The Wattles' Loan Fund

GURDON W. WATTLES worked his way through Iowa State College at a wage which to the student of today would seem a mere bagatelle. The College at that time paid but ten cents per hour for student labor. Picture yourself obtaining a college education under these trying conditions. Mr. Wattles having struggled through his college career under adverse circumstances, naturally had a soft spot in his heart for the student who is obliged to work his way.

Some six or seven years ago Dean Stanton paid Mr. Wattles a visit at his home in Omaha. During his visit the question of a student loan fund arose. Mr. Wattles generously offered to subscribe one thousand dollars per year toward the establishment of such a fund.

This fund has now reached approximately seven thousand dollars and is under the direction of Dean Stanton. It is available to Juniors and Seniors, who by their record and submission of sufficient testimonials prove themselves worthy of the loan. The student is placed upon his honor, for no security is required. For the use of the fund the student pays five per cent interest per annum until graduation, six per cent after graduation, and eight per cent for a deferred payment.

Think what a fund of this nature means to a student who has no security to offer and who would otherwise be denied a college education. The Wattles' loan fund has proven a successful venture, for it has made it possible for approximately three hundred students to complete a college course and to go out into the world prepared for the greater things in life.

FOREWORD

Believing the purpose of a college annual to be the truthful portrayal of the life and activities of the institution which it represents, the staff has sought to make the 1919 Bomb a truly representative book. Owing to adverse circumstances brought about by war conditions we have encountered many unforeseen obstacles. The members of the board have done their best to meet these unusual conditions. This, the 1919 Bomb, the result of honest endeavor on the part of the staff awaits your judgement.

ADMINISTRATION

RAYMOND ALLEN PEARSON

President Pearson has been leader of Iowa State College since 1912. Last spring he was appointed Assistant Secretary of Agriculture which made it necessary for him to discontinue his work here. We regret that he has been taken from us, but we know it is for the best. We are proud to boast of such a distinguished President.

President Pearson is a member of Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta, Gamma Alpha, Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Xi, and Scabbard and Blade.

EDGER WILLIAM STANTON

Dean Stanton received his diploma with the first graduating class (1872). Since that time he has been intimately connected with the affairs of this institution. Soon after his graduation he was appointed instructor in mathematics. On Sept. 11, 1903, he was elected Dean of the Junior College and in 1913 to the office of Vice-President of the College. At the present time, aside from holding the office of Dean of the Junior College he is at the head of the Departments of Mathematics and Secretary of the College.

It can be truthfully said that a great share of the success of Iowa State College has been due to the untiring efforts of Vice-President Stanton.

C. F. CURTISS

Dean Curtiss has been called "The Genius of Rookwood Farm"—a very fitting title indeed. As Dean of the Agricultural Division and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station he has proved his ability as a leader of the highest order. However his sphere of activity is not limited to Iowa State College. He is a member of the State Board of Agriculture, Member and Director of Executive Committee of International Live Stock Exposition, Member of Board of Directors and Executive Committee of National Society of Records Association, President of the American Berkshire Association and Board of Directors of Percheron Society of America. Dean Curtiss is a member of Gamma Pi chapter of Delta Tau Delta.

DEAN S. W. BEYER

When Dean Marston answered the call to the colors, vice Dean S. W. Beyer assumed the duties of Dean of the Engineering Division. Dean Beyer has been vice dean for the past ten years. It would have been impossible to have found a more capable man to head the Engineering division.

Dean Beyer graduated with the class of '89. He received his Ph. D. in Geology in 1895. He spent one semester of intensive study at the university of Munich. Dean Beyer has been an assistant in the Iowa Geological Survey since 1892 and assistant in the United States Geological Survey since 1901. He is a member of the Geological Society of America, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the Geological Society of Washington, the National Geological Society, and the Iowa Academy of Science. He is a member of the honorary fraternities of Tau Beta Pi, Phi Beta Kappa, and Phi Lambda Upsilon. Dean Beyer has always been interested in athletics at Iowa State College and at present is a faculty representative on the athletic council.

ROBERT E. BUCHANAN

Dean Buchanan entered Iowa State College in 1900 and graduated in 1904 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. Two years later he received the degree of Master of Science from this institution. In 1908 at the University of Chicago he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Dr. Buchanan has been Dean of the Industrial Science Division since 1914. He is a member of Gamma Alpha, Sigma Xi, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Lambda Upsilon, Gamma Sigma Delta, Scabbard & Blade, Iowa State Chapter of Delta Upsilon, and Acacia. Recently Dean Buchanan has been made President of the Society of American Bacteriologists.

CHAS. H. STANGE

Dean Stange received his degree in Veterinary Medicine from this institution in 1908. Soon after his graduation he was appointed to the position of Dean of the Veterinary Division. Since that time this department has grown by leaps and bounds until at the present time it is one of the foremost divisions of the College. It can be truthfully said that this rapid growth has been due to the earnest endeavor on the part of Dean Stange. Dr. Stange is a member of the Executive Board of the American Veterinary Association, Phi Kappa Phi, and Acacia.

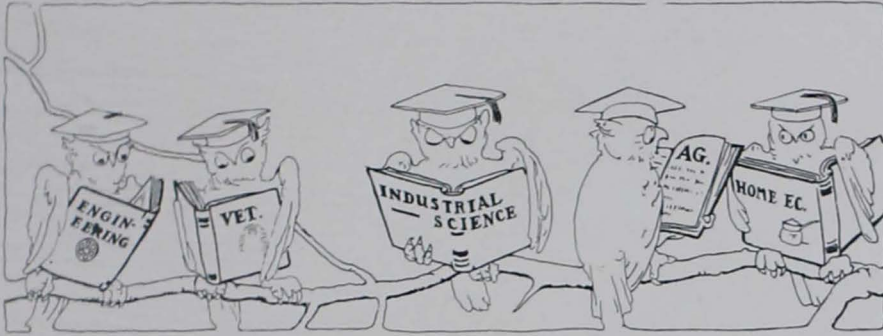

CATHERINE J. MAC KAY

Miss Mac Kay has been connected with the Home Economics Department for the past five years. Three years ago she was appointed to the position of Dean of the Home Economics Division. When Dean Mac Kay came to Iowa State College the enrollment in the Home Economics Department was 116. At the present time there are approximately 600 enrolled in this department. Miss Mac Kay is responsible for the installation of the two-year non-collegiate course.

Dean Mac Kay is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Omicron Nu, President of the American Home Economics Association and Home Economics Demonstrator for the State of Iowa.

COLLEGES

Division of Agriculture

The Division of Agriculture has long stood for a scientific training builded on a foundation of general knowledge, and the records of its graduates voice the value of this principle. Experience in the field is quite as essential in the final test as is technical training. Never was the demand for men possessing a combination of technical and field training along agricultural lines so great as today. The fields in which such men serve are calling greater numbers, and new fields are opening.

It is with a keen sense of satisfaction to college and students that there has come the privilege to serve at a time when the need is so great and the cause so just. The gospel of greater and more economic agricultural production is one deserving of the most careful study by the best talent of the country. Men who are in position to know hold to the belief that our part in the present struggle is ultimately to be played with implements of agriculture quite as much as with arms.

The worth of an agricultural institution of learning is manifest in its students; in their ability to follow sound agricultural practice, and in their willingness to serve. At this time, the college is an institution of war, and before its students lie fields bounteous with possibilities of achievement and of patriotism. The premium so freely placed upon skill leaves no doubt as to the needs of our country. The fruitfulness of the field must not overshadow the privilege and duty to serve.

It is becoming better recognized that the man whose training places him in a specialized class is, by this very fact, obligated to his community; as the man who can serve his community and his state best, implies a man of high competence in his profession.

The Division of Engineering

To properly coördinate their work and to promote its quality and efficiency, the departments of agricultural, architectural, ceramic, chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical, and mining engineering, together with the departments of geology, and physics, the engineering experiment station, the engineering extension department and the vocational courses in engineering are grouped into a Division. Until 1904 the organization was coöperatively voluntary through the departments involved, but the College authorities then appointed a Dean of Engineering for more effective administration and unification of the Division in all its parts.

There is unity of purpose among the departments. Engineering standards are of the highest; courses and equipment are kept abreast of the times in every particular; and the fundamental principles are outlined as particularly applied to the most modern practice. "Science with Practice" is truly the motto of the Engineering Division. Each department endeavors to stimulate in its students a love of the physical sciences, a respect for mathematical laws, and a desire for constructive imagination—three basic requisites of a successful engineer.

Conditions today are creating problems for tomorrow whose solution will require engineers of large calibre, equipped not only with a thorough technical training, but with an appreciation of human needs and desires for the future. The world is to be reconstructed, physically, mentally, morally. Engineers, probably more than any other professional men, have before them the opportunity of developing that type of community life which will contribute directly to universal democracy. To the training of engineers with a vision of the needs of the world, both today and tomorrow, the Division of Engineering is unalterably consecrated.

Division of Veterinary Medicine

The Division of Veterinary Medicine is the oldest State Veterinary School in America. During the past twelve years it has taken a leading position in veterinary matters in the United States and the new International Encyclopedia cites this Division as an example of a high class Veterinary College.

The Division is composed of five educational departments, viz., Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology, Surgery and Theory and Practice. A Department of Veterinary Investigation and the State Biological Laboratories are rendering a very valuable service to the state.

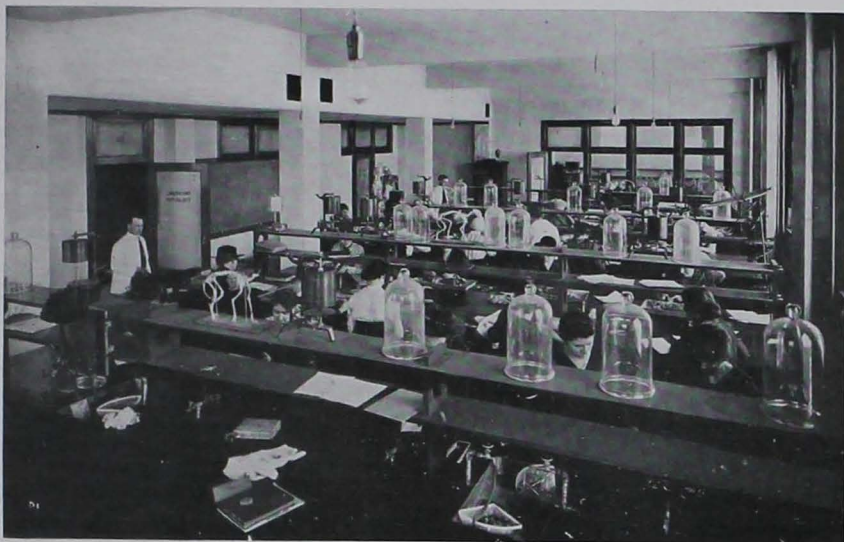

The demand for highly trained veterinarians has never before been so urgent nor have the opportunities ever been so great. Many communities are urging us to send them qualified practitioners, the army wants good veterinary officers, the U. S. Department of Agriculture many veterinary sanitarians, and colleges and experiment stations, investigators and teachers. Our graduates are filling these positions, but the demand is much in excess of the supply.

Service and efficiency have been kept in mind as objects to be attained by applying "Science with Practice".

The Division of Industrial Science

The Division of Industrial Science comprises the following departments: Bacteriology and Hygiene, Botany, Chemistry, Economics, English, History and Psychology, Library, Mathematics, Military Science and Tactics, Modern Language, Music, Physical Training, Public Speaking, Zoology and Chemical Engineering which last is administered jointly with the Engineering Division.

The two-fold function of this division is: (1) To instruct in the sciences and in other subjects essential in an understanding of the work of other divisions; (2) To give special training in certain fields of Industrial Science.

In no field is there now greater demand for trained men than in that of Industrial Science, and no division has been more successful than this in adapting itself to present-day conditions. The department of Chemical Engineering was recently established to meet a great need of the industrial world. Five-year courses in Industrial Science combined with agriculture, engineering and Home Economics have been organized, as well as a six-year course in Veterinary Medicine.

Graduate work is strongly emphasized in the Industrial Science Division, advanced degrees being offered in Bacteriology, Botany, Chemistry, Economics, Mathematics and Zoology. Much valuable research work is being carried on and much constructive and productive work is being done by both graduate students and faculty.

At least thirty men from the Industrial Science faculty are engaged in war service. Some are engaged in war research work, doing intensive scientific work at the college, in the army camps and in Washington. One is engaged in reconstruction work in France and others are on the firing line.

Division of Home Economics

The Home Economics Division is made up of the Departments of Household Arts, Household Science and Physical Culture. It is also associated with the Department of Agricultural Education in the supervised practice teaching of Home Economics.

The Household Science and Arts Departments have the common aim of training young women in the art and science of right living as applied to homemaking or such professional applications as in teaching Home Economics and institutional work.

In the Household Arts course design is the first consideration, then construction, with its three aims of accuracy, speed and invention. These principles are applied to clothing in costuming and millinery, and to the house in its planning, decoration and furnishing.

The Household Science Department gives the young woman scientific and economic instruction in the care and nourishment of the human body, with sufficient application to make it vital.

The courses in Household Management deal with the economic and spiritual organization of the home, focusing the scientific, artistic and economic knowledge secured in other courses. The Practice Cottage, which is the laboratory for this work, is the culmination of the efforts of the Division to establish standards of living and home-making.

A course especially designed to meet war needs is that of Home Economics and Agriculture.

Athletic Review

If we wish to make a review of athletics at Iowa State College for the past year there is little that should be said; the records made and the honor roll speak for themselves. Iowa State does not boast of the men that returned to school, but the records made by her men on the track, floor and field can be ranked with any and her honor roll stands out prominently both in strength and numbers.

Many of the players enlisted at the first call and they have added much to the loyalty shown by the college men of this country, while the men that did return to school to uphold athletics have achieved their end. Iowa State honors the men who have deserted the field for the sake of their school and for the welfare of mankind and she is proud of the men who have carried the Cardinal and Gold into the battles of collegiate athletics.

Our athletes in the uniform are doing, indeed, a much greater work, but our athletes in school are fostering and protecting clean sportsmanship which has added thousands of able men to the ranks of the army and navy. "Men trained in college sports have been quick to learn and they are making excellent soldiers", is the substance of an article sent from the administration. The men who are competing in college athletics during the war are keeping alive a training school that turns out scores of physically fit men each year.

Unified and efficient efforts on the part of the coaching staff have been a big factor in the complete success of the teams during the past year. Not once during that period has Iowa State been forced to give up any branch of athletics. Farsightedness on the part of the authorities in charge and support on the part of the students have not been lacking.

As long as the government encourages collegiate athletics and athletics play their part in the military program of the United States, Iowa State will continue to support and encourage them. We honor the men who forsook the world of sports for service for their country and we are proud of the fact that the word Cyclone has stood for something in spite of the large number of men who have answered the call to arms.

CLYDE WILLIAMS

In 1906 the State University of Iowa sent us the greatest athlete she ever produced to coach our baseball team. Clyde not only coached the baseball team but gave a great deal of his time to the gridiron sport. As athletics became more prominent in college life it became necessary to have a director of athletics and Clyde was the undisputed choice. He represents us at all intercollegiate meetings, and by his courteous treatment and sincere esteem of all has won a reputation for Ames that will be remembered always. Clyde still produces a baseball team that is a winner.

1917 FOOTBALL TEAM

C. W. MAYSER

As a football mentor Coach Mayser has no equal in the west. He left Franklin-Marshall in 1915 with an unbroken record, for the broad sweeping prairies of Iowa. His success is not an accident, for he dares to act while others debate, and his convictions are not easily shaken. By turning trials into triumphs and vexations into victories he has won the support of both students and alumni.

Football Review

When the football men reported last fall they faced the evidently hopeless proposition of competing against military odds but the matter proved an incentive to them and they entered into the spirit of the team with an enthusiasm that characterized their work during the entire year. Many obstacles beset their way but under the leadership of Coach Charles W. Mayser every man in the Cyclone uniform undertook his part in the war-time machine and fought from whistle to whistle. It was true that several of the games were disastrous in their results. The Kansas game was lost during the last moment or two of actual playing and the annual Iowa contest was lost, due to the accuracy of Captain Davis in his drop kicking.

In less than three weeks after war had been declared, a greater part of the Ames football team enlisted, thereby shattering the hopes of many followers of the gridiron sport who saw in the material left over from last year's squad the making of a team such as Ames has seldom seen. All Ames is proud of her patriotic sons, none more so however than our coach, who is constantly receiving letters from former members of his football teams who are stationed on almost every part of the globe. Ames is proud of her football team too and the results attained.

It can readily be imagined what might have happened had "Bill" Davis, "Bill" Paige, Capt. Denfeld, Tucker, Janda, Evans and a host of others been here this fall. Out of a squad of thirty-two eligible men left over from the year before, only seven returned this fall. Ames suffered more in this respect than other Missouri Valley schools.

A comparatively green team, with only three men from the year before, opened the season with Simpson. Although Ames had the lightest team in the Valley Conference, Simpson was much lighter. Ames secured forty-seven points while Simpson was unable to get into the score column. The second half saw the Ames substitutes in the game.

On October sixth the strong Coe team played Ames on State Field. They came primed for this game, feeling confident that Ames would have to extend herself to win. Coe was justified in her belief, as it was a hard fought game and some good football was displayed for an early season game. Ames finally won by a touchdown when Aldrich went around their right end, making the count seven to nothing in our favor. Coe made only one first down but played a hard, consistent, defensive game.

At this stage occurred the first break in our schedule as we had no game for October 13th. The following week, October 20th, Missouri came to Ames for the local opening of the Missouri Valley Conference. Our visitors had the wonderful backfield of the year before and Ames was primed for a hard-fought game, as all our games with Missouri prove to be. The teams appeared evenly matched in weight and speed, but Ames was not to be denied and won by a score of fifteen to nothing. Vanderloo and Aldrich scored one touchdown each and Boyd kicked a goal from the field.

On October 27th Ames journeyed down into the Jayhawkers' country to battle with the veteran Kansas University team. The game was a thriller. Quoting from the Kansas University paper,—“The teams were so evenly matched in football ability that a tie should have been the logical result". Both teams played excellent football, Ames gaining more ground while Kansas offset this by wonderful punting. With only five minutes to play, Kansas attempted a forward pass which was knocked down by Aldrich. Unfortunately the ball landed in a Kansas man's arms who rushed a few feet for the lone tally of the day. Kansas had a good team and their game with Ames was not a flash as they later played Nebraska off their feet, only to lose by a drop kick. Boyd was injured early in the game and was forced to retire.

Ames had another open date on November 3rd and remained idle. On Nov. 10th the husky Kansas State aggregation appeared here to do battle. Coming with the best team in their history, all Ames was looking for a real battle. A big crowd appeared for this home-coming game and all went away feeling that they had witnessed a real afternoon of football. Ames scored early when Wallace blocked a punt and fell on it for a touchdown. At the end of the half the score was seven to nothing in favor of Ames. Kansas opened up an offensive and earned a touchdown, the only earned one scored against Ames this fall. The game was a tie until a few minutes before the whistle blew, when Boyd drop kicked a goal, thereby winning the game 10 to 7. It was a battle royal and the teams were evenly matched.

On Nov. 24th we met Iowa University at Iowa City. The game was well played and remained a tie, 3 to 3, until near the end when Davis kicked a goal from the field, making the score 6 to 3 in favor of Iowa. The Ames score was made by Boyd drop kicking a goal.

To pick individuals from the year's work would be an injustice to the team as a team. Every man was the component of a fighting machine and the work of one man was equally important with that of the man playing next to him in the line or the man in the backfield that followed through when the offensive gains were made possible. Captain Howard Aldrich took the responsibility of Denfeld when the latter enlisted and his ability as a worthy general was shown by the results of the year as reviewed on the day that he checked in his togs. Vanderloo, Boyd, Johnson and Heater were the other members in the backfield who won distinction by their aggressiveness. In the line, Wallace at center, Barker, Shoemaker and Foell at the guard positions, Breeden and Schalk at tackles and Jager and Neal on the ends, formed a wall of defense that held every team they went up against. Barker and Wallace, termed "Iowa State's greatest combination", left school at the end of the semester and are now farming in South Dakota. Before leaving they emphatically made the statement that they were not going for good and when the call was issued next fall they would seek the gridiron life once again and don the Cardinal and Gold uniform.

Of the 1918 backfield candidates, Captain Heater, Vanderloo and Boyd will have to bear the brunt of the work next year with a wealth of material from the freshman reserves to depend on for the other positions. Neal and Hadley are the possible end aspirants with Foell, Schalk, Barker and Wallace returning for the strength in the line. It is useless to predict the possible strength of the Cyclone team for next fall. In these days of a different attitude towards athletics, the strength of a team is not measured by the actual value altogether, for an eleven must be and is credited with the men that leave for military service as well as those that return to take the responsibility.

CAPTAIN HOWARD ALDRICH

Weight 141

Position—halfback

To put into a few words all that Aldrich has accomplished for Cyclone athletic teams would be nothing short of the impossible. He has given the greater share of four years of college life for the betterment of athletic teams and on the day he graduated he reported to the baseball coach for duty. The saddest moment in his life was reached on the day this spring when he checked in his togs for the last time. An injustice to him to say that he will be missed when the call is issued next fall. He will hear that call but he can only look back on the days that he fought against odds and greater strength, but with a true attitude towards sports, he never faltered.

CAPTAIN-ELECT V. A. HEATER

Weight 144

Position—halfback

When the curtain fell on the 1918 football season, the gang chose Heater to lead the eleven for next year and their selection was warranted. The new leader has spent a greater share of two years in college with interest centered on the gridiron and early this spring he started eager work with the freshmen along with Coach Mayser. Heater is a dangerous man on the offensive and his line plunges have been used time after time on the fourth down when feet appeared like yards and an inch or two were needed to make the distance.

L. W. SCHALK

Position—tackle

Following in the footsteps of his brother who formerly fought under Cyclone colors, Schalk has put the family reputation high once again. Critics recognized his ability as a "stayer". He invariably forced himself into the calcium glare whether on the eleven or working for the coach on the wrestling squad.

RICHARD BARKER

Weight 160

Position—guard

He acted as captain of the all-Iowa team that fought the soldier eleven last fall and this position was an honor that rightly belongs to him as one of the greatest linesmen that ever worked in the state of Iowa. Along with Wallace he is cultivating sage-brush in South Dakota but he will hustle back into the moleskins again next September.

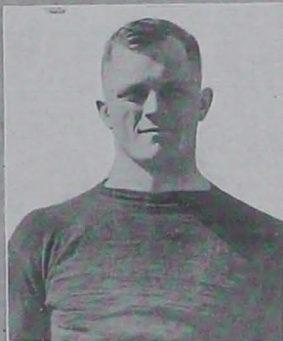

L. WALLACE

Weight 168

Position—center

He busted into the defense from his position at center and enjoyed it like the proverbial duck versus water. His undisputed place in the middle of the Missouri Valley line was a deserving one. He started with the whistle and it took more than football flesh to stop him, once he started.

C. F. BREEDEN

Weight 183

Position—tackle

Working opposite Schalk at tackle Breeden held a position in the line that needed and received able support. He welcomed competition but never found a man that became a real contender. "Si" enjoys the sport and when he enjoys anything he puts his life into it.

A. M. BOYD

Weight 126

Position—quarterback

Not very effective on the scales but his ability as an open field runner and drop kicker makes his "weight in gold" worth the high standard. He shines like a new dime on the athletic field and the longer he stays at the game the brighter he appears. He won the Kansas Aggie game this year single handed with his accurate kicking.

H. F. JAGER

Weight 165

Position—end

When candidates reported to try for the wing positions Jager was one of the first to heed the call and he stuck until the finish. Besides being a neat player on one end of the forward pass he could punt better than the average kicker and his strength was a wall on the defense. This was "Jerry's" first year on the varsity but he has another year to report.

W. B. VANDERLOO

Weight 168

Position—fullback

Vanderloo jumped into the fullback position last fall when the coach was stricken with a bad case of insomnia over the vacancy, and he improved with every game. What he lacked in experience he made up two fold in natural ability and fighting instinct. He has two more years to cast with the gridiron men.

A. T. NEAL

Weight 147

Position—end

"Jud" had trouble with his ankles during the year for the very reason that as long as he was on his feet he wanted to use them in traveling. His one ambition was to see the opposite play coming around his end with a full interference. He cast aside all rules of etiquette when he saw the ball toted towards him.

L. E. JOHNSON

Position—halfback

The fascination for the game picked him up one day in his sophomore year and he has been battling since. Though injured twice during the season he stuck with the sport and he received his injuries while going towards his opponents. He barred none and the bigger the better.

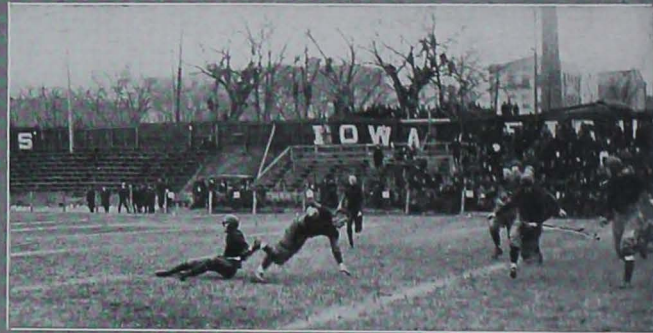

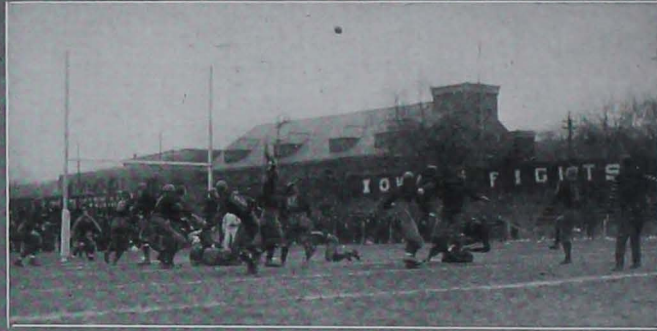

L. V. FOELL

Position—guard

Seldom does a sophomore break into the lime-light with a rush. Foell is an exception. He battled experience from the first day and his staying power made a stranger of the varsity bench. Looks the part of a star and his looks are far from deceiving.

ASSISTANT COACH FIRKINS

"Bugs" started his career as a coach last fall. He coached the reserve squad and gave Coach Mayser the only assistance which he had. Firkins is an Ames man, having won the honor "A" in football, baseball, wrestling, and track. He appeared quite regularly on the mat to show and help the wrestlers obtain and break the holds that won him fame as a wrestler.

The Reserve Men

After all has been said and done; after the warriors of the gridiron have reaped the harvest of popularity and superiority; after the hero has been decorated with the wreath of the Grecian runner—there still remains a group of men, an important cog in the varsity machine, that check in their togs at the end of the year without the trumpet after vainly working to keep the first team in shape.

A time may come when the Reserve men may form a team that shows some effect against the first string men. When the individual shines he is lost to the scrubs and a new man must be broken in to his vacant place. The individual is given the varsity suit and turns his aggressiveness against his former mates.

The Reserve eleven battles daily against the first varsity team until they have received their workout. Then the second varsity comes onto the field and the reserve strength is again thrust into the battle. For weeks this keeps up and the only pleasure that they can possibly secure is the fascination for the game and the belief that some day they may show their ability to such an extent that the coach will see fit to pick them out of the list and send them into the battle where honor and popularity come to the individual star and to the team.

Basketball

When Deac Walter issued a call the middle of November for material, he knew that he must base his hopes and prospects of a winning team on the individual work of Aldrich, Erskine, and Morgan. This combination gave the coach something to work upon but, at that, it was far from encouraging although there were many bidders for the other two positions.

Before the first game of the season, which was with a fast quintet of Camp Dodge officers, Clyde Erskine enlisted in the marines and left school immediately. This left a hole in the lineup that proved disastrous for the officers came through with a 13-19 score.

Immediately after this game came the news that Captain Max Morgan was to be lost to the team through a rule technicality. Nothing worse could have happened for Aldrich was just getting into shape and the rest of the team was composed of practically new men. This was the proposition that Coach Walter had to face and he used every conceivable manner of getting a team in shape for the next three games, which came before the Christmas vacation.

Simpson and Coe were beaten with comparative ease but Cornell put up a hard fight and the final score stood 18-14 in favor of Ames. Cornell had already beaten Iowa early in the season and were beginning to think of the state championship when they came here. These first three games gave the team that fighting spirit that they carried through the whole season against heavy odds.

The first conference games were lost to Kansas U. and Kansas State after a very tiresome trip. The work of Aldrich and the close guarding of Linnan featured in all three of these games.

During the midsemester vacation Ames journeyed to Grinnell who bowed down to defeat in one of the most exciting games of the year.

Drake was also taken on soon after but offered little resistance to the Cyclone five.

On February 12 the team went to Iowa City and met defeat in a hard game that left the men in very poor shape for the hard games the following week with Missouri. The Tigers copped two games with Ames bitterly contesting every basket.

Grinnell was downed again but the Cyclones were doomed to defeat the following night when Kansas State skinned through with a 22-18 score in one of the best games played on the home floor this season.

The season closed with Iowa on March 1st. This proved to be the most exciting and best played game of the year. Ames ran up a seven point lead early in the game but could not hold it due to the accurate shooting of the Iowa forwards. Every man played his best and didn't let down until the final whistle.

Scores count but it is gratifying to go over the season and note the attitude of the men during the last few moments of each game, the time that really counts, and in each instance to see them showing the fight and spirit that characterized their coaching from the beginning.

Every conference game was a hard one to lose. It was not so much the idea of the game but the fact that the team were fighting to win and their aggressiveness resulted in a low score.

The Baseball Review

The prospects in 1917 for a high ranking team at Ames could hardly have been better. The place left vacant by Stewart behind the bat was amply filled by Firkins, the veteran third baseman. The loss of Captain Kerrigan, Davis and Okey by graduation was made up for by the addition of "Bill" Davis, Hauser, and Greenlee. These with the addition of Capt. Jones, McGrew, Janda, Brotherlin, Aldrich, Merrill and DeForest from last year's squad, and a number of good prospects from the sophomore class, made Iowa State's future look bright.

Before the season had really begun, DeForrest was called home to work on the farm, leaving first base open.

The first game was played with Simpson and was won easily by a nineteen to three score. But when the smoke of battle had cleared away, Hauser, a new pitcher, who had shown excellent form, was on the farm.

The first Missouri Valley game was played with Missouri at Columbia. The game was hard fought for ten innings, the "show me" boys coming out on top of a two to three score. The following day another heartbreaking game was staged at Columbia, the Tigers winning five to four. Ames made fewer errors and more hits in both games.

When Missouri arrived in Ames April 26th, "Bill" Davis and Janda were in the Army, and before they left with two victories to their credit, Aldrich was helping to increase the food supply.

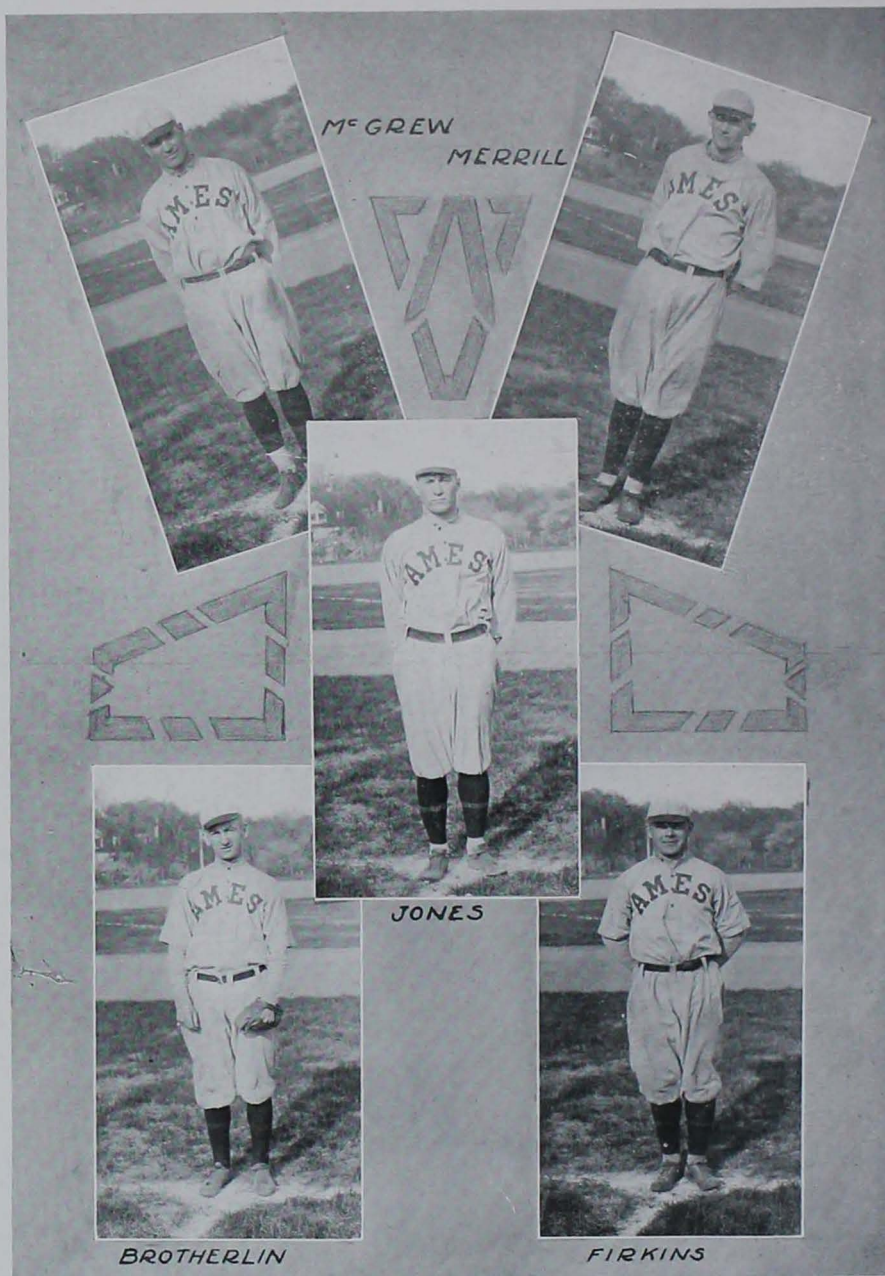

May 11th Ames won her second victory, winning from the State Teachers two to nothing. The following day we won from Coe in the morning and lost to Cornell in the afternoon.

May 15th found Coe at Ames primed for battle, and they went home with the bacon. On May 17th, Cornell came down with a great deal of pep, for she had not as yet lost a game. But Saturday was a good day for the Cyclones and Cornell went home with the little end of a four to six score.

At this stage of the season, the sixth casualty occurred, when Capt. Jones was called home to work on the farm.

On May 24th we won our second game from Simpson, and May 31st finished the season by losing to Iowa. Just before the Iowa game, Merrill was called into government work, this making a total of eight men who dropped out during the season.

TRACK

CAPTAIN PACKER

Iowa State found one of her greatest athletes in Roscoe Packer. Due to the urgent call for men in the country Packer was called to the farm before the season had really started. This left a vacant place that could not be filled, for Packer is the only man who has ever beaten Simpson or Missouri in the high hurdles. His record in the two preceding seasons also shows his value to the team. His abilities were not confined to track only, but extended into football where he showed his worth by being picked as an All-Missouri Valley end.

Track

Spring track work was ushered in with the usual amount of handicaps last spring and Coach Ned Merriam faced a serious proposition of whipping his team into shape and especially when the news was spread over the campus that Captain Roscoe Packer and "Bill" Page had enlisted and left two vacancies that would be hard to fill.

Plenty of new material reported to the coach and long before weather would permit outdoor work, the men remained on the dirt track in the gymnasium and prepared for the home meet which was scheduled for April 14th. The Juniors won the meet with a total of 53 points while the Freshmen with a well balanced team took second place with 44 points. The Seniors and Sophomores were a poor third and fourth, respectively, with 16 and 13 counters.

Packer, a younger brother of the famous Cyclone hurdler, had an easy time in winning the stick events while Boyd, crack football and basketball midget, placed in three of the events. Schutt was a third Freshman to place in two of the events but he did not remain in school for varsity work. The famous Iowa State long distance men were the only stars to feature the meet.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers were the first visitors on the Cyclone schedule, coming to Ames on April 28th for a dual meet. Ames held their own in the field events and when the scene of the contest was removed to the watery track, they stepped into the lead and forced the Nebraskans to defeat by the final count of 73 to 59.

Missouri had the best bet in the conference and they proved their boast on May 5 when they defeated the Cyclones on the Columbia track by the score of 80 to 47. Scholtz and Simpson, the valley's undefeated pair, were easily the mainstays of the Tiger team and their presence featured every meet in which they were entered. Wilken of Ames distinguished himself in this meet and he opened a career that has won him fame to this day.

The next classic on the schedule was the annual state affair held on the Drake stadium. The Cyclones had been touted to win the affair and they came up to expectations when the final count showed that they were leading with a score of 42½ points as compared with 36 for Grinnell, the second school in the number of counters.

With no breaks to date the Missouri Valley meet was staged on May 26 with the victorious Tiger team playing a strong favorite. In view of their defeat of Nebraska, Ames was slated for second place, but the Cornhuskers sprang the surprise of the day and nosed out Merriam's men by a half point margin. Hoyt, Simpson and Scholtz were in the limelight, obviously, and the work of this trio in this one meet will go down as one of the greatest feats in the history of Missouri Valley athletics. The country's best hurdler and his teammate defeated Hoyt in the short dash but the lanky youth from Greenfield came back strong in the 220-yard event and won in record time.

Wilken was not forced in the pole vault but he established a new record of 12 feet, 1 inch, a height which has not been equaled to this day. His work in the indoor meet with the "Big Four" this spring practically equaled this performance, however. Rodkey of Kansas in the half mile and Barden of Grinnell in the quarter mile had an easy time in their events. Much was expected of the Grinnell leader this spring but he enlisted in military service with Hoyt. Their absence in the Scarlet and Black entries has been keenly felt but fully appreciated.

Cross Country

Husted, Reed, Cromer, Coach Merriam, Stone, Hawthorne, Fritzsche

The 1917 Cross Country season has been the most successful ever experienced by the Cyclone five-milers, having returned victors in every meet of the season.

Cross Country has become quite a popular sport at Iowa State College due in a large part to the success of our teams. They have won the Missouri Valley the last six years and placed third or above in the "Big Ten"—a record which is quite enviable.

The first meet of the season, a dual with Missouri on October 20th, proved to be only a workout for the team, as all five of the Ames men finished just as the first Missouri man came on the track. Ames was represented by Hawthorne, Cromer, Fritzsche, Stone and Schenck. Husted was on the hospital list at this time and was not able to join his team-mates until late in the season.

The Missouri Valley was the next event to be captured by the team. The meet was held at Manhattan, Kansas, on November 17th. The teams finished in the following order: Ames first with 26 points, Kansas second with 46, Missouri with 69 and Kansas Aggies with 79. Hawthorne, Cromer and Husted crossed the tape in order for the first counters, with Reed finishing eighth, Stone tenth and Fritzsche fifteenth. Hawthorne's time was 26:56, fifteen seconds slower than the Missouri Valley record.

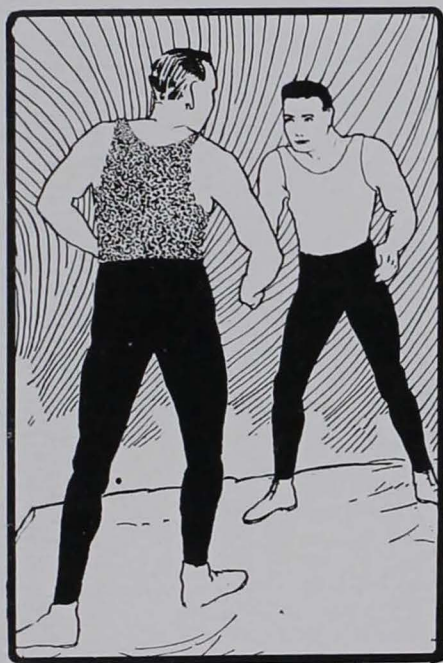

The next week the climax of the season was reached when the "Big Ten", held in Chicago, was won by the low score of 42 points. Chicago, the favorite of the meet, was second with a score of 52, Wisconsin third, Ohio State fourth and Minnesota was fifth. Hawthorne upset the dope by winning first place over Otis of Chicago in the time of 26:38. Husted finished in fifth place, Cromer followed him closely for sixth, while Fritzsche finished twelfth and Reed fourteenth.

Captain Hawthorne went to Kansas City on December 1st and won the Kansas City Athletic Association invitation five-mile run.

Paul C. Cromer has been chosen to lead the team for next year.

WRESTLING

The Missouri Valley Champions

When Coach Mayser gave out his call for wrestlers not an old man returned. Kreber, the only man left from last year, sustained injuries in his last bout which kept him from coming back. It then fell to Coach Mayser to develop a new team. This he did and with such success that out of twelve bouts only three falls and no decisions were lost.

The first meet with Nebraska on the home floor won us the championship of the Missouri Valley. The meet was fast from the beginning and the Cornhuskers had a chance to win from the start, the deciding round being the 175-pound class.

Indiana, without exception, put up a stiff battle although the score was one sided. They were considered champions of the Big Ten Conference last year. The victory of Ames, therefore, gives her a high standing over the country in the grappling line.

"Louie" was the only man on the squad to report to the coach this year who had any experience. He was brought into varsity circles at the end of the season last year and came back this year and cinched the right to represent the 175-pound class. He was one of the two men to win his letter.

H. B. THOMSON

He was the only man on the new squad to win his letter. Thomson was forced to tackle two of the best men in the country in his two matches and the Indiana mat star was the one man on the Hoosier team with a Big Nine championship to his credit.

C. F. BREEDEN

Although "Si" did not hit a high mark in weight, he filled the heavyweight class in good style and made his reputation in his work against his Nebraska opponent who tipped the scales at better than 225 pounds. Indiana did not have a heavy weight man and Breeden was forced to watch his mates win the tournament.

OTMAR ZACK

Zack received his first preliminary training last year and came back this fall to fill the vacancy left by Firkins. He possessed a good knowledge of the sport and fought from the start no matter the odds.

G. C. HERRING

Showing the greatest improvement of any man on the squad from one match to the next, Herring came back strong after the Nebraska meet and won a fall in his match against the Hoosier candidate in the 125-pound class. He was a powerful man for his size on the defense.

T. H. ROBERTSON

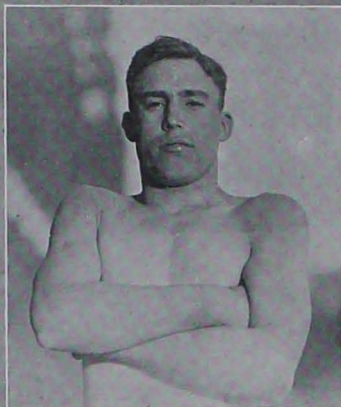

Working well in the Nebraska meet Robertson had things his own way but just before the Indiana meet he was injured on the mat and was forced to retire for the remainder of the season.

W. M. LOCKLING

Forced from the mat with a fractured rib in the first part of the season but coming back to take up the work following the accident to Robertson, "Bill" displayed a keen knowledge of the game in the Indiana meet and pinned his opponent to the mat for a fall.

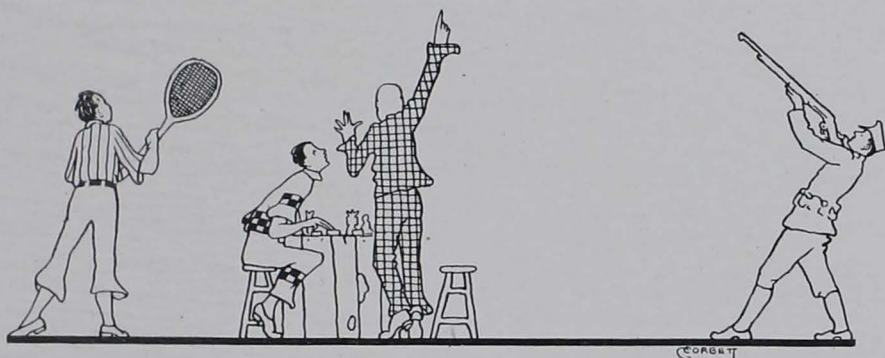

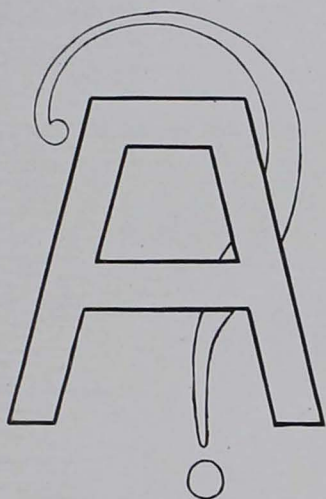

COACH MAYSER

Initiating Iowa State into the sport of wrestling Coach C. W. Mayser has not only introduced the sport into the school but he brought a Missouri Valley and western title here. Nebraska was defeated for the valley conference while the Big Nine champions, Indiana, were humbled by a safe count. Mayser was himself a champion back in college days and he was able to give the information to the men first hand.

MINOR
ATHLETICS

Swimming Team

Carmichael, Werden, Linden
Meister, Eaton, Breitengross, Brown, Park

Giving way to the major sports in popularity and support, the swimming team went through the year with little or no activity, though they held their trial swims during the entire year. Emmer Morrison, holder of the long distance record for the college pool with 176 lengths to his credit, has gone into military service and his help was lost to the team. Morrison was one of the leaders on the team two years ago and led in point winning.

Coach Linden started out this year with bright prospects but meets were hard to schedule as the other schools in the state had given up the sport. Three of the men on the team were veterans and prospects were exceedingly bright. Like the gymnasium team, they kept up their work in spite of the fact that swimming had been given up by the other schools.

GIRLS ATHLETICS

Instructing Staff

Tilden, Peterson, Bihl, Bennet

Miss Winifred R. Tilden specialized in Physical Training after her graduation from Mount Holyoke College, studying at Harvard and New York. Miss Tilden is a member of the National Committee of Athletics for Women and is also a member of the Committee for the Revision of Field Hockey Rules.

Miss Bertha A. Bennet, instructor in Playground and Corrective Gymnastics, attended Indiana University and is a graduate of the Passe Normal School of Gymnastics. She was previously associated with the Physical Training Department of the Women's College of Missouri and the Teachers' College of Indiana.

Miss Myrtle Bihl is a graduate of the American College of Physical Education where, later, she had charge of Girls' Athletics and Swimming. Miss Bihl came to Ames from the Herman Beasley Butler House of Chicago and is instructor in Apparatus and Freshman Gymnastics.

Miss Jean Peterson is a graduate of Chicago Normal School of Physical Education and has charge of the swimming classes.

An "A" sweater is awarded any person who has won three medals in one or any of the following sports—Hockey, Basketball, Tennis, or Golf. Three different medals entitle one to a silver cup. A recommendation for two successive years for the same position on the Basketball or Hockey teams entitles one to an All-College "A" placed on the official sweater or the official blanket. Six medals entitle one to a double "A" placed on the official blanket.

A great amount of enthusiasm was shown in this year's basketball. The games were fast, giving evidence of good training and ability. Between halves the spectators were entertained by the band and by special dances.

Gymnasium

Gymnasium work is required of all college women during the first two years. Each Fall and Spring outdoor work lasts for six weeks, when the girls have a choice of golf, tennis, hockey, and basketball. The first year the same floor work is required of all. This includes tactics, folk dancing, Indian clubs, and dumb bells. The second year there is given a choice of dancing, playground, and apparatus work.

Gymnasium

Each Spring a gymnasium meet is held in which the girls in each division compete for the silver loving cups. Last Spring these were awarded to Katherine Lamson, Bernice Wheatley, Anna Capper, and Hazel Horsfall for work in freshman gymnasium, dancing, apparatus, and playground.

A cup is also awarded to the girl who has shown the most development after two years of physical training. This cup was awarded to Mary Shivers.

The swimming pool is the new feature of the gymnasium for this year. Not only are classes scheduled for those unable to swim, but also a time is set aside as a recreation hour for any college woman who is able to swim.

May Fete

The usual May Fete was superseded by a Red Cross day. In a square formed by the cadets, the May Queen, Alma Weise, attended by her Page, Francis Corwin, was crowned Queen of the May Day by Maid Marian, Olive Sunderlin. Her followers were the Senoritas, dancing girls, and jesters.

After the crowning of the May Queen and dancing program, the spectators wandered from booth to booth inspecting the display of surgical dressings and knitting, and buying Red Cross memberships.

Debating

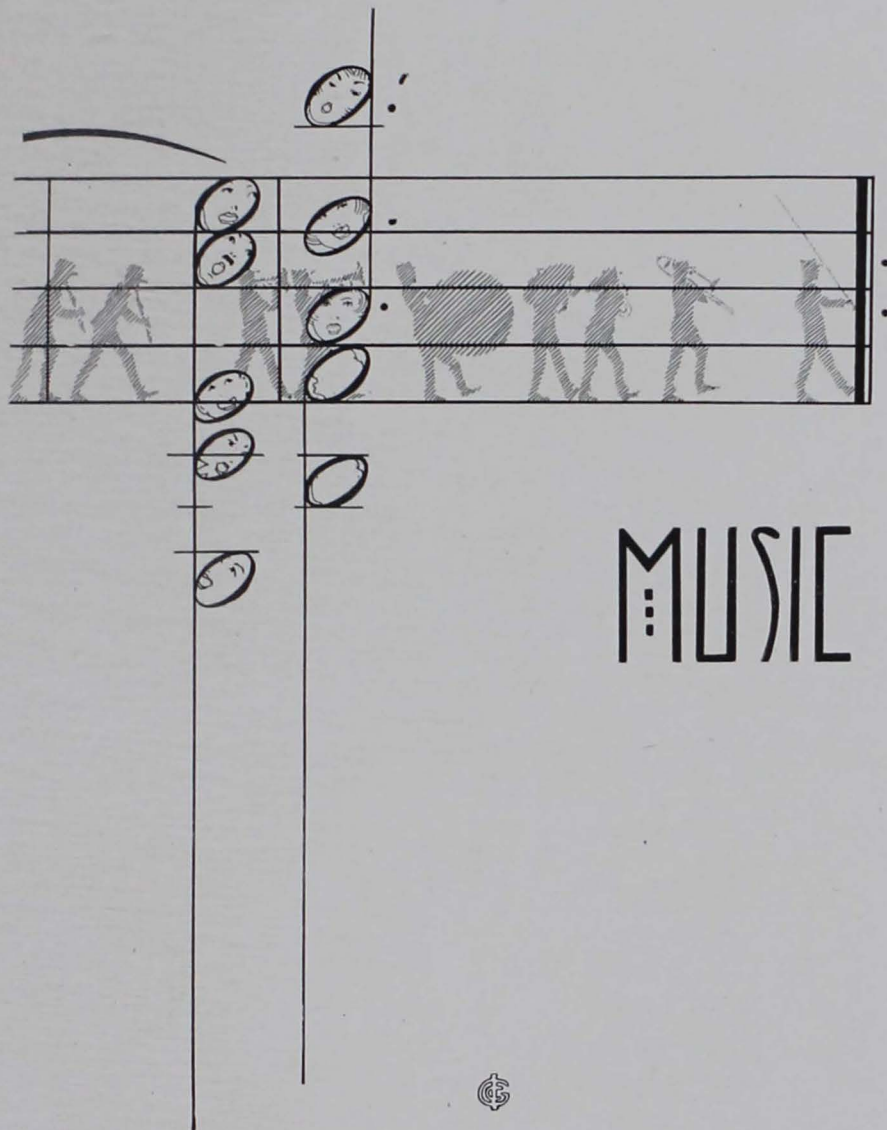

G. W. HULBERT, Coach

During the past school year four debates have been held. In the dual contest with the Kansas State College we won unanimously at home and lost unanimously at Manhattan. The farm tenancy question excited much keen and profitable discussion.

In the Michigan-Purdue-Ames triangular debate we won a 2-1 decision on our home platform, but lost unanimously to the Michigan State College at East Lansing.

The interest evinced by the student body in debating has not been adequate for better success. For the Kansas debate only five eligible men tried out. To fill up the incomplete team a man had to be brought in and especially coached. In our triangular debate conditions were but little better. Not nearly enough students came out to make the competition keen. We can not expect to get the best results in debating when competition for the places on the teams is lacking and the interest is low. Literary societies should strive to place their members on the debating teams. Each of those who make the teams receives an A and three hours credit. The opportunity for inexperienced debaters is better now than ever before, as many of the older men have been summoned to camps and to war work. It is hoped that the interest along this line of intercollegiate activity will very rapidly increase.

THE CLASS OF 1887

The '76 Class Stone

The period of '76 is that of the infancy of the college. At this time the enrollment at the Iowa Agricultural College was small and the students were on more intimate terms with the faculty and fellow-students. Under such relationship, the legends and gossip of the campus became common to both students and faculty alike, and there arose a peculiar interest in class episodes.

The granite boulder with the inscription '76 upon it calls for reminiscences of by-gone years when the Iowa Agricultural College had its home in one building. The stairways were guarded by proctors and the doors were locked at nine o'clock. There were no facilities for housing the student at this time. This condition made it necessary for the men to occupy one wing of the building and the women another. A certain amount of work was required of each student every day, i. e., the men cultivated the fields and gardens or milked the cows while the women "tended" the kitchen and dining room. The social relationship was that of one large family.

As commencement day, November 10, '76, drew near the question of a class memorial arose. A large granite boulder was selected because it typified the enduring solidity of the "Centennial Class". Louis E. Spencer of Grinnell was the moving spirit in arranging the details for the placing of the boulder on its present site.

The class thought to depart from the usual custom of using the chapel rostrum for commencement addresses, and had planned as an innovation to make the boulder their rostrum. On the eve of November 9th, everything being in readiness for the great event the following day, the Seniors went to bed with weary limbs but happy hearts.

In the wee small hours of the morning of November 10th one of those deeply interested in the matter heard unusual sounds coming from the direction of the newly-erected memorial and rushed to the spot to find that which was not. The great boulder which had required the united strength of several horses to move it from field to campus had disappeared as if by magic. The ground where it had been so carefully placed was covered with green sod. Vandals had come in the night, undermined the boulder, covered it with earth and carefully replaced the turf on the surface. The class played the game well and gave no visible signs of sorrow and suffering. A college joke has its bright side. The class of '76 had its revenge later. Needless to say the commencement exercises were held in the conventional way.

International Judging Team

Prof. Pew, Nichols, Woodford, Prof. Thornburg
Culbertson, Barnholdt, Curtiss, Moran

The Iowa State Judging Team ranked fifth in the stock judging contest at the International in competition with eleven other colleges and universities from throughout the United States. In cattle judging Iowa State stood first with a total of 1092 points.

Swine Judging Team

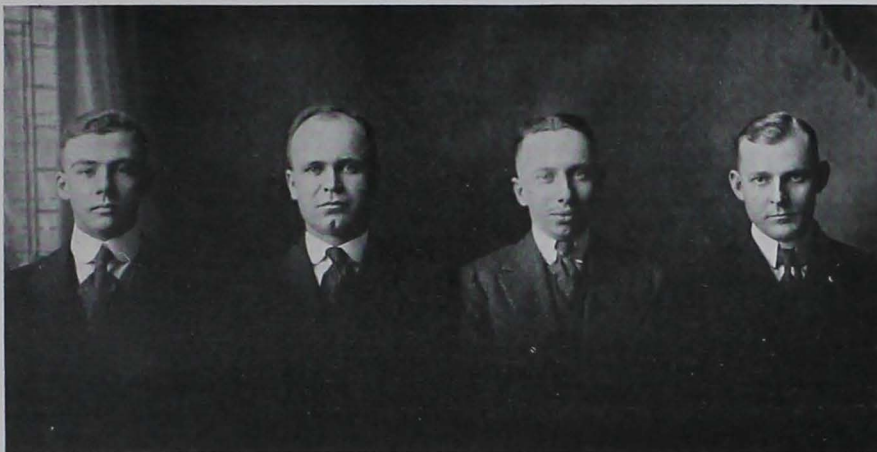

Pendry, Fish, Prof. Pew, Desing
Culbertson, Moran, Geasey

In the swine judging contest at Omaha, December 3, Iowa State took third place. The members of the team were Fish, Desing, Culbertson, Moran, Geasey and Pendry. The men ranked as follows: Moran first, Culbertson second, Desing third, Fish fourth and Geasey fifth. Pendry served as alternate.

Fruit Judging Team

Clark, Prof. Harkington, Carpenter, Jones

The Iowa State Fruit Judging Team, composed of G. J. Carpenter, Grant Clark, and W. E. Jones, competed for the first time this past year in the judging contest as conducted annually by the Eastern Inter-collegiate Fruit Judging League, of which league Iowa State College has now become a member. The contest was held Dec. 13, 1917, at State College, Pennsylvania.

Iowa State College was successful in winning second place in this contest, Rutgers College of New Brunswick finishing first. It is unfortunate for the fruit judges that there is such a big degree of difference in varieties as grown in the east and the middle west. This factor makes it much more difficult for the teams that are coming into the contest from a different section. Nevertheless, it gives the men a chance to become acquainted with varieties under different conditions and furnishes a very valuable experience for any man who is fortunate enough to become a member of the team.

The Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society does not confine its membership to any particular kind of degree or course of study, but aims to stand for the unity and democracy of learning. Membership in it is open to members of other honor societies.

Organized in 1897, Phi Kappa Phi now has chapters in fourteen colleges and universities.

ATTENTION

THIS SECTION OF THE BOOK HAS NOT BEEN CENSORED

DUE to the speed-up program the Deans have overlooked us, so be prepared for the worst. The editors of this department expect to be chewing "bully beef" next fall, so they have spared none. Take special notice of the pictures; you will find them both interesting and instructive.

We hope the Josh Section is rightly named. However, we do not guarantee it to be a side-splitter. In fact, we're about as handy as a pocket in a night shirt when it comes to writing this comical dope.

At this time we wish to analyze a word which we have used frequently and will give you a key to the solution of some deep ones. The word is "crocks." Not the ordinary butter crock, pickle crock or jam crock, but that crock which infests all places wherein members of the gentler sex reside. They are not restricted to any one house, but have been pretty evenly distributed. They are those with whom you can get a date one hour before the dance and find their greatest use in breaking in the freshmen who can't get over the "square dance" idea.

If this section does not please you get into communication with the editor at once; he will be glad to call in all the copies and have you rearrange the book to suit your own taste. His address is 321 Suicide Avenue, No Man's Land.

'Twas eber Thus, so They Say

On the Saturday of the Drake Relay Carnival, the STUDENT was holding up their forms for telegraph reports from the stadium as to the final count. Four-thirty had been the dead line on the story and at 4:45 nothing had been received at the Western Union. Seven men were working on overtime and the Boss became frantic, for every moment meant money. Ten minutes later a young lady cub was sent to the phone to search for the story. She went, got the wires crossed in some manner and was soon talking to the freight agent at the Northwestern.

"Got anything there yet for the IOWA STATE STUDENT from the Carnival", she asked, desperately, knowing that the success of the issue depended on the race returns.

The agent informed her he would look and see. He went out into the freight room, and started his search for Carnival stuff. He looked at everything that resembled carnival scenery, barrels, boxes and bags. He returned and informed the young journalist that they had nothing for the STUDENT from the Carnival as yet.

Despondent, she hung up the telephone receiver and a word to the foreman sent the paper to the press without the race results.

It was in one of these restaurants where the waiter yells the order out to the kitchen.

A man came in and ordered an oyster stew and a drunk came in behind him and took a seat at the same table.

The waiter yelled, "One stew."

The drunk looked over to the other fellow and said, "Please excush me, old top, I guessh some one's paging me".—G. R. W.

"We realize that the laws and regulations of the institution should be obeyed and we pledge ourselves to such obedience for the future".

With the above words the members of the thinnest organization in the league, came before the powers of the institution and with pride shoved into oblivion they took the oath that will forever and a day keep them in the straight and narrow path and make the cream of college society events a thing of the past with only fond remembrances to remind them of that happy day.

They had danced late on a closed night, and in advertising the occasion they were brought up on the carpet in the presence of the college deans. They plead guilty to a misdemeanor and at a public gathering were suspended until "such time as the President can convince himself that upon their return to the college said students will conform to faculty rules".

'Tis great to be tall but greater still to have a date fall through when the paths of such glory lead but to the grave.

The melancholy days have come,
The saddest of the year,
When whiskey straight is too darn high
And a heluva price on beer.

At last has come
The tax on rum,
Let's all set up a holler
For high balls will be twice as high,
And small ones will be smaller.

Casey Ikeler bought his socks in Scotland,
He bought his coat in London and his hat in Liverpool.

Confidential From the Gridiron

There is a lot of fun in life at Iowa State College. Sometimes it has to be pointed out to us before we can see it. Some of us get self-centered and obsessed with the little selfish interests of our personal lives. When we get that way we get funny habits, say funny things, do funny things, that is, funny things from the other fellow's standpoint. It is some of these funny habits, doings and habits of the fellows that we meet every day on the campus that we're going to show you tonight.

Don't bother the devil. He has a lot of stuff to pull and only a short time in which to do it. He's looking for you, but don't get scared when he gets his eye on you. He's not bad at heart, if he does look like the devil. You may wonder why we have two devils. Life at Iowa State is so strenuous and there are so many things for the devil to do, that they usually only last for a year or two.

Come now, let's have a good time for once in our lives.

ANY SORORITY BASEMENT DURING RUSHING SEASON

Snooper's Club Meets

Annual meeting of the Snooper's club was held east of Agricultural hall on the evening of April 10. All members of the organization were present, including the old officers who called the meeting to order. The preliminary opening ceremonies were eliminated and the members got down to business with the information and evidence that was at hand. It appeared to develop into an interesting affair but some of the members did not think it warranted their presence, so they left. Lack of co-operation seemed to be in evidence. No refreshments were served as the meeting had been called on the spur of the moment. Nothing definite was done regarding the next meeting, but all members are asked to be prepared to attend on short notice, for another gathering may be called in the near future. Discord and lack of unity has played an important part in this organization and the campus is likely to lose another one of its societies by a natural death.

Did it Ever Occur to You?

When your lungs are dry,
And the end is nigh,

With the score standing two and two.
Then they make a run
And you've lost your mon—
Did it ever happen to you?

If you walk the street,
And a girlie neat,

Appears with a number one shoe.
Then you see her face
And it's out of place—
Did it ever happen to you?

When the finals are by,
And you heave a sigh
Of relief, thinking that you're through.
Then you get a blow,
In a subject or so—
Did it ever happen to you?

Ex.

Our Quartet's Hit

For many years they've "got away"
With music and with song.
They've had the students in the air
All the way along.

Old Rehmann is the tenor man,
Moss and Mudge are there,
And with Phil Warner on the end,
They sure could do the "bear".

They chirped at all the big affairs,
Were dined and wined at will.
They never even sent regrets,
And never sent their bill.

So when Iowa came to play,
A big surprise was planned.
They thought of Albert Jolson
And of the big town band.

And out the gym piano came,
And up on top they made.
The way they beat upon that box
Would shame the cheapest "grade".

But here is what we wish to say:
For how it took, oh, well,
From where we sat, and honest truth,
It sure did sound like hell.

THREE GUESSES TO PICK
NORMA LEE IN THIS BUNCH.

A Fable in Army Slang

It becomes necessary every year to take a shot or two at the Greek organizations on the campus and when the material is so excellent, it would be a shame to overlook this part of the book. If some of the terms applied to modern warfare cannot be applied to fraternity life, then you can speak of Verdun in a nursery rhyme.

If the Huns can produce a fancier bunch of "night prowlers" than the Kappa Sigs, then we must admit we are wrong, but when it comes to "bomb throwing" and "night raids", this outfit that Columbus started, comes at or near the top.

The Phi Psis are the nearest competitors which is admitted for they claim two members of the Order of Ames "Tanks". This outfit at the "den of vice" has long held the reputation of "sinking schooners" and long before the Kaiser invented the gas bomb, they were pilfering the ozone to such an extent that the Hun "gas raids" appear like a morning dew after a June morn. Led by the undefeated Otstot, with the possible exception of the Phi Deltas, they have always been far from the "front line trenches" as far as grades were concerned. They play the "pack horse" stunt and are satisfied with "bringing up the rear".

About the only competition that the Mexican "snipers" have on our campus must be conceded to the Phi Gams. They "picked off" a whole "battalion" of preps last year and this year they "engaged" the Council Bluffs basketball team en "masse".

Like the Phi Gams, the Phi Sigs do not believe in the "anti-submarine" style of pledging. They rather like to do their work "under the surface" and come to the top once in awhile and "pick" off the first thing they see. "Gip" LePrevost is used as the "periscope" for the crew, for he is hard to see and still more difficult to figure out when you once see him.

The Greek letters on the Sig Ep house make the signs on the U. S. Merchant ships look like newspaper type. They evidently do not want anybody mistaking them for a local, so they decorated the door with enough brass to construct a dozen 4-inch guns.

The people of this country have raised millions for relief, but it remained for the Pi Kaps to come to the front in "giving till it hurts", when they sent their February installment to Rock Island for distribution. Ted Rehman gave singing exhibitions for three months and turned over the proceeds to this fund. He has since made the statement that their "base of supplies" has dwindled down to one pint of kerosene, just enough to last for "six working days."

The Phi Delts always like to "come the acid" on the way they pick up likely freshmen. When news came from the dean's office that two or three of their freshmen would be given an "indefinite leave of absence" for their failure to pass up the required number of hours, they sent out "scouts" and placed Don Burton at the "listening post" in Central to watch for "victims." Several new men were picked up in this manner, and have been eating the "bully beef" and "trench pudding" ever since. Several members have enlisted with the "suicide club" rather than go through the "ordeals" as outlined by the Phi Delts.

Just about the time that the Phi Psis and the Sigma Chis had "negotiated peace plans" and decided to live under the same roof, the "proletariats" at the last mentioned place "revolted" and demanded better social conditions. This demand on the part of the majority brought the "peace meeting" to an abrupt close, and the two factions are again in a "state of war," though there is some possibility of representatives coming together at a later time and "perfecting plans." In union there is strength, but you can never make the Kaiser believe that he should be governed by his stable boss.

Si Otstot was awarded his "iron cross" during the last semester. His action has been followed by several other members, but it takes real argument on the part of the young lady to convince any one that the Phi Si of the Alpha Delt insignia is not a relic from the battlefields.

I. S. C. Order of Fraternity Cooks

The annual convention of Fraternity Cooks was held on February 21st at the Phi Psi house. At roll call it was found that all members were present. The meeting was called to order by the Phi Psi cook, president of the organization.

Many momentous questions of the day were discussed, most of the talks being of a patriotic nature. The first business of the day was to make Herbert Hoover patron saint of the order.

The first business of the day was the adoption of an official recognition pin. After considerable discussion, during which cussing and elbowing were barred, a waffle iron was adopted as the official insignia, the small size iron being chosen so as not to be confused with the Beta pin.

A prize of one pearl handled egg beater was offered to the cook presenting the best ration for college men. Many rations were offered in this competition. Silage and oil meal seemed to be the favorite feeds in all the rations. The Tau Delt cook won the prize with a ration consisting of cracked corn, alfalfa and tankage, hand fed.

Another prize, a celluloid poker, was offered for the daintiest dish presented. This prize was won by the Phi Psi cook. The dish was waffles with whipped cream. When offering this dish for approval she explained that it had started Jim Doty going to church again.

Time was taken out at this point in the meeting while the Phi Psi cook stepped into the hall to call Chris Thompson for his 8 o'clock and Si Otsot for the afternoon matinee at the Princess Theater.

Next on the program a resolution was adopted against one organization attempting to steal away the cook of another. No personalities were indulged in during the discussion of this motion but everyone knew that the resolution was aimed at the Phi Psis.

The D. U. cook then presented a paper on "How to make soup out of kindling wood". The A. T. O. cook, a veteran member of the order, related some matters of history calling to mind the times when eggs were used in balancing rations. Some of the younger members present refused to believe that such a condition ever existed or that the barnyard fruit was ever served to the college man as an out and out food.

The Sigma Chi and the Pi Kap cooks then indulged in a vocal solo entitled, "What's the use of worrying when the house is broke", and after an encore, came back with "Bring back the odor of corn beef and cabbage".

Round table discussion of fraternity finance then followed. In a short address the Phi Delt cook emphasized the importance of an efficient house treasurer. She asserted that the painstaking figuring of Don Burton, treasurer, kept that house from going on the rocks during the severe winter months.

After considerable more discussion of camouflage dishes which might be presented to the college men, the meeting was adjourned, after which the whole crew blew themselves to the Twin Star and then to Lynches where they inhaled a hot fudge sundae.

Their Office Rules

Gentlemen upon entering will leave the door open or apologize.

Those having no business should remain as long as possible, take a chair and lean against the wall; it will preserve the wall and prevent it falling upon us.

Gentlemen are requested to smoke, especially during office hours; tobacco and cigars of the finest brand will be supplied.

Spit on the floors as the spittoons are ornaments.

Talk loud or whistle, especially when we are engaged. If this has not the desired effect, sing.

If we are in a business conversation with anyone, gentlemen are requested not to wait until we are through, but join in as we are particularly fond of speaking to half a dozen or more at the same time.

Put your feet on the tables or lean against the desk; it will be a great assistance to those who are writing.

Persons having no business will call often to excuse themselves.

Should the loan of money be desired, do not fail to ask for it, as we do not require it for our business transactions, but merely for the sake of lending.

Get Fat Healthy Hogs Without Wasting Corn!

It is a well known fact that when feeding corn alone much of the grain is wasted because corn does not provide a properly balanced ration.

Feed International Hog Feed as a part ration and you will get better, healthier hogs and you will market them quicker and at far less expense than through the feeding of corn alone.

INTERNATIONAL HOG FEED MAKES BIGGER HOG PROFITS

International Hog Feed fattens hogs quickly, keeps brood sows in fine condition, makes pigs and shoats grow and keeps them healthy. International Hog Feed is the rich protein feed that builds fat, bone, health and muscle.

It makes heavy, healthy hogs from skinny little shoats. One man says: "Fifteen sacks saved a hundred and fifty bushels of corn." Another says: "Shoats gain 2½ lbs. per day." Thousands of hog raisers write such letters.

International makes more gain in two weeks than grain alone makes in three. One ton will last 100 hogs about 30 days. But above all it makes hogs ready for market quick. And you know what hogs are worth today!

The storekeeper grew rather wroth
Because I did not pay,

Did quickly bid me stay.

I looked into his flashing eye,
I grabbed him by the throat,
I opened up my pocketbook
And paid him with a note.

AN EDUCATION FOR WAR OR FOR PEACE

THE TRAINING OFFERED in modern technical courses in AGRICULTURE, ENGINEERING, HOME ECONOMICS, INDUSTRIAL SCIENCE and VETERINARY SCIENCE meets the demands of either war times or peace times. Graduates from such courses go at once into important places in the practical affairs of life. They have been prepared to do things that the world needs to have done and so they are in demand.

It is this kind of training that is offered by

IOWA STATE COLLEGE

Some of its graduates are giving fine service in the present emergency in army and navy because of their technical education linked with military training in college. Others are serving efficiently in the nation's food production and conservation work, in the special war industries and laboratories, in great war construction and educational enterprises, in the organization and supervision of many new governmental activities requiring men and women of technical training, and in various other fields.

When peace comes, the call upon technically trained men and women from such institutions as Iowa State College will be even greater.

For these reasons the call of technical pursuits and the opportunities offered by high class technical colleges such as that at Ames should be carefully considered by young men and women seeking an education.

CASE

This Case 9-18 Kerosene Tractor Will Solve Farm Labor Problems

It is the patriotic duty of every American farmer to increase crops to the maximum. With the shortage of reliable farm help and teams the only logical solution to the problem is the modern kerosene tractor.

This Case 9-18 is an ideal two plow tractor. It weighs but 3,300 lbs. Its turning radius is 11 feet. An improved air washer permits the carburetor to deliver an absolutely clean mixture to the engine, thereby avoiding all risk of grit or dirt entering the cylinders.

The syphon-thermostat is an exclusive feature of the Case 9-18. This controls the circulation of the cooling system. It keeps the motor hot, thereby insuring proper combustion and raw fuel is prevented from passing the pistons and diluting the oil in the crank case.

Many other modern improvements not found elsewhere are regular equipment on this Case 9-18 tractor. We also make four larger sizes. Write today for illustrated literature. It is free.

Edison Diamond Disc

The Phonograph with a Soul

Prof. Summer, C. R. Quade and the Tribune man had a regular musical at the Quade studio the first of the week, and it was such an international affair that it was more than interesting. This is no advertisement, by any means, but written after being imbued with the wonderful things that come from the disc of the more wonderful Edison Re-created instruments. Some person had sent a circular letter to the Tribune man that told of Anna Case singing "The Star Spangled Banner" for the Edison people. It was to hear this selection that the reporter went to the Quade studio. Miss Case is well known in Ames from having appeared here a number of times and in the "Star Spangled Banner" she has fairly outdone any effort of the past. There is that feeling that comes with the music that Anna had thrown her whole soul into the music, and it is now passed up to the people just at the patriotic time. Every person who owns an Edison should have the record and they should play it every hour in the day for it will do them a lot of good. On the reverse side of the record is "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" as sung by Arthur Middleton, an Iowa boy who was raised in Indianola and who is now with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. This is another disc that people should hear and have. During the recital, the national airs of America, Belgium, Russia, England and France were played, and this brings the thought what a wonderful thing the phonograph has gotten to be when we can sit down or stand up and hear the national music of our allies. Some day if your patriotism is a little on the wane go down to the Quade studio and we are sure Mr. Quade will be just as glad to furnish the music that will quicken your heartbeats as he was when we were there. And there is just this about it: With Anna Case singing "The Star Spangled Banner" there were three old duffers who stood, heads uncovered. They represented three nations in breeding but one nation in feeling, and their one thought was that of "The Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."—Ames Tribune.

The Essentials of Good Printing

It takes more than type, ink and paper to produce fine appearing magazines and books. Yet, these things are essential and we have them. In addition to these, however, it requires the skill which is born of close application and experience.

For many years our administrative as well as our mechanical departments have devoted their thought and energy towards producing printing and binding of a superior class, with the result that today we are in a position to supply the highest grade of product at reasonable prices.

Our company makes its chief aim the satisfaction of its customers and performs whatever it promises.
