Chas. Knox Found Guilty of Contempt

Given Another
6 Month Term

BY MARSHALL HOOD
Black militant, Charles Knox was found guilty of contempt of court, Tuesday, by Judge Ray Harrison.

Knox, on trial for allegedly spitting on Judge Howard Brooks during a traffic violation trial, Nov. 5 was defended by West Des Moines attorney Charles Glenn.

During the testimony of Municipal Court Bailiff Bob E. Rice, who was present during the Nov. 5 fracas, Knox shouted, "You're a liar!" Rice testified that Knox and Steven Green, 19, who was charged Friday with contempt, were not mistreated and manhandled while being transferred to jail. Knox felt otherwise.

Throughout the trial, Knox was heard to make remarks to himself and occasionally to his attorney.

Occasional Heckling
Judge Harrison called his court to order several times when supporters of Knox heckled some witnesses and the judge.

Defense attorney Glenn moved that the charges against Knox be dropped because Judge Brooks was not in the courtroom to testify. Since Brooks was the only person who could tell if the act (spitting) was contemptuous.

Green felt this court could not second guess Judge Brook's court. The motion was overruled.

Found Guilty

Knox was found guilty and sentenced to 6 months at hard labor. As Knox approached the bench, Judge Harrison said, "I have a no personal animosity, nothing personal against you — but you are not going to run this court."

"You would be the first one to complain if someone spit on you."

Before leaving for the jail, Knox blasted Judge Harrison with a barrage of insults, including "facist punk."

After being handcuffed, Knox was escorted out of the courtroom by 6 to 8 plainclothesmen.

A scuffle in the hallway followed as Knox was being taken to jail.

TAR BRUSH? BRASS KNUCKLES? A SUBSTITUTE FOR DUE PROCESS?

"SOCIETY MAY TAKE IT UPON ITSELF TO DEFEND ITSELF AGAINST THIS LAWLESSNESS, I HOPE IT DOESN'T COME ABOUT, BUT CITIZENS MIGHT HAVE TO RESORT TO VIGILANTE TACTICS."

THIS STATEMENT WAS MADE BY NONE OTHER THAN JOHN MITCHELL, ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES.

First Negro Elected To Statewide Office in California

The first Negro elected to a statewide office in California is Wilson C. Riles, who takes over the post of state superintendent of public instruction.

Riles, a Democrat, defeated his previous boss, Max Rafferty by overcoming the odds of race and anonymity. "I think the campaign proves that people are looking for someone to do a job, whether he's black, brown, yellow or white," stated Riles.

Iowa Rights Commission And Weitz Co. Obtain Successful Court Ruling

The argument of whether labor unions have the right to discriminate against minority groups, primarily Blacks, came to a head in a recent decision of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

James P. Denato, Polk County district judge, supported efforts by the state to eliminate discrimination in hiring by the unions.

The prominent case in the decision involved the Iron Workers Local 67 of Des Moines. The union was found guilty, last year, of discriminating against John D. Roe, a Black laborer.

The Weitz Co. Inc., of Des Moines entered into a contract with the Government for the construction of a new post office in Des Moines.

Federal Law
Federal law requires that any company contracted for work with the government refrain from discrimination in hiring. This law not only applies to the contracting company but to the construction union who exercises control over the hiring practices.

A compliance officer from the U. S. Post Office dealt with the Weitz Co. and Local 67 in efforts to effect the hiring of minority groups on this particular project (the Black minority has historically numbered very few in construction craft unions.)

The Weitz Co. attempted to obtain a work permit for John Roe in order to hire him as an iron worker.

Work Permit Obtained
On April 23, 1970, a Weitz Co. official took Roe to the union hall to obtain a work permit to enable him to work on the project. They took with them a letter from the Weitz Co. apologizing for the request and indicating the whole matter was at the federal government's insistence.

According to the Iowa Right to Work Law, Weitz could legally hire Roe without union approval but Weitz is known as a strict union employer.

William Reed, a longtime business agent for the union, visited the job site and talked to some of the men iron workers who began leaving the job due to "illness."

The next day, none of the workers appeared.

John Hart, Vice-President of the Weitz Co., felt the company was being punished for pushing the employment of Mr. Roe against their wishes. Hart filed a complaint with the Iowa Civil Rights Commission on April 24, 1970.

Constitutional Rights
The Iron Workers Union contended that the constitutional guarantees of free association and free assembly give the union the right to choose its membership and to refer workers through its hiring hall as the union sees fit.

Judge Denato, however, held that the rights guaranteed to individuals cannot always be claimed by "a union certified as a bargaining agent for all employees."

The custom of hiring workers through the union hall makes the union "an employment agency" under the Iowa Civil Rights Law.

The ruling upholds the commission's authority to issue-and-decides orders with regard to hiring employees.

Civil Rights Commission Director Alvin Hayes attached "landmark" significance to the ruling. He said the commission plans immediate action against other all-white unions.

'State of South Report'

Representatives of four major civil rights groups have joined to prepare a critique of the government's handling of school desegregation in the South this fall.

They made a 10-day canvass of the 11 Southern states late in September, using lawyers and field workers to monitor the desegregation process and gather information on continuing violations of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. A comprehensive report assessing the federal government's performance will be completed and released by the ad hoc group in mid-November.

Cooperating on the project are the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, the American Friends Service Committee, the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, and the Washington Research Project.

The primary purpose of the document will be to assess the performance of two government departments — HEW and Justice — in their handling of school desegregation policy and law.

The report will include statistics as well as detailed documentation of violations of the law, and will cover such issues as busing, zoning, school closings, displacement of teachers and administrators, in-school segregation, and the handling of disciplinary matters. Representatives of the four organizations spent the last 10 days of September gathering information, using a network of monitors and field workers scattered throughout the South.

The finished product will be designed to serve as a sort of "State of the South" report on the question of school desegregation.

In a related matter, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights has just released a 1,000-page report describing and assessing the efforts of all government departments in the area of civil rights for the past 13 years.

Census Bureau To Conduct Monthly Employment Survey

The bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in this area during the week of November 15, Guy A. Lutz, Director of the Bureau's regional office in St. Paul announced.

In addition to the regular questions on employment asked each month, the survey will again collect information about supplemental or part-time jobs and the number of hours devoted to them.

The Bureau will also ask whether each person included in the sample voted in the November election or had been registered to vote.

The households to be interviewed here are part of a scientifically designed sample that is representative of the entire U.S. population. The employment and unemployment statistics are collected monthly by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation as a whole and of its major regions.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept confidential and are used only to compile statistical results. The law safeguarding the privacy of the individual applies to all information collected by the Census Bureau.

Iowans Spend 3 Days Inspecting Navy Facilities at Annapolis, Maryland

By James B. Morris

The U.S. Navy is trying to channel a broader base of citizens into the Naval Academy at Annapolis with special effort toward minorities. In so doing, a group of high school counselors and a few other interested people were invited to inspect the facility and be briefed on how to get there and what the youngster will find in the way of curriculum and living.

Leave Nov. 3

Tuesday morning, Nov. 3, Judge Luther T. Glanton, Larry Harris, a counselor at East High School and James B. Morris boarded a C54 navy plane with 34 high school counselors, a crew of 2 pilots, 2 enlisted petty officers and two navy officers.

Landing at Andrews Air Force Base we proceeded to Annapolis, Maryland by bus. All were housed in the Hilton Statler Hotel.

We had dinner at the midshipmen's dining room which seats 4,000 people at one time. All 4,000 are housed in one building. They can all eat at the same time. Spectacular to be sure with Philippine waiters and Negro cooks. The food was good.

Early Breakfast

Wednesday at 7:45 we had breakfast at the officers faculty club: fruit juice, scrambled eggs, fried potatoes, toast and coffee or milk, from which we went to a lecture room. There the Captain, C. C. Krulak, who was in charge of the party, assisted by Lieut. Kenneth H. Johnson, (a graduate from Iowa State University in 1963) gave a full explanation of the curriculum at the academy and what it offered the midshipmen.

Wellcomed by Superintendent

Vice Admiral J. James Calvert, superintendent of the academy, welcomed us to the facilities and explained what is expected of the men. He emphasized that they insisted on responsibility and loyalty to the academy, chided those who had no aim but to stir up trouble and the permissiveness of state and local school officials which had helped foster rioting and other forms of lawlessness on and off campus. He is strong for America and wants nobody at the academy who is a militant, troublemaker or un-American.

Coffee break was followed by an explanation about a d m i s s i o n. Applicants must be from 17 to 22 years of age and unmarried. Approximately 30% drop out before graduation.

The academic dean, a civilian, (half of the staff is civilian) including Major Green, an Iowa State graduate who is a teacher in the department of mathematics and which monitors the applications of all minorities, spoke. The dean of admissions explained the admission policies with emphasis that applicants required a sponsor either a senator, representative or the president.

No Boating

We were scheduled to take a yard patrol boat tour on the river but it was raining and the water so choppy that the officials abandoned the trip.

Then followed a bus tour of the grounds and a visit to the chapel and then the museum. It is a historical spot with photos and material of the Navy from early days. Here we met a young Negro marine from Baltimore, Donald G Carter. He displays the following badges: Navy Achievement Medal, Purple Heart Medal, Combat Action Ribbon, National Defense Ribbon, Vietnamese Service Ribbon, Vietnamese Campaign Ribbon, Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry, Presidential Unit Citation. He looked the part of a real soldier. It made me feel good to shake his hand.

We had lunch in the officers faculty club and had as our guests all Iowa boys serving in the academy. Some were just off the farm and with no experience with city life. Some are some of the best midshipmen and they require no special house for them as some argue that Negroes need at Universities.

Dormitory Inspection

A tour of inspection of the dormitories was a sight to behold for in every room, whether occupied by two, three or four men, everything was clean and orderly.

Thursday morning we had breakfast at the officers faculty club of ham, eggs, fried potatoes, toast and coffee. We went to the field house followed by a briefing in physical education and other departments. Following this, we were split into small groups in order to sit in a regular class with midshipmen. I drew a class in oceanography. This was followed by a lecture on stars and planets. For the first time we saw all 4,000 students at one time in the dining room. It was a sight to behold. We had lunch with the Iowa boys at the club.

After lunch two midshipmen explained the honor code with methods of implementing it including procedure for pressing charges against midshipmen to the point of discharge. Two others fielded questions.

Among the Iowans at the academy is midshipman J. J. Dillingham of 7008 Jefferson Avenue, Windsor Heights. He like the rest, presented appearances of earnestness and a desire to take advantage of the unusual facilities at the naval academy.

Next was a visit in the engineering, mechanical, electronics, nuclear, television departments where we viewed miniature ships, subs, missiles and aircraft carriers, atomic energy and other installations. Later we assembled in the chapel for a photo on the steps and briefing by the chaplain.

Seek More Minorities

Lieutenant Kenneth H. Johnson, a member of the staff and who invited us on the trip, spoke on the navy's efforts to recruit more Negroes for the academy. He stated that Vice Admiral Calvert, upon assuming his duties at the academy, sought the appointment of a Negro to the admissions staff and faculty so as to see more minorities at the academy.

There are 57 minorities in the academy, 40 of whom are Negroes. Among them we met midshipman James Campbell of Chicago, whose uncle is Paul Campbell of Des Moines. He is a third year midshipman and looks all the part of one.

Cocktails and Dinner

Back to the hotel for a break preparatory to a cocktail party and dinner at the club where Commander Lloyd of Iowa Falls who helped plan and conduct the tour presided at a short session of praise and thanks.

Closing out at Annapolis with breakfast at the club we boarded a bus for Washington, D.C. Fortunately Commander Lloyd of Iowa Falls had been in Washington many times and with the help of a capable bus driver, pointed out many important buildings, toured the White House, Arlington Cemetery in which are the graves of the Unknown Soldier and the late President John F. Kennedy. One of Senator Jack Miller's executive assistants, Mr. Locke, had arranged for and accompanied us on a tour of the capitol building. Congress was not in session.

Boarding a bus at Andrews Air Force Base we departed on another Navy DC54 transport plane which landed in Des Moines at 6:00 p.m. For the first time I had an opportunity to sit in the cockpit of an airplane and watch the pilot and the complex machinery.

Get Certificates

Prior to landing Commander Lloyd presented each person a certificate signed by commanding officer which reads:

United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland. The Superintendent of the United States Naval Academy takes great pleasure in appointing Mr. James B. Morris an Honorary Admissions Counselor for the United States Naval Academy. 5 November 1970. (Signed) James Calvert, Vice Admiral, J.S. Navy

The trip provided high school counselors from many Iowa communities and other guests an opportunity to see at first hand, the career opportunity offered young men who enroll in Annapolis where they can get a $45,000. paid education without cost to their parents with a wide selection of courses that not only serve them well in the Navy but also in future years after they retire or go into some other avenues after paying his nine year obligation to the government.

This was a marvelous trip. It was an education to be with these school counselors, many of whom live in communities where there are no Negroes. Our association was mutual. I once lived in Annapolis but had no opportunity to identify any of the old landmarks or discover any people who lived there in 1918.

U of I Professors Trace Racism and Current Black Unemployment

IOWA CITY — "The Black does not feel grateful, nor should he, for the limited and grudging effort made since World War II in his behalf."

So state Professors Irving Kovarsky and William Albrecht of The University of Iowa College of Business Administration in their book "Black Employment: The Impact of Religion, Economic Theory, Politics and Law," just published by Iowa State University Press.

The two professors have summarized the factors in those four major fields which they feel are primarily responsible for the economic plight of the American Black in 1970. Kovarsky, who is in the Department of Business Administration, and Albrecht, who is in the Department of Economics, felt they would have to cross the lines of academic study to explain the current situation.

Racism

The professors believe racism was supported in American life from the beginning of the nation by a religious system which saw Blacks as the unworthy sons of Ham cited in the Old Testament, and which strove to avoid politics.

Also involved, they said, were an economic system of laissez faire, which left producers and consumers to the mercy of the market; the legal principles of state rights and judicial neutrality, which precluded application of a law to a case unless the law was specifically addressed to the subject; and a political system in which even opponents of slavery did not believe in racial equality.

Black Workers

Kovarsky and Albrecht noted that the situation for Black workers had a chance to improve in the 1930s as an indirect result of the Depression. As the federal government assumed responsibility for action on unemployment, a change in economic thinking resulted. Since Blacks were on the bottom of the economy, they were beneficiaries of changes not directly aimed at them, the authors said.

After World War II, advances were made when Congress adopted substantial employment as a national policy, the U.S. government through the attorney general's office began to join lawsuits aimed at Black equality, and federal contracts and bank deposits were used as leverage for civil rights, they said.

"The cure-all time" has not solved the problem, which was disguised for years because "grammar school, high school, and even universities put forth an image of tolerance in the United States that was untrue. This was unfortunate because cures are not undertaken until the illness is diagnosed," said Kovarsky and Albrecht.

They said, "Government, business and union leaders could aid substantially to Black quest for fair employment; but it will be necessary to shift emphasis from the solving of technical problems to extending meaningful aid to the Black."

"But this would require a resolution that is, for the most part, missing. While much of the emphasis today with respect to fair employment is on the Black, perhaps as much or more emphasis should be placed on the white community."

They concluded, "Too many in our society, educators included, are uninterested in assuming responsibility for the patterns of prejudice that have developed over the years. Without dedication, and resolution there can be no end to racial strife."

It's coffee time any time in our part of the country. Every housewife has their own brand and way of making coffee. Here are a couple of hints that prove most successful:

1. Use a clean coffee pot. Coffee has a tiny film of oil, so add detergent to the hot water when you wash the pot. Be sure to rinse well.

2. Determine the measure you like and stick to it. Most people use one tablespoon of coffee for each cup.

3. Watch your timing when you percolate coffee. Six to eight minutes is about right.

4. Use only fresh water and fresh coffee.

Follow these ideas and you'll be the best maker of coffee in your area.

with reference to said title and you are referred to said Petition for a more particular statement thereof. The Plaintiff in said Petition states that none of the said Defendants or unknown claimants have in fact any right, title or interest in or to the above described premises or any part thereof or any color of right, title or interest therein and that the Plaintiff and his immediate grantors have been in the sole, complete, open, notorious, actual and undisputed adverse possession of the said premises for more than ten years last past under claim of title and ownership thereof and have been the undisputed and unequalled owners thereof for over ten years and that by reason thereof and of the lapse of time and the laches of the Defendants in failing to assert any pretended claim thereto and in permitting valuable improvements to be made thereon relying on such possession and ownership, the Defendants are estopped from asserting any right, title, claim or interest therein adverse to the Plaintiff. EVERYONE WELCOME

TINY TOT COMPREHENSIVE DAY CARE, INC.

Tiny Tot Comprehensive Day Care Service, Inc., is a neighborhood-based corporation formed on a non-profit basis whose sole purpose is to provide a high-quality comprehensive child care service. This group was organized approximately three years ago to take advantage of newly developed training or work opportunities which provided by the new office of Economic Opportunity programs.

Tiny Tots Gets Its Start

In the beginning this was a very informal service. NOT very good quality in terms of the usual criteria used to judge such services, but very exciting, in that it had the active involvement of most of the parents whose children were served by it.

From a beginning in which eight to ten children were cared for at an OEO center with parents bringing lunch for their own child, Tiny Tot Day Care Service, Inc., has grown to serve more than one hundred children and is thus the largest provider of such services in the Des Moines area.

Employee Training Program

Many of its employees have had nine weeks of formal training (followed by four weeks of supervised OJT) funded under an MDTA grant. Staff training is being provided on continuing basis by a former member of the Iowa State University Child Development Department. A grant under Title VIII of the Housing Act of 1964 will be utilized to provide initial training for the new child care workers who will be required as the service expands to serve more children and advanced training for persons who have completed the entrance level training and wish to further upgrade their skills.

Day Care Facilities Improved

The facilities in which Tiny Tot Day Care Service, Inc., offers its services have constantly improved since the beginning of its operation. Initially, the buildings occupied were so poor in quality that they could not possibly be considered for licensing.

It has been suggested in the brief description of the Tiny Tot Day Care Service, Inc., parents of children served have always had a great deal to say about the kind of service which the organization provides. Within the limits imposed by an always precarious financial position the director of the service has always attempted to provide the kinds of service which parents wanted.

Parents Held Name Service

As Model City sponsorship promised to make a better quality of service possible by making more resources available, parents were encouraged to express their desires for improvements in the service. A series of meetings were held, and participants were urged to express themselves as to what the service should be if it were really to meet their child care needs. It was in these meetings that the reasons for the long and descriptive name of the corporation emerged. The name became Tiny Tot Comprehensive Child Care Service, Inc.

Key Words: Comprehensive and Child Care

The two key words are 1) comprehensive, which conveys the very strong feeling that many of the aspects of really good care which the often harried inner-city mother finds difficult to provide are demanded of this organization and 2) child care as opposed to day care which conveys the idea that this service must provide care service to all of the children in a family which seeks its service at a cost which the family can afford to pay.

The goal of the Tiny Tot program is to provide children with an environment where growth and development can take place:

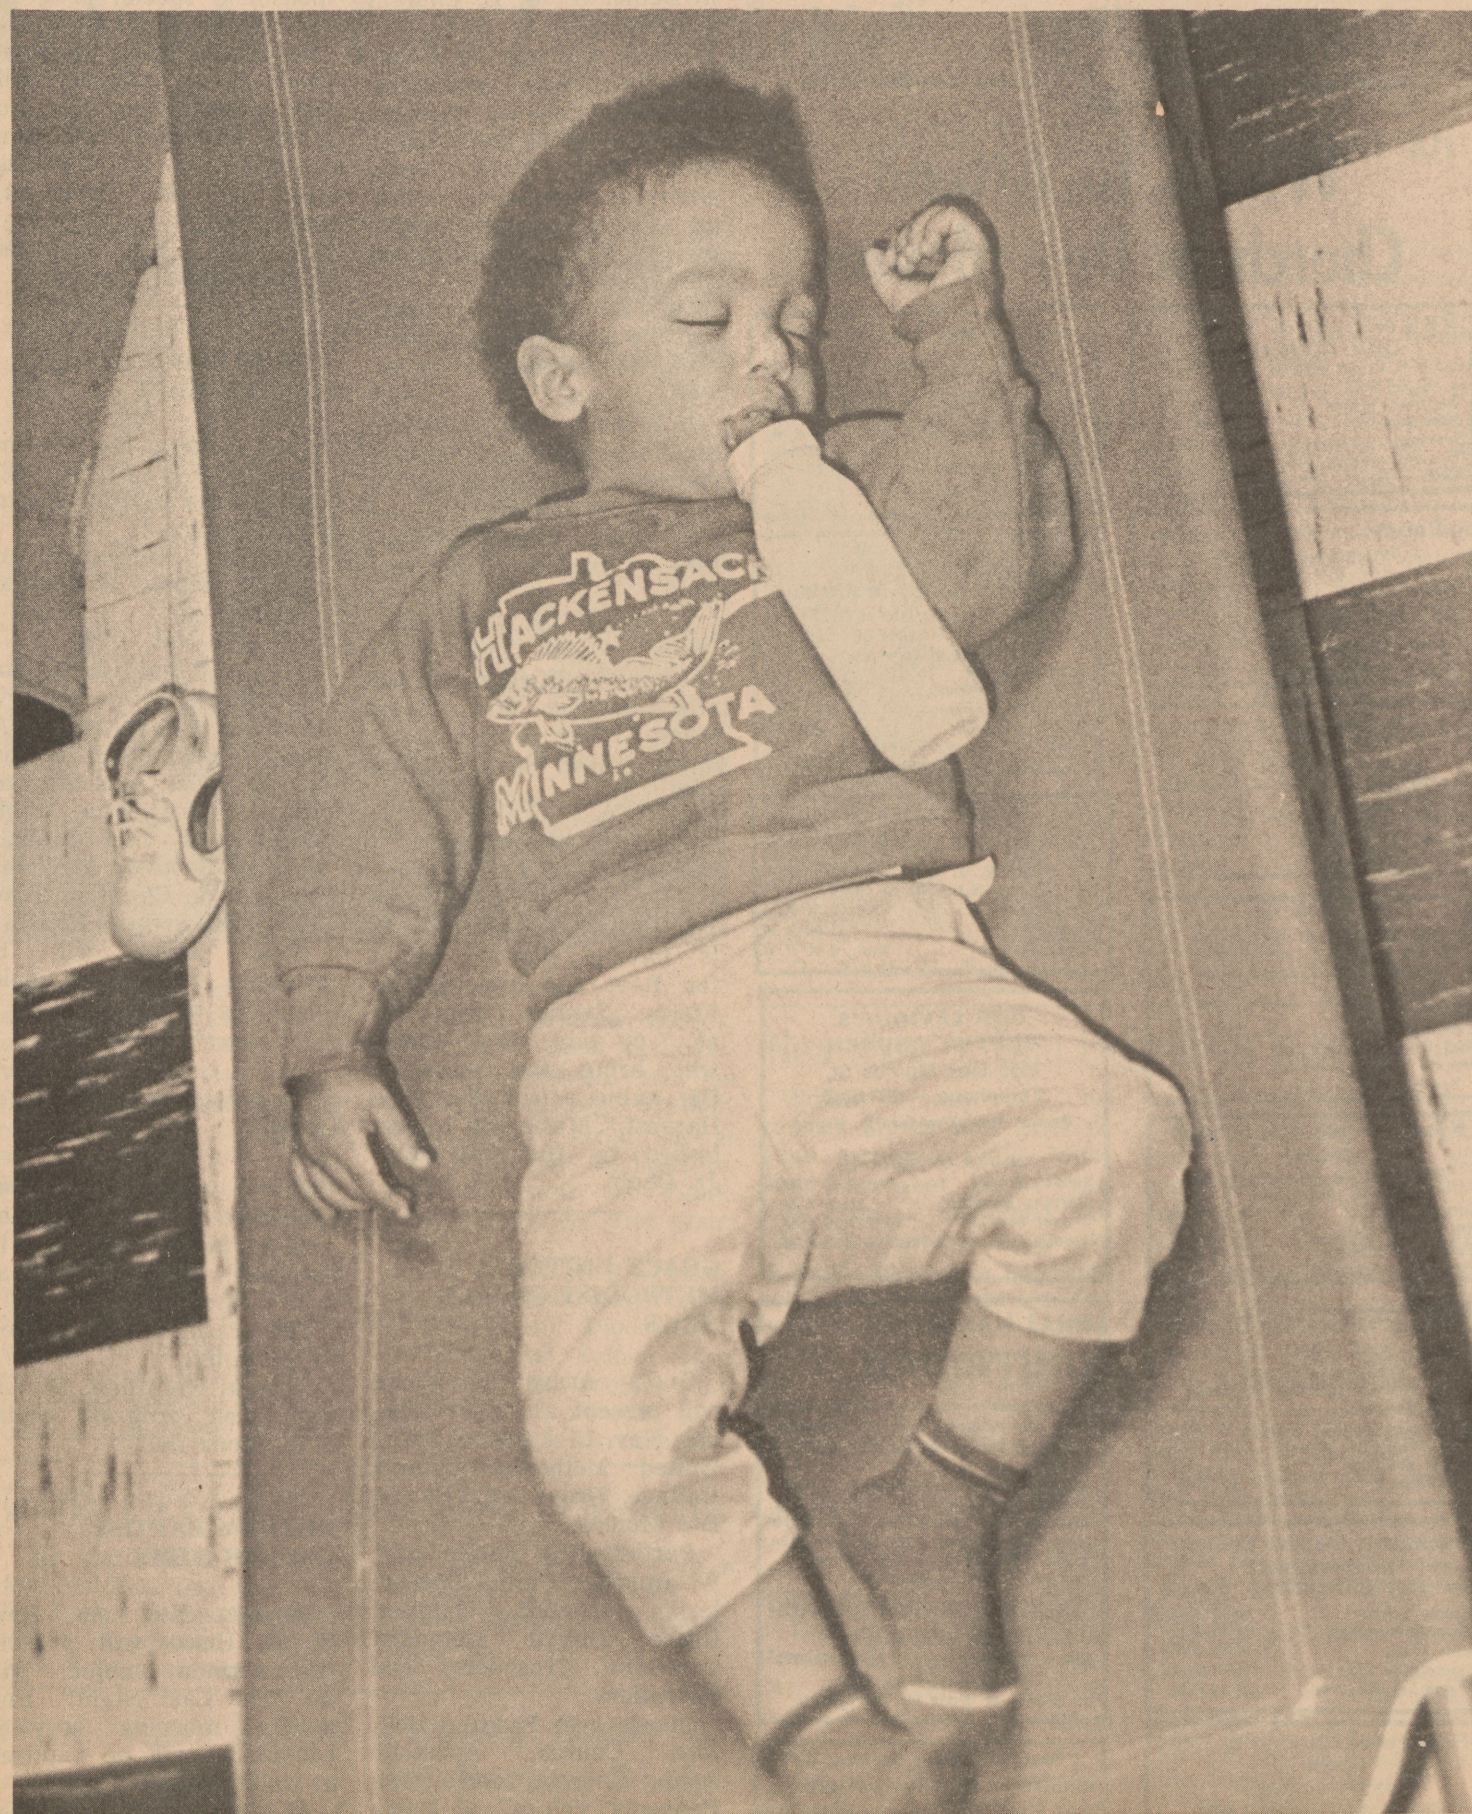

1. Supply proper food, rest, exercise and medical needs.
2. Gain in coordination.
3. Gain independence in caring for physical needs.
1. Acquire and apply knowledge and skill appropriate to his age.
2. Become familiar with his environment and the world about him.
3. Gain ability in problem solving, creative thinking.
1. Gain skills for working and living with others.
2. Develop communication skills.

To achieve this goal, Tiny Tot works hard at providing a stimulating environment using good equipment and materials.

Providing individual affection and security for each child is also stressed. This is done primarily in two ways; through supervision of activities by trained teachers and child care workers, and through participation of parents in activities related to family life and child development.

THE TINY TOT STAFF

Many of the staff personnel have had over three months of formal training and supervision made possible through member of the Iowa State University Child Development Department. Advantage has also been taken of opportunities for advanced training of personnel.

Two year old Steven Riffe, of 1504 9th St., is enrolled in the nursery program. Their activities consist of; learning to play with each other, and obviously, nap-time.

Velma Coleman, the center's LPN from Model Cities. Tiny Tots give Model Cities people top priority, when it comes to employment.

Former Des Moines Minister Plans Mortgage Burning Ceremony

Vandalia, Mo. Elder Richard L. Smith of Vandalia plans a mortgage burning ceremony for his church, purchased in July of 1966. Smith is the pastor of the Faith Tabernacle Church of God in Christ, 912 Home St. in Vandalia, Missouri.

Elder Smith was formerly a member of the New Jerusalem Church of God in Christ and was made a licensed minister by the late Bishop M.E. Goodman. He also worked under the Bishop E. A. Tindral.

Elder Smith, his wife, and children Mashelle, Richard Jr. and Scott, moved to Missouri to answer the call in Vandalia.

There has been one addition to their family since leaving Iowa, Robyn, aged three.

Elder Smith says he couldn't have obtained his goal so successfully, if it weren't for the love and fellowship of the people in Missouri. His Iowa associates still stand with him.

The last event aimed at "Clearing the Slate" on the mortgage was held on Saturday, Oct. 3rd. The church had a barbeque featuring chicken, ribs, and a whole hog. The event was called "Hog Day" and it really wiped the slate clean.

Elder Smith and his family are now in Memphis, Tenn. attending the National Conventions of the Churches of God in Christ. On his return, he will announce the date for the ceremonies.

GREAT FUN

GREAT FUN. Alvin Jones, 7, New Orleans, thinks the medical exam he is getting from Dr. Theodore F. Thurmon is lots of fun. Of course it helps to have his mother standing by to reassure him, and the lollipop he knows he can count on from Dr. Thurmon doesn't hurt either. Alvin, who is a patient at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center in New Orleans, is just one of some 250,000 babies born each year with a birth defect. Through its network of patient service and research centers, The National Foundation-March of Dimes provides care for children like Alvin.

Take Your Medicine

The trouble with the family of today is that everybody in it wears the pants.

You don't have to stay awake nights to succeed. Just stay awake days.

Swallowing one's pride is non-fattening.

Someday science may explain why a child can't walk around a puddle.

There'll be no puddles in your path when you come into Williams Pharmacy, 1430 University Avenue, Phone 288-3266 for spray colognes of every description.

LAURA AND WILLIAM MILLER share with us news of their youngest, Jennifer (Ginger) Miller. Ginger, a Drake University graduate, now resides in St. Paul, Minnesota, where she is a member of its Public School System. This term she is hostess and teacher on its Educational Television entitled "We, the People", Inter-cultural Education, which is shown live on KTCA-TV, Channel 2, Mondays from 1:10 - 1:30. She has already appeared in three of the series of American Indians. The program's publicity piece shows the series to include: The Iroquois, October 19; Indian Legends, October 26; The Chippewa, November 2; The Dakota, November 9; The Winnebago, November 16; Basic Values, November 23; and the Modern Indian, November 30.

Jennifer Miller

GINGER WILL FOLLOW THE AMERICAN INDIAN SERIES with six programs each on Afro-Americans, Mexican-Americans, and on Asian-Americans. The programs and lessons are geared to grades 5 through 8. Bruce Baird is program director and Mrs. Lorraine Palarine is supervisor.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, the pretty, young teacher loves her assignment and already is deeply involved with her role. Confiding an innermost thought, she laughingly says she thinks she has it made if she can remember which camera to smile into. Here's her snapshot! Now I ask you isn't she quite something! Just keep smiling, Ginger Baby!

GINGER HAS NEATLY REVERSED THE ROLE of being Rhoda Miller's kid sister! Instead the situation is thisaway! Rhoda, also a teacher in the St. Paul Public School System, was determined not to miss Ginger's first program. This being the case, she took her television set to school and told her students she didn't want to hear a peep out of anyone from 1:00 to 1:30! How lucky can a class be! (Sorry, Rhoda, I loved this!) Fancy what it means to the youngster's that their teacher is the sister of a television personality! And Rhoda? She is Miss Jennifer Miller's sister—a switch, as I was saying!

LAWYER ROBERT A. WRIGHT, NAACP STATE CHAIRMAN, in his speech at the NAACP banquet brought to mind a tiny framed poem which hangs on the wall of our study. It is something I treasure from my mother's possessions! Wright, a superb speaker quoted Henry Van Dyke! The poem follows:

FOUR THINGS a man must learn to do, IF HE would make his record true.
TO THINK without confusion, clear,
TO LOVE his fellow men sincerely.
TO ACT from honest motives purely.
TO TRUST in God and Heaven securely.

IDENTITY! Again referring to the occasion of the NAACP State meeting, a youthful figure attired in a fringed leather vest walked past my table. Noting the strictly today's vest and the richly full Afro hair style of its wearer, I turned to my leather mini-skirted companion and drew her attention to the youthful figure. Nodding her head, she responded to my compliments concerning the vest with "Yes, he's very nice-looking!" I just saw the vest and I so replied weakly, realizing that being young, she would see a good-looking fellow. And me? Well, I did see the vest and that's something, I hope. All of this to say I later found the vest to be worn by none other than Bob Wright, Jr.! Agreed! My leather mini-skirted companion was (and is) wright! (Spelling ok?) To his credit, Bob always does the important things in life with his parents!

William Morris Honored In Piano Recital

Des Moines Girl Competes For NIACC's Homecoming Queen

Diana King, a sophomore at Northern Iowa Area Community College (NIACC) in Mason City, recently competed for NIACC's homecoming queen.

Diana graduated from high school in Des Moines and is a business education major.

FUTURE PLANS
After completing this year at NIACC, Diana plans to work for the government as an interviewer for job applicants.

Her interests include sewing, photography, and all sports. Diana's interest in sports is reflected in her cheerleading activities.

A member of Circle A, a women's service club, she expressed her opinion on the Black Revolution saying, "I'm black, and I enjoy being black. I wouldn't want to any other race."

Black Can Be More Beautiful

When Alyce Stoney was a little girl adults often talked about how pretty she was, but she didn't believe them because she was Black.

Half a century later came the slogan, "Black is Beautiful." Along with thousands of other Negroes, Miss Stoney began to believe she actually was attractive.

Cosmetics Especially For Negroes
Cosmetics now are being made especially for the Negro woman. She no longer has to sort through cosmetics for whites, searching for something that complements her skin tones. At one time complaints were made that many large cosmetic firms did not provide shades dark enough or that the shades available left a grayish film called ash.

Makeup To Be Introduced At Younkers

A new make-up for Negro women will be introduced at Younkers Department Store in Des Moines on Nov. 16, 1970. Des Moines' Margaret Rhone will be on hand to demonstrate the new cosmetics. Miss Stoney is a representative of Flori Roberts, Inc.

Cosmetic Lines Based On Melanin Concept

Researched for over a year and formulated with scientific data, the entire line is based on the Melanin concept. It is the amount of Melanin or dark pigment in the skin that makes one complexion different from another.

Emphasis will be on the new make-up shafes that blend with and beautify the darker skin tones, for a perfectly natural look. These colorings will be available in products that include a sheer liquid Foundation (in nine sepia shades) plus an Under Toner, Facial-Do cremes to cover shadows, wrinkles or blotches and re-shape large unattractive features.

Dry Skin Conditioner
For ash dry skin, the company has discovered Spray-Away, a completely different body moisturizer that is recommended for the whole family. Quickly absorbed, fragrant, non-greasy, here is the lasting answer to after-bath dryness. Comes in a five ounce spray container for easy application.

Another innovation by Mrs. Roberts is the "Dressy Nail." A pearl polish that will make nails more glamorous than ever before. Available in soft elegant colors that give a transparent glow and glamour to your hands.

Total Skin Car

In addition to the art of make-up, Mrs. Roberts believes strongly in Total Skin Care for a healthy glowing complexion. To meet the needs of oiler skin, the company's labs have created several exclusive formulas....Disposable Astringent Pads, an Anti-Oil Lotion that degreases as it tightens the pores, a purifying Honey and Almond Facial, a spot-blot refresher in Gel form, and a deep buy gentle wash-away cleanser, especially recommended for the younger set.

It is interesting to note that large amounts of Melanin seem to serve as a built-in protection against skin. Thus, the soman of darkest complexion has more chance of remaining younger looking than her fairer counterpart.

One of the most common mistakes women make when they buy clothes is buying the wrong size. Lots of women with perfectly trim figures hide their assets under saggy, baggy dresses a full two sizes too large, while heavier types tend to squeeze into a size smaller than they need.

Proper fit can make a moderately priced dress look like a couture design and vice versa. Check these points when shopping:

—Does the hem hang straight and even?
—Does the dress lie smooth across the back of the neck, or does it gap?
—Does the front of the neckline rub your neck and make the dress uncomfortable?
—Do the shoulders fit snugly but not too tight?
—Is the waistline too high or too low in front and in back?
—Are the armholes cut high and neat so there's no drop in front or across the bodice?

Remember, a fashion-wise shopper is a fashion right dresser!

NAVY STRIVES TO SERVE MORE AREAS

Last week, the editor of the Bystander, along with two other Des Moines citizens and 32 high school counselors from over the state, were favored with an inspection trip to the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

The purpose was to enable counselors to do an intelligent job advising youngsters about the navy as a career. Such trips are given counselors from other states.

Few people realize the magnitude of this facility which trains officers for the navy — training that requires high academic standards, a high moral code not only personal but toward each other and the country. Both rich and poor go there but once in uniform all are on the same level and must meet the same standards.

Cleanliness, orderliness, integrity, responsibility are all top requirements. There are no natural hair cuts, no long beards or mustaches and of course, Afro-Houses are out.

Any visitor, having inspected the academy and being briefed on its overall program, is bound to wish every American boy could have a period of this training. It would certainly make this a better place to live in.

The navy is trying hard to reverse the Negro's misgivings about the service built up by the old timers who made every effort to restrict them to menial tasks without any reward for excellence; neither were they admitted to the academy.

The present administration is working hard and intelligently to reverse that image. The superintendent has insisted that Negro officers and instructors be on the staff — and they are. There are forty Negro midshipmen and, like the rest they present fine appearances.

It is important that citizens have the full knowledge of what its government is doing. And while all of us won't go to the Naval Academy or other equally important installations of the government, representatives like these do and can pass the information on to their neighbors and schools.

ECONOMIC ISSUES

CONTROLLED THE VOTE

The election Tuesday brought surprises to many people, many unexpected by those who had hoped the hard line campaign of Vice President Agnew and the President to turn the tide for Republican victories.

But it did not. Historically, the election during a President's first term in office, he experiences heavy losses in the house of representatives. This was not the case this year. Republicans lost only eight, and gained one senate seat.

The blow came to Republicans in the loss of several governors the backbone of political machines in a state.

The election was a direct warning to President Nixon that some of his policies must be changed. Undoubtedly, most voters believe that his efforts toward peace show some signs of results and are willing to support them.

The domestic front is different. Most voters are hurt by inflation. The guesses of his economic advisers have not been out. As the production of war material slows down many people are thrown out of work, particularly in the large aircraft-manufacturing centers. Methods must be found to put them to work.

High interest rates are pinching everybody. The President's southern strategy has failed him as it should. Experience has shown that every Republican President who tried to reorganize the southern Republican party, which did not include the Negro in

With Allen Ashby

Iowa fans were happy, and well they might have been at the Hawks' lopsided win over Indiana. But, really, that team, on that particular day, was the worst Big Ten team we ever saw. The first three Iowa scores were directly from Hoosier mistakes. Not just physical errors, but mental as well. But, if you were an Iowa fan, it didn't matter how many mistakes Indiana made, the important thing was that our side won. There is a rather slim chance that the Hawks can trip Michigan, which might be looking past Iowa at Ohio State. Could be, but don't hock the family jewels to bet on Iowa. Then comes Illinois, still on the rebound from the firing of their head coach. They just might be tougher than all git-out, and could upset the boys in their own back yard. Now, the big question is will Coach Ray Nagel keep his job after this season? Maybe a four-five one record might do it, but we don't think a three-six, one mark will be good enough. We heard that the man said in a meeting last week that he may not be coaching at Iowa next year but he believed that all the troubles at Iowa were now ironed out. But, those troubles include a whole gob of losing seasons with breaking even a moral victory, and that hasn't been ironed out yet. Maybe the guy can do it with another year, but will the fans, who stayed away in considerable numbers wait another year for a winner?

Iowa State

At Iowa State, Coach Majors said he thought he had the best losing squad in the country. The Cyclones did give Nebraska a good tussle, and a busy afternoon before they bowed. Just about everybody we talked to who was there said it was a good game to watch. And several people have asked us about the squabble about an Iowa-Iowa State game.

The series was discontinued in the early twenties because of fights among both players and spectators. The most publicized incident was the deal in which the Iowa State captain took a swing at Duke Slater, who was a pretty fair amateur heavyweight boxer. Well, the Duke scored a one punch key over the Cyclone captain, and that didn't help matters any.

Then there was that game in the early thirties when the Hawks, with Ozzie Simmons, came to Ames for a light workout, and found themselves up against a team playing for their lives. The result was embarrassing to Iowa, 31 to 6. Then the reason was given for not renewing the series was the same as that given for the Cyclones breaking off the Drake series.

The plans, had trouble. This was particularly true of Presidents Taft and Hoover. So in Mr. Nixon's game he was hurt both North and South.

President Nixon campaigned hard in the election. He is a loyal party man. But we don't believe his advisers give him the right information, the right strategy to solve some of the problems which plague the country.

Activities of the Iowa
Civil Rights Commission

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission has never failed to take a stand on issues which it believed important to the people. Sometimes the stands have not been popular. Occasionally they have led to broad and open discussions challenging the right of the Commission and its staff to take stands.

The fact remains that when we believe that justice exists we must and we do say so. However, there are times when the actions of the Commission speak louder than a thousand words.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission in the performance of its duties under the law found William Reed and Iron Workers Local 67 responsible for discriminatory actions toward Mr. Joseph Roe and the Weitz Construction Company. This was looked upon as a landmark decision in the struggle to seek out and eliminate discrimination. The commission in a far-

An anti climax, and one team would stake its whole season on the result while the other would just not be able to get up after a tough conference campaign.

Now, we would think that if Iowa State would agree to play all the games at Iowa Stadium for a few years, the big reason, financial, would be eliminated. Maybe the Iowa athletic board does think trouble would come of the game, but that remains to be seen.

Drake

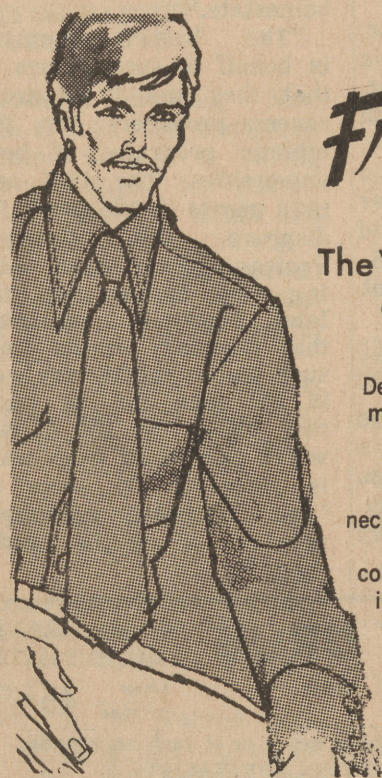

Drake got back on the winning trail again, and is assured of a winning season. We still think the Bulldogs can play in the Missouri Valley and not finish last, even if they don't win the title.

Dowling

Here at Home, our Dowling watcher must have been disappointed when the Maroons dumped Healan last Saturday night. He kept saying they would lose two games, so they went unbeaten. We think he was secretly hoping they would do that, but was afraid they wouldn't so he kept predicting disaster so that, when it did come it wouldn't hurt so badly. We intend to see that the guy gets a copy of this part of our masterpiece.

East came up with a win over a strong Sioux City Central outfit.

Those guys blew hot and cold all year, and so did North. At times they looked like the best in the state, and then again, they probably couldn't beat Amos Hiatt. Aside from Dowling, Lincoln was about the only consistent club among the city high schools. Oh, yes, Tech. They never did win.

QUESTION: I am a widow and have worked many years under social security. I will soon be age 60 and understand I can get widow's benefits then. However, my own earnings have been greater than my husband's, so can I take my own benefit at age 60?

Authorized Change

Congressional consent is required to change the design of a U.S. coin before the expiration of a 25-year period. Such consent was given when the John F. Kennedy half-dollar replaced the Benjamin Franklin half-dollar, which had been adopted in 1948.

WE WEAR THE MASK
We wear the mask that grins and lies,
It hides our cheeks and shades our eyes,—
This debt we pay to human guile;
With torn and bleeding
hearts we smile,
And mouth with myriad subtleties.
Why should the world be overwise,
In counting all our tears and sighs?

Nay, let them only see us,
while We wear the mask.
We smile, but, O great
Christ, our cries
To thee from tortured souls arise.
We sing, but oh the clay is vile
Beneath our feet, and long
the mile;
But let the world dream
otherwise,
We wear the mask!

Members of the planning committee include leaders of business, the news media, education, civic groups and church groups. Funds raised in connection with the celebration will go toward the support of Camp Achievement, an interracial summer camp for children which was also founded by Dr. Illery.

Health for All

KICK THE HABIT
BEFORE YOU KICK
THE BUCKET

"Kick the Habit Before You Kick the Bucket" is a slogan on the wall at a teenagers' social club in Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

The kids allow smoking in a special spot called the Cancer Room. X-rays of diseased lungs decorate the black walls. The ashtray is a sand-filled coffin.

Although thousands of teenagers start smoking every year, some of them are hard at work trying to convince their friends not to start. Or to kick the habit.

One example. In California, the Kern County Interagency Council on Smoking and Health-of which the Tuberculosis and Health Association is a member-organized an intriguing project to see if teenagers could get across the anti-smoking message to other teenagers more effectively than adults can.

Sixty teenagers selected by their peers as leaders set up their own brand of advertising agency. Each teenager staff member chose the position he wanted to fill: account supervisor, copywriter, traffic director, art director, and other jobs. The project, called "Smoke Out," was run according to techniques used in the local organization of Junior Achievers where youngsters run businesses of their own under the guidance of local businessmen.

The campaign was a smashing success, and the medias were flooded with anti-smoking messages that spoke to young people.

The respiratory disease association in your area is vitally interested in the problem of smoking and programs to combat it. This is their message to teenagers and adults alike: Kick the habit. It's a matter of life and breath.
