NAACP Backbone of Civil Rights

BY CAROLINE
POKRZYWINSKI

The NAACP is the organization that stands by and keeps the store," said Roy Wilkins, National executive director, at the Iowa State Conference of NAACP Branches' Freedom Fund Banquet, Saturday night, at Hotel Savery.

While others are dreaming and theorizing, the NAACP is looking after the economic well-being of our communities, said Wilkins.

"While others are just talking the NAACP is feeding people in Alabama and Mississippi," he added.

Backbone

The NAACP is the backbone of the Civil Rights Movement. They were there early in the fight. Civil rights was already an issue in 1915 when the Des Moines branch of the NAACP was founded. Civil rights didn't suddenly become an issue in 1954.

Grass Roots

"All over this country we tend the store," Wilkins said. For example, the NAACP is working at the grass roots level and setting up day care centers in Alabama and Mississippi. They are helping Senator Gore in Shelby county. The NAACP helps the Republicans and Democrats by registering voters. The NAACP has a branch in Hobbs, New Mexico that is concerned with discrimination against Indians.

Theme of Society

"The NAACP is interested in all men, it is the National Association of Advancement of All people," said Wilkins.

He said that everyone should work for the theme of "one society," this means integration. "The country cannot run on separate compartments," he said.

Wilkins spoke out against violence, saying that this procedure just brought short term gains.

Organizations

Wilkins congratulated Gov. Ray on the part he plays in the NAACP. "A governor is important in selling the idea of the NAACP," Wilkins said.

The NAACP is one of the few organizations where people of all races can come together and work for the common good.

The Des Moines and Sioux City branches of the NAACP have been around for a long time, "they illustrate the organizations record of standing behind people and being an active organization," said Wilkins.

Press Conference

In a press conference, prior to the banquet, Wilkins made some remarks on pressing racial problems.

"There is no excuse for a town like Des Moines, Rochester, Madison, or Detroit to have segregated schools. Des Moines, specifically, ought not to have schools with 80 or 90% Negro enrollment. Everyone should get a fair shake," Wilkins said.

Wilkins said that the Nixon administration was anti-Negro, specially, in the area, of school desegregation.

Wilkins labeled Nixon's integration policies, as "on again, off again."

The one bright spot in the Nixon administration, according to Wilkins, is the welfare program. "This is the first time, in the history of our country, that at least 100,000 and perhaps Welfare, according to Wilkins is the only pro-Negro policy in this administration. Wilkins said that the rest of Nixon's policies were "anti-Negro."

Stop Racism

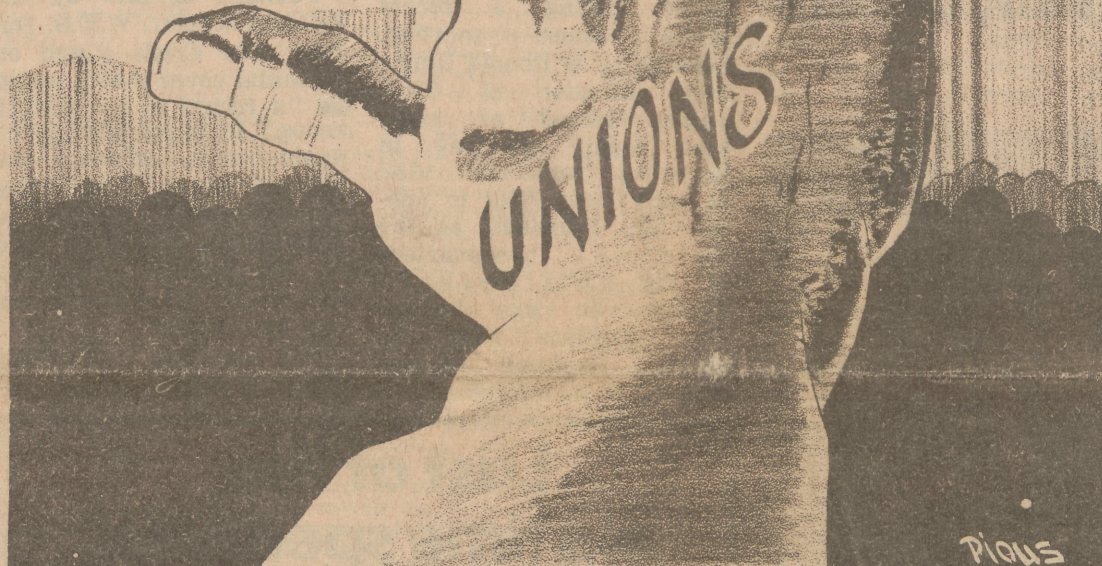

Wilkins said that the administration should step up its enforcement of existing laws, and stop its practice of racism in housing and employment.

"The Negro middle class are more aware and interested in civil rights issues than ever before," Wilkins added.

Seal Drive Underway

Announcement of the 44th annual Freedom Seals campaign of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was made here this week by Roy Wilkins, the Association's Executive Director. A goal of $200,000 has been set for this campaign. As she has since 1953, Miss Lena Horne is serving as chairman of this annual Christmastide fund-raising effort. And for the 18th straight year Miss Bobbie Branche of the Association's National Office staff is director of the campaign.

In a letter to NAACP supporters, Miss Horne recalled the historic role of the NAACP as a defender of the rights and liberties of Negroes. "From one end of the country to the other," she said, "black people turn to the NAACP automatically for help when they are in trouble. They take it for granted that the NAACP will be there. It is assumed that if civil rights laws are needed, the NAACP will be leading the fight for them. If an urban renewal plan threatens the homes and chances of the poor and the Negroes, it is the NAACP which wages the campaign against it. . . If people are going hungry in Mississippi or Alabama, it is the NAACP which raises money and disburses it to poor families so that they can buy the Federal food stamps they need." And, she concluded: "Please make your holiday gift as big as you can so that this essential work can go on."

TV SET TAKEN

A color television set worth $400 was stolen from the Tiny Tot Nursery, a day care center for children at 1401 Forest Ave., Monday night, police said.

Burglars Cook Meal

Some confident burglars broke into Pine Hill elementary school at 1087 Alice. Police reported someone broke into the cafeteria and used its stove to fry some eggs, potatoes and fish sticks for a meal on the spot. Several rooms also were broken into and quantities of food taken.

Kenosha, Wisc. - (JTA) - Eight recent Jewish applicants for membership in the Kenosha Elks Lodge were "blackballed" as the lodge continued its "white Christian only" membership policy, according to the Monthly Reporter of the Madison (Wisc.) Jewish Welfare Council. The lodge has 1,100 members, but only one "blackball" is required to deny an applicant membership, the Reporter story said.

A all-white U.S. District Court jury in Minneapolis, October 15, awarded a Minneapolis black man, Oliver Lyle, 3144 Park Av. S., a musician a judgment of $4,000 from the chief of police of Golden Valley, and three police officers for depriving him of his civil rights "under color of law."

A Jamaica Attorney who is campaign coordinator for Lefkowitz in Queens has denied the accuracy of Pete Hamill's charges in his New York Post column of October 26 that Attorney General Lefkowitz "has not done his job" and "has not enforced the laws on the books of this state."

ALUMINUM HISTORY

NEW YORK (a) - Aluminum usage in packaging applications traces back to before the turn of the century. In 1888, aluminum covers were first used in sealing the Ball Brothers' famed mason jars.

Aluminum foil, which didn't really begin to catch on as household wrap until the 1940's, was first developed in 1913. It was initially used for cigarette pack linings shortly thereafter.

Retains Governors Ship by 25,000 Votes; Low-Rent Housing Passed

Republican incumbent governor Robert Ray won re-election, Tuesday over Democratic Robert Fulton of Waterloo.

Fulton was running a close second at the polls until about 10 p.m. when the Polk County returns started rolling in. Fulton surprised many people by attracting many rural votes while Ray captured the majority of Polk County voters.

Lt. Gov. Roger Jepsen, a Davenport Republican, defeated in a landslide, Iowa City Democrat, Minnette Doderer, the first woman in Iowa history ever to be nominated by a major party in Iowa.

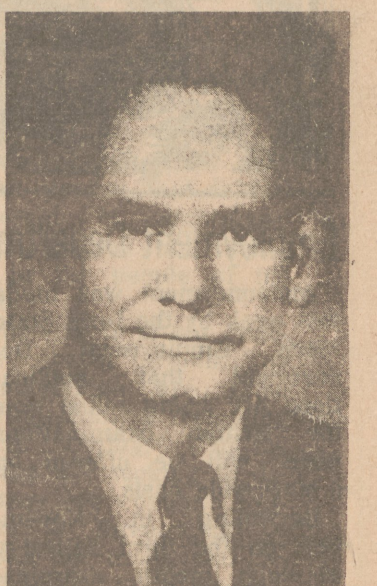

Atty. Gen. Richard Turner of Council Bluffs came on strong to regain his present position.

Iowa Congress

Davenport Republican Fred Schwengel was neck-and-neck with Democrat Edward Mezuinsky of Iowa City but Schwengel claimed victory.

Republican John Kyl of Bloomfield, won in the Fourth District, H. R. Gross of Waterloo in the Third District, William Scherle of Henderson in the Seventh District, Wiley Mayne of Sioux City in the Sixth District.

Democrat Neal Smith of Altoona, won in the Fifth District, repeating for a number of years, and John Culver of Cedar Rapids, won in the Second District.

Robert Fulton

Robert Fulton in Waterloo, contacted Gov. Ray, in Des Moines and congratulated the victor. Fulton expressed his feelings in a statement in which he said, "I'm proud of that campaign and although it has not resulted in an electoral victory, in a larger sense it is a victory."

"For we raised important issues, issues of equity, of justice, and of responsive government. And we have insured that these issues will not be ignored."

Gov. Ray

"We Republicans have a lot to be thankful for here in Iowa," Ray stated in responding to the gains of many Democrats in neighboring midwest states.

Killed in Battle with Black Panthers

DETROIT - Two Detroit policemen noticed a disturbance Saturday night at Myrtle and 14th streets, where Black Panthers were selling literature. They moved in to break it up and night long violence erupted.

Eight hours later, one policeman lay shot to death, another was wounded, four police cars had burned and 15 young persons were in custody after keeping police from barricaded Panther headquarters for eight hrs.

Sunday, the seven men and eight women, all between the ages of 17 and 21, were arraigned on charges of first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

They stood silent and pleas of innocent were entered for them.

About 100 policemen poured into the area, inhabited by low-income whites, blacks and Puerto Ricans.

Police surrounded the building from which the gunfire apparently came and blocked off the area.

Rather than try to shoot their way into the barricaded building, police enlisted the help of black community leaders and public officials, including State Rep. James Del Rio, to try to talk the inhabitants into surrendering.

Eventually, 12 persons voluntarily left the building with a squad of prominent black persons standing nearby to guarantee their safety.

At that point, Nichols said later, "we had to go in rather than delay or the situation would have worsened."

Nichols ordered tear gas fired into the building and flushed out the remaining three persons.

Ravitz praised the decision to use the good offices of community leaders and to use tear gas to chase the last holdouts from the building.

"It could have been 1967 again and more," Ravitz said, referring to the summer riot three years ago which claimed 43 lives.

"They would have come in from all over the country and the showdown would have been right there in Detroit."

Del Rio, a black lawmaker up for re-election, said the restraint shown during the facedown will result in "a new kind of feeling between the (Black) community and the police department."

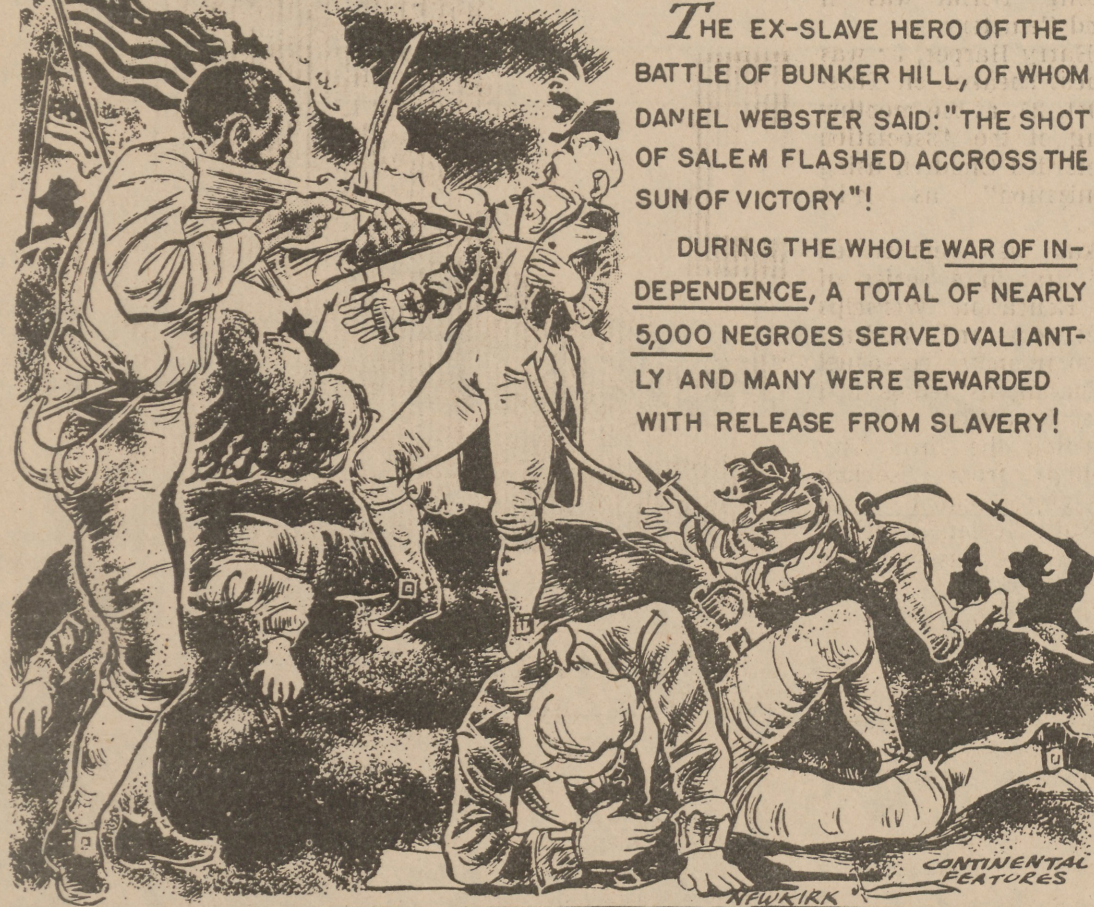

Membership for NAACP Draws Additional Support

NEW YORK - Mayors Howard N. Lee of Chapel Hill, N.C., and Decatur W. Trotter of Genard, Md., have given forceful support to the fall membership campaign of the NAACP, according to Gloster B. Current, director of branches and field administration. Additional support has come from Mrs. Mattelia B. Grays, Supreme Basileus of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, and Mrs. Isabel M. Herson, Grand Basileus of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority.

"There are only a few organizations that have dedicated themselves to pursuing the goal of bringing total equality to all mankind," Mr. Lee said. "Among these and probably one of the most outstanding is the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. . . I heartily endorse the work, the program, the plan and the goals. . . and encourage the more than 461,000 members to renew their membership."

One Day Strike Eyed by Blacks

BALTIMORE, MD. — The National Afro-American Labor Council has called for a one-day work stoppage by black workers in the United States in 1972.

Chasing Ghosts from Abandoned Mine

The cobwebs and ghosts of the past are being evicted from an old nickel mine abandoned in 1923. International Nickel is pumping some 100 million gallons of water from the Victoria mine in the Sudbury District of Ontario so that it can investigate the possibility of reopening it. Although abandoned because of the low grade of its ore, Victoria may be worth mining again because of today's improved ore recovery and processing techniques.

Employment Department Begins Examinations

Announcement was made this week by the Iowa State Merit Employment Department that applications are being taken now for written examinations which will be offered on a state wide basis.

Beginning in November, on the third Saturday of each month, examinations will be given in Cedar Rapids, Council Bluffs, Port Dodge, Mason City, Ottumwa, Sioux City, and Waterloo. Examinations will be continued in the Des Moines area on a weekly basis.

The purpose of these examinations is to establish eligible lists to fill existing vacancies and future vacancies in the fifty-five departments and agencies in Iowa state government under the Merit Employment System. At the present time, vacancies exist in approximately two-hundred (200) positions.

Deadline for receiving applications for statewide testing is ten calendar days prior to the examination date. Applications not received in time for one examination period will be scheduled for the next possible testing date.

Applications may be obtained from the Iowa Merit Employment Department, Grimes State Office Building, East Fourteenth and Grand Avenue, in Des Moines, or at any of the local Iowa State Employment offices located throughout the state. Present vacancy listings may be seen also at these locations.

Davis Extradition Hearing Postponed

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) — An extradition hearing for black militant Angela Davis has been postponed from Nov. 5 to Nov. 20, the district attorney's office said Monday. Arrangements for the postponement came with the consent of the district attorney and counsel for Miss Davis, John J. Abt. Miss Davis, meanwhile, continued a hunger strike — now in its tenth day — protesting her solitary confinement. She is wanted in California on murder and kidnap warrants for allegedly having purchased guns used in a courthouse kidnap-escape attempt in August in which four persons died.

Economic Outlook Is Grim Says Young

Whitney M. Young, Jr., Executive Director of the National Urban League, said today that the current economic outlook for Blacks was "more desperate than at any time since the Depression, and absolutely tragic in its consequence for millions of Black Americans."

Mr. Young's pessimism was based largely on the results of the latest Quarterly Economic Report on National Economic Trends, issued by the League's Research Department in Washington.

"Black unemployment is at its highest in six years, and higher than has ever been recorded for whites since the Depression," Mr. Young said. "Other factors unreported in official statistics suggest de facto rates far higher than the reported 9% Black Unemployment," he said.

He cited the fact that 15% of the automobile workers on strike, not entitled to unemployment compensation and not officially listed as unemployed, are Black.

"Nor is there any relief in sight without drastic reversal of the apparent present National Strategy to accept high unemployment in return for

Diamond Anniversary Observed by Crisis

NEW YORK — The nation's oldest Negro monthly magazine and the only magazine, black or white, devoted primarily to civil rights will celebrate its 60th anniversary during the month of November. The Crisis, the official organ of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will mark the milestone with an enlarged anniversary 84-page edition including 48 pages of previously published Crisis pieces.

Founded in 1910 by the brilliant scholar, W.E.B. DuBois, The Crisis stated on its initial cover that it would be "a record of the darker races." In an editorial in the anniversary edition, the present editor, Henry Lee Moon, asserts that "Few publications have, in and of themselves, fashioned the history of a people as has The Crisis."

The diamond anniversary edition will feature "A Treasury of Crisis Readings," covering six decades. Included will be editorials, articles, short stories and poetry contributed by DuBois, Charles W. Chesnut, James Weldon Johnson, Jessie Fauset, Langston Hughes, Fenton Johnson, Countee Cullen, Arna Bontemps, Jean Toomer, H. L. Mencken, Alice Dunbar-Nelson, Claude McKay, Walter White, Chester Himes, Roy Wilkins, James W. Ivy and others. This special edition will be sold to non-subscribers for $1 a copy. Regularly, The Crisis sells at 35 cents per copy or $3.50 annually.

Letters of felicitation have been received from such notables in political, civic, academic and publishing fields as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Senator Edward W. Brooke, Mayor Carl Stokes, A. Philip Randolph, Robert C. Weaver, John Hope Franklin, Judge Francis E. Rivers, Whitney M. Young, Horace Mann Bond, Martin Kilson, John H. Sengstacke, Mrs. Dorothy Schiff, Carey McWilliams, Ossie Davis, Miss Dorothy B. Reed, August Meier, Wilson Record, Edwin Henderson, Walter G. Daniel, Walter Wilson and others.

From a first edition of 1,000 copies, The Crisis circulation increased at the rate of 1,000 a month. In eight years, monthly sales reached 100,000. In subsequent years, economic and social conditions caused a decline in circulation to a low of 10,000 in 1932 during the Great Depression. Last year, 1969, the average circulation per month was 111,302.

As The Crisis enters its 61st year, its editorial policy continues basically as DuBois outlined it in the first edition. That policy affirms a "stand for the rights of men, irrespective of color or race, for the highest ideals of American democracy, and for reasonable but earnest and persistent attempt to gain these rights and realize these ideals."

Prompt Mailing Saves Money

Postmaster Mc Nerney today issued a reminder that postal customers can save money by mailing packages before November 14th.

"Any Christmas packages you mail before November 14th will save you 15 cents on every dollar you spend for postage," Mr. Mc Nerney said. "In addition, because your packages will be getting in the mail stream ahead of the big rush, they will get to their destinations—sooner, surer, safer and in better shape."

Postmaster Mc Nerney also reminded customers that insuring parcels is the easiest, cheapest way to see packages make it home for a Merry Christmas.

"By all means," said Mr. Mc Nerney, "put a slip of paper inside the package bearing the name and address."

By
MARJORIE E. W. SMITH
GUEST COLUMNIST

When I was a recruiter for the War Manpower Commission during the war, World War II, that is, I received a wire from U.S. headquarters saying, "Orchids to you." Later I received another wire saying I was awarded a gold mop and silver bucket for having placed the most dishwashers at the Manhattan Project (where the atom bomb was created). Nothing but the wires ever came my way, so I concluded both were but complimentary figures of speech.

Such was not the case with the elegant, huge, purple (the favorite color of Georgine Morris) orchids sent by Mrs. Myron Blank and Mrs. James W. Wallace as a special gift to the founder of the Iowa State Conference of NAACP Branches at their annual meeting. We knew they were coming in time for wearing at the luncheon. They were delivered properly to the hotel but after that is a mystery. Those of you who missed the presence of a corsage on the shoulder, chest, or what have you, of our honored guest, will be happy to know that Monday the blooms were sent to the Morris home and are being admired "All by myself" as the song goes. A pleasant quiet after glow to the big bustle of a really active conference.

Here's a tip: sending wires to those on a program of a big meeting is precarious business. The telegrams may be delivered by Western Union OK, but too often lie unopened in the pocket of some committeeman, or worse yet land in the waste basket. Not that such was the fate of any wires sent Mother Morris at the Life Membership events, but wires ARE continually still popping up.

Another thing: You know how the Vanderbilts and other correct living experts always say keep your flower arrangements on the table low. Well, they never thought of how ideal tall vases, say filled with gorgeous red roses, as were those sent Mother Morris by Vera Morrow, since she could not participate as planned, not only added beauty, fragrance and warmth to the scene but effectively forced the wooden lectern to serve as an aesthetic background silhouetting the arrangement.

The fifth and sixth graders from Christ the King School made perfectly delightful cumberbunds of construction paper, to put around the fat stomachs of the forty two pumpkins Mr. Crooks gathered. I promised to be at the hotel by 7:30.

Friday morning to pin on the decorations and place the hats.

Believe it or not, the taxi got here in five minutes, instead of twenty. I grabbed a brush and went off with hair uncombed. First Mrs. Sam. M. Shloss, the luncheon mistress of ceremonies, and a Life Member along with all the other LIFE MEMBERS that literally swarmed the Grand Ballroom, asked if she couldn't fix my hair in the back. Then dear Mother Morris told me to fix my hair. Earlier she had told our state president not to smoke and he put his pipe away, temporarily. Mrs. Shloss said to me, "Marjorie, before you do another thing, fix your hair."

That evening, dressing for the banquet, donning the latest outfit I made, alas without the technical suggestions from Mother Morris I could have used with profit, I looked at my hair and decided if "they" could go natural I could and I did! The young people liked it. Bridged the generation gap, at last. Will say, though, that I did not have as hard a kink as Hines and Dad demonstrated that night of the Johnny Carson Show. They said they could not get their heads down to the pillow! I did and slept well, at the end of as perfect a conference as one could ask for. It pleased MOTHER MORRIS.

Monarch Club

Dinner was served for over 50 people who turned out for the Monarch Club Halloween Party Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Birdland Shelter House.

Mrs. Eustace Ware won the main door prize, a blanket. She also won another prize and more than half of the ladies attending won two prizes. Elbert Durden is chairman of entertainment committee. Halloween Tea Highlights Wilkie House Activities

A Library Story Hour has begun this week for the 5-8 year olds at Wilkie House. Mrs. Braun of the Westside Branch conducts the program on Mondays 4:15 to 4:45 p.m.

Mr. Allen Correll, Executive Director of Human Rights Commission, and Mr. Prentice Townsend, Director of United Black Federation, addressed the fifth meeting of "Where It's At," held in Wilkie House last Thursday. Interested community members of Des Moines discussed the local issues related to Human Rights.

Mrs. Margaret McCraven was winner of the door prize at the Wilkie House Friends and Neighbors Halloween Tea last Wednesday. Dried flowers and seed pods had been gathered and spray-painted; members of the group, using their own containers and vases, arranged bouquets in autumn hues. Table games completed the afternoon's entertainment. Mrs. McCraven, Mrs. Fred Johnson and Mrs. Mack Carson served refreshments. A trip to the Chrysanthemum Show is planned for Wednesday, November 11.

The Wilkie House Boys' Club enjoyed the Des Moines Viking Football game last Saturday evening. Mr. Dave Kitzman, who directs the club, took the members to this special "Kids Night" at Sec Taylor Stadium.

From there the guests were invited to breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, 104 Dakota St. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Daniels, and Mr. Monte Thomas were unable to attend.

Q. Everybody's talking about phosphates polluting our waters. My neighbor tells me that, of the total wastewater coming into our treating plant, there's more phosphorus in sewage than there is in detergents.

Don't they take phosphorus out of all wastewater at the same time? And if they do, why can't we keep phosphates in the detergents and take all of it out at the waste treatment plant, or would that cost too much?

Chicago Heights, Ill. A. Phosphates from detergents account for only about 40 percent of all phosphorus in cities' wastewaters; oftentimes less. Remainder is from all other sources. Many cities do not yet have phosphorus-removal systems, although laws are on the books that will soon require 80 percent removal by municipalities.

Cost for removal of the additional phosphate in wastewater resulting from detergents is expected to be virtually unnoticeable. In studies conducted in plants with phosphorus removal processes in the Midwest, chemicals for removing phosphorus averaged a mere three cents per 1,000 gallons.

The Dow Chemical Company has conducted feasibility studies proving the process on some 40 plants around the Great Lakes representing over half of the total municipal effluent in the watershed. Wins "Miss America of Elkdom" Title

Smiles, happiness, and joy usually come with being named a winner. Miss Patricia Lester pauses and smiles in the exciting moments following the announcement of her being selected as the Elks' "Miss America of Elkdom" during the organization's convention held here recently. Miss Lester, a freshman at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas is shown here receiving the winner's trophy from Harold Hamilton, (left), and Charles H. Boone (right), of Coca-Cola USA. While the modern grocery store brings us a world of convenience, there is something nice about opening a jar of preserves you have "put up" yourself. In fact it is especially welcome in these days of prepared, heat-and-serve foods.

For instance, have you ever prepared peach or pear chutney? Here's one way to go about it, for an unusual condiment that will delight the entire family. You'll need the following:

- 1 gallon chopped peaches or pears
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 pod hot red pepper
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1/2 cup white mustard seed
- 2 tablespoons ground ginger
- 2 to 3 cups brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt

Wash, drain, peel, chop and measure fruit and onions. Chop garlic, pepper and raisins. (Remove pepper seed for mild chutney.) Mix all ingredients and cook slowly until as thick as desired. Pour, boiling hot, into hot canning jars and seal at once. And there you are.

For a copy of a handy little brochure, just clip this article and the name of your newspaper and send them to me marked "Home Canning Recipes." It gives you ingredients and directions for preparing apples, watermelon rind, chili sauce, spaghetti sauce, apple chutney, tomatoes, cucumbers and pickles.

Truly, "An ounce of Morton is worth a pound of preservation."

You'll win the praise of the home-for-lunch lunch when you serve this special lunch that not only fills them up... but, tastes good, too.

Canned beans & franks in tomato & molasses sauce is your key to this great quick-fix meal. Just open, heat, and serve... what could be simpler? Each can contains nine little all-meat franks and tender pea beans nestled in a delicious tomato & molasses sauce... designed especially with kids in mind.

For your special scholars' lunch, fancy up a can of beans & franks with crunchy celery slices, diced canned pears, and a touch of maple syrup.

Serve Scholars' Beans & Franks with peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and big glasses of milk.

SCHOLARS' BEANS & FRANKS
1/4 cup sliced celery
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (16 ounces) beans & franks in tomato & molasses sauce
1/2 cup diced canned pears
1 teaspoon maple syrup

In saucepan, cook celery in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

CLOTHES MAKE THE GIRL - GOOD OR BAD

If a lady behaves differently when she's wearing an evening gown, compared to when she's wearing blue jeans or a swimsuit, a little girl's behavior is affected even moreso by the clothes she wears. So say the psychologists and the fashion designers.

"Carelessness in clothes brings carelessness in habits and manner," says one authority. Robert Love, who designs all the famous Love clothes for little girls, says, "Tell a youngster she looks beautiful in a particular dress and she'll take their clothes bind, pull or restrict them in any way. Never sacrifice comfort for looks," he warns.

The key question to ask in selecting a fabric, says designer Love, is, "Is it washable?" Mothers have long realized the importance of washability in children's clothes because of the normal pattern of the child's active life. Spills and stains are accepted as part of the daily routine. "And while children do grow out of clothes, no mother wants to see clothes grow off her children because of shrinking. So we've made our new, 50th anniversary collection completely machine-washable in cold water, every design in it," Mr. Love reports. "With the development of cold water rage home."

As for price, when shopping for little girls' clothes, Mr. Love says, "It should be based on style, fabric and workmanship. Little girls' clothes should not and need not be expensive," he feels. "It's quite a shock when Mother finds out just before the next birthday party that her little girl has already grown out of the $45 dress she bought only last year."

As for clothes care, Mr. Love advises, "Don't buy clothes frills and ruffles that require a lot of ironing by hand. To protect colors and shape, remember the advantages of machine laundering with the cold water detergent. This is especially true for children's brightly colored clothes, and all cottons, knits, synthetics and stretch fabrics. Besides," he adds, "wrinkles don't set as easily in cold water laundering."

All in all, one of the secrets to making a little girl either an imp or an angel, say the authorities, is dressing her in clothes that she knows she looks attractive in and feels comfort-pride not only in the dress but in her behavior while wearing it.

"Mothers," he says, "should know two basic things about little girls' fashions—how to shop for them and how to care for them. Shopping," says the designer, "means knowing what to look for—in style, comfort, fabric and price. For style, little girl's fashions this spring and summer, for example, are adopting the pantsuit look that their mothers are wearing."

One reason for this, says the designer, is comfort—"which is as important as looks, especially for children. Youngsters can't behave graciously when laundering the range of washables now is almost limitless—everything from heavy duty jeans to delicate slips and children's party dresses. The cool treatment also protects man-made fibers from stretching.

"Of special importance for the little ones' clothes," says Mr. Love, "is the Cold Power detergent that even has a built-in germproofing ingredient. It's more effective in protecting children's and baby's things than the hot water in the ave-

OPPRESSION BY THOSE WHO CRY AGAINST IT

Reckless men threw bottles, rocks and sticks at President Nixon on his trip to Anaheim last week, breaking windows and damaging his car. It does seem that all people would, at least, have respect for the office of President of the United States.

But why do they do this? Is it their only way of protesting President Nixon's policies? Absolutely not. They do this because they have been egged on by a lot of people who, in the name of the right to protest, have made it a right to violate the law. These same people are talking about the fear of repression by the majority and yet they are past masters in repressing the views of other people.

Maybe, like some other fads, the illegal means of making known dissent will pass away as another fad. But it must be stopped if free speech is not to mean intimidating anyone with whom we do not agree.

INEXCUSABLE FREEWAY TRAFFIC

Last week a 14 year old boy was killed on the Des Moines freeway near Cottage Grove avenue.

It is a violation of the city ordinance to walk across the freeway and yet for months youngsters have done so by climbing fences. We have seen some incidents where officers have witnessed their action coming up with an admonition not to do so again.

Traffic on the freeway is dangerous even in a car. It is worse for pedestrians. For their own safety these youngsters, stern punishment should be meted out to those who value their lives lightly and dare to do things that turn out to be disastrous as was the young man last week.

NAACP MEETING WAS FREE OF PROTESTERS

The Iowa State Conference of Branches had its annual meeting in Des Moines last week and was addressed by Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP.

The NAACP has not been looked upon by the militants and some of the young people as the ideal for pursuing the cause of the Negro with sufficient force. Many have picketed its meeting to emphasize that position.

None of the militants or young people appeared at the meeting here and therefore it went on as sessions have in the past. We hope it is a good sign.

However, Wilkins did lash out at militants and those who have the idea that the civil rights struggle began a short time ago. Citing the fact that the Niagara movement of 1904 and the organization of the NAACP in 1910, the struggle was far ahead and along the way when these new things came along.

Certainly it was a welcome relief to have these meetings without protests by some militants.

VETERANS

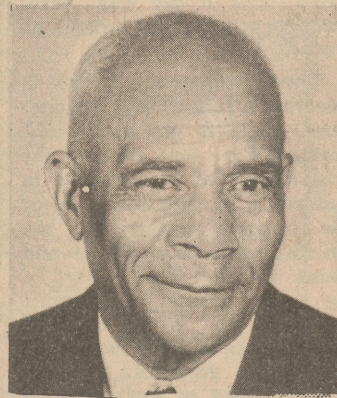

Q — How does a veteran go about establishing service-connection for a disability?

A — Make application to the nearest VA regional office and submit proof that your disability was either incurred or aggravated during military service. The best proof would be records of treatment received while in service.

Q — I understand that VA will pay me full time benefits for taking 12 hours at college; is this correct?

A — Yes, if the college considers 12 semester hours full time.

SPORTS

With Allen Ashby

We were just about all set to try to explain why the Hawks had dropped their sixth ball game, when they suddenly came alive and nearly pulled this one out. A forty some yard field goal is a pretty good boot, but it wasn't impossible. We think that any guy who can place kick is capable of booting one that far at times. Now their chance of having a five and five record is gone, they might come up with four wins, if they can get by Michigan. On the other hand, the way Illinois has been playing lately, they might come a cropper in their last game with the Illinois. But that was a pretty good indication of the potential of Iowa.

Too bad they couldn't have found it earlier. Now, we wonder, will that save the job of the head coach. Some people say no with a rather strong adjective in front of the no. They could be right. But, for one thing, we would like to see Mitchell running behind a good offensive line. But, then, Iowa's offensive line wasn't any slouch that last quarter. Now, we give the Hawkeyes a six, three, one mark for the year. How far can we miss that one?

IOWA STATE

At Iowa State, the capacity crowd was sure the Cyclones had a big win, but they forgot to tell Oklahoma. When that last marker went up on the board for the Sooners, the huge crowd just went flat. A fellow watching the game said it was about time for that reverse option, because it had worked good whenever Oklahoma had used it before. Sure enough, it came and went over big. Some guy told us, "in a close game you look for everything." So you do. But by the same token, when the chips are down, you go with your best bet, regardless of what happens. And that was what the guys from down the country did.

Drake Bulldogs

And the Drake Bulldogs simply ran into too much trouble, and got the waxy beat out of them. We thought they had a good chance to go all the way, but we hadn't looked over the Bulldog schedule very well. But, they will still have a winning season, and that won't be hard to take. The next day, we read an article about small college football and we had to realize that some of those small schools are nearly as big as Iowa University, and their teams could probably surprise a lot of major colleges and universities. So, when one plays in that little league, he isn't playing any push-overs.

Dowling

Here at home, our Dowling watcher now knows that the Maroons can't lose more than one game, and he says that will happen when they play Heelan of Sioux City. This is his last chance to be right, so he better make it. And do you know, if that fellow Hayman of Lincoln would put his head down when he goes into the line, he would be awfully hard to stop? He is tough enough when he runs straight up, and you can imagine what he would be if he were about waist high going into the line on short yardage situations. There have been a few standup runners in college, such as Ohio State's Bob White and Bob Ferguson, but most of them didn't make it. Usually about the first time a guy comes up to the line straight up, they have to send back for his head. That Lincoln game could have gone either way, and nobody went home until the final whistle.

We never did figure out what happened to Tech, and we thought North would come up with a good year, better than they had. East did about as well as we expected, but they might get tough next year. So migh Tech, who is long over due.

Ali-Quarry Bout

We watched the fight films of Mohammed Ali and Jimmy Quarry. We are convinced that the Mohammed man is back for keeps. He is still fast, he can still move, and is the master boxer, and can still punch. The guy's left hand is about the fastest left hand of all the heavies we have seen. The left jab of Joe Louis wasn't as fast as Ali's, but Joe could knock a man down with his jab. What are his chances against Frazier? Well, we would have to say that if Mohammed is in shape to go fifteen rounds at top speed, he will decision the other champ, but we don't think he will kayo him. If you saw the Wide World of Sports last Saturday, you must have been impressed by the generosity of Ali toward his opponent, Quarry and the honesty of his answers. Such as even he didn't know if he could go the full fifteen rounds. That Quarry might have gotten him over the route, a statement we were inclined to doubt. For Jerry couldn't hit the other with a handful of birdshot. We shall be watching the next two bouts with interest.

EULOGY TO MARTIN LUTHER KING JR.

Christ, the Savior, had been sentenced to death. The long, fateful journey had begun -- A journey to a hill called "The place of a skull," There to crucify God's Son.

The cross was heavy, and the journey was long. The condemned oft was made his cross to bear; But God's plan was different this day -- One would be chosen the burden to share.

Chosen was a Cyrenean named Simon, A man unknown, a man of black skin; Chosen to give comfort to the Son of God As He went to the cross to atone for man's sin.

What favor it was to be thus chosen To show this kindness to Christ, the Lord; What favor it was to the race of dark skin -- Compliment to this race God did there accord.

The man of black skin trudged behind the Lord, And with Him the burden did share; Peter and Judas had betrayed the Christ, But the man of black skin helped the burden to bear.

They reached Golgotha, "The place of a skull," And to the soldiers the cross was surrendered; And then the soldiers, bearing spears, whips and swords, Drove spikes through the hands of our Lord.

Centuries passed, and new nations arose. Powerful nations encircled the world; Wealth and riches were their chief concern, And flags of rich nations 'round the globe unfurled.

The black man the white did then exploit, Making him his servant and his slave -- The race of the Cyrenean called Simon, He who went with Christ to edge of the grave.

Then, the black man was freed of his bondage, But indignities were suffered by the man of black skin -- Denied the right to eat and lodge where he pleased, For him, too, there was no room in the inn.

God in Heaven looked down on earth below, And was grieved at the plight of His creation; One race dominating over men of the other -- Desecrating the principles of this great nation.

"A disciple I must have," thought God In Heaven, To evangelize against this great sin -- A battle to fight, without loss of blood, And through non-violence the victory to win.

And God looked o'er earth a man to find, A man of dignity, wisdom, and love he must be; With strength to lead this militant fight, His race from bondage to further set free.

God looked to Simon, who had carried the cross; "A man I have found," the Creator declared, "I will speak to him, and a dream I will give, And for the battle he will be prepared".

Martin Luther King Jr. was chosen by God, A modern disciple the battle to lead; Non-violent victory, without shedding of blood, Justice through persuasion was to be his creed.

The militant soldier then entered the battle; Prayer and persuasion were his ammunition. He marched, he preached, he prayed, he wept, And crusaded with firm admonition.

Prejudice and hate were on the retreat, The battle for equality was showing gain; Then, the Commanding General in Heaven Suddenly called the brave soldier home.

"Free at last," it seems I hear him say, "Free at last," he victoriously repeats; Yes, forever free is this man of God, And today he walks Heaven's golden streets.

By now he has met the man called Simon, The black man who carried the cross; And today they are walking the streets of gold -- Yes, Heaven's gain, but earth's great loss.

By now he has met a man called Adam, Common ancestor of black, yellow and white; And Eve, common grandmother of all the races, Walks with him now in Heaven's light.

POST EXCHANGE

Letters from Our Readers

A bit of prose . . . a line or two of poetry . . . a letter now and then to express thoughts in the minds of our many readers.

Send Yours Today

Most blessed of all, he has met the Christ, He who called him the gospel to preach -- A gospel of peace, a gospel of love -- The non-violent message he was chosen to teach.

Heaven's more heavenly because he is there, This calm man of brotherly love; In the peace he taught he shall forever live, -- Brotherhood and love in Heaven above.

Cruel soldiers did crucify the Christ; Stephen was stoned, Peter nailed to the cross; John beheaded, James slain by the sword, And a sniper's bullet brought Reverend King's loss.

A handful of followers, a few hundred at most, Mourned loss of the disciples of old; But loss of Martin Luther King Jr. Was mourned by millions throughout the world.

Rest in peace, beloved, enjoy God's Heaven Join with the angels God's praises to sing; And on earth, you will belong to the ages -- God's servant, Martin Luther King.
