National Move to Free Angela Davis

Angela Freed, Then Re-arrested

Angela Davis, the black revolutionist captured here and accused of flight to avoid murder and kidnap charges in California, was first held in lieu of $250,000 bail Wednesday, then was released by federal authorities and immediately was rearrested by city police.

The action was a prelude to legal moves to return her to California to answer charges connected with a courthouse gunfight in which four persons perished.

The 26-year-old Marxist scholar and former college professor has been accused of having bought the guns used in the shootout Aug. 7 in the Marin County Courthouse at San Rafael. Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley, who was taken hostage, two convicts, and the youth who invaded the courtroom with the weapons all died in the shootout.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, of New York, signed the extradition papers Wednesday for Angela Davis. A hearing has been set Nov. 3 to hear her case in her fight against extradition.

Host 43rd Meet National Bankers

The National Bankers Association, an organization representing the interests of Black-owned banks, will hold its 43rd annual convention in St. Louis, Missouri, on October 15-17, according to Dr. Edward Irons, Executive Director of NBA.

Stated Dr. Irons, "This convention portends to be one of the most significant in the history of Black banking, primarily because the Association will be gearing up for the most productive decade in its history. Our convention theme will be 'NBA and the 70s - Growth in Numbers - in Quality - in Service'.

Hooks Moves to Kansas City, Mo.

"I'll only be separated by a phone call," quipped Perry Hooks about his leaving Des Moines. As Manager of Urban Affairs for the city he will be sorely missed.

Hooks, of 2203 Littell Ave., is going to Kansas City, Mo., as the Assistant Regional Administration for the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

There he will be responsible for a four state region including Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, and Iowa. He will also be involved in all HUD related programs.

"I don't feel like I am leaving," Hooks said, "there is a tremendous need for improved housing here and I feel that in my new job I can help to make better housing a reality."

Working in Des Moines

In Des Moines he has helped to set up committees to work on urban problems in conjunction with the Department of Urban Affairs. Some of them are Police Community Relations, Drugs and Narcotics, Housing, and Consumer Affairs.

An example of the work he has been involved in is in conjunction with the Housing Committee. A "sixplex," a building with six houses in it, was erected

Paul G. Williams, M.D., former resident of Des Moines, was appointed deputy director of the Program Services Bureau of the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health, it was announced recently.

The psychiatrist, who has served with the depart-

Dr. Williams grew up in Des Moines, Iowa, then moved to California after several professional years in Detroit. A graduate of Drake University in 1951, he received his M.D. from Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tennessee in 1954. He completed his internship at Frankford General Hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. His residency was served at Wayne County General Hospital, in a suburb of Detroit, Michigan.

Wilkins NAACP Conference Speaker

Roy Wilkins, Executive Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, NAACP, will be the principal speaker at the Iowa Conference of Branches Freedom Fund Banquet on October 31, 1970, at the Savery Hotel in Des Moines, Iowa.

The Freedom Fund Banquet is planned in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Iowa Conference of Branches for leadership and training of officers and members of the NAACP. The funds are shared with the National Association for the carrying out of its programs.

Cecil Reed, formerly a Commissioner with the Iowa State Employment Security Commission and presently Director, Office of EEO, United States Department of Labor in Kansas City, Missouri, has been named as Honorary Chairman and will serve as Master of Ceremonies on the occasion.

U.S. Senator Harold E. Hughes, U.S. Senator Jack Miller, U.S. Congressman Neal Smith and Governor Robert D. Ray have agreed to serve as Honorary Co-chairmen of the Freedom Fund Banquet Committee.

A list of Honorary Committee Members is attached. Four hundred fifty (450) banquet tickets are now available for sale at the Regional Office, Region IV, NAACP, 260 Key Building, 518 Grand Avenue, Des Moines, Iowa, 50309.

The 61st Annual Convention of the NAACP, held in Cincinnati, Ohio, has placed the Association in a position of being more militant than ever, as did the national news primarily due to the anti-administration address of Bishop Stephen G. Spotswood, Chairman of the National Board.

In a recent television program Mr. David Moynihan, presidential advisor, stated that the NAACP was the only really militant civil rights organization as it has 462,000 members, a staff of experts, and a program.

This year's annual leadership and training meeting is being hosted by the Des Moines Branch, Mr. Malcolm Hogan president. Attorney Thomas M. Kelly, Jr., of Davenport, is president of the State Conference of Branches.

Black Schools Integrated in Waterloo

Mr. W. P. Knowlton, Principal of Grant School, stated that he feels the Bridge-way Project is a success at this point. He stated that the success of this project can be attributed to cooperation from the community and hard work on the part of the staff.

The racial balance of Grant School is now 50-50. Grant School has 190 white students, 188 black students, 1 Indian student and 1 Mexican-American student. The total staff number is 41, with 31 white and 10 black. Out of the Grant School district area, there is a total of 45 kindergartners; 44 black and 1 white.

Urban League's Young Commends Rights Report

NEW YORK, N.Y., October 13 — Whitney M. Young, Jr., Executive Director of the National Urban League, today strongly concurred with the findings of the October 12th report of the United States Commission on Civil Rights, The Federal Civil Rights Enforcement Effort, issued by the Reverend Theodore M. Hesburgh, chairman of the Commission.

Mr. Young especially agreed with the Commission's findings on the need for moral leadership and example at the highest levels of government. "Equivocation and electioneering do not guide the spirit or the letter of the law embodied in the last few years' civil rights legislation," he said.

Mr. Young noted that when the Urban League began its New Thrust program two years ago, "we realized that direct services provided to minorities were no substitute for efforts to attack major patterns of institutional racism within the whole community."

Lincoln Is First Black College to Meet Multi-Million Goal

Lincoln University is the first predominantly black University to meet a $3 million-plus challenge grant fund drive, Irene duPont May noted in his remarks at groundbreaking ceremonies for the new library held Saturday afternoon (Oct. 17).

May, a member of the board of the Longwood Foundation, said, "As a member of the Longwood Foundation I am proud to be a part of the project that resulted in the raising of over $2 million on the part of the University through the impetus provided by the Foundation grant of $1 million."

NEWS In A Nutshell

In a far-reaching study the U.S. Civil Rights Commission has come to the conclusion that there has been a breakdown in federal enforcement of the civil rights laws passed by Congress in the 1950's and 1960's.

Prof. Ernest R. May Dean of Harvard College announces the appointment of Assistant Dean Archie Epps, a negro, as Dean of Students. His main intellectual interest is Afro-American literature and history.

Iowa officials say that Clive DePatten, former Black Panther member from Des Moines, has never been paid federal funds for employment in poverty programs.

Black congressmen Augustus F. Hawkins (K D-Calif.); Charles C. Diggs (D-Mich.); Louis Stokes; Shirley Chisholm (D-NY); and Robert N.C. Nix (D-Penn) were among 21 House members who recently expressed their "outrage" over South Viet Nam's "continued insensitivity to the feeling of the families" of war prisoners.

Charge Turner With Assault

A Des Moines woman, wounded twice in the left shoulder, remained in critical condition Wednesday at Broadlawn Polk County Hospital while police continued searching for her husband who allegedly shot her in the basement of their home.

Police said Mrs. Lethia Turner, 28, of 1105 Fourteenth Place, was wounded by a small - caliber weapon Tuesday afternoon and is paralyzed from the chest down.

Officers said Mrs. Turner told them her husband Theodore Roosevelt Turner, 30, forced her to go to the basement about 3:30 p.m. and then shot her in the presence of the two of their children.

He was arraigned before Judge Harrison Wednesday and entered a plea of not guilty. The Preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 28th at 1:30 p.m. with bond set at $10,000.

In ceremonies conducted at the site, May said: "This is a most happy occasion for me both in my capacity as a trustee of this University and as a member of the Longwood Foundation — as a Lincoln trustee, I am proud to announce that this University is the first predominantly black University to meet a challenge grant of such magnitude."

First of Race Chosen from Many Groups Gets Strong Support

The highly favored Nolden Gentry won an overwhelming victory in a city wide school board election last Monday. The first black school board member received 12,418 votes at the polls.

Both the Democratic and the Republican parties backed Gentry.

The 33-year-old attorney who lives at 4303 Wakonda Parkway got more votes than the total vote of the other four candidates.

He defeated his strongest opponent, William Eisenlauer, of 2403 E. Aurora Ave., received 7,683 votes.

Harry Bert Wagoner, jr. of 3701 E. Thirty-eight Court received 1,866 votes, Warren B. Johnson of 3129 Lawnview Drive polled 836 votes, and Charles Meier of 214 E. Broad Ave. got 400 votes.

The Iowa University graduate took the northwest, west and the entire south sides of the city, and carried part of the east side. He swept 65 of the school district's 86 precincts.

The 23,203 voter turnout was regarded as a heavy one.

Monday's special election was held to fill a vacancy on the school board created when the Rev. L. Robert Keck resigned on Sept. 21 to take a new job in Columbus, Ohio. Gentry will serve the 11 months that remain in Keck's term.

The victory of Gentry ends a controversy that began when the school board refused to appoint a black, after an appointee refused the post, and a special election was called for.

This special election was the first in the city history to be held for a school board election and cost the taxpayers $12,000 to $13,000.

No Problem Working
Gentry said he feels there will be no problem in working with the four board members who had earlier refused to appoint him to the board.

"I've chatted with several of them in the last few days, and I really don't think there are going to be any problems," he said. "We're all interested in the same thing — the children."

Gentry plans to immediately resign his post as a member of the State Board of Public Instruction.

As the first black to serve on the school board he also becomes the first black to serve on any of the cities three major governing bodies — the Polk County Board of Supervisors, the City Council and the school board.

Gentry, former Assistant Attorney General is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, a college social fraternity, and Roosevelt Club Incorporated, a social organization.

He and his wife have two children.

He has been a consultant to the Model Cities Program in Nashville, Tenn., and to the fair housing councils of Denver and St. Louis.

Prosecution Rests In My Lai Trial

The government abruptly cut short its assault case Tuesday against S. Sgt. David Mitchell after three prosecution witnesses appeared at his court-martial and none was able to say whether the defendant shot a single Vietnamese civilian at My Lai.

The defense tentatively was scheduled to open its presentation today providing it could collect its witnesses on short notice.

Defense attorney Ossie Brown told newsmen: "I think everybody was caught by surprise." He said he would ask for a dismissal.

Human Relations Conference Oct. 24

A human relations conference designed to help educators do a more effective job working with and teaching about minority groups will be held Saturday, October 24. The day-long conference will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and will be held in Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Des Moines. The conference is sponsored by the Iowa State Education Association, a private professional organization of 37,000 Iowa teachers and school administrators.

Knowledgeable officials will discuss various aspects of the human relations problems that exist in Iowa. They include:

•Wesley Abbot, assistant professor of music at Luther College and U.S. Office of Education regional consultant for the Upward Bound project

•Cecil Reed, Equal Employment Opportunity Officer for the U.S. Department of Labor in Kansas City and a former Iowa legislator

•Jesse High, head of the Urban Education section of the State Department of Public Instruction

•State Representative John Tapscott, who has campaigned for improved conditions for migratory workers.

Another aspect of the conference will focus on ways Iowa teachers at each grade level are dealing with human relations problems in the classroom. Presentors for this section of the program include:

•Mrs. Jane Elliott, Rice-

•Floyd Shepard, Des Moines junior high teacher
•Charlene Montgomery, West Waterloo High School teacher.

Iowa school districts and local associations are being encouraged to send three-member teams to the Human Relations Conference according to Ronald Livermore, coordinator of ISEA Human Relations activities. Registration for the Conference is $10 for a three-member team or $4 for individuals. The registration fee covers the cost of a noon meal and packet of resource materials.

In addition to Livermore, the Conference planning committee included Jesse High and Dwayne Olsen, instructor in the Iowa State University College of Education.

*Department of Transportation elements would not be permitted to award a contract or grant agreement or allow a recipient to award a Federally assisted contract unless the employer is first determined to be responsible from an equal opportunity standpoint.

*Should employers holding certain agreements be found to be deficient in their equal opportunity performance, the Department of Transportation would issue a "Direction to Correct EEO Deficiencies" which would have to be followed by the employer. Otherwise, the standard enforcement procedures would be followed.

Civil Rights Regulation For Dept. of Transportation

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe has asked for public comment on a proposed, broad civil rights regulation that would cover the employment practices of contractors, subcontractors, or institutions receiving funds from the Department of Transportation.

"We have spent many months preparing the draft regulation that we feel is the most comprehensive and advanced contract compliance efforts ever to be initiated by a Federal agency," Secretary Volpe said.

"In extending coverage and refining equal opportunity obligations, we think we've come up with a proposal that will get results," the Secretary said.

All interested parties, including civil rights organizations, labor unions, and contractor associations are invited to comment on the proposed regulations.

The most important of the innovations proposed are:

*Coverage would be extended to the employment practices of grant recipients whether or not any of the contracts involved are for construction work. Presently, coverage only applies if the grant involves a Federally assisted construction contract and the recipient himself participates in the construction work. The proposal would also require compliance by suppliers who are either contractors or subcontractors with the recipient.

*The regulation would supplement the standard equal opportunity obligation in

De Patten Gets Six Month Sentence

Clive Des Patten, former Des Moines Black Panther, Wednesday was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $500 for contempt of court here.

He appeared in Municipal Court on a charge of disturbing the peace filed Monday evening by Iowa State University campus police.

Municipal Judge John McKinney imposed the sentence after DePatten refused to remove his hat in court and called McKinney a racist.

Judge McKinney said, "It was an on-going thing. DePatten refused to take his hat off. He called the court a fascist court and me a dishonorable judge and racist."

It may look like a quiet little park, but don't let its looks fool you. It's really Iowa's most modern drive-in bank. And since we plan to open our windows for business on October 26th, we thought we'd give you a chance right now to look us over and maybe—just maybe—get something for your interest, like a new Vega, Pinto or Duster.

We're very proud of our new drive-in for two reasons. First, it makes a nice change of pace, a restful oasis in the midst of the concrete canyons of downtown Des Moines. But perhaps more important, Bankers Trust New Drive-in offers our customers an easy access to quick and efficient banking a-la-car.

With an entrance and exit on both Sixth Avenue and Grand—and six service

We even speed-up pickup and delivery from any station with the "Pneu-Vista" automatic banking system. Every station is equipped with two way communications to give you open conversation with your teller.

Youth Revival Held at Skyline Baptist Church

There was a youth revival held at Skyline Baptist Church. Rev. G.M. Williams, pastor, is the former pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church. Speakers for the revival were teenage preachers. Lloyd Buchanan, 18 years old, James McClendon, 17 years old, and Hilton McClendon, 11 years old, who was Saturday nights speaker.

Sunday morning the speaker was Rev. Jake Reed. His subject was, "Who Can Be Saved". On Sunday evening Evangelist Zora Reed spoke on "Eagle Saints or Chickens". Mrs. Corrine Bowne of Miami, Florida was also the guest in the home of Rev. and Mrs. G.M. Williams.

around to provide an income. The agents know that taking out life insurance when you're young and healthy will cost you less than if you wait. A small policy enabling you to add to its face value when you're financially able, will help you plan for your family's security.

Health insurance may be either group or individual coverage. Group coverage is usually standardized in amount and duration of benefits. Individual coverage can be tailored more specifically to your family's present health care needs and changed as these needs change.

Whether it is your life or health insurance, it's a good idea to review your policies often with your family and with your insurance agent.

A pessimist is a guy who expects to find bad news in a fortune cookie.

It usually takes five years for a tree to produce nuts, but this isn't necessarily true of a family tree.

"I know I serve well-balanced meals," said the housewife. "One day my husband complains, and the next day my kids complain."

MODERN LIVING THE CAREFREE WAY BY BETSY PARKES

In the days when Bob Hope first sang, "Thanks for the Memories," few people had any idea that one day they might be directing such thanks to a machine.

The day has come. If you think of something at night but don't want to get up and turn on the lights to write it down, you no longer have to struggle to remember it the next morning.

Now there's a way to avoid such frustration—with a cassette recorder. If you keep one on hand at all times—at the office, around the home, in the classroom, even in the car—your important thoughts will fall into place at the push of a button.

With the portability made possible by miniaturization of electronic components, carrying today's cassette models is no problem. Many models are compact and light enough to fit in a purse or brief case; others can be slung over a shoulder.

Among those who find the cassette recorder extremely handy and time-saving are businessmen and women who must utilize their time to the fullest, say executives at Arvin Industries, Inc., a leading producer. At meetings, on client calls, and driving to and from important appointments, they use their recorders to make notes, record and/or review memos, and in general "get organized."

Students, too, find many uses for cassette recorders.

Here's a find that will help you to be kind to your hair—Kindness Heat Activated Conditioner by Clairol. Spray the protein mist on each part as you roll up your hair in heated rollers. Those studying foreign languages record practice sessions and play them back to hear pronunciation and phrasing in detail. Speech and drama students critique their performances before going into a classroom situation. And, of course, recorders are used to tape class lectures and to record important points of a course during the term for review before examination.

Around the home the whole family finds cassette recorders useful; to keep on the night stand to record those brilliant ideas that sometimes strike at night; to compile grocery lists, as well as lists of chores to be done by various family members; or just to record the latest sounds from the radio to be played back later.

The modern cassette recorder has come into its own. Every day new uses are discovered—at the office, at home, and at school. It truly is an appliance for the entire family.

NAACP Charges Nixon Administration In School Bias

The Nixon administration was charged Monday with widespread and willful failure to enforce federal law requiring nondiscrimination in the use of federal education funds in a suit filed by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund.

This is the first legal follow-up to last week's report by the U.S. Civil Rights Commission citing government-wide failure to enforce federal nondiscriminatory pledges.

The defense fund's suit filed in U.S. District Court here, is in behalf of 25 public, elementary, secondary and college students in Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Virginia and Arkansas. Defendants are Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), and his civil rights chief, J. Stanley Pottinger.

HEW was charged with "general calculated default" to enforce prohibitions against federal aid to schools that continue to discriminate since 1964, when the law was enacted.

Specifically, the defense fund accused HEW of:

Complete inaction against racial discrimination in Southern colleges and universities.

Abrogation of its enforcement responsibilities in districts under court order to desegregate.

A hands-off attitude toward state departments of education that approve federal outlays for discriminatory purposes. It cited the purchase of portable classrooms to create an allegedly segregated educational park in Humphreys County, Mississippi.

Failure to terminate aid to most of the 99 Southern districts that have been accused at some time of failing to carry out HEW-approved desegregation plans.

Allowing aid to flow to noncomplying districts for up to two years after administrative enforcement proceedings were begun.

Ignoring accelerated time-tables for stiffened desegregation requirements decreed by the Supreme Court.

Illustrated History of Black Americans

Long slighted by the nation's historians, the stirring drama of black Americans and their role in the country's development has awaited a handsomely pictorial presentation that is both concise and authoritative. In An Illustrated History of Black Americans a distinguished historian, Dr. John Hope Franklin, cuts through centuries of misunderstanding to recount the history of America's blacks from the earliest raids of the slave raiders on the ancient kingdoms of Africa to the epic events of the 1950s and 1960s. Augmenting his account are scores of superb photographs and engravings selected by the Editors of TIME-LIFE BOOKS.

Dr. Franklin details the sophistication attained by African agrarian civilizations. His text, together with accounts from slave diaries and contemporary illustrations, provides grim documentation of the life into which the blacks were plunged on arriving in the New World—if they survived the ordeal. Life for free Negroes in the North was little better.

Civil War

In the Civil War and its aftermath the promise of freedom and equality faded swiftly. For most of the war, black soldiers earned six dollars less a month than their white counterparts. As Reconstruction ended, burning crosses, voting restrictions and Jim Crow laws proved bitter thanks for Negroes who had helped preserve the Union.

Poor diet can often be the cause of poor health. Avoid candy, cake, fatty meats, crunchy snacks, and convenience foods. For between meal hunger, eat fruits and vegetables.

November 2nd Solidarity Day to Culminate in Major Convention

New York, October 15:—The National Black Solidarity Day Committee announced plans for the Solidarity Convention, to be held on the evening of Black Solidarity Day, Monday, November 2, at the Manhattan Center, 311 West 34th St., at 7 p.m.

Representatives from Black organizations and a number of artists, scholars, and political leaders engaged in all aspects of the struggle for liberation have been invited to attend and participate.

The Convention will be held as the culminating event of a wide number of activities scheduled by Blacks throughout New York City and other major cities, including Cleveland, Rochester, Los Angeles, Boston and Cairo, Illinois. On Solidarity Day, Blacks have been urged to participate in a general strike which includes staying home from work, and refraining from buying or traveling. Many Black groups will hold informal seminars, while hundreds of Blacks have pledged to devote a few minutes during the day to meditation on their role in the Liberation Movement.

A position paper printed by the National Black Solidarity Day Committee states in part, "The Black community is now even more conscious of the potential threat of racial genocide in the wake of a series of racist murders of students and citizens this spring, and the increasingly anti-Black rhetoric of the police, courts, governmental agencies and elected officials. It is our belief that to continue to suffer silently and to work for half-measures is suicidal."

The major goal of the Convention will include the formation of a broad-based coalition among Black organizations and individuals from throughout the country. Specific objectives include the adoption of a manifesto declaring the position of the Black community on such issues as: genocide; political repression; a national strike; people's Congress and Constitution; and armed defense against racist attack. The ratification of the Black Declaration of Independence will also take place.

Q. What do you think of a man's remaining seated on a crowded bus when there are women standing?

A. While this is generally condoned these days, I still say let your conscience guide you. However, if you can remain glued comfortably to your seat while an elderly or infirm woman, or one carrying a baby in her arms is standing, your conscience is in need of an overhauling.

Q. Is it proper to place the elbows on the table while drinking from a cup, holding it with the fingers of both hands?

A. This is not considered the best of manners.

Q. At a small, informal wedding, is it all right for the bride and groom to walk down the aisle together?

A. Yes, if the wedding is small and the bride has no near male relative to walk with her.

Q. Does a man or woman today always ask permission to smoke when in a group?

A. Under certain conditions, yes. If no one else in the group is smoking, ask permission. Obviously, if some of the others present are already smoking, it is not necessary to ask.

Q. Is it proper to use the phrase "and family" when addressing a wedding invitation to a household with several teen-aged members?

A. No. Adults other than married couples should receive separate invitations, including teen-agers of say seventeen or older.

Q. When lettuce, parsley, or watercress are placed around an item of food to garnish it, may this properly be eaten?

A. If this is a part of your individual serving, and you wish to eat it, you have a perfect right to do so.

Q. Should individual dishes be provided each guest for the various vegetables served at a dinner at home?

A. No; this is done only in restaurants.

Q. I have on occasion noted some women wearing rings over their gloved fingers. Is this correct?

A. Indeed not.

CONSUMER OPINION

INSIDE STORY ON DETERGENTS

Household detergents consist mainly of two basic ingredients, surfactants and phosphates.

Surfactants help the water to penetrate the clothing. Phosphates emulsify oily soil, keep dirt particles in suspension so they don't stick to the clothing when you rinse, and contribute materially to the reduction of germ levels on clothes.

Other detergent ingredients include suds control agents, silicates, brighteners, perfumes, bleaches and borax.

Why do detergents differ in price? Because the cost of the ingredients differs. The most popular brands, in order to protect their popularity, tend to use the most expensive ingredients. Other brands use less costly things.

Instead of phosphates, for instance, you can make a detergent with combinations of citric acid and soda ash or salt cake (sodium sulfate). These substitutes don't do nearly as good a job, but they may cost less, so manufacturers—eager to please all segments of the public—make the lower priced detergents for people who prefer them.

To make extra sales of his substitute product, at least one manufacturer spread the charge (not really true) that phosphates cause pollution—and then printed on his package that the detergent with a low-cost substitute for phosphates was "phosphate free!"

No matter what kind of detergent you buy, don't assume that the bigger the box, the less you pay per pound. It doesn't always work that way. Two smaller boxes may cost less than one big box with twice as much in it. So compare before you choose.

Treat yourself to some time-saving kindness. Make aprons and kitchen tablecloths out of terry cloth. Easy to wash and no ironing.

The best place for cookies is in the cupboard—especially when a dieting friend stops by. Just watch approvingly as the weightwatcher watches her weight.

The electric mixer is a must for every homemaker. It can do many, many jobs for you—mix a cake, beat egg whites for meringue, whip cream, stir, blend, etc.

Here are a couple of tips to help you use your mixer more efficiently:

1. Be specially familiar with the instruction booklet—it doesn't hurt to review it from time to time.
2. Read your recipe. Assemble the utensils and measure ingredients before you start.
3. Set out room temperature ingredients an hour before mixing.
4. Use a rubber spatula to guide the mixture into the beaters.
5. Clean after each use...and most importantly...keep it handy.

School Integration Controversy Differ

In Pasadena, Calif. and Detroit, Mich., controversies are flaring concerning the integration of schools. However the emphasis of the controversies differ.

In Pasadena three school board members ousted was sought in a recall election because they backed the court ordered racial integration of the city schools. Where as in Detroit the U.S. Court of Appeals struck down a vital section of a Michigan anti-school desegregation statute and the move was hailed.

In a recall election the Pasadena school board members kept their seats by a narrow margin. The final vote count came one month to the day after the schools were integrated under a Jan. 20 ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real.

The Michigan action was hailed there by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and its Detroit Branch which filed the action to invalidate the law.

The margins in the Pasadena election were narrow. Of about 45,000 votes cast, Albert C. Lowe, Jr. retained his seat by 1,023 votes, LaVerne LaMotte by 589 votes, and Dr. Joseph Engholm by 1,612 votes.

At a joint news conference in Detroit, Oct. 15, NAACP General Counsel Nathaniel R. Jones and Tom Turner, president of the Detroit Branch, called the ruling a "vindication" of the four liberal members of the school board who developed a comprehensive and effective school desegregation plan which the Michigan Legislature sought to nullify.

Ipalco Announces Tight Gas Supplies

Iowa Power notified the Iowa State Commerce Commission today that with prospect of future tight gas supplies, the company will not be able to provide firm, year-round gas service to new or expanding large commercial and industrial customers that have a peak-day requirement of over 500 Ccf, monthly use of over 10,000 Ccf or a connected load of over 3.3 million Btu per hour. These customers will be able to receive interruptible gas service if they desire.

This policy does not affect any present customer nor any new residential or small commercial or industrial firm whose requirements are less than those mentioned above. These customers will receive firm gas service. The average home has a peak demand of 17 Ccf per day and uses gas at a rate of about 150,000 Btu per hour.

Black Colleges Answer U.S.

The United Negro College Fund, which has complained about the lack of Federal Funds for Black colleges, has just commented on recent Federal announcements about government money that has been earmarked for these colleges.

Dr. Herman H. Long, President of the United Negro college Fund, stated that these allocations are not new or additional funds, and moreover, that the sum is relatively small, while administrative procedures required for use of these funds has seriously limited access to them.

According to UNCF, $29 million of Federal money is available, the bulk of which ($20 million) is for construction loans to be matched by a minimum of 30% to be furnished by the colleges.

The rest is for work-study programs for low income students, improvements of administrative and educational.

Minorities Get Share of Vets R.E. Business

A larger share of Veterans Administration real estate business is going to minority groups, according to agency-wide statistics for fiscal year 1970.

Sales commissions paid minority real estate brokers and fees to minority businessmen on maintenance and repair contracts more than doubled in the 1970 fiscal year over fiscal year 1969.

Minority sales brokers received $1.5 million in commissions during fiscal year 1970, compared to $625,000 the previous fiscal year.

Other figures in VA's loan guaranty operations show minority firms and individuals with maintenance and repair contracts received $1,185,000 in fiscal year 1970. The previous fiscal year, they received $545,000.

Fees paid minority management brokers showed a slight increase -- from $160,385 in fiscal year 1969, to $163,800 last fiscal year.

Minority appraisers earned slightly less in fiscal year 1970 -- $175,000, compared to $183,374 the previous fiscal year.

Statistics on sales, management, appraisals and maintenance and repairs in loan guaranty operations revealed that the number of participating minority businessmen rose from 595 in fiscal year 1969, to 902 in fiscal year 1970.

In both fiscal years, Negro firms and individuals accounted for 83 per cent of all minority participation in VA loan guaranty operations.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST PYORRHEA

Beyond the age of 35, the average American loses over twice as many teeth to gum disease as to decay.

To this jolting statistic of the American Dental Association, the World Health Organization adds that in the United States, "almost the entire adult population" is affected in some degree by periodontal (gum) disease—commonly called "pyorrhea."

One of the insidious things about such disorders is that they are seldom painful in the early stages and are therefore easily overlooked or neglected. The first hint of pyorrhea is usually inflamed or bleeding gums. Later, the teeth may become loose in their sockets, making normal chewing almost impossible. Finally, even without any defect in the teeth themselves, they may fall out one by one.

The causes of periodontal disease are complicated and not fully understood even today. Most recently, research workers have discovered that certain types of gum disease can be transmitted from one hamster to another. This suggests that pyorrhea may be spread by an external micro-organism—possibly through contaminated silverware or dishes.

One sensible precaution is to guard your family against germs the way any safe restaurant protects its patrons: by washing dishes (preferably in an automatic machine) in very hot water spiked with a high-phosphate detergent. A high concentration of phosphate is important. The phosphate component, found in brand-name detergents, contributes materially to cutting down germ levels, thus reducing the possibility of cross-infection.

For the same reason, if your date's gums look suspiciously red, it might be best to settle for a good-night handshake. It's better to miss a kiss than risk a loose tooth.

In general, regular visits to your family doctor or dentist will help to head off pyorrhea or at least to reduce the damage. For instance, one established contributing factor—a vitamin C deficiency—can be corrected by having your physician recommend a vitamin supplement or a vitamin-rich diet.

Your dentist is the man to see about rectifying other conditions known to be linked to gum disease. One of these is the formation of tartar, which appears to provide a haven for bacteria injurious to the gums. Similarly, irritations which can blossom into pyorrhea may be caused by teeth that do not meet properly, are badly placed or bite against the gums. A faulty filling also can be a culprit. All of these conditions can be remedied by time well-spent in the dentist's chair.

However, one of the most effective and simplest preventives is proper, do-it-yourself tooth-brushing. That's because pyorrhea can be triggered or aggravated by food particles lodged between the teeth or around the gum line. For the best results, the World Health Organization lists these pointers:

- Brush regularly with a motion that reaches into as many crevices as possible and stimulates the gums without damaging them.
- Use a simple toothbrush instead of a fancy one.
- Massage the gums with a rubber stimulator to help keep them healthy.
- Brush for at least three minutes.
- Rinse the mouth after brushing to wash out loose food particles that might otherwise settle back into tooth crevices.

A study of English school children in their early teens showed that there was 50 per cent less gum disease among those who brushed their teeth regularly than among the irregular brushers.

And here's a tip for the sweet-toothed: Munching an apple at the end of a meal will help to clean the teeth, exercise the gums and control most forms of gum disease before it gets out of hand.

Join! Support the Des Moines Branch NAACP

The Des Moines Branch NAACP has been a leader in maintaining and securing the civil rights of Negroes in Iowa which includes the elimination of discrimination in public accommodations, in equal education, in job discrimination, in housing to a great extent, and other injustices.

Other reasons why you should join.

• Negro Americans want to enter the mainstream of American life; they are not a colony, but American citizens rooted in America.

• We have suffered too many heartaches and shed too many tears and too much blood in fighting the evil of racial segregation to return to the dispiriting confines of its demeaning prison. No matter how impassioned the plea or how beguiling the persuasion, we cannot go back.

• Racial separatism is but a comforting delusion for those who impose it. It is a hell in a thousand different ways for those upon whom it is imposed.

• It will be disastrous if we teach a false distinction and a false superiority. We do not correct white racism by erecting black racism.

• Those people who, for their own purposes, are urging Negroes to refuse to vote could be asking black people to participate in their own funeral.

• The NAACP does not exclude white Americans. The welcome mat, as far as we are concerned, is not being withdrawn. Unlike certain other groups, we are not asking them for their money and then rejecting their presence, their experience and their talents.

• Freedom is freedom, and it is neither white nor black. A freedom fighter may be an Indian aristocrat, a white Rode Islander, a black Alabama sharecropper or a man or woman of any color, status, or nationality. The current force-feeding of the idea that freedom is black and that all other colors—particularly white—are anti-freedom, is sheer nonsense.

• Despite the noise from extremist quarters, the present trend is toward the integration which the professional blacks profess to despise.

• We want these young people with us. We need them, their brains, their skills and their belief in themselves. They belong to us and we to them. LINE'S Guest Writer James Bethel

The past few weeks has been a period of mixed feelings in our city. An atmosphere of wary hopefulness, a talk-about-it, think-about-it, keep-your-fingers-crossed-on-it-time. This period embraced exactly, the moment Nolden Gentry's name was mentioned as a candidate for the vacancy on the School Board, created by Rev. Keck's resignation, until a sufficient number of precinct voting reports had all but erased any doubt as to the outcome of the election.

Therein lies a number of lessons for all the city to observe — white and black citizens alike. It wasn't necessary and perhaps not even possible to pull and drag Des Moines "screaming and kicking into the 20th century". The voting booth lever was a much easier pull. Maybe our white brothers had a little more fear and guilt edging them along this time, but they also obviously had undergone a heartfelt change since the last time Mr. Gentry tried for the same post. There is especially a lesson in this successful example of democracy in action for our black brothers who insist that the "system" won't work. Sometimes it takes a while, but it does work. And when it does, the total community can feel proud and good, and take a deep, fearless, satisfying breath because such an accomplishment represents one more firm footstep taken by the people collectively; one more thing done right, in the direction of a truly democratic and peaceful community.

The lessons were there and I hope the Des Moines Police Department will take notice. No amount of store-front community relations projects, mobile recruiting vans, or community-based foot patrols will have the designed impact in troubled areas of this city, as much as vacancies in the Police Department resulting from long overdue promotions of its three black officers to deserved higher rank than they now hold. This kind of action speaks louder than any other kind.

And this is not to say in any way that the election of Mr. Gentry will be the God-sent panacea for the Des Moines School Board problems. All hell might still break loose anytime in the trouble areas because Mr. Gentry's election does not give the crowded Ghetto schools more room, better teachers, or a more racially balanced population. His successful bid is simply a step in the right direction. That's the course and lesson for the Des Moines Police Department — do the right thing.

And so, out of the dust of uncertainty on the part of the School Board to exercise its prerogatives, the City of Des Moines accepted the responsibility, has done the right thing, and has come off looking good to most of its citizens. I personally feel that the most "qualified" man was elected, although I'm sure that anyone of the other gentlemen would have measured up to the responsibility had they been chosen.

As the atmosphere of disquieting and wary hopefulness fades away, the comfortable feeling taking its place is probably best expressed in the words of the late oft-quoted American author and editor, Christian Bovee, "There is a great beauty in going through life without anxiety or fear. Half our fears are baseless and the other half discreditable". How true. Congratulations Des Moines and Mr. Gentry.

LOCAL TRAVEL AGENCIES BOOK FISHING WEEKENDS

The objective in fishing, a sage once observed, is not angling but catching.

To help fishing fans catch their share of fun and sun, local travel agents have a new angle: Autumn Weekender vacations to tropical waters.

Low, off season rates apply to the special fishing packages — four days and three nights in Florida, the Bahamas or the Caribbean.

These areas offer outstanding reef and deep sea fishing for more than 600 varieties of game fish.

Charter boats, providing bait and tackle, are included in a number of special fishing package tours such as the Autumn Weekender series offered by Eastern Airlines.

Priced from $37.50 plus air fare per person, many of the weekends include first class hotel accommodations, meals, transfers from the airport and either reef or drift fishing aboard private party boats.

Special low-cost air fares are in effect until Dec. 15.

DES MOINES VOTERS
PRACTICE EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

The election of Nolden Gentry to the Des Moines school board was a heart warming experience for those citizens who long have said and believed that we were behind including recognition to the Negro group in places of policy making.

The campaign offered an opportunity for all classes, who believed that the majority of the present board failed to exercise leadership by dodging the appointment of a Negro, to the board and spending several thousand dollars unreasonably in an attempt to cover up their blunders.

In Gentry, the voters had a candidate who is well qualified for the post and displays a level headed attitude toward our difficult urban problems.

Of course, the election of Gentry will not cause an about face on anything in particular for what the board does must be for the benefit of the whole community. Des Moines does have a good school system. But his very presence will present an awareness that proposals can be dealt with in the light of conditions in some areas that need more attention, that need more effort to bring disadvantaged area schools, whether among black or white, closer to the better schools in newer neighborhoods.

Such towns as Dallas, Texas and Atlantic, Ga. have had Negro members on their school boards for years, but until now a golden opportunity, such as this year, had never occurred. It did and the citizens of Des Moines took advantage of it. They demonstrated that, after all, we have a pretty good community in which to live.

IMPROVEMENT OVER
BEING ALONE

"Homecoming is not what it was when I was at Iowa University" said a former student Saturday. "In the good old days, we gathered here and there after the game, met everybody at the dance and went home far in the night."

But also in those days, the remainder of the time found the same party in poor housing, often cold, often without heat and certainly inadequate food unless he happened to work in a sorority house of some of the sorority girls. His living and study quarters were generally poor.

But today things are different. Negro students can and do live in high rise apartments with all the comforts such as air conditioning, steam heat, telephones, televisions, sanitary conditions, well lighted rooms, all conducive to modern living while securing an education, much of which is paid for by the parents, by scholarships won not only as athletes but also that of foundations and other avenues provided to help Negro students.

And now that their living quarters are scattered over many areas, so are their social activities.

This is as it should be for as these students leave school whether as doctors, lawyers, teachers, scientists or skilled employees or business executives, they must in most instances, look for a place where the competition is not just among Negroes, but where the opportunity lies. And qualifying is a non-segregated avenue to security.

POLITICS MAKE
STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

When Mayor Lindsay of New York ran for Mayor the first time, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller loaned his campaign fund $400,000. At the time, Lindsay said he hoped that Rockefeller would not ask that it be paid back.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

QUESTION: I do household work for several people. Do they need to make social security reports? What's the rule?

ANSWER: Any employer who pays you $50 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter for work in his home must report your wages for social security. He would withhold your part of the tax and send the entire amount, both your share and his, to Internal Revenue during the month following the end of each calendar quarter.

QUESTION: I work as a domestic in different homes. I have been told that I have to pay self-employment tax on my earnings since I work in more than one home. Is this correct?

ANSWER: If you earn at least $50 cash wages in a three-month calendar quarter from one employer, that person is responsible for the payment of your social security taxes. (The employer withholds 50% of the tax from your wages and pays for the other 50%.)

Question: A neighbor told me that if I receive reduced retirement benefits my monthly benefit would increase to the full amount at age 65. Is this correct?

ANSWER: No, it isn't correct. If you receive monthly retirement benefits at a reduced rate, the monthly benefit will always be reduced. This reduction will be determined by the exact number of months you receive a benefit before age 65. The law does provide an adjustment in the reduced rate for any month you do not receive a full reduced benefit. This adjustment is performed after the year you are 65.

QUESTION: As a young father of two small children, both under 5, what is the value of social security to me? For years I have had average earnings of $450 a month. What would be payable in the event of my death?

ANSWER: The widow and children could receive survivors benefits of $354 each month. By the time the oldest child is 18, the family might have received $55,000. The children could receive payments after age 18, until age 22, if they stay in school. In addition, the widow could receive monthly benefits again when she reaches age 60.

A million is more than many people realize. If you started with a million dollars, went on a shopping spree, and spent $300 every hour, eight hours a day, six days a week, at the end of a whole year you'd still have $251,200 left!

With Allen Ashby

As soon as we hit town Sunday morning, people were asking us if we thought Iowa would win five games now. There is a slight chance. If they can win two road games, they figure to win both of their remaining home battles. That would do it. We have given them a chance against both Minnesota and Michigan State all along. They should win at least one of them.

Which one? Don't know. As we sat there and watched Iowa and Purdue slug it out in the first half, most of the experts who were sitting around us agreed that perhaps one touchdown would decide the game. Actually, there was only one Purdue TD that was really groundout. The other two were products of errors. That big Boilermaker back, Armstrong, caught the whole Iowa defense going to the left as if to cut off a sweep. He simply broke to the right, and had nobody to stop him. On that intercepted pass, the other guy cut back behind both defenders who had the angle on him. Our gang of experts disagreed with the Hawkeye strategy, when, on fourth and less than a yard, they elected to kick. Do you know, this Mitchell of Iowa is capable of breaking anybody's ball game wide open, and he may do just that before the season ends. And, just for the record. Out of that whole crowd of over fifty six thousand people a bumblebee had to pick me to sting. The Hawks were not having all of the difficulties.

We had hoped Iowa State would somehow get by Kansas State, but the Wildcats wouldn't let them score, and if you don't score, you don't win football games. But we still give that gang two or three more wins for the season. The Iowa State defense seems to play well enough but the offense just can't seem to get any points.

Drake got back on the winning trail, and we would guess everybody is glad. They can still go for a seven and three mark. The Bulldogs could maybe do all right in Missouri Valley competition and will likely do so when they start playing in the conference.

Here at home, Dowling seems to have just about all of the city teams sacked up. Our Dowling watcher growls that they have to get by Heelan of Sioux City and Lincoln. Do you know, we think he really wants his alma mater to drop these two games so he can look good as a predictor. This was the first time in a while that East really laid one on Roosevelt. They acted like they really wanted this one, and went after it. North got too far behind Hoover and couldn't quite catch up. At that, they might have gained a tie if a couple of boys hadn't been kicked out of the game for taking to fists. In these hard fought games tempers will flare, and high school kids are no exception, no matter how much you talk sportsmanship. One boy from each side got put out, but North High's guy happened to be their hardest runner in close yard situations. Lincoln played with one eye on the Dowling game. The Rainsplitters always play their best game against the Maroons, and this year should be no exception. You bet our Dowling watcher will

Health for All

A TOTTERING
BALANCE

Without oxygen in the air, man cannot survive for six minutes.

But how long will earth's supply of oxygen hold out? Scientists and citizens are now pondering this question. And worrying about the answer.

Hard as it is for the human mind to comprehend, the composition of the earth's atmosphere remained constant for 300 million years. Until the 20th century. Then the pace of pollution skyrocketed. The delicate balance of gases in the air is now tottering dangerously.

Oxygen exists in our atmosphere only because green plants put it there. And 70 percent of the free oxygen in the air is produced by green plants in the ocean called plankton.

Now this plantlife is threatened by oil spills and offshore drilling, among other hazards. Two years ago, for instance, 36 million gallons of crude oil spilled from a tanker off the coast of England. Within three days the chocolate-colored sludge covered over 100 square miles.

An entire world is also alarmed about the effects of underwater nuclear tests. The Baltic Sea is being spoiled by tons of industrial waste. Africans have expressed their outrage to a U.N. committee about underwater detonation in oil exploration on the continental shelf. Pollution is everywhere.

Pollution of the ocean is destroying the fragile plantlife there that makes life possible for man. And on land, man, animals, furnaces, car, and factories are spewing out carbon dioxides and monoxides. The atmosphere of the planet is shifting drastically.

Find out more about the pollution of our atmosphere and what you can do to help prevent it. See your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association for the facts. It's a matter of life and breath.

Activities of the Iowa
Civil Rights Commission

We are often asked the question: What is the difference between the Civil Rights Commission and the Human Rights Commission? That factual answer is that human rights and civil rights are one and the same.

In discrimination, we are talking about one man mistreating another man. So, in fact, we are saying discrimination results because of man's inhumanity to man.

The historical view of this is reflected in the crucifixion. View with me, if you can, a man walking from village to village teaching that one should love his neighbor.

Some called him the healer, the prophet, the son of God, the teacher, and others called him Jesus. He was followed by the multitudes as he went about teaching.

Then on one fateful day he was tried, convicted and placed upon a cross. They tell me that on that terrible day the skys were covered in gray clouds, that the air was damp with moisture as though weeping. As he hung on the cross, people gathered around, some kneeling before the cross and wept. Those who understood his teaching cried out loud. Before his last breath, he raised his head to heaven and as he spoke, the clouds parted and the blue sky smiled down upon him. The words he imparted were:

be at that game.

The other day we noticed a bunch of boys fooling around trying to dropkick a football. We had just about forgotten about that old art until then. Then a fellow asked why it wasn't tried often now. We scratched our head and said that a dropkick often didn't reach its height until after it passed the scrimmage line, and today, with these tall line-man, that would be too late. Then, the ball is harder to kick than that slightly round one we used to handle.

Having given our sage opinion, we walked away hoping we were right. Then we reflected, that right or wrong, we had seen two of the longest dropkicks in football history back in our high school days. Drake was playing Coe College. There was a little short fellow named Jack Pence in the Coe backfield. Well, this Pence guy booted one for just about fifty yards first. Then, just to show he meant business, he kicked one fifty-nine yards from the line of scrimmage. If the goal posts had been ten yards back as they are today, the ball would have cleared them, for it lit on the bank at the end of the end zone. And Coe won the game 12 to 7.

"October"

Beautiful and awesome October, in your magic paradise.
Giving the world one month of thrills.
O God! Much obliged.

You colored some of the leaves quite yellow, and some are a reddish brown.
They are so grateful with a swaying delight.
They just flutter down to the ground.

White clouds drift over a light blue sky.
Whee! The sun is a brilliant ball.
I pause to listen; what is that noise?
Gosh, the squirrels are having a brawl.

Autumn birds chirp so sweetly, while the fish are running a race.
The bullfrog family sit on the side of the pond;
'Cause pa is singing bass.

Luscious fruits and vegetables of the harvest, will bless towns and cities tables.
The moon, the witch on her old broomstick, will bring back age old fables.
So is it any wonder, October, that God controls me and you?
Because I'd be just so selfish,
And keep you the whole year through.

The IOWA BYSTANDER has made arrangements with the Des Moines office of the Social Security Administration to answer questions for our readers about social security and Medicare. Send your questions to Field Representative, Room 293 Federal Building, 210 Walnut Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50309.

QUESTION: When my wife died, I got a lump-sum payment. Must this money be used for burial expenses only?

ANSWER: No. You can use the check for any purpose. The lump-sum payment—equal to three times the deceased worker's retirement benefit or a maximum of $255—must be used for burial expenses only if there is no surviving husband or wife. Then, the payment goes to the person paying the burial expenses. If the expenses were not paid, the lump sum can be paid directly to the funeral home.

QUESTION: I am self-employed, earning $3000 this year. I am 68 years old. Must I file an annual report with social security? I have already told social security that I will earn $3000.

ANSWER: Yes, you must file an annual report. Be prepared to tell us in what months you did not spend more than 45 hours in your business, and exactly what you did in connection with the business activities in those months in which your total hours are 45 hours or less. This refers to any activity—physical work, management, buying selling, or whatever may be involved.

The BLACK
Frontier

A Historical Series On TV

Probably Blackmen first set foot in the New World in 1502, coming with Spanish soldier-explorers. In fact, Blackmen participated in exploration and occupation of nearly all of the Southwestern United States as well as Central America. They were with both Balboa and Cortez. Of all the Blacks who accompanied explorers no one played as conspicuous a role as Estevan, an Arabian Blackman from Azamor, Morocco.

Estevan and three Spanish officers were the sole survivors of a disastrous expedition to Florida in 1527. After being held captive by Indians for seven years, they were able to make their escape. The small party wandered along the Gulf Coast of Texas, turning into the central wilderness before eventually heading south to Mexico City.

As Estevan traveled among the Indians he became a legend. His reputation spread, and his knowledge of sign language was responsible for his being chosen to guide an expedition which led to the discovery and mapping of New Mexico, and ultimately to his death at the hands of the Zuni Pueblos.
