Today becomes tomorrow and all the tomorrows rush to yesterdays. Only yesterday we were freshmen, sophomores, or juniors on the academic front of Iowa State, with a challenge offering a balance between the past and the future. Iowa State University encompassing lives of yesterday, lives of today, and lives of tomorrow.

Yesterday you were a freshman at orientation lost in a maze of faces and a sea of nothingness, the loneliness of being you. You wandered aimlessly, but entered whole heartedly in the spirit of the university.

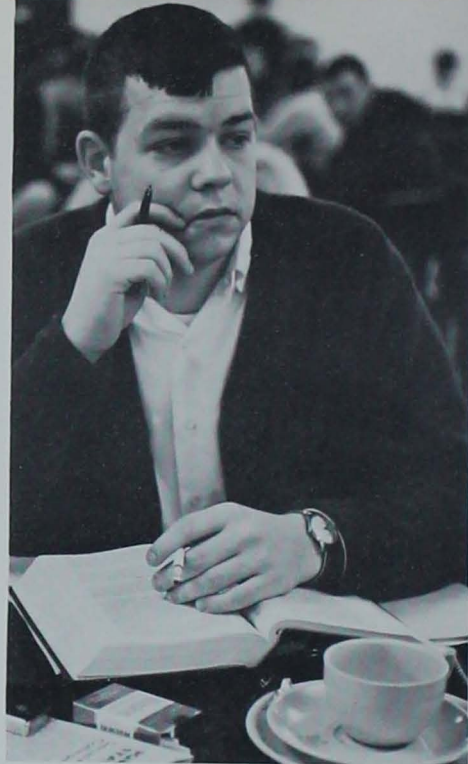

Before you knew it a sophomore returned to the rush, the hurry, the bigness of the crowd trying to become an entity. The dynamic university became a part of you, you became a part of it, and you could feel the throb and the hurry of a life too short, a life too full of everything. You pushed to get that paper done, you devoured books, you joined activities.

*Tomorrow was the day to relax—to let yourself stop thinking if only for a minute, but tomorrow never seemed to come. So, you shifted tomorrow to today
to catch some social life.
The cup of coffee after your last class, a quiet walk in the fallen leaves—moments alone.*

Your horizons broadened as juniors from locating everything in relation to the Campanile and the Union to the beaten path from home to the library. Books become old friends to learn from, to read, to assimilate, and to grow with. Determination became your middle name as you struggled for that grade you wanted.

*A change in life, a way of conviction, setting goals and planning to stick to them. Quick decisions or deliberation and you found life still speeding by.
And, before a senior could grasp yesterday it was gone. Feeling the push you struggled to keep going and as a senior you could look back . . .*

*Tomorrows had become yesterdays and you and the University had found the best in each other.
That indescribable, powerful and intangible force . . .
Iowa State University.
You take some of it with you when you leave, you leave part of yourself when you go. Days of education where you feel a change to . . .*

*perhaps a religion, a certain love,
to a life lived with a goal and a purpose.*

Fall

Autumn winds drowned out the chorus of summer crickets, but a warm sun reigned over much of the season. Unexpected rain showers pop-quizzed our umbrellas for a couple of weeks, and the first feathers of snow tickled our noses in mid-October. But most of the time the sun smiled on us as we scurried between classes during the week or twisted in our seats on Saturday afternoon to see who had the football. Oaks and maples burst into red and yellow flames; brown leaves crunched beneath our feet like a kid-brother's breakfast cereal. Smoke from bonfires drifted through the crisp air and beckoned us to late-season picnics. Winter waited in the offing, but Indian Summer laughed and flirted with our spirits.

FALL LEAVES crunched beneath our feet . . . winter waited in the offing.

TO MAKE A HOME away from home, it takes a heap of moving and the willing help of roommates, parents, and friends.

Lines became longer, tempers grew shorter, and registration by mail still seemed easiest

Registration opened a new book, a book fresh off the press whose stiff back and clinging pages still hid the story inside. Infinite possibilities awaited our action if only we could learn to manage them soon enough. Past experience had taught most of us to avoid the tedious mechanics and confusion of registration by registering by mail. But if new, we were forced to submit to waiting in lines, filling out cards, and posing for ID photos. Finally, we were free to get acquainted. We were anxious to start.

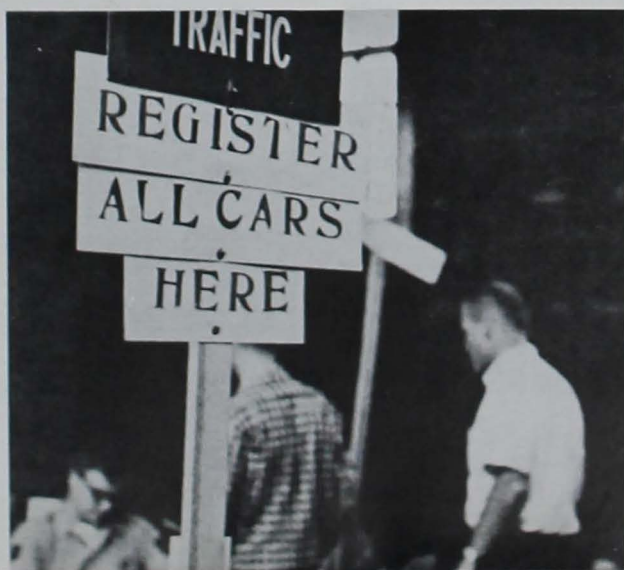

MASTER CARDS, ID photos, and class schedules are only a part of the mass confusion and bewilderment that greets new students during registration.

"SMILE" because ID photos are for four years . . . but it will never look this well.

WHEN 3686 freshmen entered Iowa State in the fall, enrollment jumped to 12,451, which was more than any previous year.

WEATHER FALL QUARTER was too nice too long, but art classes didn't mind because this meant more days outside sketching.

Classes started early and lasted late, but the pressure to learn kept us going.

Day-by-day our classes climbed, one on top of the other, forming the skeletal structure of campus life. Long hours of solitary study and time jealously guarded for activities and friendships fitted into this framework. But classes are the reason for the University's existence. In them we found guidance, inspiration, and pressure to learn when it would have been easy to slack off. Boredom and frustration tempered our fascination and satisfaction, but our classes insisted we keep pace. Steadily the days piled up, aiming toward the time when we'd take responsibility for our education.

Nights laced life with excitement, then damped it with solitude and rest

NIGHT BLANKETED everything making the buildings change in character . . .

but the MRA found the darkness ideal for projecting movies on the Friley wall . . .

while the lights of Lincolnway drew others seeking entertainment.

Night excited us, bored us, sheltered us, worked us, rested us. Little groups of us haunted the Union, sipping coffee over fervent political rationale and lethargic bridge games. At the armory we sat in breathless quiet while a lone bagpipe wailed its last raw notes into the darkness during the Royal Irish Brigade concert. Then we left the masses and walked on together, hand nestled in warm, strong hand. Finally, the last "goodnight" left each of us alone. Down the hall patted the incomplete step of a girl tip-toeing to her room. Across the campus a student peered intently at a book and scribbled notes for his term paper. In a solitary laboratory a graduate student muttered over the failure of his experiment and set up another trial. Night blanketed us and morning waited.

DESPITE GOOD WEATHER and high spirits, Migration fans watched the Cyclones go down to defeat.

Weekday pressures cowered in the corner during Migration and Parents' Day. Some 600 of us headed 250 miles south to the University of Missouri at Columbia to watch the Cyclones struggle against the Tigers. But after we got there, a few of us who thrive on paradox shunned the 73-degree weather and planted ourselves in front of convenient TV sets to see the team fall to a 0-10 defeat. On another week end, we stashed away our books, greeted visiting families, and took them out to enjoy the Parents' Day festivities. After introducing them to roommates, we showed them the campus and took them to see the Cyclones meet the Kansas Jayhawkers. As hosts, we were on a slightly different footing with our parents, and we suddenly glimpsed a new respect in their faces.

BLAST WAS GAMES of chance, nightclubs, food and people donating time and energy to reach an anticipated goal of $2,500 for Campus Chest.

Blast brought weeks of planning and work for a few hours of fun and a full Campus Chest

Campus Chest struck gold in our pockets this year. When the "pieces-of-eight" were counted, they totaled $7,012—more than $1,000 over the goal of $6,000. Before the auction we prepared to sell our services as party-givers, shirt-ironers, or Homecoming display-builders and checked our treasuries to determine bidding potentials. In the end the bidders' bills totaled $1,245. Saturday night 3,200 of us streamed toward the Armory for the Blast. We struggled back and fourth through the crowd to see the 18 booths, while the moneymometer crept closer to the $2,500 Blast goal. We cast our penny-votes for our favorite pair of legs and waited expectantly until Arlene Nelson was named "Miss Legs of Iowa State." Later, Lincoln House and Freeman Hall received the Blast Sweepstakes trophy for "The Unblastables," a 1920's "speak-easy" show. Converse House won the trophy for the best pre-Blast publicity with their "Kangaroo Court."

The first sparks of Homecoming sputtered out of brainstorming sessions staged in the offices of the Homecoming Central Committee last spring and summer, and residence plans for entertainment and displays began to take form. By October, flames of excitement ignited the campus. We collected mounds of lumber, nails, bolts, gears, and chicken wire and transformed them by means of detailed diagrams into creatures that waved, squealed, wobbled, or wailed. Finally, long lines of cars crept by to view our efforts. Tau Kappa Epsilon won the grand sweepstakes trophy for the second consecutive year, this time with the theme, "No Whomp'em—No Tale." Later, At the Buffalo Bar-Be-Que, we caught the spirit of the Band and the Singers and waited impatiently until Ann Minert received the Homecoming crown for the 1964 Queen.

"The Fight Song" still echoed in the rafters as we crowded out behind the Armory to watch Kappa Kappa Gamma and Phi Gamma Delta win the "Yell Like Hell" contest. A bonfire roared high into the darkness, and fireworks flared above the practice field. Yet on Saturday, all our spirit still failed to cow the Colorado Buffaloes, and the Cyclones fell to a 14-7 defeat. But we perked up in the exotic "Voodoo" atmosphere of the dance in the evening, when the rich texture of Peter Palmer's combined vocal and instrumental band seeped gently through our jagged minds.

Growing pains at Iowa State old buildings collapse as new structures of steel and mortar loom into the sky

THE NEW GRADUATE hall lifts its head proudly as the highest point in Ames and gazes out over Lake LaVerne.

Pausing in our dash between classes, we watched the gigantic jaws of a steam shovel lunge and tear at the bare earth. On other days, the strong arm of a crane lifted huge beams into position. Cement oozed into forms, and brick piled on brick until a building stood against the whims of the weather, waiting for people to give it life. With an enrollment of 12,450 this year and an expected increase of 500-600 next year, our building program was the largest in the history of the university. Buildings newly completed, under construction, and in planning stages totaled nearly $34 million. Some, such as Beyer Hall and the Communications Building, were ready to ease the strain of the fall enrollment. Others in various stages of completion included the Animal Industries Building, the men's dorm complex on Storm Street, the addition between Oak and Elm Halls for women, and the additions to the Iowa State University Press Building, the Memorial Union, and the chemistry building.

WE LISTENED as singers sang the story of the first Christmas.

After quarter break, we gathered on the steps of Beardshear to carol in the Christmas season and watch the 73-foot Norway spruce bloom out of the darkness in a cone of brilliant colors. Singers joined small children in a long, delighted "O-o-o-oh!" Later, at the Christmas Festival of Music, we sang in the Festival Chorus, thrilling as our 600 voices filled the Armory. Or we played in the Symphony Orchestra and sneaked quick glances during rests in the music to see Nancy Smalling dancing the ballet of "The Sugar Plum Fairy." Or, in the audience, we caught the spirit of the rich-textured brass choir and the enchantment of the dancers' joyful, pendulum movements; and we held our breath when a crying baby quieted with the Singers' lullaby. Finally, after tying the last piece of bright ribbon around the last oddly shaped package, we headed home to identify familiar odors in the kitchen and find the flicker of candle flames reflected in shining, young eyes.

THE ODOR OF PINE, wafted upward by the heat of colored lights, binds all ages in the excitement of Christmas.

ON THE FIRST DAY of winter quarter, the carillon and the Singers chimed in the Christmas season at the tree-lighting ceremony on central campus.

A FINE, BLUE CURTAIN in front of the raised stage softened the manger scene and other tableaux presented during the Christmas concert by Orchesis, the modern dance club.

Commencement formalities marked another step in life

The silky, black tassels bobbed with renewed energy with each step and occasionally flicked close to our eyes, making us blink involuntarily. Left . . . right . . . left . . . right. We slowly filed to our seats on the Armory floor to the "Prince of Denmark's March." Row upon row of friendly faces stair-stepped above us, even high on the second balcony; and mottled colors of clothing contrasted sharply with our blocks of robes and military uniforms. Finally, we were all at our seats; and the audience rose with us to sing "My Country, 'tis of thee . . ." Then, after the invocation, we marched forward with others in our college to receive the degree that, we hoped, would take us where we wanted to go. Gradually, we inched forward—step . . . step . . . step . . . toward the end that was, like all ends, a prelude to another beginning.

marches up the steps to the platform in the Armory to receive a diploma certifying graduation from Iowa State.

"ICE POLISHERS" ONLY seemed to make the walks slicker and sometimes that helping hand needed a help itself.

Winter crept up and pounced on us with delighted fury during fall quarter final week, ripping to shreds the pleasant illusions drawn by earlier temperatures. Even before Christmas, 10-below weather sent us scurrying to classes at a brisker pace. We dreaded every trek across central campus (Little Siberia). Bitter winds forced us to pause midway and turn our backs to relieve frostbitten cheeks and mop noses besieged by winter head-colds. After each new snowfall, we balanced precariously on sidewalks polished by snowplows and would-be skaters. Later, we laced up our skates to try our hand at the real sport on Lake LaVerne and waited impatiently for ski trips planned for Christmas vacation.

Success story: Veishea '64, six-thousand students produce the largest college festival in the nation

A spider on the wall watched the first Veishea preparations during the winter months as some of us pondered over a parade theme, practiced for a Stars Over Veishea tryout, or toyed over the first rough sketches for a float. But for many of us, Veishea began at the opening ceremonies Thursday afternoon. We hushed expectantly and then cheered when Karen Wulfsberg's eyes sparkled under the Queen of Queens crown and the Singers sang, "This day 'tis you we all adore . . ." Then we watched track captain Norm Johnston light the Veishea torch with a smaller one lighted by Chief Justice Earl Warren in Washington, D.C.

THE BUOY was a long way away for canoe teams who pledge-paddled toward the end of Lake LaVerne.

FIFTEEN MEN received a resounding slap on the back and became members of Cardinal Key . . .

while 15 women were tapped for Mortar Board.

VEISHEA WEEKEND attracts people of all sizes and of all ages with interests in cherry pies, colorful floats, and talking birds.

Crowds engulf the campus to honor outstanding students and join in the weekend festivities

CYCLONE WRESTLER AND NCAA champion, Gordon Hassman, was acclaimed "Athlete of the Year" at opening Veishea ceremonies.

Afterwards we gathered around the Campanile beside nervous friends until 15 junior women had been tapped by Mortar Board and 15 junior and senior men by Cardinal Key. Meanwhile, at the canoe races, would-be winners pledge paddled madly back and forth across Lake LaVerne. But a huge greenish-gray storm cloud roared its objections and cooled us off just before the final heat. Finally, on Friday, the first Freeman team won the sweepstakes. Later, we took in "An Evening with Sherlock Holmes" by the Iowa State Players and jogged over to see Cyclone Review's "This Is the Way That Was."

THE VEISHEA DISPLAY at the Veterinary Open House attracted many visitors who listened while students explained veterinary projects.

TAKING TIME from float decorations, weary students trooped to the Chad Mitchell concert Thursday night of Veishea.

A COOL BREEZE SATURDAY morning, the crowds, and the noise encouraged some Veishea spectators to view the parade in the comfort of their living room via WOI-TV.

SOV planned a third performance of Cole Porter's "Kiss Me Kate" when the ticket supply dwindled early. We flocked to the Armory to see Mike Voorhees, as Fred Graham, direct and act in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew"; and we all sighed with relief when he finally succeeded in taming the barbed-tongued actress, Lilli Vanessi, both on and off stage. Carol Rouse, as Lilli and shrewish Kate, set the theme for the show when she shook her fiery red head and shouted out "I Hate Men!" with a vehemence that chilled even the women in the audience. In addition, the Veishea schedule offered us the Chad Mitchell Trio, a sweatshirt ball, and several athletic events. Friday, we manned department and residence displays and concession stands for visiting parents and high schoolers and pinned the last pieces of floral sheeting to our floats for the parade the next day.

PRACTICE SESSIONS up until the performance times of SOV's "Kiss Me Kate" meant hours of extra work for Prof. Piersol who directed the musical score . . .

and a third performance had to be planned when ticket sales hit an all-time high.

THE PARADE Saturday morning found the Iowa State Cheer Squad out on their own float leading the fight song and cheers.

THE PARADE SHOWED the efforts of months and months of planning and a week of struggling to put plans into concrete floats to be judged for originality, thought, and construction combined with "theme."

Veishea weekend closes in the dying light of 'Afterglow' as weary students try to catch up on studying

Then, in the early morning hours, we wheeled the big, awkward displays onto the campus and waited to aim them down the white line marking the parade route. Later, we learned the judges' decision that Pearson House and Alpha Delta Pi best depicted "The Making of Our Nation" with their 110-foot float, "Expanding Horizons." Finally, at "Afterglow" we forgot the pressures of the past few days and danced to the varied tempos of Richard Maltby and his 14 piece orchestra.

While winter struggled through its last blustery gasps, a yen for a change from the ordinary track of classes and dates seized us and opened our eyes to "Focus." For 16 days, we were free to choose from a variety of performances and lectures in the arts and humanities. We heard Pierre Mendes-France, the former French Premier, explain his two-assembly plan to modernize the French government and discussed world problems with students from other Iowa schools at the Model United Nations. On other nights, we took in the David Burge piano recital, the Tamarind print display, and the fascinating pantomime of Frans Reynders.

FRANS REYNDERS ENTERTAINED during Focus with pantomimes of a bird and a marionette. Reynders held a workshop for students preceeding his recital in the evening.

Greek Week 1964

PROJECT BOXCAR packed 15 tons of old clothes to be sent to needy families . . .

Greek Week sent our spring fever soaring as we tip-toed over mud and melting snow on our way to the activities. At the Kickoff Ceremonies, Gamma Gamma, Greek honorary, tapped 27; and Carl Vanderwilt and Bev Miller became Mr. and Miss Greek. The next evening, Vance Packard, the renowned American social critic, questioned the effect of the "borrow, spend, buy, waste, want" syndrome of the American culture. Then we set this thought-provoker aside temporarily to enjoy comedian Bob Newhart and The Good Time Singers—in spite of the Armory's "mixmaster" acoustics. Finally on Saturday, we packed the 15 tons of old clothes we had collected for Project Boxcar and danced to the music of Si Zentner.

Politics warded off the artificiality that threatened our campus existence, the illusion that life is composed mainly of study and social interchange. At the Model United Nations Assembly we discussed topics ranging from the seating of Red China to the U. S. blockade of Cuba. During the national political campaigns we argued liberal and conservative philosophies and sponsored Political Action Week. The mock election climaxing the week predicted the success of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket. In campus affairs the Government of the Student Body Senate favored an audit-credit program and unlimited hours for seniors and other women 21 and over. In the campus elections Dick Thoreson and Dave Duncan won the race for student body president and vice president.

AT THE PANHEL caucus, platforms of the candidates were discussed and members voted for a representative for their group.

In our final selection we strove to portray the hope and faith James Thurber held for the future of mankind—his belief that no matter how selfish and careless man becomes, he will never have the power to completely destroy life from the earth. Furthermore, something as simple as a single flower will live to inspire men. The reading began, "World War XII, as everybody knows . . ."

VARIOUS DENOMINATIONS plan special services in conjunction with Religion In Life Week, but emphasis was for the entire year.

THE UNIVERSITY LUTHERAN church sponsored an art show featuring religious sculpture and art work.

RABBI SCHAALMAN opens the convocation Monday morning, to urge students to become aware of life.

TO CREATE AN ATMOSPHERE for the opening ceremonies of RIL Week, the Iowa State Varsity band presented a short concert.

Religion In Life Week extends to the year-long Impact series

We sought to test our ideas about religion, to question the value and meaning of our faith or the logic and consequences of our lack of any such faith. For this reason, we welcomed Impact, a series of presentations on religion, replacing the Religion in Life Week. First in the series was The Bishop's Company a group of two actors and an actress, who presented Shaw's Saint Joan. Dr. Louis H. Evans, a retired Presbyterian minister, said that education is incomplete if it fails to teach people to love. Rabbi Herman E. Schaalman told us that the three purposes of religion are to keep us aware of the many views of life besides the scientific, to serve as a focus for radicalism and for moral decisions. Other speakers were Dr. J. Edwin Orr, The Rev. Hugh Calkins, and Mr. Daniel Jordan. We tested and strengthened our convictions by considering their ideas.

HARRY BELAFONTE sang in concert . . .

and returned for a curtain call.

The heartbeat of emotion, we discovered, may pulsate in the mind of the scientist or engineer as well as the dedicated artist. The sensitive brain that dwells with fascination on the complexities of analytical formulas may be equally responsive to the intricacies of human feeling. And to inspire and communicate his awareness he turns, likewise, to the subtleties of language, music, and art. So we listened for the tone of a word in Shakespeare's Macbeth and the emphasis of a phrase in a sociologist's lecture on racial conflict. We sat in awe while the music instructor of a daytime class became the masterful artist of an evening concert. We searched our own voice or instrument for all its expressive possibilities of rhythm, dynamics, and tone quality; and we took up a paint-smeared palette to discover just the right blend and texture of pigment. A university of science and technology, we learned, is not devoid of the breath of life.

AWARD-WINNING VARIETIES SKIT, "West Hood Story" sent the traveling sweepstakes trophy to Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Varieties introduced us to the trials and triumphs of showbusiness. At the insistence of seasoned upper-classmen, we began writing scripts and pacing out dance routines early. Then we spent long hours memorizing lines and rehearsing parts, trying to get just the right word emphasis and facial expression. After Christmas break, three rounds of eliminations narrowed the field of contestants for sweepstakes. Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Alpha Epsilon captured the traveling trophy for their skit, "West Hood Story," a Sherwood Forest adaptation of "West Side Story." "The Cambridge Singers," a folksinging group, took the flash acts honors; Dick Heinemeyer and Mike Epstein received the emcee trophy. Gamma Phi Beta won the trophy for Varieties dancing girls with a selection from "The Music Man."

ACADEMICS

Iowa Governor, HAROLD E. HUGHES.

Contributing to Iowa State's world-wide reputation for leadership in the academic field are its opportunities and developments in higher education, extension education, and research. The teaching staff, broadened programs, new and improved courses, and modernized and expanded facilities all help to maintain this reputation. Important also are the people responsible for governing the University. The State Board of Regents, nominated by the Governor of Iowa and confirmed by the Senate of Iowa, supervises the allocations to Iowa State and works closely with the Governor who in turn presents Iowa State's policies to the legislature.

Iowa State broadened programs, improved courses in 1964-65

PRESIDENT JAMES H. HILTON greets guests at the President's reception in the fall for the faculty and the residents of Ames.

PRESIDENT JAMES H. HILTON has served Iowa State since 1953, initiating new and varied programs during his term as President.

President James H. Hilton

Chief of Iowa State's campus Administrators is President James H. Hilton who with this year brings to a close a 12-year term of active service to Iowa State. To him and to the faculty of the University the Board of Regents has delegated the immediate direction and control of the University's academic, research, and extension activities. In the performance of his duties he has come in contact with nearly every facet of the University—with student religious programs, research projects, building developments, Veishea, and other activities. Students classified in undergraduate, graduate, and special curriculums all benefit from his work, and he took satisfaction from their progress and accomplishments.

Administration guides Iowa State to a top position in the country

Fiscal operations of the University are supervised by Boyne H. Platt, Vice President for Business and Finance. He is the chief business officer of Iowa State and is responsible to the president for the general management of all Iowa State business operations. Coordinating expansion and advising in budget preparation are also part of his duties.

The scientific content of all research proposals is reviewed by J. Boyd Page, Vice President for Research. His responsibilities also include maintaining relations with federal foundations and granting agencies and assisting in research budgeting.

Iowa State's academic program is coordinated and administered by W. Robert Parks, Vice President for Academic Affairs, through the deans and directors of the colleges. As personnel officer directly responsible to President Hilton and the Board of Regents he helps set the personnel policies of the University. He is also the University's representative on the Iowa Inter-institutional Committee on Educational Coordination. Next year, Vice President Parks will assume the duties of president of Iowa State.

Iowa State's Director of Admissions and Records is Arthur M. Gowan. The admission of all students at the university pass through his office and the scholastic records of every Iowa State student, past and present, are maintained there. He also directs student registration, the recording of grades, and the organization of graduation exercises.

As dean of students, Millard R. Kratochvil functions in the broad, undefined area of student activities and problems that is not directly related to academic study. He is concerned with the individual welfare of Iowa State's students and has jurisdiction over the Student Counseling Service. He also supervises and guides student organizations and activities.

LAB COURSES OFFER ag students the chance to investigate soils from all over Iowa and other states testing them to find out the possibilities of growing better crops.

The largest enrollment of any agriculture school in the world can be found in Iowa State's College of Agriculture. Iowa State's agriculture graduates enjoy the enviable position of being able to choose from several available jobs per man. The demand in agribusiness is especially strong. A new concept in regional extension work has been developed with NIAD, an area development program in northern Iowa, and TENCO, a ten county developmental group in southern Iowa. The college is actively involved with projects in Peru and Uruguay. Students have opportunity to view agriculture in the United States through a summer travel course. Last summer a group of students studied agricultural situations in Europe. Students in the various departments take active part in Veishea. Animal Science won first place in ag open house last year. Construction crews are a familiar sight in this college too. The Animal Industries building is nearing completion and a new wing has already been planned. A new poultry farm has been established and ground has been broken for the Plant Sciences Building.

College of Engineering

An education in engineering is designed to develop the student's professional competence and to prepare him to take an important part in his profession, his community, his state, and his nation. A freshman enrollment increase of 9.5 percent and a total undergraduate increase of 2 percent indicate that the College of Engineering will continue to be one the largest schools of engineering west of the Mississippi river. Advances in the college include program revisions in engineering mechanics, architecture, and bio-medical engineering. This year Iowa State received a grant from the Ford Foundation for cooperative work in developing educational programs at the National Engineering University, Lima, Peru.

Growth in Iowa State's College of Engineering included the completion of Sweeney Hall for chemical engineering and nuclear engineering. The building was dedicated in May, 1964. The Iowa Board of Regents have also approved a new building for aerospace engineering and civil engineering. In certain curricula the College of Engineering offers the co-op program where students gain practical experience during college. Students attend classes for a quarter and then work in industry for a quarter, while being considered students of Iowa State. Chemical Industries technology is the newest curriculum introduced by the College of Engineering. For two years, students are grounded in subjects stressing the application of chemistry and engineering to industry.

STUDENTS IN APPLIED ART study elements of color, design, and textures in paints and their effectiveness on the canvas.

When the more than 1700 students currently enrolled in the College of Home Economics graduate, each of them will find that there are hundreds of jobs tailored for her own interests and training. While she is at Iowa State each student participates in a program designed to meet her individual abilities and talents. The college aims to give its students an education for living, helping them to develop appreciation and understanding of the broad areas of home economics, to learn management and problem-solving techniques, and to understand their roles in society.

More men enroll in the college which adds new courses each year

Iowa State's College of Home Economics is keeping its place as the largest home economics college in the United States. Enrollment continues to increase, with a notable increase in masculine interest in applied art, child development, institution management, and other areas. The scope of the college is ever-widening. One newly added course is comprehensive in the broad aspects of housing which is inter-departmentally taught to would-be instructors in home management, household equipment, art, and architecture. Undergraduate students, graduate students, and staff members may also participate in summer inter-departmental field trips.

Nearly every Iowa State student turns to the College of Sciences and Humanities for courses needed to round out his academic program. These may be courses from any of the five general areas in the college: mathematical sciences, physical sciences, life sciences, social sciences, and humanities. They may be courses required by the student's major or minor curriculum or they may be elective courses—courses chosen because they meet his interests or his desires to learn and to expand his sphere of knowledge beyond his own special field. The chief purpose of the college is to help the student develop the desire and the ability to continue his education throughout his lifetime. Graduates from the college know that the world is ever changing and that they must continue to grow with the world.

During fall quarter 1964, 33 per cent of Iowa State's total 12,451 enrollment was registered in the College of Sciences and Humanities. In 1963, 66 per cent of all undergraduate grades were given in the College of Sciences and Humanities. These percentages are expected to increase in the future. Growth and change are very important at Iowa State and the College of Sciences and Humanities is growing and changing to meet the needs of the students. Curriculum growth includes a new masters program in government and a new Ph.D. program in psychology. In respect to growth of facilities a new plant sciences building is replacing the old botany building. This will provide more space and better facilities for research in plant science. The addition of a new research wing to the physics building adds space for graduate and undergraduate research work.

College of Veterinary Medicine

Iowa State's College of Veterinary Medicine is recognized as the oldest college of veterinary medicine in the United States; it is also credited as being one of the best veterinary colleges. It claims more graduate students than any other college in the country. The volume of requests for entrance into the college is so great that the college is able to accept only about 20 per cent of the applicants. Included in the present enrollment of the college are four women students—two of whom are first year students and two are second year students. Approximately ten jobs are available for every student graduating from the college. These jobs may be in the fields of individual practice or in industry, education or government or military work.

Facilities for the care of both large and small animals are included in the College of Veterinary Medicine. They may treat anything from elephants to skunks. The "patients" may be owned by the college, brought in by local residents, or shipped long distances. Students do their practice under the guidance of trained and experienced experts. The faculty of the college is expanding quickly and now includes 107 members—about 20 more than last year. Important parts of the college plant are the Veterinary Medicine Research Institute and the electron laboratory located in the biomedical electronics building, shared with the engineering college. The Veterinary College does cooperative work with the Veterinary Research Center east of Ames. The college and the research center together graduate more veterinarians than any other school in the world.

Graduate College

Iowa State's Graduate College enrollment surpasses 2000 this year

Enrollment in the Graduate College this year surpassed the 2000 mark for the first time in history. Facilities and programs in the college have been improved and admissions standards have been raised. The college provides opportunities for the pursuit of advanced study in the various fields of the sciences and humanities, engineering, home economics, agriculture, and veterinary medicine. The majority of the programs offered are research-oriented and lead to Master of Science or Doctor of Philosophy degrees. This year saw the addition of a new Master of Science program in government and new Doctor of Philosophy programs in both education and psychology. Thirteen new National Science Foundation traineeships (fellowships) are now in operation. Building expansions include additions to the physics building and the chemistry building and the new plant sciences and animal science buildings.

Doctorate degrees offered in education and philosophy this year

Opportunities for graduate work have been made available to qualified Iowa State students since the beginning of Iowa State in the late 1860's. In 1877 the first advanced degree was awarded. Direction of the college is carried on by a distinct faculty, but the work of graduate students is actually in immediate charge of the department concerned. Graduate work and research are encouraged through graduate assistantships, industrial and government fellowships, and special research grants.

Research

Many faculty members engage in research in addition to teaching appointments. Graduate students, and sometimes undergraduates, also participate in projects in specialized fields. An operating budget for all research at Iowa State is about $13 million, much of which comes from grants and contracts from the government or industry. Iowa State research service supports thirteen agencies: extension services, special laboratories and institutes.

Research team develops a system of infant respiratory augmentation

One research program receiving cooperative support from Iowa State involves the development of equipment to treat infants suffering from respiratory diseases—an infant respiratory augmentor and auxiliary equipment. This research was begun by Dr. William McCormack, Ames pediatrician associated with McFarland clinic who holds an appointment as professor of veterinary physiology and pharmacology at Iowa State on collaborator status, and David Carlson a graduate student in biomedical engineering. They were helped in their work by Leon Arp, assistant professor of engineering graphics, who devised a spirometer to measure the amount of air required by each infant; J. Ben Buck, dental technologist, who developed an infant facial mask; and James M. Varum, WOI-TV producer-director.

Education is extended from the campus to the people of Iowa through the Cooperative Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics and through the Engineering Extension Service. The five broad program areas governed by the Cooperative Extension Service include: agricultural production, management and natural resource development, marketing and utilization of agricultural products, home economics, extension youth and 4-H programs, and community and public affairs work. Programs in the Home Economics area are designed to meet the needs of all families and young families. The Engineering Extension Service offers programs in engineering management, industrial safety, industrial electronics, civil defense, architecture, and junior engineering schools, a fire eExtension Service, Custodial training, and secretarial courses.

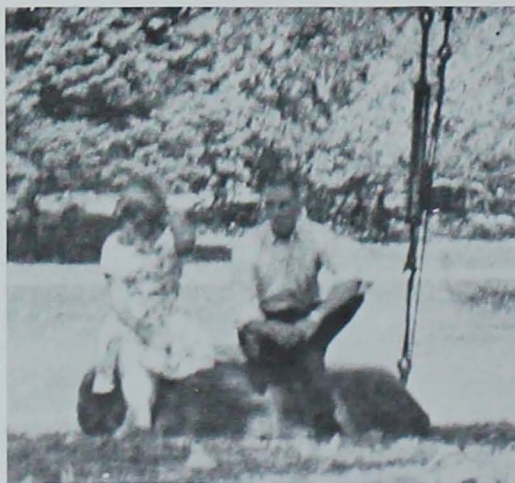

AS WELL AS TELLING about children, Home Ec extension reports the latest news in the field of clothing and textiles to housewives.

SPARE MOMENTS IN summer school meant trying new toys such as a unicycle.

Summer School

Iowa State campus during the summer months sees no rest and remains almost as busy as during the regular school year. The summer quarter is divided into two six-week sessions, with some students taking class work for only half the summer and others staying for the full quarter. Because of the smaller enrollment, women students are housed in Helser Hall, men students in the north wing of Friley Hall, and meals are co-educational. A special system of student government operates for the summer sessions. Musical events, social activities, intramural sports, and movies are organized to compete for the student's free time. The air-conditioned library and air-conditioned classrooms in Pearson Hall help to make summer school more bearable for many students and instructors.

Students in the Tech Institute are trained to work closely with engineers

Technical Institute

Programs in chemical industries technology, construction technology, electronics technology, and mechanical technology are offered by the Iowa State Technical Institute. A student completing one of these programs receives an Associate in Applied Science certificate. The programs of the Institute are designed to train technicians to meet the needs of industry. Programs also provide students with training in drafting, designing and developing engineering structures and products, installing and operating equipment, selling and estimating costs, and advising customers about using scientific or engineering equipment. Since the Institute was begun in the fall of 1960, enrollment has grown to nearly 300. The Institute is located on the main campus, uses the regular facilities of Iowa State, and draws its staff from the university faculty and from industry.

THE TWO-YEAR PROGRAM trains men and women to work along with regular engineers in many phases of institutional problems.

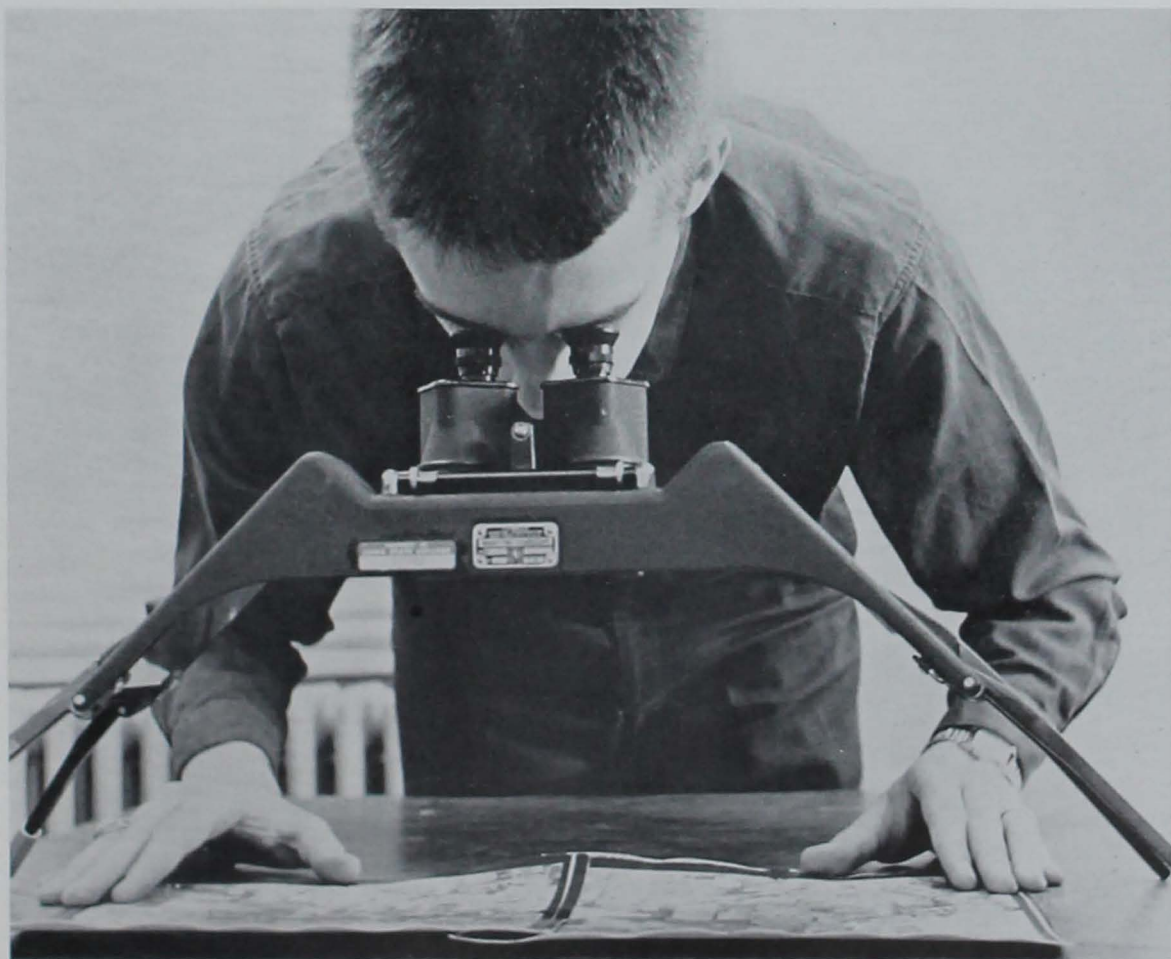

MACHINES AND MACHINE operations are familiar phases to Tech Institute students when they leave their training program at Iowa State.

Cardinal Key is an all-university honorary for outstanding junior and senior men. The group was organized in 1926 to recognize the outstanding contribution to Iowa State by students, faculty, and alumni. Members must be nominated by a student or faculty member and selected by the senior members. Tapping takes place at Veishea opening ceremonies each year. Cardinal Key serves the university throughout the year by selling graduation announcements and sponsoring an annual Leadership Day Banquet.

Tomahawk

The purposes of Tomahawk, the national honorary service club for sophomore independents, are to encourage, to promote, and to assist the development of leadership among all independent students. Members are elected to this organization on the basis of scholarship, school service, loyalty, and cooperation.

Last spring, Tomahawk members assisted with publicity for the Education Conference on the Aims of Higher Learning. During October, members attended the National Tomahawk Convention in Cedar Falls. The club also promotes fellowship among Tomahawkers through bi-weekly powwows.

Mortar Board is an all-university senior women's honorary. It promotes standards of loyalty, service, scholarship and leadership. Members are chosen on the basis of gradepoint, leadership, and service to the university. New members are tapped in the spring by the Campanile at the Veishea opening ceremonies. This national honorary sponsors the annual women's induction service each fall.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi, a national professional business fraternity, selects their members from male students majoring in industrial administration or economics who have achieved a minimum 2.0 grade average. This organization's functions include the broadening of the student's education in the business field, presenting guest speakers, and conducting field trips throughout the midwest.

Phi Kappa Phi

High scholastic achievement and encouragement for those students who are capable of superior scholarship are the purposes of Phi Kappa Phi, a national high scholarship honorary. Students from all the colleges have equal opportunity for membership. In addition to the selection of the upper one-sixteenth of the graduating class and the upper one-tenth of the graduate students, several faculty members who have made outstanding contributions to scholarship are selected each year.

Alpha Zeta

As a national professional honorary, Alpha Zeta promotes scholarship, leadership, and a spirit of fellowship among agriculture students. New members are chosen from members of the sophomore class who are in the upper two-fifths of their class. The honorary was organized at Iowa State in 1897. Their activities include a faculty tea and a banquet.

Delta Phi Delta

Members for Delta Phi Delta are selected from art students in junior and senior classes who are in the upper 35 per cent of their class. This national honorary was organized to promote art interest among students and in communities, to stimulate higher scholarship, to recognize potential professional ability, and to bring the art departments of different schools closer together. Activities included a Veishea display.

Epsilon Pi Tau

Epsilon Pi Tau is a national industrial educational honorary. The honorary was formed to recognize the place of skill in the profession of industrial education, to promote professional and social proficiency, to foster and reward research and to make known and use its results. Epsilon Pi Tau provided a guided tour of the campus for high school students during the Industrial Education Career Days.

Eta Kappa Nu

Eta Kappa Nu, a national professional electrical engineering honorary, recognizes electrical engineering students who are outstanding in scholarship, character, leadership, and activities. Electrical engineers in the upper one-fourth of their junior class and the upper one-third of their senior class are eligible for election into this professional fraternity.

Knights of St. Patrick

The Knights of St. Patrick is an honorary for engineers. Membership is open to juniors and seniors in the engineering curriculum and election is based on scope and participation in activities. Since the chapter's organization at Iowa State in 1916, there has been a constant debate with the aggies over whether St. Patrick was an engineer or an aggie.

Phi Eta Sigma

Phi Eta Sigma is a national freshman men's honorary whose purpose is to promote and encourage high scholastic achievement during the freshman year. To be eligible for membership, the student must have a gradepoint of 3.5 at the end of his first quarter or a cumulative 3.5 at the end of the second or third quarter's work. Prospective members are invited to a winter smoker. Spring quarter, an initiation banquet for new members is held. During winter quarter, Phi Eta Sigma started the practice of presenting a traveling trophy to the residence with the highest freshmen grade average.

Front Row: Pearson J., Stone B., Kaufman, Smith T. Second Row: Sill, McCallister, Ewing, Forsyth D., Littlefield, Strand. Third Row: Pinney, Leachman D., Swanson R. C., Soukup, Hoelscher, Mohr, Smith D. S., Hartmann. Back Row: Bierbaum, Chipman, Miller P., Smith D. R., Low L. R., Ashwill, Young J. R., Hegland. Not Pictured: McKeag, Cunningham J.

Lamos is a local honorary of the College of Science and Humanities. Membership in the organization is limited to science juniors and seniors who are in the upper one-fourth of their classes and have proven to be outstanding in scholarship, leadership, and service. Its purpose is to give recognition to outstanding sciences and humanities students.

Alpha Chi Sigma

Alpha Chi Sigma is a professional chemistry fraternity for chemistry and chemical engineering majors with a grade point of 3.0. The fraternity sponsors a safety program in the chemistry department which includes safety posters and films. Alpha Chi Sigma also gives talks to different high schools on the vocational possibilities in the field of chemistry.

Phi Sigma Iota

This honorary recognizes outstanding students in the romance languages and stimulates advanced work in this field. The Sigma Zeta Chapter of Phi Sigma Iota was organized here in 1963. They held an initiation banquet last spring for the new members. Initiates must have a 3.0 all-college and must be taking a third-year language course.

Pi Mu Epsilon

Students who have achieved distinction in a mathematical science compose the membership of this mathematics honorary. Undergraduates are eligible for selection if they have maintained a 3.5 or better average in college math courses for two years and are in the top half of their class. Graduate students and faculty members are also selected.

Pi Tau Sigma

Pi Tau Sigma is a national mechanical engineering honorary. Members are seniors in the upper one-third of their class and juniors in the upper one-fourth of their class. The chapter holds a smoker and initiation every spring and fall. Other activities during the year include a banquet and a picnic for mechanical engineers co-sponsored with ASME.

Psi Chi

The advancement of the science of psychology is the main purpose of Psi Chi, a national psychology honorary. Students who are majoring or minoring in psychology and who have 12 hours of at least a 3.0 average in psychology are eligible for membership. This society strives also to encourage, stimulate, and maintain the scholarship of the Psi Chi members.

Omicron Nu

Selecting members from the top 20 per cent of the senior class and the top 10 per cent of the junior class, Omicron Nu honors outstanding home economics students. This honorary seeks to promote scholarship, leadership, and research in the field of home economics. During winter quarter a recognition tea is sponsored for outstanding sophomores.

Tau Beta Pi

Tau Beta Pi is an honorary group which elects undergraduates and alumni distinguished in the engineering profession. Candidates must be in the upper eighth of the junior class. They are elected by present members on the basis of personal integrity. Awards were presented to outstanding members and the most outstanding sophomore at a banquet.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Sigma Alpha Iota is a professional music fraternity for women. Members need a 2.5 grade point and a music faculty recommendation to join. To promote music at Iowa State, Sigma Alpha Iota sponsors Sor-Dor, a competitive sing between sororities and dormitories. They present the January American Musicale, which is co-sponsored with Phi Mu Alpha.

Tau Sigma Delta

Tau Sigma Delta was organized to recognize and encourage high scholarship attainment among students in architecture, landscape architecture, and the applied arts. This organization rewards talent and marked ability in these fields through election to membership in Tau Sigma Delta. Seniors in the upper 20 per cent of these colleges are eligible.

Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi, the men's professional journalism society, sponsored the all-state journalism awards day for high school students. They were honored guests at a banquet and later assisted in publication of the Daily on Saturday of Veishea. Each year Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi publish the "Petticoat Pamphlet" as a money raising project.

Theta Sigma Phi

The first project of spring quarter was to ship the results of the Theta Sigma Phi "Friendship Fashions" clothing drive to Pineridge Indian Mission, Pineridge, South Dakota. Theta Sig State Day, the pilot project of the professional journalism society, was held in Des Moines. The Iowa State chapter honored the national president the next day.

Agricultural Council

JAMES H. JENSEN, president of Oregon State University, paid his colorful tribute to President Hilton as the guest speaker at the all-Ag Banquet.

The fall freshman reception for Agriculture students, the Autumn Cotillion, and the All-Agriculture Banquet are all activities sponsored by the Agriculture Council. Members are elected each year by the departmental clubs in the College of Agriculture. The council acts as a unifying agency among the different clubs in the College. The organization also holds ag opportunities seminars, Agriculture College faculty firesides, a fall retreat for members, and a new member reception. The new activities initiated by the Agriculture Council this year were an activities opportunities seminar and a new club officer workshop. Besides these activities, the council also has internal committees engaged in other functions such as publicity. Representatives from the student-faculty committees of curriculum, scholarship, and relations also attend council meetings.

Engineering Council

Engineering Council promotes co-operation among the departments of the College of Engineering and officially represents the students of the Engineering College in the sponsorship of official and social functions. The 25 members of the council are elected by respective student professional societies in the College of Engineering. During orientation week, Engineering Council sponsored a reception for freshmen. The first annual Engineers' Day was held in the spring of '64. They sponsored a picnic and dance and had informal competitive events that day. They are presently initiating a College of Engineering faculty fireside program.

AT THE GENERAL MEETINGS of the engineering council members discuss club activities and engineering department policies.

VETERINARY MEDICINE council planned their annual dinner-dance to lift spring spirits.

The Veterinary Medicine Council is the executive council for the student chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association. Representatives are elected from each vet med class and officers are elected by the whole veterinary medicine student body. They plan the local program of the A.V.M.A.—including planning and scheduling meetings and the organization of groups to plan special events on the A.V.M.A. calendar. This year activities included the Christmas party for students and their families, a winter smoker, and the junior A.V.M.A. picnic.

The Science Council is a student organization that acts as liaison between students of the science college and the administration. Suggestions are made to the faculty on how to improve student-faculty relations and to encourage activities within the college. During Focus 1964, Science Council sponsored Dr. Burke, who spoke on the subject, "Education—For What." Each quarter the council sponsors Faculty Firesides which give students an opportunity to meet with a professor for informal talks.

Science Council

"DINNER WITH THE PROF" is a series of dinners with professors in the science college to allow students to become better acquainted with the professors in the university.

Home Economics Council

One representative from each departmental club and home economics committees make up the Home Economics Council. The council conducted a series of five orientation programs for the wives of foreign students to help them adjust to the life in the United States. Home Economics Council also sponsors members to state and national meetings.

Student Properties Board

The Student Properties Board is organized as a service organization and rents properties such as lights, backdrops, sound equipment, and costumes to groups connected with the University or the city of Ames. Members, selected on the basis of interest, are associated for a year and then declared regular members. Presently nine members keep regular office hours.

Pammel Community Council

Back Row: Hensley, Olson K., Hirsch, Beeghly, Meier, Trinkle.

Various projects and programs are carried out through the Pammel-Hawthorn Community by the Social and Pammel Civic Development Committee under the direction of the Pammel Community Council. The P.C.D.C. sponsored the sale of flower seeds in the spring and also a spruce-up campaign in conjunction with the Ames spring clean up. Concerned about the safety of the children, they sold identification bracelets and held a Bicycle Safety Rodeo. A memorial children's library was established in memory of the Bruntmyer family. The Social Committee planned a spring dance in April for all Pammel-Hawthorn residents. A Halloween party for the children, where prizes were awarded for the best costumes, was held in the fall.

Pammel residences dedicated a memorial children's library in memory of the Bruntmyer family.

WAA SPONSORS INTRAMURAL basketball for women during winter quarter as well as bowling, baseball, soccer, tennis, and other individual and team sports throughout the year.

The Women's Athletic Association is a women's recreational organization. Organized in 1914, WAA provides an opportunity for members to participate in, improve, and enjoy their skills. Membership is open to all resident women interested in recreation. WAA is governed by an elected cabinet and the tennis, riflery, modern dance, and Naiads club presidents. This executive council meets twice a month to plan activities. Spring quarter is an active one for the club. Highlighting activities last spring were the annual Naiads water show and a sports day for neighboring colleges. The day consisted of volleyball, archery, and other sports tournaments. Intramurals are an all-year-round activity and the club sets up tournaments for all sports. Barjeche is the big event of winter quarter.

Memorial Union expands to meet the growing needs of student activities but cramped conditions made it necessary to plan an addition started last spring . . .

for student activities such as Jazz and Java on Friday afternoons, books and coffee, and all-University activities.

Union Board is a group of ten students who are elected as sophomores in an all-college election to serve until they graduate. The group's main purpose is to govern the student activities in the Memorial Union, striving to allocate the use of Union facilities so they benefit the maximum number of Iowa State students and student activities. Members of Union Board represent the student body on the Board of Directors of the Memorial Union Corporation. Among the many student activities sponsored by the union are registration dances, Jazz and Java, lectures, bridge and dance classes, Varieties, Foreign Student Fun night, and dinner with a prof.

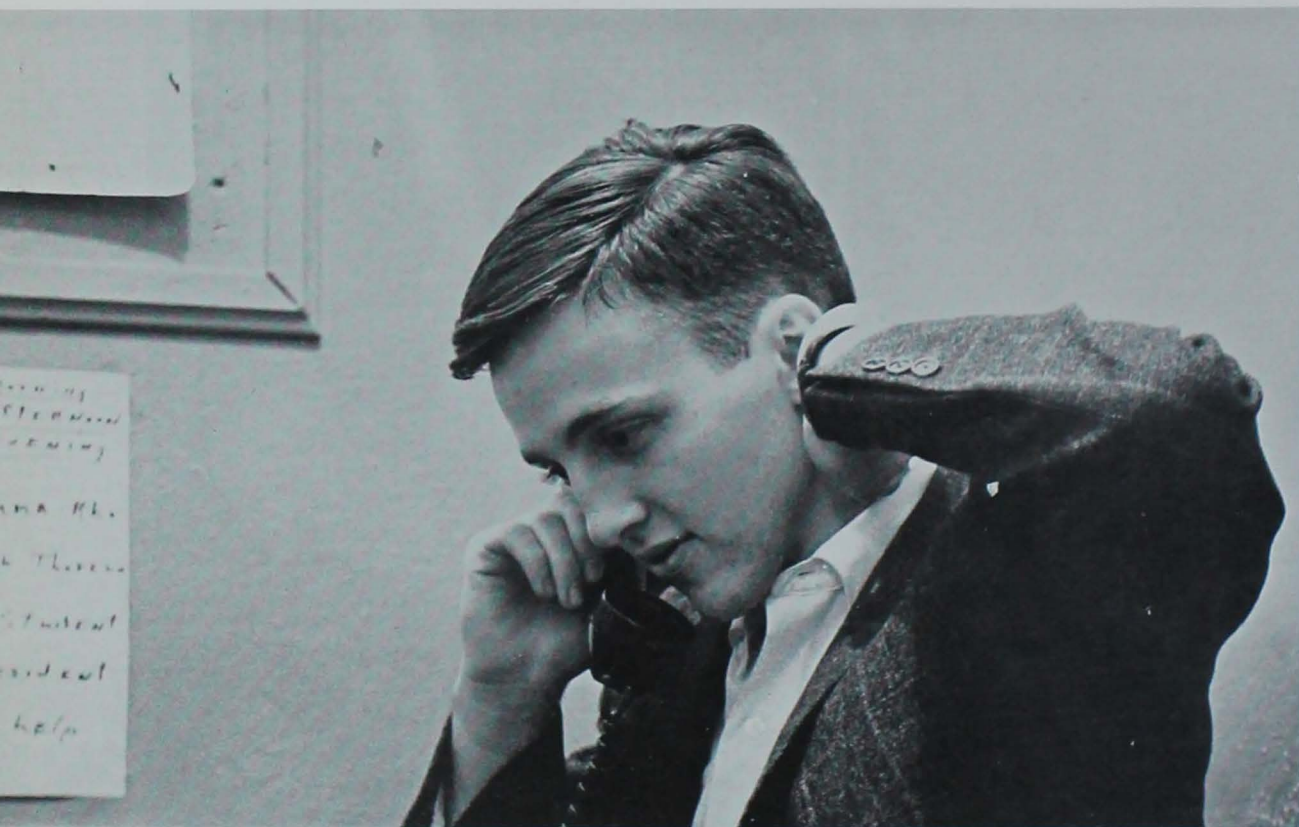

STUDENTS ENTERING THE WEST door of the Union are confronted with the decal on the glass doors.

The Government of the Student Body

GSB PRESIDENT Dick Thoresen, finds that much of his business must be taken care of by phone.

The Government of the Student Body represents the students in all matters concerning the educational community, acts in the best interest of the student body, and promotes cooperation among groups in the University community. The executive, legislative, and judicial branches carry out these functions. G.S.B. recently organized and established the first Youth Hostels in Iowa. The Youth Hostel organization provides economical living quarters for students traveling in the summer. During the year, G.S.B. conducted an activities merry-go-round, conducted the second annual insight seminar, initiated the Intramural College Bowl, sponsored Political Action Week and mock general election, and founded the Masters Program.

FRESHMEN EDUCATIONAL GOVERNMENT gives new students the chance to learn what college government is about.

SUPREME COURT—Seated: Gibbs, Hertz, Perkinson. Standing: Millis, Hoelle.

Through monthly meetings and group-sponsored activities, this departmental club provides an opportunity for agricultural business students and advisers to become better acquainted. Former Iowa Secretary of Agriculture, L. B. Liddy, was the guest speaker at the annual banquet last spring. The "Outstanding Farm Manager of the Year" award is given at the banquet. Last year it was awarded to Carl Frederick of Iowa City.

Agricultural Education

The Agricultural Education Club works to improve professional interests and to develop an understanding of the problems of agricultural education. Last spring, the graduating seniors participated in the National Student Teacher Conference held in Kansas City. They also attended the National Future Farmers of America Convention while they were there. This trip was sponsored by the club. The Ag. Ed. Club prepares a Veishea display each year and publishes a quarterly newsletter which is sent to present and former members. Agricultural Education Club is a student professional organization.

GATHERINGS AFTER Ag Education meetings are informal and diverse especially when small groups gather to talk with Don Phommachakr from Laos about problems in his homeland.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers

WHEN IT RUMBLED to life, the groaning, pounding deisel engine of the early 1900's attracted Veishea visitors to the mechanical engineering display.

This organization is the student section of the professional engineering society. To become a member, students must have the endorsement of a faculty advisor. Members meet three or four times a quarter to learn about the activities of the society. Their prime goal is the advancement of knowledge of the theory and practice of mechanical engineering. They strive to promote a professional awareness and fellowship among their members. Last spring, the club sponsored a field trip to the Maytag Company. The members participate in "Engineer Day," Veishea, and also attend the national meeting of the society.

Agronomy Club

This national departmental club was organized to promote friendship and cooperation among agronomy students and to correlate activities in agronomy with those in closely related fields. In addition to bi-monthly meetings, their activities include an annual speech contest, a Veishea display, the publication of a newsletter, field trips, a national convention, and various money-making projects.

American Institute of Architects

The student chapter of the American Institute of Architects is a professional group open to anyone in architecture and related fields. Student AIA presents programs of interest to people in the field of architecture, adding to their educational learning. AIA is also the student architecture government body. They hold an annual awards banquet in the spring and have a Veishea open house display.

American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics

The purpose of this group is to advance aeronautics and astronautics and to acquaint aerospace engineering students with their field through speakers from industry and faculty. Last spring, the AIAA sponsored a faculty-student picnic. This year the AIAA is giving a $50 per quarter scholarship to a deserving member. This organization also worked on the Aerospace open house display for Veishea.

Sigma Gamma Tau

Sigma Gamma Tau is a national honorary for Aerospace Engineering. Created to recognize the scholastic achievements of its members, this honorary fosters high ethics and professional practices in forming a bond among the aerospace sciences. Its purpose is to aid the local AIAA chapter, particularly with its spring picnic and programs. Members also meet to discuss topics that provide an engineer with background on subjects outside his college.

American Institute of Industrial Engineers

Every year the American Institute of Industrial Engineers visits industries in Iowa to observe practical application of industrial engineering. Annually, the club participates in Veishea open house. The AIIE provides IE students some contact with professional engineers and promotes interest in the various aspects of the industrial engineering curriculum.

American Ceramic Society

The American Ceramic Society is open to students in ceramic engineering. The purpose of the society is to give its members information concerning new developments in the ceramic industry and related areas of interest. The society has annual fall and spring picnics. Last spring, this organization helped the department prepare for Veishea open house.

American Institute of Chemical Engineers

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers is a national professional society open to all majors in chemical engineering. The purpose of this society is to inform chemical engineering students of new developments in industry and research and to acquaint members with what they will find in these areas after they graduate.

American Society of Agricultural Engineers

This society is a departmental club, whose members are undergraduate agricultural engineers. The club promotes directly and indirectly the interests of the students in agricultural engineering. Each spring this local division of a national group holds a faculty-student picnic. During winter quarter, the organization has their annual banquet.

Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers

Mutual interest in electrical engineering is the basis for this organization. The group, formed on campus in January 1963, is organized to advance the theory and practice of electronic and electrical engineering, allied branches of engineering, and the related arts and science. This year, IEEE members took trips to Collins Radio Corporation in Cedar Rapids and to the national electronics convention in Chicago.

Business Students Association

The Business Students Association is a departmental club for industrial administration majors. The club, organized in the fall of 1958, gives the members an opportunity to become acquainted with the practical aspects of their major. Each year a spring banquet is held featuring a nationally known personality.

Last spring Ben Heineman, president of the Chicago-Northwestern Railroad, spoke on automation and its effects on transportation. During the banquet, scholarships and awards are presented to those students who have shown outstanding ability in scholarship and activities.

The Iowa State chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association is a professional organization for veterinary medicine students. It helps promote leadership, fellowship, and education within the College of Veterinary Medicine and stimulates interest in the senior AVMA. This year Brigadier General Kester welcomed the freshmen during the fall banquet at the Memorial Union. Meetings are held once a month, and programs include social functions, informative talks, and an "Honors Night" in May to honor all members of the Veterinary College.

FUTURE VET MED student investigates the varied aspects of the profession at the veterinary medicine open house displays during Veishea.

The Pre-Veterinary Club, organized to promote closer relationships between pre-vet students and the college of veterinary medicine, serves as a meeting ground for students entering the field. Through the club, pre-vet students can obtain counseling from senior veterinary students. The members meet monthly to hear a veterinarian speak, tour a clinic, or visit the animal disease laboratory. The biggest project last year was their Veishea open house display—"From Jeans to White Shirt and Tie." It portrayed the life of a student through high school, college, and veterinary school to become a doctor of veterinary medicine.

Dairy Science Club

During fall quarter, members of Dairy Science Club co-sponsor Little International, which is high-lighted by the milkmaid contest. Through special speakers, the members are informed of today's problems in the dairy industry. Another club activity is the club banquet at which the judging team and honorary members are recognized. The club also prepares a Veishea open house display and sponsors a statewide 4-H and F.H.A. judging contest.

Botany Club

Although most members are botany majors, Botany Club membership is open to anyone interested in botany. The club strives to provide enjoyment, while increasing knowledge among members. A yearly event is the preparation of a Veishea open house display. Last year, Botany Club won first place in the Sciences and Humanities division. Field trips last year included visits to various points in Iowa and the spring trip to Colorado.

Dairy and Food Industry Club

The Dairy and Food Industry Club is open to all those majoring in dairy and food industry. The organization creates and promotes interest in the dairy and food industry. Veishea highlighted the year for the members. During Veishea, the students sold cheese which they had made. Members also built a display and sold ice cream drumsticks.

Geology Club

Geology Club is an undergraduate interest group which fosters interest in geology, provides a chance to prepare and present papers, and sponsors field trips. This spring Geology Club sponsored a field trip to the Blackhills and Badlands of Nebraska and South Dakota. Geology Club members also organize the department's Veishea open house display.

Campus 4-H

Campus 4-H is a co-educational service and social organization with 110 members. Anyone on campus is eligible to join. This organization serves as a tie between 4-H and extension service. It also offers additional training and learning for leadership development. It is a place where members of 4-H can continue to work for and with the organization. The spring of 1964 was highlighted with a banquet where Don Dillman spoke on his experiences as an International Farm Youth exchangee to Poland. The members of the club sponsor tours for high school students visiting campus during career days in the spring. This year Campus 4-H is beginning a program called "Broadening Horizons."

STUDENTS IN FARM OPERATIONS get a chance to apply their science when they prepare animals for judging contests, Little International, and show ring competition.

Farm Op Club typifies theme of 'Student Grows, So Grows, the Nation'

Membership in the Farm Operations Club is open to all students enrolled in the farm operations curriculum. The organization offers farm operation students a chance to participate in extra curricular activities and to develop fellowship and leadership. In the fall, the club tours several different types of farming operations and agricultural industries throughout central Iowa. Winter quarter is highlighted by the annual banquet which nearly 250 students, faculty members, and parents attended. Lee Kline, WHO Farm Director, was this year's speaker. The club also built a display for Veishea open house last spring. Their theme, "As a Student Grows, So Grows the Nation," won second place in the Agriculture College category.

Forestry Club

FORESTRY STUDENTS DRAG Christmas trees which they have grown to sell as their money raising project.

CONTESTS, GAMES, AND FOOD were the order of the day at the annual Forester's Day held in the spring.

Any undergraduate student enrolled in forestry is eligible to join Forestry Club. The club is organized to promote a spirit of brotherhood among Iowa State foresters and to create an interest in forestry-related subjects among forestry students. The club also publishes an annual magazine, "The Ames Forester." Fall quarter opened with a picnic to introduce freshmen to the club. The club also has a "Little Brother-Big Brother" system which gives a freshman the guidance of an upperclassman in his curriculum. Each winter the club sponsors a game banquet. The banquet features some kind of wild game—usually venison—and a prominent speaker. The tradition of selling Christmas trees, greens, and cones is their major money-making project. Spring is highlighted by a Forester's Day held at Izaak Walton League Club grounds. The day consists of competitive events among members of the club, such as trap shooting, bait casting, and canoe racing. Last spring, their Veishea open house display was "Better Forestry Through Education."

COEDS FIND MORE than their share of problems when they compete for the title of "Miss Milkmaid" at the Little International sponsored annually by Block and Bridle.

Block and Bridle Club

Block and Bridle is a national group organized to promote animal science, to promote high scholastic standards, and to foster a close relationship between members. Anyone interested in livestock and animal science may join the club. Last spring, the Block and Bridle Veishea open house display won first place in the Agriculture College division. Every spring they hold the season's first horse show in Des Moines. The freshmen-sophomore judging contest gives animal science students their first chance in competition at Iowa State. Little International, which selects a "Miss Milk Maid" for its queen, is a fall project of Block and Bridle as well as the fall barbeque. Winter quarter features a banquet and an address by a prominent speaker.

Horticulture Club highlights year with visits to nurseries and seed companies

Horticulture Club

Horticulture Club is a departmental club which gives interested students practical experience in horticulture. Each year this club sponsors a show which features displays of flowers, fruits, and vegetables set up by students. These products are then sold at an auction after the show. Last fall, the club was the guest of the florist's convention in Des Moines. Between winter and spring quarters last year, members took a trip to Shenandoah, Council Bluffs, and Omaha. In Shenandoah, they visited nurseries and a seed company. Then in Council Bluffs, they toured a fruit farm and visited with members of the Grape Growers Association. Continuing to Omaha, they visited florists and greenhouses and attended the florist's convention being held there. Other events of the year included meetings with featured speakers, working on a Veishea display, making and selling corsages, and a spring picnic.

FLEUR-DE-LIS, the 48th annual horticulture show was dedicated to Dr. John P. Mahlstede, head of horticulture, and featured large beds of red "Cardinal" geraniums.

Industrial Education members construct ski slope, and tennis courts at Lynn Fuhrer Lodge

MEMBERS OF THE Industrial Education Club meet to discuss problems related to their field and to hear professional men.

Industrial Education

The Industrial Education Club is organized to discuss and help with problems pertinent to Industrial Education, to promote fellowship among members, and to cooperate with students of other departments. Their main work project this year was paneling the inside of Lynn Fuhrer Lodge and putting in tennis courts and a ski slope at the lodge. The annual spring banquet honoring graduating seniors was held in the Memorial Union. At the banquet, P. H. T. (Putting Hubby Through) awards were presented to graduating seniors' wives. Throughout the year, members helped with Industrial Education Career Day, sent people out for high school recruitment, and had a summer softball team.

The club publishes a small yearbook featuring activities of the group and recent accomplishments in poultry science. The yearbook is distributed to poultry producers, high schools, and universities throughout the country.

PEMM Club

Striving to promote interest and opportunity in physical education activities is a main objective of the Physical Education Majors and Minors Club. Throughout the year, various personalities are invited to speak on subjects related to physical education. A senior recognition banquet is scheduled every spring and a Playday Clinic is held for juniors from surrounding high schools.

BESIDES delighting Veishea visitors with a synchronized swimming demonstration, Naiads present a show spring quarter.

Naiads host sectional festival with the Academy of Aquatic Arts

Naiads, Iowa State's synchronized swimming group, presents an annual show during Dames Daze. In April 1964, two members attended the International Academy of Aquatic Arts in River Falls, Wisconsin. This was a competitive and educational event which attracts swim groups from the United States and Canada. A sectional festival, correlated with the International Academy of Aquatic Arts, was sponsored by the Iowa State Naiads in November. The group also holds a workshop for swimmers interested in learning stunts. Naiads promotes swimming interest and develops skills.

Statistics Club

The Iowa State Statistics Club has four projects—to send deserving students to a national statistics meeting, to survey job possibilities, to start a national honor society for undergraduates majoring in statistics, and to supply the statistics library with books useful to undergraduates. During Veishea open house, the club compared the results of the random breeding of two different breeds of chickens with pre-determined results of a chi-square test.

Landscape Architecture

The Student Society of Landscape Architects was formed to stimulate unity and interest in the profession. The group also serves as a meeting place for landscape architecture students and faculty. The SSLA year starts with a welcome picnic on the Mall. The group meets twice a month to work on projects and listen to speakers. Picnics, Veishea open house, the Christmas party and the annual banquet round out the year's activities.

ASCE

American Society of Civil Engineers is a national student professional society. Its purpose is to prepare students for entry into the profession. Last year, this organization was awarded the trophy for Engineering Open House at Veishea. Ten members of the local chapter attended a regional ASCE conference at the University of Wisconsin last spring. The student chapter also sponsors a newspaper.

SAME

Monthly meetings featuring an emphasis on the military man in an engineering program is the highlight of the Society of American Military Engineers. Selection of members is based on standing in the advanced ROTC program and interest. Field trips are sponsored several times a year to allow members to visit military installations and become more familiar with the program of the military.

Pershing Rifles plans regimental Drill competition for 500 men

Pershing Rifles' purpose is to foster a spirit of friendship and cooperation among the men of the military department. The highlight of activities during spring quarter was participating in the annual Regimental Drill meet held at Madison, Wisconsin. The group received first place in individual pledge competition, third in individual advanced competition, second in platoon competition, and the most improved company award. The company places an honor guard at the Veishea torch and provides color guards for home football and basketball games and various parades. Any member of the ROTC department is eligible to join Pershing Rifles.

Naval Reserve participates in varied campus activities

The Naval Reserve is composed of five groups. The Drum and Bugle Corps is a marching and playing unit which represents the Navy on campus and to the public. They perform in the spring military review in the spring navy review, in the Veishea parade, and in the Armed Forces Day parade in Des Moines. The NROTC Drill team is organized to promote interest and ability in "trick" drill. This local interest group is an honor guard at the Military Ball, the Navy Ball, the Veishea dance and parade, and the Armed Forces Day parade. Helm, a freshman Naval fraternity, helps midshipmen develop the high ideals of the Naval professions and promotes citizenship. The Order of the Sextant recognizes men who have achieved high standards within the NROTC unit and organizes the Navy Ball. The Rifle team promotes interest in the Navy.

CADETS WORK EN MASSE to finish up the last of the copy for their publication.

CAPTAIN BOLIN, Air Force ROTC, is instructor for the sophomore cadets. On his last assignment, he was a jet flier in Omaha, Nebraska.

The 250th Cadet group of the Air Force ROTC was organized at Iowa State in 1946. Their purpose is to provide high quality officers to satisfy state Air Force officer requirements. The corps provides leadership experiences in a military command and staff environment for advanced cadets. Senior cadets are given ground and flight training. A "Big Brother" program helps new cadets become involved in the group. Each year a formal dinner is held for the officers and advanced cadets. Last spring the corps held a field day to provide competition between flights. A parade and review were held to decorate outstanding cadets and to change command.

SAAC

The Society of Advanced Artillery Cadets was organized for the purpose of becoming better informed and acquainted socially with both civilian and military protocol. It strives to acquaint the members with each other, with the social aspects of military life, and to create esprit de corps in the ROTC program. Each spring they sponsor a picnic in the Ledges and a Veishea refreshment stand.

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade was founded in order to unite the military departments of American colleges and universities and to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers. The group strives to prepare its members for a more active part in the military and to have a greater influence in the military affairs of the community. They serve as a source of military requirement information.

Arnold Air Society

Arnold Air Society is organized to promote the traditions and concepts of the United States Air Force. Every spring the commander and executive officers represent the squadron at the area and national conclaves. Last year the area conclave was held in Iowa City and the national conclave was in Denver. This group has also organized a drill team and is working to have a T-33A jet trainer on permanent display.

Angel Flight

Angel Flight is a service organization sponsored by the Arnold Air Society. They are organized to promote interest in the Air Force and other military services. This group acts as official hostesses for Iowa State Air Force ROTC and the university. Organized in 1961, they serve as ushers at university functions. Several picnics and a pizza party were held with the Arnold Air Society during the year.

BOMB

A rose in the Coke bottle was for happiness as was the Christmas tree. The business staff raised eyebrows at such extravagance for staff stimulation, but finally agreed that a morale boost was necessary to keep the amateur supervisors for the new Press Building addition also functioning as a Bomb staff. With grating of the tractors and cranes and a dump truck moving the dirt supporting the walls of the Bomb office, the new staff started writing copy and working on picture cropping. "Ban the Bomb" and the returned "Down with the Daily" kept competition friendly as the Daily grabbed Bomb photographers and the Bomb stole Daily reporters for section editors to fill empty staff positions.

THE INS AND OUTS of the financial side of the 1965 BOMB were handled by Gary Murphy who spent his time trying to balance the money for the color budget with the whims of the editor.

CATHY LUNDON JUMPED INTO the position of editor immediately following the completion of the 1964 BOMB and started the initial planning necessary for the following year.

THE PRETZEL SNATCHER claimed he needed nourishment and head photographer Conrad Krass marched off with the staff food and locked himself in the dark room to print the mountains of pictures.

MATCHING THE MOUNTAINS OF PICTURES Pam Henry, managing copy editor, was responsible for meeting all of the maddening little and big deadlines for copy as she supervised section editors.

PHOTOGRAPHERS WERE CALLED at odd hours of the day and night to photograph life at Iowa State. The 1965 photographers were: Don Munsel, Perry Wilhelm, Al Miller, Ed Behnke, Bob Collins; seated Al Erisman and Rick Dunn. Missing: Gerry Sommers, José Castro, Ken Durbin, and Don Lewellyn.

SUE FARMER, ACTIVITIES EDITOR, found her task just beginning as she met copy deadlines and then page proofs started coming back for proofreading and name checking.

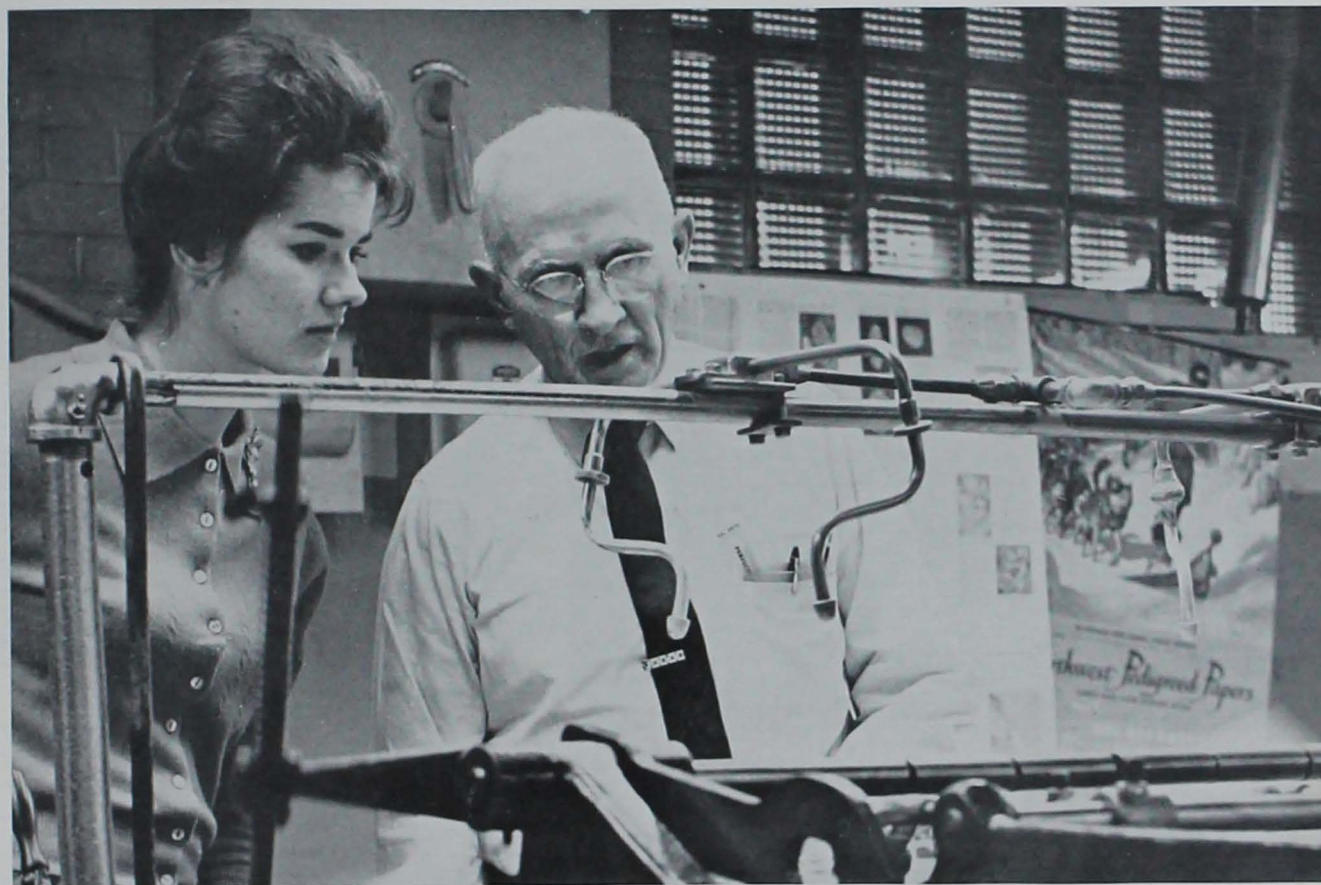

PREPARING INFORMATION SHEETS to be sent to the 102 residences on campus, Sue Feamster, residence editor, became an old friend of the mimeograph machine.

MOST DAYS THE staff kept their tempers in check and managed to get along, but features editor Leslie Osam found that priceless copy had to give way to . . .

the layouts featuring pictures as layout editor Bill Strand balanced copy and pictures for the entire book.

WM. E. HOLMES SHOWS Cathy the pages of the Bomb as they come off the press. The 1965 Bomb is the 37th issue that Mr. Holmes has advised and guided to press.

Before the 1964 Bomb had gone to press, the ideas for the new and different Bomb were being formulated. Spring quarter the editor and the business manager are selected and engraving and photography contracts are signed. Spring quarter must be captured on film and in words before the activities of summer dull the memory, so copy was caught in activities of Veishea, Greek Week, and Focus. Fall quarter the pace picked up in preparing copy, ordering engravings, and checking names. During October, "senior picture" was the magic word in the Bomb office and if you weren't listing activities or waiting in line or posing for the camera one wondered what your business was. Group pictures were scheduled every night and completing the photography of the groups in three weeks, the pace slowed. In December the dummies started to press.

REMEMBERING THE COMBINATION to the safe was no problem for an old pro Jim Tait who served as assistant business manager this year. Next year, Jim will become business manager for the 1966 Bomb.

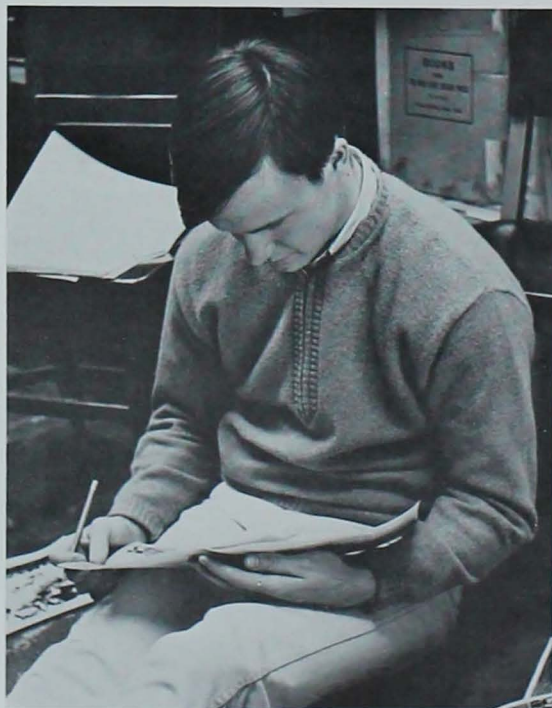

INVESTIGATING THE NEW AND VARIED outlook on the academic front of Iowa State, Shirley Robinson coordinated academic copy.

MAURINE FOSTER SOLICITED the help of Gene Meyer as she tackled the enormous task of matching names, faces, and activities of the graduating seniors.

TRACKING THE SPORTS world of the Iowa State Cyclones and reporting to his section was sports editor Bob Speers.

CORRECTLY INDEXING OVER 7,000 names was the responsibility of Donna Ripper, index editor.

Cookies and the coffee pot were always handy and the radio kept the constant clack of the typewriters almost bearable. Afternoons were the busiest time of the day with telephones ringing, typewriters buzzing, and the staff constantly checking their sections to make sure that all was going well—behind. Edit, rewrite, print, and proofread became standard terms for the new staff who were fast becoming the experienced staff. Despite few errors, the copy found its way into the competent hands of Mr. Holmes who guided it through the presses. Once the activity editor finished her section, the index editor found her job just beginning—trying to match 12,000 names and faces. The Business staff confessed ignorance in the editorial rooms, but provided funds and a top sales record to make the projected color pages a reality. Final deadlines meant working every minute, imposing on fiancés, pinmates, and friends to get the 1965 Bomb to press.

SCHEDULING WAS THE KEY to Viv Voelker's job. As managing photo editor, Viv scheduled the group pictures as well as arranging house informals and activity shots.

BOMB PUBLICATION BOARD DEMANDED reports from the editor and business manager to see if the book was on schedule. Members were Ron Huhn, Cathy London, Gary Murphy, Jane Narland, Jim Tait, Arnie Heubrock (pres.), Bob Johnson (adv.), John Thomas (adv.). Missing were Holly Paine (sec.) and Nick Sutton.

THE DAILY BEAT SHEET was a nightly task for three quarters for Del Marks who finished an unprecedented full year as managing editor fall quarter. During his career, Marks made out over 3,000 reporters' assignments.

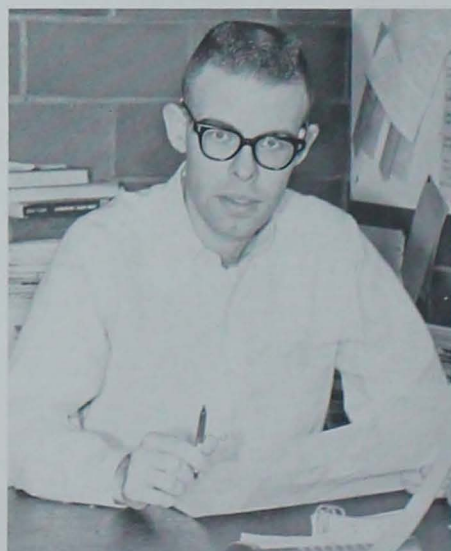

DAILY

Writing, typing, and deadlines.

Copyreading, proofreading, and deadlines.

Pasting, editing, and deadlines.

These all mean that the Iowa State Daily is being published. Under the direction of John Thomas and William Kunerth, faculty advisers, and paid editors, journalism students publish a paper five days a week—Tuesday through Saturday—except during final exam weeks and vacations. The Iowa State Daily serves the student body and university with a meaningful method of communication: it gives coverage to events past, interprets current student affairs, and tells of things to come. The Daily also provides the journalism department with a working laboratory.

DAVID NILSSON BECAME Daily Editor-in-chief last spring quarter. Under his direction the Daily received two William Randolph Hearst awards and national recognition by Sigma Delta Chi.

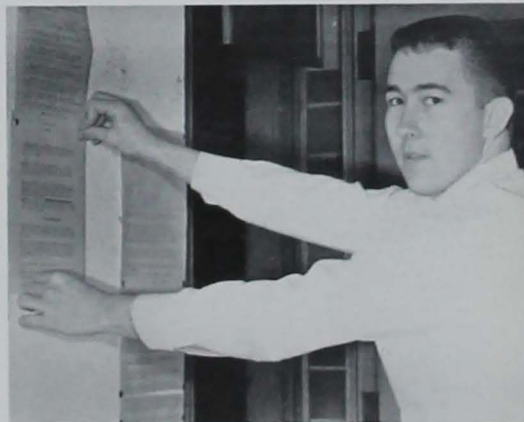

A NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS newspaper teletype service was added to the Daily newsroom last fall. Diane Brockett, winter quarter managing editor, explained the editing of wire copy to Eric Abbott, who succeeded her as assistant managing editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS spent many afternoons working on editorial pages. Nancy Schueller served as associate for a full year and Tom Murray took over the other associate's desk winter quarter. Murray will be editor-in-chief next year.

KEEPING REPORTERS posted and busy all year was sports editor Bill Vint. Other sports editors during the year were Ed Booth and Bob Krotz.

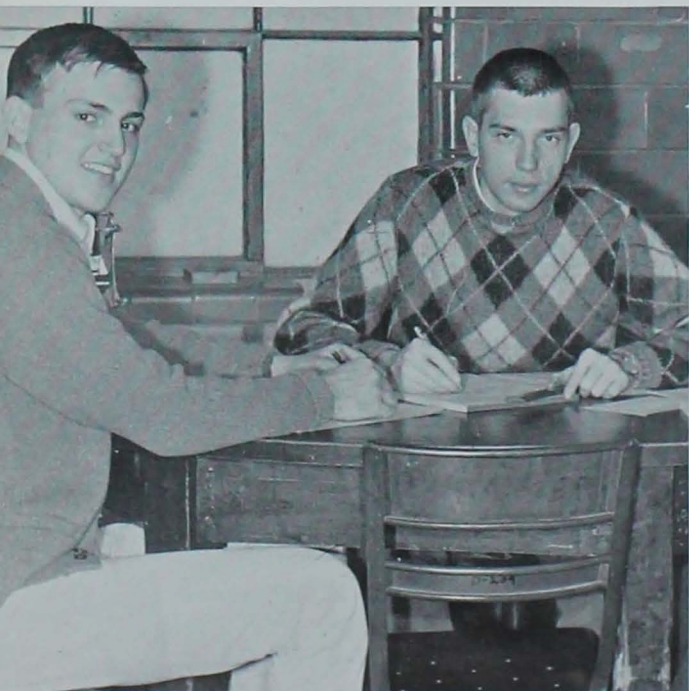

RUSS JOHNSON, business manager, labored hours to keep the Daily in the black until illness forced him to resign. Jim Eberle finished out fall quarter.

THE FIVE NIGHT EDITORS who come in one night a week bear most of the responsibility for the layout of the next day's paper. Winter quarter Kathy Jacobsen began her fifth year on the Daily staff.

BOB KROTZ, FALL QUARTER sports editor, confers with Ed Booth, sports editor spring quarter and associate editor fall quarter, on the next day's paper.

ASSUMING THE DUTIES of business manager spring quarter, Roy Holland joined the ranks of the Daily staff and will continue his position throughout next year.

JUANITA SUTCLIFFE assumed the position of Daily head photographer winter quarter following Helen Holz who handled the picture taking assignments in the fall.

Arousing off-campus interest in University affairs was one of the aims of the Daily this year. Provoking editorials and expanded news coverage made the Daily emerge with new importance. The job sent 25 reporters each quarter from the beginning reporting class scurrying all over the campus and Ames for news. Advertising increased in the Daily as well as news coverage, and the hanging in effigy of the "finky ad staff" kept competition between the editorial and business staff high. The hanging was the climax of one episode of the running battle between news writers and ad salesmen for space in the paper's never-big-enough eight pages. Despite space problems for stories, the Daily was awarded two William Randolph Hearst awards for news stories and received national recognition by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

IOWA ENGINEER

The Iowa Engineer is a divisional college magazine and a member of the Engineering College Magazines Association. Published monthly, October through May, the magazine strives to serve the educational welfare of Iowa State University and the students, alumni, and faculty of engineering. It also tries to acquaint students with new developments in the field of engineering. During October three members of the staff and one advisor attended the National Engineering College Magazines Association convention in Cleveland, Ohio.

THE IOWA ENGINEER has that factor of readability which appeals to everyone on campus regardless of their major.

ETHOS

EDITOR SARA FOLEY found that many of her afternoons and evenings had to be spent in the Ethos office preparing copy.

Ethos—the former Scientist—appeared last spring. A new face accompanied the new name as offset printing became a regular feature of the magazine. Published monthly during the school year, Ethos serves the College of Sciences and Humanities. Articles and features covering a wide variety of subjects are reported. The staff, selected on the basis of grade point, application and interview, meets on alternate Thursdays to discuss and select features, edit, layout, and publish Ethos.

Sketch and Writers' Round Table

SKETCH PUBLICATION BOARD meets for a quarterly review on the day Sketch is distributed. Bob Hagerman, business manager; Diane Buffington, Books and Cokes chairman; Ervin Wolff, editor; Larry Luick, art editor; and Ralph Matthiesen, chairman of the board discuss reports following fall quarter distribution.

"Sketch" is published three times each school year. The fifty-two pages and four page art section of each issue are filled with selections from material submitted by students. The magazine is financed by student activity fees and is distributed free to students. In addition to an interview, the only requirements to join "Sketch" are a 2.00 all-college average and a desire to work for the publication. At the interview, the applicant may either be elected to fill a vacant position or be selected to serve as an apprentice member. At Writers' Round Table students meet to discuss and analyze the writing of the other members. Many of these writings are then submitted to Sketch for publication. Sketch also sponsors Books and Cokes during the fall and spring where students analyze writers and their works.

MEMBERS OF Writers' Round Table meet with Dr. Richard Gustafson, English, to discuss the writing of members of the group.

TYING UP JOURNALS for distribution are John Hayes (circulation mgr.), Pete Schroeder (advertising), Ron Huhn (editor), Herb Hanich (student news editor), Leon Wernimont (business mgr.), and Mylon Filkins (layout editor).

Iowa State Veterinarian

Students in the college of Veterinary Medicine publish the "Veterinarian" quarterly. It serves as a means of communication between students, faculty, and alumni, reporting research information to interested people. The journal is distributed to 74 locations in 29 foreign countries as well as being received by over 1,100 veterinarians in over 40 states. The publication board oversees the activities of the publication and selects people for major positions on the staff. The staff selection is based on interest. articles published include: research news, large and small animal study, veterinary-centered feature articles, editorials, and news from the Dean.

Iowa Agriculturist

The Iowa Agriculturist is the student publication of the College of Agriculture. The magazine was established in 1902 and has continually served as an important source of communication between the agriculture students, faculty, and college. The magazine is published monthly and includes articles of interest to members of the agriculture college.

Iowa Homemaker

Practical experience and the reward of seeing ads, pictures, and stories in published form are part of working on the Iowa Homemaker. Not only journalism majors but others in the College of Home Economics work—interviewing, selling ads, and laying out pages for the monthly magazine. Staff positions are acquired by application and interview.

Zoology Club

The Iowa State Zoology Club is open to all interested students and staff personnel. The purpose of this group is to promote interest in the zoological sciences and to foster social contact among students interested in zoology and entomology. The Zoology Club participates in Veishea open house displays and special projects in the area of zoological study.

Iowa State Players

The Iowa State Players is an organization open to all students. To become a member, a student must work on two shows, after which he becomes a Jester. Then he is voted on by the club officers. After activation he works on at least one show every other quarter. The organization was formed to "stimulate interest and appreciation of dramatic art." This year featured the annual Christmas Party in Shattuck Theatre, and the annual Spring Banquet, and a trip to Des Moines to see a professional production. Players plan to join the National Collegiate Players, a national dramatic fraternity.

BEGGAR'S OPERA TELLS the story of Captain Macheath who professes to love two women and cannot decide who to be true to.

"RING AROUND THE MOON" was presented by players during fall quarter . . .

with the students and faculty members cast in major parts.

STUDENTS BECOME MEMBERS of Players upon completion of a term of "Jester" and then participate in productions every other quarter, such as "The Lady's Not For Burning."

Players celebrate

50th anniversary

Sixty-eight alumni and their families attended the reunion of Iowa State Players this fall. Celebrating the golden anniversary of players, Miss Shattuck was guest of honor at a coffee hour held in her honor. Miss Shattuck founded the Iowa State Players group in 1914 and was responsible for bringing professional drama groups to Iowa State. For many years she was the head of the department of public speaking. Shattuck theatre located near the Press Building on campus was named in her honor.

MISS SHATTUCK founded Players in 1914 and returned to celebrate their golden anniversary this fall.

More than 300 students take part in the Iowa State bands. During fall quarter, the Marching Band performed at all home games and migrated to Columbia for the Missouri game. The band also leads the Veishea parade. The Varsity Band played at the Homecoming Barbecue. The two sections of the Symphonic Band gave concerts on campus and toured Iowa. A brass and percussion Basketball Band played at all the home games and this year the group received new caps and ascots. A new group, the Stage Band, was organized winter quarter and made their debut this spring.

Excluding Festival Chorus, nearly 500 students are involved in choral activities. The Festival Chorus, with 600 or more voices, sang at the Christmas Festival. The Iowa State Singers, like the band, is divided into two sections. They give campus concerts and tour Iowa; Varsity Singers sing on campus each quarter, often joining with the Varsity Band. The Men's glee club has many requests for concerts on campus and off. The Chamber Singers, with about twenty members, specialize in performances demanding refinement and have served as a nucleus for the annual opera cast. Orchestra concerts are given each quarter featuring faculty soloists. The orchestra also tours Iowa. An opera is produced annually with the University Theatre. "Beggar's Opera," a contemporary setting by Benjamin Britten of an eighteenth century opera, was this year's presentation.

MR. FRANK PIER SOL conducted the Iowa State marching band during all the half-time ceremonies at the ISU football games. The band traveled to Missouri where they performed with Joyce Rice, former ISU twirler and appeared on television.

SINCE IOWA STATE had no twirler this fall, guest twirlers were invited to perform with the ISU band at football games.

LAST YEAR the marching band sported new uniforms.

SINGERS ARE WELL-KNOWN to Iowa State students as they sing in concert at Veishea opening ceremonies, Christmas tree lighting, and the Christmas concert directed by Prof. McCowen.

SPAN, the Student Project for Amity among Nations, provides a chance for members to study and travel overseas. During the summer of 1964, a group of twelve SPANers went to western Europe. Each member studied a project of his choice for eight weeks and had the balance of the summer for personal travel. Upon returning, each wrote a sixty to a one hundred fifty page thesis about his project.

Debaters

The Iowa State Debaters sponsor two major tournaments on campus. The Iowa University Debate Tournament, one of the largest tournaments in the U.S., and the Iowa State University High School Speech Tournament are held during winter quarter. Throughout the year, the debaters participate in many tournaments in the midwest.

Radio Workshop

During each quarter, six one half-hour programs are produced for broadcast on WOI-AM by the Radio Workshop. Radio Workshop is a local group dedicated to the production of radio dramas and documentaries. Instruction is given in the use of studio equipment and in the art of producing radio programs. Evaluations are offered by the instructor.

The Iowa State Pep Council is organized to develop and direct student body spirit during football and various winter sports. This was done in many ways. The athletic banquet, Athlete of the Week, pep rallies, the card section, migration to Missouri, special sports bulletin boards, and securing the backing of Ames business men are some of the ways the Pep Council accomplishes this purpose. A new feature used this year was playing ISU songs over the Union loud speaker system on the Friday afternoons before home games. Publicity includes cheerleading try-outs and selection, posters, the Pep Council window outside the Commons, and a number of KASI radio interviews on the Cyclone Sport Show.

Pep Council

PEP COUNCIL CREATED enthusiasm for all of the home games by co-ordinating the multi-colored card section during half-time shows on the football field.

Religion at Iowa State

Student Religious Council

"Impact," a year-long lecture and special events series, was the main project of the Student Religious Council for 1964-1965. This program brought to the Iowa State campus several well-known religious lecturers and also a player's group, the Bishop's Company, which presented "Saint Joan." The members of S.R.C. are elected or appointed representatives from each religious organization at ISU. Its purpose is to co-ordinate all religious activities on campus and provide programs of all-University interest.

University Lutheran

The all-student University Lutheran Congregation offers Sunday morning worship services, a Sunday evening fellowship, study groups, discussions, and informal gatherings to its members. The congregation tries to create an atmosphere in which one can find and develop his personal faith. A few major projects helped draw the congregation together. Some of these projects were serving the annual smorgasbord dinner, planning an all-Iowa Lutheran students retreat, and expanding the Christian outreach program by sponsoring canoe trips during the summer for high school boys.

Newman Club

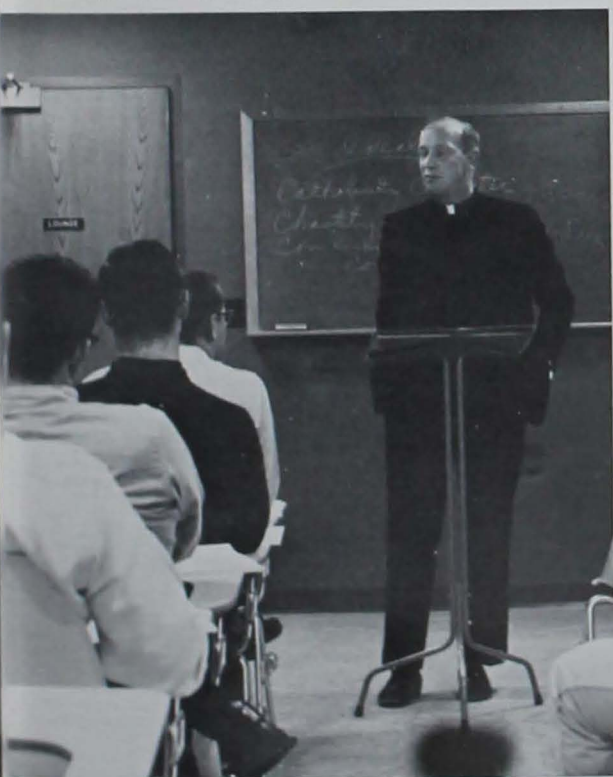

THE MISSAL used at Mass . . .

By sponsoring many special activities and series, Newman Club tried to enrich the lives of its members with a balanced program of religious, educational, and social activities. Last spring, all Newman Club seniors were honored at a senior banquet. "The Lucky Lady," the annual Nugget Casino party, was the biggest social event of the year for the club members. This fall marked the start of a "Christian Culture Series" which featured several nationally-known speakers. Mass was celebrated daily with an average of 250 students attending. The annual Newman Club semi-formal was held January 30.

Worship . . .

Wesley Foundation

The Iowa State Wesley Fellowship, a branch of the National Methodist student movement, strives to become a worshipping, studying, and witnessing community. Weekly meetings, retreats, deputation teams, weekly Friday night open houses, study groups, and communities of lay theologians serve as means of fulfilling these objectives. Several Wesleyites attended the National Methodist Student Movement Quadrennial conference at Lincoln, Nebraska, where they studied the relevance of the church in today's world. Wesleyites also participated in state and regional conferences, social action trips, and work camps at Woodward State Hospital.

Part of the proposed plan involves tutoring the inmates in such skills as math and English as well as developing friendships. Other service projects the club has been involved in are window washing and other janitorial functions for the church. They also usher at church functions.

Kappa Phi

A winter trip to the Beta Chapter at Iowa City was the outstanding event of the year for Kappa Phi, Woman's Methodist Service organization. A membership of nearly seventy women pitched into the club's service projects. Especially successful this year were the fall retreat, the big and little sis party, where new members were officially introduced to the organization, and the Yule Log Service planned for celebrating the Christmas season.

United Campus Christian Fellowship

The United Campus Christian Fellowship was formed at the national level in August 1960 in a Uniting Assembly which took place at Stevens College, Columbia, Missouri. It brought together in an organic union the campus movements of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), the Evangelical United Brethren Church, the United Presbyterian Church, USA, and the United Church of Christ. Recently, the Moravian Church entered the union with the others. Presently negotiations are in progress on the Iowa State campus between the four denominations participating in the original merger to affect a union at the local level of their respective campus movements. The purpose is to develop a structure through which a comprehensive united ministry can be expressed in the university community.

Gamma Delta

Gamma Delta is a national Lutheran student organization which promotes Christian service and knowledge on the college campus. On the Iowa State University campus this purpose is fulfilled by Sunday night meetings, which consist of a vesper service, supper, recreation, and a discussion. Last spring, Gamma Delta celebrated the end of spring quarter with a "Flunkers' Fadeout" picnic at the Ledges. This fall the old members welcomed the freshmen with an ice cream freezer party. At Christmas time, Gamma Delta held a party to help decorate the church.

Canterbury club is one of the means by which the Episcopal church seeks to carry out its ministry in the university community. This ministry is carried on through programs for Iowa State students. Topics of these programs range from the church's position on sex, morals, and drinking to politics, current issues, and other faiths. Last May, the members of Canterbury Club presented a service of Holy Communion to the congregation of St. John's Episcopal Church. The service was sung in a folksong setting and accompanied by four guitars. This service was again repeated for the congregation in November.

Attending Urbana, the IVCF Mission Conference held at Urbana, Illinois, was the highlight of the year for several of the members of Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Other activities of this interdenominational Christian organization included spring and fall weekend retreats, picnics, Bible study groups, and weekly meetings.

Baptist Student Fellowship

Through discussions, retreats, and service projects, the BSF provides opportunities for Christian fellowship. Special programs of the year were a presentation by the Wilkie House Dramateers and reports from African students and Peace Corp participants. "Sexuality in Crisis" and "The God Hypothesis" were two themes of Iowa Baptist student retreats.

Council of Religion

The Council of Religion is an advisory group to the Student Religious Council, the university, and to the local churches on matters concerning religious affairs. The council consists of one layman and one professional person from each church. This group sends out correlated information to new students about religious groups active at Iowa State.

ATHLETICS

Quick decisions or deliberation could mean a victory or a defeat. Shirt-sleeve warmth or teeth-gritting cold meant nothing to football fans who waited for the decisions while players concentrated on the plays. You cheered the sports and the teams to victory and were rewarded, but bit your lips at defeat . . .

Iowa State opened the 1964 football season with sixteen lettermen and one of the most promising groups of sophomores in Cyclone history. It appeared to everyone that the Cyclones were headed for an excellent season. As usual the team was light and lacked depth, but these deficiencies were not as noticeable as they had been in recent years. As the season progressed it became obvious that Iowa State was not going to have a good season or even an average one. Everything seemed to go wrong for the Cyclones and right for their opponents. It turned out to be a disappointing season for Coach Clay Stapleton and the Iowa State Cyclones.

AS FANS AND PLAYERS left the field the scoreboard recorded the only Cyclone win of the season—over the Drake Bulldogs, 25-0.

but fans bit their lips as the Cyclones sunk to a 42-6 loss.

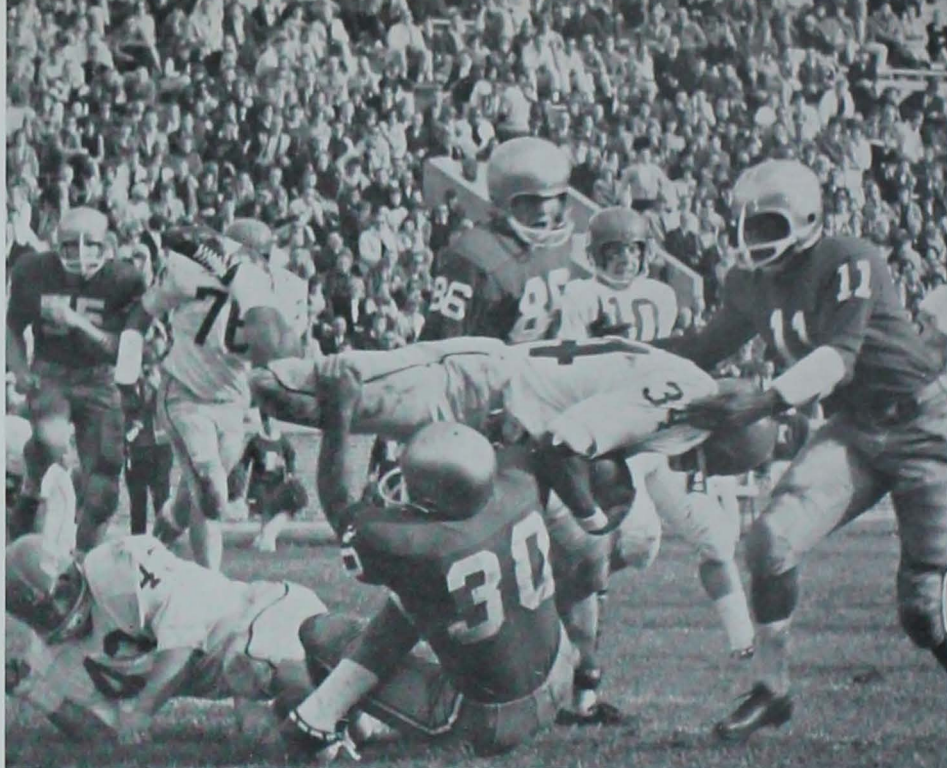

THE NEBRASKA CORNHUSKERS scored a costly victory over the Iowa State Cyclones, 14-7, when Fred Duda, the starting quarterback, broke his leg the first time Nebraska had the ball.

The Cyclones opened the season against Drake University. Iowa State completely dominated the game as they gained 313 yards, mostly on the ground, and yielded only 61 yards to Drake. Three different players scored touchdowns and three other scores were called back because of penalties. Steve Balkovec kicked a field goal to complete the scoring. The Cyclones traveled to Stillwater, Oklahoma, the next week for the conference opener with the Oklahoma State Cowboys. Iowa State's Tony Baker scored first on a one yard plunge and the Cyclones battled to an 8-8 half-time score. When Tom Vaughn was injured in the third quarter, Iowa State lost its drive and the Cowboys powered to a 29-14 win. The Cyclones returned home to entertain Nebraska. They played well, but lacked the depth to stop the powerful Big Eight champions. Tony Baker scored the only touchdown on a crowd-pleasing 58 yard run. All-American John Van Sicklen was voted lineman of the week by the Associated Press for his outstanding defensive work. The next week, Kansas invaded Clyde Williams field. The surprisingly powerful Jayhawks ran up a 42-6 score against the hard luck Cyclones. This loss was the most points scored against a Clay Stapleton team in seven years.

IT TAKES A LOT to stop the teams on the march, but Iowa State men find that a lot of team work and sheer determination help.

WITH A 92-YARD RUN, the Colorado team gained just the needed touchdown to hand Iowa State a 14-7 defeat.

Iowa State's bad luck continued when Colorado's Ted Somerville intercepted a pass and ran it back 92 yards to set up the touchdown that beat the Cyclones 14-7. On a regionally televised game the next week at Missouri, the Cyclones offense bogged down and caused them to lose 10-0. The defense, led by Captain Mike Cox, turned in another outstanding performance. Iowa State next traveled to West Point, New York, to meet Army. Sophomore quarterback Kip Koski led the team to its best offensive attack of the season in the second half, completing 8 out of 15 passes. Another bad break on a penalty and missed field goal with seconds to play gave the Cadets a 9-7 victory, however. The next week the Cyclones were overpowered 30-0 by Oklahoma. The Kansas State game was probably the most frustrating game of the year. The Cyclones scored with 26 seconds remaining, only to have the touchdown nullified by a penalty, and eventually lost the game 7-6. The season ended with a 0-0 tie at Arizona. Tom Vaughn gained 136 yards in the last game to boost his career total to 1889. The season record at 1-8-1 was the worst since 1930.

Iowa State starts early, but goes down with a 1964 record of 1-8-1

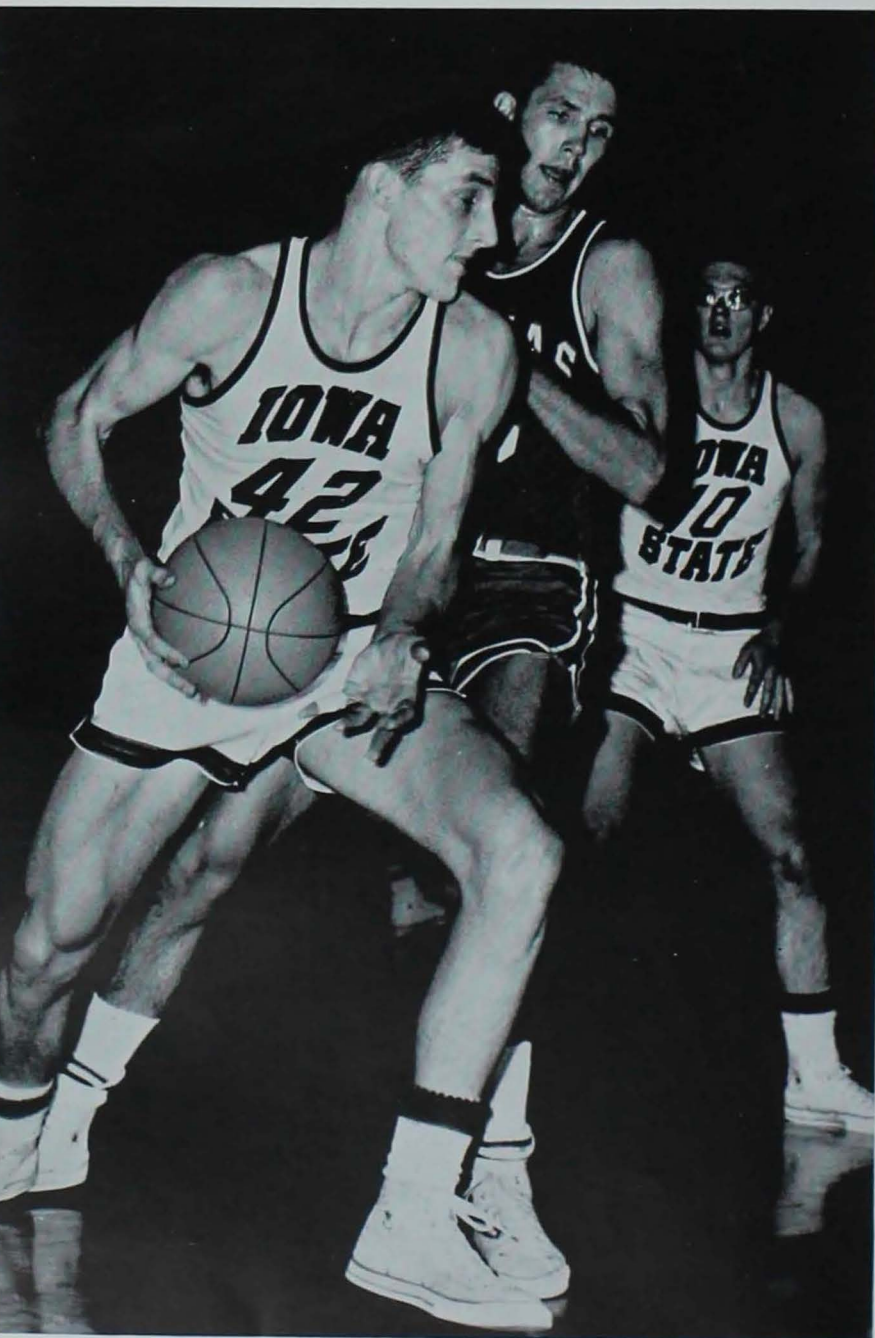

EVEN BEFORE FANS start to think of the football Saturdays and the cheering crowds, the football team begins practice. Spring football practice starts picking the players for the next season.

DESPITE a heart-breaking season, Coach Clay Stapleton urged the Cyclones for victory and an Iowa State trio was named to the AP All-Big Eight Conference football team. Tom Vaughn, Mike Cox, and John Van Sicklen were honored.

Cheering, screaming fans power Iowa State to new high, but Cyclones fall from third to sixth in Big Eight

BEFORE A REGIONAL TELEVISION crowd the Cyclones repeated the form which they had shown a few weeks earlier when they beat Kansas 72-60 at Iowa State. Then they went to Lawrence and again shut out the Jayhawks 64-58.

DESPITE DRAKE'S 6-foot-seven-inch Bob Netolicky, Iowa State cagers stopped the Bulldogs in an 82-74 triumph.

Basketball

When the season opened, it appeared that the Cyclones had little chance of having a good season. Only three lettermen were back from last year's team. Bob Zeigler and Al Koch were the only returning regulars. The other letterman was senior guard, Bob VanderWilt. The Cyclones lost five times before they beat their arch-rival Drake 82-75 for their first win. In their next outing, Iowa State beat Marquette and carried a 2-5 record into the Big Eight Tournament. There they lost the first two games, but beat Nebraska to come home with seventh place in the tournament.

IT WAS A BATTLE for the ball all during the Cyclone game with Minnesota.

CHARITY SHOTS at the line mean the difference between victory and defeat for Iowa State facing a top Big Eight school like Oklahoma.

The Cyclones dropped the conference opener to Oklahoma State 54-52 in an overtime, but came back to beat Oklahoma in the next game. After losing three games in a row, Iowa State reversed itself and won three straight, including a regional television victory over powerful Kansas and defending champion Kansas State. The Cyclones lost five of the last seven games but were one of only two teams who were able to beat Missouri on their home court. Al Koch and Bob Ziegler were standouts throughout the season. Koch was the second highest scorer in Iowa State history and was chosen for the All-Big Eight conference and District All-American teams.

HEIGHT IS THE KEY to the game of basketball and if you haven't enough you need to play with your feet off the ground.

Bob Zeigler was the second leading scorer in the conference, broke the Cyclone rebounding record for a guard, and was selected to the All-Big Eight conference second team. Bob VanderWilt and Dave Flemming also had excellent seasons for Iowa State. Coach Glen Anderson was second in the balloting for Big Eight coach of the year. The Cyclones voted Bob Zeigler and Al Koch as most valuable players. The cyclone freshman team finished the season with a perfect 8-0 record. Frank Gompert's regular five were led by the 23.7 scoring of forward Don Smith. John McGonigle and center Raul Duarte, also young Cyclones, were in double figures.

This was to the nation's number one team, Oklahoma State. Iowa State finished the season with a 14-1 dual meet record. The Cyclones also finished second in the Big Eight conference meet. Captain Roger Sebert, Bob Buzzard, and last year's NCAA champion, Gordon Hassman, all won Big Eight conference championships. Hassman was undefeated during the year. Sebert won eleven times and Veryl Long nine times. Tom Peckham also had an outstanding season.

Gymnasts unseat Nebraska for Big Eight title

Iowa State's amazing progress in gymnastics continued in its fourth year of existence. In dual meets against some of the best competition in the country, the gymnasts lost only to Southern Illinois. They also unseated Nebraska as Big Eight Conference champions. When the Bomb went to press, the Cyclones were one of only four teams left in the NCAA National tournament. Sophomore Jerry Fontana and Jim Selby were outstanding gymnasts throughout the entire Cyclone season.

Backstroker Neal Armstrong and diver Wayne Oras each won two Big Eight championships. Ken Knapp finished second in both diving events. Armstrong and both relay teams also qualified for the NCAA tournament which was held in the Iowa State pool. Other strong performers for the Cyclones were Dan McQuillen, Bruce McDonald, Jim Soppe, Jim Ruggles, and John Moreland.

The Iowa State baseball season was characterized by periods of good and bad streaks. The Cyclones started out well but then lost three straight games to Kansas. They then won six games in a row beating Colorado and Kansas State each three times. Iowa State needed only one victory in three games with Oklahoma to insure a second place finish in the conference. Unfortunately, they lost all three games and wound up in third place with a conference record of 10-7. The Cyclones were led by their battery combination of pitchers Jerry Closter, Bob Zeigler, and Roger Pardun and catcher Dave Hoyt. Other outstanding players were shortstop Dick Olsen, infielder Wendell Blankenburg, and outfielder Al Tubbs. Iowa State's season record was 12 wins and 7 losses.

The team showed improvement throughout the season. After losing four of the first five matches, they came back and finished the season by winning four of their last six outings. Two of these wins were 7-0 shutouts.

Coach Bob Lawson said that the Freshman team was "the best ever;" it had manpower and ability which helped the Varsity squad. The Freshman sprint medley relay team and the mile relay team placed second and first respectively at the Drake Relays. Highlights of the State Federation Meet were Norm Johnston, who won the high jump, triple jump, and 120-yard high hurdles, and the "Iowa Stater's" Track Club relay team which placed first in the 440-yard relay. Captain Norm Johnston holds all high hurdle marks at Iowa State University, and last season he was on the All-American high hurdle team. Norm was the leading scorer in the Drake meet with 27 of the team's total points.

Cheer Squad

This year's Cyclone cheer squad consists of six boys and six girls who were chosen during spring tryouts last year. Besides leading the cheering section, the cheer squad sponsored a cheer clinic for more than 300 Iowa high school cheerleaders.

Cyclone Sabres

Iowa State's fencing club is Cyclone Sabres which was organized at Iowa State in 1958. Several members are in the Amateur Fencing league of America which competes with members from all over the state. Sabres offer lessons to anyone interested and also compete with teams from other universities. The club also holds intra-squad dueling for positions.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL is almost as competitive as a normal basketball game, especially if the honor of the house is at stake.

Intramural sports offer relaxation, competition, teamwork

The intramural program at Iowa State includes over 24 different sports. The main sports are team efforts such as touch football, volleyball, basketball, and softball. Individual sports including handball and golf, and less strenuous ones like bridge and chess make the program well-rounded. Champions in each sport are decided in each of the four classifications (MRA, fraternity, ward, and graduate-staff) and then an all-University champion is usually decided from the four champions. Coeds also have a limited intramural program which offers friendly competition.

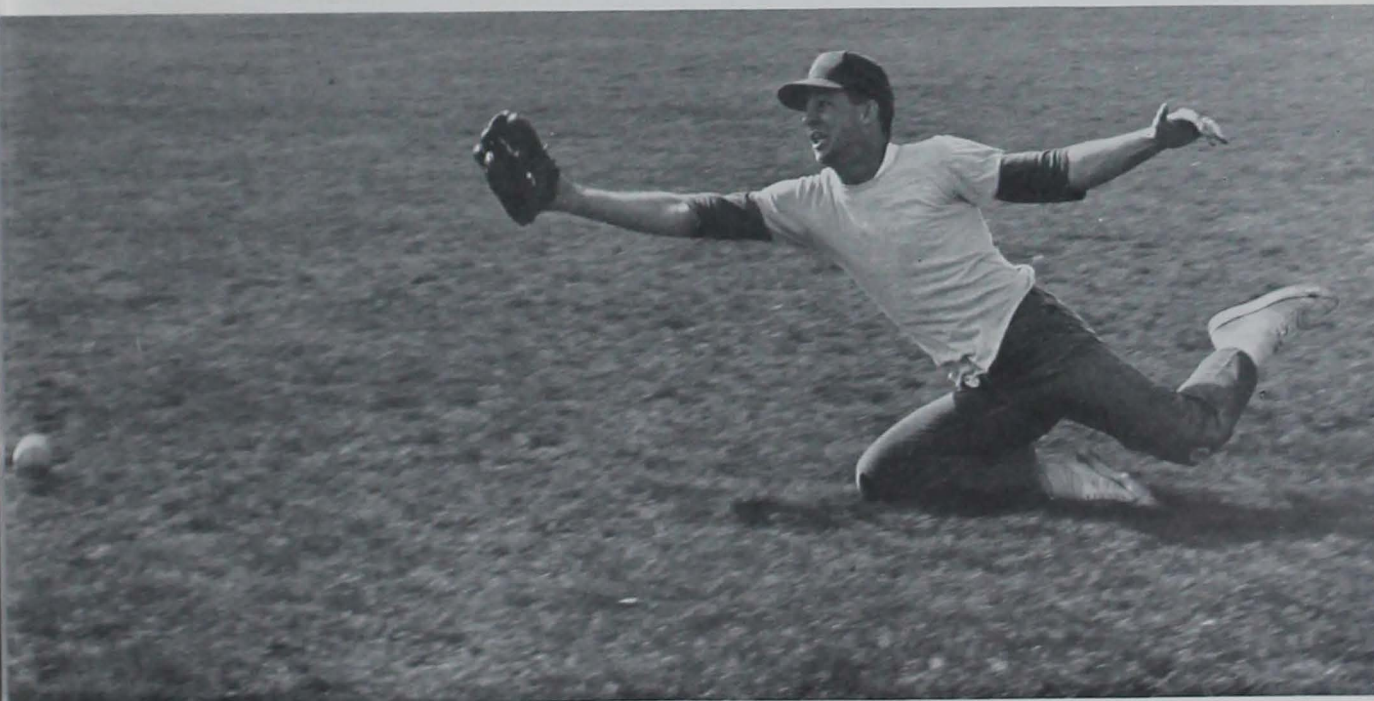

EACH SEASON has its own sport and the warm afternoons of fall finds the intramural field with houses pitted against each other in football games.

Varsity I Club

Athletes who have earned at least one letter at Iowa State are eligible for membership in Varsity "I" Club. Candidates are required, however, to go through pledge week and initiation before becoming members. The club was created to promote closer relationships among the letter winners of the various sports and to provide an organization which will establish recognition of the athletes to the students and faculty. Each spring the graduating "I" Club members are presented an "I" blanket by the club.

Friley, Westgate, and Helser Halls house 2700 men and compose the Men's Residence Association. These men are divided into 48 houses with about 40 to 80 men in each house. KISU

Service I given to KISU for their contribution to Iowa State campus

Radio station KISU broadcasts from studios in Friley Hall serving the Men's Residence Association and Women's Residence Association with music to listen, relax, or study to. This year the station received the Service I Award. KISU broadcasts seven days a week from 6:30 a.m. to 1 a.m. Along with providing music, the station covers campus events such as the Government of the Student Body nominating convention, the MRA nominating convention, home basketball games, and events held in the Memorial Union. This year KISU established a new disk jockey system with the WRA with 48 to 50 emcees.

DURING BLAST, KISU gets a chance to broadcast programs right on the spot while keeping a running tally on the progress toward the Blast goal.

KISU IS INDEPENDENTLY owned and operated by the Men's Residence Association and broadcasts music and news to the campus.

Next year with the addition of new houses at the Towers, Main Cabinet will assume new importance in integrating activities and policies for independent men.

Head Residents

With the addition of the new houses to the MRA both this year and last year, more men assumed the position of head resident. As an advisor, the head resident gives personal counseling to men, checks to see that the physical conditions of the house are in top condition, and attends weekly meetings to keep up with the techniques for performing his duties.

HEAD RESIDENTS—Front Row: Neppl, Donelson, Huyette (asst. supt.), Rudig (supervisor), Looft, Puff. Second Row: Peyton, Moir, Brownlee, Yelick, Rodgers, Wood, Wages, Cordts. Third Row: Merkel, Harves, Berg, Anderson W., Hitzhusen, Shaull, Harcharik, Stoddard, McClain, Mulert. Fourth Row: Riessen, Beeghly, Bergman, Daehler, Selter, Kilkenny, Waldstein, Johnston R. F., Christensen, Chamberlain. Back Row: Alleman, Roy, Jentz, Hall G., Head, Cooney, Krantz, Johnson P., Larsen R., Rosenblatt, Armstrong.

Each spring the outstanding men in the MRA are recognized by being tapped as members of Chessmen, an honorary for independent men. Selection is based on scholarship and leadership in campus activities. Members wear pawns during initiation and are recognized at the spring MRA dance.

MRA Executive Council

The executive council of the MRA this year was headed by members of the Progressive Party. The progressives worked to step up communications within the MRA. The new pin design was created for the MRA and increased use and support of the organizations sponsored by the MRA was undertaken.

MRA offers clubs and various activities for independent men and their individual interests

Besides providing an atmosphere of college life, the Men's Residence Association strives to promote activities which will insure the education of all aspects of the man. Two of these activities sponsored by the MRA are Toastmasters and the Weightlifting Club. Toastmasters meet weekly to develop skills in public speaking and a traveling trophy is awarded to the best speaker. The Weightlifters Club offers an equipment room which is well stocked to keep men in top physical condition. Members are also found competing in Midwestern meets.

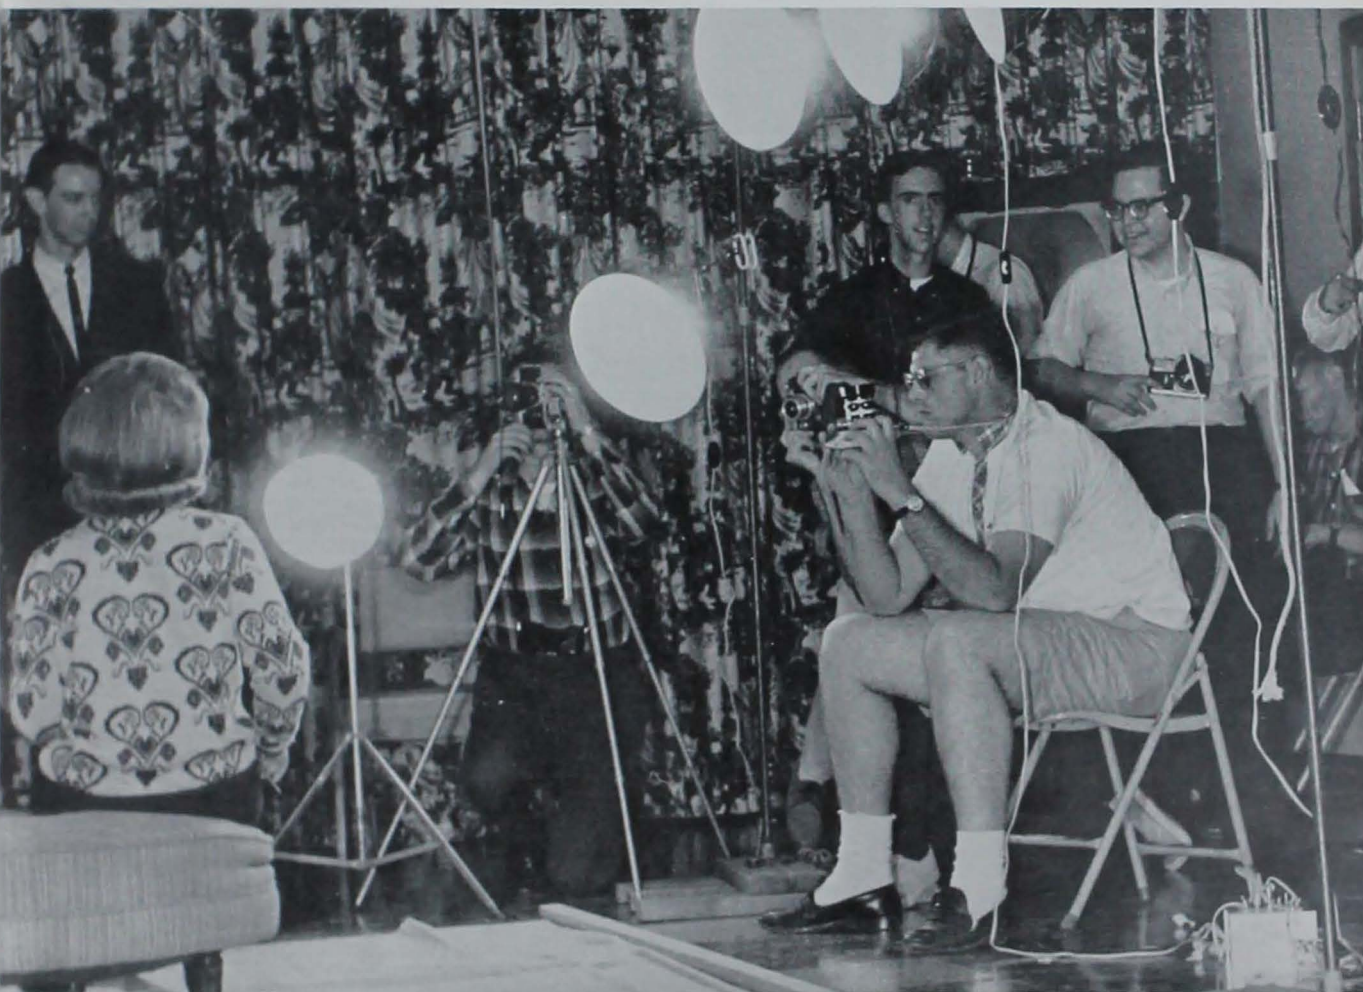

MRA TOASTMASTERS meet to discuss topics dealing with the campus and the news and to practice their speaking ability.

Camera Club stages 'model shoot'; holds print competition

USING LIVE MODELS is only one of the advantages members of the MRA Camera Club have. The MRA also provides darkroom facilities for printing and developing pictures.

The MRA fosters an opportunity to gain knowledge about photography through an organization known as Camera Club. Instruction classes, print contests, informational programs, speakers, and informal "model shoots" give the men a chance to practice or polish their techniques of photography. The MRA has a darkroom with facilities to develop both black and white and Agfa Color and to print the pictures.

BAKER HOUSE

Advertising pays, but Baker men print their own money for 'Blackjack'

The men of Baker House know that advertising pays. Graduating seniors are given house paddles, and stationery and sweatshirts are available to foster unity in the house and let people know who the Baker men are. A Casino Party with Blackjack tables, a dice table, a wheel of fortune, and a bar (which served punch) livened spring quarter. Money flowed freely, compliments of the Baker House press. Running all over campus on a scavenger hunt was part of a Halloween party sponsored by Baker men. The men and their dates also carved pumpkins and bobbed for apples in Westgate lounge. Winter turned thoughts to tobogganing but lack of snow changed plans to an evening of dancing, bingo, and fireplace cooking at Lynn Fuhrer Lodge.

THE TABLES IN THE BAKER HOUSE den give the men the space they need to get down to business on problems.

BENNETT MEN relax with television and liquid refreshment.

"Bennett House on the Move" was the motto for this active group last year. The Niles-Bennett group was the only MRA entry in Sinfonia spring quarter, singing their way to finals. Fall gave the men itchy feet as Blast found Bennett and Birch sailing a "Bunny Barge." The river boat featured gambling and show boat entertainment by Bunnies during the evening. Although the weather was nippy, Bennett men turned out for a fall hayride. The house took first place for MRA activity points winter quarter.

BEYER HOUSE

*'Spring Shadows' introduce spring to Beyer men;
capture softball trophy*

Last winter, three of the four Beyer House teams competed in Class A intramural basketball. In the spring, one of the Beyer House volleyball teams captured the Class B title and a softball team brought the Class C trophy. Beyer finished in the top five in the MRA intramural ranks last spring quarter. Beyer's spring house party "Spring Shadows," was held at Boone. The men also held exchanges with Welch Hall, Methodist Nurses and Mercy Nurses in Des Moines.

BOYD HOUSE

THE MEN OF BOYD HOUSE prepare to leave for one of the exchanges which were planned for several weekends.

*Boyd designs house sweatshirt;
plan for a big move in the fall*

Boyd House is a moving house. Due to the conversion of Westgate to a women's dormitory, the men of Boyd are moving the house out to the Towers next fall. This year Boyd held several exchanges at the Ledges, held a football exchange, and designed a house sweatshirt. The men were active in the intramurals program, entering teams in softball, football, bowling, track, and volleyball.

A steak fry at the ledges was the highlight of events for the members of Brown House spring quarter. Social life resumed fall quarter as the men of Brown had two exchanges with the Iowa Lutheran Nurses School in Des Moines. The men combined forces with Elm Hall to win first place in the WRA Division of Homecoming with "Science Plus Practice Yields Victory." Brown was successful in winter quarter intramurals winning two bowling titles plus the MRA swim chapionship. Brown men also participated actively in intramural football and volleyball.

CAINE HOUSE

Caine House receives top award for outstanding MRA house this year

WITH BARTON, the men of Caine participated in varieties with an original skit.

The men of Caine House participated in many activities this past year. In intramurals, they won the class B volleyball, the class A softball and the indoor track meet. As a result of their participation, they won first place for total intramural points for the MRA. Social activities included a ski lodge party and a Halloween hayride, climaxed by the annual spring formal, "Spring Shadows." Other house activities were their Veishea canoe race finalist, participation in the "Yell-like-Hell" contest and a Blast booth with DZ's. Through organization and enthusiasm, Caine men learned the advantages of combining a strong activities program with studies.

Cardinal Key member named; Carpenter basketball team Class A champs

CARPENTER HOUSE

The plug-along was typical of the man in Carpenter House. The men kept moving from job to job in intramurals and social functions, and even managed a little T. V. and studying on the side. Several exchanges highlighted the social year, especially at Halloween and Christmas. Meanwhile, on the gym floor, the volleyball team played into the finals, while the basketball team took Class A championship. The house was honored with its Head Residency, Jim Grunig, being tapped as a member of Cardinal Key. Everyone got back to normal when many freshman came in fall quarter, bolstering the promise of future fun together.

CARPENTER MEN INSISTED that the Bomb picture had to have, of all normal things, a picture of the Bomb Beauty candidate.

Cessna claims title of 'best, biggest, toughest, little house in MRA'

JUST FOR A STUDY BREAK the men of Cessna try their hand at a game of Carroms.

Cessna House is busily defending its motto of being the "best, biggest, toughest, littlest house in the MRA," having only about 20 men in the house this year. In spite of their size, Cessna men were active in intramural basketball and bowling. Spring quarter brought Cessna men out of hibernation for their annual house picnic at the Ledges. A small group can make hayrides cosier the men of Cessna discovered during spring quarter. So, they had another hayride fall quarter. Too much of a good thing? Not according to Cessna men.

CHAMBERLAIN HOUSE

"The Birth of the Tin Lizzy" was depicted in the Veishea float which Chamberlain and Welch Hall entered in the parade. With Freeman Hall, the men of Chamberlain presented a spring dance with the theme "Fantasia." The Nevada Country Club was decorated in pink, yellow, and white to carry out the spring theme. Balloons completed the decorations. Chamberlain's intramural football team won the Class D championship. Their bowling team also placed high in the bowling tournament.

THE MEN OF CHAMBERLAIN brought home trophies for intramural bowling and football this year.

CONVERSE MEN ASSUME the role of policemen for Blast and await to arrest lawbreakers for "Kangaroo Kourt."

CONVERSE HOUSE

Converse House has worked hard on the railroad with Freeman Hall. The combination Veishea float, "The Last Tie," depicted the meeting of the First transcontinental railroad. Enthusiasm for fall was high as the men won Pre-Blast Publicity trophy for their "Kangaroo Kourt" booth, featuring Keystone Kop characters running around campus the previous week. Freeman bought the woodsie breakfast that Converse offered at the Campus Chest Auction. Converse men raced to first place in the MRA division of intramural track. The men also added competition in softball, football, and basketball.

A formal dance at the Nevada Country Club started the year for the men of Davidson House. Highlight of spring quarter was the construction of the Queen of Queen's float for the 1964 Veishea parade. Over half the house worked on the float which was Iowa State's entry in the Drake Relays parade. The men showed such enthusiasm that they won the honor of building the Queen's float for the Veishea parade 1965. Davidson men enjoyed dinner exchanges with Iowa State women and a dance with Drake women. Members of the house were also active in campus honoraries: Eta Kappa Nu, Tomahawk, Knights of St. Patrick, and Tau Beta Pi.

Trotting for a turkey Thanksgiving dinner kept Dodds men in shape

DODDS HOUSE

UP TO THEIR EARS in "Daily's" meant that the campus newspaper had more-than-normal appeal to the men of Dodds.

During spring quarter Dodds House men took time off from working on Veishea to hold an informal dance and picnic at Madrid. "Growth—Outward, Onward, Upward" brought third place honors to Dodds men which they shared with Oak Hall in the Veishea float combinations division. Intramurally, Dodds men participated in Class A softball, Class A volleyball, Class A football, Class A, B & D basketball, and pro bowling. Fall quarter opened with the annual orientation picnic, a hayride in Ogden, and house dinner with a guest speaker. Dodds men turned out for the Turkey Trot, a riotous chase for Thanksgiving dinner. Winter quarter brought more formal dances to Dodds House.

ELWOOD HOUSE

Competing for the championship, volleyball took precedence over studies

Elwood entered the year with lots of spirit and enthusiasm. They participated in Veishea with an open house display. At Homecoming, the Elwood men with the women of Birch Hall built a display which captured the second place trophy in the WRA division. Elwood and Birch also held a hayride. The house volleyball team won the Class A championship and went on to compete for the all-University championship. Elwood also placed first in checkers and bowling tournaments.

Old members welcome new Fairchild men with dinner, exchange, picnic

PROJECTORS . . . people . . . people and projectors. The urge to show slides is overpowering for the Fairchild men.

The men of Fairchild had another active year. About fifty per cent of the house is occupied by freshmen and new students. These new men were welcomed with a house dinner, an exchange with Birch Hall, and a picnic during Freshmen Orientation Week. The men held a dance exchange with the Iowa Lutheran Nurses School in Des Moines. Bowling, volleyball, basketball, and softball teams competed under the Fairchild banner. Five Fairchild teams entered in the Veishea canoe races. A new television set was added to the house den, and the men sold a work project to raise money for the Campus Chest auction.

FIRKINS HOUSE

Sigma Tau Sigma honors Firkins men who are outstanding

Firkins House, now in its second year, has continued its list of activities. This year's formal, "Cupid's Capers," was held at the Red Barn. A Veishea float, "Building Together," was constructed with Sigma Kappa sorority. Firkins participated in this year's Homecoming with a display entitled, "'64, The Year of the Big Win—d." House hayrides and exchanges rounded out a full year of social activities. Firkins House established an honorary fraternity, Sigma Tau Sigma (spirit, unity, service) for house members who have made outstanding contributions to Firkins House. Seven men are selected each year for the fraternity. In intramurals, the football team reached quarter finals of Class A competition. Firkins also entered in the college bowl competition this year.

FRESHMEN EDUCATIONAL GOVERNMENT gave freshmen of Firkins the chance to see workings of college government.

A TURKISH WATER PIPE was the newest innovation tried by the Foster House men and their pets this year.

Foster House had an active year, with Veishea activities heading the list. The house built a novelty float, "A Tribute to the Eighteenth" and was one of the MRA model houses. Also in the spring, the men of Foster held a dance with the theme, "Casino." Fall quarter was highlighted by Homecoming activities when Foster sponsored Mary Anderson in the Homecoming queen contest, and a Blast booth, "Le Jet à Jambe." Participation in the MRA and all-University intramural program rounded out the year. Foster teams entered softball, volleyball, football, bowling, and basketball teams in intramural competition.

Collecting their ransom, Franklin men asked an exchange for Linden sign

FRANKLIN HOUSE

Franklin House's spring party consisted of dinner followed by an evening of dancing. In an effort to deplete the treasury of its surplus, the men of Franklin held a steak fry at Brookside. Several of the men decided to take a refreshing dip in the Skunk river afterwards. Since sixty-five per cent of the Franklin men are freshmen, an orientation program was put into effect. A large sign from East Linden made good ransom for an exchange. An exchange with the nurses of Mercy Hospital in Des Moines was also held. The men of Franklin formed bowling, volleyball, football, and softball intramural teams.

Fulmer builds Veishea float and participates in Varieties

THE MUSIC GOES 'round and 'round and comes out here—when the men show their talent at a Fulmer House concert.

FULMER HOUSE

As a group, the men of Fulmer participated in Varieties and Veishea. With Birch Hall they staged a flash act, "Telephone Hour," and the Fulmer-Roberts float for Veishea was, "The Country Doctor." Individually, for the second consecutive year, two Fulmer men were selected to Phi Kappa Phi, the national senior scholastic honorary. Also, for the first time, a Fulmerite was tapped into Chessmen, the MRA activities honorary. Other members were active in Alpha Chi Sigma, and Iowa State Players.

Godfrey men entered five Veishea Canoe teams; looked to 'Futurama'

GODFREY HOUSE

Godfrey House was in the Veishea swim as five teams entered the Canoe Races. A sporting group, the men won the Class D volleyball tournament and were active in softball. To work off frustrations, Godfrey provided "Futurama" at Blast. Frenzied souls could pound an old car for a ticket. Many special dinners were held with women's halls, at the Ledges, and with special guest speakers. Dr. E. B. Smith was one of the guests. Godfrey men tried their hand at miniature golf with Barton women and eating watermelon at a "bust" with Freeman. Christmas caroling with Lyon women was a winter quarter activity. Two Godfrey men were active in MRA politics in the Presidential election.

MRA AND HOUSE ELECTIONS gave the men of Godfrey a chance to practice politics in a nationally political year as they held demonstrations and voted for their candidate.

SMUGGLING a Bomb beauty candidate into the house for the Bomb informal picture. What could be more natural?

Although enthusiastic, Griffith House was unsuccessful in an attempt to "Chug-a-Lug to Victory" for Homecoming. Their spirits weren't dampened in the Canoe Races as Griffith went on to win top point count per man in intramurals. Sports included a second and third place bowling teams, first place in dual swimming meets, and a big first in the fall Turkey Trot. Turkey chasing won two hens for the men. Parties spicing the variety of the year included pizza parties, a hayride, picnics, and dinner exchanges. A new constitution was drafted in anticipation of a new house and a large wooden paddle keeps the past and present Griffith House roll.

HABER HOUSE

Blast gave Haber House men a chance to explore the lower regions with their ingenuity. Anyone could ask the Haber devils to let a friend or an enemy "Go to Hell" for the price of a Blast ticket. Salvation was provided by friends outside the "Blast Inferno." Haber men also entertained the Dogpatch set at their fall party. Included in the social calendar were hayrides, tobogganing exchanges, and a winter quarter formal. The men ran to fourth place in intramural track and showed enthusiasm for volleyball, basketball, bowling, and softball.

HALSTED HOUSE

POPCORN AND LIQUID REFRESHMENTS made the den parties in Halsted nothing to "be-still" about.

"Stairway of Our Nation" was the Halsted House Veishea entry. On the staircase rode children as Pilgrims, American patriots, Civil War characters, Pioneers, and space explorers. The costumes were made by Lyon women. With fall came freshman exchanges, watermelon busts, miniature golf and hootenannies. An autumn Thanksgiving theme set the stage for a fall party while the romance of Valentine's Day invaded the Holst Hotel in Boone, site of the winter party. Life was not all parties. Halsted men placed second in Class A basketball and first in the spring intramural track meet.

The men of Harriman House led the MRA in grade point average spring quarter. The house has been either first or second scholastically for eight of the last nine quarters. Harriman men also found time to compete in intramural softball, football, basketball, and volleyball. The men combined talents with Welch to build the Blast booth "Lady or the Tiger" for Campus Chest fun. Exchanges were with the Iowa Lutheran Student Nurses, Delta Zeta, East Linden, and Iowa Methodist Student Nurses. The highlight of the social year was "Night Light," a dinner-dance held at the Red Barn.

JONES HOUSE

COULD IT BE POSSIBLE that the men of Jones House are the notorious television thieves?

Second smallest house in the MRA, tries for top activities record

Jones House, with thirty one members, is the second smallest house in the MRA. But in terms of activities, Jones is as big as any. In intramurals, the men of Jones formed three basketball teams, a bowling team which held its class championship for two consecutive quarters, and one member became intramural wrestling champion. The men held a Christmas carol exchange with Lyon Hall and a hayride with Birch Hall. Last spring, they made a large "Jones House Welcomes You" sign for Veishea. Several members were in "Stars Over Veishea." One of the men is a member of the Pershing Rifles.

Kimball initiates nightcrawler hunt exchange; reverse IBM dates

KIMBALL HOUSE

Kimball House was all fired up last winter when a stray cigarette started a blaze that burned the curtains in a room. A safer fire provided sizzling steaks for the men at the annual stag steak fry. Kimball has introduced some social firsts over the past year. After an unsuccessful attempt to initiate a nightcrawler hunt exchange, the men came up with a reverse IBM-type arrangement. The Barton women drew cards with names and information about Kimball men on them and then the women called the men for dates. Kimball men bounced to third in Class A basketball and were ping pong singles and doubles champs for the second year.

CHRISTMAS TREES JUST DON'T come as large as they used to and Kimball men found no difficulty placing the ornaments on the very top of their Christmas tree for the house den.

A SLEIGHT of the hand . . . or a magic trick, the men of Knapp watch a spoon stand on end.

Knapp House was chosen as the model house of the MRA at Veishea to show typical residence living to visitors. But, the model house was plagued with small fires and exploding firecrackers last fall. For Homecoming the head resident received a surprise present in his room—a buffalo. Knapp men bought a spaghetti supper from East Linden to support Blast, but were frustrated in their attempt to give orphans a Christmas party. The men had their own winter party, a "Chalet Holiday," with three other houses. Batting to the semi-finals in softball put Knapp men in shape to win Class A and C Bowling. The house entered politics last year with members of the house, FEG president, Rick Hensch, and FEG Ag senator, Jim Buck, leading the way.

In the spring of '64 Lange House won the MRA volleyball championship for the third straight time. The house was active socially holding several exchanges. Their house party was held at the Val-Aire Ballroom in Des Moines. Veishea saw the men working hard on the model house display for Lange House. Fall quarter was highlighted by building a Homecoming display. Also fall quarter Lange men had their house dinner at the Broiler. Guest of the evening was Dr. Schlebecker who told his views on the 1964 Presidential election. Despite the participation in many campus activities, Lange men remained in the top ten percent scholastically in the MRA.

LINCOLN HOUSE

For the men of "Friley's Fourth Floor Utopia" sex and liquor paid off as the main ingredients for their speakeasy Sweepstakes Blast booth. The Lincoln-Freeman both, "The Unblastables," depicted the Roaring 20's complete with dancers, gangsters, and "booze." The year saw additions to the trophy case as Lincoln men won championships in bowling, softball, and volleyball. Lincoln House had the honor of sponsoring the MRA Sweatheart, Miss Barbara Petersen. There were house parties every quarter, including the "Beatnik Ball" and a woodsie at Lynn Furher Lodge. Having the MRA Social Chairman and MRA's GSB Representative in the house gave the men ample representation in campus life.

Social events, a winter formal, and spring stomp highlight calendar

LINDSTROM HOUSE

Social events highlighted the activities of Lindstrom House in the last year. A winter formal was held at the Boone Country Club with music provided by the "Rogues." Spring once again saw the men of Lindstrom and their dates swinging to the music of the "Rogues" at a spring stomp. The fall party was a hayride held at the "Flying-W" ranch. The men participated in all intramural sports winning first place with the softball team and second in the bowling intramurals. A special project this year was decorating the Christmas tree in the Terrace Room in Friley. Impromptu picnics offered relaxation nearly every Sunday when the weather was warm.

PILES OF PAPER encouraged the Lindstrom men to play a practical joke on the head resident, "Just for fun."

Livingston sold construction service for a Homecoming display

PULLING DOWN THE grade point, Livingston men find devious means to keep the house average on an even keel.

Auctioned off for the highest price in the MRA, Livingston House sold its labor to the Alpha Delta Phi's to build a Homecoming display. The theme was "They Kitten Lick Us, We're Purr-fect." In intramurals the house was in the winner's circle for Class A basketball. Active in other intramurals, they had teams in bowling, softball, football, and volleyball. The cool weather of fall quarter created the perfect time for a hayride. Livingston men are also noted as the "best card players in the MRA."

Louden goes 'electric' for their party and special project

LOUDEN HOUSE

The Louden house blast held in the spring and fall was a treat for the men . . . they like the ice cream. Other social events included a dance at Roger's T.V., a special house Christmas party and a gift exchange where the men receive their "gifts" which were stolen from them earlier. The men also had an exchange with the nurses from Marshalltown. Louden men had a special project last year. They bought a combination 21-inch television and AM-FM radio. The sports brought home trophies for Class B bowling both spring and fall quarter. The Louden teams were runners-up in Class A softball and football.

MacDONALD HOUSE

MacDonald House is one of two new houses in the MRA this year

INITIATING A NEW HOUSE in the MRA means not only a variety of activities but also pulling your own weight grade-wise.

This fall 50 men initiated MacDonald House into the MRA as one of two new houses formed this year. Organization problems were worked out through the joint efforts of the new freshmen and experienced upperclassmen. The men laid the groundwork for future years. Fall quarter social activities included a Halloween hayride, ending with a bonfire and marshmallow roast. Winter quarter brought enough snow for a toboggan party. MacDonald men worked with Firkins House for a winter dance. And, the first house election was a big winter quarter event. To aid grade point, MacDonald men converted a broom closet into a secluded study room.

MEEKER HOUSE

Meeker men adopt Chan Chau Wun; create a soapy success at 'Pop's'

"Pop's Barber Shop," was a soapy success for the Blast booth run by the men of Meeker House. Pine Lake was again the scene of this spring's party. Boating, swimming, dancing, and singing were the main ingredients with a steak fry topping off the day. Many Meeker men decided to colonize a new house in Helser, therefore, fall quarter found about two-thirds of the house composed of new members. During orientation week several exchanges helped the freshmen get acquainted. A hayride exchange with Elm was a high point in social events. For their special project an eight-year-old Hong Kong child, Chan Chau Wun, has been "adopted."

STUDY HOURS are for quiet concentration, but the men of Meeker find they can take a few minutes for a shower party.

MERRILL HOUSE OFFICERS Steve DeCook, treas., Roger Sunnquist, pres., and Bob Wemer, v. pres., meet to discuss house policy and rules before the regular house meeting.

"Have Gun Will Blast" was the title of the Merrill House Blast booth, built with Roberts Hall. The settings were Tombstone and Dodge City where "gun-fighters" had fast-draw contests, with plastic bullets of course. Winners earned Gunslinger badges; losers got Boot Hill badges. The poorest shots earned badges saying "Go East." Merrill House men were active in intramurals, including the turkey trot. The men displayed their "Welcome" sign for Homecoming and Veishea. The sign stretches the length of the north wing of Helser, over 100 feet. Chess, ping pong, pool, and bridge tournaments were held among men in the house. Winners enjoyed free pizzas.

Graduates move out, undergrads move in to form a new MRA house

MORTENSON HOUSE

Mortenson House was newly organized this year. The year before Mortenson had served as a graduate men's house. Last fall 56 undergrads moved into this house in the new addition to Helser Hall. Although the men were busy organizing the house, there was still time to participate in intramural bowling, football, basketball, and volleyball. Mortenson men took their dates to Westgate lounge for a Christmas semi-formal party where Barb Flickinger entertained the men and their dates with songs.

MORTENSON MEN planned a party at Westgate during the Christmas season to lift holiday spirits.

NILES MEN SPENT their pre-Homecoming hours building a display with Chi Omega's to urge a cyclone victory.

No one can say that Niles House does not give solid support to their head resident. Bewildered Jerry Yeast found his Halloween present to be a slab of solid concrete weighing 1500 pounds and measuring eight feet by four feet. The four inch slab was poured while Jerry was away and made Daily headlines before it could be removed from the room. In a more constructive building vein, the men of Niles helped Chi Omega build their Homecoming lawn display which took first place. The theme was "Homecoming Treat, Buffalo Meat."

"With Liberty and Justice" was the Veishea theme of Noble House and West Linden. A sporting group, Noble men won Class B bowling last spring and Class C football in the fall. A program of intramurals within the house is the way Noble men build unity in the house. Gary Krull proved to be the best master of ceremonies for '64 Varieties, winning the Sweepstakes trophy for Noble House. The most important function the Noble men undertook in the past year was the MRA inaugural banquet. This is the sixth consecutive year that Noble men have planned the banquet. Norman captures trophy for most activity points per man; stage 'Wake'

BABY ALLIGATORS are nothing to laugh at in Norman house . . . which has actually gotten around the rule of "no pets" in the residence halls.

NORMAN HOUSE

Norman House rose to new heights this past year, gaining third place among all the houses of the MRA. Normanites kept themselves busy as they won the MRA activities trophy for gaining the most activity points per man for three quarters in a row. Socially, the men kept things going by holding an all-University party, "The Wake," and a mock funeral was staged on central campus. Norman men had several exchanges including canoe, hayride, tandem bike, and supper exchanges. At the campus Chest auction Norman House was sold to West Linden for a "Woodsie." They also sponsored a blast booth, "Puma's Playground," with East Linden. The Norman football team won the class A football championship and took second in the all-college playoffs.

PEARSON HOUSE

Pearson House captures Homecoming and Veishea Sweepstakes

Weekly exchanges and quarterly house parties provide a full social life for Pearson House men. "Expanding Horizons," a three unit Veishea float built with Alpha Delta Pi, won Sweepstakes for Pearson. Another Pearson win was the Homecoming Sweepstakes for lawn display. "Victory is Our PLANE" featured Cy conquering the Colorado buffalo. The men of Pearson were well represented in Student Body Government, MRA Executive Council, Chessmen, and College Bowl. With all their other activities Pearson men still found time for intramural sports—especially football, basketball, and softball.

and repeating the theme from their Veishea float "Expanding Horizons."

'Playmate Problems' plague Richey men, but they have exchanges

"Playmate Problems" staged with Roberts was the Varieties entry from Richey House. The men found a "Bushwacker's Haven" at Lynn Fuhrer lodge spring quarter and took their dates there for a party. Richey men held an orientation picnic at Brookside to build unity among the classes in the house. A hayride and picnic in Inis Grove was another morale building effort spring quarter. This party furthered inter-hall relations. Winter quarter was highlighted by the semi-formal Christmas party at the 4-H camp in Boone. The nurses of Mercy Hospital in Des Moines proved to be a pleasant study break during the year. Richey was proud to have house members Tom Wagner and John Mosbach in College Bowl finals.

SAGE HOUSE

Sage men become notorious for their 'shower hot dog fry'

SAGE MEN PACK all of their things preparing to move to the Towers to open in the fall; women will be housed in Westgate.

With visions of relocation dancing through their heads, Sage House men are reorganizing. Preparations are being made for movement to the Towers next fall. Next year their membership will double. This year Sage men triumphed in intramurals having both the champion handball player and wrestler. The men were also active in basketball and football intramurals. At their Halloween barn dance the Great Pumpkin appeared to bring "goodies" to all his fans. Several exchanges were held during the year. Sage is also famous for its "shower hot dog fry" and its "remote control door openers."

SPINNEY HOUSE

'Hawaiian Holiday' shipped to campus, courtesy of Spinney men

The Spinney House spring formal was "Hawaiian Holiday." Orchid corsages and decorations were flown from Hawaii for the event. During Veishea the Spinney "Pub" was set up serving refreshments to visitors. The main functions of fall quarter were a "Roman Orgy" complete with Roman costumes and artifacts. Their Blast booth fall quarter was called "Dunk-a-Lunk." In athletic events Spinney House won an intramurals bowling trophy, captured all the last (169th-178th) places in the Turkey Trot, and was active in many other intramural events.

THE BUOY WAS a long way away when these Spinney men tangled with another canoe in the Veishea canoe races.

STALKER MEN PARTICIPATED in bridge intramurals, but first they had a play-off to see who would represent the house.

Stalker House stood in the athletic spotlight again this year as the men received trophies for the total number of points and points per man. The house had three teams represented in football, basketball, and softball. Volleyball, handball, track, golf, swimming, and bridge also claim devoted members of the house. Stalker combined efforts with Birch Hall in producing a Veishea float, "War and Peace," which exemplified the efforts of Iowa State in making the atom bomb. Among other house activities were numerous social exchanges with Drake University and the Iowa State womens' residences. Two of the annual house parties held were the fall "Halloween" and "Cupid's Caper" dinner and dance.

STANGE HOUSE

Studying occupied much of the time of the Stange House men. They finished high in scholarship standings—third in the MRA fall quarter. Stange had teams in all intramural activities and were able to capture the singles and doubles ping-pong championships of the MRA. The men of Stange were also proud of the canoe team which made the finals during Veishea last spring. Fall began with an exchange with the women of Barton Hall and a hayride. The men continued their social life with a smorgasbord, picnics, a formal party, and several house dinners.

GETTING ELECTED a "Bombed" beauty is no joke and it takes talent and a certain amount of charm.

SHOWER PARTIES are illegal because someone could get hurt, but . . .

STANTON HOUSE

The men of Stanton House kicked off freshman week with a buffet dinner at Richard's Holiday House. The result was 35 well-stuffed men. Stanton men kept the intramural ball rolling with teams in bowling, softball, volleyball, and basketball. The intramural climax for Stanton came with the trophy for the Class D basketball championship. Hayrides, picnics, and exchanges with Drake and Iowa State women gave the men of Stanton a full social life. Winter weather convinced Stanton men to take a "Chalet Holiday" for their formal dance, complete with a glowing fire, a starry sky, and candlelit tables.

Stevenson Men found themselves shipwrecked fall quarter

STEVENSON HOUSE

Highlighting the year for Stevenson House was their Veishea trophy. Their float, "Religious Freedom," captured first place in the University singles division. In the fall, the men plunged into the spirit of Homecoming with "Let's Buff the Buffs." A ship wreck party at the Ledges rounded out fall activities. Active in intramurals, the Stevenson basketball team battled its way to the semi-finals of the Class A tournaments. The men also participated in other intramural sports throughout the season.

Stewart men found a picnic the best way to be served pancakes

STEWART MEN POSE AS beatniks when it comes to being creative for parties, exchanges, and pictures.

STEWART HOUSE

A pancake breakfast with East Linden was purchased by Stewart House at the Blast auction. The brisk November air helped to make the fire and food especially welcome. After the food was gone and the fire out, the picnickers played football to keep warm and work off some extra energy. In the intramural area the men of Stewart took the championships in both volleyball and bowling. Stewart's president, Gary Wirth, went on to bigger and better things becoming MRA treasurer after his year in Stewart.

WOODROW HOUSE

Men give food and toys to needy families at Christmas

Woodrow House again concerned themselves with helping the less fortunate at Christmas time. This year two needy families in the county were given enough food for the Christmas holiday plus toys for the children by Woodrow House with the support of Ames merchants. Woodrow took first place, men's division, in the Veishea Canoe Races and helped the K. D.'s take second place sorority honors for their Homecoming display by auctioning themselves off at the Campus Chest auction. Among their other activities were the annual spring picnic, freshman orientation, house dinners, intramurals, Christmas caroling, and exchanges. In spite of activities Woodrow House took first place scholastic honors in the MRA fall quarter with a 2.82 grade point.

WOODROW MEN PREPARED staples, canned goods, and toys during the Christmas season to be sent to needy families.

The Women's Residence Association

LETTERS TO FRIENDS and parents each week let them know about life at college interspersed with study and numerous activities.

WRA Board unites women in all nine residence halls; Beacons selects to honor outstanding women

Almost 1600 girls live in the ten independent residence halls at Iowa State. The governing body of the Women's Residence Association is the WRA Board. The board strives to unite women in the dormitories, to serve the interests of the women, and to impose high standards of conduct and government. The president and vice-president, along with two WRA representatives to the Government of the Student Body are elected by the WRA membership. Dormitory presidents also serve on the board. From the outstanding independent women, Beacons choose their members. Beacons is a sophomore independent women's honorary. Each year they support a service project and this year they helped the SPAN project with money raised by selling sandwiches. Freshmen coeds become members of the WRA at the induction ceremony in the fall.

WHEN THEY WERE INSTALLED four years ago, individual telephones proved a convenience so women didn't need to stand in line for a "special" call each night.

EACH FALL COEDS carry mountains of clothes and treasures into their rooms anxiously awaiting to see old friends or greet new ones.

EACH FRESHMAN is inducted into the WRA during the first week of school as members of Mortar Board plan a candle light ceremony and read the ideals of an Iowa State woman.

SITTING DESK AT BARTON HALL is no problem when you have willing friends and helpmates to add to the confusion of telephones, sign-outs, and quiet hour regulations.

Barton Hall is the newest and the smallest residence in the WRA. Undergraduate women replaced former Barton residents when the graduate women moved to the new graduate hall. Budgeting kept Barton's 99 coeds on their toes this year. But, despite financial difficulties, they participated in Blast and Varieties. Working with Haber House the girls built a booth called "Go To Hell." "Big Mary Moonshine" was the theme of their varieties skit produced with Caine. Barton Hall coeds also sold a work exchange for Homecoming to the AGR's at the Blast auction. Winter quarter featured a fireside for Barton girls and their dates following the WRA formal.

Pixie Pals showed their true Christmas spirit by donating toys to the Beloit Lutheran Children's Home. Spring quarter featured their annual spring formal. This year it was at the Val Air in Des Moines with Knapp and Lange Houses. Birch Hall coeds also worked on Veishea with Stalker House to create "War and Peace." Almost 80 mothers joined their daughters in spring activities during Mothers' Weekend.

Elm Hall

"SCIENCE PLUS PRACTICE YIELDS" a homecoming display victory for the women of Elm; first in the WRA.

For the second year in a row, Elm Hall Women won first in the WRA for their Homecoming display. This year's theme was "Science Plus Practice Yields Victory." The women had some excitement during the early part of fall quarter as rumors spread that daring students were windowpeeping from the roof of the Oak Elm addition. Foster House men helped the Elm Women create a roaring 20's atmosphere for a Blast speak-easy, "La Jet a Lambe." Among other activities, Elm women found time to win the intramural volleyball championship. A new idea at Elm this year was the annual selection of Elm's outstanding woman. The first woman selected for this honor was Laura Beth Larson.

Patriotic costumes of red, white, and blue bunting added color to Veishea Canoe Races as Freeman Hall's team, Old Glory, won the sweepstakes. This is the second year the Freeman team has won sweepstakes. Blast brought the "Unblastables" to the Armory. The 1920's speak-easy was run with the help of Lincoln House "gangsters" and "bouncers." Sor-Dor singers had fun spring quarter but it was in intramurals that Freeman women showed their talents, winning the first place trophy for basketball and second place for bowling. Scholastically the women of Freeman led the WRA. Spring quarter Freeman tied for first place and won second place for year round high scholarship.

East Linden Women used an exchange as ransom money to secure the return of a giant sign

East Linden women had a six-foot sign saying "Hi, Here's East Linden" kidnapped from their front lawn fall quarter. Mysterious letters and anonymous telephone calls shed light on the culprits. Franklin House agreed to return the sign for a ransom of one exchange. Instead of building floats, the East Linden women built the morale of children at the Beloit Home, taking the children to the Veishea parade and to dinner. Homecoming was a "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad Whirl" and the women took a trip to "Puma's Playground" with Norman House for Blast. A booming Santa Clause gave prizes for Christmas door decorations. East Linden also collected trophies for the most intramural points in the WRA and best scholarship in WRA.

Women of West Linden sang their way to Sor-Dor finals and were also honored spring quarter by the Mortar Board tapping of Donna Ripper, WRA Treasurer. As fall brought Homecoming, West Linden Women said "We'll C U Burn" to Colorado and pictured Cy roasting a buffalo. Although Veishea was still two quarters away, Carolyn Jepsen of West Linden had to begin work as Cyclone Review Director fall quarter. Just to show they are physically fit, but not too fit to scare men, West Linden won the third place trophy for points in intramurals. West Linden women were tapped into honoraries, including Tomahawks, Beacons and Omicron Nu.

'Old fashioned' girls celebrated the 50th anniversary of the oldest women's residence on campus

EVEN MIRRORS IN LYON reflected the news that Lyon Hall, the oldest women's residence, was celebrating its 50th anniversary.

In spite of being scattered throughout the other dorms spring quarter as Lyon Hall was remodeled, the Lyon women retained their unity. With Halsted House Lyon built the "Stairway of Our Nation" for Veishea. Winter quarter the women of Lyon had a tea to celebrate Lyon's 50th anniversary on campus. Lyon is the oldest women's residence hall on campus. Visitors were greeted by an "old fashioned" girl dressed in costume and took tours through the hall to see how the rooms had been remodeled. Homecoming brought out the Lyon Hall sweets jar as the women declared, "We Can-dy Feat Em." For Blast at the auction Lyon sold a toboggan party to Stalker House although until Christmas there wasn't enough snow to make a snowball.

Third place trophy for Veishea found its way to Oak Hall while the women planned for 'Blast Derby'

"Upward, Outward, Onward" was the theme of the three section Veishea float built by Oak Hall and Dodds House. The third place trophy for combinations rewarded the efforts of the co-workers. Oak women shared the winner's circle with Alumni Hall for their Blast booth, "Blast Derby." The booth, featuring the sport of kings, took the trophy for best theme and performance. "Moonlight and Roses" was the theme of the annual spring dinner-dance. Construction on the Oak-Elm addition had closed Oak's first floor so dinner was served in Elm and the dance was at the Episcopal camp near Boone.

To widen the women's horizons Roberts Hall has sponsored Wednesday night chat-alongs with after dinner speakers, style shows, and other programs, including one by the Nigerian women in the hall. For the Veishea parade Roberts worked with Fulmer House to portray a "Country Doctor" racing to beat the stork. "Pipe Dreams" floated in the Sheldon-Munn as Roberts women held their annual spring formal. Roberts singers took second place for WRA in Sor-Dor spring quarter. Fall brought adventure as Roberts and Merrill House advertised "Have Gun, Will Blast" for campus chest.

Chat-alongs may not have raised spirits, but Roberts women floated on 'Pipe Dreams' anyway Glowing fires welcomed Welch Hall women and their dates to the parlors every winter weekend. The women sang to a first place among dormitories in Sor-Dor. Welch was the home of Cathy Coed for the second year in a row and also the home of the MRA Sweetheart, Barbara Peterson. Fall brought preparations for a new housemother, Mrs. Katherine Meyer, who was welcomed at a tea. For Blast the Welch women worked with Harriman on a puzzler, "The Lady or the Tiger." Those who chose the correct door of five choices offered won a kiss. Choosing the wrong door resulted in a squirt in the face, a handshake, or a candy kiss.

KD'S PLAN A BAKE SALE to raise money for their special projects.

The 46 Greek Houses at Iowa State with 2100 members are governed by Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Council. Rush parties each fall introduce interested freshmen to the Greek life at Iowa State. Working together, these groups sponsor Greek Week which is the main event for Iowa State Greeks. During Greek Week, top entertainers are brought to campus and Greeks show their goal of providing "service" by sponsoring a blood donation drive and service projects. Boxes of used clothing lined the halls of the A D Pi house as women collected articles for the Greek Week service project. Campus Chest Blast showed the people's choice as Arlene Nelson was crowned Miss Legs by collecting the most penny votes. Diane Johnson was one of three finalists for Horticulture Queen. The Des Moines Golf and Country Club became "South by Night" for the spring formal. Dates were presented with frosted glass ice buckets and gold tongs for favors. To add to a winning year, the A D Pi's won the women's intramural bowling championship.

Alpha Gamma Delta welcomed alumnae to Homecoming with a front lawn greeting card, "Contemporaries Fight." At Halloween the Alpha Gam's held a party for the children of Wilson School for the Retarded. One of the year's high spots was winning the 1964 Varieties Sweepstakes with "Show Boat," a spoof of Jerome Kern's musical done with Phi Delta Theta. The Alpha Gam's placed third among sororities in Sor-Dor. The beauty of Alpha Gam's had finalists for Miss Greek, pledge princess, and Homecoming Queen. Also, an Alpha Gam was chosen Sweetheart of Theta Xi. Active on campus, Alpha Gam's held many offices including Panhellenic Senator and Senator-at-Large to GSB, and Senior Class Secretary.

The Chi Omega Purple Shaft trophy for Veishea was awarded to Alpha Sigma Phi last year. The Chi O's built their float with Sigma Alpha Epsilon. With Tau Kappa Epsilon they worked for Greek Week by washing 2,000 car windows in Ames and leaving cards saying "Chi O and TKE have washed your windows so you may see your way clear to contribute to Project Boxcar." A recipe for a "Homecoming Treat, Buffalo Meat" took first place in sororities. Varieties are the spice of life and Chi O worked with Delta Sigma Phi on "Kapers of the Kahn" skit. The Chi O's celebrated the crowning of Veishea Queen of Queens, Karen Wulfsberg, who was also first runner-up to Miss Football USA, and Navy Ball Queen, Andi Hale.

Delta Delta Delta received recognition from national this year, receiving the Scholarship Improvement Award and first place for having the highest grades by an active chapter on campus. The Tri Delt's welcomed their new housemother, Mom Mayer, with enthusiasm at a tea fall quarter. With the Christmas season at hand, the Tri Delt's caught the spirit and the Lambda Chi Alpha award for their unusual door decoration. Other Tri Delt's kept the house up on campus activities from their positions as cheerleaders, Naiads, Greek Star Editor, and Delta Phi Delta.

Delta Zeta women sang their way to first place in the sorority division of Sor-Dor and were awarded the Sweepstakes trophy as well. During rush week the DZ's placed second in scholarship for the year, receiving the Scholarship Improvement Trophy. Wayne Heitshusen, Beta Sigma Psi, became "DZ Man" at the traditional "DZ Man Party" held on Halloween. Highlight of the year was the winter formal, "Heart of My Heart," held at Marshalltown. Varieties found the DZ's working with Alpha Gamma Rho to the tune of "The Poohed Piper of Hamlin." With the help of DZ alumnae the women presented "Fashion Fantasy," showing recent New York styles. The proceeds went to Campus Chest as did tickets from the Blast booth, "Ace of Space," which the DZ's built with Caine House.

"CY-CLOPS THE BUFFALO . . ." Punning words, the Gamma Phi's constructed a cyclopes to urge the Cycones to victory.

The Hotel Savory in Des Moines provided the atmosphere for Gamma Phi Beta's Pink Carnation Formal while the Castlewoods provided the music. A surprise came when Sue Yellman was chosen Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl at a formal in an adjoining room. Homecoming Queen finalist Marty Hollander brought honor to the Gamma Phi's. Combining efforts with Tau Kappa Epsilon paid off with a first in combination floats for Veishea. "America, Our Heritage" featured a living tableau of the fighting men of our country from the War of 1812 to World War II. The Gamma Phi's presented "Cy-Clops the Buffalo" for Homecoming, with a large monster stamping on a buffalo.

Rainy weather didn't dampen enthusiasm as Kappa Alpha Theta and FarmHouse entertained high school foreign exchange students with picnics, skits, and tours during American Field Service weekend. Veishea added excitement to spring quarter as Theta's teamed up with Beta Theta Pi to produce a float depicting the diverse background of American society. Fall quarter saw the Theta's capture the panhellenic trophy for pledge scholarship for the second consecutive year. Theta's also welcomed their new housemother, Mom Roscoe, with a tea. Strange costumes, and spooky masks were donned as Theta's entertained dates at a Halloween house party.

Good food, guitars, records, camp fires, crisp fall air, and good company typified the Pi Beta Phi fall house party at the Boone YWCA Camp. The Pi Phi's had a Miss Legs finalist for Campus Chest and their Halloween Party was sold to the Ward System for $140—the highest price ever paid at Blast Auction. Over 450 Pi Phi alumnae and their families were invited for a buffet supper after the Homecoming game. Interfraternity Council SERVICE PROJECTS help support the activities of various pledge classes as the Teke's shine shoes to reach a goal of $100.

AS A PRACTICAL joke, the brothers hid a car.

PUBLIC RELATIONS was the goal as Greeks washed car windows to urge contributions for "Project Boxcar."

OFFICERS FIND that the best way to let off steam is to have an organized snowball fight.

The Interfraternity Council provides an organization which represents and serves the member fraternities and the fraternity system at Iowa State. Their Preamble has set the goals in the two words, "represent" and "serve." It is the responsibility of each of the IFC officers to strive for effective representation for the fraternity system and worthwhile service to the members of the fraternities, to the University, and to the community. A major concern every year is Greek Week. This year Greek Week gathered old clothing in "Project Boxcar," along with participating in the various fun activities of singing, dancing, and celebrating.

IFC

The Interfraternity Council governs fraternities on the Iowa State campus, coordinates activities of the individual groups, and regulates rushing. The big event of the year—Greek Week—is co-sponsored with Panhellenic council. Greek Week is to promote unity and spirit for the Greek System. IFC also regulates publication of the Greek Star which informs the campus of Greek functions and principles.

IFPC

Interfraternity Pledge Council works closely with the Interfraternity Council on all affairs concerning Greek life. The IFPC is introduced to Greek government during pledgeship to acquaint new members with the functions and activities of the Greek system. The main event of IFPC each year is the sponsorship of the Interfraternity Pledge dance where the pledges select and crown the IFPC queen.

Adelante

Adelantes were saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Bessie Nuckolls, their house-mother who had retired last spring. Adelante's participation in intramural baseball, football, and other team sports showed that they were strongest in football. The men also brought home the second place trophy in track. Miss Editha Boaler, the new house mother to the Adelante men, was introduced to Iowa State when the men planned a tea in her honor this fall. Winter quarter brought a Christmas party and a toboggan party at the Iowa 4-H camp, but even when the snow melted in an unexpected warm spell, the men found that they could have fun around the fireplace singing songs. A Hawaiian Luau, complete with roast pig, was held on the beach at the Ledges State Park.

PARTICIPATION IN INTRAMURAL sports didn't include tumbling or pyramid building, but the men of Adelante wanted to experiment with a human pyramid anyway.

For Blast, the Crow's and Alpha Chi Omega ran a booth called "Saw Cycles" which won Sweepstakes total points for Campus Chest. Miss Jane Nelson of Kappa Delta, reigned as the Sweetheart of Alpha Chi Rho at the Crow's spring formal, "April Love," held at the Boone Country Club. Homecoming was highlighted by a banquet for all Crow alums and parents. Members are active in Campus Chest Central Committee, Pep Council, cheer squad, the intramural council, and the Business Students Association. Miss Chris Steward, Delta Zeta, reigned as Sweetheart of AGR at last spring's formal party, "The Pink Rose." Also last spring, AGR held its annual farmer's ball which included a picnic on the front lawn, dancing to records, and a house takeover by the men's dates. AGR celebrated its fiftieth anniversary this year. Alums from both coasts and Europe attended along with more than 500 other alumni. The men of AGR dominated organizational leadership in the Ag college. House members include many club presidents and ag council members.

ATO's create 'Champagne Formal,' Calypso Party, Monster Mash

Spring quarter saw the Alpha Tau Omega's covering the walls of their house and donning costumes for the Calypso party. Winter quarter was a busy quarter where the men staged a pig roast and planned for their winter party, "Champagne Formal," Pamm Minden was named sweetheart and was entered in the national fraternity contest. Also at Christmas time the ATO's participated in the "Toys for Tots" drive to give toys to children. Fall quarter the men entertained dates at the "Monster Mash" with the Redtops playing the "sounds." Not to be outdone in other activities, the ATO's won the intramural points-per-man trophy and also trophies in baseball, bowling, and horseshoes.

Dinner at the Broiler before the dance, "Moonlight Mist," topped fall quarter. Special projects this year occurred around Christmas time when members caroled at the Iowa Lutheran Home in Madrid and at the O.E.S. Home in Boone. Delta Chi Winter quarter brought the annual Delta Chi food give away and many firesides and exchanges. During spring quarter, the Iowa State chapter was host to the Delta Chi Region Five meeting. "The Rogues" were featured at a party that Saturday night. Silver bracelets with the fraternity crest were given as favors at the spring formal "Carnation Fantasy" held at the Hotel Kirkwood in Des Moines. Veishea brought the Delta Chi's third place in the singles division with the float "The Birth of a Nation." The men participated in many sports and were the runners-up in Class A softball. During Homecoming weekend fall quarter the men were introduced to the new Delta Chi housemother, Mrs. E. Lampe.

Delta Sigma Phi

For the fourth time in the last five years, Beta Alpha of Delta Sigma Phi was chosen as the top Delta Sig chapter in the nation, and was awarded the Delta Award for outstanding chapter leadership. Iowa State Delta Sig's are equally proud of a new addition to their chapter house. The addition was occupied for the first time last fall and enlarged the capacity of the house to 69. The Delta Sig's and the women of Chi Omega pooled their talents to present "Capers of the Kahn" in Varieties. In Veishea float competition, Alpha Gamma Delta combined forces with the Delta Sig's to win a fourth place trophy with "The Nation Waits." During Greek Week, the Delta Sig house was transformed into a land of eskimos and igloos. At the annual Carnation Ball, Janie Curran, Kappa Alpha Theta, was chosen Delta Sig Dream Girl.

Progress seemed to be the key for the men of Delta Tau Delta this year. With Kappa Delta they built their Veishea float, "Progress," which displayed advances since the arrival of the Mayflower. Progress was emphasized by the men as they redecorated the first floor of their house with new carpeting, furniture, draperies, and paintings. All time was not spent in work, however, and the Delt's found time to create their homecoming display, "Heads We Win, Tails You Loose." At the spring dance, "Orchid Formal," Lynn Johnson was crowned queen. Delt Bob Kopp was honored by being tapped for Cardinal Key and Gamma Gamma. This year the Delta Tau Delta scholarship was awarded to Mario Ocelli, an exchange student from Italy now living with the Delt's.

CREATING A MONSTER to urge the Cyclones to victory took DU's time as they prepared their Homecoming display.

'Ubangi Bash' in the jungle led DU's to winter 'Mood'

During Greek Week the Delta Upsilon house was transformed to a German Rathskeller, the Hafbrau House, with a "swinging band" from Wisconsin. Two weeks later the house was the scene of "Shipwreck," the spring house party. For the third consecutive year the DU's were fifth in intramurals. Kurt Faxon was tapped for Cardinal Key and Gamma Gamma. Fall quarter started off with a second place lawn display for Homecoming and a "Ubangi Bash" in the house brought a variety of costumed DU's and dates into a jungle setting. Highlighting winter quarter was "Mood Indigo," the annual formal. Miss Karen Hirsh was crowned DU Sweetheart of 1965. DU pinmates gave the house a boxer pup known to all as "Mister."

FLORAL SHEETING for the FarmHouse Homecoming display received the intent attention of the men.

FarmHouse

FarmHouse retired the IFC scholarship trophy for maintaining top grade point among fraternities for nine consecutive quarters. FarmHouse sang their way to winning Sinfonia Sweepstakes. American Field Service students were hosted for a weekend by FarmHouse men and Theta's and they shared the Greek Week service award for this project. Fall quarter the men welcomed their parents and introduced their new housemother, Mrs. Violet Henderson. The men took the "Fight Out of Their Switch" during Homecoming and entertained at a "Haunted Hop" for Halloween.

The Kappa Sigma's fall house party was "Western Dance." Decorations included a corral, chuck wagon, bales of hay, and a bar (serving apple cider, of course). Winter quarter brought Varieties and their skit with Kappa Alpha Theta, a take-off on Oklahoma, which reached the semi-finals. Spring means Veishea and the Kappa Sig's entered a combination float with the Pi Phi's, "John Henry." In intramurals, the house placed second in volleyball and basketball while two brothers won individual honors in wrestling. In addition, Ray Sebastian was tapped for Cardinal Key and Beezer Knapp was selected for Gamma Gamma. This year's service project was to clean up Camp Sunnyside.

During Greek Week 1964, The Lambda Chi's were hosts to an open house after the concert. Also in the spring, they held their annual White Rose Formal, which was climaxed with the crowning of Miss Sue Ambrosius as Crescent Girl. The holiday season brought the annual party for hospitalized children at Raymond Blank Hospital for Children and Mary Greeley Hospital. Fall quarter saw the Lambda Chi's Blast booth, "Custer's Casino," take the most tickets for the second year in a row. Students came to try their luck "at the tables" and to enjoy the background music provided by the combo.

The Phi Delta Theta's and Alpha Gam's staged the best show of Varieties 1964 to win sweepstakes with their musical skit, "Show-boat." House effort was rewarded when they won second place in the single floats division at Veishea and first in lawn displays for Homecoming. Another first came with the winning of intramurals Class A all-university swimming. Further honors came when two brothers were tapped for Cardinal Key and three for Gamma Gamma. The Iowa State chapter was selected as a gold star chapter, one of the top five, at the national Phi Delt convention. A Community Service Day was held at the Beliot Home where the brothers cleaned, painted, and repaired.

THE DATES of the Fiji men sit on Santa's knee and tell him their Christmas wishes as well as receiving their Christmas gift.

The "Dixie Bash" is still a popular event at the Phi Gamma Delta house. This is a combo hop with another fraternity and three sororities. During Greek Week the Fiji's hosted a Greek Week sponsored open house. Other house parties included the "Purple Garter" and the "Grass Skirt." Fiji's in native costume delivered invitations on old bones to their dates. Miss Helen Johnson, Pi Beta Phi, was crowned Grass Skirt Queen. At Homecoming the Fiji's placed first in the men's division of the "Yell-Like-Hell" contest. In intramurals they won the university all-round championship for spring quarter. Participation in Campus Chest Auction and sponsoring Vic Pitt's combo completed Fiji activities.

Central campus was invaded by Phi Kappa Psi Indians as the men re-created "the Boston Tea Party" complete with tea bags for Veishea. Decorating the front of their house like a huge head was the Phi Psi's way of welcoming people to "Chomp and Stomp," the spring quarter open house. Over 1,000 pieces of bubble gum were passed out to guests entering the house through a gaping mouth. The Alpha Chi's received a Phi Psi trophy for helping construct "Drive 'Em To Drink" at Homecoming. The Kappa's had a Blast when they decided to "Sing Along with John" in a joint effort with the Phi Psi's. Winning Class A softball, golf, and chess in intramurals brought the trophy for most points per man to the Phi Psi's spring quarter.

Phi Tau's feature model of their new house for Homecoming display

Phi Kappa Tau

Phi Kappa Tau jumped into Operation Boxcar for Greek Week, collecting several truckloads of clothes. Phi Tau's earned the IFC trophy for scholarship improvement spring quarter. Alumni returning for homecoming this year had a surprise as the Phi Tau's showed plans for their new house and featured an architect's model as their homecoming display. Social life was limited to informal parties—the money earmarked for the job of redecorating before the big move into the house next fall. Another new addition to the Phi Tau house is Mrs. Ruth Bruce, a new housemother for whom the men held a welcoming tea fall quarter. A cooperation award from the national chapter and being runners-up in Class B softball added to Phi Tau honors during the year.

Phi Kappa Theta

HOUSE PARTIES at 2110 Lincolnway show no lack of inventiveness when members come straight from the wilds . . .

or casually from class or study.

PHI KAP'S created a new award, a silver and walnut sweetheart trophy, to be given to an Iowa State coed.

Once again Phi Kappa Theta played the Beta Sig's in the annual reformation day football game. The Phi Kap's had an "Episode With Eve" fall quarter, where the house was transformed into an apple orchard and each date had a long blue and white serpent draped around her as she entered the "garden." The Phi Kap's are remodeling the upper floors of their house with new furniture, carpeting, and wall paneling. A new award the Phi Kap's are sponsoring is a three and one-half foot high silver and walnut sweetheart trophy given to a coed in one of the residences. Fall quarter was highlighted by a solemn evening of "sourpuss" and hectic game of "Stoop" with the Kappa's. The winter quarter formal was held at the Hyperian Country Club, Des Moines.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Pi Kappa Alpha men were ousted as Dream Girl Formal dates took over the house for a night of ram-bunctious activity. Earlier in the evening Miss Sue Yellman was crowned as the year's Dream Girl. The weekend was completed with a picnic at the Ledges. The Pike's won honors spring quarter for their singing, winning second place in Sinfonia and sharing the trophy for Varieties Flash Acts as Jim Hulse took the lead tenor part in a barbershop quartet. Homecoming was no gamble for the Pike's as they won third place with an animated slot machine guaranteeing Cyclone victory. Cy, Iowa State's mascot, was again inherited by the Pike's for another year. Winter quarter brought tropical breezes to the Pike's "Hawaiian Paradise" in spite of the cold outside.

The men of Pi Kappa Phi "blasted" off to second place in Sweepstakes with their invitation to go "Spooning for Gold." To celebrate Homecoming the Pi Kap's revealed that "Our Line Had 64% Fewer Cavities." Miss Pris Zillgitt reigned over the annual Rose Ball held at Holiday Inn South in Des Moines spring quarter. Kelley Bergstrom, Greek Week Co-chairman, was tapped by Gamma Gamma spring quarter and was elected president. Other Pi Kap's have been active over the year on central committees for Homecoming, Greek Week, and Veishea. In addition to campus activities the Pi Kap's are planning some building to enlarge their house for the coming year.

Instead of having a Homecoming lawn display this year, Sigma Alpha Epsilon brought forty orphans to Ames for Homecoming. The SAE's took the children, who were from the Christian Home in Council Bluffs, to the game. Then they took them back to the house for hot chocolate and doughnuts and gave them a tour of the fraternity house lawn displays. The SAE's were strong in intramurals, winning all-University swimming, football and volleyball. Ken Pigott and Jim Cunningham were selected for the Big 8 scholastic football team. The SAE raft party was held in the spring. Brothers and their dates floated down the Des Moines River on rafts and a little wet they celebrated the end of their trip with a beach party.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON ENTERTAINED the orphans at Homecoming giving them presents and lunch as well as taking them to the football game.

SIGMA CHI'S STAGED the annual Derby Days where coeds on a Saturday afternoon . . .

got branded . . .

and donned gas masks to hunt for poker chips with the names of their sororities on them.

This summer Sigma Chi spent nearly $300,-000 to construct a new chapter house on Lincoln Way. It is completely furnished in a contemporary style with a color scheme of blue and gold. The mothers' club donated a stereophonic record player to the house. The new house almost doubles the capacity of the old house. This year a new housemother, Mrs. Marian Charles, joined the men. Last spring Sigma Chi men held the annual Miami Triad dance with the Betas and the Phi Delts. Their Sweetheart Formal was held in Des Moines this year. Kappa Delta Cindy Wolf was named Sweetheart. During fall quarter the men of Sigma Chi held their fourth Derby Days, and Pi Beta Phi Debbie Kaehler was named Derby Darling.

Sigma Nu's return to Roaring 20's for party; stage White Rose Formal

For their Veishea float the men of Sigma Nu portrayed the Lincoln Memorial Statue. Spring also found Sigma Nu second on campus in grades, and in the fall, Sigma Nu captured the intramural team points championship. The wild west was the theme of their fall house party held in Nevada. Winter quarter, the annual White Rose Formal was held in Des Moines. This year the Sigma Nu's furnished room and board for Hamid Ullah from Karachi, Pakistan, showing him American life and Iowa State ideas.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The second Place trophy for combinations went to the Sig Ep's and Kappa Kappa Gamma last spring with their Veishea float, "That All Men Might be Free." Also during Greek Week last spring, Carl Vanderwilt was named "Greek God." Costume parties were the big event this year as Sig Eps brought their dates to two of them at the house. The "Saddle and Gun" party in the fall required everyone to go to the wild west and the spring party gave the men the chance to recall their childhood with "Fairy Tale" costumes at the "Fairy Tales Party." Their project this winter was working for the Heart Fund drive to collect money.

Palm trees, fish nets, dancing girls featured at Sigma Pi's 'Safari Party'

"Brother Pooh," a 75-pound, pure-bred Basset hound, joined the ranks of the Sigma Pi house fall quarter. An added responsibility, also this fall, was custodianship of the Drake-ISU victory bell. A "Safari Party" with palm trees, coconuts, fishing nets and dancing girls set the theme as the Sigma Pi's and their dates made a trip into exotic Arabia. Spring quarter was highlighted by the annual 15-mile canoe trip and a race for the grand prize of the extra hot dogs was won by the Illini. Intramurals were rough going this year. Unfortunately through nepotism and intrigue the football team wound up in Class A and were pitted against the Sig Ep's. The Sig Pi's were winning though until the referee took away the hockey sticks.

REWARDS FOR LONG HOURS of work for the Teke's was the Sweepstakes Trophy for Homecoming displays.

This was a year of firsts for Tau Kappa Epsilon. The Iowa State chapter was chosen as top in the nation, and Ed Schram was voted the nation's top Teke. Veishea brought a first place for their float in the combination division. Sinfonia saw the Teke's sing their way to a first for large residences. They also participated in intramurals where they captured the all points trophy in the university-wide category. At Homecoming '64, the Teke's won the Sweepstakes trophy for lawn displays for the second successive year. Greek Week saw the Teke's washing 2000 windshields to encourage donations to Project Boxcar. Miss Carol Buckaloo, Delta Delta Delta, was chosen chapter sweetheart this year.

Theta Chi

Theta Chi's made the big move this spring when the new addition to the house was completed in March. Combining work and pleasure, the men of Theta Chi's built a novelty Veishea float, "The Making of Our Nation." "Let's Flip the Buffaloes" was the theme for the Theta Chi's 1964 Homecoming display. The men planned parties in conjunction with the Christmas season and winter quarter also featured "Hotel Theta Chi" to keep the spirits warm in the dead of winter. Carnation Cotillion was planned to put an uplift into the Theta Chi's spring quarter where dates were given carnations as favors.

Novelty Veishea float; men warm winter quarter with 'Hotel Theta Chi'

"TO GO FROM RAGS TO RICHES" was a hope of the Theta Chi's who attended the Halloween party in costume.

MEN OF THETA CHI spent many long nights to complete their Homecoming display in time for judging.

A huge figure of Cy aiming for a victory in a shooting gallery was the theme of the Theta Delt's Homecoming display. Also last fall a "Hill Billy Party" was held at the house where members had to come dressed in costume. The winter quarter party was an overnight. The "Carnation Cotillion" formal graced spring quarter. Also during the year the Theta Delt's continued their program of dinner visits with foreign students on campus. While no new trophies were brought to the house, the men participated in intramural football, wrestling, bowling, ping pong, and bridge and chess tournaments.

THETA DELT'S FIND that studying can be a cooperative project.

More pancakes than ever eaten by hungry coeds at Theta Xi supper

More pancakes than ever before were consumed at the annual Theta Xi pancake supper. The project is planned in conjunction with the Community Chest Drive and the campus Blast. Spring quarter found the men of Theta Xi preparing for the fraternity's 100th anniversary. They celebrated with an open house and an informal all-University dance. Social activities continued with the Theta Xi formal at the Ames Country Club. Winter quarter the men planned a "Bowery Brawl" and decorated the house in a waterfront tavern motif. A special project was the spring clean-up at Camp Sunnyside. Participation in intramurals found Theta Xi's capturing fourth place in total intramural points.

Theta Xi

THE ANNUAL THETA XI pancake supper gets bigger every year and this year coeds ate more pancakes than ever before.

Triangle colonizes as new chapter on Iowa State campus

RINGO HIMSELF appeared on the lawn of the Triangle house with the Homecoming display.

The most important event of Triangle's year was its installation on Iowa State's campus as an active chapter. The men of Triangle have put in many hours of work to establish the new fraternity. Honorarys are well represented in the house: four men are in Eta Kappa Nu, two have been tapped into Tau Beta Pi, and one belongs to Tau Eta Sigma. Triangle men pitched in enthusiastically to redecorate their new chapter house this year. Homecoming was marked by the presence of the Beatles in a display entitled "It's Been a Hard Day's Game." Triangle's fall party was held in the "Punkin Patch."

THE VEISHEA LAWN DISPLAY of Alumni Hall told of the feat of building the biggest snowball in the world . . .

and recalled the day in the spring that it was rolled and the contest which it provoked.

Alumni Hall

Alumni Hall teamed up with Welch Hall for a Varieties performance, "Bonanza U.S.A." An Alumni Hall-Oak combination Blast booth, the "Blast Derby," was named the best booth in the theme and performance class and awarded a trophy. The intramural football team was a Class B finalist. Winter quarter was highlighted by a formal held on a cold, snowy February night. The theme was, appropriately enough, "Snowbound." The men of Alumni Hall prepared for Sinfonia by serenading each women's residence. They also took time out to roll the world's largest snowball—over ten and one half feet in diameter. Guesses were sold regarding how long the snowball would take to melt. Money from the project was given to Camp Sunnyside Children's Home.

COOKING FOR ONESELF is not always steak and champagne and sometimes a cracker and a television show has to substitute . . .

Lack of university housing, increased enrollment forces off-campus living but studying is more informal and sometimes more enjoyable . . .

and a nap after dinner is common because the conveniences of home and the extra quiet are conducive to sleep.

STILL, MORNINGS come just as soon with just as many inconveniences of sharing.

All of the Iowa State students are not housed in University housing and students move into off-campus units, alone or with roommates. Shifting for oneself is a different experience with only you to worry about you. The ward system attempts to organize off campus students so they are equally represented as are university residence groups.

Married Student Housing

The new University Village to be ready for occupancy in the fall is the recognition that more and more students are married and attending college. This year about twenty per cent of the students enrolled were married and the rate is increasing. Working as a team the married students help each other through school with encouragement and love, seeking new things to do together.

CHILDREN IN PAMMEL COURT wait for the school bus which takes them to school at the same time that daddy and perhaps mother leave for their classes.

EVERYONE PITCHES in during clean-up week in Pammel Court and Shawn Stinton wants to do his part to help his mother in her garden.

SENIORS

*And as a senior you could feel the change.
Iowa State was you; you were Iowa State. It was comfortable. It was home. It encompassed days of education where you had changed . . .*

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS are selected each spring to handle the administrative duties of the senior class. The 1965 officers were Jill Chambers, Dennis Anderson, Col. Dolby, and Sandy Bell.

A yearbook is more than ink on paper. It is the life and breath of months of planning and work by a devoted staff. The cookies and cokes during the year are a small reward for an incomparable staff which saw the 1965 Bomb through major and minor crises. A yearbook is people. Thank you's are inadequate from an editor.
