Police Shoot Fleeing Suspect In Back

NAACP Seeks Investigation

Edward Frazier, 21, of 2715 Center Street is in critical condition at Broadlawn Hospital after being shot by an off-duty policeman as he fled from Shoppers Fair, 2300 Euclid Avenue, Saturday. The officer said he saw Frazier take a pair of slacks without paying for them and he questioned him as he left the store.

The shooting took place about 4 P.M. as Frazier was dashing through a three foot ditch of water near the store.

The shot entered the lower back as Frazier fled and the bullet exited near his stomach. A hospital supervisor said the bullet wounds were in the back and near the stomach but would not state the entry.

Marvin Brewer, the off-duty policeman, was working as a store security officer at the time.

The police department has not taken any punitive action against Brewer pending the return of the chief of police Douglas who is out of the city. A charge of shoplifting with a value of less than $20.00, which is a misdemeanor, was filed against Frazier. Had the value been above $20.00 the charge would have been a felony.

Department rules prohibit shooting at persons believed to have committed misdemeanors unless lives are at stake. Teale said that the same rules on shooting fleeing persons apply to off-duty as well as on-duty police officers.

The Standard Operating Procedures book of the department lists six circumstances under which an officer may discharge his weapon. They are:

At an approved range.

To kill animals seriously wounded or dangerous. When authorized by a superior officer. In defense of his life. In defense of another person's life.

To effect the capture of, or prevent the escape of, a person whom the officer has reasonable cause to believe has committed a felony.

The Standard Operating Procedure book also states that a police officer must not shoot at juveniles, even those believed to have committed a felony, or at traffic violators.

The Des Moines Branch NAACP has written a letter to the chief of police and the city manager demanding a thorough investigation and punishment for the offending officer.

Black Broadcast Leader Calls for Minority FCC Member, "Now is The Time"

"Now is the time for the President to demonstrate his political wisdom by appointing a black or minority member to the Federal Communications Commission," said Curtis E. Shaw, President of the National Association of Television and Radio Announcers, an organization of black broadcasters. Shaw made his comments available for national media while speaking to black businessmen in Cleveland.

In keeping with his recommendation, Shaw is forwarding to Mr. Nixon a list of qualified candidates, and their resumes, for the upcoming openings on the Commission.

The term of Commissioner Robert Bartley expires June 30, 1972; Commissioner Robert Wells is expected to resign soon to run for Governor of Kansas; and the term of Commissioner Nicolas Johnson, called by Shaw "the only man on the Commission who demonstrates sensitivity to minority problems" will be up on June 30, 1973.

"I have made this announcement to make it clear that NATRA should be involved in the decision making process," said Shaw, the newly elected, dynamic young President of the organization. "NATRA is the organization which represents hundreds of black radio stations and twenty-six million listeners. There is no one on the Commission yet with the background to represent black and other ethnic broadcasting with the inner sensitivity required."

"Mr. Nixon has appointed a woman to the FCC, Mrs. Charlotte Reid," Shaw said. "Why not a black? There is a black man on the Supreme Court. But not on the FCC. In order for our institutions to be truly representative, minority appointments must be considered, and in particular, interested organizations must be consulted for the sake of balance within the nation's ethnic, social and political systems."

Mr. Wilkins recalled that the suit was "brought by Negro parents and joined by the NAACP's Detroit Branch. It exemplifies what can be done if adequate financial resources are brought to bear upon the factual and legal research and upon the legal analysis needed to demonstrate the validity of the complaint." He noted that the NAACP "has thus far expended in excess of $100,000 in this case."

Wilkins Hails Detroit School Decision As Significant Breakthru

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The decision of United States District Judge Stephen J. Roth striking down de facto segregation in the public schools of Detroit was hailed here by Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as "a significant breakthrough in the struggle to eliminate northern-style Jim Crow education."

Judge Roth's ruling, Mr. Wilkins said, "not only finds the Detroit Board of Education culpable in the segregated pattern of school attendance; it also pins final responsibility upon the State of Michigan, since states are obligated to provide educational equality to their residents."

Added to a long list of judicial opinions, the Roth decision virtually cuts any remaining ground from under school boards which plead that they cannot remedy segregation since they were not the authors of it."

The NAACP leader cited Judge Roth's opinion: "Under the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Michigan, the responsibility for providing educational opportunity to all children on constitutional terms is ultimately that of the State. State officials, including all of the defendants, are charged under the Michigan Constitution with the duty of providing pupils with an education without discrimination with respect to race."

According to Judge Roth: "Governmental action and inaction at all levels — Federal, State and local — has combined with those of private organizations, such as lending institutions, real estate associations and brokerage firms, to establish and maintain the pattern of residential segregation throughout the Detroit metropolitan area."

Further, "... proof that a pattern of racially segregated schools has existed for a considerable period of time amounts to a showing of racial classification by the state..."

Further, "The Board's building upon housing segregation violates the Fourteenth Amendment."

"This case, brought by Negro parents and joined by the NAACP's Detroit Branch, exemplifies what can be done if adequate financial resources are brought to bear upon the factual and legal research and upon the legal analysis needed to demonstrate the validity of the complaint," Mr. Wilkins said. "The NAACP's costs to date, in excess of $60,000, may well be doubled before the court-ordered relief is devised and implemented," he added.

At a news conference in Detroit, immediately following announcement of the decision, Nathaniel R. Jones, the association's general counsel said: "This decision, which declares the rights of black children — and the responsibilities of both the Detroit Board of Education and the State of Michigan — is a re-affirmation of the strength and vitality of the Constitution."

"It is now incumbent upon those whom we challenged in this lawsuit to display an equal degree of faith and trust in our courts and legal system. They should join hands and hearts with us in an attempt to assist the court in working out a meaningful solution to the problems of education in this community."

Mr. Wilkins recalled that the suit was "brought by Negro parents and joined by the NAACP's Detroit Branch. It exemplifies what can be done if adequate financial resources are brought to bear upon the factual and legal research and upon the legal analysis needed to demonstrate the validity of the complaint." He noted that the NAACP "has thus far expended in excess of $100,000 in this case."

SCLC Exec. Visits Ghana Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria — Hosea Williams, Executive of the Southern Christian

The meeting served as a platform for developing a reciprocal bridge for communication between Africans and Black Americans. Williams expressed to General Gowon, "Not only can Black Americans help Africans reach their potential, but Black Americans need help from their African brothers in

Minority Women Suffer Double Biases, Says Government Official

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Many minority women suffer double discrimination in employment. They are discriminated against because of their race and because of their sex."

Those are the studied words of Doris Wooten, a young government official who is working to widen the employment opportunities of all American women.

She coordinates the sex discrimination program for the Labor Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance (OFCC). As Acting Chief of the Division of Technical Services, she is also responsible for coordinating religious discrimination and testing programs.

The Labor Department recently revised regulations specifying "affirmative action" requirements among Federal contractors in all industries other than construction to cover women. Known as Revised Order No. 4, the regulations will require Federal contractors and subcontractors to develop goals and timetables for remedying the underutilization of women.

Miss Wooten served as a coordinator between the Labor Department and women's organizations that initially tried to get these regulations changed. Since the regulations have been changed, Miss Wooten has been traveling throughout the country discussing sex discrimination with various groups and organizations.

"This order," she says, "is designed to encourage equal employment opportunity in the broadest sense, including women. There are subtle discriminations against women. For example, an employer may hire women but all levels of employment may not be open to women."

"Where black women are concerned, there are special problems. Even in sex ghetto jobs, such as secretarial and clerical jobs, black women suffer discrimination."

In addition to working to solve the problems of sex discrimination, Miss Wooten helps develop and interpret policy for OFCC in the areas of religious discrimination and job testing. She also consults leading figures in these areas and maintains working relationship with concerned groups.

"I really enjoy my work," she says, "especially since I can address myself to the problems of black women."

Miss Wooten, who grew up in New York City, has not allowed her sex to impede her working career. She joined the Labor Department in 1970 as a contract compliance advisor. Before that, she was a consultant for the Department of Housing and Urban Development's Model Cities program. From 1967 to 1969, she was a trainer for VISTA volunteers. She has also worked as a social worker.

Listed in Who's Who in American College and Universities in 1957 and 1958, she holds an A.B. degree in Sociology from Morgan State College, where she graduated in 1959. She received her M.S.W. in Social Work from Howard University in 1964.

NAACP Year-End Membership Drive

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has launched its 1971 Fall Harvest Membership campaign. Some alert branches, with their eyes on new state and regional prizes being offered, got off to a head start prior to September 15.

In his call to the branches for intensified membership drives, Executive Director Roy Wilkins cited the problems continuing to confront the Negro minority and called for a special effort to enroll more young people in the Association. He mentioned school desegregation, unemployment and housing as important areas of unfinished business.

A goal of 250,000 additional members before the end of the year was set. If this year-end goal is achieved, the Association's total membership for the year will exceed the 1969 figure of 462,000.

Based on the trend for the first nine months of 1971, it is highly probable that this goal will be achieved. Regions I (the Pacific Coast) and II (the Northeast) increased their memberships by 50 per cent over that of the first six months of last year.

The prizes will not be announced until later in the drive. Only the top regional and state producers are eligible for the rewards.

The membership fees are $4, $6, $10, $25 and higher. For youths under 17, the fee is $1, while persons between 17 and 21 pay $2. The life membership fee is $500. Persons holding $6 and higher memberships also receive The Crisis.

Minority Business Gains Essential, Says HUD Official

"The struggle of minority Americans for economic freedom is an integral part of the drive for overall equality because true equality cannot exist in a financial vacuum," according to a ranking official of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In an address delivered before the Minority Contractors Association, in Jacksonville, Fla., Samuel C. Jackson, HUD General Assistant Secretary emphasized that progress in civil rights is meaningful only when accompanied by comparable progress in economic opportunity.

"I refer not only to equal employment but, perhaps, more importantly, to the right to share as businessmen and entrepreneurs in all facets of American's vast industrial establishment," he said.

The HUD official indicated that equal economic opportunity is a major goal of the Federal Government. "The President has made a firm commitment to its attainment and the Administration has tailored a number of Federal programs to achieve that goal," he said.

As evidence of the Administration's concern, Mr. Jackson noted the following:

...The value of Federal Government contracts awarded under Section 8(a) of the Small Business Act during fiscal year 1971 was three times that of the previous fiscal year — $66 million as against $22 million.

...In fiscal 1971, General Services Administration awarded 231 contracts valued at $14.3 million to minority contractors — about 22 percent of total dollar value. In fiscal 1970, GSA awarded 53 contracts valued at $3.4 million.

...Small Business Administration loans to minority businessmen have increased dramatically since fiscal 1968. In that year there were 2,335 loan approvals totalling $41.3 million. In fiscal 1971, there were 7,776 loans totalling $213.8 million.

...HUD has established a set-aside program to guarantee opportunities for minority entrepreneurs. The program undergoing testing in Los Angeles set aside 500 units of Section 235 housing, 500 units of Section 236 housing and 125 units of rent supplement housing for the exclusive use of minority sponsors, builders and developers.

...To solve the bonding problems of minority contractors, HUD's Federal Housing Administration has given its local offices authority to accept personal indemnity agreements in lieu of bonds on projects which do not exceed $500,000.

Mr. Jackson suggested that his listeners secure copies of "Federal Programs Assisting Minority Enterprise," a catalog recently issued by the Department of Commerce which describes 85 Federal programs specifically designed to aid minority businessmen.

Mark E. Rivers, Jr.

New Head For Black Corporation

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Mark E. Rivers, Jr. has been elected president and chief executive officer for Watts Manufacturing Corporation, according to James Woods, chairman of the board at Watts.

Simultaneously, the 49-year-old Rivers becomes president of Watts Enterprises, Inc., a newly formed subsidiary of Watts Manufacturing Corporation, and takes a seat as a member of the board of directors of both companies.

Watts Manufacturing Corporation was founded in 1966 by Aero Jet General Corporation to provide job training for the hard-core unemployed. It was spun off in May, 1970, through financing provided by Chase Manhattan Bank's small business investment company, Chase Manhattan Capital Corporation. Under an arrangement devised by Watts and the bank, 80 per cent of the Watts stock will be turned over to the employees. This will make Watts the nation's largest minority-owned manufacturing company. Sales volume in 1970 exceeded $4,000,000.

The Black Community Fights Cancer

By John Henry Jones
Improved health care for all Americans but specific interest in "bringing the poor into the mainstream of medicine" are among the key concerns of the nation's organized black physicians.

To do this they propose among other things a "service delivery oriented" type of national health insurance plan; the education of more black physicians; the assignment of Public Health Service physicians to needy areas in lieu of military service; increasing collaboration with other national health organizations toward common goals.

Thus did leaders of the recent 76th Convention and Scientific Assembly of the National Medical Association and its Women's Auxiliary welcome the American Cancer Society's plans to intensify its Uterine Cancer Control Program.

As part of an all-out effort to reduce the number of lives lost annually (12,000) to uterine cancer which hits hardest among the urban poor, the Society aims at:

"A Pap test by 1976 for every woman 20 years of age to whom the test is applicable and for those under 20 at risk." This is the examination of castoff vaginal cells and was developed by the late Dr. George N. Papanicolaou. It can detect uterine cancer early when it is most curable.

In an interview, the NMA's newly elected President, Dr. Emerson C. Walden, 47, of Baltimore, Maryland called the program "commendable."

"Every woman who comes into my office — and they're mostly low income — gets a Pap test routinely," said Dr. Walden who is an attending surgeon at Provident, Lutheran, and South Baltimore General Hospitals. "I've been doing it for 20 years. I think the Society's aim is commendable and I hope it's successful."

Dr. Walden said he approved of the National Cancer Authority legislation now before Congress. "Of course I would like to see the marshalling of all scientific forces to achieve a cure for cancer. I wish we could have the same success there as we did in putting men on the moon."

Also supporting the stepped up Pap test drive is Mrs. Mary Watson Stewart of Detroit, Michigan, newly elected President of the NMA Women's Auxiliary. The group is composed primarily of physicians' wives, nurses and allied professionals.

"Knowing the value of regular health checkups, I am in whole-hearted agreement with the ACS Program," declared Mrs. Stewart, widow of Dr. E.B. Stewart. "I hope there is something we can do to help this splendid idea to succeed."

Delegates to the Women's Auxiliary's 35th Annual meeting agreed upon a five-point program, stressing health, education, community needs, legislation, and human relations.

The more than 2,500 physicians, students, nurses, and allied professionals were headquartered at the Sheraton Hotel and held scientific and business meetings at the Philadelphia Civic Center. Here also were nearly 100 pharmaceutical and other exhibits including that of the Philadelphia ACS

Niffenegger Announces Candidacy for Mayor

Ora E. Niffenegger, attorney, and member of the Des Moines School Board for the past ten years, has announced candidacy for mayor in the coming Municipal election.

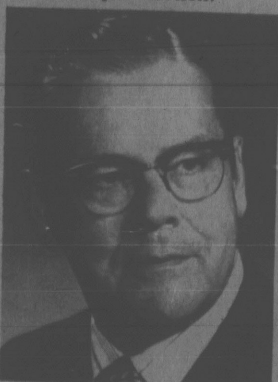

Niffenegger of 2019 - 40th St., was first elected to the school board in 1961 and re-elected in 1967. He was president of the board from September 1965 to September, 1966 and was recently elected vice president of the board.

Prior to entering a private law practice, Niffenegger was professor of business administration and head of the business administration department at Central College, Pella, for three years. He was Placement Director at Drake University for eleven years; dean of the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery for three years. He served World War II, during which time he was director of the Army's administration school at the University of Mississippi, Oxford, and then executive officer in charge of army administration at The Adjutant General's School, Washington, D.C.

Niffenegger said in announcing his candidacy:

"I feel that with 10 years' experience on the Des Moines school board dealing with a budget larger than that of the city and with upwards of 3000 full-time and 500 part-time school employees, I would be well-inductured in many of the crucial problems in the area of finance and employee relations. I am not in any way tied in with city hall politics. I feel that the average citizen needs someone as mayor who is not afraid to speak out on the vital issues facing the city."

Niffenegger also said, "I believe that many of the problems of our city can be solved by calling on more people, and in many cases, different people from those what we have been calling on in the past, to assist in solving these problems. I suggest a wider base of community participation. I think that in particular we should have a wider representation from our minorities. We should, without fail, have a wider range of participation, both young and old, from the black community. It would be my intent to spend several hours each week in visiting with interested persons in every section of our city."

Niffenegger is on the board of Goodwill Industries and was president in 1966 and 1967.

Niffenegger said that because of financial limitations he will conduct a very modest campaign and will depend largely upon personal contacts and the efforts put forth by his friends and acquaintances.

A FEW OF THE MANY friends of Louie Dade gathered around the television set presented to Louie at a recognition dinner in his honor at the Lions Shelterhouse at Rodeo Park Wednesday evening. Louie, who has taught and played golf in the Fort Madison area as well as in Phoenix and California, and his wife Frances are at the right of the picture with Leonard Wilson shelterhouse at Rodeo Park Wednesday evening. Louie, operator of the Spring Lake Golf course here, Don LeHew of Phoenix, and Louie's father, Den Dade. W. A. Sheaffer II is behind Raible. Approximately 200 persons attended the recognition dinner.

Den Dade: "Real Proud of Louie"

By DICK FLECKENSTEIN
Reprinted from the Ft. Madison Evening Democrat.
"I'm proud, real proud," said Den Dade Wednesday night.

Den is 90. He doesn't look it. Den is the father of Louie Dade, the all-around guy they honored Wednesday evening in the Lions Shelterhouse at Rodeo Park.

Den made the trip all the way from Canton, Mo., to watch approximately 200 persons pay tribute to his son who has contributed so much to the game of golf and the game of life.

As Don LeHew put it, "There is no finer man, on the golf course or anywhere." A native of Fort Madison, LeHew is a teaching golf professional at the Papago Golf Club in Phoenix, Ariz.

It was he who worked in a trip to Fort Madison to help arrange Louie Dade Recognition Day.

"I wouldn't be in golf today if it wasn't for Louie," said LeHew.

"He saw me play my first game of golf when I was about 10 and he got me on the right track and encouraged me to stay with it," LeHew said.

That's Louie Dade, the teacher, the man who puts a feeling of appreciation into the game for his students. Louie's 63 now. He's been playing golf in the Fort Madison area, Phoenix, California and Florida for more than 30 years.

Semi-retired from the amateur tournament trail, he spends most of his time teaching the game to eager students at the Spring Lake course.

His daily appointment book is usually full. But, he finds time to chat with the players and to play a nine-hole round two or three times a week.

"I can't put into words how grateful we are to have Louie at Spring Lake," said Jim Raible, operator of the course just across Highway 88 from the municipal airport.

Raible and LeHew were among the speakers for the recognition program which followed a chicken dinner.

Others were Leonard Wilson and W. A. Sheaffer II. Louie for years was employed by the Sheaffer family.

Professional golfers on hand for Wednesday evening's event included Rod Rogers of the Fort Madison Country club and Emil Roewert of the Sheaffer Memorial Park.

Louie was presented a console color TV set and a purse.

On the sidelines, her eyes moist with happiness, was his wife of nearly 40 years, Frances.

Louie and Frances now live on an acreage along the Augusta Road.

America still has about 75 percent as much forestland as existed when Columbus landed.

Cleveland Mother Handles A Man-Sized Job

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Felicia Agnew, a personable young woman with a quick smile, doesn't look like a truck driver even when she slips behind the wheel of a 70,000-pound cross country tractor-trailer combination.

But the 23-year-old Cleveland mother has the credentials to take on this man-sized job.

After trying her hand at secretarial work and as a cashier, Mrs. Agnew worked for the U. S. Post Office in a Cleveland suburb as a mail truck driver — a two-ton vehicle — before deciding to return to school.

She enrolled at Cuyahoga Community College (CCC) in a data processing course, she says, but, "I didn't like it."

When she heard about a new truck driver training course at the school, that did it! "I've always wanted to drive those big jobs, so I thought this was my chance," she says.

Mrs. Agnew enrolled in the driver course and was graduated last September. Today, she jockeys trucks around the Midwest for a nation wide car rental firm and hauls produce.

"I'm looking for a city or short-haul job, though, so I can spend more time with my family," she says.

Her husband operates a garage in Cleveland. She is one of 200 students — six were girls — who have taken the eight-week course since it was begun at CCC early in 1970. CCC is the only educational institution in Ohio and one of the few in the country to offer such a program. It is designed to prepare persons for careers in the trucking industry.

"Our expectations for the driver course have been exceeded," says Bruce Marshall, an instructor. He said that 90 per cent of the students who completed the course have trucking jobs.

Recently, CCC started the 10th driver class. Half of the students in each class were members of minority groups. The eight-week course consists of 60 hours of classroom study and up to 300 hours experience with equipment and training aids contributed by auto-makers, trucking organizations, industry suppliers and businessmen.

Felicia Agnew gives a push to one of the Ford WT-9000 highway tractors in which she learned the skills of a truck driver. The diesel-powered rig is one of two loaned by Ford Motor Company to the Cuyahoga Community College, Cleveland, Ohio, for use in professional driver training courses.

Ford Motor Company, for example, loaned two pieces of equipment under its fleet test demonstrator program. One vehicle, the WT-9000, is an air-conditioned line-haul tandem diesel tractor capable of moving a loaded rig of 80,000 pounds long distances. The other, the C-700, is a gasoline-powered lift-cab model used mainly for in-city deliveries and is known for its short-turn capabilities.

While urging more backing of the program by industry,

Mr. Marshall also speaks of the future for graduating students.

"There are unlimited benefits and potentials," he points out. "The trucking industry always is on the lookout for well-trained drivers, and there's nothing to prevent the ambitious from becoming owner-operators of their own rigs."

Launch Job Campaign For Vietnam-Era Vets

DES MOINES, Iowa — A campaign will be launched immediately to ask local businessmen to pledge jobs to Vietnam-era veterans, Jack A. MacAllister, metropolitan chairman of the Greater Des Moines National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) announced Sept. 28.

"In the ensuing months," MacAllister said, "six loaned executives will contact business leaders in the greater Des Moines area, explaining the NAB VETERAN JOBS program for finding jobs for recent veterans (1964 and later) who have been unable to find employment that fits their skills or that offers training for meaningful and rewarding civilian lives."

MacAllister said current estimates indicate there are some 1,000 unemployed Vietnam war veterans in Polk County, "12 per cent of whom are from minority groups."

NAB is a voluntary organization of business executives working in cooperation with government and labor. Before NAB was established by the federal government — two years before, in fact — local businessmen began a program to provide meaningful employment for the community's disadvantaged who were either unemployed or underemployed.

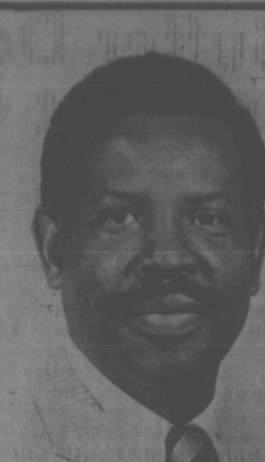

This locally-created program was known as the Greater Des Moines Merit Employers Council (MEC). When the federal government entered the picture, the MEC and NAB programs merged under the auspice of the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

"As a result NAB's efforts to find gainful employment for the disadvantaged since July of 1969, some 432 formerly unemployed or underemployed men and women are now on the job in the Des Moines metropolitan area," MacAllister said. "We hope to show as good results with our VETERAN JOBS program, while continuing to increase the hires of the disadvantaged."

"JOBS is a businessman's program, run by businessmen," he said. "Our local program is tied closely to the Greater Des Moines Chamber's Urban Affairs Bureau."

"The results of our previous pledge campaigns show that local businessmen believe that private business can take a major part in meeting the JOBS challenge," MacAllister said. Ralph Lacey, NAB metropolitan director, will oversee the continuing job solicitation effort.

The six loaned executives, who will be working part time during the next eight months on soliciting JOBS, are: Mrs. A. June Franklin, American Republic Insurance Company; Max Johnson, The Bankers Life; Jim Latham, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company; John Mandelbaum, Younkers; Guy Patton, Iowa Power and Light Company; and Tom Schulze, John Deere Des Moines Works.

Division. Dr. Carleton C. Richards of Philadelphia, Chairman of the local convention committee, is also a member of the ACS Philadelphia Division's Professional Education Committee.

"I believe there's a great contribution black physicians can make to the rehabilitation of cancer patients who usually have some special problems," Dr. Richards said.

In this vein Dr. John Thomas, chief surgeon at Philadelphia's Mercy Douglass Hospital, lauded the American Cancer Society's efforts in behalf of colostomy patients. These are people who've had surgery for cancer of the colon and rectum, an operation that may provide them with an opening from the colon through the abdominal wall.

"The Society's trained volunteers are a great help in aiding these patients to adjust," Dr. Thomas said.

The ACS uterine cancer program was also lauded by NMA President-elect Dr. Edmund C. Casey of Cincinnati, Ohio.

After hunger and malnutrition, Dr. Casey said that heart disease, cancer and stroke, were the major health problems of Negroes. Dr. Casey cited social service counseling and rehabilitation aid as major problems and needs of black cancer patients.

Association spokesmen said that their national legislative proposals may be sponsored in Congress this fall by Senator Edward W. Brooke (R. Mass.) and Rep. Ralph Metcalf (D. Ill.) Distinct from several other national health plans which they characterized as focusing on physician reimbursement, the NMA plan would be concerned with how and where health services will be delivered and who will control the delivery.

Particular emphasis will be placed on incentives for physicians to serve inner city and rural areas where they are so badly needed.

Taking a cue from the present Cancer Authority legislation before Congress, the NMA House of Delegates proposed a sickle cell anemia research program responsible directly to the President.

Earlier, Dr. Richard Campbell, Executive Director of the Foundation for Research and Education in Sickle Cell Anemia, had bitterly assailed Congress for deleting a $6-million appropriation for sickle cell research.

In his inaugural address, Dr. Walden summoned black physicians to leadership in finding "solutions to the many complex problems affecting the quality of life of the urban and rural poor."

He believed, Dr. Walden asserted, that "there are those in our society who know that the health and social ills of our day cannot be conquered with the traditional weapons and are committed to change and progress."

Waterloo's Tredwell Kicks Off Campaign At St. Paul Dinner

Reprinted from the Waterloo Daily Courier, Waterloo, Iowa.

The ticket headed by mayoralty candidate Cuba Tredwell Jr. kicked off its campaign Saturday night at a dinner at Payne AME Church.

Norris Hart, director of the University of Northern Iowa Center for Urban Education (UNI-CUE), was guest speaker. Hart told the 150 persons in attendance that "The new politics is not one of statement, but one of action."

He said the new politics should be human-oriented. Hart said that in a campaign such as Tredwell's "there is much risk and there is no room for ego-tripping." Hart concluded his comments with the Tredwell theme, "A Coalition for Unity," saying it means everyone's involvement, black, white, red and yellow. "For true representation, everyone counts and we must have total involvement for unity," he said.

A fifth member of the ticket announced his candidacy at the meeting. Willie Sallis, 38, of 127 Dawson St., announced he is joining the Tredwell ticket as a candidate for part commissioner.

Sallis, an instructor at Hawkeye Institute of Technology, is a member of Payne AME Church, of We, Inc., the Veterans of Foreign Wars, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the East Side Citizens Committee.

He attended Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa State University in Ames, and UNI. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Waterloo Board of Education in 1969.

Other candidates on the ticket besides Tredwell are fully realizing equality in America. The Black man's problems are not only national, they are international.

"We must, therefore, join hands across the seas to eliminate racism and poverty. With your help, Mr. President, there are five areas SCLC can get to work in immediately: namely, investments by American Blacks into the development of African nations; organizing Black American students to make their talents available to African countries needing them for national development; the development of a People-to-People Program beyond the boundaries of government treaties and diplomatic policies; organizing Blacks to spend their vacations in Africa to learn something about their homeland; and, marketing African arts and crafts."

"Upon my return to America," Williams said, "SCLC will evaluate the findings of my tour and Dr. Ralph David Abernathy, President of SCLC, will visit countries interested in our program for a more detailed commitment."

During the meeting, General Gwon paid tribute to Dr. Ralph David Abernathy and to the memory of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. for whom he has the "highest regards for their methods and tactical approach in the struggle for the dignity of the Black race."

The Black race, he continued, "has a lot to offer the world in morals and several fields of human endeavor." He then urged the establishment of channels of communication and useful personal contacts among the Black race in order to foster their progress and advancement.

Wood's Bark Side Proves Tougher

When wood is to be continually exposed to the weather, such as in decks, railings and steps, greater serviceability can be attained if the bark side of the wood is placed to the outside.

This reduces grain separation and splintering, and retards paint checking and cracking.

The outside or bark side is easily determined by the curvature of the growth rings.

Navy Lt. Serves as White House Part-Time Social Aide

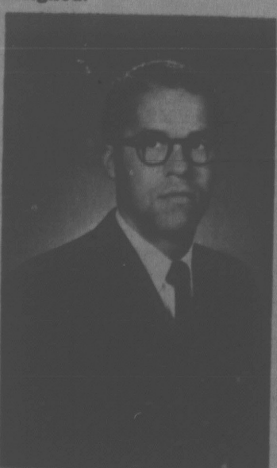

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Since August 13, 1970, Navy Lieutenant (junior grade) Aaron Spaulding has been serving as a White House social aide. He is one of thirty-four officers from all the military services to be so assigned.

Being a social aide to the President is strictly a collateral duty and it is assigned on a volunteer basis only. Mr. Spaulding must arrange with his own superiors to insure that his White House duties do not detract from the performance of his regular duties. He is presently a financial management analyst for the Command System Support Activity's Comptroller Department at the Washington Navy Yard.

A native of Durham, North Carolina, Lt. Spaulding is a graduate of North Carolina Central University and attended the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business where he completed two years of postgraduate study.

His job as a social aide, while on the surface may appear to have glamor, requires a lot of hard work. He must know everything about White House functions, including such things as names of the dignitaries present, the schedule of events, rules of protocol, and numerous historical facts about the White House.

When the guests for a White House function arrive, many of them are at the White House for the first time. Lt. Spaulding and the other aides assigned will greet them at the door, explain the program of events, escort them to the reception area, answer any questions they might have and help them in any other way they can.

Lt. Spaulding's job at the White House is to make each guest feel at ease and at home. He does this in his job as assistant host, as a representative of the President and as a representative of the United States.

Lt. Spaulding is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa T. Spaulding, Sr. of 1608 Lincoln St., Durham, N.C. He reported to his present job after 6 months of instruction at the Supply Corps School in Athens, Ga. Mr. Spaulding earned his commission through the Navy's Officer Candidate School, Newport, R. I., in August 1969.

Kick off dinner for "Opportunity Now" a black economic development project, sponsored by The Black self help Enabler Union was held Oct. 5 at Coe College. Featured speaker was Curtis McClinton, a prominent black business man from Kansas City, Kans. and a member of the Kansas City Chiefs football team.

Mr. McClinton is qualified to speak about black economic development through his educational and occupational background. He graduated from the University of Kansas, did graduate work there and studied

Forty Black Congressmen In a Hundred Years

The record of 100 years of black contributions to the political life of the United States is set forth in America's Black Congressmen, a new book by Maurice Christopher, which is published by Thomas Y. Crowell Co.

Since Hiram Revels of Mississippi shattered the color line in the Senate on February 25, 1870 after three days of vituperative debate, thirty-nine other blacks have been seated. They were farmers, lawyers, tailors, barbers, newspaper men, labor leaders, bricklayers, ministers, teachers, photographers and war heroes. And finally, in January 1969, Shirley Chisholm of Brooklyn broke into the hitherto all-male club.

This book is the first to recount the lives and accomplishments of all the blacks who served in the national legislature from 1870 to 1970. Everybody knows about Adam Clayton Powell Jr. and the better-publicized members of the Black Caucus; but this volume assesses the neglected early figures as well as the most prominent. There are photographs of Mrs. Chisholm, and of the men, and in some cases, of their wives and children.

Twenty-four were Republicans, including Massachusetts Senator Edward W. Brooke, the third to go to the upper house. The Democrats contributed sixteen; thirteen make up the current Black Caucus, chaired by Charles C. Diggs Jr. of Michigan. Mrs. Christopher emphasizes that he is a second generation politician and uses a picture of Representative Diggs with his father, who preceded him in the Michigan state senate.

Fifteen states have sent blacks to Capitol Hill. The largest number—eight—represented South Carolina and served for the most part shortly after the Civil War. Robert N.C. Nix of Philadelphia, the second ranking member among the contemporaries, is a South Carolinian; his father was dean of South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, whose onetime president, Thomas E. Miller, represented South Carolina's seventh district in 1895.

North Carolina's second district elected four black Republicans between 1874 and 1900. George H. White, a brilliant lawyer, who previously was in both houses of the state legislature, was the last member of Congress before the walls of segregation came down a second time in 1901. He left with a moving speech, promising that the blacks would be back.

Congressman White's prediction came true in the north in 1929. Illinois' first district, which was represented for nearly thirty years by William L. Dawson until his death in November 1970, sent three other blacks to Congress. Both his predecessors, Republican Oscar DePriest (1929-35) and Democrat Arthur W. Mitchell (1935-43), had like Dawson been born in the south.

The Dawson Chicago district now is represented by Ralph Metcalfe, the late congressman's choice for the post. Illinois' fifth member, George Collins, speaks for a Chicago-suburban district in the House.

Three states have sent three blacks to Congress. Mississippi's trio included Senator Revels, the trailblazer; Senator Blanche K. Bruce (1875-1881), the first Negro to sign his name to a dollar bill as register of the treasury, and John Roy Lynch, who was speaker of the House of Mississippi before being elected to three terms in Washington.

Alabama's three were from the Reconstruction era. Mrs. Christopher says that the most talented two—labor organizer and publisher James T. Rapier and farmer and preacher Jeremiah Haralson—might have lasted longer if they hadn't been political rivals. She credits Adam Clayton Powell Jr., one of New York's three, with helping to pass more substantial legislation than any other black solon in American history.

California's two, as well as Michigan's two, are contemporaries. Augustus F. Hawkins is singled out for praise for his effective work in the California state assembly as well as in Congress. Ronald Dellums, former Berkeley city councilman, has captured the public imagination as a junior member. Michigan's John Conyers Jr. was an early opponent of the Vietnam War and played a vital behind-the-scenes role in keeping two Nix segregationist appointees off the Supreme Court.

National Black Fraternity Fights Drug Abuse

COLLEGE PARK, MD. Over three hundred chapters of one of America's largest Black fraternities have launched a virgorous anti-drug abuse program which members say will be felt throughout the nation.

Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc., kicked off "Project Uplift" after a two-day conference at the University of Maryland in College Park. The fifty-nine year old group plans to touch every Black college campus in America, and every Black community with its get touch program. The drug problem was given top priority at the meeting where top officers of the Omega Supreme Council weighed its program before the kick-off.

According to James S. Avery, Grand Basileus of the 30,000-member organization, "Omega is greatly concerned with the plague of narcotics, with its tragic abuses by our youth." Avery, a community relations and marketing executive with Humble Oil Company, said that each of the twelve districts of Omega Psi Phi is preparing to provide drug rehabilitation and drug information to students on campuses as well as to concerned local groups.

Discuss Zeid Temple Trip To Houston

Zeid Court No. 50 Daughters of Isis held their regular meeting Tuesday, Sept. 28th, at Doric Masonic Hall, 1617 Crocker St. Daughter Bertie M. Hogan Illustrious commandress presiding.

Out of town members attending were Dts. Willa Mae Williams of Ottumwa, Ia., and Virginia White of Burlington, Iowa, the meeting was very well attended.

Review of the years activities were reported by the deputy of the Oasis Dts. Willmetta Jones.

Officers and members were congratulated by the commandress for the interest and manner in which the work of the court has been carried out.

Oral and written reports of the shrine session which was held in the city of Houston, Texas were given, some of the highlights are as follows: But first thinking our many friends who helped to make the trip possible.

Due to Texas
The potentate Noble Frank W. Hogan of Zeid Temple No. 90 and the attending officers, The Illustrious commandress Dts. Bertie M. Hogan Of Zeid Court No. 50 and their attending officers, along with a host of relatives and friends (66 in all) Boarded two buses that left the city on Aug. 13 for Houston, Texas and the Shrine National Convention.

Traveling with the group were Mr. and Mrs. Leak Crayton, Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Ottumwa, Ia. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde White of Burlington, Iowa who also are members of the temple and court.

From Omaha Nebraska, The Illustrious Potentate Noble Penn and Illustrious commandress Dts. Marion Holmes and several of their attending officers, Mrs. Muriel Dealeat a former member of Zeid Court also went along for the trip. Mrs. Ruby Wilson Worthy Matron of Princess Ozell Chapter No. 9 also was a guest of the shrine, as were many who have made the trip with the group in the past.

Wins Prize
Zeid Court of Des Moines won first place in the annual bowling contest and brought back the trophies to prove it. Those bowling on the winning team were Dts. Wilmetta Jones, Ella Mae Burks, Cathryn Moore, Barbara Robinson, and Dorothy Weathers. Second Team competing from Zeid Court was Dts. Mildred Graves, Bertie Hogan, Evelyn Holt, Jane Brown and Helen Reid, all had a lot of fun, this team won two out of three games.

The convention in Houston was reported to have had the largest attendance on record. The parade was as beautiful as ever, Church services at the Methodist Church Sunday morning was one that will long be remembered, it was very moving, out of the large attendance of several hundreds of people some of the Daughters of Isis of the Des Moines Court were thrilled to be caught by the news photographer and had their pictures in the local paper.

The Nobles of the Shrine and the Daughters of Isis have always been known to conduct themselves in a manner to be proud of and let us keep up the good work. We were very pleased to have the management of the hotel compliment the group on their behavior and welcomed them to come again.

Hospitality in Houston rates with the very best, the city itself is beautiful, big and clean, offered many interesting things to see and do. We visited the Astrodome, The Space Center, toured the city, and many of the women and the men had a field day shopping in the huge pretty shopping centers, and the food every where was good.

Large Attendances
The report of attendance on Thursday was around 28,000 and many registered after that count. Dts. Evelyn Holt First-Lt. Commandress, Dts. Ollie Sanders, Second Lt. Commandress, Hiawatha Potter, Imperial Deputy of the Desert, and Bertie M. Hogan III. Comm. Rode in the big shrine parade, a first for the Daughters of Isis of Des Moines, Iowa.

The address of the Imperial Commandress carried the theme of love she left with us the thought, "Above all Let us Love One Another" for in this time of war protests, drugs, and immorality, which is draining on our nerves and our very existence, she stated we need the support of one another more now than ever before and so, let us love one another.

On Friday morning the group traveled on the New Orleans, Louisiana, toured that city, visited old plantation sights, toured the old Latin Quarters, went on a tour of the night clubs, and on Saturday afternoon boarded the buses for home.

Each year the Shrine Caravan grows larger, so put in your reservations now for 1972. Destination, Washington D.C. plus.

Committee chairmen this year were Nobles Frank W. Hogan, Edward Robinson, and Lawrence Graves.

FLOYD AND EVELYN LOGGINS (MR. AND MRS.) really made the scene this week. With Floyd employed by the City of Des Moines in the Street Maintenance Department and Evelyn emerging as a candidate for The City Council, these two are really "working citizens". The very best of luck and total success, Evelyn!

THE RICHARD LOWERYs — she is the former Norma Jean Lane — are unbelievably aggressive and successful. Lowery is in his sixth year in the Major Appliance Department of Sears and Roebuck Department Store. His spare time is involved with real estate the two have acquired along with rearing three children. Lowery is a do-it-yourselfer with carpenter tools, paint brushes, etc.

NORMA JEAN LOWERY, in addition to being responsible for Clyde 15, Yvonne 13, and Monica 11, is enrolled at Drake University and employed as secretary to Dr. Charles Link.

VIVIAN PRUITT (MRS. CALVIN) is currently holding at least four offices in VFW along with a newly acquired position in the Recorder of Deeds Office. (Our congratulations and best wishes)

Annual Jazz Concert Held

The annual Jazz Concert held at the Drama Workshop was staged again Sunday night, October 3, 1971, before a full house with standing room only. Irvin White was director and Mrs. Jinny Pigott was producer.

The concert remains a top attraction in that it offers the very best in local musical fare and encourages the attendance of entire families. Year after year families attend including children of all ages, and remain throughout the show.

Highlighting the excellent attractions was Des Moines' Big Band with its leader, Ed Darlington, and composed of some sixteen or seventeen musicians. Next was the Ken Wright Quartette with Wright performing on both the electric piano and piano. Then appeared Joanna Jackson and Marchelle, and The Richard Hale Trio. These performers were given a standing ovation. It was said of Joanna that her voice grows richer with the passing of time.

The Good Life Trio were next heard and more than pleased the large gathering. The renowned Speck Redd at the piano accompanied by Clarence King on bass and Bobby Parker on drums, received a standing ovation. There is but one Speck Redd.

The Bobby Dawson Trio charmed the crowd. Dawson holds a special interest for any crowd. A bass player for many years, within the past two years he switched to piano and is delighting his followers.

Don Archer and The Cosmic Joy, a seven piece ensemble, played extremely progressive jazz and captivated his listeners. Archer and his men closed the show in a most magnificent way.

THE SOUL KINGS PROVIDED THE MUSIC for the recent Elks Coronation Ball. The kings are Monroe King, James R. Graves, Terry Higgins and Earnest Watley.

University of Iowa's Johnson, was first draft choice who went with the Cleveland Cavaliers. The trip offered Mike and Toni a chance to visit with their daughter, Marca, Johnson's wife. The couple reside in Cleveland, hometown for the Cavaliers.

MET Mrs. Donna Shade Jones, pretty bank clerk at Bankers Trust. She is in her fourth year at this post. The diminutive red head is the mother of three: Denise 10, Rodney 8 and Michelle 4.

WHILE STILL IN BANKERS TRUST encountered Delores Wyatt Reeves, who is now "Mrs. Edward", of course. Have known her all of her beautiful life. Long, long ago she lived on the Eastside.

IN MY CASE, MIDGE COLE IS ATTEMPTING to make a "mountain out of a mole hill". But if she thinks she can, I'll buy! (Shhhhhhh!) She tells me the Figurette is designed with me in mind! Prove it, Midge!

Q. Is it proper, when attending church, for a single girl or even a married woman to give a donation or offering when she is with a male escort?

A. The church service is not a social occasion. Therefore, a girl escorted by a man makes her own offering to the church they are attending. Where a woman is attending with her husband, he would make the donation for both, as head of the household.

Q. Is it proper for a host and hostess, who are having a number of guests at dinner in their home, to offer a prayer before beginning the meal?

A. There is never anything "improper" about prayer.

Q. When a girl is an overnight guest in a home, should she strip her bed before leaving, or should she leave it as it is?

A. She can ask her hostess which she prefers. If she has time, she can ask her hostess for clean sheets and make up the bed herself in order to save the hostess the work.

Q. I've been told it is impolite to comment on another person's clothes. Does this mean that one should not admire or compliment another person on his or her appearance?

A. I see nothing at all wrong with frank admiration of another person's dress or appearance. We all like to hear nice things said about us.

Q. Is it all right at the dinner table to use the spoon from which you have been eating to dip into the sugar bowl?

A. Never! Not only is this bad manners, but it is unsanitary as well. Much better always to ask for a sugar spoon.

Q. Is it all right to use the typewriter for a formal reply to a formal invitation?

A. Definitely not! This type of communication must always be handwritten.

Q. Is it all right for a man to use only his initials when signing a social letter, as, "A. L. Hill"?

A. No; he should sign his full name

Q. Are announcements of a marriage mailed to persons who have been invited to the wedding?

A. No.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions... to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairor® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairor... and be more beautiful than you already are.

We Are Not Ready For Unarmed Officers

Following any flare up such as occurred at the Attica prison, specialists who have been hiding in the woods, come forth with all kinds of conclusions that what has been done in the past is wrong and we must have revolutionary changes.

Some specialists have come up with the idea that officers and guards should not be armed; that arms are incentives to be tough in the thick of the fray and lastly that there are countries which don't arm their law enforcement officers.

This suggestion sounds beautiful but it fails to take into account the attitude toward law observance in different countries.

People in the European countries respect the law and feel it their duty to obey it more than we do. We conquered this country with guns; we were law unto ourselves as settlers moved west; we throw rocks, stones and other missiles at police officers simply because they ask us to move on or stop doing some inconsequential thing which treads on the rights of others.

And we challenge officers who make arrests, sometimes without cause, and otherwise take on the air of bullies. There are some trigger happy officers but they are the exception and should be dealt with promptly.

You can't defend against ruffians without being prepared to go the limit when necessary.

It would be fine to be able to enforce the law without the use of guns just as it would be fine if nations settled their differences without arms. We are dealing with dangerous characters and until men learn to respect constitutional authority — and that's a long process — law enforcement officers should be given the means to protect themselves.

We Can't Run Every Country

We have fought wars and are doing so today that nations may be free to choose their own form of government and the officials who run them.

The people of Vietnam have just concluded an election which displeased a lot of people in and out of the country. And yet when it appears that 80 per cent of the people voted, they put them to shame in percentage of votes cast, even in America.

Many of the outside critics of the one candidate campaign forget that we have done this — North and South — for years. Strong political parties, both Republican and Democrat, have been so powerful that the one candidate that the other endorsed felt it useless to make the race. And while less of this goes on today, thanks to the new voting rights law, it is still strong in some backwoods counties.

If nobody wanted to run against, it was their business. We just can't control what goes on everywhere.

Record-Bad or Good—Speaks for Itself

When a man seeks office whether elective or appointive, not only are his qualifications to do the particular job investigated, but also those of his concern for human needs and how that whole record fits.

Recently, two nominees to the U.S. Supreme Court were refused confirmation not that they were unfavorable as lawyers but also because of their unsensitivity in their positions as respect the people they served.

In those instances derogatory remarks about Negroes in early years was a great factor in rejecting one of these and one in the 1920's.

Representative Richard Poff of Virginia had been looked upon as a favorite for one of the nominees to the U.S. Supreme Court. A number of liberals in the house had already endorsed him. Generally courtesy to a member of Congress makes confirmation for a position almost automatic.

However, it turns out that Rep. Poff signed the Southern Manifesto against school integration incurring the ill will toward him by civil rights groups. Apparently, cognizant of the fight his nomination would precipitate and the battle to either win or lose he felt unwilling to make himself available.

There is an old saying that elephants never forget. Neither do intelligent civil rights advocates who are trying to make this country a better one and know the job cannot be done with leadership which believe in full human rights for all.

The IOWA BYSTANDER has made arrangements with the Des Moines office of the Social Security Administration to answer questions for our readers about social security and Medicare. Send your questions to Field Representative, Room 293 Federal Building, 210 Walnut Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50399.

QUESTION: I have qualified for Medicare and my doctor sends my bills in to the program for payment. All I receive is the "Explanation of Medical Benefits" and his bill to me for the part I owe. My question is how can I compare these two items to verify that the amounts I personally pay the doctor are correct?

ANSWER: If your doctor accepts "assignment" it means he agrees to take the reasonable amount Medicare will pay for his particular service. You have to pay the first $50 each calendar year plus 20 per cent of the remaining bill. For example: suppose you have surgery in January. The doctor charges $170. Medicare finds $150 is reasonable for that service. Fifty dollars is subtracted from the $150 payable (for the deductible) leaving $100 balance. Medicare would pay the doctor $80 of that $100 (80 per cent). His bill to you then would be $50 (deductible) and $20 (for the 20 per cent).

QUESTION: I have paid the maximum social security contributions since 1940. I am now 67 and still working. When I applied for social security retirement benefits, I was told that because my earnings for the year would be too high, I was not entitled to receive any checks. This doesn't seem fair to me. Why was the law set up this way?

ANSWER: The primary reason for an earnings limit under social security goes back to the original purpose of the program as passed by the Congress. Social security retirement benefits are a partial replacement for earnings that stop when you retire. And, until a worker has retired or had his earning power sharply reduced, there are no lost earnings to replace. However, Congress also realized that some people never retire but continue to work long past 65. To completely deprive these workers of social security benefits would not be fair either. Therefore, regardless of the amount of his earnings, an eligible worker can get full monthly social security retirement benefits at 72.

Earlier, he can get full benefits if he earns $1,080 or less in a year. If he earns between $1,080 and $2,880 a

After this last week end, with Iowa U getting nailed by Purdue, Iowa State barely getting away from Kent State, a fellow might say that Drake just might have the best college football team in the state.

That is, if the Bulldogs can get by Northern Iowa Saturday. There wasn't too much one could say about the Iowa Purdue game. The Hawks never stopped trying, but just don't seem to have enough reserve defense men to help the starting bunch get some rest. Maybe they might go on a really tough conditioning program, even this late in the season.

They have to do something to make the starting lineup able to go the distance. If they can contrive to get Levi Mitchell some running room, he will likely put some points on the board for Iowa. And, yet, the fellows are coming up with some good plays in spots, but just can't put enough of them together. Iowa State has just about had the good times.

With the conference games coming up, the Cyclones figure to win about three games and possibly four. But they will have to show much more offense than they have thus far if they are to beat anyone in their league. Drake should be drawing good crowds to their games. They seem to play a good brand of football, and will very likely have a very good record. We don't believe they will be eligible to win the Valley football crown, but they could make the winners look rather silly.

year, his benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 earned. If he earns over $2,880 a year, his benefits are reduced $1 for every $1 earned. Regardless of his annual earnings, however, he can get his full social security benefits for any month he earns wages of $140 or less.

QUESTION: I'll retire in a few months and start collecting social security retirement benefits. Will I have to pay Federal income tax on these monthly benefits?

ANSWER: No. You do not have to pay Federal income tax on social security benefits.

QUESTION: I just started working and paying into social security. Can you tell me how long a person must work under social security to be eligible for benefits at retirement age?

ANSWER: Anyone starting his or her working career now will be fully insured for retirement benefits after 40 quarters (10 years) of work under social security. But don't forget that younger workers are also protected by social security disability and survivors insurance before they have worked that long.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

With Allen Ashby

Do you know that we watched the Notre Dame Michigan State game last week, and we thought the Irish got more than their share of breaks, and we are one of the sidewalk alumni of Notre Dame. But, brother Lucius says that is just the way things break, and nobody yells when the breaks go his way, and surely the Spartan head coach has had his share of such breaks in his long coaching career.

Here at home, we first of all had to get the results of the East Waterloo - Cedar Falls game. The last time we heard the score, the Waterloo boys were behind, and time was running out. But they displayed the mark of champions, and pulled it out. As we heard it, the Cedar Falls coach was criticised for passing in the final minutes of the battle with his team protecting a small lead. But it must have sounded like a good call, but the Trojans just got the ball. Had it worked, it would have been a smart play.

Dowling didn't have much trouble with Tech, according to the score, but some of the fellows later said those Tech fellows just don't quit. They haven't been shut out yet, and we still think they are gonna get somebody yet. Lincoln's Phil Haymen has begun to run with his head down, we have heard, and sometimes runs over people. Well, he ought to get down about waist high, and then he would be harder to handle than a mad steer.

Maybe he will before the season ends. That is one of the reasons why some good all American fullbacks didn't make it in the pros.

In college they were big and strong, and literally ran over the college lines and tacklers. But in the pros, they were running into fellows as big and strong as they were, and just couldn't cut it running straight up. But, when Dowling plays Lincoln, the Maroons will likely key on Phil, and he will have troubles. East, North, and Hoover all seem to be just about in the same bracket so far as ability goes.

The big scramble in the city seems to be for third place, for either Dowling or Roosevelt will finish second. Do you believe the Roughriders might upset the Irish. But would it be an upset? A guy in a white station wagon told us to go out and watch some of the little league games. He wants us to see his grandson run.

VETERANS

Q — Some years ago, VA denied my claim for a disability pension and now I am becoming progressively worse. What can I do to have my claim re-considered?

A — Submit to the VA office which studied your claim, or the one nearest you if you have moved, a statement from your doctor as to the current status of your disability.

Q — Two years ago, I was studying under the G.I. Bill, but dropped out at the end of the semester. I now plan to enroll in the same school and program. How can I start my education benefits again?

A — Notify the school to submit a re-enrollment certification to VA. This will start your benefits again, provided the school and program are currently approved, and you have not exhausted your entitlement.

Q — Are widows of World War II veterans who died of active duty or from service-connected disabilities still eligible for G.I. home loans?

A — Yes. A recent law revived unused, expired entitlement for unmarried widows of WW II veterans as well as for veterans themselves.

Spacing Shift Cuts Framing

Real savings in home construction are possible from two recent developments involving lumber framing, reports the Western Wood Products Association, Portland, Or.

Spacing of wood studs in load-bearing walls at 24-inch centers instead of the long-customary 16 inches is permissible now in most parts of the country, WWPAA states.

The four major model code groups and the Federal Housing Administration all accept the wider spacing. Despite a resulting reduction in lumber needed per unit, WWPAA is promoting the idea with builders and architects as the "Mod 24" system.

The second cost-cutting change is span increases allowed now for joists and rafters under the new National Lumber Standard PS 20-70, which recognizes greater strength and stamina values in these repetitive systems.

Builders report savings in materials and labor of as much as $300 per unit.
