commitment to man, morality, and machines
—theme of the year '70

commitment to man

Man is more than a number or a face in the crowd. He is an individual characterized by his ideals.

Man is a sculptor whose life lies uncarved before him. He leaves the impress of his ideals on body, society, history and marble.

We are all sculptors of life, chiselling our way to a higher excellence, or leaving the marble to rot and decay without the mind's ideals. We need to turn often from marble to model, unless we forget the vision. The hopes of life lie uncut before us. Let us carve our ideals on the yielding stone with a sharp and firm incision.

commitment to machines

Can man retain his identity entwined in a world of machines designed to advance and insure a future society?

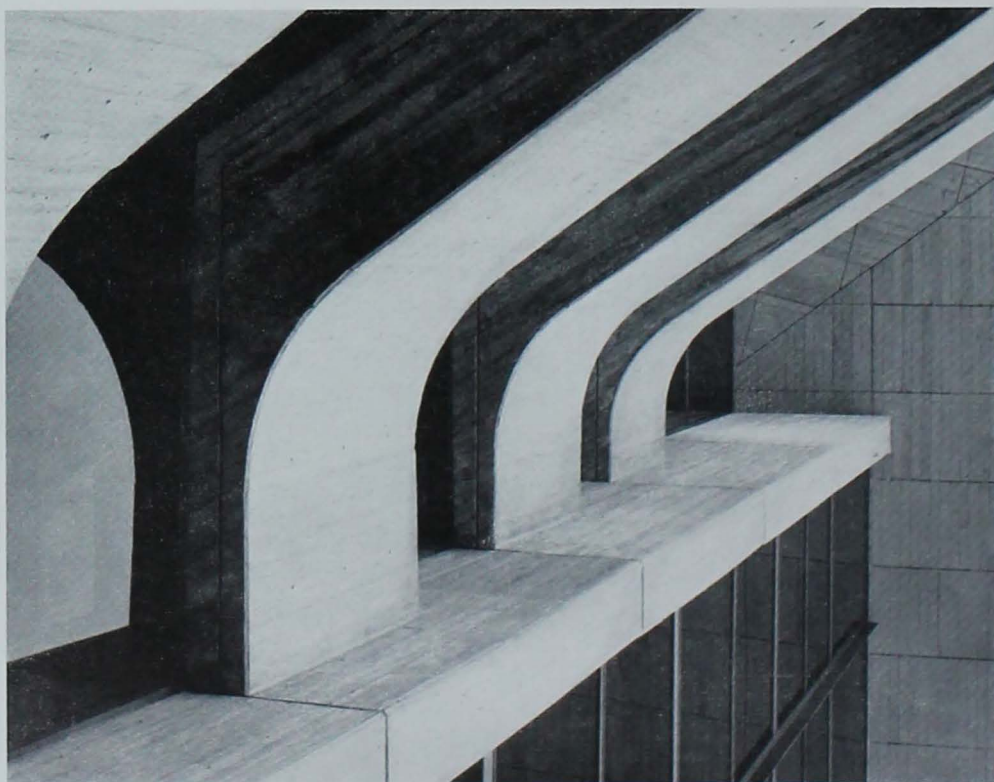

Or will man be destroyed by machines which make better machines, having overstepped the boundaries of human control?

Man is committed to machines: machines of structure with function . . . some whose structure did not seem to wait for a function. Machines can seem alive. They can appear to solve problems and think. Machines can detect, identify, and classify data. Some store and retrieve information. They learn and teach problems. They solve and play games. We treat them as men—instructing and asking them questions. We even do what they tell us to do.

But machines are only tools. They are a human product. They do not think. The great question, in fact, is not whether machines think, but whether men do?

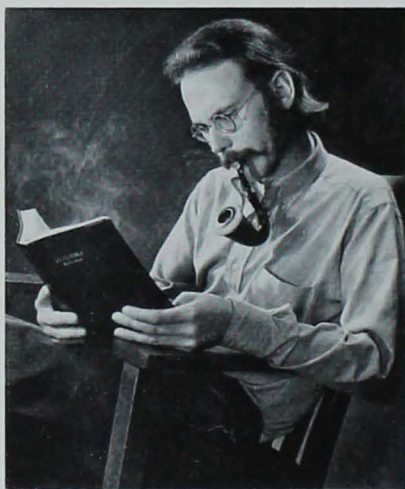

commitment to morality

There is no new morality. Only a new dimension to morality. It goes far beyond the isolationist's "do your own thing." We are committed to a growing awareness of the wholeness of humanity.

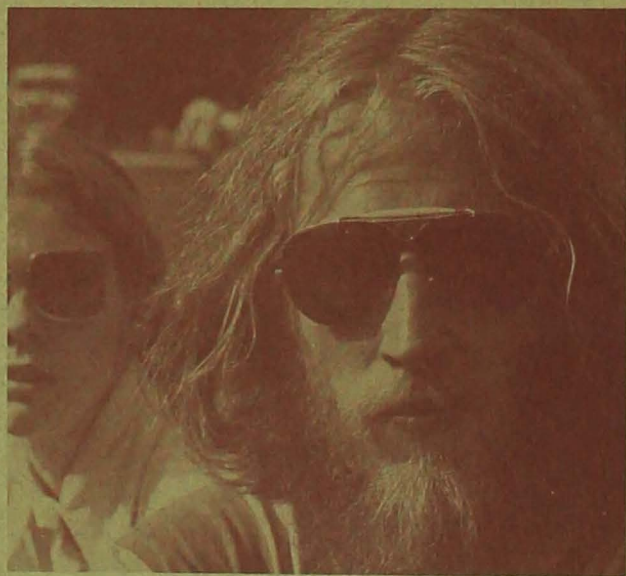

Yearning to find meaning in the whole, some turn to temporary satisfaction in drugs, sex, alcohol. Others discover permanency in striving for a conscious capacity to understand man and his relationship with a Supreme Being.

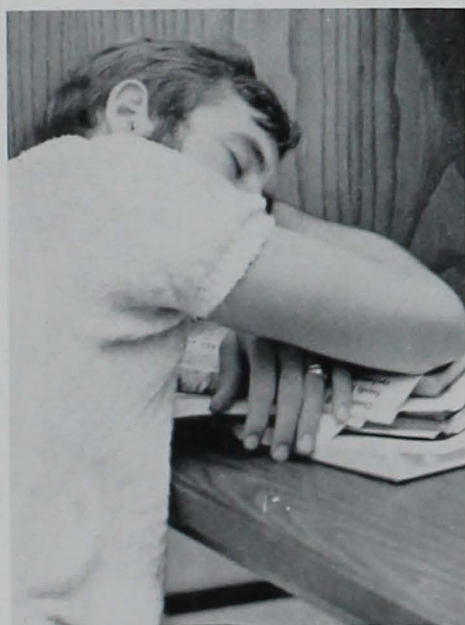

It is important where the answers are sought. It is more important that questions continue to be asked. Each individual leaves an imprint on the sum total of society. The new dimension to morality is a challenge to improve this imprint and do your own best thing.

"A Revolution for Independents" was the theme of Residence Hall Week 1969, but a better slogan might have been, "Show Them." And from March 23-29, the residences did just that.

This was only the second year Iowa State has held a Residence Hall Week. But the event has come far in two years.

The week began at a convocation which included tappings for residence honoraries and the selection of Joyce Frederick as Residence Hall Week Queen. It concluded with two concert performances by comedian Bill Cosby.

Cosby combined his musical ability with his famous (or infamous) sharp wit. His talent for sifting humor from daily life caused continual audience laughter. Co-starring with Cosby was songstress Rhetta Hughes. Few performers can match the sparkling enthusiasm and emotion she packed into each song.

Sandwiched within the week was a carnival of residence-sponsored game booths, a car rally, intramurals, and open houses.

Was it a success? The answer lies among the 650 visiting high school students and 10,000 people at the concerts and the 2,000 carnival goers.

But figures don't always measure triumph. Any success of Residence Hall Week was a result of residence members' vitality.

"The Week" began April 15. Opening ceremonies included the usual dinner, selection of Queen Stephanie Dozoryst, and tappings for honoraries. The week was then dedicated to the theme "Involvement in Change."

Change? Where?

The week-long blood drive fostered change—more people than ever gave blood and sent the project over its goal. Famed anthropologist Ashley Montagu spoke out for change during the convocation; changes in education, government and life that students have been seeking for years.

Greeks threw open their seminars to everyone and posed confrontations between faculty members and groups of interested students. Service projects, the olympics, and the house parties had all changed in one way or another.

Friday, April 18. The Armory stage was dark and empty, except for the big words "Greek Week '69." Lines of people snaked out the doors, and those who still possessed their ticketstubs were going to get a refund. The Four Tops had failed to make their Greek Week concert performance.

Compared to past Greek Weeks, Greek Week '69 was neither the best nor the worst. It was a time for evaluation, as old events were updated and new challenging activities were added. What was learned from this Greek Week will make future attempts better. But, as everyone must realize, change takes more than a week.

4 Tops at Iowa State

black culture week

A soul happening. The week was a successful initial attempt at unifying black and white segments of the University through a program of cultural communication.

The theme of "Unity Through Communication" began with a free fashion show. Black models displayed African clothes, bright colors, and related psychology of black fashion. Other events were a straight-forward panel discussion on racial matters, the play "In White America" at the Y-Dug-out, and "Black America in Review"—a song and dance history of the black man's struggle in the U.S.

Highlighting the week was the appearance of Julian Bond, U.S. Representative from Georgia. Bond held an informal discussion and later spoke to an audience of over 1,000 persons on "New Coalition within the Democratic Party."

Campus Chest blasted off September 26 for the most successful fund-raising drive in its 17-year history. The grand total skyrocketed to $20,262. Twelve charities divided the money. Funds were collected through dances, the Miss Legs contest, auto rallies, auctions, the Blast carnival—where Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity captured Sweepstakes, and other entertainment. Colleen Parr was named Miss Legs 1969. Much of the monetary success of Campus Chest came from a waitress exchange and the cigarette drive. Alumni Hall won the ciggy-poo drive by amassing 110,000 empty cigarette packs of the total 270,000 collected. Alcoa Aluminum offered to pay one-cent for each pack. Campus Chest donates 35 percent of the total funds to Promise, Inc. in China. This year the 74-year old founder of Promise, Inc., Dr. Pak-Chue Chan made a personal visit to the Iowa State campus to express his appreciation for the continuing support of his medical mission.

c. y. stephens auditorium . . .

C. Y. Stephens Auditorium serves as both theater and music hall on the Iowa State campus. The undulating rhythm of exterior curves merely reflects what is happening inside.

The $4.9 million dollar building represents 13,000 cubic yards of concrete wall and structural material. This forms a neutral background for the cardinal red carpeting, and the 2,637 gold, orange, and cardinal chairs. Multi-level continental seating eliminates center aisles and insures audience intimacy with the stage. A special orchestra shell is used for concerts. A hydraulic lift also brings the pit orchestra into position when needed.

The magnificent seamless stage curtain is a gift of J. W. Fisher of Marshalltown, Iowa. It was hand-woven on a gigantic loom in Japan. The original design symbolizes the scientific emphasis of Iowa State.

A five-channel stereophonic sound system tests the acoustical qualities of the massive concrete building's interior.

Elevated exterior walkways join the gray, solar glass of the building to create a striking geometric effect by day and radiate a bright welcome at night.

C. Y. Stephens Auditorium officially opened in September when the New York Philharmonic Orchestra presented a special series of five gala black-tie concerts.

Inauguration of the new building came as a lasting memorial to the late Clifford Y. Stephens, who launched the fund-raising campaign with a million-dollar donation. The building is destined to spark the growth of culture in Iowa.

Mrs. C. Y. Stephens unveiled a memorial plaque which will hang in the auditorium commemorating her late husband's contribution to the Iowa State Center.

vietnam moratorium

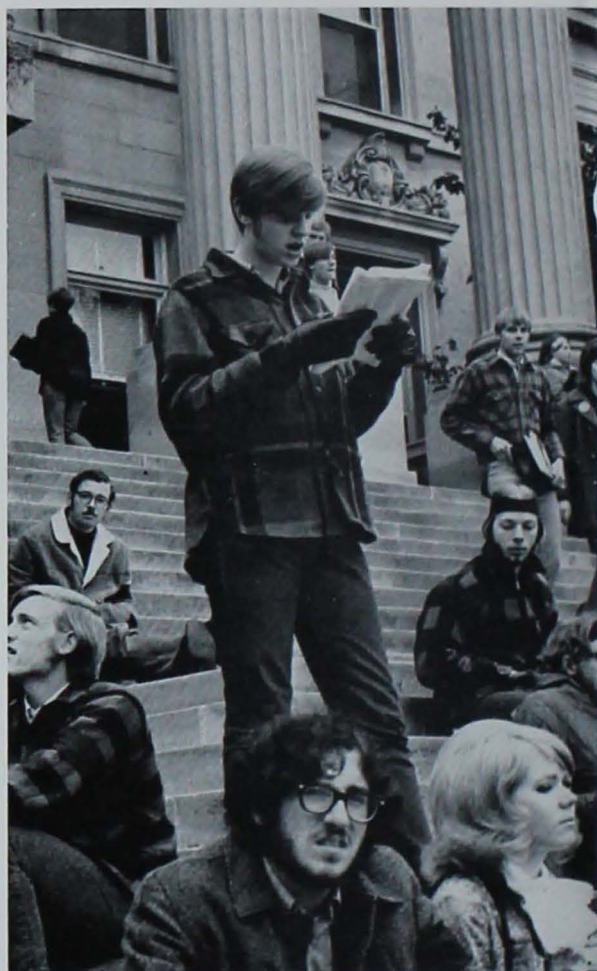

One day . . . but only the beginning to stop, think, evaluate . . . Armbands—black vs. red-white-blue. There were many shades of protest for the Vietnam War. With apathy low and emotions high, frequent debates interrupted the calm of Iowa State.

The people. Seventeen-hundred peaceful marchers.

The rain. Two drizzling hours of it. The cards with pennies to "buy back" Story County draft registrants. One thousand of them.

More than half of those attending the afternoon convocation in Stephens Auditorium braved cold weather to attack the Vietnam War and the draft with tulips, pennies, songs, and smiles.

spring

With a leap, hop, and a skip, spring beams an impudent ray of warmth, thawing even the most frozen forms of life. The melting earth mirrors the burst of activity on campus. Listen to the sound of growing things—plans for picnics, woodsies, walks, and Veishea. Men and women shedding their adolescence—striving to be what they really are. The past dissolves and thaws. The moment is now to select which seeds to sow for life.

The staccato beat of spring shifts to a sultry rhythm. The swing is to yellow days—an intermission between quarters. The muggy amber air creates an indolent tempo for sizzling summer sessions, loafing, travel, and part-time jobs. Whatever the choice, the leisurely pulse embroils its imprint on the mind, fading all too swiftly into fall.

Transition. Cinnamon, gold, and orange emblazon Nature's raiment. These are the delicious wind-tossed days, made for sweaters and loafers, football and sun. Making new friends and renewing the old. Days made for strolling through campus at twilight, where the golden-faced campanile serves as sentry over the hushed silence. Autumn days for reaping the seeds sown in meditation, charity, laughter, and love. These are the moments when time becomes merely a fluttering nuisance in the momentary awareness of eternity.

A time to wrestle with the frozen conscience: do I snuggle deeper in my nice warm bed or shake and shudder my way through the cold storage belt of the Midwest to an 8 o'clock lecture? The campus becomes a giant refrigerator, well-stocked with purple cheeks, red noses, and rime icing. The icebox defrosts with a steaming mug of chocolate, or a warm smile and hello. This is the time for shivering through a snow-sculpture contest, gliding across a silver pond, or quietly studying the muffled animation of a frigid pale wasteland.

'food ... glorious food'
—Oliver

Students crave food for the mind and food for the soul. But the most energy is spent seeking food for the body. Jamming restaurants, dining halls, and kitchens, Iowa Staters yearly devour an estimated 1,840,000 hamburgers, 16,500 cases of #10 canned vegetables, 1750 cases of soup, 675,000 lbs. of fresh potatoes, 900,000 fresh eggs, 25,000 lbs. of coffee, and 2,280,000 cans of pop.

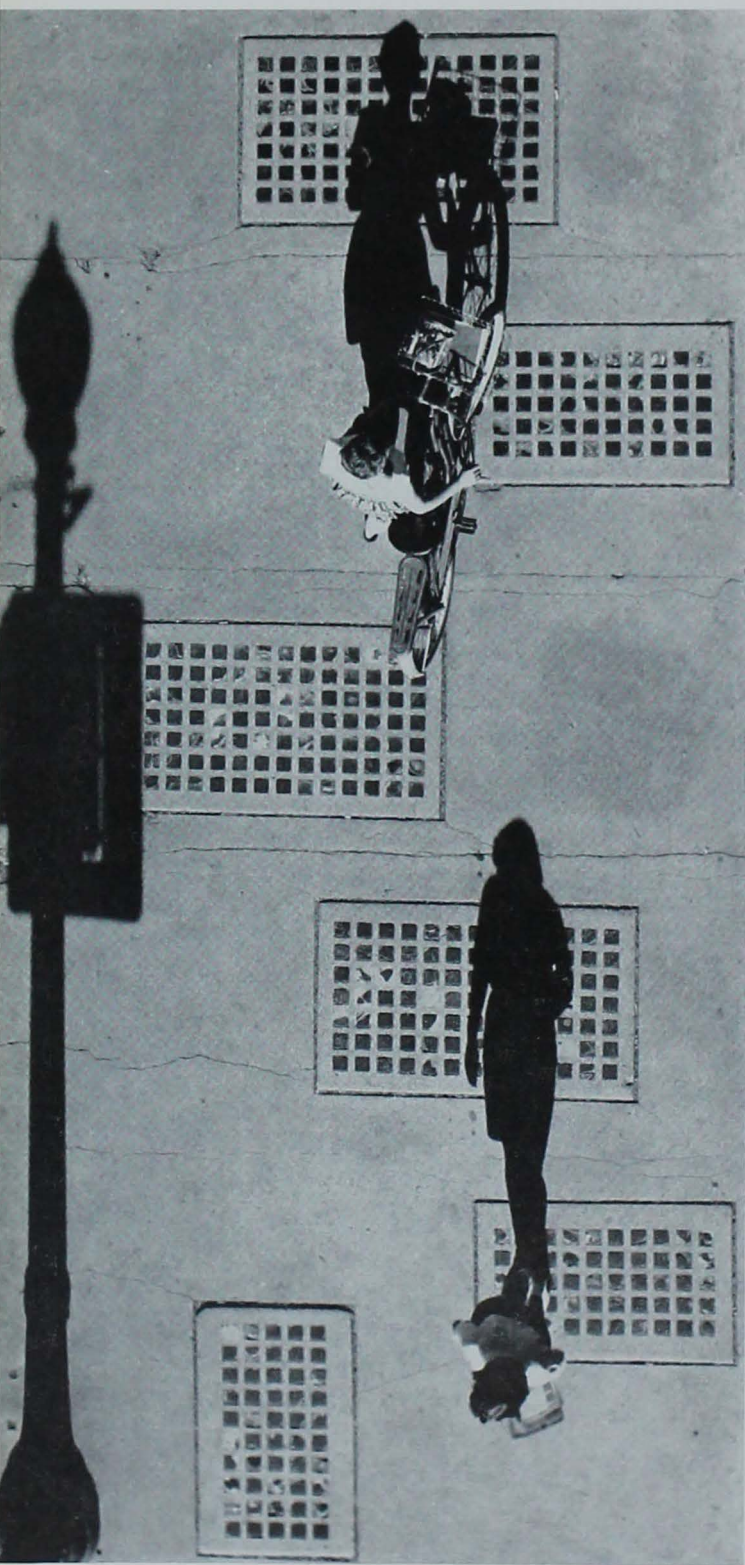

the many angles of student housing

Even within the narrow limits of a single room lies the meaning of a home. Home is more than just a place. It is where students share daily experiences, dwell in the warmth of belonging . . . wherever they are living.

veishea '69 enlivened by varying ideas

Shortly before Veishea's opening ceremonies on May 1, a small squad of students stormed the campanile and proclaimed central campus a "liberated" area. This was just a hint that Veishea '69 was going to be anything but traditional.

As the crowd shuffled away from the opening ceremonies, Nancy Chase was wearing the crown of Veishea queen and Dan Gable had carted off the Athlete of the Year award. Amid all the activity burned the flame of the Veishea torch.

A fitting conclusion to the first day of Veishea was two concert performances by Diana Ross and the Supremes. The Supremes captured a standing ovation and the hearts of their audience.

The barrage of events continued the next day as the departmental open houses presented displays to thrill, amuse, excite, and educate.

Friday evening contained an invitation for everyone to go "Barefoot in the Park" with the ISU Players. Everyone that is except those who were fighting the rain and last minute emergencies to prepare for the next day's parade.

The theme Great Moments in Entertainment brought forth some wondrous moments in float building. The Alpha Delta Pi-Pi Kappa Alpha float, "A Tribute to Walt Disney," emerged the sweepstakes winner. The Kappa Sigma "Polish" band marched away with the novelty award.

After the fascination of the parade wore off, the military review produced a few tense moments. Two persons sprawled in the midst of the review area refused to move for either administrators or military personnel. The ceremony proceeded unhindered after the two were arrested and removed to face charges.

The exceptional performance of "My Fair Lady" was a fitting finale to Veishea. After the last encore, few people could have danced all night. But, the informal dance featuring the Flippers was on hand for those who wished to try.

Among the highlights of Veishea '69 were The Supremes concert and the Stars Over Veishea production of "My Fair Lady." The exhilarating magic of musical entertainment is the trademark of SOV. This year's adaptation of the long-run Broadway musical epitomized that tradition.

Sandwiched between SOV performances was an electrifying appearance by Diana Ross and The Supremes. The songstress trio captivated the audiences at both their Iowa State appearances.

Bats and batons were flying during the Philharmonic's stay in Ames. The concert musicians kept their bodies finely tuned by playing softball with several campus teams. The musicians play on the ball diamond delighted onlookers. On stage their performances astounded audiences from all parts of the Midwest.

The building was on farmland, but this was no square dance. The gala blacktie concert by the New York Philharmonic inaugurated Stephen's Auditorium and ushered in a new era of cultural tradition at Iowa State. People traveled from as far as Minnesota and Kansas to drift enraptured through the five-day festival of concerts.

Seiji Ozawa, young Japanese conductor of the Philharmonic, led his orchestra through such delightful symphonies as Mendelssohn's No. 4, A major, "La Mer" by Debussy, Ginastera's dances from the ballet, "Estancia," and Tchaikovsky's symphony No. 4, F minor.

speakers attack politics, pollution

Politics, Vietnam, and pollution were the main topics of four widely known speakers this past year.

Senator Birch Bayh (D.-Ind.) urged President Nixon to make a positive move in one direction, instead of trying to please a wide scope of people.

Sander Vanocur, NBC television newsman, attacked government control of news about Vietnam. The goal of the country, he said, should be to reach the "unfinished principles" of American democracy.

Stewart Udall, former secretary of the interior under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, stressed that the problem of our ecology will be the most important one we face in the 70's.

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., adviser to the late John Kennedy, speculated on Nixon's future in Vietnam. The major stumbling block which the President is tripping over, he said, is the Saigon government in Vietnam.

isu hosts panorama of productions

C. Y. Stephen's Auditorium hosted a wide variety of theatrical productions in its initial year. From Shakespearean tragedy to contemporary comedy, there were presentations for all appetites.

All notions of marital tragedy were dispelled by Phil Ford and Mimi Hines in their vibrant performance of I Do, I Do. The famed entertainment team presented the hit Broadway musical to a standing room only audience. The real life couple—onstage and off—delighted theatre-goers with the classic tale covering fifty years of a happy marriage.

King Lear, Shakespeare's longest and most difficult to perform tragedy, literally stormed across the stage of Stephen's on November 4. The National Players, a dynamic classical repertory company, skillfully unfolded the clash of characters, and the bitter pride and discord climaxing in the tragic death of Lear, King of Britain, and his family.

The stage shifted from Britain to Japan as the Lyric Opera of Chicago graced Iowa State on December 7 with the poignant drama Madama Butterfly. The impact of the three-act Italian opera was intensified by exquisite Oriental costumes and scenic design. The music of Giacomo Puccini underscored the tragic note of U.S. Lieutenant B. F. Pinkerton's marriage to Cio-Cio-San, known as Butterfly.

concerts enchant audiences

A mixture of concert and contemporary musical talent performed in Stephen's Auditorium during the year. Early in October Ferrente and Teicher combined the witty rhythmic variety of piano and vocal humor. On November 7-8 Henry Mancini and his 40-piece orchestra sent the audience on a romantic drift down Moon River with a dreamy medley of hit movie tunes.

The vibrant beebop of Gary Puckett and the Union Gap drew capacity crowds for two performances January 17.

Corrinne Curry's mezzo-soprano elegantly penetrated the auditorium on January 18. Miss Curry's voice has won widespread acclaim from music critics.

On February 5 appeared the world-famous master of the Spanish guitar—Andres Segovia. The 76-year old guitarist has single-handedly won for the guitar an honored place in the world's concert halls. Recognized as the supreme master in his field, he performed for an enthusiastic capacity crowd.

homecoming win thrills fans

THIS IS CYCLONE COUNTRY

Twenty-seven thousand fans roared with joy as the Cyclones whopped Kansas, 44-20. Later students, alumni, and visitors grooved at the Saturday night football victory "happening" at Shak-ey's Pizza Parlor.

The scene switches to Stephen's where the auditorium rocked with the up-tempo sounds of Sergio Mendes and Brasil '66. Comic Tom Sherman and the Bosso Rio supplied extra fun for the capacity crowds.

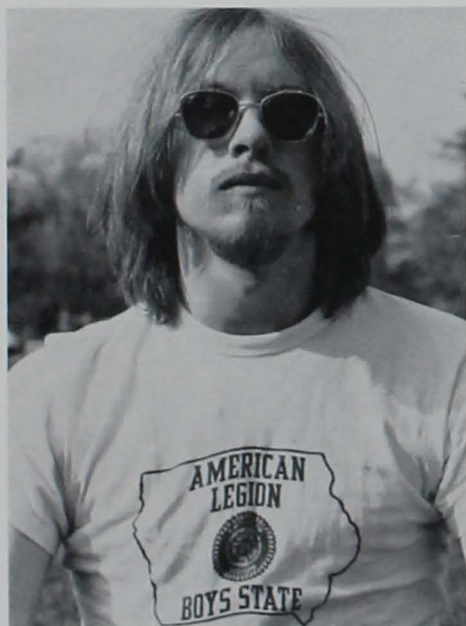

Still swaying with the beat of Bossa Nova, many danced at "People," where queen Joyce Stout reigned amid the sounds of the Emerald Brass.

It was lively, jubilant, and full of surprises. It was Homecoming '69.

Student life at Iowa State is a matter of moments; time spent discovering the intrigues of the laboratory, laboring to perfect the triple-tonguing torture of "Flight of the Bumblebee," or studying for the next day's classes.

Our lives are a continuum of contact with professors, fellow students and, most importantly, with ourselves. Confronting and questioning ourselves and others opens the door to education.

The time passes swiftly for each of us. Capitalizing on it now may allow us to direct the moments of later years.

"College education" means different things to each of us. To some it connotes four tedious years of studying for omnipresent exams. Others cope with the arduous challenge of study by making it as pleasant as possible. A warm spring day often covers central campus and other grassland areas with students studying—more or less.

Education at Iowa State does mean many things, but to all it is a period of exposure, experience and creativity. These ingredients and their development will chart our lives. Those lives may be in megalopolis or down on the farm, but all of us will use our "college education" to plot what we perceive as a better design of living.

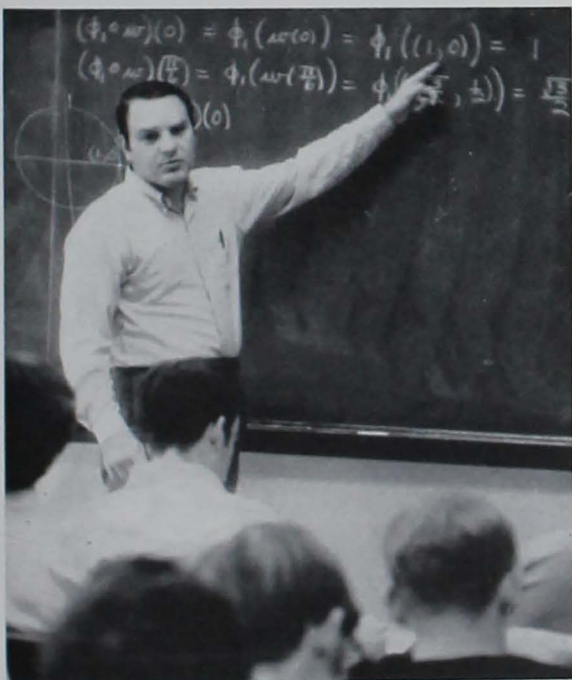

Education is accumulated through activity outside, as well as inside the classroom. The two types of knowledge complement one another.

The struggle to succeed in the classroom is an endeavor requiring fortitude. Achievement is gained and acknowledged only as a result of effort. The stakes are high. You are molding the pattern of your life. This pattern may contain the intricacy of a maze or the simplicity of a circle.

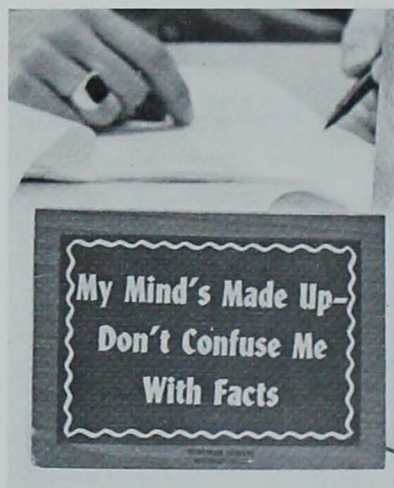

The burden of toiling with the pattern pieces is lightened by memories of the struggle. The library's haunting silence and classroom exercises mingle with the joys realized by cutting that Friday 4 o'clock. Your heart quickens remembering the nearness of someone dear. The novacaine of pleasure deadens the pain of unrelenting study.

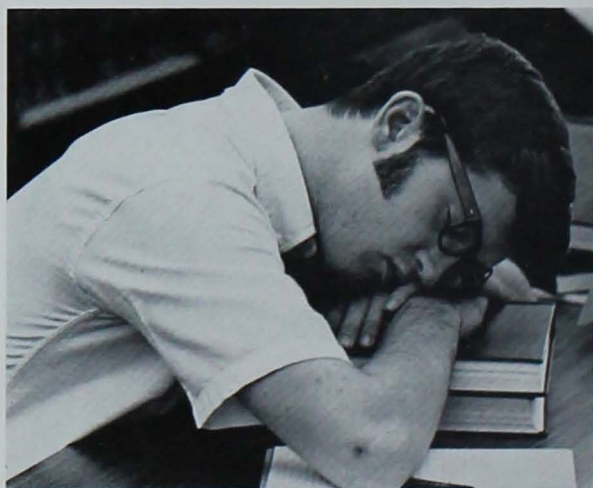

FOR THEE THEY DIED
MASTER AND MAKER • GOD OF RIGHT
THE SOLDIER DEAD ARE AT THY GATE
WHO KEPT THE SPEARS OF HONOR BRIGHT AND FREEDOM'S HOUSE INVIOLEATE

Education's purpose is to prepare each of us to better decide our direction and perspective of life. For some it is necessary to believe in someone or something enough to suffer the consequences of that belief. Others prefer to remain aloof of such involvement.

Each of us develops within our own pliable eggshell. The period of incubation varies for each individual. In one way or another all contribute to the progress of man.

We are constantly distilling perceptions so they will mesh with our pattern of life. These distillations are feedback from our experiences. Decisions we make are personal commitments. The most uninvolved of us has made a choice. Non-commitment commits even the most uncommitted. All of us derive our views from exposure, interaction and integration of others' thoughts. By tempering experience with knowledge, each person arrives at his destiny.

Before knowledge can temper our thoughts, it must be gained through course work. This challenge often leaves participants lonely, worn out and dejected. The late-night cramming for tests in the solitude of your room, nocturnal bull sessions sparked by rigorous study and the peace of a quiet nap reflect education's aggravation and enchantment.

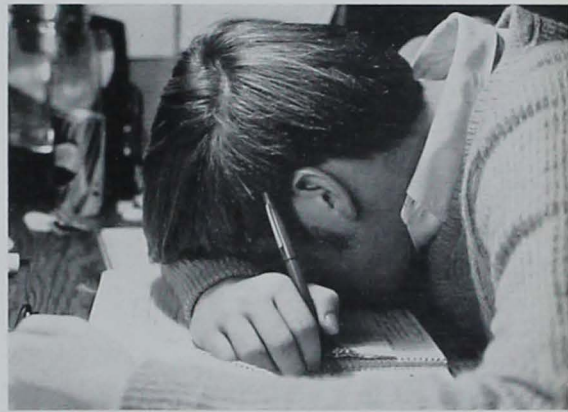

Unlikely as it may seem, and as hard as we try to resist it—most of us came to Iowa State for an education. Beneath the disguises we model for others—and sometimes ourselves—we seek self-improvement. This 'ulterior' motive makes us competitors in the educational process.

Four years is a short time; a long time; no time. The moments mount back to back marking the traces of our education. Some moments loom larger in our memories than others. These remembrances are the surviving sediments of our "college education."

For some this education is heady wine. Its intoxication may lead them to seek further refreshment from the fountain of knowledge. Others are more befuddled than bedazzled by their exposures and their thirst dwindles.

Regardless, all have benefited from its influence. In the recesses of our minds remain the pleasant moments. These flashbacks are the end product of our education. Pleasurable incidents overlap with pride in technical knowledge gained through the rigors of competition at Iowa State.

The ultimate benefit of our Iowa State odyssey is getting closer to ourselves. Self-knowledge spurred by technical competence may lead to new breakthroughs in society. Self-realization may evolve into self-commitment. Man's commitment to himself must precede his commitment to anything external. Perhaps this is the purpose of all education . . .

The thought process required for education is not easily mastered. Neither is knowledge necessarily pursuant to formal education. Each of us begins prying open the door to enlightenment when we realize learning in the classroom at best forms only a foundation for increased awareness.

Arduous years of study at Iowa State may become meaningless if the techniques and capabilities amassed are not practically integrated into our lives. Hours of study; days of reflection; all combine to produce individual uniqueness. The most Iowa State can do for us is present new vistas upon which to derive self-understanding. From this understanding, perhaps we can more readily relate to the world.

Each person has hopes and expectations; our education may reinforce those dreams or prompt a reassessment of capabilities. Either way, it gives us realistic footing upon which we can base our aspirations.

health service helps students despite constant complaint

Amidst essence of alcohol and clattering bedpans the student health service continues as the panacea for ailing ISU students. Under Dr. Gail M. Proffitt's directorship the health service ministers to students afflicted with illnesses ranging from hangnails to appendicitis. The staff is on call 24 hours daily to insure students prompt, exacting medical aid.

A flashlight operation performed during a fall quarter power failure made Daily headlines and sparked a state investigation of health service facilities. The student press and state investigators were concerned by an apparent lack of auxiliary power. The health service was ultimately exonerated and the flashlight operation ruled legal.

This unique incident made front page headlines, but the routine, unfaltering services provided by Dr. Proffitt and her staff deserve similar notoriety. Despite occasional furor over practices at the university's hospital, the health benefits students realize from these services far outweigh complaints.

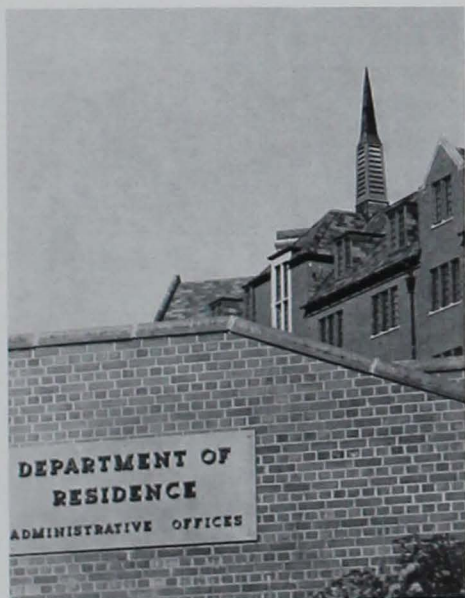

frederiksen directs residences expansion

Dr. Charles Frederiksen as Director of Residences has the unenviable task of organizing all levels of residence hall administration and services. From the food prepared in residence kitchens to the selection of head residents, he must approve every move.

This was a year of rapid expansion and renovation within the residence system. Coeducational dormitories became a reality at Iowa State as women inhabited Friley and men gave Roberts that lived-in look. The year also witnessed the opening of the second womens towers, Willow Hall.

While keeping track of room numbers and foodlines boggles students' minds, Dr. Frederiksen and his staff must coordinate all facets of residence organization. Each utensil must be accounted for, each person in the operation carefully selected.

New dormitories, progressive coed housing and renovation of older residence buildings are signposts of the modernity of Iowa State's residence system.

dean lebaron guides future home economists

Despite heavy responsibilities as head of the Home Economics College, Dean Helen LeBaron actively participates in the Ames community as a member of the city council.

In the last year the college of home economics continued its distinguished educational service for teachers. In addition, the college has been developing its family environment department and concentrating on its extension service horizons. Family environment has been the object of much concern in recent history. The Home Economics College is responding to the demand by providing excellent educational background and practical training in this area through its newly established research institute.

This response to challenge and demand within the home economics college is reflective of its director, Dean LeBaron. Her vitality and organizational ability aid her in making the college a smooth functioning organism. It's these characteristics which are embodied also in the students who receive their background in Iowa State's "kitchen college"; characteristics which have made it nationally renowned.

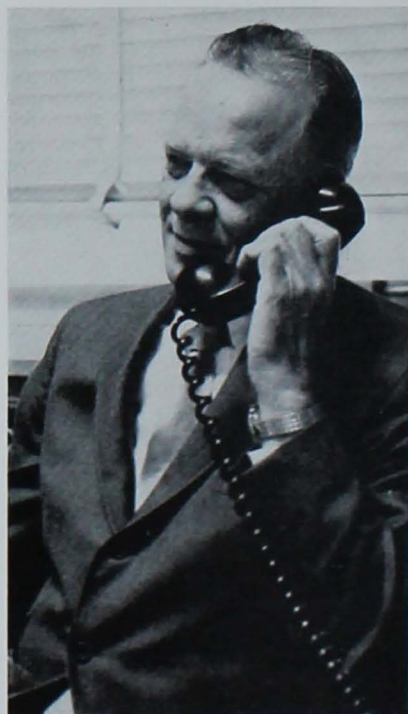

dean andre heads largest ag college

Dean Floyd Andre heads the largest College of Agriculture in the United States. This is a demanding job requiring hours of attention and planning.

The Ag college is far from being the stereotype "farmer" school. The agriculture curricula includes an option of 20 majors for undergraduates and many additional fields for graduate research study. Its research program ranks among the highest in the nation for government funding.

The international reputation of the college attracts many exchange and special students to the university. From poultry science to urban planning, the college provides educational opportunities of great value.

Despite its size and rapid, continuing expansion, the college faculty and administrators devote themselves to assuring each ag major with an education suited to his needs and desires.

dean town steps down, leaves big shoes unfilled

Ending an illustrious career at Iowa State, Dean George R. Town will retire June 30. Dean Town came to the University in 1949 as associate director of the engineering experiment station and professor of electrical engineering.

He began his deanship in 1959. As director of one of the best and largest engineering schools in the nation, Dean Town also serves as head of the experiment station and extension service of the engineering college. He is also a registered engineer in Iowa, New York and the District of Columbia.

When not busy coordinating his college's departments Dean Town also contributed his skill to electrical communications research and development. He served as executive director of the Television Allocations Study Organization in 1957-58. In recognition of his work, Dean Town received the engineering award of the National Association of Broadcasters in 1963.

His numerous other involvements have made his leadership of the engineering college a productive and progressive term. His are truly big shoes left to fill.

new education college headed by lagomarcino

Dr. Virgil Lagomarcino has the task of leading the university's newest college, the Education College. This college was developed as a result of Pres. Park's desire to make Iowa State a truly broad-based, diverse university.

It is the first major addition to the academic structure in 50 years. The department of elementary education was transferred from the Home Economics College to the Education College. This change means that the college must work closely with the other five colleges and numerous departments in coordinating and placing student teachers.

This neophyte college allows Iowa State to offer a more complete liberal arts background. While the college may be new, Dean Lagomarcino's experience has enabled him to make the initiation of its services smooth and most beneficial to the University.

sciences & humanities expand courses, majors

Dean Chalmer Roy leads the functionings of the ever-moving and expanding Sciences and Humanities College. His guiding force has made this one of the most highly respected technological colleges in the Midwest. Now, he is directing the implementation of more humanities degree majors into the college.

Within the college, separations of previous departments have lead to newly created departments. Iowa State now boasts individual departments of history, political science, philosophy, English, speech, economics, and sociology and anthropology. New undergraduate degree programs include music, philosophy and computer science.

Dean Roy is maintaining the excellence in technological education while striving to integrate more liberal arts majors into the college. This is in keeping with Pres. Parks' definition of new humanism as a blend of science and humanism, not merely a liberal arts accent. He said, "Indeed humanism—real and effective concern for the welfare of mankind only became possible as science made material gains a reality." Dean Roy is doing a progressive, enviable job of melding the two into a whole.

gowan directs admissions, records

The man dialing the phone has your number. He is Arthur Gowan, Iowa State's first dean of admissions and records. His appointment in 1965 heralded the beginning of a revitalized student records facility.

Under his supervision the admissions and records department has computerized much of its work. The latest look in student registration forms is a result of the departments' labors. By using student forms and computerizing the information the admissions and records staff can quickly and accurately provide prospective employers with transcript and other information.

Dr. Gowan's hand also separates the wheat from the chaff among applicants to Iowa State. Each of the university's 20,000 students had to measure up to standards set by Dr. Gowan's office before they were admitted. It is easy to see that the dean of admissions and records truly does have your number.

kitchell operates oldest vet college

Heading the research and practical education facilities of Iowa State's Veterinary Medicine College is Dr. Ralph Kitchell. Directing the education of some 300 potential doctors of veterinary medicine is quite a responsibility. Dean Kitchell and his faculty meet that challenge daily.

Although the oldest veterinary college in the nation, it is one of the most progressive educationally. Research in pathology and treatment of illnesses leads to breakthroughs in animal care almost daily. As part of their training veterinary students serve a summer internship with a licensed veterinarian before graduation. This practical training complements hours spent in classrooms and laboratories.

The college was dealt a blow by the Iowa legislature when it cut capital improvement funds for Regents institutions from $44 million to $2 million. Part of the original fund request was earmarked for use in constructing a new veterinary complex adjacent the Iowa State Center. This delay, however, will allow Dean Kitchell and his faculty to make further detailed plans for the new veterinary center.

While maintaining and enhancing the college's nationwide reputation, Dean Kitchell's guidance and planning promise to expand the services it offers.

sandeen now coordinates dean of students office

It has been a year of change for the dean of students office. Following the resignation of Eugene Robinson, and a subsequent student demonstration on his behalf, there remained the task of selecting a man to fill the dean of students chair.

This man is Art Sandeen, former assistant dean of students. He brings to the office a rapport with students, administrative ability and knowledge of students' desire to express themselves and be understood. His staff members have kept these principles foremost in their minds when taking care of business at the office.

Another change in personnel within the office has been Ron Hill's recruitment as adviser to fraternities and sororities. He has been working actively to improve the IFC and Panhel organizations. This winter IFC won the Iron Man Award which recognizes Iowa State's IFC as the top in the nation.

Yet another new face in the office is the first woman assistant dean of students, Miss Marita Jones. She has been working with all students who come into the office, but it is believed that her presence will induce more female students with troubles to contact the dean of students office.

Familiar faces in the office are assistant deans: Tom Goodale, Dr. William Bell, Lynn Jennison and Gary Euskine.

All of these persons spend hours conferring with students about their concerns and attempting to help solve them. The staff realizes that its most valuable and relevant service can be provided by rapping about student problems with students to resolve differences. This is a breakthrough from several years ago when the dean of students office was the embodiment of in loco parentis.

In fact, Dr. Sandeen and his staff have been instrumental in aiding students efforts to discontinue women's hours for all but first quarter freshmen.

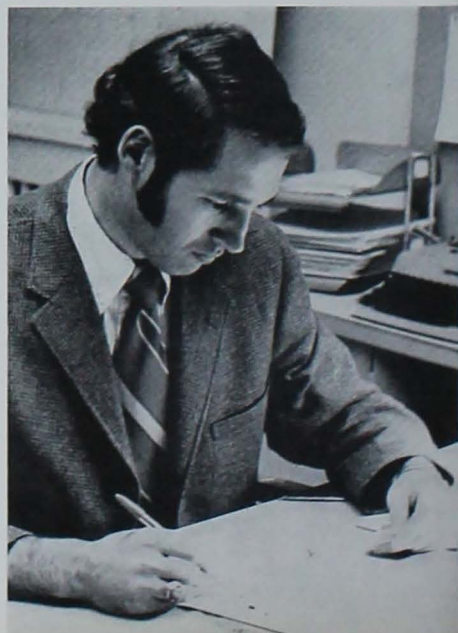

Through efforts of these dedicated staff members, the dean of students office has truly become the students'.

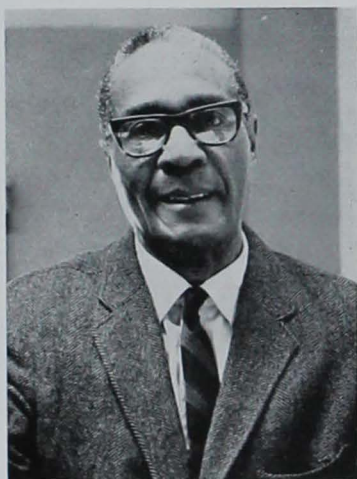

In addition to spending hours counseling students, as Gene Clubine is doing here at the Foreign Student Counseling Service; each member of the dean of students staff devotes endless hours of time to compiling, filing, and cross-filing information about students and their problems. Gary Erskine and Lynn Jennison spend much time corresponding with other persons across campus in their roles as advisers to campus student groups.

Tom Goodale has his time so preoccupied with student concerns and advisory roles that he rarely has time to sit down. One can usually find him conferring with other staff members or students. Occasionally he uses his typewriter to catch up on paperwork.

Each of these persons give tireless service to their jobs—not merely for the monetary benefits, but obviously because they enjoy working and aiding students.

christensen guides academics

As director of academic affairs, Vice President George Christensen insures the maintainance of Iowa State's high caliber of education. His job places him as coordinator of all prospective course offerings for students. Before a new course is introduced to students the academic affairs office completely examines the direction, purpose and benefits it will supply.

Aided by a capable staff and through the use of numerous advisory committees, Dr. Christensen decides which courses are acceptable and beneficial to students' educational process. By careful scrutiny the academic education of Iowa State students is assured by Dr. Christensen's efforts.

moore hold's university's purse strings

Acting as watchdog over the University's operating budget of $83.3 million Vice President for Business and Finance Wayne Moore must account for every nickel spent. His is the task of distributing those operating funds, used to maintain service now provided by the department, to each department in the University.

Moore is normally preoccupied with reviewing requests submitted by department heads. Once he has made his decisions for the entire University, he must compile a budget request for the Board of Regents approval. After due consideration the Regents present the request to the State legislature.

Following cuts in funding made by legislators, Vice President Moore distributes the funds left with which to work. He attempts to see that each department is accounted as much money as possible. Making ends meet in the face of drastic cuts like those made by this legislature is a difficult assignment. This is exactly what is expected—and done by the business and finance office. Vice President Moore's ability to administer and distribute funds is a vital cog in the administrative gearbox.

hamilton spurs development, heads information service

Watching the man scurry around his office making instantaneous decisions and editing material is an education in itself. He answers the phone, chats cordially, slips into his business voice and hangs up . . . Greets a Bomb editor in search of pictures . . . instructs his secretary about a letter . . . meets with his assistant, edits copy . . . makes a call . . . answers his ringing phone . . . meets with the alumni association secretary and makes yet another call.

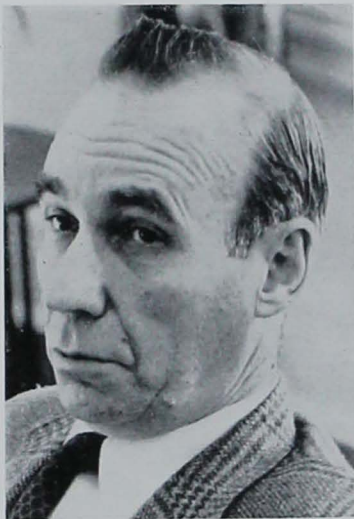

All this happens within a brief, 15-minute period. The man is Carl Hamilton, vice president for information and development. He is the university's image-maker and mouthpiece to hundreds of Iowa State's alumni and friends.

If he has never met them in person, his hand has edited or approved that story they read in the Iowa State Alumnus or News of Iowa State. They may have heard him on WOI AM-FM or seen a university sponsored production on WOI-TV. As director of information, Hamilton creates and enhances the University's image when possible. He must be able to answer letters and questions from many concerned individuals distressed by campus occurrences.

While this job would be enough for most men, Vice President Hamilton also is in charge of university development. This entails finding financial support from alumni and friends of the university for projects to advance Iowa State. Currently his big project is recruiting contributions for the Iowa State Center. In this role he often takes trips to all sectors of the nation to meet Cyclone boosters.

This truly busy administrator is a product of Iowa State's educational offerings and is indeed a credit to the institution he serves.

layton leads efforts to aid student interest

Dr. Wilbur Layton is the university's first vice president for student affairs. Appointed in 1965 by Pres. Parks, Dr. Layton coordinates efforts of the dean of students office and the student counseling service. He is also responsible for developing and defining administration posture on various student concerns.

His office also supervises the administration of student financial aid which totalled nearly $6 million. Scholarship moneys also are directed to individuals through Dr. Layton's approval.

Dr. Layton along with Dr. Edwin Hutchins, his assistant, originated the pilot project last year. This pioneer program provided an opportunity for higher education to youths with educationally limited backgrounds. The project enrolled 17 black students in the university.

While about half of those students left the university for various reasons, they still benefited from their contact here. From that standpoint the program was successful. Data on other aspects of the project is yet incomplete.

The Council on Student Affairs, originated by Dr. Layton, continues to provide a forum for discussion of matters relating to student life. This council is comprised of students, faculty and administration members interested in student opinion and attitudes being reflected in policies.

Dr. Layton's post, similar to those of other administrators, is designed to implement the ideal of "new humanism" referred to by Pres. Parks. The office of student affairs is the practical arm of this ideal.

dean page resigns posts to head national group

Dean J. B. Page resigned both his administrative posts at Iowa State to head the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States. For the past nine years Page has served as dean of the graduate college and vice president for research. His resignation is effective June 30, 1970.

Page's directorship of the graduate and research programs has resulted in great program improvement and national distinction for Iowa State. Since he became dean of the graduate college, enrollment has increased from 1,500 to 3,100. Research funds for the university from federal grants, private foundations and other sources have greatly increased. The annual research budget for the university is about $30 million and ranks it fifth of 174 major universities for total funds available for physical and agricultural sciences. Iowa State currently ranks 21st in the nation in terms of total federal funds available for research and development.

Dean Page's hard work has enriched Iowa State and his efforts have been rewarded by his selection as president of the Council of Graduate Schools of the United States. Iowa State's administrative loss is the nation's gain.

parks happy with humanisms implementation in university

W. Robert Parks' influence on Iowa State is evident every where you look. His five years as president of the university have been marked by growth and change in several areas—enrollment, facilities, academics, administration and service. These facts speak well of the man's administrative abilities, but what of the man himself? Relatively few students ever meet him; even fewer would recognize him on the street.

In addition to being an able administrator, Pres. Parks is a very warm, friendly person. When his schedule permits he enjoys reading in the quiet of his den or walking the family dog. On summer nights echoes of a dribbling basketball betrays a presidential practice session. Dr. Parks confides basketball is his favorite sport. His regular attendance at home games attests that fact.

He also has definite ideas about the university's direction. He lists four priorities for Iowa State. He envisions the university as a truly broad-based institution with its foundation and development tempered by excellence and service. His fourth goal is "new humanism."

Pres. Parks has been pleased with the implementation and success in all these areas. Iowa State now has a full and complete offering in the standard liberal arts subjects in addition to its long-established reputation in sciences and technology.

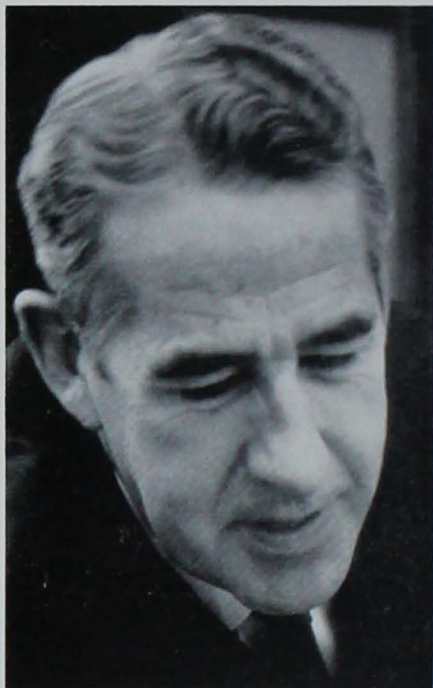

He said of excellence, "This is something which is never fully achieved. Excellence comes in the striving for it. It is a process of becoming, rather than being." He concluded, "It is only in the daily striving for excellence that we gain that muscle tone, that fiber, that intellectual zeal which constitutes excellence."

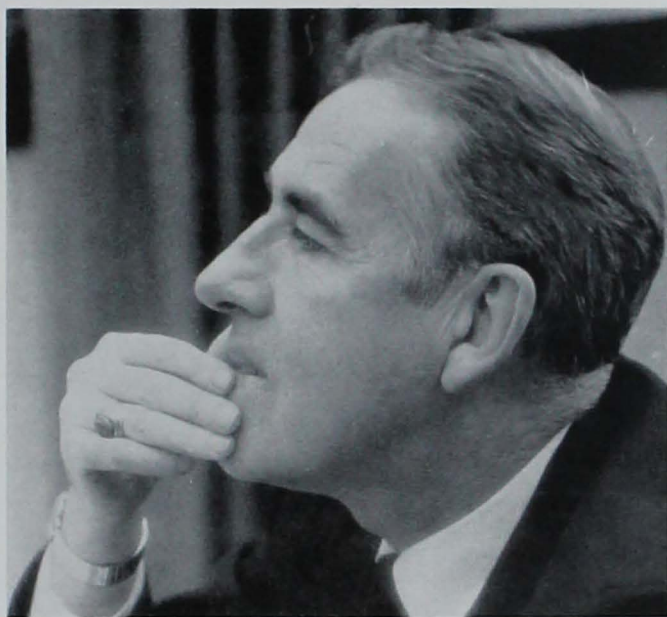

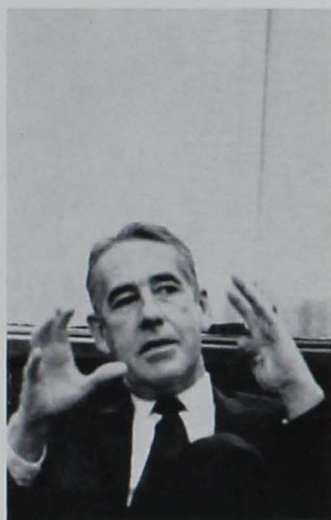

The service aspect of the University has been enhanced by reorganization of the extension service under a single administration. This has increased the service Iowa State offers Iowans.

Since he took office "new humanism" has been the catch-phrase of his administration. Few people outside the administration understand the term as Dr. Parks intends it. He explained, "I mean the blending of the sciences and humanism. I am talking about an orientation of this university's work in which every discipline attempts to see itself against the broad social context of the human and the humane."

Pres. Parks doesn't regard this as a new direction but a new emphasis and a hope for a change in atmosphere. He doesn't view "new humanism" as strictly a liberal arts concept. He said, "Rather, it is a blending of science and humanism in which science has as large a part as humanistic studies." He concluded, "Indeed humanism, real and effective concern for the welfare of mankind, became possible only as science made material gains a reality."

Iowa State and its students are fortunate to have this very real and human man in the driver's seat.

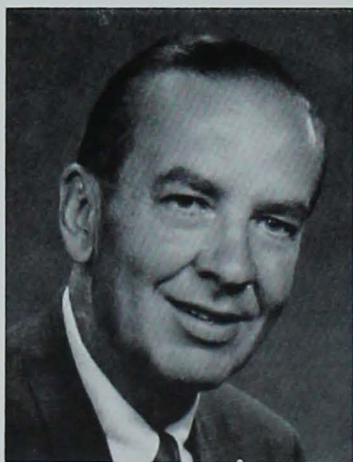

regents direct isu's future

Ray V. Bailey is a Democrat, from Clarion. He resigned his seat in the Iowa House of Representatives to accept the appointment to the Board of Regents. He had been serving his second term in the Iowa House. He received his B.A. degree, cum laude, in 1935, and the Juris Doctor, cum laude, in 1937, from the University of Iowa. A lawyer and patent attorney, he was an investigator for the U.S. Civil Service Commission and a patent advisor to the War Department during World War II. His term expires in 1975.

Casey Loss is a Democrat from Algona. He is a native of Algona and attended Coe College, Cedar Rapids. He now farms and is a former Sheriff of Kossuth County and a Representative in the Iowa House for nine terms during which time he served 12 years as a member of the state budget and financial control committee. In 1965, the year he was appointed to the Board of Regents, he was assistant majority floor leader, and chairman of the appropriations committee. His term expires in 1971.

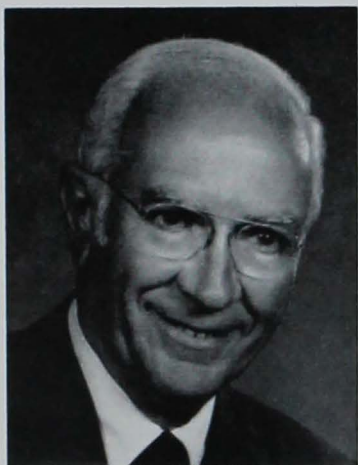

Thomas A. Loudon is a Democrat from Keokuk. A native of Fairfield, he earned the B.S. (1940) and J. D. (1942) degrees from the University of Iowa. Loudon practiced law in Fairfield for nine years following World War II, then became associated with industrial enterprises. He has served as Fairfield city attorney and as a city councilman. His term ends in 1971.

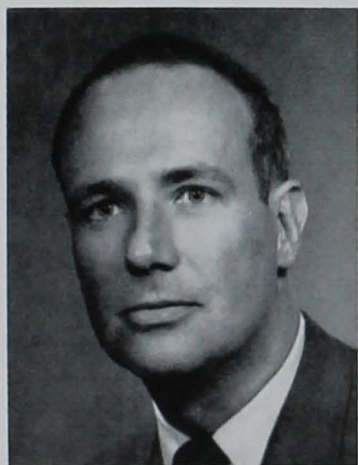

Ned E. Perrin is a Republican from Mapleton. He is a native of Mapleton and a 1933 agricultural engineering graduate of Iowa State University. Perrin served with the U.S. Departments of the Interior and Agriculture for five years. He served three years as a naval officer during World War II and now owns and operates farms in Monona County and is an Iowa Master Farmer. His term expires in 1973.

William B. Quarton is a Republican from Cedar Rapids. Another Algona native, he attended the University of Iowa and George Washington University. As broadcasting executive, he has been active in professional organizations, serving in 1960 as chairman of the advisory board of CBS-TV affiliates and from 1962-64 as national chairman of the National Association of Broadcasters Boards. His term ends in 1971.

Stanley F. Redeker is a Republican from Boone. Mr. Redeker is the president of the Board of Regents and was first appointed to the Board in 1961. A native of Lincoln, Nebraska, his family moved to Boone when he was young. He attended the University of Notre Dame and received the B.A. degree in economics from Stanford University in 1949. He served two years in the Navy during World War II and two years in the Army during the Korean War. He currently owns and operates a home furnishings retail store in Boone. His term expires in 1973.

Donald H. Shaw is a Republican from Davenport. Mr. Shaw is a graduate of the Harvard Law School and is legal counsel for a utility company. A native of Oelwein, Shaw and his wife have three children. Mrs. Shaw, a graduate of the University of Iowa Law School and a practicing attorney, is serving her first term as a member of the Iowa House of Representatives. His term expires in 1975.

Mrs. H. Rand Petersen is a Republican from Harlan. Mrs. Petersen is a housewife and the mother of four children. Her husband is a banker. Her term expires in 1975.

Ralph H. Wallace is a Republican from Mason City. He is a native of Williamsburg and a 1946 civil engineering graduate of Iowa State University. He served in the Army during World War II and is now a partner in a consulting engineering firm. Wallace is the former chairman of the Iowa State Board of Engineering Examiners. His term expires in 1973.

governor ray cripples funding

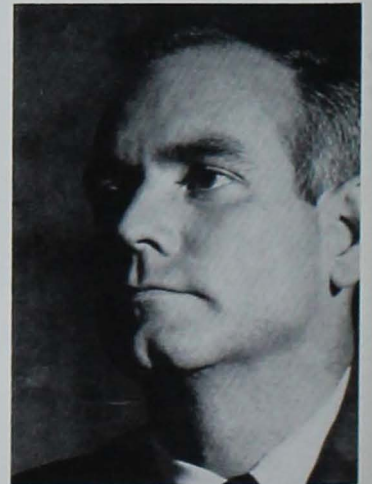

During his 1968 campaign for the governorship, Robert Ray suffered a broken leg crippling his campaign for several days. There are persons in Iowa who believe he has likewise crippled state government since his election.

Governor Robert D. Ray endeared himself to students on the campuses of the three state universities by slicing capital expenditures from the budgets of the regents' institutions. The ultimate result was a decision by the Board of Regents to hike tuition.

Since curtailing state funding to regents' institutions, the governor has made strides in the area of voter and abortion law reform. He has opted for lowering the voting age to 18 while relaxing stipulations necessary for getting a legal abortion.

So far the Ray regime has demonstrated that its heart is in the right place, even if its money isn't.

Agriculture Council serves as a communications link between the agriculture students in their respective departmental clubs and the ag college administration.

Agriculture Week is held each fall on the Iowa State campus. Ag Week activities include the Industrial Firm Interview Displays, High School Career Days, Ag Honor's Banquet, and a Hall of Fame that recognizes outstanding agriculture leaders in Iowa.

Ag Council also sponsors the Winter Cotillion, an all-university, semiformal dance during winter quarter. A Departmental Club Sports Tournament, Activities Seminar, a Senior Seminar, and Freshmen Reception round out the Council's activities.

The Iowa State College of Agriculture is the largest in the nation with 2,900 students. Its departmental clubs include: Ag Business, Ag Education, American Society of Agriculture Engineers, Agricultural Journalism, Agronomy, Block and Bridle, Food Technology, Dairy Science, Farm Operations, Forestry, Fish and Wildlife Biology, Horticulture, Poultry Science, Student Society of Landscape Architects, and Agricultural Technical Institute.

As a representative of the Agriculture student body, Ag Council seeks to provide an environment that will benefit the student.

agronomy club

ag education club

The Agriculture Education Club works to serve future vocational agriculture teachers at ISU through development of personality, leadership, professional interests, and understanding of the teaching profession problems.

Monthly meetings have had programs ranging from explanations of the IVTA and its duties by the professionals to guitar and folk singing by the amateurs.

Activities begin fall quarter with a get acquainted picnic, and are highlighted by a quarter break trip to an agriculturally related site of interest and a senior trip to the Kansas City Royal Livestock Show and National FFA Convention. Along with participating in Ag Week festivities, the Ag Ed Club also runs a Veishea concession stand, holds an Ag Ed Club banquet, and has displays both at Veishea and at the State FFA Convention.

Alpha Zeta is a professional service fraternity of the Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine colleges. Its purpose is to honor outstanding students in these two colleges, and to promote and serve the agriculture profession. Members are selected from those who are in the upper 2/5 of their class and who possess high standards of scholarship, leadership, and character.

Aside from participating in the events of the Ag Fall Festival and pulling the "Knights" in the murky depths of Lake LaVerne during their tug of war, the "Aggies" also participated in more sedate activities. Alpha Zeta was responsible for securing outstanding men in the field of Agriculture to speak on campus.

dairy science club

Named outstanding club in the College of Agriculture this year, the Dairy Science Club is active internally and university-wide. It sponsors the Milk Maid contest during the Ag Fall Festival, and also holds judging teams. One of their larger money-making projects consists of clipping cows for dairymen in the state. Other activities include an annual Dairy Science banquet, a Veishea Open House display, and steakfries and hayrides held during the year.

To encourage students to take a more active interest in poultry science, the Poultry Science Club tries to bring about a closer relationship among the students and promotion of enterprises for the faculty. The club also cooperates with other organizations in the promotion of enterprises for the advancement of agriculture or for the University.

At meetings, members discuss topics pertinent to their field.

Organized in 1900, the Horticulture Club was the first departmental club to be formed in the College of Agriculture.

This year members participated in several week-end field trips to Nebraska and Minnesota, and spent spring quarter break on a five-day field trip to Oklahoma. The club also constructed displays and presented programs at the Iowa Florist and Nurseryman's Conventions.

The Club annually awards the E. S. Haber Scholarship, the Apple "I" pin, and the Bronze "I" Award.

airforce rotc

The 250th Cadet Group of ISU helps prepare its cadets for their future, whether as an Air Force officer or in their chosen profession. The emphasis of developing the cadet is on the development of communicative skills and the ability for him to enhance group interaction. These skills are accomplished through Group Staff activities. By preparing and presenting a class briefing, a cadet learns to research a topic and to present it in a relaxed, capable manner. By utilizing class discussions, the cadet obtains experience in group interaction toward a set goal. Positions on the Cadet Group Staff give a cadet practical experience in leadership and management, two topics which are stressed in the senior year of classroom study.

Another segment of the Air Force ROTC program is the Flight Instruction Program for pilot qualified cadets. These cadets receive ground school training and 36½ hours of actual flying time. The flying is done from the Ames Airport and upon completion of the program, the cadet may earn his private pilot's license.

This is Air Force ROTC, to aid the cadet in becoming a skilled leader and manager.

army officers education program

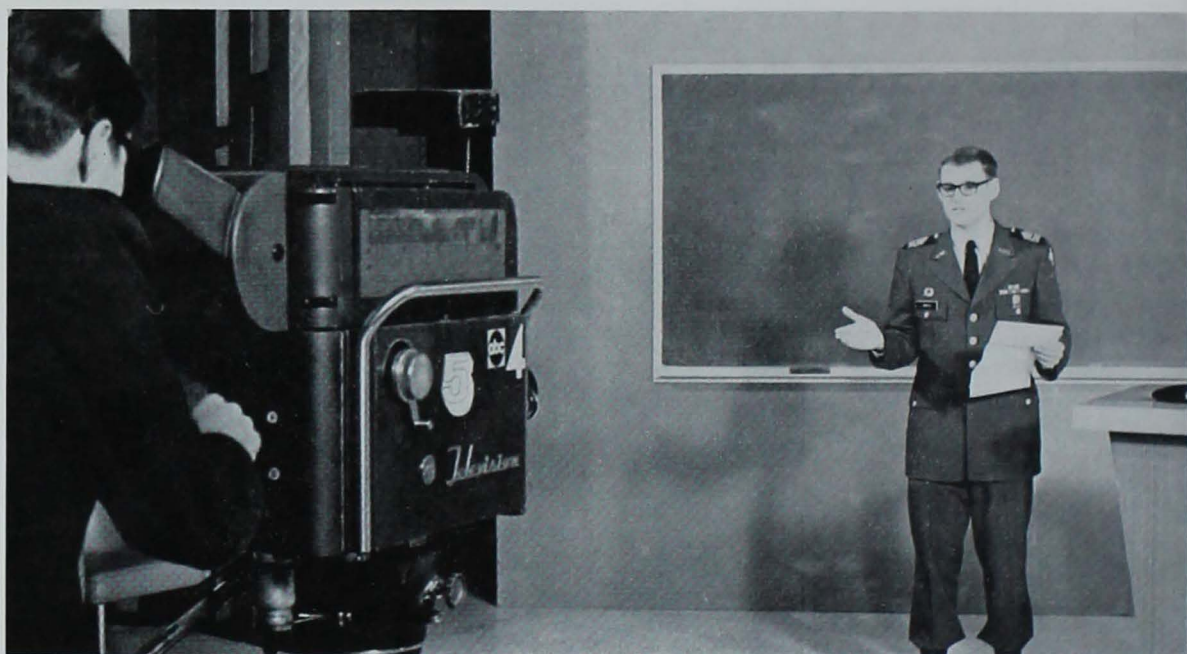

Nineteen Sixty-Nine marked the 150th year of Army education on the American college campus and the 100th year at Iowa State.

ISU cadets work hard and meet high standards to earn the gold bars of a second lieutenant, but they have time and opportunity for social and extracurricular activities.

A social highlight of the year is the Military Ball, which is sponsored by the Scabbard and Blade Tri-Service Honorary organization. One of the newer organizations, and certainly the most attractive, is the Dress Blues, the girls' service organization cited for outstanding service to the University in the "Service I" award contest.

The purpose of the NROTC is to instruct future Naval officers in naval education. The Corps does not confine its work to bookwork alone. During Fall and Spring, lab sessions concern drill. Drill promotes leadership and gives the midshipmen a feeling of pride and accomplishment. Each year during the summer, midshipmen go on at-sea training cruises. Cruises range from Viet Nam to Mediterranean and the ships range from polaris submarines to destroyers and aircraft carriers.

The unit has a strong intramural program of football and basketball. Some other activities include Order of the Sextant, Drill Team, and Rifle and Pistol Teams. Anchor and Chain Society, the battalion's social organization, is in charge of social events and other midshipmen activities such as informative lectures on the naval service by NROTC instructors, caroling and handling the Navy part of the Military Ball.

The unit publication "The Drift" comes out monthly. It includes articles by C.O. on current affairs of interest to midshipmen, battalion news, and military and campus affairs of interest. The Wardroom is a gathering place for midshipmen for studying, bull sessions, playing acey-ducey, or just drinking coffee.

g s b

Under the leadership of Dave Henry and Tom Fortson, the Government of the Student Body delved into housing affairs, establishing a student housing service and trying to change the antiquated state housing codes. Women's hours were changed to include all but first quarter freshmen in the no-hours policy.

The course-instructor evaluation program was expanded, and the deadline for changing a course to pass-fail was lengthened to two weeks into the quarter.

Being the first administration under which there was a New Student Week, they also helped set up the first Black Culture Week and the Black Culture Center.

homecoming c c

Aside from a football victory over Kansas, Homecoming '69 was highlighted by the Brasil '66 concerts, a bonfire pep rally, and, during the building of the Homecoming Monument, a gas main scare. Partially responsible for the success of the weekend were the Homecoming Central Committee and subcommittee members. The HCC members who spent much time on the planning and scheduling of events, were a unique group in that four of them were originally selected as freshmen.

isu players

Iowa State Players, selected on the basis of points earned through work on productions, present three plays each year. This year, Barefoot in the Park, Wait Until Dark, and A Thousand Clowns provided the campus with excellent entertainment while giving members of the Players more experience in production.

During Veishea, members of the mime troupe added a special zest to the festivities by staging extemporaneous performances across campus.

From his black throne located in the Daily office, editor Jack Brimyer oversees the journalistic happening which five days a week produces another edition of the Iowa State Daily. Light filtering through the stained glass-effect windows creates a colored fantasy out of the seeming mass confusion of the office.

Guarded by avant garde posters, maps, schedule boards, and peace posters which cover the walls, staff members actively discuss the news of the day or peck at typewriters. Bound journals change hands. Stacks of papers are transferred from one pile to another. Phones ring amid the continual buzz of talking and typing. Half-filled pop bottles and an old coffee pot—evidence the work of the night before. From behind the glass cage in the corner, the AP teletyper produces news with a non-stopping beat which creates an underlying rhythm for the whole office.

In the Bomb office, a horse-shoe-shaped table "borrowed" from the Daily office dominates the scene. Sitting around the table, workers armed with pens and index books attack the huge piles of white and yellow sheets lying in seeming disorder on the table. For lack of more space, the seniors editor spreads her work out on the floor, trying to collate the materials for each page layout. In their glass-enclosed office, partially shielded by the yearbook master layout, the editor and managing editor work on sections of the book and speeches to the publication board.

Hurt by a late spring, the Cyclones had to open their Big Eight season against Colorado without an outdoor practice. They won two of their games in that series and went on to post a 9-16 overall season.

One of the big guns for the ISU team last season was Larry Corrigan, a freshman. He hit .344 and five home runs to lead the team in both departments. Tom Goodman turned in another good season hitting .333 along with some fine defensive work.

Coaches Timm and Rierson will lose eleven players due to graduation including dependable pitchers Moore, Walker and Markert. There is no doubt that these seniors will be missed, but the 1970 outlook is promising due to some young talent; unproven, but with the desire to win.

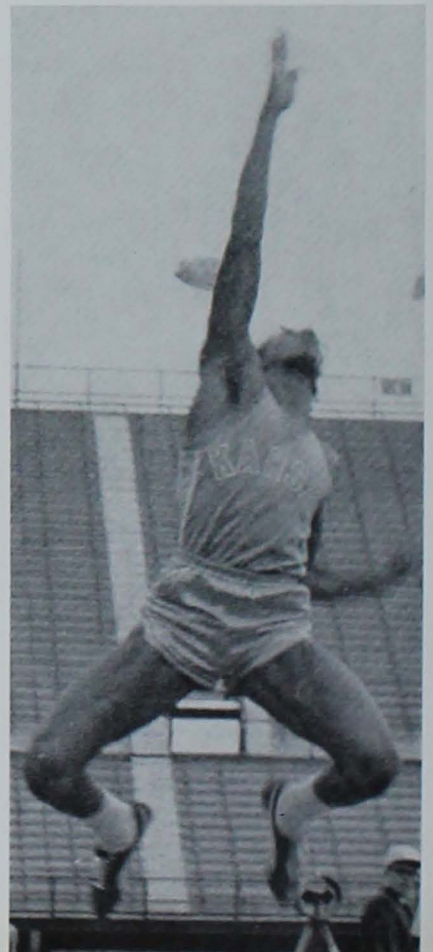

thinclads win dual meets

Iowa State's track team had its first undefeated dual meet season in recent years in 1969. The Cyclones scored wins over the Air Force Academy 73-72, Northern Illinois 95-50, and UNI 76.5-68.5. In an indoor triangular meet, Iowa State triumphed over Drake and Wichita State. Since Drake had beaten Iowa, the Cyclones had a legitimate claim as the best track team in the state.

Ken Brauman established a school record with his 50' 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ " triple jump at the Air Force Academy. Rex Harvey also established a school standard with a 15' 9" pole vault effort.

Despite an outstanding year, Iowa State finished last in both the Big Eight Conference indoor and outdoor championship meets. Indoor champ Kansas won the NCAA indoor title and narrowly missed taking the NCAA outdoor title.

Iowa State hosted the Big Eight Outdoor Championships in May. Although the Cyclones could not improve their position from the indoor meet, the event functioned smoothly. In fact, portions of the meet appeared on ABC's Wide World of Sports television program.

Coach Bob Lawson ended his seven-year tenure at Iowa State, taking a similar position at a University of Wisconsin regional campus. Jerry Barland was named to succeed Lawson.

netmen win despite woes

First-year coach Dave Fleming inherited his share of problems, but still managed to enjoy the taste of victory throughout most of the season. Hampered by lack of funds, and bad weather, ISU seemed content with an opening draw to Parsons.

After dropping one to Iowa, the Cyclones chalked up eight straight victories and entered the conference meet with a 9-4-1 dual meet record.

Since team captain Rick Schultz was the only departing senior, Coach Fleming is very optimistic toward the upcoming season.

golfers third in big eight

ISU golfers charged over the hills and around the trees of Veenker Golf Course on their way to a 15-2-1 dual meet record and a third place finish in the Big Eight.

Success wasn't easy, however, for Coach Dale Anderson and his linksters. Star senior and co-captain Jim Lockwood was lost late in the season due to a broken hand. Teammate John Benda came through with a fifth place finish and led the Cyclones to their conference finish. John advanced to the NCAA which marked the first time since 1953 that Iowa State had a golfer in that meet.

IMs prevail over weather

Weather and whether were the words to describe spring intramurals as the long winter and wet spring played havoc with the IM softball program. The men's program experienced a 15 per cent growth that put participation over the 50 per cent mark for the first time since the 1940's. Nearly 6,300 men took part in the '68-'69 programs.

In what was the closest race in history, Sigma Alpha Epsilon defended its all-fraternity championship by beating Tau Kappa Epsilon by less than 100 points. Phi Delta Theta was third.

The residence competition was dominated by Fairchild and Griffith Houses as both teams finished with strong spring quarters to take the MRA and TRA trophies.

soccer club gets its kicks

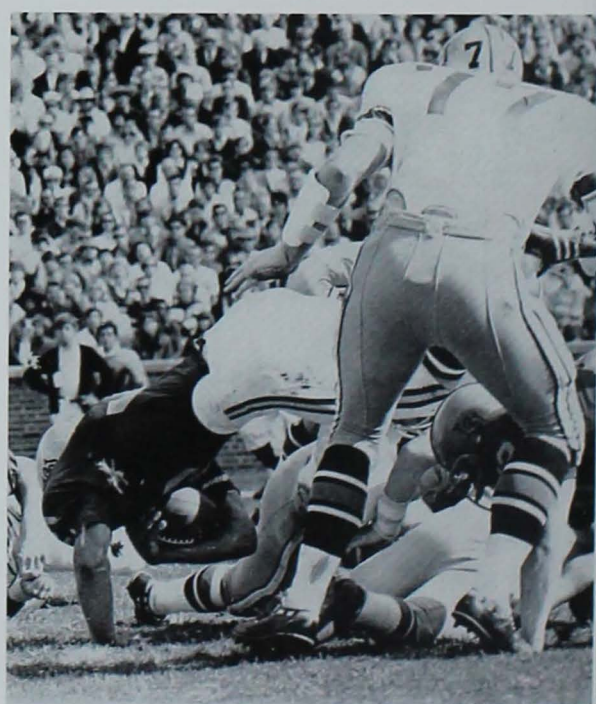

The 1969 season was an especially fruitful season for the Iowa State Soccer Club. In its first year of existence under the direction of Coach Phillip Cox and president Mokhtee Ahmad, the club's "B" team build up an impressive win-loss record and the "A" team captured the Upper Mississippi Soccer Alliance championship, bringing home a well-deserved trophy.

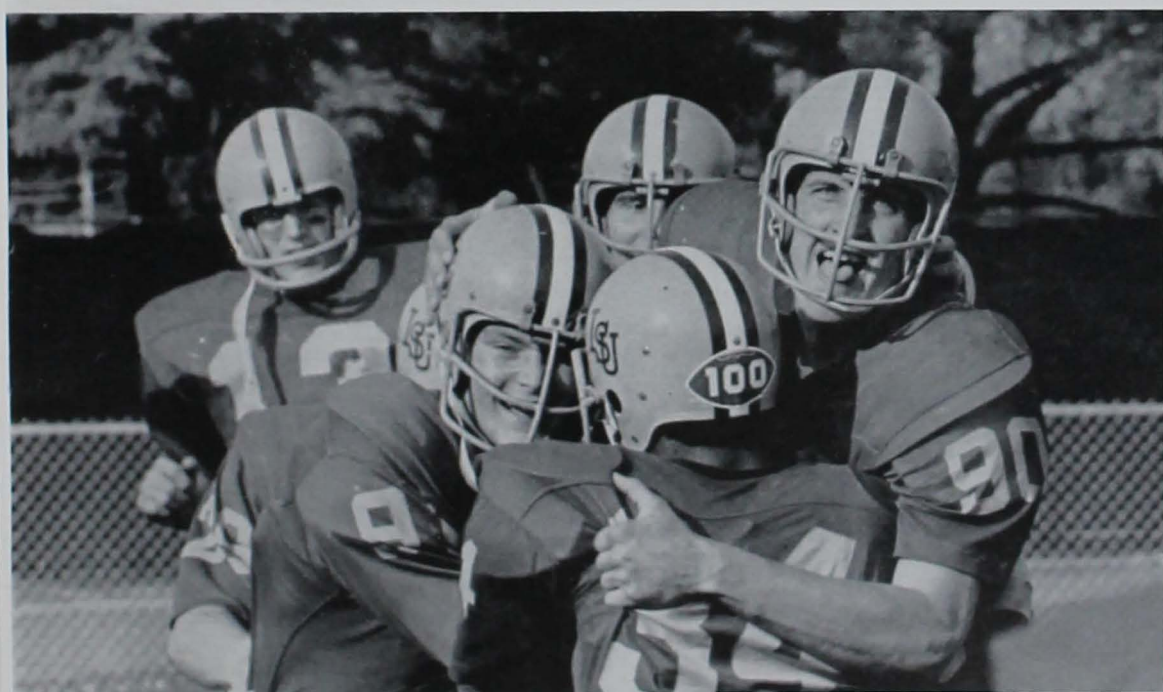

The club is perhaps one of the most cosmopolitan groups on campus, representing approximately 25 nations of the world. There are no restrictions upon membership and anyone regardless of skill is welcome.

In his second season as Cyclone head coach, Johnny Majors compiled a 3-7 overall record, equaling the previous year's showing.

Although the records were the same, the team wasn't. The defensive unit continued to shine, giving the Cyclones one of the best defensive squads in the conference.

Majors returned 33 lettermen to his 1969 squad and lost only 11 seniors for the 1970 campaign. Among those making their last appearance at Iowa State in 1969 were: offensive regulars Wayne Beske, Mike Bliss, Greg Dukstein and defensive regulars Fred Jones, Larry Holton, Tom Elliott, Jerry Fiat and Mike Kirar.

The three remaining players ending their careers at Iowa State were kicking specialist Vern Skripsky and punter Bob Brouillette and defensive tackle Craig Boller.

Returning for the Cyclones will be quarterback Obert Tisdale, who will be fighting three freshman quarterbacks for the starting spot. Receiver Otto Stowe will also be back along with the backfield combination of Jeff Allen and Jock Johnson.

The Cyclones' first game at Syracuse showed the young team from Iowa State ready and waiting for the second ranked team in the East.

A late Syracuse drive in the third quarter pulled the game out for the New Yorkers' as they posted a 14-13 win.

Placekicker Vern Skripsky set an Iowa State record with a 48 yard field goal in the first quarter of action.

Iowa State's spectacular defensive unit held the BYU Cougars to just four first downs and 32 total yards in the Cyclones' 10-0 victory. The game was witnessed by 27,000 fans, the largest crowd ever for a home-opener game.

The Cyclones broke their 12-game losing streak in the Big Ten by whipping the Illini 48-20.

Quarterback Obert Tisdale passed for two touchdowns and reserve signal caller Mike Fontanini hit one touchdown pass. Tom Elliott intercepted a pass and returned it 68 yards for the fourth Iowa State touchdown.

colorado

The Buffs' Bob Anderson proved too much for the Cyclones in their conference opener. Colorado shut out Iowa State, 14-0.

Although gaining 196 yards in the air, the Cyclones could manage only three yards rushing. Punter Brouillette averaged 40 yards per punt on 11 kicks, booting two 50 plus yarders to keep Colorado in their own territory during most of the second half.

kansas state

A combination of insufficient blocking and rain took its toll on Iowa State's struggling offense. K-State whipped the Cyclones 34-7.

Our defensive unit, second in the Big Eight, was completely worn out by the second half and the offense could muster only 67 total yards.

Homecoming at Iowa State was something to cheer about as the Cyclones romped to a 44-20 victory over winless Kansas.

Cornerback Tom Elliott caught a Kansas punt and raced 96 yards for a touchdown and a Big Eight record. Later, Tom Potter intercepted a Kansas pass and returned it 33 yards for another score.

oklahoma

Owen Field in Norman, Oklahoma, and a running back named Steve Owens demolished the Cyclones' upset bid 37-14.

Owens, Heisman Trophy winner, carried the ball 53 times while gaining 248 yards and scoring four touchdowns.

Iowa State end Otto Stowe totaled seven catches for 121 yards and gained 12 yards rushing.

Nebraska's Homecoming in Lincoln was bright and happy as the Cornhuskers tallied a 17-3 win over the Cyclones.

Over 67,000 fans saw the co-champions of the Big Eight battle the Iowa State defense.

Vern Skripsky added the Iowa State points on a 30 yard field goal in the first half. Bob Brouillette provided a bright spot with nine punts for a 47.9 yard average.

missouri

The eighth-ranked and Orange Bowl bound Tigers handed the Cyclones a 40-13 shellacking at Clyde Williams field.

The game was only four plays old when Cyclone defensiveman Keith Schroeder scooped up a Tiger fumble and raced 62 yards for a touchdown.

The conference co-champions bounced back in the second quarter with 23 points to hold an unreachable lead.

Iowa State's offensive unit, a disappointment throughout the season, couldn't muster a scoring drive against the Cowboys.

The defensive team, hurt and bruised from earlier outings, couldn't contain the Cowboys, who drove to a 35-0 victory.

frosh football

"Freshman year of college football is an indoctrination period. Learning the system and learning what is required on and off the field," first year coach Joe Avenzzano said about his first-year gridders.

They began the season with a 24-14 loss to Iowa Central of Fort Dodge. Fort Dodge finished the year as the number four junior college team in the nation.

Nebraska handed the Cyclones a 20-7 loss in Lincoln. The Cyclones managed only seven yards rushing but mounted a passing attack of 198 yards against the Cornhusker freshmen.

The Missouri freshman team dealt the Cyclones a 33-26 loss in Ames Nov. 15. An even passing and rushing game spurred the Cyclones to their 24 points. However, the powerful Tiger team relied on 359 yards rushing for the victory.

The Iowa Hawkeye freshman squad crushed the Cyclones, 47-6 at Ames on Nov. 21. The Cyclones were plagued by injuries near the end of the fall quarter and many players missed practice because of testing. The Hawks, bouncing back from a loss to Minnesota the week before, combined passing and rushing to melt the Iowa State defense. The Cyclone offense couldn't mount a viable scoring attack. The young Cyclones ended the year at 0-4. Hopefully their indoctrination will not stigmatize the remainder of their Cyclone careers.

Iowa State's cross country team went 2-2 during the 1969 season. Team captain Dennis McGuire a junior, was undefeated in dual meets, setting records on three courses. He was ultimately named to the 1969 All-American cross country team.

The Cyclones began the year by topping Drake 24-32. Low score wins in cross country. McGuire won the race in 21:22.3, a course record, and was followed by Bill Biliskis and Chuck Schneider in third and fourth places.

Iowa State scored the first six places against UNI in a 15-48 conquest. McGuire won in 20:22.4, another course record, and was followed by Schneider, Biliskis, Greg Dengler, Dan Hartung and Larry Begyn.

Nebraska was the first team to defeat the Cyclones, with a 21-40 score at Lincoln. McGuire won the meet with a course record 19:25.8 clocking.

Missouri also got the best of the Cyclones, taking a 20-38 decision on ISU's home course. McGuire's time was 20:25.2 for first. He was followed by five Tiger runners.

Iowa State was seventh in the Big Eight Conference meet at Manhattan, Kansas. McGuire led the entire race, but was overtaken in the final 400 yards and took second place with a 19:29.6 time.

McGuire was the lone Cyclone entry in the national meets. He was sixteenth in the NCAA race, which earned him All-American honors, and ninth in the National Federation Meet.

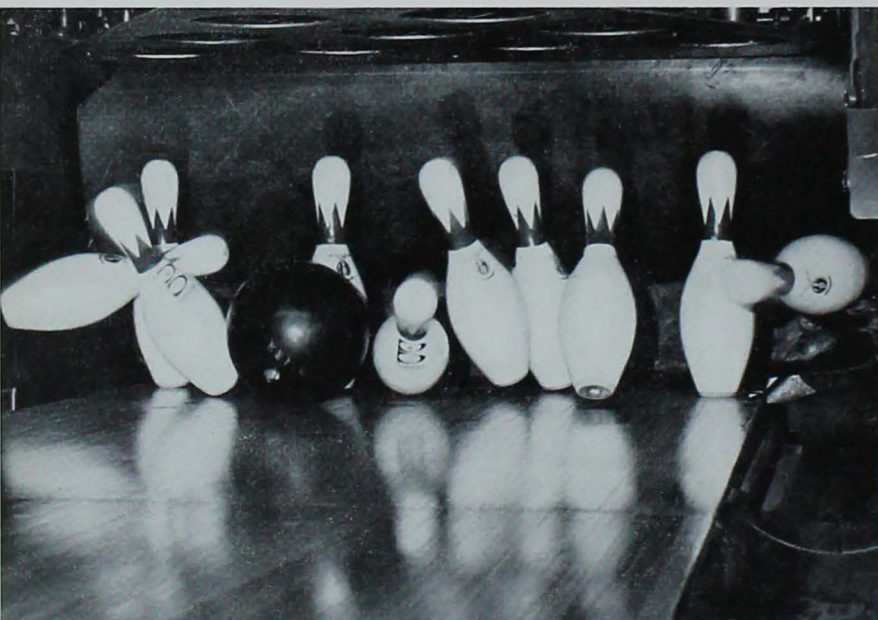

sports clubs join intramurals

Rugby Club exemplified the growth of Iowa State's Sports Clubs as these clubs combined with intramurals to offer competition and relaxation for students with different levels of ability.

The Sports Club Council grew to nine clubs with a total membership of over 1,000 students.

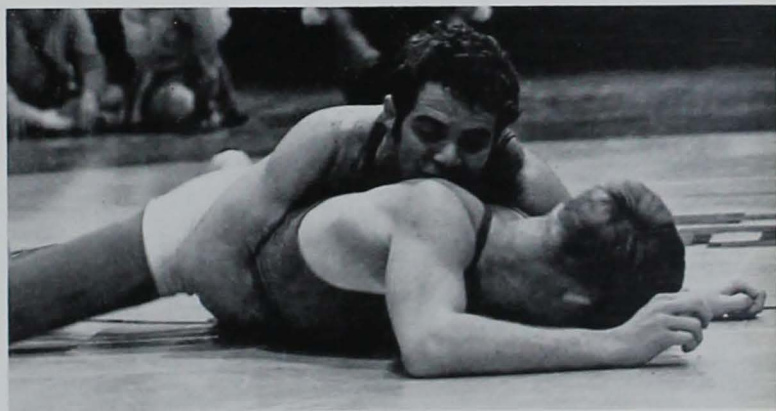

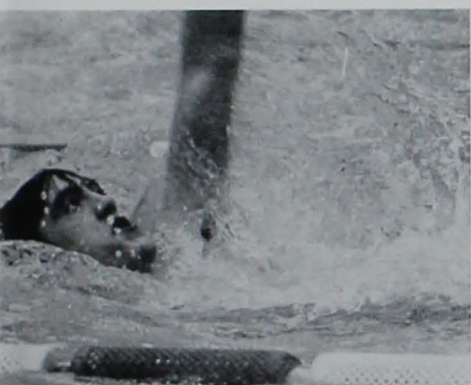

Intramural participation jumped off with a big increase over the previous fall quarter as 4,400 men put in over 22,000 hours of competition—a reflection of the increased independent interest in intramurals.

200 football teams played over 8,500 hours of action to determine an all-University champ. The title was taken for an unprecedented third straight year by The Mechanisms, a grad/staff team.

In the race for the 1970 intramural all-year title Phi Delta Theta jumped off to a commanding lead of over 250 points in the fraternity division. Matterson and Pearson Houses each held smaller leads over rivals in TRA and UDA.

Despite momentary brilliance against league leading teams, the Cyclone cagers finished the 1970 season a disappointing seventh.

All five starters were back from last year's squad. Coach Glen Anderson had high hopes for his fourth place finishers of a year ago.

Led by center Bill Cain, who tied the Big Eight record in rebounding with 211, the Cyclones posted a 5-9 league record and an 11-15 overall record.

Cain led the rebounding in all but one game and grabbed a total of 396 in 26 games. He was tops in the scoring average department with 19.8 points a game and 515 total points. Cain led the scoring for the Cyclones in 16 of 26 games.

Cain was named by the National Association of Basketball Coaches to the District V first unit.

The Cyclones defeated league leading Kansas State 80-64 at home in one of the finest, and loudest games in Armory history.

The Cyclones were the only Big Eight team that didn't win on the road. They came close to winning on several occasions, but last half rallies boosted home clubs past Iowa State.

The Big Conference posted a 86-9 home court record in league competition. Kansas State, which won three road games, was the only team to win more than one on the road.

The Cyclones overtime magic sustained them as they defeated Minnesota 89-84 in an overtime, Kansas 91-89 and Oklahoma State 87-84 in a double-overtime. The Oklahoma State game was at Kansas City at the pre-season tournament while the Minnesota and Kansas games were at the Armory.

The Armory, considered one of the hardest places in the conference to win, saw the Cyclones lose their first home game in 12 contests to Colorado 85-67.

The new Coliseum, which will seat 14,000 fans, is expected to open in 1971 and will replace the Armory as the home of Cyclone basketball.

Returning for Anderson next season will be starting guard Jack De Vilder, who averaged 7.8 points a game. De Vilder totaled 195 points and grabbed 48 rebounds. Sophomore Gene Mack, who broke almost every record as a freshman, will be a leader in the guard court as he averaged 5.5 points per game with 39 rebounds.

varsity wrestling

Led by national champions Dan Gable, Jason Smith and Chuck Jean, the defending NCAA wrestling champions finished the year 15-2 in dual meet competition.

The only losses the Cyclone grapplers encountered were a 22-13 loss at Oklahoma State and a 17-16 when the number one ranked Cowboys visited the Armory.

Dan Gable, two-time national champion, compiled a 25-0 record this year in leading the Cyclones. Runner-up in the nationals last year, Dave Martin also finished the year undefeated with a 19-0 record. National champions Jean and Smith compiled 15-1-2 and 13-1-1 records for the season.

Feb. 20, 1970, was designated Dan Gable Night at Iowa State when the Cyclones played host to Kansas State in the final home dual meet. Gable pinned his opponent and the Cyclones went on to post a 36-0 win over the Wildcats.

Gable holds the NCAA record for most consecutive matches won in NCAA competition of 92 wins and 174 wins in high school and college competition.

The Kansas State meet wasn't the only shutout the Cyclones scored this year, they defeated Wyoming at Laramie 34-0.

Ranked number one in the nation at the start of the season, the Cyclones rolled over opponents.

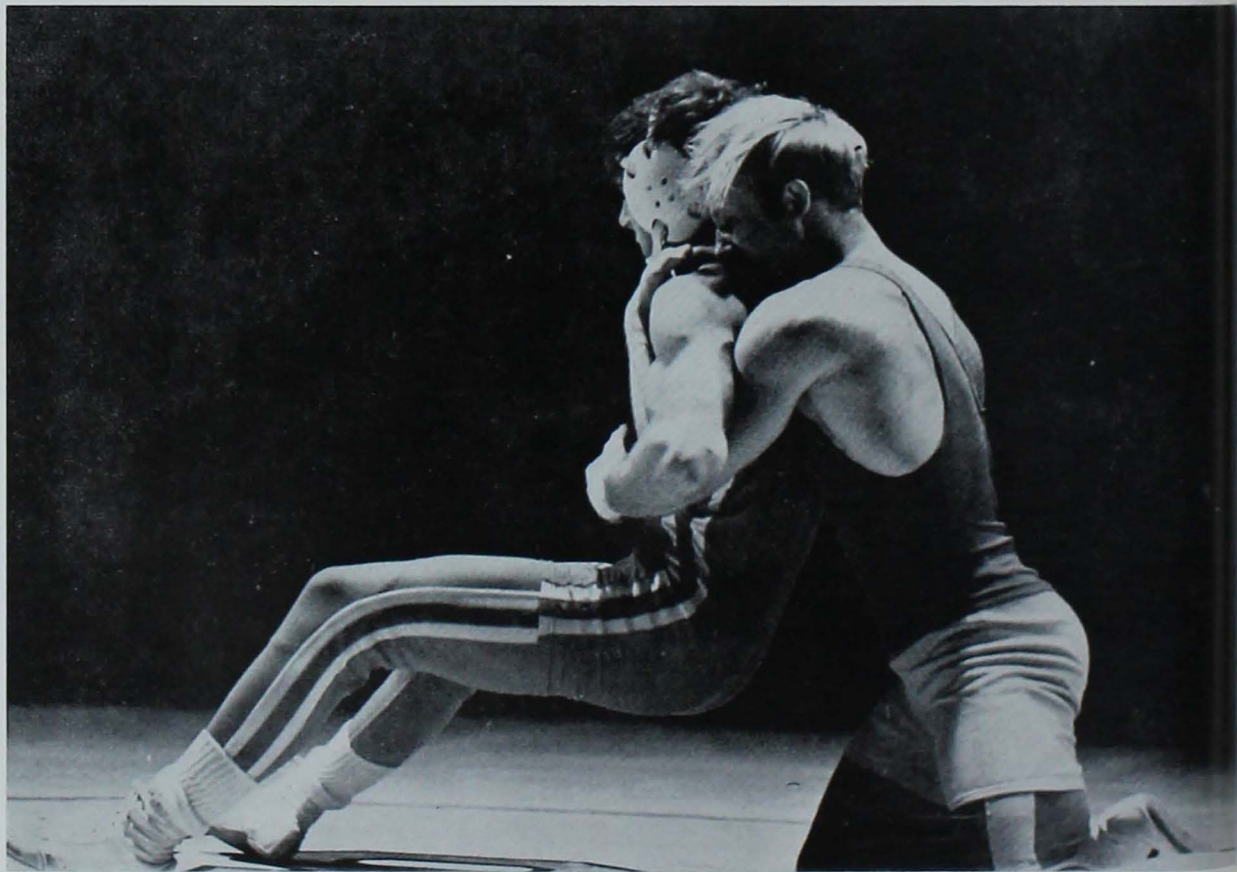

Scores of 33-3; 36-8; 35-5 and 30-6 were familiar through the season for the national champs.

The mid-season losses to Oklahoma State were heartbreakers for Coach Harold Nichols who had envisioned an undefeated year for his team.

At Stillwater, the Cyclones ran into plane trouble and icy roads arriving at the auditorium 15 minutes before the meet was to begin. When the Cowboys invaded the Armory, both coaches felt the two teams were evenly matched. Each planned on winning five matches. When Iowa State's Chuck Jean drew with his opponent, the results of the meet rested on two Cyclone grapplers, Ben Peterson and Geary Murdock. Peterson was defeated by one point against Geoff Baum, one of the toughest 190 pounders in the country. It was one of the finest matches Peterson has wrestled. Murdock, a freshman heavyweight, called on reserve power as he lost a close one which also ranks as his greatest match to date.

Next season the Cyclones will lose Gable, Jean, Martin, and Smith and will have to look to a fine freshman squad to fill in the gap these wrestlers will have left.

gymnasts

After a first place finish in the Big Eight and a third place finish in the Nationals last year, ISU gymnasts entered this season with three goals: an undefeated season, the Big Eight title, and the NCAA title. The young squad only lost one member, National ring champ Ward Meythaler who captained the 1969 team last year.

The first meet of the season was the Big Eight Invitational. Brent Simmons won the all-around and helped the team win the championship. The next competition proved to be tough in the Midwest Open. The team again won the championship, placing more men in the finals than any other team, including NCAA champion Iowa and Big Ten champion Michigan. Lindy Buck was tops in a field of 85 on the long horse.

The following weekend the team traveled to Colorado Springs and met some of the best teams in the West. The team posted an excellent 163.30 in winning the team title at the Air Force Academy. Brent Simmons and Dave Butzman were first and second in the all-around and Rusty Hoffman captured the side horse crown.

Before Christmas break, the gymnasts entered the Iowa Open hosted by the University of Iowa. With tough competition from their Iowa City foe, Brent Simmons, Lindy Buck, and Denny Mazur won titles as the team again placed first.

In the dual meets Iowa State

downed one team after another. Because of the exceptional depth of the squad, Coach Ed Gagnier rarely used his best team. Many young gymnasts were able to compete against Big Eight and Big Ten competition and the team still finished 8-0 for the season. In the all-around, Brent Simmons and Dave Butzman were tops but Jim Gilberto, Denny Mazur, and Rick Simmons also worked the event.

In the floor exercise, Rick Simmons was undefeated and Jim Stephenson and Stew Buck, both freshmen, showed great promise. The side horse was a constant battle between Big Eight champ Rusty Hoffman and captain Doug Peak, the only senior on this year's team. Denny Mazur and Pat Davy worked most of the season in backing up Dave Butzman on the rings. The long horse team was the best in the nation last year and it was very competitive this year with Lindy and Stew Buck and Rick Simmons fighting for the top spot. Parallel bars were led by Dave Butzman, although Brent Simmons and Denny Mazur both looked very good. Brent Simmons was the top performer on the high bar with Dave Butzman and Jim Gilberto also steady performers.

The gymnasts put their perfect season on the line in two more meets—Big Eight and NCAA. The Cyclones easily won the loop meet and finished second at the NCAA.

Iowa State's swimming team posted a 4-8 record in dual and double dual meet for the 1969-70 season. Coach Jack McGuire's tankers finished third in the Big Eight championships held at Ames in March.

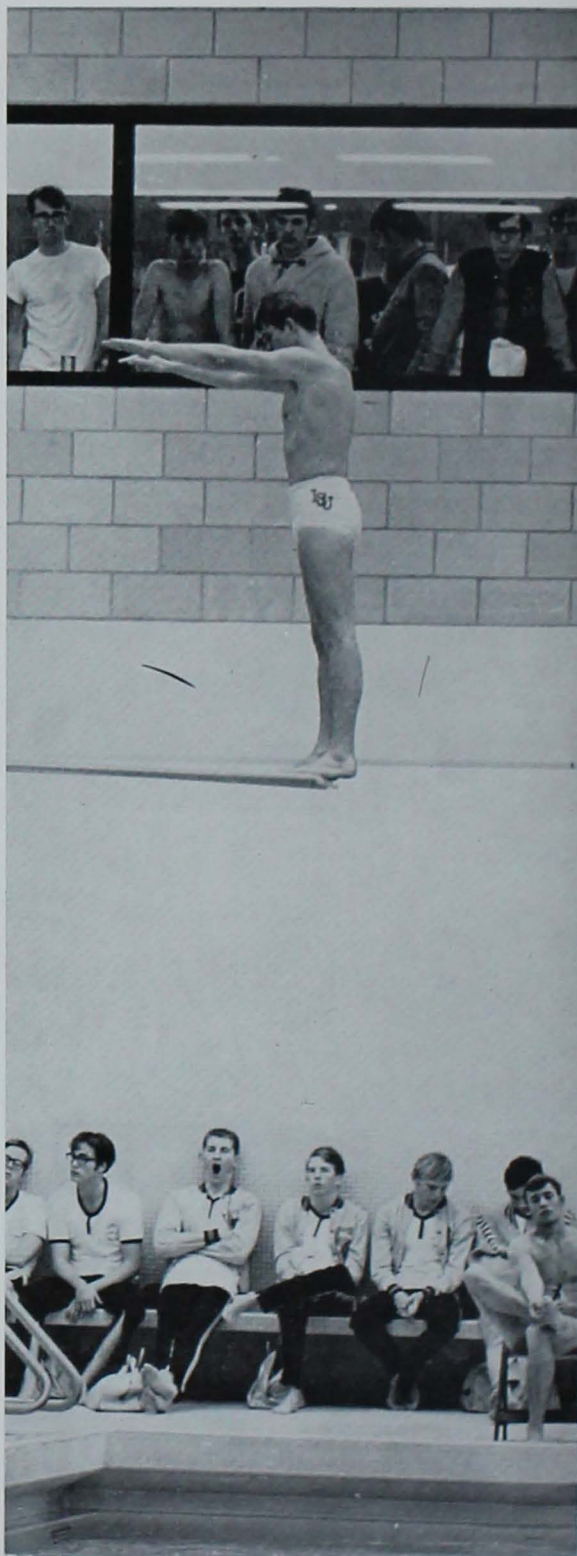

Freshmen swimmers played a big part in the program with the Cyclones relying heavily on the diving of Steve Spikes, who is the Big Eight three-meter diving champion and runner-up in one-meter diving competition.

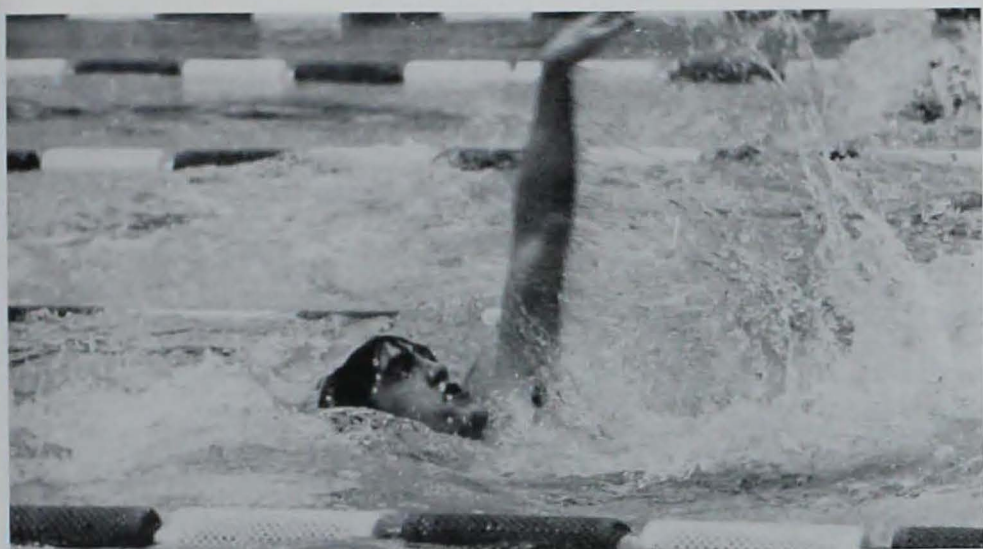

Dick Hanson, breast stroke specialist and individual medley competitor, took first in the 100-yard breast stroke competition at the conference tournament with a time of 1:02.186. Hanson went on to finish second in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:01.333 and finished second in the 200-yard breast stroke competition with a time of 2:18.065.

Seven lettermen returned for Coach McGuire at the start of the season. Only two swimmers will be lost through graduation as Bob Metheney, individual medley, and Terry Thompson, diver, will graduate.

acknowledgements

It is with deep appreciation that we acknowledge the fine assistance and cooperation of Mr. William E. Holmes of the Iowa State University Press. For the past 42 years, Mr. Holmes has made an invaluable contribution to the BOMB. A printing craftsman in the finest tradition, Mr. Holmes has given every yearbook staff his talents, advice, and splendid cooperation. We give him special thanks this year upon his retirement from active production responsibilities of the BOMB.
