'Political Frameup' Says Angela

"I Am Innocent"
Says Militant
Angela Davis

As black militant, Angela Davis, was lead into the heavily guarded San Rafael courtroom, she raised a clenched fist in a black power salute and smiled as some of the 60 spectators called out "Right on!"

Miss Davis is accused of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the Marin County courthouse shootings which left two convicts, an accomplice and a Superior Court judge dead in an escape attempt last August.

Police claim Miss Davis furnished the four guns in the escape attempt.

When escorted into the courtroom, she told Superior Court Judge Joseph Wilson, "I want to declare publicly before the court and the people of this country that I am innocent of all charges brought against me by the state of California."

"My presence in this court is unrelated to any criminal activities. I stand before this court as the target of a political frame-up."

"If I am to be given a fair trial, of which I am doubtful, it is imperative that I be given the right of co-counsel."

Judge Wilson told Miss Davis that she could not enter a plea at this time.

Her chief counsel, Allan Brotsky of San Francisco, made motions for bail and for dismissing the grand jury indictments of on grounds of insufficient evidence and improper make-up of the grand jury.

All Marin County judges have dismissed themselves because of friendship for Judge Harold J. Haley, who was killed in the Aug. 7 gun battle.

Suspect Parker
Bound over to
Polk Co. Jury

Marvin Parker, charged with the Dec. 11 shooting of Ann Marie Tursic, 31, was bound over to the Polk County Grand Jury, Tuesday.

Miss Tursic was shot fatally when a man approached her and her roommate Karen Krueger, 30, and demanded money.

Parker was identified in a lineup by Miss Krueger, Dec. 18, and was charged with murder.

Miss Krueger said a blackman approached them, asked directions to Ingersoll Avenue and then demanded money.

Miss Tursic hit the man with a Christmas package, then the man fired the gun at her than Miss Krueger. Authorities said Miss Tursic was struck in the heart by the bullet and died at the scene.

After describing the shooting, Miss Krueger identified Parker as the assailant.

Polk County Aft. Ray Fenton represented the state at Parker's preliminary hearing Tuesday in Municipal Court and Henry T. McKnight, a Des Moines Attorney, represented Parker. Lawrence Scalise, the court-appointed attorney was unable to attend the hearing because he was snowbound at his home in Carlisle.

Ia.-Ill. Utilities To Consolidate

The Federal Power Commission has approved the consolidation of Iowa Power and Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company including retention of the gas properties of the two companies.

The commission's order, which upheld the hearing examiner's decision of July 2, 1970, provides 90 days for the two firms to form the new company to be known as Iowa Energy Corporation.

After 4 Years, A Plan
Dwight Swanson, President of Iowa Power, is out of the state. However, Charles H. Whitmore, President of Iowa-Illinois, said the Commission's decision "provides a particularly gratifying conclusion to more than four years of intense effort by both utilities to effect a plan of consolidation."

Whitmore said the first quarter of 1971 will be the target date for the two companies to begin operating officially as Iowa Energy.

Benefits Will Result
During the consolidation proceedings, the FPC staff recognized that significant benefits would result from the consolidation, but recommended divestiture of the gas properties by the new company within five years. The two utilities contended that divestiture of gas properties would severely penalize both customers and shareholders of the proposed company.

Testimony by the two companies before the Commission has stressed the many savings in operating costs which would be lost by separating the gas and electric properties. The companies also argued that the FPC has no jurisdiction to require divestiture of gas distribution property.

The statements filed by the Iowa State Commerce Commission and Iowa Public Service Company,

Court Decision Gives Lift To American Cops

A University of Iowa law professor says U.S. Supreme Court decisions protecting the rights of the accused have ended up giving a lift to American policemen.

Ronald Carlson, who has just published a manual called "Criminal Justice Procedure for Police," says the court's restrictions have stimulated public understanding for the difficult work a policeman does.

He said the result has been a rapid increase in the availability of training for policemen in academies, community colleges and universities. The U of I professor said police officers always had the desire to know more about their profession but the rise in public support has made it possible.

Mrs. Robinson Chosen to New Grand Jury

Mrs. Beatrice M. Robinson, 810 Boyd St., has been appointed as one of the 12 Polk County Grand Jury members.

Mrs. Robinson is the first Negro woman appointed to the Grand Jury in several years.

Sioux City, these participants in the hearings went on record as supporting the continuation of the joint operation of the gas and electric properties. An order issued on November 12, 1969, by the Illinois Commerce Commission also approved the consolidation and called for a continuation of combined operation.

NEWS In A Nutshell

WASHINGTON, D.C. - In a renewed effort to have Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday, January 15, designated as a national holiday, the formation of a 90-member citizens' committee was announced recently in Washington. The group includes 7 U.S. Senators, 16 Congressmen, the Presidents of the National Council of Churches, United Auto Workers, State, County and Municipal Employees Union, and other representatives from government, labor, business, religion and the arts.

MILWAUKEE - Attorney Gloria E. A. Toote, legal-counsel for prominent Harlem community and labor leader L. Joseph Overton, accused in a recent Federal Court indictment, has charged the United States Attorney's office and segments of the daily press with having "legally prejudiced the case" and having "violated customary legal rights of the defendants" in their haste to get their story out.

DETROIT - Dr. Leon Sullivan, 48, pastor of the Zion Baptist church in Philadelphia, was elected Monday to the General Motors Corp. board of directors, the first Negro member of the board in the corporation's 63-year history. Dr. Sullivan is a nationally known leader in the training of minorities for work in business and industry.

NASHVILLE, TENN. - A special survey of state police forces found that "no more than 250 of the nation's 40,000 state policemen are black." Available figures suggest that another 500 state troopers are from other racial minorities. At least 10 states have no black troopers and only five states have as many as 10.

Graduate of Fisk Univ. Succeeds Perry Hook; First Woman in Post

"I hope to bring black and white, rich and poor together," said Edna Griffin, newly appointed manager of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce Urban Affairs Bureau.

Mrs. Edna M. Griffin, 51 of 1608 Forty-fourth St. was named to this position Thursday, Dec. 31. She is a long-time leader in civil rights efforts here.

She succeeds Perry Hooks, who resigned last fall to accept a post with the regional office of the federal department of Housing and Urban Development at Kansas City.

During the interim, Mrs. June Franklin held the post temporarily. She will return to her position as assistant to the president of American Republic Insurance Co.

Mrs. Griffin's appointment was announced at a press conference at Chamber headquarters. Watson Powell, Jr., Chamber president, said: "We believe a black woman can do this job very well. Mrs. Griffin will be holding one of the most important positions available to a woman in this community."

"We hope the black community will understand that she represents them, that the white community realizes she brings maturity to the position and that she will work to build a bridge between the black and white communities."

"This is a support position, rather than a policy position, but she will be able to influence policy through the bureau," Powell said.

Two Years
The Urban Affairs Bureau was established two years ago when the Chamber decided to take a more active part in matters of social concern rather than "just looking to the economic well-being of the business and manufacturing complex," Powell said.

Starting salary for Mrs. Griffin's new post is $13,500 a year.

Mrs. Griffin was born at Carlisle Ky., grew up in Walpole, N.H., graduated from Fisk University at Nashville, Tenn., in 1943 and came to Des Moines in 1947.

Her husband, Stanley, is a Des Moines osteopath.

They have four children ages 18 to 23. Mrs. Griffin taught English in Des Moines High Schools full time during the 1967-68 school year and as a substitute the last two years. She also taught English at the Des Moines Area Community College in the evening during that same period.

Challenge
In 1948, Mrs. Griffin was one of three blacks who challenged a local business establishment when blacks were denied food service. They won their legal battle and eventually were upheld by the Iowa Supreme Court.

Mrs. Griffin was chairman of the National Association of Colored People (NAACP) Housing Committee in 1958-59 and organized a chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) here in 1963.

She has made tours for the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church speaking on race relations and has served on the National Conference of Friends on race relations. She is a member of the Unitarian Church.

Political Leaders Gather in Baltimore

Black political power united recently in Baltimore at a testimonial for State Senator Clarence M. Mitchell, III, (Left), who is among leading candidates to become city's first black mayor, next year. In center is the honorable Carl B. Stokes, first black mayor of Cleveland, who was principal speaker at affair. Flanking him is Maryland's first black Congressman-elect, Parren J. Mitchell, the Senator's uncle.

New Home for Family

The family of James Earl Green, who was killed by police gunfire during the Jackson State College crisis last June, has been given a new home by the Medgar Evers Fund, it was announced by Fund President Charles Evers, Mayor of Fayette, Miss.

The 17-year-old Green was killed by a bullet fired by State Police while leaving a local bus on his way home from work during the disorders at Jackson State. He was more than 100 yards from the scene of the disorders at the time he was shot.

Green Was a Main Support

Green was one of the main sources of support for his mother and eight brothers and sisters. Two weeks prior to James Green's death, the home in which his family resided burned to the ground accidentally. The home was insured for only $150.

The twin tragedies which fell upon the Green family prompted the Board of Directors of the Medgar Evers Fund to appropriate funds to purchase the new home for the Green family.

Americans Deplore Violence

In announcing purchase of the home and transfer of the deed to the mother of James, Mayor Evers said: "We wanted both to demonstrate to the innocent victims of the Jackson State College disaster that Americans of both races deplore the indiscriminate use of force against unarmed black college students and to do this in a manner consistent with Medgar's non-violent approach to life. Clearly, the Green family needed a decent home more than anything else so we chose this way to demonstrate our concern," he added.

The Fund is named for Mayor Evers' brother Medgar, who was assassinated in 1963 while leading the NAACP's voter campaigns in Mississippi as Field Secretary for the nation's largest civil rights organization. He was succeeded in that post by Charles Evers.

Home is Christmas Gift
The one-story wood frame house has three bedrooms and an enclosed sleeping porch. It was purchased for $9,000 and is located in Jackson, Miss. The Green family moved into the home during Christmas week.

Admr. Orders Changes

The Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral E. R. Zumwalt, Jr., ordered all commanding officers to appoint a special assistant for minority affairs last week.

In a message sent to all Navy fleet and shore personnel, Admiral Zumwalt, the Navy's top officer, said that "this officer or petty officer should have direct access to the commanding officer and will be consulted on all matters involving minority personnel."

The message, known as "Z NAVOP 66," is the latest in a series of messages from the 50-year old CNO to all Navy personnel and responds to Navy Secretary John H. Chafee's recent directive ordering a renewed effort for the Navy in making equal opportunity a reality.

Since July this year, when Admiral Zumwalt became the youngest Navy Admiral to become Chief of Naval Operations, his personal orders, known throughout the Navy as "Z-Grams," have established new leave policies for fleet personnel, new uniform regulations, and expanded benefits for service personnel and their dependents.

In this latest message, titled "Equal Opportunity in the Navy," Admiral Zumwalt said:

"Last month, Secretary Chafee and I, along with other senior officials of the Navy Department, met on one occasion with representative black Navy officers and their wives and later with a representative group of black enlisted men and their wives.

"Prior to these meetings, I was convinced that, compared with the civilian community, we had relatively few racial problems in the Navy. However, after exploring the matter in some depth with these two groups, I have discovered that I was wrong—we do have problems, and it is my intention and that of Secretary Chafee to take prompt steps toward their solution.

"For example, I am particularly distressed by the numerous examples of discrimination black Navy families still experience in attempting to locate housing for their families.

"Secretary Chafee and I have asked our staffs to begin work with other members of the Navy Department to make an in-depth investigation of this problem and present to us within 60 days proposals which will help alleviate the most acute housing problems. Meanwhile, there are many things that can be acted upon immediately. By January 15, 1971 I expect action to be taken as follows:

Every base, station and aircraft squadron commander and ship commanding officer shall appoint an aware minority group officer or senior petty officer as his Special Assistant for Minority Affairs.

All shore based commanders shall ensure that a minority group wife is included among the Navy Wives' representatives.

The programs already begun to ensure that the special needs of minority groups are recognized and provided for shall be expedited.

In order that he may reach a more complete understanding of the problems experienced by our minority personnel, Adm. Zumwalt is directing a Special Assistant for Minority Affairs, Lt. Com. William Norman, to visit major Naval activities within the United States to meet with individual commanding officers and with minority military personnel and their dependents.

He said, "It gives teachers the opportunity to redouble their efforts to persuade young people to work within the system rather than attempting to destroy it.

"The argument of young people that it is hypocritical to tell them to work within the system and make it impossible for them to do so until they are 21 is at least in part obviated by the decision."

Q. Our class is studying wastes and how we can get rid of them. Three of us have been assigned to do a report on solid wastes—like trash and paper. Some towns are running out of holes to fill up, and in some cities it's getting to be too expensive to haul wastes a long way. Burning pollutes the air. Isn't anybody doing any research on solid wastes?

B. M., Independence, Mo. A. Solid waste problems have been mounting for years. Los Angeles alone generates enough solid wastes every year to fill a trench six feet deep and 100 feet wide that would stretch from the Mexican border to the Canadian border.

Most economical method for smaller towns and cities is still landfill. But in metropolitan areas, costs to haul is high; land is scarce and expensive. Best method is burning. Not open burning, but sophisticated incineration. Technology has been developed to destroy wastes forever in well-designed incineration systems that do not pollute the air.

In Midland, Mich., Dow Chemical developed such a system many years ago to incinerate hundreds of waste products from chemical production. The company now offers its technology to both industries and municipalities, and systems employing Dow designs are being constructed in Minnesota and Massachusetts.

For more information on incineration without pollution write: Environmental Control Systems, The Dow Chemical Company, 2020 Dow Center, Midland, Mich. 48640.

Belts have re-established themselves as necessities in the fashionable wardrobe. Women who had grown happily accustomed to the freedoms of beltlessness and insisted they would never return to their confines, have slowly given in.

Belts of all sizes and styles are being worn with everything from pants to minks. The heavy leather belt is sharing the spotlight with the popular chain varieties as the status accessory with casual apparel. However, leather models are usually worn slightly loose, sitting on top of the hip bone.

Brass-riveted belts or those with antiqued brass buckle holes carried all the way around the waist look the newest this year. So do skinny belts in leather, perhaps only 1/2" wide. They're often worn in groups of twos and threes in different colors above the waist, at the waist and on the hip bone. Long chain necklaces can be fashionably switched and worn at the waist with pants and at-home skirts.

with police. "I feel very strongly about the need for better communication with the youth in the inner city," Mrs. Griffin said. "We've got to let them know we care. While this is a special concern of mine, it doesn't mean I will limit my work to that area. But I do know many youth feel there is no hope for them in special programs that are designed to help them.

"There is great frustration among many young people and because of this there is a certain degree of hostility," she said. "I've been studying this for three years, including the rock throwing on University Avenue. It seems to me that those young people don't have any clear objective. They don't see any hope for themselves or their peers.

"My hope is to develop better communication with these people, then deal with individual problems on a person-to-person basis by helping them find jobs and obtain needed skills.

"Another of my special interests and perhaps a place where I can make a contribution is in the area of police-community relations. I have already begun working in this area at the grass-roots level through the mothers group on the east side," Mrs. Griffin said.

SOUND ADVICE

Earmuffs For Soldiers?

An investment of $6 per man could be saving the hearing ability of many U.S. soldiers undergoing combat training and would likely also save the government thousands of dollars in compensation payments for the hearing losses being sustained by these soldiers, according to the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

Sponsored by Beltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments, the crusade is designed to make everyone aware of the hazards of noise pollution and of the steps each can take to protect his precious hearing ability.

The modest investment could furnish soldiers with protective earmuff devices similar to those worn by ground crews at commercial airports. These earmuffs effectively screen out the excessively loud noises of artillery, tanks and jet engines, while allowing the user to continue hearing normal sounds.

Hearing losses among troops in certain types of combat training are so common that more than three quarters of the men undergoing this training sustain measurable hearing losses. Unfortunately few soldiers are equipped with earmuff-type protective devices. Even use of Army-issue earplugs helps alleviate the situation, but many soldiers simply do not use them, substituting cigarette filters. When the filters are inserted into the ear canal they frequently are more comfortable to wear than the earplugs, but they offer little protection for the user's hearing ability.

Stainless-Local and Express

New York City's Transit Authority has ordered 250 new cars of nickel stainless steel for the metropolis' subway system. The majority of the cars are scheduled to be delivered in 1971.

Shelves Rest On Wood Pegs

Shelves do not have to be ordinary boards stuck on the wall with metal brackets.

With an open-end installation on a board-paneled wall, try using three-quarter-inch dowels set right into the wall, not more than 20 inches apart. Bore into the studs for best support.

For closed-end shelves, for variable shelf heights, drill two or more rows of holes at two-inch intervals up each end board to accommodate the dowel supports. The dowels may be stained to match or contrast with the shelving.

When building a large grouping of shelves along a wall or as a room divider, the vertical supporting boards can be lined with western red cedar bevel siding, installed upside down.

The thick edge of the siding provides an unusual support for the shelves.

Groupings of shelves running the full length of a hallway provide display areas in a normally wasted space. Using western hemlock, cedar or white pine assures interesting hue and texture.

Two U of Ia Profs State Voting Effects

Two University of Iowa professors believe the chance for 18-, 19- and 20-year olds to vote in federal elections will have an effect on their political participation in later life.

The two are Professor Russell M. Ross, chairman of the U of I Department of Political Science, and Professor John H. Haefner of the College of Education, who is head of social studies at University High School.

18 Year Olds, More In Touch

Professor Ross believes 18-year-olds are more in touch with politics than 21-year-olds are. The younger persons are more likely to have fresh in their minds the material from government courses in their senior years in high school or freshman years in college, he said.

In contrast, 21-year-olds seem to be job-oriented and not so much aware of politics, Ross said. Persons in the 21-25 age group are notorious for ignoring the political system until a mortgage and family responsibilities make them realize they have a stake in the government, he said.

Many Can Vote In High School

But, he said, the U.S. Supreme Court's recent decision dropping the voting age to 18 for federal elections means that many students will be able to vote before they graduate from high school. Haefner, like Ross, believes that this participation will result in continuing political action by larger numbers of citizens.

Ross noted that the number of 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds voting in Georgia and Kentucky, which have had the lower limit for years, has not been impressive. But he believes the two states are typical in that much of their population is spread around in rural areas.

Realism In Class Courses Haefner says the new voting age should mean that high school courses in government and politics will become "exciting, realistic adventures pursued both within and outside the classroom."

Haefner cautioned, "Ignorant voters are no improvement over non-voters." This means that junior and senior high school students must be brought into closer contact with the news media, which are "tools of education for citizenship," he said.

18 Year Olds Need Info "Eighteen-year-olds need to go to the polls armed with all the information they can acquire about the issues and problems of the times. The news media, and particularly the daily newspaper, are key factors in developing the kind of enlightenment intelligent voters require.

"The social studies curriculum will need to reflect even greater concern with contemporary problems," said Haefner.

They Can Work In System

Haefner said the most important factor in the Supreme Court's decision is provision of tangible evidence to "alienated or semi-alienated youth" that the establishment is concerned about them.

DAVENPORT

By Cecile Cooper
225 W. 11th Street

Verne Ashby, formerly of Davenport, Iowa has recently returned from California as an administrative aide to Senator-elect John Tunney (D. Calif.). Mr. Ashby worked as manager in Tunney's successful campaign in Southern California.

Duties as an aide consist of helping Sen. Tunney in administering to the needs of his electorate with special interest on problems of minority groups, throughout the country.

Ashby said that his impressions of his former home state are that the "school drop-out and push-out problems are the most evident."

"Housing is the most crucial," said Ashby "because it affects many more things than just the place in which one lives. Housing problems effect education, contribute to poverty and crime. It limits employment opportunities and perpetuates the cycle of hopelessness and despair," he said.

The 31 year old former Davenport and his family spent the holidays visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Jones and a cousin Simon Roberts.

The Ashby family and Mr. Simon Roberts attended a coffee at the home of Miss Cecile Cooper, who conducted the interview.

Mr. Ashby graduated from the University of Southern California in 1962. At S.C. he played on the championship basketball team for three years. He was a member of the Jr. Class Council and The Skull and Dagger Knights, a men's service organization.

Ashby married Helene Stewart in June 1962. The Ashbys have one son, Vern Jr., born in 1962.

Ashby has an impressive business background. He was manager of the Thrifty Drug Store Chain from 1963-5 and a sales representative for Bristol-Myers from 1965-6. He entered the financial world as a stockbroker for Walston & Co. from 1966-70.

Mr. Ashby and his family spent the holidays visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Jones, of 1120 Scott St., and a cousin, Simon Roberts, 1020 East Sixth St., Davenport.

Among the many festivities, there was a New Year's Eve barbeque at the home of the Chris Tracey's. It was given by the Quad-City Council on Human Rights.

$275 Million To be Paid To Veteran Policy Holders

The Veterans Administration announced today that a record $275 million in dividends will be paid in 1971 to more than 4.1 million veterans holding World War I and World War II insurance policies.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said the higher dividends are possible because of increased interest earning of the National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) and United States Government Life Insurance (USGLI) trust funds.

WW II Vets Get $64 Each

He noted that dividends totalling $255 million and averaging about $64 apiece will go to about 4,000,000 veterans with NSLI (World War II) policies.

The 163,400 veterans with USGLI (World War I) policies will receive $20 million in dividends, averaging about $122 apiece. All dividends will be paid in 1971 on the anniversary dates of the policies, Johnson said.

No Need to Write VA The VA Administrator stressed that since payment of dividends will be automatic, veterans need not write to the VA to receive payment. Veterans who have instructed VA to retain their dividends will receive appropriate statements, he advised.

In 1970, more than 4,191,000 veterans with NSLI and USGLI policies received $264 million in dividends. Those with USGLI policies averaged more than $115 apiece, while those with NSLI policies averaged nearly $61. Johnson explained that the amount of dividend a veteran receives depends on such factors as the plan of insurance, age of the insured, age of the policy and its face value.

Antique Keys Unit's Design

Antiques are "in" these days and many people proudly display old family treasures in their home decor.

Those not lucky enough to inherit fine old furniture from antique shops or second-hand and junk stores, even flea markets, depending on their resources. For a family hand-me-down or an old cabinet you've found and returned, a built-in display unit will give it prominence and protection.

Shelves display smaller items, and cabinets below provide storage, fitted with locks if desired.

Adding to the unit's usefulness is a wet bar for entertaining. If the unit is to be placed in a large entry area instead of a family or living room, the wet bar can be replaced with storage for umbrellas, overshoes and coats.

The display unit is constructed of 1x10- or 1x12-inch western fir or pine boards. Doors are 1x4-inch tongue-and-groove paneling, which also may be used to face the inset area.

The paneling may be stained or left natural, depending on color or finish of the antique furniture.

Housing accounts for one-half of America's softwood lumber usage, which in 1970 will run to 32,270,000,000 board feet.

Stranded Students Wait For Big Snowstorm To Subside to Return to College Campuses

By Frances E. Hawthorne

THE BIG SNOW STORM, which by this time is history, coming at the end of the Christmas - New Year holiday vacation, caught many students off guard and stranded them in Des Moines or on their way enroute to their college campuses.

Bobby Florence, former Des Moines prep cager, got off from the Des Moines airport late Saturday night enroute to the University of Nevada, Reno, Nev., but was stranded in Denver, Colorado before he could continue his trip.

His twin brother, Bill, a freshman at Central College, (Pella) was delayed two days getting back. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Florence, 3800 E. Sheridan.

Carol Bethel, Junior at Tarkio College, Tarkio, Mo., left with her father, James Bethel, 1326 11th street, on Sunday. Enroute back Mr. Bethel's car went into a ditch about four miles south of Shenandoah, Ia.

Another motorist in the same predicament teamed up with him, and luckily they got into the town where they secured motel rooms. According to Mrs. Bethel, a very tired Mr. Bethel arrived back about 8 p.m. Monday.

Also stranded enroute to Tarkio College was William Robinson, III, a student in the College of Engineering at Iowa State University who was taking his brother, James Michael, a junior, back to the Missouri school. About four miles from Shenandoah, they became stranded and were taken into a farmhouse where they stayed until Monday afternoon. William arrived back in Des Moines about 10 p.m. Monday. His sister, Jaquita, a graduate student at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, came to Des Moines to join the family and left without incident. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson Jr., of 1223 Dixon street.

Having better luck or using foresight were Braddie Morris, senior at University of Iowa, who left in his car for SUI on Saturday afternoon. He is the son of Atty. and Mrs. James (Brad) Morris, Jr., 1600 Hickman Road.

Also, Michael Clinton, sophomore at SUI, who left with a car load of college friends about noon Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Clinton, 1190 10th street.

Others stranded included Peggy Spates, transfer junior at SUI, who was awaiting a friend, Eraina Tecumseh, a graduate student who with Peggy, drove her car to Des Moines and to the Spates home, then continued by bus to her home in Tulsa, Okla. Miss Tecumseh was unable to get back to Des Moines before Tuesday afternoon. Then Peggy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Spates, 1244 13th street, were frantically trying to help them get the car free from the banks of drifted snow so the girls could get back to the campus for Wednesday morning classes.

Three Central College students were held up in Des Moines until Tuesday afternoon before they could attempt to leave. They were William Rollinson, Jr., freshman recipient of the Most Valuable Player award at his school, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rollinson, Sr., 1109 19th street. The other two freshmen were Karl Butler, son of Mrs. Margaret Butler, 1613 University Avenue, and Henry H. Claytor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Claytor, 26th street.

Delayed returning to Marshalltown Community College (Iowa) were Chuck Freeman and Mike Carter, both freshmen, who started driving Sunday but were forced to return to Des Moines. Chuck is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Freeman, 2921 Oxford. (He also visited in California during the holidays). Mike is the son of Mrs. Maola Stewart.

Vonderlyrie Watkins, sophomore at Spellman College, Atlanta, Ga., had her flight delayed by the storm but was able to get off Tuesday morning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Watkins, 3113 Amherst.

Pamela Wallace, freshman and her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wallace, 2724 Amick, were all ready to leave Sunday for Iowa State University (Ames) when they beheld the snow and decided not to attempt the drive until Wednesday morning early.

Eva Cropp, junior at University of Iowa, was delayed a day but tried successfully Monday to get back to campus. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cropp, 4512 Wakonda parkway.

Linda Griffin, a student with a Black Dance Company in New York City was delayed until Tuesday evening. Her sister, Phyllis, who transferred this semester from the Goodman School of Drama, in Chicago, Ill., will enter Simpson College, (Indianola) and graduate next August. They are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Griffin, 1608 44th street.

CHATTED WITH CECILIA THOMPSON, her delightful son, two year old Chris, and friend Robert Taylor, as they sat at dinner in a downtown eatery. Cecilia, an ambitious young woman, had experienced little exposure to the holiday activities due to the plight of us all—the business of being “snowed in”. Always good company, she accepted my interruption and introduced me to Taylor who had selected Des Moines as his choice for celebration of the New Year! He is an elementary education major at the University of Nebraska. Cecilia is nearing completion of her college career! She will be a May '71 graduate!

List last semester! He now plans entering law school!

BOBETTE ELLISTON, HOME FROM KIRKSVILLE, MISSOURI, for a few days was a pleasure to see. Bobette completes her studies this month! She will begin student teaching March 19, 19 at Ottumwa, Iowa. She plans graduating in June and in this way will enjoy this happy occasion with fellow classmates.

RHODA AND GINGER MILLER, who are invaluable additions to life in Minneapolis, visited their parents, Bill and Laura Miller, and friends here, too, during the holidays. Rhoda teaches while Ginger follows a television teaching career. These two and Lois Walder, a local girl turned legal secretary in Minneapolis, are housemates in that fair city! The three are pleasant surprises whenever they motor down.

THE RALPH CROWDERS, ALSO OF MINNEAPOLIS, were here, too! While Ralph teaches and works toward his masters degree, his pretty “Mrs.” is much, much busier, it is said. Like soon there will be three Crowders.

The Deering's home is tastefully furnished in modern pieces. The walls are white and the colors used in lamps, drapes, and furniture range from brown, beige, orange, peach to green. It is most lovely. Of the very fine pictures used, I was most impressed by that of a beautiful, colorfully gowned black beauty sketched by Andrew Deering and done in oil by a friend! The second most interesting one was a likeness of Deering done in pencil by still another friend!

Their kitchen, obviously a favorite gathering place of the young Deerings, contains matching appliances. It is so goodlooking and so spacious.

Fresh green potted plants are about the home in pleasant profusion.

CHAMBER MAKES GOOD CHOICE

The Des Moines Chamber of Commerce has appointed Mrs. Edna Griffin, director of its department of Urban Affairs. She succeeds Perry Hooks who resigned to take a position with an opportunity program in Kansas City.

A graduate of Fisk University, she became active in the civil rights cause soon after moving here. She is the wife of Dr. Stanley Griffin. Her civil rights activities include active participation in the NAACP and an officer in CORE. She has also been active in peace groups.

Besides her background in education and social organizations, Mrs. Griffin has reared a family and knows first hand about youth problems. She is articulate, well read and knows what she is talking about.

We have never gotten acquainted with the nitty gritty of this job at the chamber. Maybe she will interpret it more thoroughly to the people.

The chamber is to be congratulated for choosing a local citizen for this post. It sets an example for our state, county and city, that there are prepared people in the Midwest who don't take over jobs to become a stepping stone for some other place only.

SOME REASONS
WHY WE LOSE
POPULATION

The Des Moines Register and Tribune has conducted a series of questions to Iowa college students to determine why so many leave the state after graduation.

Since the 1970 Iowa census shows a slow growth in population and that Des Moines has actually lost population, leaders of Iowa business, industry and agriculture should, themselves, make additional studies so as to pinpoint the things that should be done to reverse this trend.

Iowa has some marvelous universities with professors of outstanding knowledge in all fields. They lead in medicine, law, business, engineering, science and labor relations, in fact everything a state needs to help guide and direct its growth.

These people should be utilized. Our highly specialized graduates are not being utilized.

Someone must be called in from New York, Chicago, Kansas City or other places to make a study before we make a move. In fact, our officials seem to check with someone in other cities before taking action. And we see no great thing that has come about as a result of these studies except that they are made by some big shot firm from some big town.

Too little attention is given the recreation and sporting events which make a town liveable as evidenced by the failure of the city council to make Grays lake a real center for such activities.

True, taxes are high but they are high everywhere. What is needed is to shift the burden so that more people will help carry the load.

There are many things Iowans can do to help move the state ahead if the problems are tackled head on and efforts made to solve them.

LET FEDERAL AID
LIGHTEN TAX LOAD

Congress and legislatures from most states will be convening this month. Many issues will be facing them but for the states, federal money to help run state and city governments will be sought.

Most large cities are broke today with their employees striking public service and what not.

President Nixon has asked Congress for a shingling of more tax money with more direct aid to the states. This, of course, should help.

With Allen Ashby

It never fails. When we say something that everyone doesn't like, we hear from readers. We got a call about our statement about Whitney and the North High basketball coaching job.

The caller wanted to know if we had contacted Whitney before we shot off our mouth. We hadn't.

So we explained that we had seen the maneuver that we mentioned pulled as often as we had, having been caught in it a time or two ourselves, we felt forced to speak our peace about it.

If it turns out that we were, or are, wrong, well, that won't be the first time we have had to say we are sorry.

Drake Was Good
2 Years Ago

We still maintain that Drake doesn't have the ball club they had in the two years before this one. Listened to the game last Saturday night, and that just about convinced us.

The Bulldogs may yet get the poise they seem to lack, and jell into a tough team, but they ain't done it yet.

Ia. St. Could Be Spoiler

Iowa State could be the spoiler in the Big Eight race. The Cyclones won't win it, but they could well upset some title-bound club, and maybe more than just one.

They know they have a comparatively small team, but they have learned to play with anybody, and make the most of what they have.

Like the Iowa University coach, we will be surprised if the Hawks finish eighth as they are picked to. They have developed into a team that might beat anybody on certain nights.

Everyone Makes Mistakes

They made mistakes as they went along, and they haven't repeated them very often, and that is the main purpose of preconference games. Of course, one wants to win all he

Jimmy Lyle
Memorial
Established

The Jimmy Lyle Memorial Foundation has been established in memory of the late James E. Lyle, North High basketball coach, who passed away on December 16th.

The foundation will be operated by the Polar Bear Booster Club as an independent subsidiary. Funds will be received and disbursed by a special Booster Club committee consisting of Wm. W. Ellsworth, President; Ernest A. Ashdown, Jr., Treasurer; NHS Principal Wendell T. Webb; and Booster Club Executive Board Members Verlyn Anderson and Richard V. LeCroy.

It is contemplated funds will provide scholarships as well as aid to various sports activities to which Mr. Lyle spent of his time and support.

On the other hand, this additional money to the states should not be used for the benefit of the few in higher wages but for the whole people. Otherwise the rush to bleed the taxpayer will continue.

can, but conference teams really point for their respective races. Maybe that is what Drake is doing, if they haven't started to believe their clippings.

What About Bowl Games?

Did the Bowl games come out the way you wanted them to?

To us, they proved what we have argued all along; that on a given day, any one of the so called big time teams is capable of beating any other. Then there were some who didn't make it to the Bowls that helped to support our argument.

Burns Find Kirby
2 Stars

We have been hearing a lot about Long Beach State's Leon Burns through Jim Kirby's dad. Jim has been the backup man for Burns all season and has won a few ball games for them.

Well, we saw the Burns guy in action in the All Star game Saturday. We would guess he would come high on anyone's draft list.

Big, six feet and better, and two thirty, the guy can run over you or around you, and he seems to do both with equal ability.

There were a few other guys who were outstanding, but this fellow drew our particular attention because we heard so much about him.

Here at home, North blew a game to Lincoln, but beat the defending champs, Hoover, and so while the Polar Bears won't be number one this week, neither will Hoover.

They seem to have a team that can be as good as they want to be. But the season has a way to go yet, so we shall wait to see what develops.

Tech Has a Chance

In spite of the trouncings Tech has been taking, we still think the Engineers are turning the corner, and come next year, will get tough.

East hasn't had a good team in sometime, and are about due to get back on track. Wonder if they are still having trouble over there.

We didn't know Phil Hayman played as much basketball as he does for Lincoln. We have heard that he is a good scholar also. All that athletic ability and brains, too.

QUESTION: When can I get a social security number?

ANSWER: Any time you wish. Contact your nearest social security office. If this is not convenient, get an application form SS-5 from your Post Office or the social security representative when he visits in your area. Mail it to your social security district office. Most post offices will provide a self-addressed envelope. There is absolutely no age restriction when obtaining your social security number.

QUESTION: I recently cashed a check for a man who receives social security benefits. The check did not clear the bank because he had insufficient funds. Can your office give me his address so I can recover my money?

ANSWER: We are sorry, but we can not. Social Security records are confidential, and we can not disclose this information.

QUESTION: When I move to a different state, do I need to notify anyone concerning my social security number?

SMOKE GETS IN YOUR EYES — AND AIR SACS

Emphysema is a mystifier. Its cause is uncertain. Its cure is unknown — as yet.

New evidence, however, supports the growing suspicion that damage to the blood vessels of the lungs — caused by cigarette smoking — plays a major role in the development of emphysema. Even one cigarette causes measurable changes in pulmonary blood distribution.

At the University of Louisville (Kentucky) School of Medicine, Dr. J. Bruce Williams measured several changes in patients, some with lung disease and some with normal lungs, after one cigarette. One of these changes was a decrease in ventilation of the air sacs, where exchange of gases with the blood takes place.

A decreased ability of the air sacs to exchange blood and gases is a characteristic of emphysema. Destruction of the walls of the air sacs is one aspect of the disease.

According to Dr. Williams, the changes observed in pulmonary blood distribution — after only one cigarette — were "in the same direction and type as those found in patients with chronic bronchitis and emphysema. This observation may lend support," he says, "to the contention that emphysema is a disease of the pulmonary vasculature induced by repeated exposure to cigarette smoke."

name with the social security office — before or after marriage?

ANSWER: We prefer that the change be made after your marriage.

QUESTION: When I applied for a social security number, I had to give a great deal of personal information about myself. Is social security setting up a file on me with this information? I wouldn't want this information to get into the wrong hands.

ANSWER: Your social security record is strictly confidential. This information on the application for your social security number was actually only identifying information — names of your parents, your date and place of birth, etc. No two people have the same identifying data. This identifying information can be used to locate and reissue your social security number if you should lose your card and do not have a record of your number.

AND RED MEN

A famous cartoon shows a handful of Pilgrims unload at Plymouth Harbor. "So what difference to the neighborhood can a few of them make?" one Indian asks.

The cartoon is funny. The plight of the American Indian today, however, is no laughing matter.

Indians have almost been wiped off the landscape in the course of a few hundred years. Only about 550,000 have survived. Of this number, nearly 400,000 are crammed into 200 reservations in 26 states.

Life for segregated Indians — like other ghetto groups — is difficult. They have a high rate of poverty and disease. Tuberculosis, once called the White Plague, flourishes in poverty areas. Although TB eradication programs have had an effect — the incidence of TB among Indians is still five times that of the population as a whole.

The struggle against poverty, crowded housing, and poor diets is far from over in this country. And the fight against TB, which usually accompanies these conditions, is not finished either.

Your local TB-RD association is working to combat TB — among all groups. And to combat emphysema, smoking and air pollution.

Snowmobilers have found that what is fun doing alone is even more enjoyable in a group so they have organized clubs to add a new dimension to the booming winter fun sport.

Well-organized clubs often purchase an old house or barn on open land and develop a rustic, comfortable clubhouse. A system of trails is developed on the land, giving club members a private snowmobile area.

In addition to serving as social centers for snowmobilers, clubs perform valuable services. Many offer summer storage arrangements for members, an important maintenance consideration for any snow machine owner. Clubs also have been instrumental in winter rescues involving lost hunters, plane crash victims, stranded motorists, and others caught in snowstorms.

Clubs police their own members on matters of human safety and environmental protection. As one Midwest club member

Veterans
Benefits

President Nixon has signed into law new education benefits for wives and children of prisoners of war, and for servicemen who have served 181 days of active duty rather than two years as was previously required.

The new benefits became effective Dec. 24, 1970, according to Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson.

The reduction in the active duty requirement to 181 days also applies to the eligibility of servicemen for GI loan guarantee benefits, Johnson said. This broadened eligibility makes it possible for men and women to use their GI Bill benefits sooner while still in military service, Johnson explained. Under the new law, the wives and children of those members of the Armed Forces on active duty who have been listed for more than 90 days as missing in action, captured, "or forcibly detained or interned in the line of duty by a foreign government or power," are eligible for educational benefits.

For apprenticeship and on-the-job-training courses under the GI Bill, servicemen are required to take 120 hours of training per month to receive full training allowance, and a lesser number of hours result in a proportionate reduction in the allowance.

Full-time training, Johnson explained, contemplates a work week of at least 30 hours unless collective bargaining has established a lesser standard for a work week.
