

REASONS AGAINST THE NO HOURS POLICY

Parental permission sounds very good, but most young people would be able to pressure parents into signing their permission.

Your senior year can make a great deal of difference in your maturity level. Your ideals and goals may gel and become much more firm - this is important in the sensible handling of many situations.

This would lower the standards of Iowa State.

Further no hours will hurt greek house unity.

Senior no hours is a privilege.

Some students have not come from responsible families. Although they have regulated their own hours, they haven't necessarily handled them well.

The University would not be living up to the expectations of the parents and people of the state.

University would be failing to supply guidance to students which they may be able to do.

Many problems (physical and mental) can be traced to lack of sleep; change would make for less sleep because they would spend more hours in play.

Would increase the number of drop-outs.

Present hours develop sensible habits for use throughout life.

We would lose some good students because of parents' concern.

Might encourage more girls with low moral standards to attend Iowa State University.

Would add to the problem of immature decision making.

Less time would be spent on studying.

Restrictions help women who cannot budget time wisely for all of their activities.

Would encourage procrastination.

Tired students on highways at night increase accident rate.

Could be the beginning of breakdown in the moral standards at the University.

Would increase use of the hospital.