IOWA STATE / KANSAS

Today marks the 67th occasion that cardinal and gold partisans have gathered for Homecoming, and today's game should be alive with plenty of excitement for Iowa State enthusiasts. The Cyclones own a 29-34-4 Homecoming record, with hopes at improving on that this afternoon!

"Celebrate with Cy" has capture the focal point of the week's activities, as the theme for Homecoming 1979. Lawn displays at fraternity and sorority houses, banners, storefront paintings and other colorful blazonry have graced the city and campus for this week-long extravaganza!

The Iowa State-Kansas football rivalry is rich in color and tradition, and not only is today's Homecoming. . . 1979 style!

Mack danced into the endzone once each in leading the Cyclones to a 13-7 edging of the Jayhawks. Green, who was injured early in the contest, yielded his spot to Mack, who rambled for 111 yards in one of his finest performances as a Cyclone.

Although Iowa State is 2-3 overall and Kansas is 1-4, both teams desperately need wins today to remain in the thick of the conference race. Iowa State opened its league season last week with a 7-3 thumping of Kansas State, while Kansas dropped its opener to Nebraska 42-0.

The Cyclones seem to have found a durable, all-purpose back in junior speedster Mike Payne, who has stepped in to fill the shoes vacated by the injured Rocky Gillis and the aforementioned Mack. Payne responded last Saturday at Kansas State with 82 yards and a touchdown on 30 carries.

The ISU defense appears to have found itself, as several individuals turned in spectacular performances last weekend at Manhattan, highlighted by Larry Crawford's two interceptions. Today's battle should be a combination of speed, wide-open offense and stubborn defense. The series record between the long time enemies stands at 30-23-5, in favor of the Jayhawks.

Come on. . .celebrate with Cy!

matchup important from a Homecoming standpoint, but it is a crucial game for both teams in the Big Eight Conference race.

Kansas holds a 6-4-1 edge over the Cyclones for Iowa State Homecoming games down through the years. However, ISU rolled over the Jayhawks in the 1977 Homecoming clash, as Dexter Green tallied twice and quarterback Terry Rubley added another score to give the Cyclones a 21-3 halftime advantage enroute to a 41-3 decision.

Iowa State won last year's meeting between the two schools in Lawrence, as Green and Victor

IOWA STATE COACHING STAFF

Head Coach
DONNIE DUNCAN

Donnie Duncan whose midas touch produced ultra-successful seasons in both the high school and junior college ranks in the football-minded state of Texas and whose tenure as an assistant coach at Oklahoma over the past six campaigns helped construct an amazing 62-6-2 overall record was a unanimous selection to take over the football fortunes at Iowa State in January, thus becoming ISU's 25th grid coach. The 39 year old Greenville, Texas native came to Iowa State after his six-year stint at Oklahoma, where he served as assistant head coach last year. From 1973-75, Duncan served as the Sooner receiver coach, where he tutored the likes of Tinker Owens and Billy Brooks, in 1976 and 1977, he coached the explosive OU running backs, teaching such standouts as Billy Sims (the 1978 Heisman Trophy winner), Elvis Peacock, Kenny King, Horace Ivory, Jimmy Culbreath, and David Overstreet, and in 1978, he was in charge of the offensive line, coaching a plethora of fine linemen including Greg Roberts, the receipt of the Outland Trophy that year.

The personable Duncan has had two previous head coaching jobs compiling an excellent overall record of 44-10-2 in the process. He guided Honey Grove (Tex.) High School to respective 9-2-1 and 11-1-0 marks in 1965 and 1966 garnering Bi-District Championships both seasons.

Duncan's coaching philosophy, is simple hard work, dedication and keeping the game fun for the players and fans alike. He believes that a player must play to 100 percent of his ability in practice as well as in games. He has an extremely close rapport with his players, and he firmly believes that loyalty is a two-way street. One writer described him as down home as apple pie," and he has the rare ability to combine an understanding of sensitivities and problems of his players yet guide them with a firmness and discipline necessary for a winning program.

Duncan graduated from Celeste (Tex.) High School in 1958, winning an incredible 16 varsity letters (four each in football, basketball, track, and baseball) there.

He went on to earn both a B.S. (1962) and M.A. Degree at Austin College in Sherman, Tex. As an undergrad at that school, Duncan won four letters each in football and track. He was voted captain and most valuable player of his football team at Austin in 1961 in addition to being named Outstanding Athlete and Outstanding Senior Male as a senior. He also garnered first team all-Texas college honors in football that year.

DAL SHEALY - Assistant Head Coach/Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks Coach.

The Leesville, S.C., native is in his first year as a Cyclone coach, having served the past two seasons as the offensive coordinator at Auburn University.

Prior to that Dal, 41, was the offensive coordinator at Tennessee (1976) and the assistant head coach and offensive backfield coach at Baylor (1974-75).

He received his bachelor's degree from Carson-Newman in 1960, where he played four years and was selected to several regional all-star teams.

JIM WILLIAMS - Offensive Line Coach

Jim is the lone returning member of last year's staff, and he will continue the same role in which he has performed brilliantly since coming to Iowa State in 1976.

Prior to joining the I-State staff, Jim coached for 12 years at powerhouse Des Moines Dowling High School, where he amassed an incredible 105-9-1 record and never lost a Metro Conference game.

Williams graduated from Northern Iowa in 1957 and did graduate work at Emporia (Kansas) College, before departing for the coaching ranks.

CLARENCE HUDSON - Running Backs Coach

In his initial year as a Cyclone coach, Clarence, 29, will tutor a talented corps of running backs.

Before coming to Iowa State in January, the Madill, Okla., native was a receivers coach and was in charge of recruiting in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, and St. Louis, Mo. for Wichita State.

Clarence received his bachelor's degree in education from Southeastern (Okla.) State, where he played football and ran track from 1968 to 1971. Clarence earned his M.A. in education and counseling from Southeastern in 1974.

MACK BROWN - Receivers Coach

Mack 28, begins his first year as a Cyclone coach, and he will direct all phases of the passing game and will tutor tight ends and wide receivers.

Before coming to Iowa State, he coached wide receivers at Memphis State for one year, and prior to that the Cookeville, Tenn., native coached quarterbacks at Southern Mississippi for three years, where he received his master's degree in 1976.

The personable Brown was an all-state and all-America performer at Putnam County (Tenn.) High School and was named among the nation's top 100 backs by one national publication.

LARRY COYER - Defensive Coordinator/Secondary Coach

With a reputation of being one of the nation's premier defensive coaches, Larry 36, will oversee the operation of the entire defense in addition to coaching defensive backs.

The Barboursville, W. Va., native joined the Cyclone staff this year after serving as the front seven coordinator and linebacker coach at Big Eight Conference rival Oklahoma State. Larry was defensive coordinator and secondary coach at Iowa from 1974 to 1977. He coached defensive backs at Bowling Green in 1973.

Coyer began coaching at Marshall University, his alma mater, in 1965, and his 1967 secondary ranked fifth in the nation.

CHARLIE SADLER - Defensive Line Coach

Charlie, 29, is in his first season with the Cyclones. The Sweetwater, Tex., native worked with Donnie Duncan last season at Oklahoma, where both were offensive line coaches.

He earned his bachelor's degree from Northeast (Okla.) State in 1971, after lettering two years as a linebacker and after receiving several academic honors, including Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, and mention on the President's Honor Roll. Charlie received his M.Ed. from the University of Arkansas in 1972.

GERALD O'DELL - Defensive Ends Coach

Gerald 30, was an assistant coach at Oklahoma last season, working on the same staff as Donnie Duncan.

Before his appointment as recruiting coordinator at OU last summer, the Wichita Falls, Tex., native had spent spring practice as an assistant coach at Mississippi State. Prior to leaving for MSU, he had been an assistant and a recruiting aide at Oklahoma for three years.

BILL DALKE - Linebackers Coach

Bill 24, was named linebacker coach in June after serving as a part-time coach at ISU since April of this year.

The Hobart, Okla., native came to Iowa State from Altus (Okla.) High School, where he was defensive coordinator and linebacker coach in 1978. Prior to that, he spent 1977 as a graduate assistant coach at Oklahoma, where he worked with linebackers.

Bill played linebacker at OU, starting in 1975 and 1976, when the Sooners made two bowl appearances.

DURWOOD KEETON - Ass't. Coach

Durwood 26, is in his first year on the staff of Donnie Duncan, his former coach in college. At Iowa State, Keeton will oversee recruiting and academic affairs and will serve as Duncan's administrative aide.

The Bonham, Tex., native was a defensive backfield coach at the University of Texas-El Paso (UTEP) in 1978 and a receivers coach there in 1977. Prior to his coaching debut, he played defensive back for the New England Patriots in 1975.

He went back to Oklahoma and received his bachelor's degree in 1976 after playing pro ball. He played at OU in 1972 and 1973. He was academic all-Big Eight and an honors student there, also.

Prior to his two seasons at Oklahoma, Durwood played at Navarro Junior College in Corsicana, Tex., under Donnie Duncan.

KIRK DOLL - Ass't. Coach

Kirk, a native of Wichita, KS., will assist Cyclone recruiting and program coordinator Durwood Keeton and he will also have on-the-field coaching responsibilities. Kirk lettered two years at East Carolina University as a defensive tackle, prior to which he played junior college ball in Kansas. He graduated in 1973, and later received his M.A. from Wichita State, where he also served as a part-time coach and recruiting aide. Date of Birth: 9-24-51.

SPARKY WOODS - Ass't. Coach

Sparky, a native of Oneida, Tenn., will aid in coaching Cyclone defensive backs. He came to Iowa State this year after one year as an assistant coach at Northern Alabama, prior to which he was a graduate assistant at Kansas (1977) and Tennessee (1976). At Tennessee, he coached on the same staff as present ISU Offensive Coordinator Dal Shealy. Sparky graduated from Carson-Newman College in 1976, after being an all-conference free safety there. Date of Birth: 12-20-53.

CARDINAL AND GOLD SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Hundreds of student-athletes have had their education at Iowa State University financed through contributions of Cyclone Club members. More and more, the success of major college athletic programs is dependent upon the financial support of alumni and friends. The Iowa State University Department of Intercollegiate Athletics is proud to honor the individuals and firms on these pages who have contributed one or more $1000 Gold Full Scholarships or $500 for a Cardinal Half Scholarship.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes exists to "confront athletes and coaches, and through them the youth of the nation, with the challenge and adventure of accepting Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, participating in His Church and serving Him through our vocations.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is not an assembly of saints but a fellowship through which ordinary people help each other become better examples of what God can do with a yielded life.

The heart of the F.C.A. is the host of individuals who comprise the Huddle/Fellowships/Chapter population. The H/F program is a group of athletes meeting to talk about their concerns, doubts, fears, feelings and faith. Among the common bond of sports, teammates share fellowship and their commitment to Jesus Christ.

Individuals or groups desiring information concerning the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Iowa are asked to contact: Ed McNeil, 1246 North 24th Place, Fort Dodge, Iowa 50501, 515/576-2820.

DAL SHEALY

"For 29 years I lived as a phony and for myself, but in 1969 at an F.C.A. National Conference I realized that I was neither hot nor cold, I was lukewarm, and Jesus said in Revelation 3:15-16, 'I wish you'd be one or the other, but if you're lukewarm, I'll spit you out of my mouth.' I visualized Jesus spitting me, Dal Shealy, out of his mouth. I asked Him to come into my heart and become the Lord of my life and let His character live in and through me daily. Now I know God is my source and the Holy Spirit is my daily enabler."

- Dal Shealy, Assistant Head Football Coach

"In every athletic contest there emerges both a winner and a loser. Our society places a high standard on winning and measures success by the number of times a person becomes a winner.

Society placed the title of 'loser' on a man names Jesus some 2,000 years ago. Jesus was seen at that time as some crazy fool who claimed to be the son of God, and he ended up dying a dishonorable death on a cross. This same attitude about Jesus is also held by most people today.

I have found in my life that this is not true. Christ Jesus can be alive in anyone's life who lets Him take control. The person who does this is truly a winner in God's eyes, and can join with other winners in repeating I Corinthians 15:57, which says, 'but thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.'

- Ron Bockhaus, OC, #51

MACK BROWN

"I tried to live my life by myself for 26 years, and then I recommitted my life to the Lord. Since the time of my recommitment, my life has had a tremendous change. I still have many of the same trials, but I know how the ballgame of my life will end."

- Mack Brown, Receivers Coach

DAVE EATON

"In order to win in football, or any team sport, all of the players must make sacrifices for the team. The players must not be worried about what they can do for themselves, but what they can do for the team. The more they give up the better the team. The greatest sacrifice I know of is that of Christ dying on the cross for each and everyone of us. As John 3:16 says, 'For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whosoever believes in Him shall not perish, but shall have eternal life.' God sacrificed his son so that we could win, not a football game on Saturday afternoon, but the biggest game of all, the game of life, eternal life."

- Dave Eaton, FCA President

CLINT LOY

"I believe God is in control of every situation in my life, constantly molding me into the person He wants me to be. My number one goal for college life is to grow closer to Jesus and to better know Him in all ways, so that someday I can serve people in whatever capacity He wants. As Peter said in II Peter 3:18, 'But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To Him be glory both now and forever, Amen.'"

- Clint Loy, LB #59

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY

CY'S FAVORITE ALUM

Today, Homecoming, the department of intercollegiate athletics at Iowa State University continues its tradition of recognition of a particular loyal friend who has demonstrated exemplary service to the University and its program of athletics.

Our Cy's Favorite Alum Award, established 25 years ago, today goes to an individual who has participated in a broad range of interests encompassing athletics, business, education and politics.

Cy's Favorite Alum for 1979 is Carroll A. Lane of Carroll, Iowa.

The University proudly presents the honor to an alumnus (B.S. '35) who will receive it with deep appreciation and mutual respect that has grown through years of support for and close association with Cyclone athletics. During his collegiate career, Carroll Lane wrestled on Coach Hugo Otopalik's squads, received his degree in agricultural economics and education, and was affiliated with Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

He was principal and coached in junior high schools in Gilman, Rolfe, Early and Carroll. Two of his proteges, Al Budolfson of Rolfe and Junior Kuebler of Carroll, later became Iowa State cage stars.

Lane is a past president of the Carroll School Board; served a term in the Iowa House of Representatives; for 14 years served with distinction as secretary of the Iowa Senate; and for 25 years owned and operated Crescent Beach Lodge on Lake Okoboji.

Teaming with another Cy's Favorite Alum winner, Leo Fitzpatrick, they organized the early 50's drive for a Carroll County Cyclone Club which now has doubled in size. Lane was one of Iowa State's early Century Club members and is a member of the Cardinal Club. In retirement he continues his staunch support of the Cyclone athletic program.

Name 1979-80 Cyclone Guides

The Cyclone Guides are 28 student volunteers who inform high school students and others about Iowa State University. These visitors include outstanding high school seniors and their parents, high school clubs and classes, Senior Citizen groups, alumni, and others. In addition to these daily tours, the Guides also sponsor Cyclone -Days during the fall.

The days are designed specifically for interested seniors and include meetings for the students with representatives of the seven colleges, information sessions for parents concerning admissions, financial aid, and residence, and a walking tour of the campus. Upcoming dates for Cyclone-Days are November 5 and December 16.

Cyclone Guides for this Year are:

Want to laugh? See No Sex, We're British. Want to have an evening of fun? See No Sex Please, We're British. Want to see the antics of a young couple madly in love? See No Sex Please, We're British.

This modern farce, which has been running in London for seven years, has an international brand of humor. No matter whether you're American or British, you will enjoy the frantic and fascinating situation that a newly married young couple experiences in the normally sedate surroundings of their apartment above the National United Bank in Royal Windsor Enagland. The bride innocently orders some Scandinavian glassware by mail but she receives Scandinavian pornog-raphy instead. Her husband, the assistant manager of the bank, and their loyal friend, the chief cashier, try to dis- pose of the offending material as more pornography arrives in various shapes and forms. The problem grows to avalanche proportions as a visiting bank inspector arrives and becomes a house guest. The complications continue when the hus- band's mother, his boss and a police superintendent join the hilarity.

No Sex Please, We're British will open at Fisher Theater on Thursday, October 18. Frank E. Brandt of the I.S.U. Thea- tre staff directs a group of talented I.S.U. students in this contemporary comedy, certain to delight everyone. No Sex Please, We're British by By Anthony Marriott and Alistair Foot will continue on October 19 and 20, October 25 through 27, and November 1 through 3.

Tickets are $3.00 for general admission and $2.00 for Iowa State students with a paid activity fee card. Remember, discount coupon booklets allow you to save 20% over regular prices. Tickets are available on I.S.U. campus at the Hub, 10 a.m. 3 p.m., Monday through Friday; at the C.Y. Stephens box office, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays. Tickets are also available at 7:15 p.m. on the night of the performance at Fisher Theater. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and the house opens at 7:30 p.m.

ISU Cyclone Century Club

The Iowa State University Department of Intercollegiate Athletics salutes the members of the CYCLONE CENTURY CLUB. . . a growing group of significant contributors to Iowa State athletics. These individuals and firms have contributed $100 annually to help us reach our goal of athletic excellence for Iowa State University. CARDINAL AND GOLD and STATE'S 250 CLUB members are recognized in another section of the program.

THE DRAW KEEPS THE DEFENSE HONEST

by Bill Lyon, Philadelphia INQUIRER

There's only one thing wrong with the title of this article," the coach was saying. "You didn't finish it."

The title, of course, is "The Draw Keeps the Defense Honest." The coach wanted an amendment to it. This: "... But Only If You Throw."

What he was contending—and his point was supported by five other successful college football coaches around the country—is that the draw is effective only if you are in a passing situation, or if you have a reputation as a passing team. Otherwise, calling the draw is like Jimmy Carter ordering extra teeth, or one of those Mideastern oil sheikdoms stocking up on economy cars.

"When you're playing a team that is primarily a running team, the draw is the first thing you look for on third-and-long," the coach explained. "The draw is like any other play in that it works only at the right time, at the right place, and against the right defense. That last part is the most important. The draw works best when it's a definite passing down, but again, only if you're a team that throws. It's most effective in an obvious passing situation.

"The defense has to believe you're going to pass. Which means you have to encourage them. It's the old step-into-my-parlor routine with the spider and the fly. You lure 'em in and then you spring the trap."

A team that works the draw best is one recruited from drama class. Theatrics are needed by all 11 players on offense.

"Better believe it," the coach agreed. "You have to do a great selling job. You have to convince the defense you're going to throw 'cause you want them with their ears back, rearing on their hind legs and really coming at you."

"The whole philosophy behind the draw is to spread out the defense, create gaps, widen lanes. What you're trying to achieve is a one-on-one situation. And if you have the best athletes, then your one-on-one is gonna win."

So it all begins with the classic con—I'll make you believe I'm going to do something when, in fact, I intend to do just the opposite. In the case of the draw, show pass even though you're going to run.

"It starts with your offensive line," the coach said. "Your blockers set up like it's a pass. They retreat, a step at a time."

"They have to steer the rushers whatever way they want to go, make 'em believe they're overpowering the blockers. You keep suckering them in. And your receivers, they've got to run their patterns with convictions, make that secondary go after them, make them worried about getting burned by a pass."

"And your quarterback, he's really got to fake it. He's the one who makes the draw go because the defense is always taught that the longer the QB has the ball then the deeper the linebackers and the defensive backs should drop. That's what I meant by spreading out the defense."

Even the most casual fan knows the draw, of course. The quarterback, if he is convincing, backpedals furiously, tries to work up a look of terror and panic as though he is about to be sacked. And then, at the proper moment, he slips the ball into the waiting back's belly. The momentum of the defense's pass rush has, by now, carried it beyond the point of that exchange.

"If things have gone right," the coach said, "you've split the front group, and you've got the others 30 or 40 yards downfield. If your man picks up a block, he can go all the way."

But there is another key to the draw. Patience.

"Right," the coach said. "Patience in executing it. Most teams run the draw too fast, and they don't finish it off. The

POINTING TOWARDS MOSCOW

by Jim Weeks, Norman TRANSCRIPT

Bart Conner sailed from the pommel horse, threw his arms in the air, forming a V, and flashed the impish smile that signals the other gymnastics competitors face a real challenge.

"That would win anywhere in the world," said Paul Ziert, coach at the University of Oklahoma, when he greeted Conner after one of his performances in a collegiate dual meet last season.

Two months later, Ziert's evaluation was proven uncannily accurate. Conner won the pommel horse event in the World Cup in Japan against the world's best gymnasts. In doing so, he became only the second American man to win a gold medal at such a high level of international gymnastics competition.

Conner will be only one of the leading athletes from the Big Eight Conference to try for berths on United States teams for the 1980 Olympic Games.

The Big Eight is best known nationally for its football powers. But, of course, football is not a sport in the Olympics.

Debbie Esser
Iowa State

However, athletes from the Big Eight are expected to be among the leaders in seeking berths on U.S. teams in basketball, track and field, wrestling and skiing as well as gymnastics.

Conner will have competition from his own school, the University of Nebraska and Iowa State University in seeking one of the seven spots on the U.S. team in trials next year.

But Conner is the only gymnast in that group who was on the 1976 U.S. team for the Olympics. The native of Morton Grove, Ill., made the team after being graduated from Niles West High in Skokie, Ill.

Since then, Conner has led Oklahoma to the NCAA team championship in 1978 and a tie for that title in 1977. He was NCAA individual champion in the all-around in 1978 and tied for the floor exercise title with teammate Mike Wilson this year. Conner also claimed the all-around title in the U.S. Federation meet this year.

Wilson, who was graduated this year after finishing fourth in the all-around in the 1979 NCAA Championships, also will be a leading contender for the U.S. team.

Nebraska, 1979 NCAA team champion, will have strong candidates in sophomore Jim Hartung, freshman Phil Cahoy and graduated Larry Gerard.

Hartung made his mark last season, upsetting Conner early in the season but finishing behind his more experienced foe in the Big Eight and NCAA championships. Conner won the conference all-around title, and Hartung

ABOUT THE AUTHOR—Bill Lyon has been a sport columnist for The Philadelphia Inquirer since 1973, covering football on a regular basis and reporting on such other major events as the Super Bowl, World Series, Masters, U.S. Open, Stanley Cup playoffs, heavyweight fights and even the Evel Knievel Snake River Canyon jump. His columns appear in over 35 papers, including the Miami Herald, Boston Globe, Chicago Tribune, and Detroit Free Press.

back who's carrying the ball has to delay, even after he's taken the handoff. Otherwise, the defense has a chance to recover. That's why we run what we call a 'back door draw.' The quarterback actually passes by the back, then hands the ball forward. That'll make the back delay. He has to stay put. I'd say that's the biggest problem with the way most teams run the draw. The back gets itchy feet. He sees a hole developing and he can't wait to get to it. If he'd just be patient, that hole will get wider and wider.

"And the quarterback has to finish it off. After he's handed off, he's got to go on retreating and set up like he's going to throw. That'll keep the pass rushers coming, and they'll run themselves right out of the play. After all, that's why they call it the draw; the idea is to d-r-a-w everyone in. The quarterback is the cheese. If he's convincing, then you can snap the trap right on their neck."

This particular coach believes that the draw actually should be considered a passing play. Others share that belief.

"Any yardage you make on the draw," said another coach, "should be added to your passing yardage. Just like screens and flares. And a quarterback sack, that yardage loss should come off the passing total, not the running."

It may seem a minor statistical point but it underscores the importance of the draw as a complement to the passing game.

One misconception is that the draw is effective against a blitz. In fact, it works best in situations when most teams ordinarily throw. Example: with time running out and your team behind.

"Most teams go for the bomb or try to work the sidelines with passes," notes another coach whose team routinely throws 30 to 35 times a game. "But in that situation, against a prevent defense, the draw is perfect. First off, you've already got the defense spread out. They've done half the job for you. They're laying back, and they're really vulnerable to the draw because they, and everybody in the stadium, is expecting you to put it up for grabs. We've run the draw in catch-up situations and scored 70-yard touchdowns off it."

There are, obviously, refinements off the original.

There are sprint and roll draws and quarterback draws and quick draws. But they are hybrids and remain primarily running plays.

"But the regular draw," another coach said, "is a play all by itself. It's calculated, it's a big play move, a home run kind of offense. One guy misses a tackle and the draw can take you all the way. And sometimes we'll use it just for a change of pace. Let's say we're not completing any passes and we're not getting anything by running, we'll call the draw just for variety, just to disrupt the other guy's tempo."

Two variations of the draw: Top: The quarterback fades back faking a pass play and abruptly hands off to the strong side back who is cutting over the weak side of the line. Bottom: The quarterback drops back quickly for a short distance faking a deep drop-back, then cuts back over center, reading the defensive center for direction.

Teams which use the draw have learned they need options off it. So they run a reverse off the draw. Or they pass off the draw. It seems logical. If you're going to depend heavily on one play, you need variations off it. After all, everyone knows how modern and complicated the game has become. Why, the draw itself is a new-fangled invention, isn't it?

"I have a book in my office," a coach said, "written by Amos Alonzo Stagg, and it's got a draw play diagrammed in it. You know when the book was published? In 1893."

It was 1923, and Tad Jones, the fabled coach, stood before his men in the locker room. "Gentlemen," he said, "you are about to play football for Yale against Harvard. Never in your lives will you ever do anything so important."

That's the essence of the big game. We chuckle at Jones' emphasis—but in more reflective moments we realize that for most young men his words are startlingly prophetic. His statement is the core of the big game, and you can substitute any of scores of names for Yale and Harvard.

Great games may be traditional matches, games that always are sold out a year ahead of time. Or circumstances may heat white a game between teams that aren't old rivals. A memorable example of the latter occurred in 1921.

Centre College of Danville, Ky., a school with a student body of 295, wrangled a couple of dates with mighty Harvard. The Praying Colonels were awed by Harvard's big stadium and were smashed 34-13 in 1920.

But Centre's triple threat, Bo McMillin, snarled: "We'll be back here next year to take you."

It happened. Centre returned, and McMillin scored the game's only touchdown, weaving through the Harvard team for 35 yards. So caught up in the scene were Crimson fans that they carried McMillin off the field.

Big games spawn memorable stories, and one of football's most famous involves the dying George Gipp.

posed to have said to his coach, Knute Rockne.

Years later, in 1928, a great Army team was leading the Irish at halftime—and there was no bigger game at the time than Notre Dame-Army. Rockne secured his place in college football legend with a stirring halftime talk asking his troops to win that one for the Gipper.

Late in the game, Jack Chevigny crossed the goal line for the winning touchdown in a 12-6 upset, crying: "This one's for the Gipper!"

Memories of a historic game—one that his team lost—helped Gerald Ford years later in another rugged field, that of politics.

Ford played linebacker and center on the 1934 Michigan team that won just one game. In fact, he was voted its most valuable player.

The Wolverines were facing Minnesota, the eventual national champion, and the battle cry in Minneapolis, the game site, was "Mangle Michigan." A record crowd of 60,000 turned out to see it happen.

Minnesota wore down Michigan with raw power in the second half and won 34-0, but that afternoon remained special to Ford, even after he became President.

"During 25 years in the rough-and-tumble world of politics, I often thought of the experiences before, during and after that game in 1934," Ford said. "Remembering them has helped me many times to face a tough situation, take action, and make every effort possible despite adverse odds. I remember how Michigan students and people in Ann Arbor met us at the train station that Sunday. There was a rousing parade, and this was a meaningful tribute to the fight the Wolverines had put up against Minnesota."

A man who would become President figured in another historic game, though in quite a different way.

Stanford-California is one of football's tradition-laden matches. California had been playing for years, but Stanford fielded its first football team in 1892. A match between the two Bay Area schools was a natural.

It was such a natural, in fact, that a crowd estimated at 20,000 showed up, though tickets had been printed for only 10,000.

Little paper money was in circulation in those days, and the mountain of change caused a crisis. Herbert Hoover, student manager of the Stanford team, quickly rounded up wash boilers and dish pans to hold the gold and silver spectators paid for their tickets.

Incidentally, there was another problem in the initiation of this great rivalry. When the referee called the captains to the center of the field for the coin toss, it was discovered no one had brought a football. The game was delayed for more than an hour while a storekeeper who happened to be in the crowd rode his horse into town to get a ball.

For Huey Long, the late governor of Louisiana, every game that LSU played was a big game. He meddled in the school's football affairs, and in 1934 he demonstrated the depths of his obsession.

LSU was scheduled to play Southern Methodist under Tiger Stadium's lights, but the Barnum & Bailey Circus, on its annual tour of the nation, planned a show in direct conflict with the game.

The Kingfish, a U.S. senator at that time, feared the circus would cut the crowd, and LSU had given SMU a big cash guarantee.

Long decided the circus just wouldn't play, and he found a relatively obscure state law to back his hand.

Long called in a representative of the circus and informed him that Louisiana had a cattle dip law that applied to any animal crossing the state line.

"Did you ever dip a lion?" Long asked the startled man. The circus performance was called off.

Big games. They're the brightest threads in the fabric of college football.

Huey Long was a fan of LSU football.

was runner-up. They finished second and third, respectively, in the NCAA meet.

Wilson and Gerard face the same challenge: staying in top form without the benefit of collegiate competition. Gerard was fifth in the NCAA meet last season.

Cahoy entered college this year but he has been among the leading gymnasts in the country, placing sixth in the U.S. trials for the World Games in 1978.

Iowa State's Ron Galimore, son of former professional football player Willie Galimore, does not own the established credits of the others, but one coach noted the transfer from Louisiana State University has the ability.

Darnell Valentine of the University of Kansas will be one of the leading candidates for the U.S. basketball team. The six-foot, two-inch guard from Wichita, Kan., has been described as the catalyst for the Jayhawks.

Valentine was an all-conference selection the last two years as a freshman and sophomore. Although he averaged 16.1 points a game last season, Valentine's all-around play and floor leadership are his strongest assets. He also averaged 5.8 assists and 3.1 steals a game last season.

Valentine won a position on the 1979 U.S. team for the Pan American Games but declined to compete so he could attend summer school. He doesn't believe that will hamper his chances for the Olympic team. "They'll have new tryouts and the coaches will be different," he said.

University of Missouri freshman Steve Stipanovich hasn't proved himself in collegiate competition but his height of six-feet, 11-inches and his high school reputation will be difficult to overlook. He was named one of the top three "big men" in the nation last year by Sports Illustrated when he led DeSmet High of St. Louis, Mo., to its second straight state championship.

Stipanovich averaged 24.8 points and 12.7 rebounds a game and hit 62 percent of his field-goal tries and 79 percent of his free throws.

Oklahoma's 6-foot-9 Al Beal and 6-foot-3 guard Raymond Whitley, who helped lead the Sooners to their first conference basketball title in 30 years last season, may be candidates. Beal was 10th in the nation in field-goal percentage with 62.7 and had an eye-catching 2.74 blocked shots a game. "I've seen what are supposed to be the best guards in the country and Whitley ranks right up there with them," said one coach.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF A FIELD GOAL KICKER

by Marino Parascenzo, Pittsburgh POST GAZETTE

Everything was going well for the coach. Nature had blessed him with a dash of adversity for the routine practice session. It was therefore an inspiring Eastern autumn afternoon—the cold drizzle had ended, but it left a chill air behind, and the artificial turf was well soaked.

His players were sprawled on the cold, wet surface, wrenching themselves through the flexibility drills, and he strolled among them nodding with satisfaction. Until he came to the back row.

The field goal kicker had discovered a large, dry piece of plywood, and he was doing his exercises on it, in relative comfort. The coach snickered. Then he caught himself and put on his practice face.

"What do you think you're doing?" he demanded, glaring down, hands hard on hips.

The kicker stopped and looked up, grinning sheepishly. "Well, uh, my drills," he said.

"Do them over there," the coach said, pointing to a vacant puddle, "so's you can get nice and wet just like everybody else."

Any player worth his sweat would have sneaked to the plywood, of course, but this player happened to be the kicker. Fate seems to bring kickers and awkward moments together. Still, the incident serves to illustrate an idea held dear by many—kickers are different, and not really part of the team.

One sideline philosopher offered a theory. "Kickers are the way they are," he said, "because they were left alone too much as small children."

A West Coast kicker, one of this season's top returnees, may never have heard that assessment, but he touched its fringes with one of his own.

"If we don't seem like part of the team," he said, "it's because we're alone so much with our own practice."

The kicker suffers even greater solitude during the game. Facing only occasional action, and at brittle times, he is left on the sidelines with festering thoughts of doom to come. His is the crisis art. There are 22 men assembled for a field goal try, but the thousands of eyes are on only one man. The screw tightens. It is a good time to break and run for the exit. But the kicker just kicks and awaits the thunder—cheers or jeers.

"Kicking is a mental thing, not a physical thing," said a Southern booter. That seems to be the consensus of kickers.

And perhaps that is what sets the kicker apart and tends to distort the view of him. There is a belief—and it can only be described as universal—that the kicker's mind is in the trees if not among the stars; that he wanders around muttering secret rhythms or praying to obscure deities; that he breathes the rarefied air of discus throwers and metaphysical philosophers.

This is not altogether true. On the other hand, it is not altogether false.

Some kickers admit to striving for mind control, to taking quiet moments before a game for cleansing relaxation through something approaching transcendental meditation—things practically taboo in the manly art, if they are thought of at all. Kickers also "think kicking" in a way that runners cannot "think running."

A kicker depends as much on mental concentration as on actual physical skills.

"When I hit a good kick," said a Northwest kicker, "I practice it in my mind and I try to repeat that same kick over and over."

Thus occupied with the pursuit of the perfect kick, a kicker can develop a blank look on his face, giving rise to suspicions in those around him. But the exercise is not all that odd. Pro golfers practice the perfect shot in their mind. They call it "visualization." It is recommended by many, Jack Nicklaus among them.

"There's no doubt about it, kickers are different," said a Southeastern booter. "You have to be, in order to spend the long hours alone." He used to kick for hours, between two trees at home, until it got too dark to see.

Other football players get strong nicknames, like "Bam" or "Hawk," calling up visions of speed and power and danger. It's different with kickers. Theirs fall into the category of "Bird" and "Blade," both originating because of the kicker's slim build.

Any man who can endure these nicknames can look at a 40-yarder without flinching. It's all in how one handles the pressure. Many kickers around the country agree that the kicker has to drop a curtain somewhere in his mind.

"You have to blank out the pressure," said a top returnee this season.

And just when that point is conceded, along comes a dissenting voice.

"I put the pressure on," said a Southeastern booter. "When I was a freshman, I would blank it out, and I would overcompensate and not concentrate enough. So last year I decided to concentrate more. I would tell myself every time—I've got to make this one."

The reverse English worked for that kicker, but not for a Southwestern booter, who went into a game last year with nine straight field goals and needed just two more to tie the NCAA record. "I guess I got to thinking about that record," he said. "I blew the next kick."

Some kickers develop a concentration approaching tunnel vision. A Northwesterner, for example, beat an opponent last year with a remarkable field goal in the dying seconds. The snap was poor and the holder was still trying to get the ball down when his foot came through. He brushed off the praise.

"I didn't pay any attention to any of that," the kicker said. "It's my job to kick. It's his job to get it down."

Better than anyone, the holder understands the kicker. One of last year's leading kickers, an electrical engineering graduate, put the relationship in such a way as to underline both the holder's importance and the kicker's different way of looking at things.

"He isn't my holder," this booter insisted. "I'm his kicker."

The pursuit of the perfect kick leads the kicker to practice, practice and more practice.

Kickers, generally a cerebral group, tend to set things in order quickly. An East Coast booter, for example, was once challenged on the use of the kicking tee. The guy said a kicker is already talented, the tee is an unfair advantage. The kicker dispatched him neatly. "They don't make Tony Dorsett wear heavier shoes, do they?" he said.

The kicker is possibly the most welcome character in football. He is "Everyman" doing what every man cannot do. He is a different kind of hero, sometimes goat. Is he part of the team, or just a lonely soul in pursuit of the perfect kick? Yes and no. He is like the virtuoso standing before the orchestra—they are one, and yet separate. And if he must supply the comic relief at his own expense, so be it. Just let him kick.

"Look at that guy," a bystander said one day, at an Eastern school. Practice had ended and the field was empty, except for the kicker, who stayed to practice his art. He was before his altar, the goal posts—but no holder, no ball. Nothing but kick, kick, kick, through thin air.

"What's wrong with that?" the other guy said. "He's just practicing his swing."

"Yeah," the first guy said. "And watching the ball go through."

Kicker and holder are really a team unto themselves.

GOOD NEWS FOR PEOPLE 7'2" AND UNDER.

If you've always thought a little car meant a lot of crowding, you've obviously never looked into a Volkswagen Rabbit.

There happens to be so much room in a Rabbit that all 7'2" of Wilt Chamberlain can fit comfortably into the driver's seat.

Because the Rabbit has even more headroom than a Rolls-Royce.

As well as more room for people and things than practically every other imported car in its class. Including every Datsun. Every Toyota. Every Honda, Mazda, and Renault.

Not to mention every small Ford and Chevy.

And, of course, what's all the more impressive about the room you get in a Rabbit is that it comes surrounded by the Rabbit itself. The car that, according to Car and Driver Magazine, "...does more useful and rewarding things than any other small car in the world..."

So how can you go wrong?

With the Rabbit you not only get the comfort of driving the most copied car in America.

You also get the comfort of driving a very comfortable car.

Because it may look like a Rabbit on the outside.

But it's a Rabbit on the inside.

THE FIRST CHEVY OF THE '80s. CITATION. OUR MOST SUCCESSFUL NEW CAR EVER.

Ever since its introduction, people have been flooding Chevy showrooms across the country to see the 1980 Chevy Citation. And according to Retail Delivery Reports, 33,765 units were sold in its first three weeks, more than any new entry Chevrolet has ever introduced.

MID-SIZE ROOM FOR 5.

Citation's engine is mounted sideways, so the passenger compartment can be bigger. In fact, in EPA interior dimensions, Citation is classified as a mid-size car. With the back seat folded down there's room enough for two adults in front and 30 bags of groceries in back.

0 TO 50 IN 9 SECONDS FLAT WITH THE AVAILABLE V6.

In engineering tests, Citation goes from 0 to 50 in 9 seconds flat. That's with available 2.8 Liter V6 engine and automatic transmission. California figures not available. (Citation is equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.)

EASY ON GAS. 24 EPA ESTIMATED MPG. 38 HIGHWAY ESTIMATE.

That's with Citation's standard 2.5 Liter 4-cylinder engine and manual transmission. (Manual transmission currently not available in California. Calif. estimates lower.)

Citation's standard 4-speed transmission is made to conserve gas. It's an overdrive. And at cruising speeds the 4th gear lets the engine run slower than with a conventional transmission, helping to get impressive fuel economy.

IMPRESSIVE LONG-RANGE CRUISING ESTIMATES, TOO.

And Citation's long-range cruising estimates are just as impressive. 336 miles based on EPA estimated MPG (city) mileage figures, and 532 miles based on estimated highway MPG. Range figures obtained by multiplying Citation's 14-gallon fuel tank capacity rating by the EPA mileage estimates.

REMEMBER: Compare the circled estimated MPG to the estimated MPG of other cars. You may get different mileage and range depending on your speed, trip length and weather. Your actual city mileage and range will be less in heavy city traffic. Your actual mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate.

YOU'VE GOT TO DRIVE IT TO BELIEVE IT.

When you drive Citation you'll see what all the excitement is about. The way it feels. The way it maneuvers. The way it rides. And Citation's front wheel drive puts approximately 65% of its weight over the "driving wheels" to give you impressive traction on wet or snowy roads.

IT'S A WHOLE NEW KIND OF COMPACT CAR.

There's still a lot about Citation that we haven't mentioned. Like slip stream design to cut down on wind resistance and wind noise. The hidden cargo area in all hatchback models, so what's inside is protected from view. A dual diagonal braking system. And much, much more. That's why we encourage you to see your Chevy dealer and test drive the 1980 Chevy Citation today. This could be the car you've had in mind.

THESE FINE CANDIES ARE ON SALE IN THE STADIUM NOW.

The American Eagle Radial. Why it belongs on America's finest cars.

The Goodyear American Eagle Radial tire is as revolutionary today as our first rayon cord tire was in 1938 and our Polyglas in 1967 and the Polysteel Radial when introduced in 1974.

What makes the American Eagle Radial the tire for today is belts of Flexten cord. It is made from a flexible, man-made aramid fiber that is, pound for pound, stronger than steel. Flexten cord—a step ahead of steel—makes the American Eagle Radial tough and strong. Yet, the American Eagle is gratifyingly smooth riding, too.

Comfort, control and confidence are the qualities of the American Eagle Radial... the unique luxury tire designed by Goodyear for the American driver and the American road. We invite you to inspect and to enjoy American ingenuity... from Goodyear.

FOOTBALL IN THE

by Blaine Newnham,

'S

The raccoon coat may have been hung up in the closet with the button down shirt, but the zest for college football had not waned as the '70s began.

And, then, as Greeks and girls once again became important things, the college game picked up steam.

A nation got up to watch season-ending thrillers on Thanksgiving morning.

The 1970s saw freshmen become eligible to play on the varsity again for the first time since after World War II, it saw restrictions on scholarships and the size of coaching staffs, it saw rules implemented to save knees and the athletic futures of young men, and it saw the advent of the veer and the wishbone.

It also saw the departure and return of two of its most successful coaches. Just like the millions of fans and alums everywhere, they couldn't stay away from college football.

"In the 1970s there has been a greater emphasis on the skilled players in college football," said one well-respected coach. "The early '70s were marked by the veer at Houston and then the wishbone at Texas. Now, as the '70s are on their way out, the trend is toward the passing game and a mobile quarterback.

"It's a wonderful game, one that will always be changing. With over 600 schools, somebody is always coming up with something new."

The freshness, the kids, the cheerleaders, the bands, whatever it is, people like it.

It is truly remarkable that the college game—the same game played by Red Grange and Ernie Nevers and Johnny Lujack—is now seen by more people on television and in the stadiums across the land as well than at any time in its history.

Colleges saw 34 million people attend games played in 1978 and the American Broadcasting Company pay $30 million a year for the television rights to do games of all levels. All records.

And although the football giants dominated the 1970s as they did the 1960s before that, the game has moved away from an elitism, rather than towards it.

Instead, legislation worked toward parity of its members and television contracts of the late 1970s began to ensure television for Division I-AA, Division II and Division III as well as Division I.

In 1977, ABC televised 13 national games as it had done through most of the 1970s, but in 1978 it covered 45 regional

What a difference a model year can make.

That's all it's taken for our all new 1980 Pontiac Phoenix to score 41 percent better EPA estimated MPG over its 1979 counterpart. (Based on a comparison of 1979 and 1980 Pontiac Phoenix models with standard powertrains.* The highway percentage increase is 42 percent.)

It's all the more exciting when you consider these 1980 Phoenix mileage estimates.

Remember: Compare the circled estimated MPG with that of other cars. Your mileage may vary depending on speed, trip length and weather. And your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the highway estimate. Standard powertrain not currently avail. in Calif.

But great mileage is just the beginning of the excitement. Phoenix for 1980 has been dramatically redesigned from the ground up. Choose from the rakish new five-passenger Phoenix Coupe and the sporty and versatile Phoenix Hatchback.

You get an exciting new chapter of Pontiac driving fun. With front-wheel drive. Rack and pinion steering. And MacPherson strut front suspension.

Another exciting thought. You get even more standard features than on our well-equipped '79 Phoenix. Such new standards as radial tuned suspension, integral body-color bumpers, column-mounted dimmer/washer switch, dome lamp switches on all the doors, load floor Hatchback carpeting and much more.

That's more Pontiac.

games. Clearly, the game was to be seen by more people and from more locations.

If you wonder that the college game really is that popular, and if it can compete in homes across the land against the NBA, the NFL, the NHL, the NASL, major league baseball, Soap, and Laverne and Shirley, then look to the commercial market and what the going rate is for television rights.

In 1976, following the 1975 season and the best ratings the colleges have ever had, ABC signed a contract to pay $18 million a year on a two-year contract to do college football.

People were impressed. Then, two lion watched in 1970, 8.7 in 1971, 8.6 in 1972, 8.0 in 1973, 8.2 in 1974, 9.2 in 1975, and a record 10.0 in 1976. Recent ratings indicated that 9.6 watched in 1977 and 8.9 in 1978. In the decade of the '70s, ABC went from doing ten national games and 26 regionals in 1969 to 13 nationals and 45 regionals in 1979.

As far as people turning out on brisk Saturdays to sit in the stadiums, the numbers are astounding.

In fact, helped by a grass roots surge in Divisions II and III, college football attendance in 1978 enjoyed its second largest increase in history—1,346,428 spectators for an all-time national high of 34,251,606 spectators.

eastern, Big Eight, Pacific-10, Southwest, Atlantic Coast Conference, and the Western Athletic Conference—were up 1,761 per game in 1978, their biggest increase ever to an all-time high of 48,215 for each game.

And for the first time since 1970-71, both the top seven conferences and all other teams in the country went up together two straight years.

Which was significant. Every year previously back to 1967, the independents were up in the odd-numbered years and down in the even-numbered years. So it was rare and significant that the big conferences should go up at the same time that the independents and years later, ABC and the NCAA sat down and negotiated a four-year contract to last through 1981. It was a total package of $118 million, or $30 million a year.

Wide open passing attacks coupled with high scoring offenses have drawn record crowds to college stadiums throughout the '70s.

Never had college football had the leverage to extract a four-year contract before, or demand that the package include twice the regional games previously done and a season peppered with games from the other divisions.

Obviously, ABC had something it liked and wanted to keep.

All through the '70s its ratings steadily, if not consistently, improved. In terms of millions of viewers watching college football on an average Saturday, Nielsen ratings indicated that 8.3 mil-

It was the 24th increase in the last 25 seasons of college football attendance. It climbed in 1954 over 1953 and has gone up every year since, except for a tiny drop in 1974. Since 1954, the third year of the NCAA television plan, national attendance has more than doubled, from 17.0 million then to more than 34 million now.

In 1978, NCAA Division II schools produced the largest percentage increase in per-game average at 9.48 percent. Next came Division III at an increase of 8.59 percent, followed by Division IA, up 3.89 percent.

Significantly, the top seven major college conferences—Big Ten, South-small schools were also going up.

And, to boot, it came at a time when the NCAA had doubled its regional television package.

While it was gratifying to everyone that average attendance was up for all 643 four-year colleges with varsity teams, the big numbers, quite naturally were still with the big schools.

One major college, for example, ran its streak of 100,000-plus crowds to 22 en route to its fifth consecutive national attendance crown and set an all-time high for the fourth straight season. Its average in 1978 was 104,948 for six home games.

Quality.
Again. And again. And again.

Quality makes them worth asking for.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR—Blaine Newnam, sports editor of The Eugene (Ore.) Register-Guard since 1971, feels that relevancy is a must for sports writing. "It must answer the questions of the fans. It must be done with style, a style encompassing accuracy, entertainment, integrity and a real care for the reader's needs." Newnam, a journalism major at the University of California at Berkeley, authored the book The Jogging Experience and was voted Oregon's Sports Writer of the Year in 1974.

For a while it was presumed that the college game would flourish only in college towns, and not in areas where the pros played. In 1978, one Southwest Conference school increased its home attendance by 24,921 a game to 51,959 even though playing in the same state with a major football power and a Super Bowl champion.

It was winning, a wide-open passing game and an extensive, multi-faceted promotional campaign which produced the increase.

In 1973, the NCAA realigned its members with a Division II and a Division III and then starting in 1978 went to Division I-AA for schools nearly the size and strength of those playing Division IA but looking for a different scope of competition.

Even stormy weather does not keep today's fans away from the game.

At the same time the NCAA membership voted to control the growth of big-time college football, hopeful of both keeping expenses in check and moving toward a parity which might increase interest and attendance at the other schools in the league.

Coaching staffs were limited to eight assistants and scholarships were limited to 105 and eventually to 95. Schools were allowed to give no more than 30 scholarships in a single year.

There was cost-cutting, to be sure, but moreover there were more good football players to be shared. A football power might take its favorite 30, but there were still some very good players to be taken by others.

There is no question that a few schools still go to most of the bowl games. But considering the two decades just past, only four schools ranked in the top ten during both ten-year periods.

If you wondered why more people all the time are watching college football, it might well be that the teams are more offensive than ever before.

In 1975, college football teams were averaging 408.9 yards per game (both teams) as the wishbones and veers put running backs in the open field as they never had been before.

At the same time, passing, which started the decade at 305.3 yards per game in 1970, hit a bottom of 239.2 in 1975, but then started coming back up in 1976 to 246.9 and finally to 277.7 in 1978.

Running dropped off slightly, but in 1978 it was the best of both worlds for the offense—rushing was at 358.2 (the seventh highest in history) and passing was at 277.7 (the fifth highest in history). The total was 662.9, or the highest in history. The key? Greater efficiency of offense, and more highly-skilled players.

In addition, 1978 saw all field-goal accuracy and total field goal records smashed. In eight years since 1970, the percentage of accuracy of field goals was up 25 percent.

In the 1970s the college football teams put an average of more than 40 points on the scoreboard (both teams combined) while gaining more yardage than ever before.

The excitement didn't go unnoticed, not by the fans, not by the networks. Who says a raccoon coat can't be in style forever?

For years, the tight end had one responsibility—to block a linebacker and help an offensive foray spring loose. In recent years, however, the demands of playing tight end have become greater and greater—some think as varied as the demands of the linebacker on defense.

In fact, mastery of the tight end spot requires, in some minds, the best combination of skills of any football player on the field.

As one West Coast athletic director sees it, "The tight end has to be a pass receiver-blocker combination, and he can expect contact on every play. Most of his routes are to the inside, where things are at their most violent."

Though the prototype tight end is someone who stands well over six feet and scales well over 200 pounds, many feel it is a player's skill and ability to withstand the varied nature of the position that make a successful tight end.

"He's kind of an all-everything guy," said a Southeastern Conference coach of the tight end spot. "He has to do so many things, and that means he has to block, catch passes, and run. He probably has the ability to play a lot of positions on the team. Some teams get along without one, especially on the college level, but a good tight end will open the defense up."

The feeling that the tight end might be the best athlete on the field was echoed by others. As one Big Eight assistant put it, "The tight end has to be a good enough blocker to make the run offense go and he has to be an adequate receiver to make the pass a threat."

Perhaps the oddest aspect of the tight end position is that

its responsibilities change from team to team. In general, most other positions make the same demands from team to team—the running backs run, the wide receivers go out for passes, the linemen block or tackle. But depending on his team — or even on particular game situations—the tight end may be asked to do any and all of these things (with the possible exception of tackle) during the course of a single afternoon.

And even if the tight end does no tackling himself, he must have a better-than-average knack for breaking the tackles of a defensive man in order to do his own job. "The tight end usually has to be strong enough to get past the linebacker on his side," says an East Coast coach, "even a linebacker that outweighs him by 30 to 40 pounds. That is, if the offense is going to have the kind of variety you want. Often, a block or a break of a tackle by the tight end is the key to making a particular play work, whether it's a run or pass. Very often, the tight end is the guy you're disguising the whole play around. And if the tight end is a legitimate threat to receive the ball on the play—whether you actually throw to him or not—the defense has to consider him in its planning.

"This means," concludes the coach, "that a tight end in many cases has to be the best athlete on the field. And if you've got a real good one, well, you've got something."

The position of tight end has changed over the years. Not too long ago, a slower man would be assigned to the spot. He would be expected to block and to keep the defense away from the running backs.

Today, teams need a tight end who can catch the ball, at least a little. While he need not be a gazelle, the tight end should know something about how to run a pass route, how to cut—all the things a receiver has to do. In earlier years, the tight end was seen as a primary receiver only in desperate situations. Today a lot of passing plays are geared expressly for the tight end—when he is the type of player who has pass-catching abilities. And you can bet that everyone is looking for that type of player.

Intelligence is also viewed as a chief requisite of the tight end, and one with real "smarts" is that much more valuable. A Midwest assistant coach gives this example: "An audible means most players shift blocking assignments, but the tight end must quickly shift from a pass pattern to a blocking assignment. This type of adjustment takes a lot of concentration plus an unusual amount of talent. Because he must make these types of adjustments and still carry out the assignment with a high degree of skill, the tight end is, indeed, the best football player on the field."

One Northwest man puts it this way: "Sometimes you have a player who comes to your school as a tight end, but you can't afford the luxury of keeping him at that spot all the time. You have a manpower shortage somewhere else, and if you have the right kind of athlete, you can take a boy who's been a tight end and move him inside on the offensive line to a tackle or guard spot, or make him a wide receiver. The real good tight ends who play their entire college careers at only that position are at a premium.

"Is the tight end the best athlete on the field? When you've got the kind who can do many different things, the answer is probably yes. The truth is that at many schools, the all-around tight end is too valuable to use there all the time. If he can catch passes, you might want to flank him outside to take advantage of his receiving, and if he blocks very well, you might prefer having him work most of the time as an offensive lineman."

The ability to withstand constant physical pounding is discussed by a man who coaches a Southern independent. "One thing the tight end is almost guaranteed is physical contact on every play," he says. "And that tends to limit the number of guys who really enjoy the position. Not only does he have to be a big, strong kid, but he really has to enjoy that shot on every play, even the ones in which he doesn't even figure. It comes with the territory, that shot in the side, that punishing block, all of that, and a lot of kids have had trouble staying with it, even when they had what it took physically.

"Tight end isn't for everybody," he concludes.

And not everybody agrees on the overall worth of the tight end. A coach in the Western Athletic Conference says, "I don't think the tight end is the finest player on the field. On offense, I think the quarterback and running backs are better players. On defense, I think the linebackers are better. Certainly the tight end has to be a cut above the average kid. But I think at tight end you can get by with a competitor who can run and catch the football. In college football, the tight end is a combination tackle and wide receiver. He's probably not the best tackle on the team, nor the best wide receiver. There are exceptions, of course. You might find a few who are complete players, but more often than not they are in-between players."

This opinion was in the minority among those contacted for purposes of researching this article. But even this dissenting view points out the multifaceted nature of a successful tight end play. Even in suggesting that the tight end doesn't necessarily have to excel either at line play or at pass-catching, the WAC coach concedes that the tight end is asked to do both with great frequency.

"Just being asked to do all that makes the tight end one of the most valuable guys on the team," says a Big Ten Coach. "Maybe that's the key word here for a tight end—valuable. Obviously, there are excellent athletes at every position. A defensive lineman who weighs 275 pounds may be a great athlete, but you're not going to ask him to be a runner or receiver, and a 185-pound safety may be a fine athlete, but he won't help you on the line.

"So maybe that's what it really comes down to—the value a good tight end has to a team," concluded the Big Ten man. It's something you can't put a figure on, or give a proper evaluation to. You know, if they ever changed football to a 10-man game, the tight end might be the first position eliminated on offense. But the way the game is played now, that tight end might be the one guy you couldn't do without."

With Skylark's EPA estimated mileage and 14-gallon fuel tank, your gas station attendant may even forget what you look like.

Skylark offers an EPA estimated 24 mpg, estimated 38 for highway. Remember: Compare this estimate with the "estimated mpg" of other cars.

You may get different mileage depending on your speed, trip length and weather. Your actual highway mileage will probably be less than the estimated highway fuel economy. Estimates lower in California.

THE BALANCED ATTACK GIVES A TEAM A DECIDED EDGE

by Mal Florence, Los Angeles TIMES

A popular Southeastern coach has run the gamut on offense from a conservative wishbone (with three or four passes a game) to a multiple or pro-styled attack.

Why has he converted to a more balanced brand of football? "Most teams are lining up in an eight-man defensive front now instead of seven," he says, "and it's difficult to run against the eight-man front but easier to pass on it. Because of this I think there is a trend away from pure option football."

Yet, this Southeastern coach was once identified with the coaching fraternity that believed that three things can happen when you pass—and two of them are bad (incompletions, interceptions).

"Most people assume that a passing game is a high risk offense," he says. "It is only if you have an unreliable quarterback. The risk diminishes in proportion to the intelligence of the quarterback."

"A so-called pro-type offense has a different connotation to continued

Some schools renowned for their tailback-oriented offense won some big games last season—by passing.

Other schools, highly ranked in the wire service poll at the end of the season, have been eminently successful with a wishbone-style attack geared to the running game. But they operate from other formations and are not reluctant to pass.

Traditional advocates of power football and the running game are incorporating more passes into their offense.

There is a trend, many college coaches say, to a balanced offensive approach. This doesn't mean a 50-50 ration between the run and pass but the ability to be flexible.

"Defenses have become so sophisticated now that they can focus on any particular offensive phase of the game and take it away from you," says a prominent West Coast coach. "So an offense must be balanced. By balance I mean two things—to attack effectively someone who is, say, overplaying the run and to complete enough passes for consistent gains—not necessarily long passes—but a high percentage of completions."

Balance, the West Coast coach continued, isn't just an immediate reaction to a defensive scheme but must be part of your overall offensive philosophy.

"You just can't run the ball for seven games and then be put in a position where you have to pass and be able to do it," he says. "You can go down some roads you can't come back from. Nor can you win four games by passing 40 times and then all of a sudden be expected to run 50 times in a game in order to win. It can't be done."

me than other people. To me it means we won't run any option. That's all.

"It's much easier to run the option against a seven-man front and harder to throw against it. It's the opposite with an eight-man front and it's difficult to find a quarterback who is both a good option runner and a good passer."

The West Coast coach says that if a quarterback is involved in the option game, he can't develop as a passer.

"In the pure option the quarterback is involved in every running play," he says. "But, if you're not running the option, the quarterback's presence isn't required as much when you're practicing the running game. So he has more times to improve his skills as a passer."

But balance isn't for every team. There are notable exceptions.

"A powerhouse that is so overwhelmingly effective with its power-running triple option can go against the percentages (defenses stacked against the run) and still be successful," the West Coast coach says. "There are exceptions to every rule and this case is an exception."

There is another side to the offensive spectrum. While some teams slug it out on the ground, others rely on passing for the main thrust of their offense.

A strong running back plays a key role in a successful offense.

Unusual? Maybe. But establishing the passing game first has been tremendously effective at schools with a strong throwing heritage.

"Certain teams seek balance but from a different angle," a Midwest coach says. "They don't throw just to be throwing but as a means of controlling the ball—and they do it very well. Then, they'll run at you when you're over-playing the pass. But there is always the constant threat of the pass."

So the team achieves balance in its own way.

How does a team defend against a balanced attack—one that has a fine runner and an accurate passer?

"A defense can be a containing one," says the Midwestern coach. "It can try to out-flank the offense, especially if it is concerned about the passing game. Defenses try to take advantage of the field and which hash mark the offense is operating from."

"Or, the defense can be a gambling one—such as blitzes and constantly changing up. The danger is that in changing up you'll be in a defense on occasions that is suited to be exploited by the offense."

It's doubtful that the pass-minded offense is the forerunner of a collegiate trend. Nor can many teams emulate a devastating wishbone running game.

These are offensive philosophies that have been ingrained at certain schools for many years and can't be copied on an experimental basis.

But college defenses, more intricate and sound than they were even 10 years ago, are now dictating to offenses.

And the offense is getting the cue—more balance—run and pass—to keep the defense off balance.

Unique antenna for apartment, dorm or attic.

... so easy to put up, yourself!

First new antenna idea in years, for apartments, city and suburban homes. Helps eliminate "ghosting" and improves reception on TV Channels 2-69.

Designed to replace and outperform TV "rabbit ears"; sized to fit and work inside apartments, attics, garages, or outside on roof. Installs quickly, easily with simple household tools. Five models for all reception conditions.

Two models with built-in rotor that turns antenna 360° to align antenna with stations in different directions for best reception.

Get this remarkable, compact answer to your TV reception problems, and enjoy your favorite TV programs more than ever!

Floor to ceiling pole model for apartments. (Plant hangers optional.)

WINEGARD 20
TV ANTENNA
MINI-SIZE ELECTRONIC ANTENNA

Winegard, famous for excellence in electronics, has long been the leader in outdoor TV antennas. TV service dealers have different Winegard models for every installation need or problem. Winegard antennas work better longer, because they are built to last. Anodized aluminum construction to resist weather.

Wherever you live, a Winegard TV antenna works to give you the best possible reception on all available channels.

COULD A SHADOW SHED LIGHT ON THEIR SECRET?

The door creaked a cautious welcome as they pushed it open. Their eyes scanned the sparse office, locked on mine, then darted to the darkened hall. Who were they? Why were they here?

Two things I knew for sure. First, they were being followed. And, second, they had real class. Lots of it. Just the cut of their clothes said style and elegance. The fabric said taste.

Questions buzzed in my mind like hornets. But, in this business it's money first. So I told 'em my fee and took a swig of cold coffee. They went for their wallets and suddenly, the pieces fit. I caught a glimpse of a familiar label inside their coats, and knew why they were followed. There ain't a dame around who can pass up the great looks of Haggarr Imperial slacks and sport coats.

Imperial
BY HAGGAR®

The secret of these good looking Haggarr Imperial® fashions is the styling plus fine fabric. It's a comfortable blend of Today's Dacron® from Burlington Menswear® and worsted wool to resist wrinkles and keep you looking good.

Looking good makes you feel good in fabrics of TODAY'S DACRON® from Burlington Menswear 卐

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics Recognizes With Appreciation the following Iowa Automobile Dealers

Twenty-three Iowa automobile dealers are playing a big part in promoting the Iowa State sports program this year. These fans—and they are rabid backers of all forms of athletic activity—provide the use of automobiles to the department throughout the year. Their program permits Iowa State to make more efficient use of its funds. The department of intercollegiate athletics is deeply grateful to these sports-minded boosters.

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS

This year, as in the past, KU's students are its lifeblood. At a time when college and university enrollments are declining nationwide, KU's enrollment has been up. While they are here KU students make contributions that help the University maintain its status as a progressive, modern institution of higher learning.

The University of Kansas also enjoys a national reputation for the quality of its scholarly research. Last year, KU received grants and contracts totaling approximately $31.5 million for sponsored research and associated training projects, including funds for investigations into the causes and cures of cancer, pharmaceutical research, treatment of children with developmental disabilities, improving aircraft stability, and new sources of energy.

KU is recognized as one of the nation's foremost cancer research and treatment centers. KU and the Mayo Clinic are the only two institutions in the world with all three scanners commonly used in tumor diagnosis.

Nowhere is KU's commitment to excellence better evidenced than at the College of Health Sciences and Hospital in Kansas City and Wichita. The University has increased medical school enrollment by 60 percent since 1971 and, based on the ratio of medical students to population, is educating doctors in Kansas at a rate 50 percent higher than the national average. KU-trained doctors, nurses and allied health professionals also are encouraged to remain in the state through the University's Physician Placement and Recruitment Program and several other regionally-organized health care outreach support activities.

Health care outreach, however, is but a part of the University's total outreach campaign. KU's Division of Continuing Education administers more than 450 off-campus courses each year, and enrollment in these credit offerings is climbing. Additionally Continuing Education offers a variety of professional workshops and seminars, police and fire training, and independent study by correspondence.

The vitality of the University of Kansas also is illustrated at both the Lawrence and Kansas City campuses by an unprecedented construction boom. During the last five years projects totaling more than $159 million have been completed or are underway.

Here for the first time— the whole story of football's most exciting teams

BIG EIGHT FOOTBALL

The Story, the Stars, the Stats of America's Toughest Conference

by John D. McCallum

Any fan who's watched the big ol' boys of the Big Eight block, tackle, pass, and move on down the field to victory will want to own a copy of Big Eight Football by John D. McCallum.

In over 150 action- and energy-packed photographs and an exciting text, it brings you closer than you've ever been before to the great coaches and legendary players, among them: Bud Wilkinson, Bob Devaney, Dana X. Bible, George Sauer, and Lynn "Pappy" Waldorf (talking about team excellence and the will to win), Gayle Sayers, Billy Vessels, the Selmon brothers, Darrell Royal, and others (remembering great exploits on the field, raw and rugged rivalries, and commenting on how the game, teams and fans have changed through the years).

Big Eight Football has full statistics on everything from Hall of Famers and bowl games, to season win-loss records from 1928 to 1978, and UPI and AP poll ratings. It's the only book on the Big Eight and it's a sports spectacular in itself.

Start the season right. Send for your copy today.

IOWA ROAD BUILDERS'

CYCLONE SCOUTING REPORT

If the Jayhawks played everyone the whole game like they have in the first quarter, their record could easily be a reversal of its 1-4 mark. Kansas has outscored its opponents 31-14 in the opening stanza, but the second quarter has been the downfall, as the enemy has outscored the Jayhawks 55-10. However, KU has some quality talent, and for that reason its overall record can be a bit deceiving. Fullback Harry Sydney leads the rushing corps with 187 yards and two touchdowns in 47 tries. The junior has made a smooth transition to his new position, as he was the Jayhawks' starting quarterback in their option offense last fall. Sophomore tailback Walter Mack follows closely with 180 yards and pair of six pointers, in 55 carries. Sophomore Kevin Clinton has gone most of the way at quarterback, hitting on 42 of 103 passes for 426 yards, but senior Brian Bethke could get the starting nod today. Wide receiver David Verser has hauled in 12 aerials for 202 yards and a touchdown to lead the Jayhawk receivers. Defensively, Kansas is paced by noseguard Stanley Gardner (6-0, 240), linebackers Jim Zidd (6-2, 230) and Kirby Criswell (6-6, 230), and 1978 second team all-Big Eight safety LeRoy Irvin (6-0, 180).

CYCLONE GYMNASTS OPEN TONIGHT

Iowa State gymnasts begin preparation for the exciting 1980 season, as they compete in the annual intra-squad meet, tonight, at 7 p.m., in Hilton Coliseum. Possessing an impressive list of returnees, the Cyclones, who last season were rated no lower than fourth nationally, are expected to field one of their strongest teams ever.

Leading the list of all-around men are Ron Galimore, Stacy Maloney, Tom Hardin, Doug Smidl, Mike Lyons, and Dave Smidl. In addition, this category will receive an added punch from freshman sensation, Yasu Kuniyoshi, from Japan.

In most cases the leading specialists in each event could very well appear from the ranks of the all-arounders with Galimore and Maloney leading the way. An exception could be on pommel horse where Iowa State has three highly talented specialists in Dave Graham, Bob Krause, and Bob Powers. Again this season the critical pommel horse event should be a Cyclone strong point.

Rings, last year's weak event, should show considerable improvement with the addition of Ron Galimore and freshman standout Bob Pole. Also, on rings ISU fans can expect Mike Lyons, Mark Gedstad and John Copeland to display more spectacular movements in their exercises.

On high bar, the specialists to look for are Dan Copeland and Steve Buck. On floor exercise and vaulting, the strongest specialists appear to be Bob Duffey and Dave Macherey.

Again, Iowa State's greatest reserve strength seems to be in the all-around where quality depth will provide a strong plus in dealing with the new rule change requiring five of six scores (on each event) to be added for team points, instead of four scores, as in the past.

With exciting and talented performers in every category the Cyclones could whirl all the way to the top in 1980.

The 1979-80 Iowa State Theatre Season

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? by Edward Albee

Sept. 13-15, 20-22, 1979 Fisher Theater 8:00 p.m.

The smash hit of the 1962-63 Broadway season depicts an all-night drinking party during which two couples ruthlessly and sadistically rip each other to shreds. In the process, the couples brutally expose every weakness that each possesses. Through the long night these four flay each other; by dawn all illusions have been shattered, truth has been reduced to a weapon of torture, and human relationships have been exposed in a sadomasochistic conflict.

House at Pooh Corner by A.A. Milne and adapted by Bettye Knapp

January 12, 19, 26 at 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. (Saturdays)
January 13, 20, 27 at 2:00 p.m. (Sundays)

A return to the characters of the children's classic in new adventures.

The Runner Stumbles by Milan Stitt

March 20-22, 27-29, April 10-12, 1980 8:00 p.m. Fisher Theater

A powerful and compelling play of which Clive Barnes said, "It got to me, and I cried." The drama opens soon after a young nun has been mysteriously murdered in a remote parish in northern Michigan. Her superior, Father Rivard, has been charged with her murder. The action alternates between interrogation and testimony and scenes of past events until the explosive and surprising climax of the play reveals the murderer's identity.

The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee

Nov. 29-30, Dec. 1, 6-8, 13-15, 1979 Fisher Theater 8:00 p.m.

Chosen for production across the country under the distinguished American Playwrights Theatre program, this drama opens with Thoreau in Jail, records Emerson's visit to him, and ends on the morning of his release. During the night the main character explores topics such as refusing to pay taxes to a government conducting an unjust war of aggression in Mexico, and establishing a revolutionary school of transcendentalism. The play culminates in a grotesque dream that The Washington Post described as "absolutely fascinating."

No Sex Please, We're British by Anthony Marriott and Allistair Foot

Oct. 18-20, 25-27, Nov. 1-3, 1979 Fisher Theater 8:00 p.m.

This modern farce, which ran successfully in London for over four years, concerns a young bride and her husband who is the assistant manager of a bank. The bride innocently orders some Scandinavian glassware by mail but she receives Scandinavian pornography instead. The avalanche of material to the couple's apartment above the bank causes hilarious complications when the husband's mother, his boss, a visiting bank inspector, a police superintendent, and a young friend arrive.

She Stoops to Conquer by Oliver Goldsmith

April 24-26, May 1-3, 8-10, 1980 8:00 p.m. Fisher Theater

A comic masterpiece of eighteenth century England, skillfully manipulates several plot strands to create amusing and rapid action. The plot shows how two young men are duped into mistaking the home of a country gentleman for an inn, their consequent ill-mannered treatment of their host, and the misunderstandings, intrigues, and discoveries that eventually lead to the satisfactory conclusion of the love affairs of the principal characters. It comes as no surprise to learn the play's subtitle is The Mistakes of a Night.

The Iowa State University Theatre will continue selling discount coupon booklets to its patrons. Each booklet will include five discount coupons. The five coupons can be exchanged for any main stage show except House at Pooh Corner.

Purchasing a discount coupon booklet for only $12.00 saves you $3.00 over regular admission prices and allows you greater flexibility in attending our production.

Please remember a coupon must be redeemed for a ticket in order to gain admittance. Also be advised the house will open one-half hour before each performance to allow patrons to find their seats.

(Regular price per show is $3.00, with Student Discount of $1.00)

Do You?

Celebrate with Cy

Homecoming 79

Here is your guide to "The Wonderful World of Cy" 1979 Homecoming displays. They'll be open for viewing after the game and this evening. The displays were judged both in daylight and at night this year, so builders took special care to light them for night viewing. On your way to "The Wonderful World of Cy" displays after the game, why not stop by the Homecoming beer garden in the Acacia parking lot for a little refreshment? Also, alumni are invited to a coffee, cookies and cider reception in Scheman after the game. Get in on the activities---and Celebrate With Cy.

Iowa Pork and Iowa State

Cyclone football players know that the "pigskin" is a tough and durable ball that can stand up to a lot of hard wear.

They also know that pork provides the kind of nutrition that will help them stand up to some hard work.

THAT'S WHY PORK IS A FAVORITE MEAT ON THE ISU TRAINING TABLE!

That's right . . . athletic trainers and nutritionists throughout the country are depending on today's high-quality lean pork to provide many essential elements and basic proteins that are required for strong and healthy bodies . . . without adding lots of fat forming calories.

ISU's Own "Free Lance" At Stephens Tonight

"The Free Lance," a special production for Homecoming, will be presented tonight at 8 in Stephens Auditorium. The comic operetta is being premiered here (the first performance was last night) before it is presented next month in Philadelphia. The comic operetta was written in 1906 by John Philip Sousa and is a joint production of the Iowa State Center and the Opera Company of Philadelphia. A professional cast, a chorus of Iowa State students and an orchestra composed of members of the Des Moines Symphony have combined for this tuneful comedy. Check with the Stephens Auditorium box office to determine availability of tickets for tonight's performance. The comedy next will be seen at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia Nov. 20 and 23.

FORREST TUCKER

In rehearsal, Tony Tamburello as a frustrated Duke of Graftiana. In the background, Shigemi Matsumoto as Princess Yolande in "The Free Lance."

"SHOW BOAT"

Next weekend there will be three performances of "Show Boat", one of America's all-time great musical hits. Featuring Forrest Tucker and Butterfly McQueen, the legendary musical about life on a Mississippi River show boat will be presented in Stephens Auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 3 p.m. Sunday. The Friday performance is sold out, but good seats are available for Saturday and Sunday.

Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II teamed up to produce "Show Boat" on Broadway in 1927, and it has been presented in a major theater somewhere in the world every year since. Based on the Edna Ferber novel, the score includes such enduring favorites as "Only Make Believe," "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "Bill," "Why Do I Love You?" and "Ol' Man River."

Tucker is remembered by television viewers as the sergeant in "F Troop," has been seen in more than 100 motion pictures, including "Auntie Mame" with Rosalind Russell, and was Professor Harold Hill in more than 2000 performances of "The Music Man." He stars as captain Andy in "Show Boat."

McQueen, who portrays Queenie in the musical, was Prissy in the film "Gone With the Wind." In addition to her film and stage career, she established some of the most recognizable characters in radio: Rochester's girl friend and Jack Benny's maid, Danny Kaye's secretary and the hilarious cousin of Beulah, a role she recreated for television.

PROFESSIONAL RODEO

The World's Toughest Rodeo returns to Hilton Coliseum for three sessions next weekend. Contest events will be bareback bronco riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, cowgirls barrel racing, and bull riding. In addition, there will be live music by the Sons of the Pioneers and comedy routines by the nation's top bullfighting rodeo clowns. Friday and Saturday night sessions begin at 8 and the Sunday wind-up begins at 2 p.m. Good seats are available for all sessions.
