While I resided in Galesburg I was a member of the city council serving on the finance committee. I also spoke to various organizations and worked with groups in community progress. I was the president of N.A.A.P. in Davenport from 1963 to 1968. We had one of the most active branches in Davenport at that time.

Miss Cooper: Will you tell us something about your family?

Mr. Cribbs: My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Booker Cribbs of Davenport. My wife is the former Louise Hall of Galesburg. I have two married daughters, Mrs. Merio Knapp of Washington D.C. and Mrs. Carol Graves of Davenport. Carol is currently enrolled at the Hurley School of Cosmetology. There are five children at home. Beverly who is a student at Knox College, Dillard a Jr., at West High, Angela in the 9th at J.B. Young, Valerie is in the 6th and Terri is in the 4th both at Jefferson School.

Miss Cooper: What is your educational background?

Mr. Cribbs: I am a graduate of Davenport High School. I went to the University of Northern Iowa for 2 years and I spent two years in the United States Army. I am still associated with Cribbs and Cribbs Landscaping of Davenport.

Miss Cooper: Where do you plan to live?

Mr. Cribbs: I will live at 719 Warren T., Davenport.

TWO HISTORIC FEATS

by Mrs. Raymond Young
Vice-Chairman, National Citizens Committee to Save Education and Library Funds
Former President, American Library Trustee Association

A funny thing happened on the way past Mars the other day.

Just as an unmanned American space ship started televising pictures of Mars to earth, the House of Representatives orbited a billion dollars more for education than the President's 1970 budget asked for and $900 million more than the House Appropriations Committee recommended.

Both feats were historic. The space ship was about as close to Mars as Cleveland is to Los Angeles, and 50 million miles away from us. And the increase for education came from a House that Washington experts tell us is conservative and tight-fisted.

These two seemingly unrelated and obviously unlikely events set us to thinking. Remember 1957, when the Russian-made Sputnik opened the space age? One reaction was the opening by the Congress of another new age - federal assistance to education. First, the National Defense Education Act of 1958, followed by a variety of programs to help elementary and secondary schools, libraries, junior and senior colleges. Federal funds helped to train teachers, to buy books and films, to equip laboratories and libraries. For the first time the federal treasury was spending money for new approaches to education, approaches that local realistic taxpayers could not be expected to bear.

For several years after 1958, government support of education accelerated. Hard-hit urban areas got assistance, as did "impacted areas" where vast federal installations concentrate workers' or servicemen's families - including school children - with no proportionate increase in the local school tax base. Then the pace of increasing U. S. help to the schools slowed, stopped and reversed. Why, in an economy-minded House this about-face in favor of "big spending"? The answer is interesting, and in our view promising. For the first time ever, the varied elements of the world of education

Wood Cures Dull Ceiling

The plain, unadorned ceiling is going the way of the wood range—and in every room of the house.

Two popular modern treatments are wood paneling and open beams.

Beams are easily installed. If the ceiling is high enough, standard-size beams may be used. In a small room, with a lower ceiling, smaller dimensions are advisable.

The current fashion is to finish beams in a darker shade than the ceiling itself. Western fir or pine will find finishes for any effect desired.

Wood paneled ceilings offer both beauty and practicality. Knotty fir or hemlock decking has a natural, but warm appearance. The wood may be stained, but more and more designers are specifying unfinished wood. Cedar or hemlock paneling, with its sophisticated appeal, may be used effectively to coffer older cove-type ceilings.

Musical Program Maple St. Church

Sunday, September 13, at 3:30 p.m. a musical extravaganza will be presented at Maple Street. Many singing groups from the city will be participating. Please come and support this program. Dine In Style

You don't have to be a "blue blood" to dine in style. American blue cheese, one of the delicacies long relished by connoisseurs, can be yours at budget prices.

Also, you'll find a little goes a long way. The wedge you buy today will garnish many a meal before it's used up.

HOME FASHIONS CAN SOLVE THE FAMILY GIFT PROBLEM

This year there's a delightful solution to the predicament of finding Christmas gifts that are suitable for an entire family or home. Some of the new and colorful bed-and-bath linens can make perfect family gifts, not only because they are elegant-looking and always useful, but because you can select as many or as few of these matching items as your budget allows.

Sheets and pillow cases, spreads, blankets, towels and shower curtains—once considered just utilitarian—have now blossomed into high fashion. They make most impressive gifts, whether you select just a pair of sheets with matching pillowcases or decide to give an entire ensemble of coordinated bed-and-bath linens.

A leading designer of the fashion look in linens suggests that the more colorful your gift, the more festive it will be. If you know the colors of the recipient's bedroom or bath, there are dozens of magnificent new fash-

"Love" is the theme for these gift sheets and pillowcases. Linen prints that you can coordinate with them. If you're not sure, stick to a solid color like gold, canary, white or black, says Fieldcrest coordinator June Mohler. One of the most popular of the elegant Fieldcrest designs is "Pow Flowers," because its huge white, yellow and black blooms add flair to virtually any background.

For the family with exciting tastes and a daring sense of decor, the new "Bright Nights" pattern can transform an entire bedroom or bath into a floral fantasy. Zinnia-like flowers are sprinkled in heady combinations of warm colors or cool hues against a black background. Variations on this Fieldcrest design come in coordinated sheets, pillow cases, towels, bedspreads, shower curtains and even cafe curtains. And many of their most striking ensembles are already packaged in gay holiday gift sets.

Social Security

Health, Education Welfare

The IOWA BYSTANDER has made arrangements with the Des Moines office of the Social Security Administration to answer questions for our readers about social security and Medicare. Send your questions to Field Representative, Room 293 Federal Building, 210 Walnut Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50309.

QUESTION: An acquaintance of mine recently became eligible for social security disability benefits. He said that he was required to have worked in 5 years out of the 10 immediately before he became disabled. I am only 23 years old and have worked only 2 years. If I became disabled before having worked 5 years would I be ineligible?

ANSWER: Your acquaintance was undoubtedly over 31 years of age when he became disabled. A change in the law lowered the amount of work required for a person who becomes disabled before he reaches age 31. Now, a very young person can be eligible with as little as 1½ years of work. In your own case, if you have worked for the past 2 years and keep working you will always meet the work requirement for disability benefits.

QUESTION: When my husband's widowed mother died, we inquired about the lump sum death benefits under social security. She had never been employed or self-employed, but was getting $80 a month. We were told that there would be no lump sum. Why?

ANSWER: You state that your husband's mother had never been employed or self-employed. Lump sum death benefits are paid only under the social security record of someone who has had sufficient earnings covered by the law to meet the requirement of an insured individual. Your husband's widowed mother did not have any such earnings. The $80 to which you refer is no doubt her widow's benefit, therefore no lump sum could be paid.

QUESTION: I've been getting social security checks since my husband died. My only child will be 18 in a few months. Since she plans to continue her education, I know she will keep getting social security benefits. But what happens to the check I've been getting?

ANSWER: The answer depends on your age and other factors. If you are 60 or over, benefits can continue. Or, if you are between 50 and 60 and are disabled, you still might get a check each month. Otherwise, your benefits will stop when your daughter reaches 18.

QUESTION: My friends and I were comparing our medicar cards the other day and noticed that most of them have different letters after the number. What do these letters mean?

ANSWER: This is merely a simple code which identifies the type of social security benefit you are receiving. Some of the more common codes are: "A" for the worker; "B" for a wife; "D" for a widow.

PREDICTS SHIFT IN LOANS

In future, there will be a continued shifting away from loans on one- to four-family homes toward loans on multi-family residential and non-residential properties, predicts the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The absolute level of home mortgage loans outstanding will continue to rise, however, but their relative importance in the mortgage portfolios of financial institutions can be expected to diminish.

Services for Mrs. Griffin Friday

Services for Mrs. Lotus Sarah Griffin, 70, of 1541 Walker St., will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Robinson Funeral Home in Hannibal, Mo., with burial in a cemetery there.

Mrs. Griffin, who died of a heart ailment Sunday at Des Moines General Hospital was born in Bethel, Mo., and lived 18 years in Des Moines. She was a member of Burns United Methodist Church.

Surviving are two sons, Manley Griffin of Los Angeles, Calif., and Emmett of Hannibal; four daughters, Mrs. Hazel Monroe of Hannibal, and Mrs. Mary Buckner, Mrs. Frances Haney and Mrs. Marcella May, all of Des Moines, 12 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

MINK MOBILITY

Guess what's coming to brunch, lunch, teas as well as dinner this winter?

The answer is mink—which according to fashion editors and designers is now making the scene from ski slopes to soccer matches from Sunday brunches to club lunches.

Now, the most glamorous fur is also the most versatile, with the accent on today's "with it" young look.

Because mink can be worked like fabric, fur designers are using it imaginatively in styles that go from ultra-casual to super-elegant—from a sleeveless vest to a swinging fit and flare coat.

Though buttons and belts are optional, says the Emba Mink Breeders Association, leather in a combination with mink is making the scene. Beautiful! And with 58 shades of natural, American-bred mutation mink in 16 color phases, now there's a shade and a style to flatter everyone, every day.

Because of its new go-everywhere flair and its ability to wear and wear, no wonder so many American women are saying: "Mink, which makes magic, also makes sense."

Proper lubrication is more than a squirt or two of oil. Check the manufacturer's instructions on appliances, for example, and don't use more than the recommended amount of lubrication. Use the right lubricant for the job and, whenever you can, first clean the things you plan to lubricate.

What's keeping you from looking good? Getting gray?

It's only natural to panic a little when you see those first gray hairs...or when you realize that chemical processing is slightly fading your natural color. Many women, just like you, hesitate to use permanent peroxide haircoloring because they don't want to change their natural color. What to do?

Hair care and beauty experts agree that slightly graying and fading can add years to a young woman's looks...but they also know what takes the years away. Loving Care®. Clairol created this semi-permanent hair color lotion without peroxide. It colors only the gray or faded hair...and doesn't change your natural shade. There's no haircoloring gentler. Your hair stays shining and healthy-looking through a month of shampoos.

If you have questions about your hair, you're wise to go to the experts. Professional hairdressers have the whole family of fine Clairol products and the training to promise each patron the loveliest, most personalized results.

So don't panic. Be comforted with a quick visit to the expert...your hairdresser. And keep on looking good!

Your professional hairdresser has all the answers...ask for a free consultation today!

GERALDINE BATES LOPEZ (MRS. CARLOS) made a very proper visit this fall! Very proper in that she spent the Labor Day Week holidays here and in this way it was possible for more of us to share her visit. It was a pleasure-filled week with scores of relatives and friends. The Embers' hold-up sort of shook up my plans to entertain Gerry there! But having warned her to leave behind all valuables, we proceeded with my plans to dine there. The fabulous chef, Jim Crumb, was on hand so the evening was naturally a success! Gerry was the houseguests of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Watkins.

DINNER AT THE EMBERS AND DINNER AT SIR-BAR-B-QUE make for variety. Always on the search for news, I reach out to people. They are news! Seated alone awaiting dinner at SBBQ, I glanced at three lively young women, invited them to join me. My table was large enough for far more than one! Their merit was appealing and certain to enhance my evening. My table guests were Lenore Bradley (Mrs. Jas.) whose husband is stationed in Germany with the army. Lenore, a housewife, is the mother of Alicia Marie 2, and James, Jr., 10 months; Mrs. Barbara Frazier, the mother of two, Keith DeWayne 8 and Deidre Ann 7, is a CEP secretary and is enrolled in its assessment program; Shirley Berry Banks, the mother of three, Mark 7, Tina 6 and Robert 4, is employed in the Register and Tribune's Classified Advertising Department. Another diner known to many, many people as a one-time Williams Pharmacy employee, was Albert Kellogg, now a member of the Iowa Power and Light maintenance section. Bishop Everett Tindrell at this pointed entered the establishment which fact in and of itself is a compliment to the excellence of the fare there! Why this observation? His church's Monday dinners served this year were the best ever! So one might say he is a gourmet.

CHARLES GREEN IS SEAR'S NEWEST CLERK YOU'VE SEEN THIS WEEK! Detailed to men's apparel, Charles is very persuasive salesman! He and his pretty wife, Barbara have two daughters, Tina, 2 years old and Twana, 8 months old.

CHATTED WITH MARY HYDE in St. Paul on Labor Day Weekend. She recently returned from an extensive vacation abroad and plans dropping a few lines about her travels. She and George Edmunds Williams met in Madrid and, having augmented their party with new friends, enjoyed still further travel. More about these two!

VISITED DELORES JOHNSON JACOBS and her brood who reside in St. Paul! Her young Randy is a handsome guy and has a fine manner! Delores, you recall, formerly resided in Ora Labor! She is still singing in groups and returned this weekend from an appearance in Omaha, Nebraska.

EVER TRIED FLOATING IN ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA? (An out-of-doors event friends!) Our three young guests were treated to this sport on Labor Day. At Summerset, Wisconsin, the children went to The Apple River where floating is the big attraction. Taking first things first, one goes to the changing house where you doff your apparel and don jeans or shorts, and tennis shoes. For fifty cents you next rent an inner tube. At the starting point, just get right in. As you go down the river, you can feel the inner tube sliding over the bumps of the rocks. As the river is not really deep, you can touch bottom at any time. Tennis shoes are worn in the event the tube capsize -- you see the bottom is rock-covered. For thirty-five cents one can mount the chair lift which travels through a little section of woods and back to the starting point. If you prefer being a do-it-yourself individual, then there is a cable stretch across the river marking the end of the public exit. You may grasp the cable and make your exit. There are lots of good places to eat in the area, too. So necessary to a life of sports!

Ronald La Vern Scott Receives Bachelor of Arts Degree

Graduating from the University of Minnesota Summer Class of 1970 with Bachelor of Arts Degree was Ronald LaVern Scott, son of Mrs. Melba Hubbard Scott of Minneapolis, Minn., a native of Des Moines, and Peter John Scott of Gary, Indiana and grandson of Mrs. Helen Wheeler Hubbard of Minneapolis.

After finishing the Troebel High School in Gary, Indiana, Scott entered the Army where he became Staff Sergeant. He remained in the Army until an accident made it necessary for an honorable discharge. When well enough, he finished the IBM course at the Electronic Computer Programming Institute in Minneapolis, after which he entered college.

While in the Army, he was commended by his commanding officer for good conduct, which he attributed to his formative years, his neat appearance and his general ability as a good soldier. At Vietnam, an Air Medal for meritorious achievements while participating in aerial flights during the period of September 1965 to March, 1966 in the Republic of Vietnam was awarded him.

Oscar Jones Family Vacations in Western U.S. With Many Iowans

The Oscar Jones and family recently returned from a vacation in Los Angeles and Pasadena, California, Seattle and Tacoma, Washington. They visited with Mrs. Mable Carter of Pasadena and Paul Jones of Los Angeles, brother and sister of Mr. Jones.

Numerous Points

The family visited several points of interest including: an all day tour of Disney Land where they went on a flight to the moon, on a jungle cruise, rode the old Mark Twain ship and toured the Lincoln Pavilion; Knotts Berry Farm where they had a stage coach ride around the farm and Ghost town and Log Cabin, a ride through mountains, mined gold, pony rides, etc.; Japanese village and Deer Farm where they saw a Karate show, a Dolphin show, a bear show; University City Movie Studios where they saw inside a sound stage where movies are made, trick photography, etc.; saw Lana Turner's bungalow, stunt men performing a thrilling fall; Wax Museum where they saw more than 90 of the screens greatest stars, lavish replicas of their costumes; Palace of Living Art which has a collection of art objects and exact replicas of great sculptures from Louvre and the British Museum, saw a fabulous painting of the Lord's Supper.

Beverly Hills

The family toured Beverly Hills and Hollywood where they saw many fabulous homes of the movie stars including Ray Charles, Earl Grant, the Hollywood Bowl where Frank Sinatra and Dionne Warwick were performing, they saw the Farmers Market.

Baseball

They also attended the L. A. Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds game, were treated to dinner at China Town by Paul Jones, Mr. Jones' brother, attended a dinner given for them to Bill Mack and family, who is city attorney in Santa Ana, Calif., a former law classmate of Attorney Jones. Guests also were Mr. and Mrs. Mitcham from Santa Ana, the Mayor's wife, the University of Minnesota, he was on the Dean's honor roll. March the 15th, 1969, he received his Associate of Arts Degree. After having received his B.A. Degree in Sociology, he plans, the Lord willing, to enter the field of Law.

Mrs. Kee is the former Gwendolyn Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Fulton of 715 28th St.

Mayor had a previous commitment.

Watts

They spent a few days at the Watts Festival, an all black festival which is held annually at Will Rogers Park. Bernard Lewis, a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, had an insurance booth at the festival. There were many interesting things made by blacks such as jewelry, dashikis, plaques of Dr. King.

Iowans

They had a visit with Hutch Beshears, Jack Copeland, formerly from Des Moines, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lewis, talked with Mrs. Helen Wimberly, spent an evening with Lenna and R. D. Ewing who formerly lived in Des Moines and now lives in Altadena, California.

A dinner was given for the Jones family by Mrs. Lucille Jones. They spent a day at Long Beach and also Cabrillo beach in San Pedro, the aquarium and saw many unusual types of fish.

In Seattle

After spending three weeks in California they spent a week in Seattle and Tacoma, Washington. While in Seattle they visited with Archie Green and family. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moorehead had a dinner for them. They are cousins of Mrs. Jones.

They spent several days in Tacoma with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Henry, relatives of Mr. Jones. Mr. Henry is stationed at McClellan Air Force Base which the Jones family toured. They attended several dinners in Tacoma and also a dance at the army base. They saw Mount Rainier and went to Point Defiance, an old Fort built in 1840, saw never before land built on a display of the various nursery rhymes.

After returning to Des Moines on August 30, they attended a family reunion of the Downing, Reed and Junkins family, relatives of Mr. Jones, in Centerville. Mr. Jones was guest speaker. Alfred Shepherd and Mrs. Shari Scott were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jones at the reunion. They took a tour of Rathbun dam. There were 130 people in attendance.

Mrs. Mash and Son Back from Vacation

Mrs. Robert Mash, sons Robert Jr., Charles Westly, grandsons, Terry and William Stewart, returned to the city after spending a lovely week with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary G. Jones, formerly of Des Moines. They stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall (Marietta Tillman), sister of Mrs. Mash.

Mrs. Jones had a lovely luncheon for her daughter which friends of old and new attended.

The children attended a picnic given by Mrs. Cornelius Marchman.

Policyholder Questions Answered by The Institute of Life Insurance, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

Q. I'm wondering about what I should do with a small inheritance left me by an aunt. My wife's expecting a baby, and we could use the money for upcoming expenses. We have a little saved up for emergency use and I have some life insurance. Would it be better to increase our savings, or increase my insurance?

A. You didn't mention the amount of your inheritance. But let's assume the amount is $5,000. Let's also assume you have some form of health insurance, either an individual policy, or group coverage where you work. Every young couple expecting a child can use money. Your health insurance will probably pay for most of the hospital and medical bills, but there will be a portion you must pay, as well as other expenses after the baby comes home from the hospital. Applying your inheritance to these costs will help you now, and in the near future.

But think about long-range plans. Raising a child is a big responsibility. As breadwinner, your family depends upon your income to meet the monthly bills. Latest figures indicate that raising a child to age 18 can cost anywhere from $22,000 to $30,000.

Now is a good time to take another look at your life insurance program. Making sure you're adequately covered will help your family keep going if you're not around to provide the necessary income. There are various rules of thumb which you can measure the life insurance protection you need. We are mailing

BAD EXAMPLE FOR
"ENLIGHTENED FOUR"

Criticizing the majority of the Des Moines school board last week, the Bystander stated that they did not have the courage to appoint a Negro to its membership. Friday, Dr. George Caudill stated as much when he said they did not wish this responsibility; rather that the people should do this.

Now, there is some talk of a special election to fill the vacancy rather than make an appointment as they had planned to do.

Most people had no idea we had such a "behind the times" group of men on our school board. There is a doctor, a lawyer, a college professor and business man all of whom have considerable education, and reasonable contact with minorities - both of the professional and lay class. They would be expected to be enlightened, in step with modern thinking and action.

But they have failed so far. Maybe they will change. Just what will be done in the final analysis is problematical but they certainly have shaken the confidence in their ruling four.

MAKING THE JAIL
A PUBLICITY STUNT

The Polk County jail continues to be in the news with advice for its improvement or destruction coming from all directions. In fact, a kind of hysteria has developed with the health department demanding that it be closed.

We wonder if these people, who are suddenly displaying such concern over the conditions in the jail, have thought of or exercised any interest in the low income people who don't have much of this world's goods and are forced to live under some unsanitary conditions. They don't. This is a popular publicity stunt today.

SOCIAL SECURITY

QUESTION: I am a widow with four young children. I expected my social security benefits to stop when I went to work full time. But I still get the same amount every month. Why?

ANSWER: With four young children, your family is still entitled to the maximum benefit amount based on your husband's earnings. Families with three or more survivors entitled to monthly benefits usually get this maximum: Since your four children continue to collect social security, your family keeps getting the same amount - the family maximum - whether you work or not. Stopping your check and increasing the amount paid to each of your children could cause an interruption in your payments. For this reason, and to save administrative costs, the checks continue in your name.

QUESTION: I collect social security widow's benefits. I never worked myself. Will my survivors get a lump-sum payment when I pass away?

ANSWER: No. The lump-sum payment is only made after the worker's death, and the worker must have credit for a certain amount of work under social security.

QUESTION: I have lost my Medicare card. What should I do if I need the number before I can get another card?

ANSWER: You can use any official social security communication which identifies your "claim number". Or, your doctor, or the hospital, can telephone your local social security office and obtain the number.

Immunization
Survey
Planned

A survey taken annually to determine the extent to which people have been inoculated against communicable diseases will be made here the week of September 14 by the Bureau of the Census, according to Guy A. Lutz, Director of the Bureau's regional office in St. Paul.

The immunization survey is part of a national program coordinated by the U.S. Public Health Service. Information on immunization will be collected in conjunction with the Bureau's monthly survey of employment and unemployment for the U.S. Department of Labor which provides a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation as a whole and of its major regions.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept confidential and the results are used only to compile statistical results. The law safeguarding the privacy of the individual applies to all information collected by the Census Bureau.

Hot Sauce
A Natural
For Fondue

Fondue is the fashionable dish at late winter parties. Inherited from the Swiss, this fanciful dish can be prepared any number of ways to please the palates of guests who love a "dunking party." Part of the appeal of this dining delicacy lies in the unconventional way the food is eaten. The communal "dunking pot" sparks lively conversation.

Very popular is fondue bourguignonne, or beef fondue. Cooking oil is heated to 400° F. Guests spear raw beef cubes on special, long-handled forks, and submerge the meat into the oil until it is cooked. Then meat is dipped into specially prepared sauce.

A delightful, tangy sauce is this one made with American blue cheese.

AMERICAN BLUE CHEESE
MUSTARD SAUCE
(Makes about 2 cups)

1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 cup beef sugar
3/4 teaspoon paprika
1 1/2 tablespoons dry mustard
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup American blue cheese (about 3 ounces, crumbled)
2 tablespoons butter
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup light cream

Combine flour, sugar, paprika, mustard and salt. Blend in vinegar and water. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cheese and butter. Stir until cheese is melted. Combine egg and cream. Add a small amount of hot mixture to egg mixture; mix well. Add to remaining hot mixture, stirring constantly. Heat to serving temperature, stirring frequently. Serve with meat or fish, as desired.

QUESTION: My mother has been receiving benefits for me since my father died in 1968. My college work starts in September, and, since I'll then be 18, I prefer to receive my own payments. Is there anything special I need to do after I start getting payments?

ANSWER: Yes. You must report to the social security people if any of the following occur: (1) you drop out of school, transfer to another school, or reduce your attendance to less than full time, (2) you get married, (3) you earn or expect to earn $1680 or more during this or a future calendar year, and (4) you get payments from an employer for attending school. Also, remember to notify the social security people a few months in advance that you intend to be a full-time student. Otherwise, your benefits will stop at 18.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

We had quite a discussion following the death of Vince Lombardi, coaching great. It got around to one guy asking what made a great coach great. One fellow seemed to have the answer. He said that the trick for coaches of professional ball clubs, football, basketball, or what have you, is to get players whose personalities match, or at least blend in with that of the coach. Getting great or good players is important, but they must be good players that the coach can work with. And as you look at the great professional coaches and managers in both football and baseball you can see this trait.

MISFITS

The star player who can't fit in with the leader's personality is traded off or got rid of in some other way. So the pro coach trades and deals until he gets the group he wants around him. Sometimes the club can't afford to go along with the head field man, and sometimes the players just aren't available. But, if they can be gotten, and the coach or manager gets them, he becomes a great leader. College coaches can't do this because they have to take what they can get. Consequently, they are lucky to have a half a dozen players on their squad who can blend with their personalities.

No Disparagement

This isn't taking anything away from any coach who has become great over the years, Howard Jones, Pop Warner, Knute Rockne, and others, because the stuff had to be there in order to be brought out. But, said our friends, leaders who can't get the players they want around them just don't become outstanding leaders.

BOXING

And back to boxing. News reports indicate that former heavyweight champ Cassius Clay looked surprisingly good for a man who hadn't fought in three years. Now they are saying if the fellow gets a couple of fights under his belt, Joe Frazier had better look out. He might have a bigger battle on his hands than he wants or anticipates. We still think they will get together. Who is going to keep on turning down a million bucks?

Little League Football

The guy was talking to us the other day. He said he was helping coach a Little League football team. He went on to say that this had to be the smallest team in the history of Little Leagues. Said his team averaged about seven-

Mod squads to combat smoking? An ingenious idea - a teenage original.

Where there's smoke, there's often a brushfire. And the mod squad idea is spreading. In some cities across the country, squads of high schoolers visit youngsters in the elementary grades to give them the antismoking pitch. Younger kids are impressed.

Other teenagers have declared a quit-smoking day in their towns and have convinced residents to donate the money they spend for a day's cigarettes to the scholarship fund. Teenagers in Randolph, Massachusetts collected $3500.

Other students in one Texas school conducted an anti-smoking slogan contest. Winning phrases were broadcast at the end of each period over the public address system in school, giving each student credit on the air. And in California, teenagers imitated the sophisticated techniques of an advertising agency and sent out press releases, radio and TV spots, and stickers to convince other kids not to get hooked on nicotine. A smoking with-ty pounds. "Now, Mr. Ashby, do you know where I can find at least one fat boy for a middle guard?" "Just a minute," we told him, "I will look in my dresser drawer and see if there are any fat young football players lying around." We knew we didn't carry those items around in our pockets. The guy muttered something that sounded like an invitation to a well known winter resort that people are often getting invited to. But it was good to hear from him and it served as a reminder that little league football is about to break out. We hope they get their games in for us.

Baseball All Timers

Then another day, we ran into Clarke Yeager, the guy who moves heaven and earth to get his annual old timers baseball banquet. He said that he had talked to Chet Brewer of Seattle, Washington. Chet was and probably still is just about the finest black pitcher to come out of this city. We have always argued that Chet could have made it big in the majors if he had been given a chance. People who were there still tell of the times Chet and the immortal Satchel Paige hooked up in some classic hurling duels in which maybe an error or a passed ball decided the game. Brewer is now a scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, a position he has held for about twenty years that we know of. We would sure like to hear from the big lug again.

But now while we are on the subject, there were quite a few black players who could have gone into organized baseball. Clarke himself might have made it. Then there was Albert Rhodes, Harry Crump, Eddie Lipford, Jap Crowe, Otis Moore, and a lot of others that we can't think of.

drawal clinic for students in Pennsylvania was another smashing success.

The word has filtered down to the even-younger set. A sixth-grader in California won a poster contest with her drawing of two monkeys. While one monkey had a cigarette in his mouth, the other was picking up one with his foot. The caption: "Monkey See, Monkey Do. What About YOU?" A ninth-grader in Ohio created an I WON'T START campaign, and kids in the elementary schools signed I WON'T START pledges.

Tuberculosis and respiratory disease associations across the country sponsor many of these activities that help youngsters get across the antismoking message. And these associations have plenty of activities for adults. See them to find out the facts about smoking. It's a matter of life and breath at any age.

Letters from Our Readers

A bit of prose . . . a line or two of poetry . . . a letter now and then to express thoughts in the minds of our many readers.

Send Yours Today

MY LITTLE DARK ONE
Don't bow your head in shame.
Just because Sam, Roosevelt, Lincoln is your name.
You with your patched pants, and dirty face.
Staring in wonderment at the human race.
What future does life hold for you?
You've had it hard enough
For the world has seen to it, it was rough.
You're apart of God as much as the moon and sun.
Don't cry now, my little dark one:

It's up to you to overcome.
Whatever fate that man may have in store.
You must never forget what you're here for.

Your little playmate with cheeks
Pink, hair shining as the sun,
With eyes blue and deep as the sea.
Don't watch him none too close,
For you way of life has to be the most.
Your background is one of strength.

And one in which to be proud
Where you can also say aloud
Work real hard, because you've got to be much better

Than your little friend, who to you looks sick.
Work fast and always think quick
For you there won't be much fun
So be real brave.

TIPS ON CAR CARE

Try This Car Care Know-How Test

Have you ever asked yourself just how much you know about car care?

Did you know, for instance, that a well-tuned car not only cuts down gas bills but also reduces the amount of air pollution a car produces?

Here are six questions, prepared with the help of B.F. Goodrich engineers, to test your knowledge of the basics of car care.

1. When you pull into a service station for gas and a routine car check, you should have the attendant (a) check the oil, water and battery; (b) check the air pressure in the tires; (c) all of the above? Answer: C Keeping proper air pressure in tires is as important as keeping the proper oil level in the engine.

2. A faulty muffler is dangerous (a) only in a closed garage; (b) always dangerous; (c) not really as dangerous as it is noisy? Answer: B Even closing the windows, while the car is moving, can be as dangerous as running the auto's engine in any enclosed place.

3. Radial tires should be (a) installed in complete sets and not mixed with conventional tires; (b) put on the rear wheels; (c) used only on the front if mixed with conventional tires? Answer: A According to BFG engineers, it isn't wise to mix radial tires with conventional tires because of the radial's superior handling characteristics.

4. Giving each fender of your car a hard, fast downward shove while the car is parked is one way of testing (a) strength of your springs; (b) tire pressure; (c) worn shocks? Answer: C If the car bounces like a rubber ball when you perform this test, have your shocks replaced. Worn shocks can result in loss of control and uneven, premature tire wear.

5. A tire with less than 1/16 inch of tread (a) is all right for use during the summer because there is no snow or ice; (b) is unsafe and should be replaced immediately; (c) gives better traction in the rain because it allows more tire surface to come in contact with the road? Answer: B Tires with 1/16 inch of tread or less are always dangerous and should be replaced immediately. On a wet surface, bald tires are twice as likely to cause a skid.

6. Vibrations in the steering wheel, accompanied by front end shimmy at turn-pike speed, indicate (a) the front end is out of line; (b) the tires need balancing; (c) either A or B - or both - and the smartest thing is to pull into the next service station to have the front end checked? Answer: C Front end trouble, particularly if neglected, could cause you or the car grave damage.
