A Microcosm of The State

Fort Dodge Festival Could Set Trend in Iowa

News Briefs

NAACP MEETS IN D.M.

DES MOINES IA — The Iowa-Nebraska State NAACP Convention will meet November 14-15 at the Howard Johnson-Merle Hall Mall in Des Moines.

Guest speakers will be Ms. Margaret B. Wilson, NAACP chairman of the board and James Blair, assistant secretary of HUD. They will address audiences at a Friday dinner and Saturday luncheon-fashion show. Registration is at 8 a.m. both days.

PROBES DEATH

NEW YORK — A grand jury is probing the death of Quinton Applewhite a bystander in East Harlem who had 13 police bullets pumped into and through his body Oct. 20.

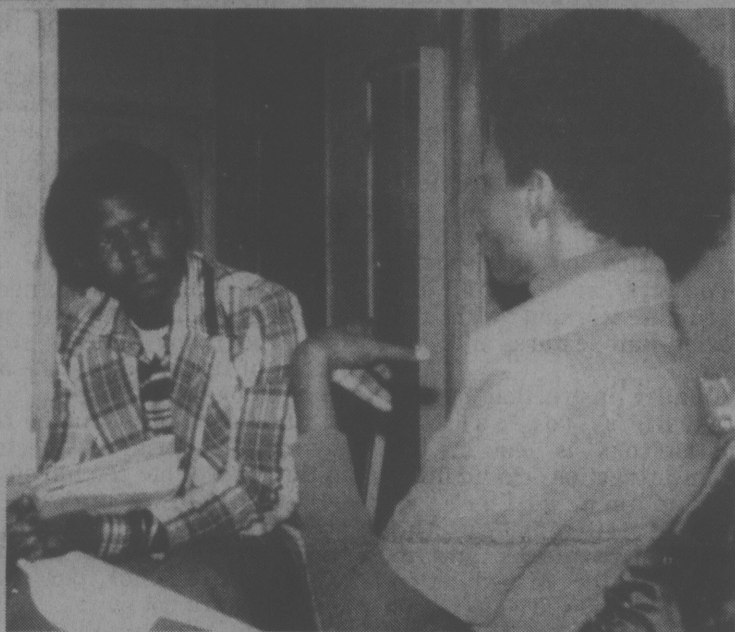

Applewhite came out from a building where one gunman was holed up and met his death from 13 police bullets even though he held both hands high over his head and was shouting to the police "hold it, hold it," according to the N.Y. Amsterdam News.

JUDGE GETS DETROIT PLAN

DETROIT — The Detroit School Board has submitted a final version of its revised school desegregation plan to U.S. District Court Judge Robert DeMascio. The new plan reportedly would reduce the number of students to be moved in the 247,500-student district, which is 74 per cent black. The city is about 50 per cent black.

BOSTON STUDENTS WALK

BOSTON — Mounting tension climaxed here recently as more than 200 white students walked out of Charlestown High School to protest court-ordered busing in general and their lack of access to administrators in particular.

Peter Magina, a business and agricultural journalist from Africa, listens as Eleanor Tate, Register and Tribune reporter, explains facts concerning the black community in Des Moines and Iowa's only black newspaper, the New Iowa Bystander, as the two news media professionals visited Friday with the New Iowa Bystander. MTA Colors Routes

After a year's planning and organization, the MTA's new color-coded routes and uniform schedules became effective Monday.

The color codes and schedules were designed primarily to standardize area-wide service, eliminating confusion and attracting new riders for the MTA.

Under the plan, buses will stop at all intersections on regular routes every fifteen minutes during the morning and afternoon rush hours (6:30-9:30 a.m. and 3:30-6:30 p.m.) ... and every thirty minutes in between rush hours and on Saturdays. The new Euclid Crosstown (silver) Route will run every thirty minutes Monday through Saturday.

MTA officials believe that the color-coding system will attract new riders to the MTA. According to Linda Downing, MTA marketing manager, "Surveys showed that one reason for lack of ridership was simply that people didn't know where a particular bus could take them. Our new schedule books show all the routes in relation to the entire city and make it easier for riders to see where the buses go and were to make transfers."

Schedule books are available at all MTA pass sales outlets, from Shop & Ride merchants and at the MTA office, 2320 High Street. For route and schedule information, call 244-8585.

Gateway Sponsors Penal Trip

Gateway Opportunity Center, Inc., will sponsor trips to penal institutions, according to Zuk Williams, director.

The purpose of the trips would be to give relatives of those persons who are incarcerated in the institutions an opportunity to visit with one another without these visits being to much of a hardship on them financially, Williams said.

Williams said the planned trips depend on the number of people interested. Seats will be available on a first come, first served basis.

The first trip is scheduled for Ft. Madison on November 23. All trips would be made each Sunday of each month. Other trips and dates are Anamosa, Nov. 30;

Awareness Of Blacks

by Charles McCauley
New Iowa Bystander Editor

The population composition of Fort Dodge with other demographic characteristics parallels those of the state of Iowa and make it a microcosm of the entire state, according to a March 1974 report of the Iowa State Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on Civil Rights.

Fort Dodge has a population of 32,000 with 600 of that populace black. The report on Fort Dodge in its conclusions, stated "a large percentage of white people are either uninformed, misinformed, or unconcerned about the basic needs of the minority community. They lack exposure to the black community...."

Efforts to combat the many problems of the black community in Fort Dodge began several weeks ago with planning and hard work.

The designing yielded a weeklong (Nov. 1-8) festival of black art and culture in Fort Dodge. Steering the committee was Willis Bright, Jr., director of Fort Dodge's Urban Ministry and Dorothy Anderson.

A list of various activities were planned to complement each night of the festival sponsored by the Fort Dodge Area Fine Arts Council and the Fort Dodge Urban Ministry.

The Miss Black Fort Dodge Pageant was the first event presented. Seventeen contestants, ranging in ages from 14-18, vied for the title. The females were judged on the ability to express themselves effectively, their Rockwell City, Dec. 7; Mitchellville, Dec. 14 and Eldora, Dec. 21.

Fees for the trips are $7 and $5. Reservations and money must be at the 801 Forest office by the Friday preceding each trip. Call 243-8685 for more information.

sensitivity to social concerns in the community, talent, evening gown competition, personality and poise.

Lisa Goodman was selected by a panel of eight judges as the first Miss Black Fort Dodge. The 16 year old was voted as Miss Unity by her peers. Miss Community, voted by the pageant directors, was Karen Pattigrew, another 16 year old. During talent competition, Ms. Goodman did a modern interpretative dance using African movements.

Judges were Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bright, Sr., retired, Lexington, Kentucky; Cora Douglass, administrative assistant to Iowa Gov. Ray's office, Des Moines; Lola Rhem, GWC, Order of Calanthe, Mason City; Dee Morris, Willkie House secretary, Des Moines; Charles McCauley, New Iowa Bystander editor, Des Moines; Diane Webster, ISU Black Cultural Center director, Ames and Rick Shade, ISU student, Ames.

Other young ladies competing for the title were Jenny Grady, Natesa Grady, Velma Hunter, Rose Lofton, Bernadine Mosley, Lois Mosley, Bessie Naylor, Karen Pattigrew, Deborah Pickett, Daisy Presswood, Georgia Presswood, Mary Helen Preston, Debra Roberts, Wynetta Shivers, Cynthia Smith and Linda Smith.

Dennis Williams, an English teacher at the Fort Dodge High School, served as master of ceremonies. Williams along with Deloris McCaleb were advisors to the contestants.

To further interact the residents of Fort Dodge, a community church service was held at the Corpus Christi Parish Center featuring Dr. C. T. Vivian, dean of Seminary Without Walls, Shaw University in Raleigh, North Carolina as speaker. Guest soloist was Sister Audrey from the Order of St. Francis,

Sacrificing An Able Public Servant

It is not surprising that Vice President Nelson Rockefeller has notified President Gerald Ford that he would not be on the ticket in 1976. Rockefeller, one of the most able men in Washington, has been the target of some of the right wing Republicans who fear his influence on President Ford by pushing him toward the left.

President Ford wants to be nominated and is dependent upon the Republican organization to do so. These are mostly regulars who have carried on between elections.

Republican leaders should learn from past experience that there are not enough registered Republicans to elect the president and therefore considerable attention must be given to independents and dissident Democrats.

This was demonstrated in the 1964 election when the Republicans nominated Senator Barry Goldwater, a conservative Republican. He was soundly defeated by the late President Lyndon B. Johnson who drew votes from all segments of the population.

It is unfortunate that President Ford chose former Republican Representative Howard Callaway from South Carolina as his campaign manager. A strict conservative, he immediately began to raise doubts whether Vice President Rockefeller should be on the ticket with President Ford in 1976. This opened up a series of statements by conservatives singing the same song.

Apparently President Ford felt that he could quiet the conservatives, eliminate Gov. Ronald Reagan, and assure his renomination; that Rockefeller should be out of the picture so as to raise no doubts about his position either right or left.

It does seem peculiar that President Ford would allow his campaign manager to peck on the person he chose for vice president. It makes it difficult to see why he did not stop Callaway's attacks.

I hope the convention will nominate a running mate for President Ford whom voters of all segments of the population can support.

Unions Should Obey The Law, Also

Judge Gibson Holliday ruled last week that garbage collectors violated a previous injunction when they refused to work on a rainy day. He fined the union $1,000, dismissed the men from their jobs and disqualified their union from further representing them. This ruling came in compliance with the public employees bargaining laws.

The judgment should stand for too long, some judges have found the unions guilty of violating the law and later in the settlement of strikes withdrew the judgment as one of the provisions.

We hear calls for law and order, and yet when our situation is at stake, feel that our cause is an exception to the rule. This should not be and is no excuse that a fellow should be let off continually and beg for sympathy when he is in the same situation again.

We Hope The Voters Used

Good Judgement

Voters in Des Moines Tuesday re-elected Mayor Richard Olson for another 4-year term. Russ LaVine, his opponent, made a good race but apparently the majority of the voters felt that Olson's advocacy of the downtown improvement program far outweighed the position of LaVine who opposed it.

I have not always agreed with Mayor Olson, partly because of lack of communication with minorities in the community who should have some insight as programs that are being worked out. This situation has existed among the members of the council generally, which helps to keep down minority representation in city government.

I have felt all along that the city Human Rights Commission should spend more time helping to cure this situation particularly since many of the programs carried on by the city are partly funded by grants from the federal government. And of course, the heads of the equal opportunity programs insist that minorities share in these programs.

However, under Mayor Olson's leadership and in cooperating with downtown businessmen, the program to renovate the rundown section of the city and replace it with a mall and theatre should go forward...

Voters in New York and New Jersey rejected the Equal Rights Amendment at the election Tuesday. This was quite a surprise for these states have been looked upon generally as liberal but things do change.

The Negro candidate for mayor of Baltimore received only 15 per cent of the vote at the polls Tuesday. It would seem that this is a strange situation in view of the fact that Negroes constitute 35 per cent of the total population.

"Big Show" is Big Chicago Happening

A bona fide "happening" — the 10th-anniversary edition of the Chicago "Big Show" — will take place at the O'Hare Inn, November 16-18.

"Big Show" is an apt name for the largest black beauty and barber trade show in America. Its sponsor, Beauty Trade magazine, the only trade publication published by blacks in this country, has the highest paid circulation among the race's largest business bloc — beauty shop owners.

Average crowds of 6,000 flock to the Chicago "Big Show" each year. (There are two "Big Shows" — in Philadelphia in July, since 1960; in Chicago in November, since 1965).

The "Big Show," like its parent, Beauty Trade magazine, has filled the unique needs of this group by furnishing authentic, up-to-date information on the trends, tools and techniques of the profession. Both are recognized as trend-setters for hair styles, and as clearing houses of information on the special products and techniques used in working with the varied hair textures and skin tones.

Quality instruction by the nation's top-calibre instructors is one of the main attractions. In addition to manufacturers' demonstrations on the show's five stages and in many of the 65 exhibition booths, classes are offered in all phases of beauty culture by these experts.

While it is nominally a trade show, the "Big Show" attracts the general public to its social affairs. An opportunity to get "sneak previews" of style and fashion trends is offered in the competitions in cutting, styling, coloring, "the total look" (styles and fashions), that are features of the Show's dances, banquets, cabarets and fashion shows.

This year, the opportunity of enjoying the considerable ambience of the O'Hare Inn will be an extra added attraction.

Beauty shop owners and operators regard attending "Big Shows" a must. In addition to the instruction offered, they afford opportunity for camaraderie with members of their profession — with people who have encountered the same special problems, inspirations, disappointments, triumphs. exchange information, to This group relishes the mingle socially — and to semi-annual opportunity to have a "ball!"

Are Blacks A Sideshow?

More on the communications media and how it systematically excludes blacks from positive presentations in its newscasts. And since I have received so many requests for the speech I made before the Fifth Annual Congressional Black Caucus Dinner in Washington, D.C., I shall be including much of it in this space during the next few weeks.

In that speech, I said: "The political genius of (the) black Congressmen and women, representing the concentrated power of blacks in this country, ought to be welcomed on the programs — 'Meet the Press', 'Issues and Answers', 'Face the Nation' — and in television documentaries, heralding the magnificent work of black leaders.

"What about the struggles of the presidents of our black colleges who skirt the razor's edge of black unrest and student militancy while facing increasing white reluctance to give financial support?

"Or what about the black preachers who have kept alive the only strong black institution in our history that has survived, the church, which has been a bridge over troubled waters?

"What about black women living in the sweltering heat of the ghetto, in an environment where there is too little for too many — their struggle with inflation and the forces of turmoil and strife and crime — don't they have a story to be told?

"Shouldn't all of this be tempting grist for the mills of the media — print and electronic? In short, we shall insist in the future that the full story of black life in this country be told; that we are sick and tired of hearing media executives tell us that our great national religious and fraternal conventions, attracting thousands of delegates, (that these and) our NAACP, OIC, Urban League meetings are not news.

"(Just) why aren't they news — just because some white executive, possibly male, completely out of touch with the nitty gritty reality of every day inner-city life has made such a determination? We are determined to pursue a goal that will reject completely and finally any definition of news that by its very (being) excludes 95 per cent of all the things blacks are involved in and leaves only super super blacks, riots and crime to be reported.

"To achieve these goals, to have healthy normal black role models, male and female for our children to emulate — becomes a goal we must pursue. In the past, even this great event, the Congressional Black Caucus Dinner, has received minimal, and in fact practically no national news coverage, considering the importance of the event."

And so we must begin to move to change attitudes in the media, attitudes which heretofore have said "black news is that which we who run the news departments define, and we define it to be anything that is a funny side show, anything that showcases the big super super black, anything that depicts blacks as criminals, buffoons, welfare recipients, civil rights agitators (in a very negative sense) or that holds blacks up to ridicule, pity or shame.

FALL GARDEN TIPS

November may be the beginning of winter with occasional frosts and snow flurries, but a few last minute outdoor activities may be accomplished, reports Mohamed Khan, Polk County Extension associate. Trees, shrubs, roses, garden perennials and bulbs may still be planted without delay. This month is ideal time for planting tulips which should be set out in loose soil at an even depth. Remember, too deep planting of tulip bulbs will decrease bulblet formation.

This is also an ideal time for raking leaves and other plant parts, and piling them in a compost for mulching next spring and summer. For composting, use a 6-8 inch layer of leaves and cover with one to two inches of garden loam or barnyard manure. Sprinkle a quart of complete fertilizer with the garden soil to hasten decomposition. Continue alternating layers of leaves and soil until the pile is as high as you can handle. A depression in the center of the pile should be made to collect water for the decomposition process.

Evergreens that are planted this fall can be sprayed with an anti-dessicant spray to coat the needles on the plant. This should be done while temperature stays above freezing. Evergreens and deciduous trees and shrubs, especially the newly planted ones, should be frequently watered before freezing.

Strawberry plants should be mulched on or before Thanksgiving in this area, according to Khan. He suggests removing of perennial weeds and diseased plant materials. Winter mulching on strawberries prevents plants from heaving out of the ground during periods of alternate freezing and thawing in the fall and spring, explains Khan. Also, a mulch prevents low temperature killing of flower buds which have already been initiated for next year's crop. Without a snow cover or mulch damage to the buds occurs at 10 or 12 degrees F. Temperatures 10 degrees below zero kill flower buds and damage crowns of the plants.

Mulch materials include oat, hay or soybean straw. Use straw that is free of weed seeds to prevent weeds in your garden, explains Khan. He recommends 3 to 4 inches of oat or hay straw, or 4 to 5 inches of soybean straw.

Khan does not recommend tree leaves for mulching strawberries because the leaves crumble and pack down which prevents free exchange of air between the soil and the atmosphere. Lack of circulation smothers the plants.

Holds Workshop on Minorities, Journalism

A workshop on minorities and journalism will be held at Drake University Thursday, Nov. 13, for area high school and college students.

The workshop, intended to introduce minority students to opportunities for careers in journalism, will be sponsored by the Gannett Foundation of Gannett Newspapers, the University of Kansas, the Minorities Division of the Association for Education in Journalism and the School of Journalism at Drake.

The daylong workshop is for:

- * * Minority high school students in the Des Moines area who would like to learn about opportunities for careers in journalism.

- * * Minority students at Drake and area colleges who are interested in news coverage of minorities and careers in journalism.

- * * Minority journalism students at Drake interested in discussing their journalism programs.

- * * Journalism students at Drake and elsewhere interested in participating in any of the Nov. 13 sessions.

The director of the workshop will be Professor Sam Adams of the University of Kansas. Adams was one of the first black reporters on the Des Moines newspapers and also was a reporter on the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times. He was deputy director of the minority division of the Democratic National Committee before joining the School of Journalism at Kansas. So he has viewed minorities, journalism and the news media from personal, professional, political and academic perspectives.

Also participating in the workshop will be:

- * Dave Lewis and Eleanor Tate of the Des Moines Register & Tribune; Dolph Pulliam of KCCI-TV; Mel Taylor of WHO-TV; Charles McCauley of the Iowa Bystander; faculty, students and staff of Drake University and the School of Journalism.

The workshop will be from 9:30 to 3 p.m. in the Olmsted Center on the Drake campus. A box lunch will be served at noon for 50 cents for those attending the workshop.

Cablevision Completes $12 Million Project

DES MOINES, — Hawkeye Cablevision, Inc., announced that it has completed a $12 million construction project for distribution of cablevision service throughout the metropolitan Des Moines area. Included are Ankeny, Clive, Des Moines, Urbandale, West Des Moines, Windsor Heights and some unincorporated portions of Polk County.

James M. Hoak, president of Hawkeye, pointed out that a few areas remain where underground cable will be buried this fall or next summer, and that some apartment units remain to be wired for cable.

"The small amount of construction to be done will be completed by our own Hawkeye crews," Hoak stated. "Our main contractor has finished its work of wiring the Greater Des Moines area."

The project consists of 750 miles of overhead cable distribution lines and 50 miles of underground plant, carrying the service to 90-thousand homes. Presently, 17-thousand homes subscribe to cable television, which includes 15 channels of programming and information services. An average of more than fifty new subscribers per day are being added to the system, according to Hoak.

Offered on the cable system are two non-network broadcasters from Kansas City and Minneapolis, plus a channel featuring movies 24 hours a day. Numerous automated channels carry weather, local government notices, school information and Reuters news services.

"A great variety of local programming is made possible by cable," Hoak observed. "Our cable TV bingo and local sports have gained an excellent following. We are also pleased with the reponse to some of our local religious programming."

"More channels and programs will be added over the winter months," Hoak said. The major addition will be Home Box Office, an extra-cost option, that brings views a daily selection of first-run movies, live sports and cultural events. Hawkeye concluded in August an agreement with Home Box Office, a subsidiary of Time, Inc., to carry their full programming in the Des Moines area.

Hawkeye is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Heritage Communications, Inc., which has 37-thousand subscribers in 25 cities in Iowa, Colorado, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Needs More Brothers For Big Brothers

"If you'd like to make a big difference in the life of a fatherless boy or girl - and in yours, too - give us a call."

That's the word from Jim Tack, co-ordinator for Big Brothers of Greater Des Moines. "Growing up can be tough if a youngster has no dad to talk to and look up to," he notes, "but our Big brother volunteers are doing something about it - helping to fill that gap for about 135 Des Moines area youngsters."

Tack says his agency needs to recruit more Big Brothers. "We've got about 40 young boys and girls on a waiting list, hoping for a Big Brother of their own. We'd appreciate getting a call at 244-1181 from anyone wanting to become a Big Brother or who'd like more information about the program."

Tack says the "one-on-one simplicity" of the program is the key to its success. "It doesn't take a lot of time or money," he explains. "It's just you and your little brother or sister for maybe two or three hours per week. You can be doing fun things like biking, fishing, or watching a ballgame, or even things you'd ordinarily be doing anyway - shopping, gardening, or what have you. Or maybe it's just talking things over. "The point is, during that time a Little Brother or Little Sister has your attention, friendship and respect. And, according to the youngsters and their mothers, that means a lot."

The Big Brother office is a United Way agency and is in the Hawley Building, 700 Sixth Avenue, Des Moines. "Give us a call or stop in and see us," suggests Tack. "We'll answer any questions you have about becoming a Big Brother."

and Mrs. George Parrish, Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Strickland and Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Ingraham. Mrs. Scott was presented with a beautiful corsage by Mrs. Ingraham.

The table was decorated with miniature Harvest Basket centerpiece. The guests were served baked ham, fried chicken, baked macaroni and cheese, mixed greens, blackeyed peas, turnips, sweet potatoes, cornbread, hot rolls, salad, relish dish, apple cobbler.

DeVry Hosts Career Fair

At its annual Career Fair, DeVry Institute of Technology this year played host to a gathering of 3,000 DeVry students and their families, friends and local high school students.

The 2-day event featured a wide range of lab demonstrations by DeVry students and exhibits by some of the country's leading electronics manufacturing and service firms. Among the exhibitors were such prominent electronics-related companies as Automatic Electric Company, Coleman Instruments, Digital Equipment Company, Health Company, Polaroid Company, Perkin Elmer Corporation and Xerox Corporation.

DeVry students displayed electronics in action in the physics and communications labs. Their demonstrations included a 3-dimensional image viewed with the aid of a Lazar, behind-the-scenes operation of DeVry's television studio, a drawing of the Mona Lisa, created by a computer, and live action communications projects presented by members of DeVry's Ham Radio and Video clubs.

DeVry Chicago is one of eight Bell & Howell technical institutes teaching electronics. The others are located in Atlanta, GA; Columbus, OH; Dallas, TX; Kansas City, MO; Phoenix, AZ; Woodbridge, NJ; and at Toronto, Canada.

Calls for Extension Of Revenue Sharing

DUBUQUE — Senator John Culver (D-Iowa) Friday called for an extension of revenue sharing for five — or a minimum of three — years in order "to give lead time to state and local governments for prudent planning of operating budgets and capital investments."

Culver, who spoke at a community meeting here honoring members of voluntary municipal boards and commissions, said that "general revenue sharing is one innovation of government in recent years that has proved its worth as a constructive and cohesive element in our federal-state-local system."

"It has permitted local officials who know local needs the best a measure of flexibility sorely needed in governmental decision-making," the Iowa Senator stated. "But if it is to continue to work, it must be extended over a long enough period to allow state and local officials to exercise the foresight that is essential to maximum efficiency and economy in government."

Culver added that "the record shows that, by and large, Iowa has made responsible use of its revenue sharing funds." Culver continued, "I have seen documentation of the fact that many constructive, urgently needed projects have been carried out by counties and municipalities that would have been impossible without these general revenue sharing funds."

"And this," Culver stated, "is true to the central legislative purpose of the revenue sharing act."

Culver said that while he supports extension of general revenue sharing "in its present general form, some problems have arisen that will have to be dealt with by Congress when legislation for extension of the act is considered. It appears that not all areas have as responsible a record in the use of these funds as Iowa does.

"There is evidence that some funds have gone to communities with little need and into projects with little social impact. Some modifications of the present program need to be made and doubtless will be made. But the basic format of the program should be preserved, and I expect it to be, although the legislation may experience some heavy sledding before final enactment."

Culver said that according to sources in the Congressional committees handling revenue sharing, it would appear that the extension legislation will come up early next year.

Man Shot Twice, Dies

Walter Eugene Carter, 31, of 1236 Fifteenth St. died Monday evening about 18 hours after he was admitted to Broadlawns Polk County Hospital suffering from two bullet wounds.

An unidentified man took the victim to the hospital Polk County medical examiner, said after making a preliminary examination.

Carter was dropped off at the hospital about 10 p.m. Sunday by a man who said, "I've got a guy in the car who said he's been shot." The man said he found Carter staggering in the street.

He then left the scene without identifying himself to hospital personnel who took the victim in for emergency treatment, police said.

A woman was taken into custody for questioning at about 2:30 a.m. Monday, but she was released without being charged at about 1:30 p.m. police said.

Wells Participates In BEEP Series

William W. Wells, Jr., commercial supervisor and staff district manager, in the Commercial/Area Staff Operation Department, at Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, in Des Moines, Iowa, is the fifth participant in the Black Executive Exchange Program's (BEEP) lecture series at Prairie View A&M University, in Texas, the National Urban League announced recently.

Developed six years ago by the National Urban League, BEEP offers black college and university students a first-hand view of business and industry. To date, more than 40,000 students have been exposed to current and future business practices and patterns.

BEEP's Management Systems series, which is co-sponsored by the Department of Business at Prairie View A&M University, uses black professionals chosen from 400 major corporations and government agencies. These corporations and agencies invest in BEEP by releasing their executives for two consecutive days and cover their travel and related expenses.

Rotating throughout the semester, each week a different executive lectures on his area of expertise as part of the credit-bearing course. BEEP courses are designed to demonstrate to students that theory and practical experience are equal survival essentials in the business world. It also provides the much needed role models as a reinforcement for these students.

Wells is responsible for the implementation of new or modified methods and practices for the Department. He also supervises and maintains department training staff for both management and craft training.

A native of Iowa, Wells received a B.A. in psychology from Drake University, in Des Moines. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity and Des Moines Chamber of Commerce and is on the Board of Directors for Willkie House, Inc.

Wells is married to the former Karen I. Anderson, also a native of Iowa and they reside in Des Moines.

Charles Moore

Ethnic Dance Expert To Teach at Edmunds

Charles Moore, nationally recognized dancer and teacher of ethnic forms, began a two-week residency at Edmunds Elementary School November 4 as part of an extensive dance Movement Education Program sponsored by the Iowa Arts Council.

Moore, assisted by Coster Massamba, is the second phase of the year-long project which brought Juan Valenzuela of Stanford University in October and will conclude in May with the residency of David Docherty.

During his residency in the school, Moore will teach classes of children in grades 4 through 6, hold master classes and lecture-demonstrations for interested community groups. As well as specializing in ethnic dance forms, he offers techniques for physically handicapped students and adults.

Moore, who studied with Katherine Dunham, Alvin Alley, and other dance notables was a featured dancer in Broadway productions of "Les Blancs," "Kwamina," "Billy No-Name," and "House of Flowers," appeared in television specials and with Harry Belafonte, Anne Bancroft, Sammy Davis, Jr., and Lauren Bacall, and with the companies of Alvin Alley, Geoffrey Holder, Donald McKayle, Pearl Primus, and Katherine Dunham, as well as participating in educational projects sponsored by the New York Arts Council, the Tennessee Arts Council, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The second residency sets the pattern for a unique program combining the basics of physical arts form with basic skills in education. The program is co-ordinated by Michael and Kaylynn Sullivan, dance/drama teachers who provide the continuity between the residencies.

The interested public is welcome to observe this and other special activities in Edmunds School, but school personnel request advance contact and scheduled appearance in order to maintain the educational routine. Persons wishing to visit may contact the school by calling 243-1174.

Willkie House will have an Open Dance Class Wednesday, November 12, 7:30 - 9 p.m. The class will be taught by Charles Moore, internationally recognized dancer. He returns this year to Edmunds Elementary School for a two week residency November 4-14. He is accompanied by his drummer Caster Masamba.

The dance class is free and open to all interested persons. Participants are not required to be dancers or have studied dance.

A reception will follow hosted by the Des Moines Civic Ballet and the Friends of Dance.

Space Crew Visits AUC

ATLANTA, Georgia — The Cosmonauts and Astronauts of the Apollo-Soyuz Space Mission toured the Atlanta University Center and conducted a student press conference there as a part of their whirlwind tour of Atlanta on Thursday, October 23.

The spacemen fielded questions from faculty and student representatives of high schools and colleges in the Atlanta and surrounding areas in the Morehouse College gymnasium on Thursday afternoon.

Chancellor Lisle C. Carter presented plaques, in behalf of the AUC institutions, to the members of the Space Team and the Russian general who accompanies them after reading the English version of the inscription. Dr. David Polutnik, a Russian Professor at Morehouse, read the Russian translation. The plaques cited the "outstanding achievement in space technology and exploration of the Apollo-Soyuz mission and the contribution of this effort toward world peace and understanding."

One of the highlights of the press conference was the presentation made by Mrs. Billie Gaines, a teacher of Russian in Atlanta's Booker T. Washington High School. Speaking fluently in Russian, Mrs. Gaines presented a framed poster designed and made by her students portraying the idea of a "Handshake in Space" and lettered in both English and Russian. The Russians were noticeably impressed with this gesture.

At the close of the session the space crew presented autographed pictures of the team to the AUC presidents and the Chancellor. From the AU Center, the tour took the U.S.-Soviet team to the Martin Luther King gravesite where they placed a wreath on the slain civil rights leader's grave.

Their visit to the Atlanta University Center marked the only program at an educational institution made by the group during their U.S. tour.

Cosmonauts Alexey Leonov and Valery Kubasov and Astronauts Thomas Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald Slayton made up the Apollo-Soyuz team. Their historic mission took place in July, 1975 and marked the completion of the first joint space flight between two nations.

Gov. Ray Signs Proclamation For Youth Tribute Week

Governor Robert D. Ray Monday signed a proclamation designating the week of November 9-15 as Iowa Youth Appreciation Week. The announcement was made jointly by the presidents of the three Optimist Clubs of Des Moines.

In attendance at the signing from Optimist International, were Willard Verba, Iowa District governor, and Ron Rubek, Iowa lieutenant governor from zone three.

From its inception in North Carolina, this annual observance, held the second week of November, has been recognized by the Congress and the President of the United States as a time to pay tribute to the vast majority of youth often overlooked or disregarded.

The annual programs have recognized youth activities such as heroism, church work, tutoring retarded children, serving as volunteers in hospitals, outstanding school achievement, and many other acts of service.

The annual programs have recognized youth activities such as heroism, church work, tutoring retarded children, serving as volunteers in hospitals, outstanding school achievement, and many other acts of service.

Upon signing the proclamation, Governor Ray stated, "In times when much attention is given to the negative actions of the few, it is refreshing to stress the solid and positive contributions of the overwhelming majority of our young people."

Two students from each junior and senior high school in Des Moines, West Des Moines, Urbandale and Johnston, selected by their respective principals, will be honored at a Youth Appreciation Week Luncheon on November 12.

Jim Schlipp, president of the Downtown Optimist Club states, "Des Moines is only one of 3,200 communities around the world that is proud of the fact that Optimist International has had the courage to promote and develop Youth Appreciation Week observances."

Give Table, Turkey A Holiday Flair

Setting your table in new and beautiful ways is part of the fun of entertaining. With Thanksgiving in the offing, now's the time to get ready for this gala holiday. Here are just a few ways in which you can add extra flair — not only to the traditional holiday bird, but to your table setting, as well:

Dramatize the Bird

That beautiful golden-brown turkey is the center of attention on any Thanksgiving table — so play it up as much as possible. A very pretty way to do it is to dip seedless green grapes first in lightly beaten egg white, then in graduated sugar. Arrange in a single layer on waxed paper, and let dry at room temperature several hours, or until crusty. When the turkey's ready to serve, cluster the grapes at either end of the platter and fill in at the sides with parsley sprigs.

Serve "Vegetable Bouquets"

Instead of a flower centerpiece (that space goes to the turkey), feature colorful individual "bouquets" made of vegetables — celery hearts, notched cucumber slices, carrot sticks, radish roses, and sprigs of parsley. Stand them upright in small bowls or cups, or in tiny herb pots or flowerpots (these make wonderful gifts for your guests to take with them later).

Use Color Boldly

Keep an eye out for inexpensive fabrics which can be used to make a cloth and napkins — and don't be afraid to apply a lavish hand in the use of color. The richness of gold, russet or green can provide an elegant setting for a holiday turkey. An effective treatment for a round table is to use two cloths — first a round one, then a square cloth in a contrasting solid color or print — and let both hang to the floor.

Set the Scene with Silver

That well-used kitchenware's practical, but Thanksgiving calls for something special — something as beautiful as solid silver. This lovely tableware can make all the difference in your entertaining. And these days, it's possible through special purchase plans to acquire sterling at once and pay for it through extended time payments — often with no finance or carrying charges.

Light the Candles

The gleam of candlelight makes every table prettier. Candles of varying heights or colors can be clustered together for more candle power, and make an interesting arrangement at the side of the table.

At no other time are pleasant surroundings and the hospitality and warmth of a beautiful table so much appreciated as during the Thanksgiving dinner.

You can make it a truly memorable one for your family and guests this year by adding the special touches that help make it so festive.

SPECIAL TOUCHES which dress up this Thanksgiving table include the soft gleam of sterling silver, along with perky "vegetable bouquets" and a garnish of frosted green grapes for the turkey platter.

Produces New Act

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — Twentieth Century Records has a new recording group called "Westwing," and Barry White is the executive producer for the group, whose first album release on the hot West Coast based label is entitled, "Westwing."

"Westwing" is a four-man vocal group whose freshness of sound and style, under the productive guidance of Barry White, has created an aura of new excitement through the rank and file of 20th Century executives and personnel.

Hosea Wilson, vice president of the label's R & B operation, has set up an all-out promotional campaign for "Westwing's" new album, and will have his promotion staff concentrating in particular on the track "I'm Gonna Love You Just A Little More Baby," a Barry White penned tune.

A & M's Bazuka Is

What's Happenin'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — A bazuka, by standards of understanding to most people, is a light shoulder weapon that launches armor-piercing rockets.

Musically, however, bazuka, as defined by Webster, is a crude musical instrument made of pipes and a funnel.

However, there's a hot...new musical group...known as Bazuka, that has no resemblance to a light shoulder weapon and is a far cry from a crude musical instrument.

Musically speaking, the group is D-Y-N-O-M-I-T-E, and ironically enough their first release on A & M Records was entitled, "Dynamite," and it turned the world on to their brand of musical artistry and excitement.

Produced by Tony Camillo, a noted producer whose credits include "Band of Gold" by Freda Payne, "Midnight Train To Georgia" by Gladys Knight and The Pips, and their award winning version "I Feel A Song In My Heart," plus countless more hit recordings by name artists. Bazuka's explosive musical ability has been captured and projected in true form.

The group has eight members whose instrumentation consists of bass, guitar, saxophone, trombone, congas, drums, keyboards, and vocals all skillfully blended to give the ultimate in sound and excitement, comparable to whatever's really happening musically today.

The group's first public appearance on a bill with Leon Haywood and The Average White Band met with public approval and acclaim and Bazuka really got over.

Bazuka's second A & M release is entitled, "Love Explosion" and this follow-up to "Dynamite" is another danceable item featuring a stirring horn chart. This group, as stated by the music trade appers, is set to explode again all over the charts.

In fact, from all outlooks and reactions to recordings and public acclaim, Bazuka is what's happening today.

Ewing's Tasks End With Retirement

The song ended Friday, October 31, 1975 but the melody of community action will always linger on.

Since Joseph D. Mondanro, Southern Iowa Economic Development Association (SIEDA) director, took time to interview Mrs. Emma D. Ewing April 1, 1967, she has served as an outreach aid.

Seeking to find those in need was not a difficult task—finding a solution was; because selling community action to the public was in some cases, comparable to using a battering ram.

Mrs. Emma D. Ewing

Eight-and-a-half years later, as Mrs. Ewing looked toward retirement, she was very proud to have had the privilege to serve so many people—with the help of many churches, groups, clubs and organizations.

Working with and for people in various walks of life could not be accomplished without coordinating efforts in every sense of the word. Because God touched the hearts and minds of a community, Mrs. Ewing and her co-workers were able to secure help with rent, food, clothing, medical needs by way of prescriptions and many other items of need for the underprivileged.

Farmfest Makes Twin Tracks For World Tractor Pull

LAKE CRYSTAL, Minn.—Clouds of dust and diesel smoke are thick here this week as preparations get underway for a prime FARMFEST 76 attraction.

Farm tractors, giant earth-moving equipment and even FARMFEST's own semi-truck are hard at it, loading, hauling leveling and packing 3600 yards of clay into a 3-foot thick base for the 20th World Championship Tractor Pull next fall.

Director Ed Hart and Field Operations chief Doug Burt to Denver.

While in Davenport, he was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Houston and Erica, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pendergrass, Mrs. Gladys King of Rock Island, Illinois and Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Redmond of Davenport.

Leith have staked out twin tracks below FARMFEST's big hillside amphitheater. Trucking in yellow clay from a mile away, crews hope to finish the football-field sized operation before the snow flies this year.

More than 300 entries and several hundred thousand spectators from across the nation are expected for the pull. Slated for the first four of FARMFEST 76's seven big days, Sept. 13-19, 1976, it will feature four classes each of superstock and modified tractors. Gate charge for the exhibition includes admission to the pull and to all other "World Series of Agriculture" events and entertainment here.

Farm Credit Banks of St. Paul and Midland Cooperatives are co-sponsoring the meet, which is sanctioned by the National Tractor Pullers Assn. Rights were provided by the M & W Gear Co. of Gibson City, Ill., whose founder, Elmo Meiners, was the originator of the world pull and its sole sponsor for 19 years.

Soil movers, Inc., of Columbus Neb., provided leveling and scraping rigs. Allis Chalmers recently donated a tractor, which is also at work on the pull track project.

Festival in Fort Dodge

Parkville, Missouri.

Bright conducted a lecture on "The Black Teenager" at the Urban Ministry, located on Tenth Street in the southern part of Fort Dodge.

Joseph Brewer, tenor soloist with the Highland Park Presbyterian Church, appeared in a concert partly sponsored by the Iowa Arts Council. Brewer has traveled extensively in the U.S. and abroad, and has given a number of major concerts in Germany, Denmark and Japan. The concert was scheduled for 8 p.m. at North Junior High School. A reception followed the concert.

The Black Pre-school Children Workshop, "Developing positive self concepts for the black child," was scheduled for Thursday at 1:30 p.m. and concludes at 3:30 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church. Dr. Henry Parker, professor of languages at the University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls, will conduct the workshop.

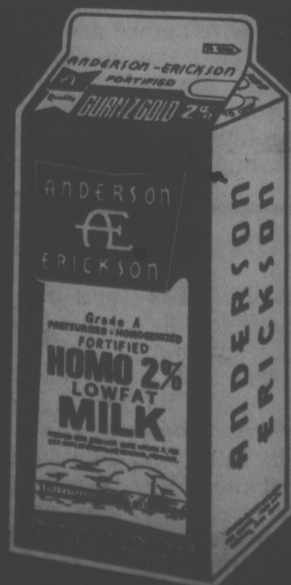

A 7:30 p.m. film, "Contemporary Black Artists in America," was presented at Blanden Gallery.

A sports clinic will be presented Saturday, November 8. In another event, citizens are asked to bring food from their ethnic background for a community-wide Ethnic Food Potluck Dinner at South Junior High School at 6:30 Saturday evening.

After dinner, a play will be presented by the Iowa State University Drama Group from the Black Cultural Center in Ames. Diane Webster, who performed in the Miss Black Fort Dodge pageant, is director of the drama group.

Other activities include an art show by Maceo Mitchell at Blanden Art Gallery, special activities at the Fort Dodge Public Schools and Iowa Central Community College and presentations of teenagers' art work at the Urban Ministry.

The festival serves as an avenue to bring about the awareness of the black community in Fort Dodge. It serves to bring the people of Fort Dodge together. There are many problems still to be resolved not only in Fort Dodge but all of Iowa. Fort Dodge sets the trend in meeting the challenge.

LOOK ON SPORTS

What the Heck!

This was some weekend. Iowa State misses an upset by less than a yard. Just about anybody you can think of would have gone for the two points and the win. And the fact that a defensive man was playing out of position kept it from being pulled off. But, then, we have always heard it said that good defensive men make a habit of turning up in the wrong places. Don't know if Hardeman's continued presence could have made any difference, but then Mason didn't do badly. However, the Cyclones must have missed Hardeman's running. As we looked at the game films the other night, we couldn't detect the holding that caused that 100 yard run to be called back. Usually when you run the film on slow motion, you can see the infraction, but not this time. Let's hope this doesn't let them down for their next game, for they will need everybody intact for this one.

There seems to be a great groundswell for naming the new stadium the Jack Trice Stadium. If you have read the sports pages, you would have to know who Jack Trice was. I recall that a group of us formed a Jack Trice Club here in Des Moines. Just what our purpose was, I can't remember. Maybe we didn't have any, but we must have had some program, but for the life of me, I don't know what it was. Maybe all this pressure might pay off, but it didn't in the naming of the Sec Taylor ball park.

Iowa and Bobby Caldwell had to be happy last Saturday. They came from behind to win and Bobby went all the way and threw the winning pass. Then he kept the winning drive alive by refusing to go down until he had a first down that led to the pass. I was thinking that the Hawks might fall behind early, and then if Caldwell couldn't move them, that he would be replaced. Maybe my seat companion is right. Maybe the guy is the best of the three Iowa quarterbacks. Anyhow, he was the best on this particular day. Now if the home fans can see the fellows win one. They have two chances to see that. Have to laugh at Commings who still insists that his first choice was his best one because none of his assistants disagreed with him. Even if they aren't yes man, they wouldn't be apt to disagree with the man who is the boss. Ron Maly had a bit of interesting hindsight which is never wrong. Said Maly, "Maybe Commings should have made Caldwell his number one man and let the other guys beat him out."

Two out of Three

Our major schools got two out of three. Drake brought one home in a big way with a halfback named Gilliam tossing passes. What the Heck! Halfbacks throwing passes aren't new. We had them way back before my day in the game. It was always a threat for a runner to come out on a sweep with the ball held up as if to pass, especially if he could do it on the dead run as some of the guys could. It kept the defense on edge all day. I have always argued that the quarterback shouldn't be the only passer in the backfield in order to have a balanced attack. And more of it would work today in spite of the stunting defenses. Burn those cornerbacks and saftys once or twice and they would be a little more careful about blitzing on some plays. The Bulldogs had to be happy with this one. Now maybe they will get untracked.

Last week

Our high schools rung down the season last week. East played as if they were glad the year was over. Tech battled down to the wire before dropping one to Indianola. Did anybody win? Yes, Dowling got in a light workout before the playoffs. Maybe this is the year for the Maroons to go all the way. Now comes basketball. Lincoln, the defending champs will learn just how hard road is for a defending champ with everybody shooting at one.

Challenge Frats In Volleyball Marathon

All area volleyball teams have been challenged to play Drake University's chapter of the Zeta Beta Tau (ZBT) social fraternity during its 52-hour volleyball marathon Friday through Sunday, November 14-16, at the Iowa State Fairgrounds.

The marathon will begin at 2 p.m. Friday, November 14, and will conclude at 6 p.m. Sunday, November 16.

The marathon's purpose is to raise $3,000 to purchase an incubator with monitoring devices for heart, respiration and other life signs for the Iowa Lutheran Hospital. So far, $700 has been raised through pledges for each hour the ZBT team plays and through flat contributions, according to Jerry O'Rourke, marathon chairman.

The game is free and open to the public. For additional information contact the fraternity by calling 255-9784.

Taylor May Sing National Anthem For Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS Texas—Even though Johnnie Taylor has cancelled all personal appearances and dates to complete his new album under the supervision and guidance of Don Davis, for his newly signed pact with Columbia Records, it's quite possible Taylor fans might see their singing idol on national television singing the National Anthem, prior to the start of a Dallas Cowboys football game.

Although no date or confirmation has been set for Taylor to actually sing The National Anthem prior to a home game with the Dallas Cowboys, great interest has been expressed by members of the team to have him sing "The Star Spangled Banner," in view of the fact that the majority of the players on the team are Johnnie Taylor fans.

The eight-hour loaf

Private Sector Can Help Black Business

"The burden is now going to shift to the private sector to make this system work for minority enterprise," said Cong. Parren Mitchell (D-Md.).

Speaking to black venture capital executives at the fifth annual conference of the American Association of Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Companies (AAMESBIC), held in San Francisco, Calif., Mitchell explained that because of government's present policy of disengagement from minority enterprise programs, minority business will "have to call on the private sector — where else can we turn to?"

Mitchell suggests that MESBICs as a body "should meet with the 20 or 30 major corporations in the nation, seeking a five to ten billion dollar private sector investment in MESBICs over the next five years." He believes that the private sector must be made to realize that minority enterprise is the sole remaining source which, if fully developed, can provide employment for the "unemployment reserve" in this country.

In addition to investments, Mitchell said MESBICs must insist that the private sector develop a set aside arrangement like the government that makes specific provisions for minority contractors, suppliers, manufacturers in its corporate operational scheme.

Last, he emphasized that the private sector must "share access to their markets with minority businesses."

"The five to ten billion dollar investment is but a beginning. Even the most conservative estimates point out that to achieve Black economic parity of $500 billion investment is needed," added Mitchell.

Speaking of minority enterprise's future with the government, Mitchell warned the audience of two dangers. "The Federal Reserve Board, caught up in the all consuming fear of fanning the flames of inflation," continues to manipulate the money market in a fashion that minimizes minority opportunity to secure venture capital." Second, he believes that "we are essentially powerless at this juncture in the history of politics in America to reverse the policy of disengagement at the very time minorities are attempting to maximize their participation."

He added, "The policy initiated by the Ford Administration and endorsed by the actions or the inactions of the Congress will operate to hamper the growth of minority enterprise and, indeed, cause many minority businesses to fail in the coming years."

Emphasizing that it is important for minorities to survive as economic participants and producers, Mitchell cautioned that "the next three years for MESBICs will be tough but with guts, determination and commitment, minority enterprise ultimately will achieve economic parity."

The Second Forty

(A forum about mature women)

by Margaret Brookfield

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice write Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 515 Madison Avenue New York, N.Y. 10022.

Widow's Dilemma

Dear Margaret Brookfield: I gave up driving after I was involved in an automobile accident many years ago. I didn't really need a car during the day, and my husband did all the other driving.

He died several months ago and I'm seriously considering moving into the city where I can use public transportation or, if necessary, taxis for short distances. My friends tell me that instead I should stay put and go to a driving school to regain my driving skills. What do you advise? S.C.

Dear S.C.:

Most family counselors advise widows not to make hasty, final decisions about moving or changing life styles. Before selling house and furniture and pulling up roots, they recommend a trial period in a new environment. You might consider renting your suburban home on a short-term basis, sublet an apartment in the city and see how it works out in terms of making new friends and finding activities.

As for driving again, that's a purely personal decision. It's always useful to know how to drive, but there's no sense in forcing yourself to do so if you're nervous and uncomfortable behind the wheel. Why not give it a try so you'll have a basis for deciding?

Panty Hose Problem?

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

After a summer of going bare-legged, I've now started wearing panty hose again, and notice a slight discharge from my vagina. Does this mean I have an infection and are panty hose responsible?

W.S.

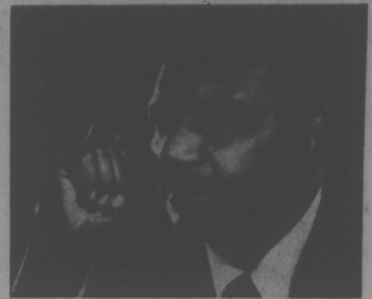

Dear W.S.:

Physicians say that a slight discharge is normal in premenopausal women, but if it has an offensive odor and is accompanied by itching, an infection is probably present. If you have any doubts or discomfort, do see a gynecologist. Some physicians believe that the lack of ventilation caused by wearing panty hose can create an atmosphere in which infectious organisms flourish.

Women past the menopause sometimes develop vaginal dryness and itching. This may be related to the decreased levels of the hormone estrogen which lead to thinning and drying of the walls of the vagina. Infection is more likely in such circumstances. Doctors will treat any infection and may also prescribe estrogen replacement therapy to help relieve vaginal dryness and thinning.

Happiness Through Health

by Otto McClarrin

6,000 HEALTH FACILITIES MUST ACCEPT LOW INCOME PATIENTS Hospitals and nursing homes receiving Federal Hill-Burton construction funds must begin posting notices that charity care is available, the Department of HEW has announced. The notices must be written in appropriate languages and should advise low income patients that they may apply for free care.

The requirement applies to the 6,000 facilities which have received federal Hill-Burton funds during the last 20 years — including 4,000 hospitals and 2,000 nursing homes, rehabilitation centers and other health agencies. Depending on State requirements, hospitals which refuse to post the notices ultimately could face court action, license revocation or termination of aid.

BIRTH CONTROL STUDY: The death rate associated with intrauterine contraceptive devices is lower than that associated with birth control pills, but more women who use the devices are hospitalized than women on the pill, according to articles in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. Five women died and 7,862 were hospitalized because of problems associated with the device (IUD) during the first six months of 1973, according to a nationwide statistical sampling of doctors made by the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. An estimated 3.2 million women in the United States and Puerto Rico were wearing IUDs at the time of the survey.

PROTECTION FOR DIABETICS: The Food and Drug Administration has just ordered new warning labels on insulin syringes to protect diabetics who mix two different types of the drug. The labels warn patients not to change the order of mixing prescribed by a doctor, nor the bottle or band of syringe or needle without first checking with a physician or pharmacist.

The FDA said that the "dead space" in certain syringes, particularly in the syringe and needle hubs and the needle shaft, could lead to harmful insulin dosage errors. "This (dead space) volume becomes a potential source of error when two different types of insulin are drawn, measured and mixed in the same syringe," the FDA said. The FDA notice said that the problems appeared to have been magnified by the recent introduction of U-100 syringes. The FDA stated further that there is no problem if a patient keeps using a stabilized dose of insulin, with the same technique and syringe.

MAYOR SNUBS BLACKS SUB

NEW YORK — Twice in October, Mayor Abraham Beame of New York refused to officially welcome an African Head of State to his city.

The African American Nationalist Committee extended an invitation to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt to receive the keys of the Black Community of Harlem, the same time he would have been received by Mayor Beame.

Business in the Black

By Charles E. Belle

Everything for Big Business; But What About Unemployment?

The Federal Reserve Board chairman, Arthur E. Burns, has called conventional economic thinking "inadequate and out of date." In a speech given at the University of Georgia he stressed economic reform running from the left to the right.

While arguing for curtailment of the 65 week unemployment check, he called for the controversial income policy. Thus, jumping in behind those who believe in full employment.

Ordinarily this would seem like strong support for a single program. But Mr. Burns is 71 years old and protected by a 14-year appointed position with the better part of it to go before expiration.

President Ford's administration is not enflamed with the idea of making the government an employer of last resort. Instead, Ford believes in blowing up the budget to make ends meet. The cash for his crash energy project will put the U.S. budget out of line with his to date rather conservative fiscal program.

Clearly the administration is ready, willing and able to spend money on oil companies seeking black gold. By the same token there is conspicuously little aid available to black people for economic progress. The $100 billion President Ford would like to present to the oil companies is to help finance an array of projects private industry feels is too risky for their capital investment.

Blacks Should Be Concerned

Therefore, the President is going to place the burden on the taxpayers to give oil and utilities companies spending money. Blacks must be deeply concerned about a program which will provide very few jobs in the terminal industries. The oil and strip mining coal companies are not major users of semi and unskilled labor.

The utility companies record of racial discrimination negates their somewhat larger use of the country's workforce. There would, of course, be large sums of money expended in the beginning on major construction projects, but the building and trade unions have not been united behind fair employment practices. A lot of serious Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) work must be done before blacks can believe this $100 billion boondoggle.

Arthur Burns is also recommending considerable aid to big business. Specifically, he wants to take steps to spur plant and equipment expansion and modernization. While this may also work to reduce the labor force many industries are actually hurting from inefficient use of human labors. Burn's proposal includes unspecified taxlaw changes to encourage investment. An equal benefit program for business and people would appeal to those who wish only an equitable share in the economic progress of our country.

GOPs Prepare For 1976 State Conventions

DES MOINES — Iowa Republicans, aiming to ensure the broadest possible participation, have set the wheels in motion to conduct two of the nation's next year.

Republican State Chairman Tom Stoner and Co-Chairman Margaret McDonald this week issued the official call for the Republican State Presidential Convention on Saturday, June 19, and the State Statutory Convention on Saturday, July 17. The two conventions will conclude the state's role in the caucus-convention system which will begin with precinct caucuses across the state on Jan. 19.

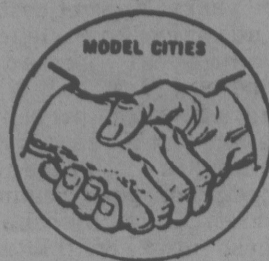

In a mailing to county and district GOP leaders, Stoner said that the State Central Committee has set the number of delegates for each convention at 3,495, making the Iowa conventions among the largest in the country. He said size of the county delegations will range from 343 delegates for Polk County to 10 delegates each for Adams and Ringgold counties.

"Although a large convention can be more difficult to set up, we believe that it is necessary to ensure a strong representation of the views and concerns of rank-and-file Republicans from across Iowa. We want to assure all interested Republicans that they will have adequate opportunity to participate in the platform development process and select delegates to the Republican National Convention," Stoner said.

Stoner said Iowa has been allocated 36 delegates to the national convention in Kansas City next August. He said that 18 will be elected from the district level, with the district caucuses nominating an additional 12 and six being elected on an at-large basis. The election of the district delegates, he said, will be conducted on Friday night, June 18, prior to the Presidential Convention.
