KANSAS AGGIES VS. IOWA STATE

State Field, Ames \ \ \ November 15, 1930

TIS a great pleasure to welcome the Kansas State Team to Iowa State College for this great annual game.

We welcome the Fathers and Mothers of our students who have come for this "Parents' Day" celebration. We hope you will enjoy walking over the campus with your sons and daughters and meeting their friends and teachers.

We welcome the Alumni who are here today. Iowa State College, like all American Colleges, is changing and growing. We hope in some ways you will feel that your college is stronger and better than it was in your day, and that the best traditions of the earlier days are being maintained.

R. M. Hughes.

"BO"

BO McMILLIN
Kansas Aggies

Coach "Bo" McMILLIN is coaching his third year at the K-Aggie institution. He is remembered as the All-American quarterback who scored Centre's winning touchdown over Harvard and led the "praying Colonels" to national fame in the days before Notre Dame's advance to the realm of football supremacy. "Bo" has coached at Centre, Centenary College, Geneva College and at Kansas State. His record at the Kansas school shows five conference defeats in 1928, three victories and two defeats in 1929, and one victory and two defeats to date this season. He gained recognition last year when his team defeated both Kansas and Missouri, supposedly greatly superior teams.

"NOEL"

NOEL WORKMAN
Iowa State

Coach Noel Workman hopes to garner his first conference victory of the season this afternoon. Coach Workman, coaching his fifth year at Iowa State, has fared poorly in conference circles the last two seasons. Last year, faced with a scarcity of material and a mounting casualty list, Coach Workman failed to lead Iowa State to a single conference victory; and this fall, with a better lot of football players, the Cyclone coach has been unable to escape the spectre of defeat. Coach Workman is a product of the famous Dr. Wilce, Ohio State mentor; and, as quarterback, he led the Buckeyes to their 1921 conference championship.

Iowa State Leads K-Aggies Cyclones Win Eight, Lose Four, Tie One

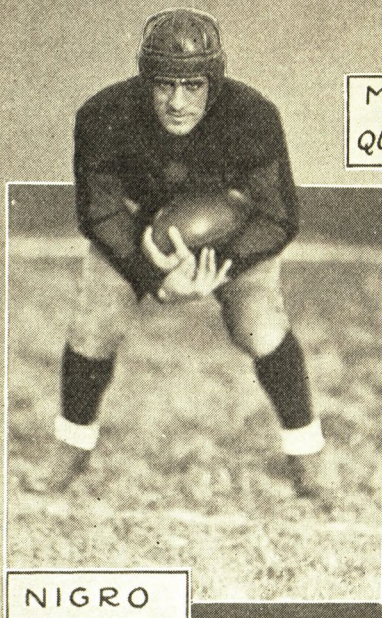

The Kansas State and Iowa State football teams when they line up for the opening kick off this afternoon will be awaiting the whistle which will start the fourteenth consecutive annual game between the two schools. Football relations began in 1917 when a Cyclone team played the K-Aggies on State Field and defeated them 10 to 7. From then on, except in 1919 when Iowa State won 46 to 0, the games have been closely contested and only twice has the score ever differed by more than a single touchdown. Iowa State, however, with eight victories and one tie game, has presented the better record.

In the late games, no matter whether they have been played at Manhattan or Ames, unfavorable weather conditions have prevailed. The K-Aggies have twice invaded State Field to find snow or sleet storms awaiting them; while Iowa State, in its sojourns to the windy state, has been greeted with rain and mud. Twice in this period the games ended with baseball scores of 3 to 2. Iowa State won the first of these in 1926; while Kansas State reversed the score last year. Sunshine this afternoon will break this bad weather streak, but rain, snow, or sleet will only affirm the opinion that the Iowa State-Kansas State game can not be scheduled for a good day.

Let past records be as they may, Kansas State holds the upper hand this afternoon, according to present season records. While Iowa State has yet to win a game, the Wildcats have twice been in the win column; and the K-Aggies are tied with Missouri in the conference with one victory and two defeats. The Kansas State team won its conference victory at the expense of Missouri, who has Iowa State to thank for her conference win. The K-Aggies have played consistent football all season, and, while not owning the power and strength of some of the other conference teams, are able to present a diversified and dangerous attack.

Strong Freshman Team

This fall a freshman varsity, coached by Louis E. Menze, Carl Rudi, Carl Kern and Gilbert Hitch, has been giving the Iowa State regulars the necessary scrimmage competition. The freshmen present a heavy set of linemen, who will make up this year's varsity deficiency on next fall's team, but are a little weak in backfield ball carriers. The set of backs, however, was able to score three touchdowns against the Coe yearlings last week and win from them 19 to 0 in the first game of the season. The yearlings battled the Drake freshmen at Des Moines last night.

Linemen will be in demand next fall, and several of the yearlings should annex positions. Robert Beatty, tackle; Sid Peterson, end; Harold Templeton, end; and Jack Beyer, center, have done good work in the line this fall, while Joe Klug, fullback; Howard Harlan, halfback, and Bob Lee, quarterback, have shown prospects in the backfield.

Big Six Complications

Three Way Tie May Result---Oklahoma Leads

Complications in the Big Six conference football race arose last week when the Nebraska Cornhuskers toppled the undefeated Kansas Jayhawkers from their apparently secure perch at the top of the conference to leave the Oklahoma Sooners in full control. Nebraska has been defeated by the Oklahomans, but the Sooners have yet to play the Kansas team. But should the Kansas Jayhawkers win from the Oklahomans, as they have a good chance to do, the race could end in a three way tie with Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma jointly claiming the honors. All of these teams, however, have at least one more conference game to play after today, and a single upset will probably eliminate any such possibility.

While the leaders are fighting for supremacy at the top of the column, the remaining three schools are closely grouped at the bottom. Both Kansas State and Missouri have won one game; while Iowa State has a last opportunity in today's game to annex a lone victory. Such a victory would upset the calculations as Kansas State defeated Missouri, and the Tigers, in turn, defeated the Cyclones. However, it is time for Iowa State to turn the tables. Today's game is the thirteenth since the Cyclones have won a game. Thirteen may prove the lucky number.

Closely following the end of the conference race will come the choosing of the all conference, all state and all American teams. Few conference players have been particularly outstanding in the intersectional games this fall, but there are members of Big Six teams who match the best of the East and South.

The conference standing:

Today's Race May Clinch Championship

Captain Putnam Holds New Event Record

This afternoon's two-mile race presents the last hurdle which Coach Bob Simpson's harriers have to clear in their run towards another conference championship. The Cyclones have defeated to date the strong Oklahoma sextette, Nebraska, Kansas, and Missouri; while the K-Aggies have won from Missouri and Kansas and have lost to Oklahoma.

The Iowa State strength in this new event is centered around Captain Ray Putnam, Elvins, Mo. distance star. Captain Putnam has finished in the lead in every race this fall, running the distance in the remarkable time of 9:32 in the Oklahoma meet when he raced against Capt. Glenn Dawson, the Sooner star, and 9:22.5 in the Missouri meet for a new conference and Iowa State record. Putnam, a senior this year, is performing in his last harrier competition for Iowa State.

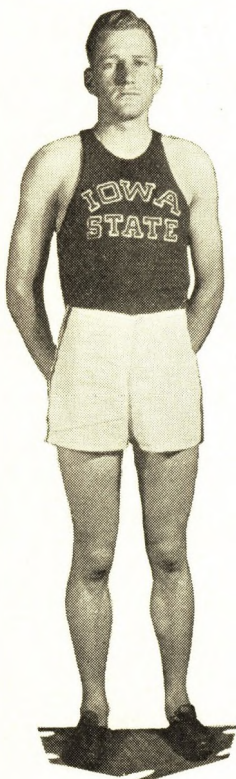

Coach Simpson has gathered a fast set of runners this fall and chances are equally bright for a fast relay team this winter and spring. Labertew and Eichelkraut, two sophomores, were also instrumental in placing Iowa State in the defender's position in the new two-mile event. Unexpected finishes by these two in the Oklahoma dual turned the tide from defeat to victory. Thompson, McClarnon, Nagel and Chapman, the other members of the team, have all been point winners.

Kansas State will not be an easy victim this afternoon. The K-Aggies defeated Missouri by practically the same score that Iowa State did, and the K-Aggies also defeated Kansas by practically the Iowa State-Kansas score. The K-Aggies are expected to be troublesome and the diminutive leader, Captain Toadvine, will make the Iowa State runners step a fast two-mile.

With the members of the two-mile squad capable of running the distance events, Coach Bob Simpson has only to look for fast short distance men and some capable aspirants for the field events to complete his indoor track team. Ken Wells, sprinter and halfback, and M. W. Soult, high jumper, will be eligible for the winter sport. Soult also performs in the hurdles.

Basketball Prospects Encouraging

Five Major Lettermen and Host of Others to Report

With five major lettermen eligible Iowa State prospects for a strong basketball team this season are bright. Early practices have been held for several weeks, and, while a number of the basketball men are still out for football, Head Coach Louis E. Menze is convinced that he will have plenty of likely material from which to mould his 1930-31 varsity. The major lettermen who have returned are Co-Captain Dick Hawk, guard; Jack Roadcap, forward; Co-Captain Al Heitman, center; Dick Wilcox, forward; and Max Rieke, guard. All five of these men are members of two or more Cyclone athletic squads, Wilcox and Hawk being out for football at present, and will not report until later in the season.

With a number of aspirants from last year's reserve team and several good men from last year's freshman team the Cyclone coach intends to institute a faster breaking offense than he used last season when there was a deficiency of good reserve material. The minor lettermen are Bowes, Holmes and Zimmerman. Bowes is on the football squad. The men from last year's squad who did not receive awards are Jake Peters, Wendell King, Leslie Saddoris, and Riegel Coverdale. Among the sophomores who will report Roger Bowen, star halfback and punter this fall, and Ralph Thomson, freshman racket wielder, will stage a fight for positions on the team.

In addition, Gordon Nagel, varsity football center, will be available to the basketball team after the close of the football season. Nagel was considered a possibility last year until forced from the ranks because of eligibility ruling.

The big gap in the Cyclone quintet will be that of Captain Woods' position at forward. The remainder of the team may possibly consist of Hawk and Rieke, guards; Heitman, center; and Roadcap at forward. Nagel is a likely prospect for the vacancy as is Bowen. With this material Coach Menze stated that no one would have a position without first displaying plenty of basketball ability.

The first game of the season is little over a month distant when the Cyclones oppose the Simpson College five on the home court, December 19. At present the schedule includes 16 games, but there is a possibility that some other pre-season games may be added.

Wrestling Team Needs Lightweights and Heavyweights

Captain Juhl, Williams and Cole are Only Lettermen

What Coach Hugo Otopalik's wrestling squad lacks in experience this fall, it makes up for in numbers. To date over 110 varsity and freshman grapplers have joined their respective squads and are working out tri-weekly. Despite early season enthusiasm, the varsity outlook is less optimistic than it has been in several years. The reason for the gloom is the lack of lightweights and heavyweights. The graduation of McCormick and Goodale from Collegiate competition last year robbed Coach Otopalik of his only experienced 115-pounder and heavy-weight.

Last year's numeral men, many of them sure varsity caliber, are all bunched between the 125-pound and 175-pound divisions, and do not relieve the light and heavy weight situation.

Outside of D. C. Williams, 125-pounders are scarce. George Hoyer, a clever, scrappy sophomore may work into this post, tho he is considerably heavy for the weight at present. Dick Cole will have things his own way in the 135-pound class. Several men are available in the 145-pound class, with Tom Rhoades, alternate to Captain Linn last year, holding the upper hand, and Walter Thomas, numeral man last year, his chief competition.

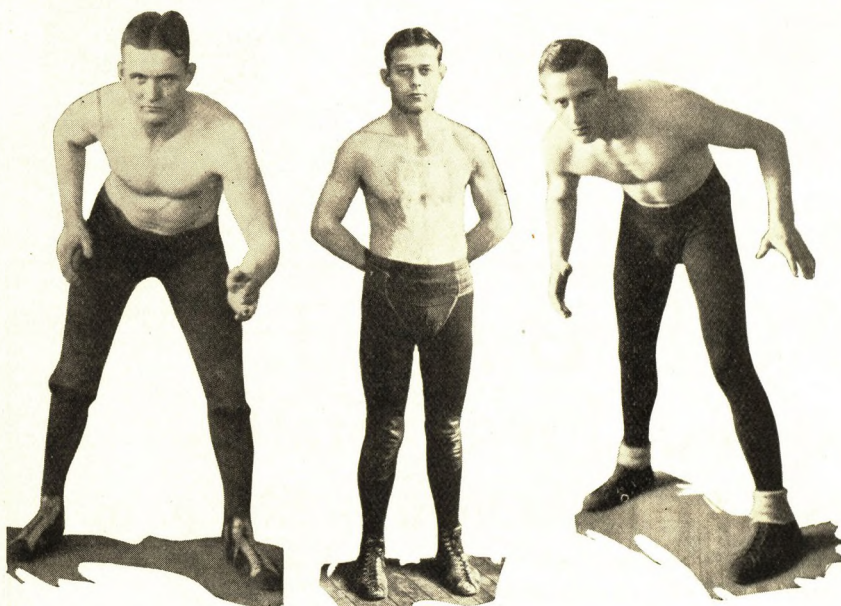

Captain Wilbur Juhl and George Martin, numeral man, both weigh around 160 pounds, and look like the strongest contenders in the 155 and 165 pound divisions. Juhl should be another sure point winner this season. Bob Hess, probably the pick of last year's freshmen, can wrestle either the 165 or 175 pound weights, and should be an outstanding performer this year.

Coach Otopalik plans to hold regular weekly tournaments until the start of the season to give his men actual ring competition and experience.

A preliminary meet or two may be added to the following schedule:

HUGO OTOPALIK

Paddlers Aim at Championship

Coach Daubert is Satisfied With Material

JAKE DAUBERT

Swimming prospects are bright this year, and Coach Jake Daubert is aiming at a conference championship. Several lettermen are back this fall, and a number of last year's freshman paddlers have shown good speed and form. Dick Fleig, conference diving champion; Bob Sands, speed artist, and Fraser, diminutive stroker, form the nucleus for the team: while Captain B. A. Smith, Swoboda, Unser, Petsch, Weld, Weigel, Louder and MacDuff may be counted upon to win points.

Aside from the varsity men, Daubert is coaching over 40 freshman paddlers this fall. Iowa State placed second in swimming last year, but a first place is the aim for the 1931 season.
