Welcome Drake

Ames welcomes again a worthy foe, a sister university of the middle west.

Students and townspeople join in extending greetings to the thousands of loyal supporters of Drake who overflow Ames to help their team win. We hope that our hospitality will equal that proffered us on our last visit to Des Moines.

This is the first time that the two schools have met on an Ames gridiron. However, each has won its share of glories on the Drake field. It remains only for Ames and Drake to continue the athletic rivalry which has become so keen during the past few years. Such spirit has made this annual contest the classic of Iowa and the Missouri Valley. Previously, students, faculty, and friends of Iowa State have pounced down on Drake in an enormous crusade for victory, filling every highway and connecting road with all kinds of equipages whose very puffs and creaks emanate the spirit of the occasion. This year it will be so with Drake at Ames. The invaders flood the town, rock the stadium, and watch with breathless interest the progress and outcome of the game.

Each team contends for the victory that will bring glory to its Alma Mater. Each has the united support of thousands of friends behind it. Ames hopes to emerge from the fray victorious, but whether or not you are the victors, you are welcome to Iowa State, Drake!

Review of 1924 Football Season

P. AXELSON
Student Manager

Iowa State 1924 Grid Season So Far

The Iowa State College eleven opened its 1924 football season on September 27th by licking the stray Nebraska Wesleyan team 23-13 on State Field after only two weeks of practice. The outstanding feature of the game was the work of Nave at end. The next Saturday, October 4th, found the cyclones on Randall Field at Madison, Wisconsin, supported by a fair-sized crowd of Ames rooters. Holding the Wisconsin eleven to a 3-0 score until the final quarter, the Cyclones threw a score into the Badger camp and continually brought the spectators to their feet by their perfect passing and running attack. While Roberts' passing was the feature of the game for Ames on offensive, Palm loomed up strong in the defensive line. Capt. Harris and Doyle Harmon starred for Wisconsin both on defensive and offensive.

In the first conference game of the year the Cyclones snatched victory from the Kansas Jayhawks on November 11 by the score of 13-10 in a game of thrills and last-minute heart stoppers. The winning points were the result of a perfect place kick by Roberts in the final minute of play. The outstanding feature of the game for Ames was the spectacular running attack launched by Johnny and Norton Behm with Robert's perfect kicking and passing. Capt. Burt starred for the Jayhawks.

Battling before one of the largest Homecoming crowds ever assembled on State Field on October 18th, the Cyclones outfought and outplayed the strong Missouri eleven throughout the three-quarters of the game until in the final quarter a long pass down the sidelines brought victory to the Missouri Tigers, 7-0. Norton Behm starred for Ames, with Longstreet also playing a whale of a game. Captain Bond starred for Missouri.

After a two weeks rest the Cyclones again invaded Kansas November 1st and decisively whipped the Kansas Aggie team 21-0, scoring in every quarter, and by every possible means known in football, and displaying a versatility and fierceness of attack that would not be stopped. They were just eleven men battling for Iowa State and playing the kind of football they had been coached to play. Although the Wildcats fought desperately to the last, they were powerless against the terrific onslaught launched by the cardinal and gold.

On November 8th, the Iowa State gridders invaded the Minnesota Camp backed by the band and over seven hundred rooters. In the first play of the game, after the kick-off, N. Behm dashed eighty yards for a touchdown. The Cyclones completely outclassed and outplayed the big Minnesota eleven throughout until the closing minutes of the game, when Minnesota came from behind and tied the score 7-7. Behm starred for Ames on offense and Palm starred on defense with Capt. Schmidt and his line doing their stuff right as usual against the sturdy Minnesota line, which is reputed to be the best in the Big Ten conference.

Meeting the plucky Grinnell team for their Homecoming game on Ward Field November 15th, and although four regulars, Fisher, Wm. Anderson, Palm and Larson, were on the injured list and unable to play, Ames completely swept the Pioneers off their feet during the first half, 13-0, but the old jinx smiled, something happened and in the last minutes of play the Pioneers swept through the Cyclones for their second touchdown, giving them a 14-13 victory.

Their Last Game for Iowa State

Capt. Harry, pilot of the Ames crew, predicts a rocky voyage for the Drake outfit today. We trust that "Fat" as an old-timer knows the storm signals and that his prophecy will be fulfilled, sending back to their home port a collection of seasick and homesick invaders.

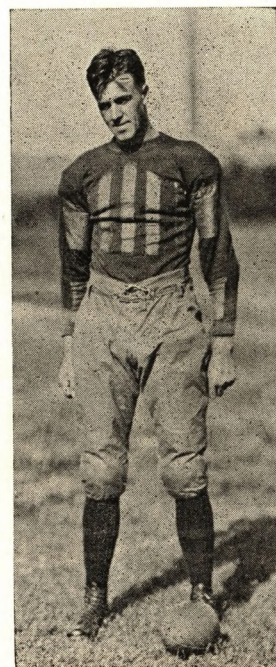

HICK PALM.

"Shorty" says that we'll have Duck Soup tonight. The Drake that we are going to pick on may be a tough bird, but "we wants our nourishment," and it looks as though Drake is the victim. "Shorty" leaves us this year and his mouth waters for this farewell banquet.

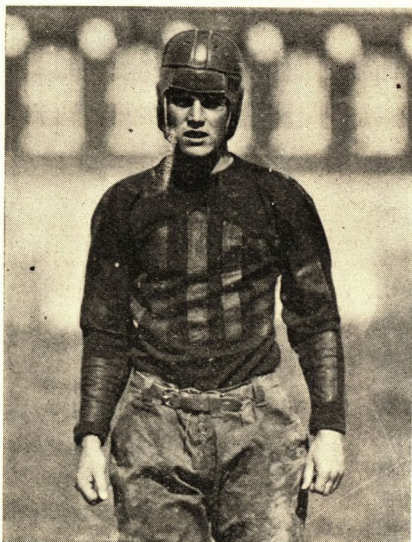

CAPT. SCHMIDT.

"Hick" Palm don't say much, but he has a cracking good time playing football. Yes, sir, he cracks 'em hard and often. So if you think this afternoon that the Fourth of July has come twice in the same year don't be worried. It will be "Hick" showing himself a good time.

"SHORTY" LONGSTREET.

PETHEY BOND.

You have all heard that song, "Wait Till We Get Them Up in the Air, Boys." Watch "Zeke," the ace of the air. In fact, the biggest factor in the Ames ethereal attack is Roberts. He seems to have an uncanny knowledge of the open air lanes and uninhabited spaces. This is "Zeke's" last game and it should be on the "Up and up," mostly up.

"ZEKE" ROBERTS.

"WIN" WINGERT

Like the cavemen of old, "Win" will be tearin' things to pieces today after tasting blood at Grinnell last Saturday, when he went over for a touchdown. It is too bad that Drake has to suffer for the sins of another school, but we can't stop this boy when he gets on a rampage.

"Swede" (Larson) is the guardin'est guy" we ever saw. We'd trust him at a chorus girl's picnic. When the Drake backfield thinks that they are twisted up and hitting the concrete bleachers we'll just grin and let them try to put another play through "Swede."

Ames-Drake Football History

1898 AMES, 17; DRAKE, 16

Ames' first game with Drake yielded the score as the only data. This was at a time when there was considerable opposition to athletics in universities.

NOV. 10, 1900 DRAKE, 16; Ames, 0

Drake evened up the record and handed Ames an imposing goose egg.

NOV. 16, 1901 DRAKE, 12; Ames, 5

We bumped heads with the heavy men of Drake. A battle was evident.

NOV. 16, 1902 AMES, 0; DRAKE, 0

The field was fine for ducks. Neither team could show its speed or ability and the game resulted in a punting duel, with honors even. This was the only tie game.

NOV. 26, 1903 AMES, 16; DRAKE, 0

Ames reversed the score of her last defeat. The percentage column was even.

NOV. 24, 1904 AMES, 19; DRAKE, 0

Ames' strength began to manifest itself on the football field.

NOV. 30, 1905 AMES, 17; DRAKE, 12

By defeating Drake, Iowa State secured second place in the state championship race.

NOV. 29, 1906 AMES, 7; Drake, 0

This was Ames' fourth straight victory over Drake and carried a state championship with it.

NOV. 28, 1907 AMES, 13; DRAKE, 8

With another state championship on our belts, we took the Bulldogs into camp, but not without a struggle.

NOV. 26, 1908 AMES, 12; DRAKE, 6

Drake was not beaten until Ames put forth her best efforts.

NOV. 25, 1909 AMES, 0; DRAKE, 11

The journey to Des Moines had become traditional, but this game added to Drake percentage.

NOV. 24, 1910 AMES, 2; DRAKE, 0

The whole team played a great game, but we were forced to be content with a safety.

NOV. 25, 1911 AMES, 6; DRAKE, 0

The only score came in the first minute and a half of play on a recovered fumble and an end run. Ames won the state championship and tied Nebraska for the Missouri Valley.

NOV. 23, 1912 AMES, 23; DRAKE, 3

A 65-yard run through the entire Drake team by Captain Hurst added to the glory of the day. Missouri Valley champs.

NOV. 22, 1913 AMES, 26; DRAKE, 3

Iowa State had again started on a long string of victories.

NOV. 21, 1914 AMES, 52; DRAKE, 0

Playing for second place in the state and valley races, the Cyclones swept over Drake in the greatest landslide victory in the annals of the two schools.

NOV. 25, 1915 AMES, 28; DRAKE, 14

By their defeat of Drake, the Cyclones clinched the state championship. The first half ended 7-7 and Drake led at the end of the third quarter.

NOV. 30, 1916 AMES, 33; DRAKE, 14

The Bulldogs were outclassed throughout the game.

NOV. 29, 1917 AMES, 47; DRAKE, 0

The Bulldogs didn't have anything to be thankful for after this game. Another landslide.

NOV., 1918

Old man Elements won this game. Anyway, it was a beautiful snow.

NOV. 25, 1919 AMES, 14; DRAKE, 0

The Cyclones decisively trounced the Ducklings on a snow-covered field. Drake scalps were becoming plentiful.

NOV. 5, 1921 AMES, 7; DRAKE, 0

This was a hard battle and Drake's tenth consecutive defeat.

NOV. 4, 1922 DRAKE, 14; AMES, 7

Drake broke the jinx and doubled the score.

NOV. 3, 1923 DRAKE, 21; AMES, 0

Our worst beating at the hands of Drake.

Total games played, 23.

Games won: Ames 17, Drake 5; tied 1.

Introducing the Athletic Council of 1924-25

Chairman—Frank D. Paine

Athletic Director—T. N. Metcalf

“Athletics build character.”—R. L. Cooper.

“Athletics develop the right measure of self-confidence and self-respect for strong leadership.”—E. R. Smith.

“Athletics constitute the greatest humanizing character-building agency in American college life.”—H. H. Kildee.

“A good student commands respect. A good student who also is an athlete commands a double measure of respect, for to excel both in scholarship and in athletics requires character.”—F. H. Schleiter.

“A good athlete is also a good student.”—W. F. Guard.

“The training given by competitive athletics along the line of accepting success modestly, and defeat courageously, and without undue regret, is certain to be developed under the proper supervision, and cannot help but be a valuable asset in later life.”—B. W. Hamner.

“Athletics in some form are necessary not only for the development of the body but even more for the mental training and for the bringing of the body under more perfect control of the mind.”—Jay W. Woodrow.

“I consider that athletics are a necessary part of a complete college education because they train a participant—First, to care for the body; second, to think fast and sane; and third, to take advantage of every fair opening or opportunity presented.”—J. M. Burrows.

“No form of liberal education is complete without some scheme of athletics.”—Lloyd Arnold.

“Athletic training is a valuable asset to a college student.”—Roy W. Longstreet.

I Love Johnny Behm

"Do you love me?" he said as he played with a strand of dark hair that had skirted the end of her hair net.

"No," she cried, ringing her hands like a firebell, and turning her head deliberately away from him, "I love Johnny Behm."

"But you can't love Johnny Behm," he retaliated, "because you have never seen him. He may be a rough, uncouth fellow with bow legs, and surely you couldn't love a man like that."

"I love Johnny Behm," she said, as the engine of her being, her heart, turned over again and a sigh escaped from her lips. "Didn't the papers say he flashed brilliancy; that he was the essence of versatility; that he moved with the grace of an antelope, and the cunningness of a fox—didn't it?"

"Yes, dear, it said all that, and that simply referred to football. Off the field he may be ungainly and savage-looking. He may chew tobacco, swear and carry sulphur matches. You know me, dear, and you know I love you more than all the alfalfa in the world."

"I love Johnny Behm," she blubbered out again as both eyes flowed like broken rainpipes. "I love him because he 'smashed through center' and 'tore a line to shreds' and 'galloped' and 'zigzagged,' and 'jammed' and 'criss-crossed' and 'hurdled' 'n everything."

"But you've never seen him, deary, and you just can't love a man you've never seen. Suppose he turned up here tomorrow and you found him to be a red-headed, freckle-faced son-of-a-sapsucker. You'd faint when you looked at him. I know you would."

"I love Johnny Behm," she still persisted as her lamps geysered forth another torrent of water and her clothes began to shrink.

"But, my dear, Johnny Behm already has a sweetheart—he's not a bigamist," said the youth in a last moment of clear-headed strategy.

"Oh, the brute!" And thus was saved the day from red cusses for Johnny Behm.

By FRANK RECK.

A is for Anderson, steam-roller Bill,
Built like a silo on top of a hill;
Also for Ernest, a cute little end,
A wing man on whom any coach can depend.

B stands for Behm brothers, Johnny and Nort,
Who can travel the field in two whoops and a snort;
Also for Bond; he's the end we call "Petey."
Our foes call him names, while the girls call him "Sweetie."

C is for Coe, who can pass, kick and run.
As a defensive wing he's a son-of-a-gun.

F is for Fisher, a halfback with class,
Who never has trouble in snagging a pass.

G is for Galbraith, a tackle with heft;
When Ray plows the line there isn't much left.

G is for Greenlee and H is for Hill,
Edward and Chuck, both are hard men to spill.

L is for Larson, the Swede who plays guard—
You never saw anyone look quite so hard,
Also for Longstreet, a center who's real;

He's tall and he's tough as the Ames Campanile.

M is for Mayer—a mountain for fair—
At plugging the holes he sure is a bear.

N is for Nave, as small as a mouse,
But try to get past him—he's large as a house.

P stands for Palm. He's a hard plunging lad,
And he'll locate a hole if there's one to be had.

R is for Rasmess, who plays in the line;
The ball toters find him a sweet clinging vine.
And Roberts, the half, he's a pass heaving fool—
He can ramble like Zev and kick like a mule.

S stands for Schmidt, the boss of the crew;
He can open a hole that a truck could drive through.

T is for Thornburg and Thomas, center and guard,
And V is for Vifquain, who tackles 'em hard.

W is Wingert, and now we are through—
The class of the Valley. I'm happy; are you?

The Twisters

Teacher—"Abie, spell avoid."
Abie—"Tell me foist the void."—Ex.

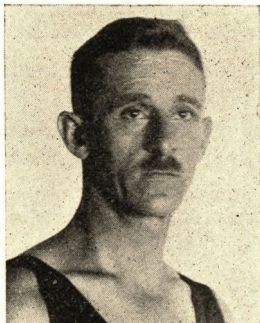

Bill—"But, judge, I wasn't drunk."
Judge—"The officer says you were trying to climb a lamp-post."

Bill—"I was, judge. A couple of crocodiles kept following me around, and I don't mind telling you they were getting on my nerves."—Punch Bowl.

The latest song hit, "Will a Cough Drop on the Sidewalk Break Up a Cold in the Feet?"

Prof. (in exam.)—"Watch out!"

Stude (waking up)—"No, but I'll get it as soon as dad sends the check."—Penn State Froth.

COACH DAUBERT

One of the best known figures around the gym is "Jake" Daubert, swimming coach and instructor in gymnastics. When real entertainment is desired, Jake and his tumblers can always furnish it. 'Tis a well-known fact that Coach Daubert is behind every activity that makes for a better Ames.

Fight Ames Fight

The "Ames," Princess and Twin Star Theatres are presenting "Big Time" shows right on release dates.

"Tom" Campbell

"Tom" is a Scotchman, as may be judged from his name, who is in on most everything that goes on around the gym and state field. It's hard on a reporter to squeeze much of the important secrets from Tom's treasure chest.

However, after deliberate questioning, the lid was opened and Tom gave us some inside dope. "Do you know these student managers they have around here?" We nodded that we did. "Well, they are supposed to help me. You know those Sophomore managers, don't you?" We nodded again. "Well, they're awful. Whenever they tell me to do something those Junior managers have told me a day before."

We waited anxiously. "And you know those Junior managers, don't you? Well, they're worse. Whenever they tell me to do anything the Senior manager has told me two days before."

Another wait. "And you know these Senior managers are darn fools. Whenever they tell me anything, 'Sam' has told me a week before."

Everyone around the gym knows "Tom," and when he can help you he's always glad to give a little of his time.
